RKH: Almost every state had "restrictive covenants" until recent years. These covenants outlawed sales of homes in white areas to strangers. This prevented strangers from moving in and taking over white residential areas. The "spice-trade" felt that this restricted trade because displaced Whites move to other areas and build homes to get away from aliens who make residential districts unlivable. The "spice-trade" used its captive media to elect a president, who "appointed" Supreme Court judges who "outlawed" God's Law requiring "restrictive covenants." They did this without an advisory referendum from white victims, thereby nullifying the Biblical command: "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me. Ex 23:33 Most of the "king's" officials think that their king will rule forever, and that they will be exempt from being judged by God's Law. The time is not far distant when we will see these people in the docket with a jury handing "guilty" sentences.

Waco Video

"Waco, the Big Lie" is a video taken from the news broadcast the day of the Waco massacre, but which was never shown on major networks. It shows that tanks, supposed to be making small holes in the wall to insert CS gas, were making very large holes and collapsing the stairwells over the trap door to the bunkers, to trap those inside. Bursts of flame, at least a foot in diameter, are easily seen coming from the tank as it retreats from the building. The video is prepared by Linda Thompson, J.D. of the American Justice Federation, 3850 S. Emerson Ave., Indianapolis, IN 46203: Phone 317-780-5204." (From The WITNESS)

The Christian Church At Dunnsville

In 1832, three of my grandfathers helped build the Christian Church at Dunnsville in Essex County. There was a divider that ran right down the middle of the church building. The women sat on the right and the men on the left. Husbands and wives who insisted on sitting together had to sit in the middle next to the divider. That way they could sit together - separated by the divider.

There was a balcony that went around three sides of the church. The entrances were on the outside. There was no way to reach the balconies from the inside. Slaves sat in the balcony. The church fathers had decided that a balcony that did not connect with downstairs and its altar did not violate the scripture that said, "The stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh shall be put to death." No 18:7.[17] It was agreed that slaves who obeyed the Law of The Word were more agreeable to work with than those who weren't. When instructed and "converted," Black "spirit worship" became a form of "trade-animism" labeled "christianity" - a "Black- christianity." It was a cosmetic transformation that made possible Black business dealings with Whites. The Whites on their part changed The Word, their own religion, and made it a "trade-Christianity" that allowed for strangers to live in the land. It made it possible for the two races to transact business.

Still, there were Black "witch-doctors" who held secret meetings behind the slave quarters in the dead of night to which Whites were definately not invited. And, there were "strict" White "Bible- thumping" Christian counterparts who held meetings in tents and rented stores on the edge of town to which neither Blacks nor Whites interested in "doing business" were invited.

Both Black and White separatists were looked on as a hindrance by those who needed "integration" to do business - not "separation." Nothing has changed.

Back to Table of Contents

17 Math 10:5- 6, No 18:7, No 1:51, Matt 7:6, Matt 15:26-27. It was agreed that "Go into all the world ..." referred to the lost sheep of Israel who were in all the world, and not those proscribed by scripture.

Chapter 231

SACRED FOOD

The Christian West has been conquered. Its God is being replaced with the god of its conqueror. Observance of many things done formerly in obedience to the God of Israel is now outlawed by the conqueror's statutes - Sabbath "blue laws," trial by strangers, taxes, imprisonment to punish, and racial intermarriage, to name a few.

The following is a brief study of the ancient Western ritual of eating; who, when, and under what conditions one eats. To insist on observance of these eating rituals today would be to incur the wrath, and punishment, of the king who has outlawed them.

However, from an historical standpoint, it is educational to study what our ancestors considered to be important. It is even more interesting to note professional Christian organizations and people WHO HAVE NO EXCUSE FOR THEIR REFUSAL TO DO THAT WHICH GOD REQUIRES. Their REFUSAL speaks louder than their words. It tells you their probable commitment to the rest of the WORD which is God.

"Living Room, Dining Room, Bedroom"

An old saying in Virginia is, "From the living room, to the dining room, to the bedroom."

If you want to stop someone from becoming an unwanted member of your family, that person must not be invited into your living room. Once in the living room, politeness often forces people to offer food served in the dining room. Life itself is supported by food. The act of "eating" is "partaking of life." It is surrounded with religious custom and taboo. Eating with someone implies that that person has your stamp of approval and is suitable to enter your family's bedroom - he is a suitable marriage prospect. "From the living room, to the dining room, to the bedroom."

The Rules Of Eating

Eating is a religious ritual. Christians bearing the proofs of Israel,[1] before eating, thank God for the food they are about to eat, then offer it to God to bless. Most do it using these or similar ritual words:

1. "Lord, Thank you for this food.
2. "Bless it to our good,
3. "and use us in thy service:
4. "Amen," (seal of agreement - 'so be it.')

1. Gratitude is shown for food; 2. the food is offered to God to bless. This is done by God's appointed priest - yourself. The "food blessed by God" is now "holy." It may not be given to strangers.[2] The word "stranger" here is the Hebrew "zûwr stranger" - meaning a racial alien vs. the "gêr

1 (GENUINE ISRAELITES BEAR THE 3 PROOFS OF ISRAEL) (1) God's name - CHRISTIANS - "They shall put my name upon the children of Israel." Num 6:27 (2) Isaac's name, SONS OF ISAAC - ISAACSONS - SAXONS, "In Isaac shall thy name be called." Romans 9:7, and (3) Adamic descent. "Man" in Strong's Concordance is the Hebrew "Adam." "Adam" means to "blush red." "Show blood in the face." Genuine Israelites can produce all three proofs. "CHRISTIAN"-"SAXON"-"MAN."

2 "Thou shall no stranger eat of the holy thing: a sojourner of the priest, or a hired servant, shall not eat of the holy thing." Lev 22:10. "Sojourner" - means a temporary resident.

stranger" - a racial kinsman living in a different political subdivision. Even if the zûwr stranger is only visiting and is a "sojourner," he still may not eat of the holy food, regardless of the accusation of "bad manners." Not even a servant, who is also assumed to be a zûwr stranger, may eat the food that has been "blessed" and is "holy."

In the American North and South prior to the 1940s-1950s, the problem of feeding strangers forced to live in the land in violation of the Law[3] was met by having separate dining facilities serving "unblessed" food to the strangers. This "stop-gap" practice was treated by some as a substitution for "separation" - separation, of the kind promoted by Thomas Jefferson[4] would have been relatively cheap. "Segregation" of the races was expensive requiring separate hospitals, schools, public facilities, and military units, but it had to be done to prevent God's Law from being violated.

Scripture Dealing With Eating

Scriptures dealing with "blessed-food" go into detail. The following is from the Geneva Bible, 1599:

> "If the priest's daughter be married unto a stranger ("Margin Note: 'Who is not of the priests kindred') she may not eat of the holy offerings," (MN: 'that which Israelites offer to God for his blessing before they eat.') "Not withstanding if the Priest's daughter be divorced, and have no child, but is returned unto her father's house, she shall eat of her father's bread, as she did in her youth: but there shall no stranger (zûwr - racial alien) eat thereof. ... So shall they not defile the holy things of Israel, which they offer unto the Lord." Lev

3 "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21

4 President Monroe, of the African Colonization Movement, also worked to end slave importation, and to buy and re-settle slaves already here to Africa. Southerners were the first "abolitionists."

22:10-15

The Illustrated Davis Dictionary of the Bible,[5] amplifies the above:

> "The council of Jerusalem enjoined that they should abstain from the flesh of animals that had been sacrificed to idols (Acts 15:29). Paul gave the same injunction, but explained that in the case of those who had no faith in idols, abstinence was designed to avoid casting a stumbling block in the path of the weaker brethren (1 Cor. 8:4-13). If receiving hospitality at any house, and meat which might possibly have been offered to an idol was set on the table, the Christian guest was not required to ask any questions for conscience' sake; but if he was expressly told that the food had been offered to an idol (ed: an alien religious belief), then he was to abstain. The same rule was to be carried out with regard to food purchased for the household in the ordinary market (1 Cor 10: 18-33)."

The Catholic Church, long ago addressed the question of eating food offered to such idols:

> "In 1205, Innocent ... wrote ... to the Count of Nevers, whom he threatened with excommunication ..."
>
> "It is scandalous that Christians should have their cattle slaughtered and their grapes pressed by Jews, who are thus enabled to take their portion and to impose the leavings, prepared according to Jewish religious precepts, upon Christians. It is a still greater sin that this wine, prepared by Jews, should be used in the church for the sacrament of the Lord's Supper." (Epistoire X,

5 Royal Publishers, PO Box 47, Nashville, TN 37202, p. 348, "Idolatry."

120, od. Bulu2, II., p. 198 (J/E p687) Inquisition.)

Priests' Chicanery

Christian priests who ask God to "bless food" and "make it holy," food that is to be fed to a "mixed" company of Christians and zûwr-strangers, commit an "unforgivable sin." They know the curse attached to such "blessings," - but bless that which God has cursed, anyway. Often, attempting to evade the punishment attached to the "sin," they sidestep asking God to "Bless this food" (thereby making it holy), they simply "thank God," and ask God to bless the "fellowship" and the "purpose of the dinner meeting" with strangers - all of which still violates the law.[6]

The priests neglecting to "bless this food" still violates the spirit of the Law and the many scriptures that forbid such things.[7]

Priests who obey Scripture and refuse to bless that which God has cursed are blacked-out by the alien-controlled media. They are relegated to the backwaters of nowhere by the simple expediency of being denied media exposure of any kind. This in turn denies them a whack at incredible riches that attend being promoted by the media. The word is put out - priests who fail to bless food which is to be given to strangers, drive beatup VWs and are forgotten figures. Disobedient priests win establishment favor by denying

6 "For thou didst separate them from all the people of the world to be thine inheritance." 1 Ki 8:51, "Thou shall make no covenant with them ... lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21-24

7 "Withdraw from among the Gentiles and do not eat with them, and do not according to their actions, and be not their companion, for their actions are unclean and all their ways are defiled." Jubilees 22:17

God. They drive Mercedes and are often media-promoted into becoming household names.

Food Blessed by Alien Gods

Food blessed by alien gods is considered by many Christians to be the same as food blessed by "devils." Many Christians consider themselves cursed if they eat it. Before 1940 - a Kosher food advertisement was often all that was needed ensure that Christians would NOT buy or eat the advertised product. Ethnic restaurants serving food blessed by alien gods usually fared poorly. Black restaurants were seldom frequented by White Christians although the quality of the food served was often good. Chinese and Vietnamese restaurants were curiosities similar to "fortune tellers." Fewer patronized them.

Having Lunch

"Free trade" with strangers is prohibited by God's Law.[9]

In Christendom, strangers have developed an effective method of bypassing this prohibition. It's called - "having lunch." The "business lunch" is an important ritual whether or not business agreements are actually consummated. Why? Even among kinsmen there are people a Christian is allowed to eat with and people he is not allowed to eat with.

> "If any man that is called a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such a one, no not to eat." 1 Cor 5:11

8 "There shall not be found among you anyone ... who casts a spell." Deut 18:10-11

9 "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (Heb: zûer), thou art snared with the words of thy mouth. Pr. 6:1

To eat with a person tells the Christian world that the person you are eating with is innocent of any of the above faults - that YOU have investigated and have given him your "stamp of approval" - otherwise you would not eat with him. The "free lunch" that someone buys for you may not be "free." You may look on it as a "bite to eat," but to the stranger it is YOUR "stamp of approval." Long after you have forgotten the incident, he will still be using your name and your "stamp of approval" by talking about the time you "had lunch" with him. That event is a lever used to pry open other doors.[10]

Eat With Wolves

Wolves who can't eat with sheep cannot receive the Sheep's blessing. Virginia and most other states had ancient laws and customs prohibiting White Christians from eating with strangers. These laws were taken to the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court was appointed by a leader who had been elected by the wolf-media. This court ruled that strangers should eat with White-Christians and receive their blessing. They forced the Commonwealth of Virginia to integrate its eating establishments.

The owners of restaurants were confronted with the choice of disobeying an alien god, OR, disobeying their Shepherd. Hundreds and thousands of businesses closed down. It was an economic disaster. People ruined themselves rather than violate what they considered the WORD of God. America became a land of martyrs.

---

10 There are preachers, politicians, and merchants that you could not afford to be seen eating with.

I remember one restaurant in particular. It was in Charlottesville, across the road from the UVA tennis courts on old Route #29. It was a fine restaurant in a prime location and must have done more than a million dollar business - and that was back then. Its owner closed it down. I pass by several times a year and see that a different business occupies the premises each time. The blessing is gone.

Summary

The gods of Islamic, Hindu, and Edomite-Jewish peoples do not, and can not, obey the Law of the God of Israel. They are not the same god, any more than the god of the Samaritans, the people who used the same scriptures that the Israelites used, was the same God that the Israelites worshiped.[11]

Rabbis bless food in the Jewish manner to make the food "Kosher" thereby fulfilling their god's requirements.[12] Therefore, food prepared according to the Rabbi's direction is approved by their god. This god is a god that Christendom has traditionally considered an idol. Thus, food blessed by this alien god is regarded as cursed by many Christians and they refuse to eat it.

---

11 "The king of Assyria brought men from Babylon ... and placed them in the cities of Samaria instead of the children of Israel ... Then the King of Assyria commanded .... carry thither one of the priests whom ye brought from thence ... and let him teach them the manner of the god of the land ... howbeit ... they fear not the Lord, neither do they after their statutes ... which the Lord commanded the children of ... Israel ... As did their fathers so do they unto this day." II Ki 17:24- 41

12 Kosher: The Compact Edition Of The Oxford English Dictionary, ".... food prepared according to Jewish law."

The Stamp Of Approval

I speak at meetings, churches, and church conferences. Most of these groups have forgotten, or don't care, about the Christian rules dealing with "eating with strangers." It appears that any Turk, Samaritan, mulatto, child of the east, or zûwr stranger having the price of admission, is welcome. Once there, his "attendance" gives the interloper that group's "stamp of approval." Attendees have told me, "If they are there - they must be OK." I have had obvious strangers tell me that they are there to find a wife. Even mixed-race couples are present, and the "Christian" leadership "sees no evil." Their uncontested presence gives them that group's "stamp of approval."

The End Result

"It is not good to take the children's bread and cast it to dogs." Matt 15:24

The individual is not permitted to eat with strangers. Neither is the nation itself permitted to eat with strangers. The nation who asks the God of Israel to bless its food and then, while its own people hunger, gives the "holy food" to zûwr-nations who hate the God of Israel, will reap the consequence.

To live in a land ruled by the anti-Christ one must obey or die.[13] Regardless, God's punishment will come with the disobedience regardless of whose fault it is.

---

13 "In case anyone of their own blood should attempt to confound or dissolve their constitution (laws), they should take vengeance on them, both all in general, and each person in particular ... if they were not able to take such vengeance, they should still demonstrate that what was done was contrary to their wills." Antiquities 4:8:45

> "It is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it to dogs." Math 15:24. "Let the children first be filled: for it is not meet to take the children's bread, and cast it unto the dogs." Mark 7:27

Today, we eat with those who hate us. We feed those who hate us. We feed them with holy God-blessed food. Strangers are filled before the children.

Once we emerge from Egypt and have what we need to survive, only then are we to comply with the rest of the command:

> "It is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it to dogs ... yet the dogs eat of the crumbs." Matt 15:26-27

Until then: those who with strangers eat food blessed by God, bring God's curse on the land.

==========

LIVING IN HITLER'S GERMANY

"Dear Dick: You asked for someone who had lived in Hitler's Germany to tell what it was like. Permit me, someone who lived under the swastika flag from 1935, when the Saar was reunited with Germany, to 1945, to give a short answer.

"To be a boy or girl at that time was wonderful. In the Hitler Youth the differences between Christian denominations or the different German states didn't count. We all truly felt that we were members of one body of people - one nation. Youth hostels were opened all over the Reich - enabling us to hike from one beautiful town to another seeing our fatherland. Every effort was made to strengthen our minds and bodies. Contrary to what is said today, we were encouraged to become free in spirit, and not to succumb to peer (or authority) pressure. In peacetime NO military training was allowed by the Hitler Youth leadership. Scouting yes. Incidentally, to "snitch on our parents" was frowned upon.

"At the very time when America's allies, the Soviets, destroyed most of the Christian churches in Russia and Ukraine, about 2,500 new churches were built in Germany. NOT ONE Christian church was closed. It was the law that school and church had priority over service in the Hitler Youth. As late as the fall of 1944, the Waffen SS-barracks in Breslau supplied two buses to take youth to either the nearest Catholic or Protestant church every Sunday. To be a registered member of a Christian church did not prevent advancement in the National Socialist Party.

"Germany was national socialist, but free enterprise flourished during the entire Hitler years. No company was nationalized. No small businessman was stopped from opening his own store. I myself worked during the war for a company that can only be called part of international capitalism. If you owned shares, nobody confiscated them - like the allies did in 1945.

"The accomplishments of the 'Nazis' were incredible. Starting without money and with six million unemployed (a third of the work force), they constructed the entire German autobahn road network in a short span of 6 years - almost without corruption - while seeing to it that the new road system did not unnecessarily destroy either the German landscape, or wildlife habitats and forests. Two years after the NS were elected to power, conditions were so improved that workers had to be hired in nearby friendly countries to help alleviate the worker shortage in Germany. Germany was booming while Britain, France and the US were in the depths of depression.

"To help the workers get cheap transportation, the VW was designed and a factory was being built for their manufacture when the war started. Also, for the common people, villages of small single-family homes were erected. The monthly payments were set so low that almost anybody could afford his own house. In Hitler's Germany there were no homeless - no beggars. Crime was almost non-existent because habitual criminals were in concentration camps. All this was reported in the newspapers and was known by everybody.

"The German press during the Third Reich had fewer taboos than the American press today. The only taboo I can think of evolved around Hitler, and, during the war, there was a law that prohibited "defeatism." This was because of the negative role the "German" press played in the German defeat of 1918.

"It bears remembering that the 'European Economic Community' was first coined by the Third Reich Government. I remember many articles, both pro and con about this subject. One should also not forget that during the war at least 7 million foreign nationals (nearly 10% of the population) worked in Germany, either as voluntary workers (Dutch, Danes, French, Poles, Ukrainians come to mind), or as forced laborers or as prisoners. I know of no instance where foreigners were attacked or molested (much less killed) because they were foreigners. Speaking of the press, I have an article from 1943 in my possession that spells out how necessary friendship is between the German and Russian peoples.

"Between 1933 and 1945 there was a tremendous emphasis on culture: Theaters flourished, the German movie industry produced about 100 feature films per year (of which not one was anti- American. Only 50 of them can be considered pure propaganda movies). Some of the best classical recordings still extant were made in Hitler's Germany. Actors from all over Europe but mainly from France, Sweden and Italy were stars in German movies.

"Germany always loved sports, and there was no lack of opportunities to partake in any sport one liked. The 1936 Berlin Olympics was merely a showcase of what transpired all over the Reich. In a book on these Olympics issued by the Hitler Youth that is still in my possession, Jesse Owens is shown several times, and mentioned favorably. During the Max Schmeling boxing fights, we kids all knew of Joe Louis, the brown bomber. Nowhere did I ever read derogatory remarks about other races. Certainly the accomplishment of Germany and the Germans were given prominence, similar to the 'ad nauseam' statement of today that the US is the land of the free, etc. In my ten years in the Hitler Youth (actually eight, since I obviously couldn't attend while a soldier), the Jews were never mentioned. Other sports that gripped our attention were flying (there was Hitler Youth flying training with their own sail planes), car races (British and Italian drivers dominated) and riding.

"Frequently I am asked about gun control during the Hitler area. Claims are made that Hitler could take power because he disarmed the German people. That is nonsense. In Germany gun ownership was never as prevalent as it is in America. I would say that for hundreds of years one needed a 'gun license' in order to keep a weapon. On the other hand, my father owned an old pistol clandestinely (about which we children knew), and there were gun clubs all over the Reich. Furthermore, Germany was always a country with many excellent gunsmiths. It is doubtful that they could stay in business if the laws were too stringent. I would surmise that while Germany was Germany (before it was 'liberated' by the allies) gun ownership probably was far more widespread than is acknowledged today. The laws on the books were mainly to give the police a handle to arrest criminals with guns, not the ordinary citizen. Incidentally, just as Hitler had forbidden so- called 'punishment exercises' in the Army (the brutal methods still employed in the American Army), so had he forbidden the use of clubs by the police. He considered it demeaning to the German people.

"Finally this. I don't believe I'll ever see again a people as happy and content as were the great majority of Germans under Hitler. Especially in peace time. Certainly, some minorities suffered: former parliamentary politicians - because they couldn't play their political games; the Jews - because they lost their power over Germany, the gypsies - because (during the war) they were required to work, and crooked union bosses - because they lost their parasitical positions. To this day I believe that the happiness of the majority of a people is more important than the well being of a few spoiled minorities. In school there should be emphasis on promoting the best and the intelligent, as was done in Germany during the Hitler years - a fact that contributed after the war to the rapid German reconstruction. That Hitler was loved by his people there can be no question. Even a few weeks before the war's end and his death, he was able to drive to the front and mingle among the combat soldiers with only minimum security. None of the soldiers had to unload their weapons before meeting with the Fuhrer (as was required when President Bush met with American soldiers during the Gulf War.)

"Germany under Hitler was quite different from what the media would have you believe." Hans Schmidt - German American Political Action Committee, (GANPAC), PO Box 10600, Burke VA 22015.

RKH: The alpha-wolf has two objectives. (1) unite all wolf-packs under his leadership - AND (2) keep the sheep fighting each other.

PRISONERS

PRISONERS: "Mr. Hoskins: I just completed reading War Cycles/Peace Cycles. Perhaps if I had read it 5 years ago I wouldn't have wound up in this white collar federal prison camp." L. B. - North Carolina

---

PRISONERS: "Dear Brother Hoskins: Just finished "The Wolf & The Sheep. The information is obvious once it's pointed out. The book is rapidly making its rounds here and is in big demand since it arrived a week ago. Please send a Strong's Concordance and Jasher." F. G - West Virginia

---

Back to Table of Contents

1993 - Index

A

abortion protester jail sentence 225 ACLU poisonous 195
AIDS spread by mosquitoes 108 Arab warfare 203
mixed alliances 205
Arab-Turk Invasions 155 architecture
segregation requirements 36 author shift manager 71

B

bastard child 220
Beckwith, Byron de la 76
Belgian Congo blacks riot 220
Bible
Jew nor Greek 221
black Negro "man" 223
black man
oxymoran 223

C

Calvin, John
lawless kings 82
Catholic vs Protestant
8-differences 222
China
Chaing Kai-Shek 49
Christian Church
Dunnsville, Virginia 227
Christianity restricted teachings 120 civil war media incited 104
Clinton
another deKlerk? 59
his family 62
judges "cults" 138
mixed-breed 62
Communist Manifesto 26 corporations wolf-pack organization 65
Corporations & Estates 65 cross burning 226
Crusades 199
Arab disinformation 204
Saladin 207
secret weapons 200
curses
disobedience 34

D

desert people names 161

E

eating prayer 232
rules 232 scripture 233
with strangers 237
Edomites transformed into Jews 185
Esau Turks
unite against Jacob 197

F

food
sacred 231

G

Germany
ADL indoctrination teams 224
Hitler's 240
Gorbachev
Poplar Forest meeting 105

H

Hitler
living in Germany 240

I

indulgences
sold by trade religions 109 indulgences & bigot 151 integration
Almond & deKlerk 211
Richmond Light Inf Blues 212
Virginia 209
invasions
Arab 164
Arab-Hun 163
Khazar Turks 168
Mongols 167
Ottoman Turks 167
Turk plan 169
Islam
Covenant Of 'Umar 115
Israel
4 philosophies 182 escape into Europe 179 identifying 195

J

Jesus
- brings reformation 186

Jews
- restrict secrets 118

K

Kahl, Yorie
- parole denied 106

Kennedy, John F.
- Machiavelli's "Prince" 89

Knox, John 140

Koran
- study restricted 110

Korea
- MacArthur's report 51

L

LAW
- barn burners 81
- eating with strangers 37
- guaranteeing debts 138
- interracial marriage 20
- lawless kings 82
- preachers have no inheritance . 29
- racial integration 213
- slavery 134
- sodomites 147
- taxes 138

Lynchburg
- Confederate cemetery 146
- ice storm 141
- robins & buzzards 140
- sodomites blessed 146
- steeple falls 144

M

Machiavelli
- first impressions 59

mafia
- boss arrested 38

Mao
- Chairman 87
- communist episcopacy 93
- Little Red Book 92

Mao's religion 112

map
- Arab-Turk Invasions 165
- China 11 42
- Crusader Latin Kingdom 198
- Falklands 6
- Far East Spice Rt 158
- Hyrcanus' conquests 180
- Indo-China 47
- Israel captivity 178
- Panama 5
- S. Africa 7
- Sahara Desert 150
- Saxons under attack 61
- Singapore 9
- Somalia 2
- Vietnam 53

McCarthy
- "Fight For America" 49
- discloses treason 49

media 211

militia
- in Virginia 131

Mohammed 163

Mohr, Col Jack
- denied tax deduction 194

Morano-Moresco
- Turk converts 165

O

Operation Armageddon
- destruction of U.S. 1
- Falklands 6
- Grenada 5
- Panama 4
- Philippines 10
- Singapore 9
- Somalia 1
- South Africa 7

Orthodox Church
- Slavic church 198

P

Peters, Pete
- church padlocked 84

Phoenix Program 56
- Vietnam assassinations 100

prophecy
- China to invade West 35

Prouty, Col L. Fletcher
- JFK, The CIA, Vietnam 89

R

racial separation
- Dunnsville, Va. church 227

reformation
- 3rd Reformation 137

religions
- conceal secrets 118

Road To War 23

Rome
- Christian problem 121
- state-religion 121

Ruby Ridge 148

Ruby Ridge meeting gathering information 19
Russia
new Orthodox Church..... 173

S

sadducees..... 177
John Hyrcanus creation..... 181 slavery vs indenture..... 134
Son-of-Man 177
South Africa
current news 174
integration 209
spice merchants 133 spice routes
God's blessing..... 158 king protector 160
strangers
Philip Morris inspection..... 71 Sunday
keeping sabbath..... 190

T

Talmud
oaths 118 trade religions sell indulgences 109
Mao's communism 112
do & do not 124
Virginia beliefs 110
Turks & Jews unite invade West..... 223

U

unforgiveable sin 193

V

Vicki
beginning of reformation 192
Vietnam
American reconstruction..... 41
Phoenix Program..... 100
U.S. starts a war 55

W

Waco
massacre video 227 restraining order 76
Waco review
Cong Ron Paul 150 war
when to fight 79
Wolf & The Sheep 193
wolf government 83

ASSASSINS

&

THUGS

and other stories from

HOSKINS REPORT

1994

Copyright © 2007
by Richard Kelly Hoskins

All rights reserved. No portion of this book may be reproduced without written permission from the publisher except by a reviewer who may quote brief passages in connection with a review.

Published by

Virginia Publishing Company
P. O. Box 997
Lynchburg, Virginia 24505
Phone 434-384-3261

First printing 2007

ISBN 1-881867-24-2
Printed in the United States of America

Also by Richard Kelly Hoskins

OUR NORDIC RACE, 1958

ISBN 1-881867-00-5

Add'l Printings 1958, 1961, 1961, 1962, 1965, 1975, 1986, 1998, 2005

History of the Saxon nation.

$5 copy plus $3 p&h ($5 overseas)

WAR CYCLES/PEACE CYCLES, 1985

ISBN 1-881867-01-3

Add'l printings 1985, 1986, 1991, HB 2000, 2005

History of usury and war. 250 p.

$25/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

VIGILANTES OF CHRISTENDOM, HB 1990

ISBN 1-881867-02-1

Add'l printings sb 1991, 1997, 2005

The Story of the Phineas Priesthood, 472 p. sb

$15/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

THE WOLF & THE SHEEP, 1993

ISBN 1-881867-03-X

Add'l printings 2002

Wolves eat sheep. That's what they do.

Sheep try to keep from being eaten. That's what they do. 78 p. sb

$5/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

IN THE BEGINNING, 1995

ISBN 1-881867-04-8

The Hindu takeover of Western business, politics,and religion. 249 p. sb.

$15/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

Virginia residents add 5% sales tax

1994 - Table Of Contents

232 - HINDUISM: The conquering religion of the New World Order.....1

233 - PIG: A mother watches her six sons being fried in a great pan.....25

234 - THE GOTHS: Our Goth forefathers escaped the invading hordes of Turkic Huns. 41

235 - IRRESISTIBLE SEPARATION: Blacks and Whites WILL be separated. Black separatists opinion of Whites. 63

236 - DHARMA-CHRISTIAN TOLERANCE: Hinduism re-interprets Christianity so it can be merged into the Hindu NWO.....81

237 - ASSASSINS & THUGS: "The Old Man of the Mountain" - his assassins, thugs and murderers.....97

238 - ASOKA: Father of Dharma-Hinduism and the conqueror of Egypt, Greece and Rome.....115

239 - MARCIAN: "Marcian" Christianity banished God's Commandments and founded Rome's largest religious sect.....137

240 - CONSTANTINE: "Father" of Christianity whose churches adopted Hindu rituals 159

241 - PROMISED KINGDOM: Converting self-sufficient farms into wolf-dens.....183

242 - ORPHANAGE: How abandoned white children exist in black ruled South Africa.....213

243 - FARM SEIZURES: The need for communists to deprive people of their farms...227

INDEX 251

Chapter 232

HINDUISM

Yogaville

"Yogaville" was written up in the Lynchburg paper. It's about 60 miles from Lynchburg down in Buckingham County on the banks of the James. It is a Yoga settlement. The word "Yogaville" conjures up visions of "Disneyland" - or something else outlandish. That was a wrong impression.

The route led through Buckingham's back roads. Buckingham is a poor county. There aren't many people living there. The winding road through the pine forests seemed interminable. At last I encountered a sign pointing to a left turn which said "Welcome - Satchidananda, Ashram, Yogaville. Lotus Shrine 5/8 mi, Visitors 3/4 mi."

When I was getting out of the car at the visitors center, a bearded individual of unidentifiable ancestry confronted me in a hostile manner, demanding to know who I was and what

I wanted. He instinctively knew me. There are people like that. A few pleasantries seemed to mollify him. Passing on to the visitors center, I passed a pleasant young blond girl carrying her black kinky-haired baby.[1]

The center is a modest one-story building that doubles as a bookstore. Attached is a conference room with movable benches. There were a number of women about, part of whose dress included the color "orange." These turned out to be female priests, or "swamis." They were there to answer questions and help visitors. The one who approached me was a knowledgeable young woman.

From her I learned that there are 750 acres in Yogaville, and perhaps 60 Swamis (teachers) both male and female. Private interests have bought 250 acres across the road which are in the process of being subdivided into building lots. Homes are already built and others are under construction. There are more than 250 permanent residents in this part.

The library consisted of books of teachings by gurus. It also included a selection of sweatshirts for sale decorated with likenesses of Indian gods and the like. There was also a selection of jewelry which included different types of rosaries.

---

1 (1) "If the priest's daughter also be married unto a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien), she may not eat of an offering of the holy thing (food that is blessed), But if the priest's daughter be a widow or divorced, and have no child, and is returned unto her father's house ... she shall eat of her father's meat; but there shall no stranger (zûwr) eat thereof." Lev 22:10-13 (2) "When they had heard the law ... they separated from Israel all the mixed (mongrel) multitude." Neh 13:3

Assembly Hall

One must remove his shoes to enter the moderate sized assembly room - about 40 feet across. Candles had been lit to celebrate the Jewish Hanukkah. Swamis celebrate the religious holidays of all religions. There are many holidays and religious celebrations. People were busy at work at tables collecting and wrapping presents for 900 needy families in Buckingham County. Yogaville makes a practice of "good works." It builds trust and good will in the community.

High on the wall were pictures of the world's men considered great by the Hindus. Martin Luther King was one - Mahatma Ghandi another. I didn't recognize the rest.

Under the pictures were symbols of the world's religions, and quotes from their prophets. The religious symbols included those of Hinduism, Judaism, Shintoism, Taoism, Buddhism, Christianity, Islam, Sikhism, African faiths, Native American faiths, "other known faiths," and last, a place for the unknown god whose place was marked with the symbol "O".

My guide suggested that I might like to see the Siva Temple and the Lotus Temple.

Siva Temple

Siva's Temple was in an isolated area about a mile away high on the bluffs overlooking the plains of the James River. Siva is enclosed in glass. Parking the car and walking a hundred yards or so one reaches what amounts to a promenade about 50 feet long pointing to the river. At one end with his back to the river is Siva, a "dancing Siva." At the other end sat a statue of a guru whose teaching was responsible for establishing Yogaville.[2] In between were glass enclosures containing statues of Indian gods.

The focal point was the spectacular four-armed statue of dancing Siva, one foot lifted in the position of the dance. One of Siva's four arms holds a drum representing change through sound. The second - the "fear not" seal of preservation. The third hand points to the raised left foot - showing "grace" for those who come to the feet of Siva.[3]

Hindu Trinity

Brahmanism or Hinduism has three basic gods - or three gods in one. Brahma is the spirit permeating everything in the world. He is the father creator. Brahma created Vishnu and Siva. These are the three - Brahma, the creator; "Vishnu" the genial god of ordinary life, business, social contacts, etc. and Siva - god of death - and since Hindus believe in "reincarnation," death is followed by rebirth - Siva is also god of pro-creation. After creating Vishnu and Siva, Brahma retreated into the background as a grandfather figure and left the world to Lord Vishnu and Lord Siva.

---

2 "Since all perfect Masters are sons of God and one with God it follows that this is true of the living perfect Masters of today. If we want God, we should seek him there; and if we want to worship God, we should worship Him in them. There is no other living form of God in the world today than the person of the perfect Master and consequently God cannot be worshiped directly here in any other way than by worshipping the Master." Yoga & The Bible, by Joseph Leeming

3 "The image of a god is believed to be the god ... worship in a temple centers on the daily life of the god, involving preparation of the god for worship - waking him up with bells, purifying him with incense, bathing him, dressing him, and feeding him. The worshiper comes to the temple to view the god and to receive the food that the god has touched." Academic American Encyclopedia, Hinduism, Temple Worship

Lord Siva

Siva, the god of birth and death, is today portrayed as the Dancing Siva. Kali, his consort, is the black female god of death and destruction.

Dancing Siva's symbol is the "phallic" symbol. Sex definitely occupies a substantial place in Siva worship. Hindus have erotic sacred manuals dealing with sex. It is not an accident that the owners of the Western media make sex the focal point of TV, or that astrology has suddenly become prominently available in newspapers, or that fortune telling is prominently advertised on TV with "900 numbers" to call. It is not accident that almost every newsstand is a miniature porno-parlor, or, that the capital crime of homosexuality[4] is an "acceptable alternate lifestyle." These beliefs are acceptable to Hindus. One religion's "sacrilege" may be "accepted ritual" to another.

The Rest Of The Gods

Hinduism has countless other gods. Most represent special attributes of existing gods reincarnated as other gods. One is chief of monkeys and is worshiped all over India.[5] Then there is a class of genie represented by snakes.[6] Each of the gods

4 "If a man lie with mankind, as he lieth with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination: they shall surely be put to death." Lev 20:13

5 This may be the source of the Biblical prohibition against man lying with beasts. Most Hindus believe that in an earlier life they were beasts.

6 Hindu worship is represented by the "serpent" - Eve was deceived by a serpent. Also, "God ordered Satan to show himself to Adam ... And God said to Adam, 'Look at this devil ... and look O Adam, at him who said that he is God! Can God be black? Would God take the form of a woman?" II Adam & Eve 4:1- 4. This describes Kali, wife of Siva, who is both female and black. The "serpent" has always been the enemy of the WORD. It is also interesting to know that Genii are basic in Islamic beliefs.

has a wife. From this is further division of both the male and the female attributes of the god. Added to this is a veritable army of local saints or deities. Millions of Hindus acknowledge Siva and Vishnu - but it is the local saint that looks after the village when it is in trouble ("In India the perfect Masters are referred to as Saints." Yoga & Christianity, p. 42). The local saint is the one they pray to. There are thousands of major and minor gods, all resting comfortably and on a first name basis in the oneness of the Hindu panthanon.[7]

Caste System

In the second millennium B.C., early Aryan Brahman invaders established the caste system to prevent racial interbreeding. White Brahman aryans were at the top and the black Dravidians were at the bottom. History teaches that two races cannot occupy the same land without interbreeding[8] and in time the caste system failed to maintain racial purity. Pictures of modern members of the Brahma caste, such as Mahatma Ghandi, show him to be obviously of mixed race. India's four basic castes today more accurately reflect "protected occupations" - "caste occupational unions", if you will, rather than "racial" castes..

The four basic castes are (1) Brahmans - or priests; (2) the warrior and ruler caste; (3) the merchants and farmers; and (4) the peasants and laborers. The "untouchables," those whose occupations require them to handle unclean objects, have no caste.

7 It is interesting that while most local Indian gods are female - Indians treat the female as inferior in the episcopal manner - and not equally basic to family unity in the Western sense.

8 See Our Nordic Race, Hoskins, Virginia Publishing Company, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, Virginia 24505, $8/copy.

In practice, Brahmans occupy the first two castes. The Brahman priests of the first caste rule through their claim to be the sole possessors of the knowledge of the way to salvation. The wealth accumulated by this caste from their religious and political activities is truly impressive. Hindu priests are not permitted to marry and consequently have no heirs to leave their wealth to (certain sects permit marriage). Most have taken an oath of poverty. The lavish offerings to the temples have accumulated wealth for the priestly caste that cannot be measured. Marco Polo tells of an invading Mongol army which used all its transport to carry the loot from a single temple. This reduced the army to want from lack of transport to carry food, causing the army to turn back. In 1980, when the price of silver reached $38 an oz., the outpouring of hoarded Indian silver broke the back of the American silver boom. It should be no surprise to find Indian immigrants to America paying cash for million dollar motels, hotels, and businesses. Brahmans are the world's original usury bankers.

One is born into the Brahma Caste. It is now a religious /economic /political /commercial caste. This caste furnishes a self-perpetuating priesthood. It is the father of the world's "episcopal religions." "Episcopal," rule from the top down vs. "Presbytery" - rule from the bottom up. Christian Episcopal sects (Catholic, Episcopal, Methodist, etc.) and other episcopal religions allege that their priesthoods receive authority from God, and have the authority to perpetuate themselves. Other Christians in opposition insist that "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1 and the WORD - Jesus Christ "... hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." Rev 1:5-6. Thus, each man is appointed by God to be a king and priest.

He recognizes no superior but the WORD who is God himself.

Magicians

Teachers, who by word or deed gain a substantial following, may be elevated to the priestly caste.

The teacher who openly or secretly gathers followers to Lord Brahma, from whatever religious background, may be elevated to the Brahman caste.[9] Bringing successful religious leaders into the ruling Brahma caste results in more wealth accruing to the ruling caste. Hindu temples are notorious for their accumulation of lucre.[10]

Feats performed by Yoga adepts often border on the miraculous - the ability to move articles without touching them, springing 10 feet into the air, etc. Hindus devoutly follow the almanac. Astrology is part of their life. They refuse to do things during inauspicious times. It is noteworthy that President Reagan was greatly influenced by his wife who followed a teacher of signs in California.[11]

Reincarnation

The second forming belief is that of rebirth. Hindus be-

9 The book mentioned earlier, "Yoga And The Bible," may be described as a Hindu to Christian primer.

10 Unless corrupt enough to be an embarrassment, televangelists are immune from really hard criticism. They bless "political correctness" and give god's blessing to practices and individuals the Christian God rejects.

11 (1) "Thou shall not be found among you anyone ... that useth divination (ouija boards, taro cards, fortune telling), or an observer of times (horoscopes), or an enchanter (Hex, voodoo) or a witch (witches, witchcraft). Or a charmer (potions), or a consulter (fortune teller). or a wizard, or a necromancer (contact with the dead)." Deu 18:10, (2) "A man also or woman that hath a familiar spirit (medium), or that is a wizard, shall surely be put to death." Lev 20:27

lieve, in the words of Guru Nanak: "Our life is the farm where the seeds of karma are sown." A person is the sum total of his past lives, and that when he dies he will be reborn as another human or animal to continue his odyssey until he gets life right. This is his "karma." The result is a veneration of all living things and an absolute refusal to kill the smallest animal if at all possible. There are cases where people starved while cows grew fat.[12]

It is difficult not to attach too much importance in reincarnation. The "caste system" and "reincarnation" permeates Indian life. A devout Indian will cause his body to be burnt at death rather than have it placed in the ground where worms will feed upon it, and after having consumed it - starve. The starvation death of the worms will rest at the feet of the departed who did not make arrangements to have his body cremated.

Yoga

Actions committed in past lifetimes result in present events (Karma). Release from the cycle of death and rebirth is accomplished by practices called YOGA. Liberation from the cycle is the core of Indian philosophy. Yoga practices are supposed to subdue and train mind and body to the place where the individual no longer needs to be reincarnated and can merge with the Brahma. Most of its practices are practical. Some quite beneficial. Its devotees may sit and hum "om" in unison to develop close attention and harmony. "Oma" is the name of the consort of Siva, the mother goddess, whose other name is "Kali," the goddess of death.

12 When Hindu beliefs control those in authority, they become slaves of their "perfect Masters." They cannot kill those not considered "bad". This is the reason for the extreme reluctance to execute rapists and kidnapers condemned to death by the Christian WORD. See footnote #2.

To reach the Divine Spirit one must have a perfect Master to lead and teach him.[13]

Accepting an earthly "master" to direct one to "the way" forces one to accept the teachings of the Master as revelations from god. This is in direct opposition to the Christian belief that there is no priest between the Christian and God, since God made the Christian both king and priest.[14] Astrology is also forbidden to Christians because it too can become a master (Deut 18:10- 11).

Hare Krishna

Hare Krishna is a Hindu movement founded in 1965 in the US. The name comes from the chant "nantra Hare Krishna" (meaning "O Lord Krishna") chanted by group members. The repetitious chant brings merit to the worshiper. They are Hindu proselyters who actively seek converts. In the mid 1980s the movement had more than 200 centers worldwide. In the US, internal disputes resulted in a number of killings and allegations of sexual misconduct. In spite of the stated ideals of "honesty," "courage," "service," "faith," "self-control," "purity," and "nonviolence" - Hinduism does have a violent face, a face carefully concealed behind the professions of "love" and desire for "peace."[15]

---

13 "The living Masters who now carry on the Father's work are the modern Christs, the elder brothers, and saviors of mankind." (Yoga & the Bible, p. 54); "Inwardly, the Masters are one with the universal Holy Spirit ... They are the Word personified, or in the Biblical phrase, the Word made flesh which dwells among us." (Yoga & the Bible, p. 56

14 "Jesus Christ ... hath made us kings & priests unto God and his Father." Rev 1:5-6

The Hindu ritual, quietly promoted by followers using its unlimited wealth, permeates Christendom. Jewish Rabbis claim to have received special instructions from god while in heaven during a previous existence. The Catholic Pope claims to be god's infallible representative on earth. The Brahma caste claims its divinity from god. It has been said that there are more Hindu- christian priests in the West than followers of Yahweh.[16]

Buddha - Christian Saint

> "The strange parallel between Buddhistic ritual, discipline, and costume, and those which especially claim the name of CATHOLIC in the Christian Church, has been often noticed; and though the parallel has never been elaborated as it might be, some of the more salient facts are familiar to most readers. Still, many may be unaware that Buddha himself, Siddhárta the son of Súddodhana, has found his way into the Roman martyrology as a Saint of the Church."[17]
>
> "... it was Professor Max Müller, who ... who first pointed out the strange fact - almost incredible, were it not for the completeness of the proof - that Gotama the Buddha, under the name of St. Josaphat, is now officially recognized and honored and worshipped throughout the whole of Catholic Christendom as a Christian saint!"[18]

15 The "love" of the Hindu is uncritical and total. Opposed to that is Christian love which is one kind only, "If ye love me obey my commandments." John 14:15

16 Christians, finding comparisons with Hindu-christians distasteful, often refer to the "Word made flesh by the ancient title "Yahweh."

17 Marco Polo, Book 3, Chap XV. p. 324n, Yule-Cordier Edition, Dover Pub, NY 1993

18 Ibid. p. 326

From its inception, the papacy has been occupied largely by strangers.[19] There have been Edomite-Jewish popes, innumerable "christianized" tartar popes from the descendants of the tartar invaders of Southern Italy, and the present pope is a christianized Slav. The church does many things forbidden by the Christian religion but permitted by the Hindu religion, including the operation of usury banks,[20] and, forbidding its priests to marry.[21] The result of this can be seen on the front page as pedophiles and lechers are exposed to light. Some believe that the Catholic, Eastern Orthodox, and most protestant churches follow Hindu practices even more than their own Christian teachings.

The insistence of certain "Christian" sects on incorporating the Hindu practice of auricular confession makes those sects the most effective intelligence-gathering organizations in the world. "Confession" makes a security risk of anyone making such confession. The intelligence gathered daily from millions of unknowing "agents" makes that organization gathering the information invincible in politics and business. There is no business deal, political decision, war, revolution, drug operation, or moral peccadillo of the high and mighty that is not known to religious and political organizations which require "confession" from its followers, and who use this knowledge to advance its program.

19 "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deu 17:15

20 "Hath given forth upon usury, and hath taken increase ... he shall surely die." Ezek 18:13

21 "Be fruitful and multiply." Gen 35:11

The West Adopts Hinduism

From the time of Alexander's return from India in the 3rd century BC, the classical religions of Greece and Rome bore all the hallmarks of the Hindu religion. The world was in complete subjection to Rome and her gods and the Roman gods were likenesses of Hindu gods. To change this world Jesus Christ came with the WORD. The WORD was entirely different.

Early Christians, influenced by Hindu teachings, ignored Christ's warning, "Go ye not into the way of the gentiles, and into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not; But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 10:5-6. "Cast (not) ye your pearls before swine (unclean /reincarnated), lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you." Matt 7:6. "Ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte, and when he is made ye make him twofold more the child of hell than yourselves." Matt 23:15. They took the Word not only to Israel in dispersion, but to strangers in Rome, Egypt, and elsewhere. Travelers, traders, and would-be holy men took the WORD to the Hindus of India. The Hindus of India accepted and absorbed this new religion with delight. Millions of Indians began to worship this new manifestation of Siva now incarnated as "Jesus." This new religion created not a ripple on the waters of Hinduism. Jesus, "the WORD made flesh" passed through the Hindu filter and became Jesus , another Hindu god requiring the same processions, incense, temples, images, pilgrimages, and priesthood that all gods are entitled to (see footnote #13).

The emperor of Rome was Constantine, an evil man who murdered his wife and eldest son. He wished to displace the disruptive Christian WORD of Jesus Christ which was causing much discord within the Roman Empire. The Hindu variation of Christianity filled the bill exactly. It was episcopal - the Emperor could be its head - and so much like the existing religion of Rome that there would be no cultural shock - so it was adopted by decree. The existing priesthood, which doubled as the Roman Civil Service, took ecclesiastical titles and the Roman provinces were renamed "dioceses." Jesus was now Brahma, and galleries of saints replaced the panthanon of countless gods in the same temples.

To prevent the newly suppressed "Jesus the Word" from reemerging - study of the WORD was made a capital offense. Violators were put to death. All went on as before. Just the names were changed. The rituals remained the same.

Buddhism

The Hindu religion goes back into antiquity four or five thousand years and has spawned many sects. One of the best known is Buddhism. Buddah lived in the 6th century B.C. and discovered the middle way between harsh aestheticism on one hand and surrender to fornication and license on the other. Its followers wear yellow robes and follow most Hindu rituals.

Zionists

The "Star of David" is an ancient Tibetan Hindu holy symbol, and many Talmudic teachings, such as the reluctance to put criminals to death, parrot Hindu teachings.[22]

Some believe that the Zionists have a plan for Palestine to be the headquarters of a pan-turkic confederacy, to include Mohammedans and Hindus, with themselves as leader. This appears to be in conflict with the plan of monied Hindu-Jews who plan to have Zionist Palestine integrated into a "one world." One may expect a "flat refusal" by the Zionists to be integrated to be met with "the Kahane treatment." Rabbi Kahane was shot. Separatism is not permitted in the Hindu "One World" - not even by Zionists boasting their own elitist agenda.

Tibetan Hinduism

Tibet is considered by many to be the source of Hinduism. The leader is the Dalai Lama. Tibetan Hinduism spread to China where it became extremely influential. The "confessions" required of its adherents give information to the Tibetan Dalai Lama that allow him to exercise tremendous influence within the Chinese Empire.

> "Tibet, always to China a matter of prime importance by reason of the religious authority exercised by the Dalai Lama in Tibet, Mongolia and Manchuria." E/B, 14th Ed., Vol 22, Tibet, p. 183.

Hinduism permeates Chinese converts reducing them to servants of Tibet's priestly caste. This is the reason for China's military presence in that country (see footnote 2).

Taoism

Hinduism reached China and soon the indigenous Taoism was interpreted from a Hindu viewpoint. The two faces of the gods - the male and female - became the "Ying" and the "Yang" of Brahma. Much of Taoism became Hindu.

Mohammedan

The usury activity of Brahma priests spread to Babylon, and from there to Islam. As long as the Imams forbore to condemn usury, and as long as Islam remained open to the Hindu - matters rested comfortably. In time, devout Muslims attempted to enforce the Koran and coerce Hindus to accept Allah - not Allah reborn as Siva - but Allah as revealed by Mohammed. They banned usury. Hindu adherents world-wide began a "war of acceptance" against Islamic "fundamentalism." Islamic Mosques are being burned daily in India and the conflict has thus far cost millions of lives.

Sikhism

The Sikh religion is a Hindu sect born in the 15th Century. It was a revolt against the Brahma caste system and their suppression and exploitation of the Sikh peoples. While this sect is wholly acceptable to the Hindus, their practices are unacceptable to most Sikhs. The result is an ongoing war of acceptance waged by India's Hindus against the Sikh nation with Sikh temples and holy places continually being occupied by Hindu soldiers.

Hindu Tolerance

> "Hinduism has absorbed much and rejected little. It has been a great proselytizing system ... It has accepted something from its opponents, but kept them at arms' length. Its strength lies in its eclecticism[22] and in its insistence on the divinity of its own sacred caste, the Brahmans. ... It has undergone never-ceasing changes and is still unchanged." E/B 14th ed, Vol 12, India, Religion, p. 160.

Hindus accept all religions. They are tolerant toward the claims of rival deities. They are able to do this because they identify divine beings who are newly sprung into popular favor as the incarnation of either Vishnu or Siva. In other words, Mohammed, Buddah, and Jesus are accepted as the rebirth of a Hindu god with a new name. A follower of Islam sees Mohammed as God's spokesman. A Hindu will agree - but sees him as a reincarnation of Vishnu or Siva. The Mohammedan "Allah" is seen as Brahma. To the Hindu all is one. There is a "one world" of the gods. It is the original "ecumenism." The "one world" belief that "all gods are basically the same" is the basic Hindu belief.

22 Eclecticism: picking, choosing, and interpreting beliefs of one's opponents.

This belief is diametrically opposed to the Christian belief - "No one cometh to the Father but by me." John 14:6. To the Christian, the words "Jesus" and "Father" are translated as being the actual WORD. "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1 and "The WORD was made flesh, and dwelt among us." John 1:14. The WORD is understood to be the will of God most easily understood in the Laws, statutes, and judgments.

In spite of the clear teachings of the WORD, "secret Hindus" have converted many to the basic Hindu belief that in God - "all is one."

> "Surveys show that most Protestants ... along with the Pope and liberal Roman Catholics ... maintain that members of other religions, such as Islam and Judaism, all worship the same God Christians worship but call Him by a different name." Christian News, Vol 30, No 20, May 18, 1992, p.1, RR1, Box 309A, New Haven, MO 63068.

Centripetal vs. Centrifugal Forces

Hindus endlessly speak of "tolerance" and "nonviolence," but, Hindu violence is worldwide. The thing triggers Hindu violence is - "rejection." Hinduism is a "CENTRIPETAL" force - it attracts and gathers many separate parts into one whole. A competing god who insists on remaining "separate," on being EXCLUSIVE, the ONLY god of its people, one who refuses to become one with the world force of Brahma and be integrated into the Hindu panthanon - that god is looked upon as an opposing force - a "CENTRIFICAL" force - one that tears apart the holy Hindu ecumenism. After a reasonable period of proselyting, in which every attempt is made to peacefully merge the dissident groups and their gods onto one, and the efforts have been rebuffed - that opposing god and his followers become enemies of the state (Brahma) and must be exterminated so that Brahma will not be torn apart.[23]

India's Buddhists accepted the ecumenical call to become one and be absorbed into Hinduism, or were banished. Buddhism now lives only in foreign lands - Indo-China, China, and Malaysia. Christians who refused to merge were simply exterminated. The Moslems refused integration and were forced to flee for their lives. Millions fled from India into Pakistan. The millions of Mohammedans, Buddhists, and Christians who remain in India today are "integrated" into the oneness of Brahma. They are called "Moslem," "Buddhist," and "Christian," but most include Siva and Vishnu in their worship. Like many Western christians - they are Hindu - but with another name.

---

23 Ghandi preached "non-violent protest" while his followers shot British soldiers; Martin Luther King's "non-violence" left cities burning; America's rulers preach "non-violence" but leave "Ruby Ridge," "Waco," and a dozen invaded and devastated "separatist" lands in their path.

Wars Of Oneness

"Centripetal-oneness." Ecumenism. The gathering of many into one. This is the imperium of Hinduism. It explains wars that are otherwise inexplicable. The apparently irrational single- minded insistence on incorporating the independent and separate American states into a single union of States. The same irrational insistence to destroy the "separatist" Southern Confederacy; Brahman "oneness" explains the insistence to incorporate the independent American farms into corporate "oneness."

Brahmanism explains Britain's insistence on destroying the independent S. African farmers and integrating them into its empire; it explains the hysterical reaction to the "separatist" National Socialist Germany which tried to escape the sticky, cloying grasps of One World oneness. It explains the Brahman use of Western armies to invade and conquer Islamic Egypt, N. Africa, and Iraq. It explains the West's support of Mao's communists to exterminate China's Buddhist and Confucian landlords and priests.

Hinduism explains Perry's insistence that Japan enter the world's mainstream, and it explains the war to incorporate Somalia into a Brahman One World. Hinduism explains why Marcus Garvey was imprisoned when he tried to return his fellow Blacks to Africa;[24] it explains why the separatist "Malcolm X" was murdered, and the bloody suppression of America's "Black Panther" separatist movement. Brahma's ecumenism excuses burning out 14 blocks to cremate Philadelphia's Black separatists. It explains Brahma's rage over the separatist family at Ruby Ridge, and the massacre of the Waco separatists. The "centripetal-force" of Hinduism explains Siva's never-ending war with anyone who wishes to pull away - the "centrifugal force" of separatism. It explains the absolute insistence on forcibly integrating America, and it explains the encouragement of illegal immigration in spite of the almost total opposition of the American public. Almost as an afterthought, it explains the insistence on Nafta, a European Common Market, and guns owned only by the servants of Kali - goddess of death.

24 Vigilantes Of Christendom, Hoskins, Virginia Publishing Co., PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $18/copy

Brahman

The Brahman caste long ago escaped from their confines in northern India and spread wherever their interests lay. The caste has accepted all of like mind as equals and now the caste includes Jews, Mohammedans, Taoists, Shintoists, Buddhists, and Christians. They require only that each acknowledge the oneness of Siva by whatever name they wish to call him.

They rule the world with their immeasurable wealth collected over 5000 years. Wealth itself is power, they need no armies of their own when the armies of the world are theirs whenever they choose to hire them. Their interconnected usury banks are headquartered in Switzerland, Germany, England, Japan, America, and India. These banks own or control the world's corporations through stock held in hundreds of bank nominee names, and, through bank trust departments which vote corporation stock placed in their trust.

Their corporations and foundations make grants to "deserving" colleges and seminaries to teach "political correctness." They support "deserving" charities and make million dollar grants to "deserving" writers, thinkers, inventors, and politicians.

Brahmins and secret-Hindus own book /newspaper/ TV/ radio chains that channel the public's thinking. They promote reliable "televangelists" to bless their acts. "In-house politicians" are selected and elected, and, hostile politicians are defamed and defeated. The same corporations contribute to political "pac's."

World leaders are hired and fired as circumstances dictate. They are "hired help." Chairmen of corporate boards, the top bankers of the world's most prestigious bank chains, and prominent religious leaders - they too are "hired help." Powerful media billionaire owners are found to be only millionaires after they die mysteriously - and the media-chains that they were managing are revealed to be owned by Brahman banks. Most "billionaire world leaders" are just managers - "hired help."

True Brahmans, the owners of the world, have no face that is readily recognizable. They have ruled the world for millennia - they need no worship from their wage slaves.

All Gods Are One

As Siva does - so do they. Siva does not condemn homosexuality, pedophilia, or infidelity - neither do the Brahmans. Siva attacks "theistic"[25] religions - so do they. Siva smashes and obliterates "separatism" so that Siva can live - so do they. This is the reason the Christian nations of separatist Western peoples are marked for destruction. Christian people have always rejected other gods. They are Christian or nothing.

25 "One god" which excludes others.

This racial trait is the reason they have been condemned to death.[26]

Fingering Secret-Hindu Priests

Christians love "God the WORD."

> (1) "If ye love me obey my commandments." John 14:15, (20 "And this is love, that we walk after his commandments." 2 John 6

The hallmark of secret-Hindus is their insistance on "integration" - the integration of practices, beliefs, things and persons cursed by the WORD.

> (1) "Ye shall know them by their fruits. Matt 7:16, "All flesh consorteth according to kind, and a man will cleave to his like." Ecclesiasticus 13:16

That Special Place In Hell

Before the wolf can enter the sheepfold to eat sheep, he must first secure a safe-conduct pass from the watchman. If he does not, the rams will gather and kill the wolf.[27]

In Islam, Islamic-Muslim "separatists" are holding the "one world" Muslim-Hindus responsible for placing the rest of them in bondage to foreigners. In China, the long-persecuted Confucists and Buddhists are beginning to hold the Communists-Hindus responsible. In South Africa, Black Zulu "separatists" are holding Mandella's Black Hindu-Xossas "integrationist" responsible, and, White Africaaner "separatists" are beginning to hold White "integrationists" responsible.

---

26 Write for a free copy of The Balak Plan, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505. Enclose a self addressed envelope.

27 Wolf & The Sheep, Hoskins, Virginia Publishing Co., PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $8/copy

In the rest of the West, Christians of the WORD are beginning to question and hold secret-Hindu integrationists responsible for the age of chaos they have unleashed on the world.

The password for all the peoples of the world who would be free of each other and free of the oneness of Brahma, Siva, and Vishnu is - SEPARATISM!

> "Come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord." 2 Cor 6:17

The WORD prophesies what will happen to those who refuse:

> "They will each turn to his own people, and each one will flee to his own land. Anyone who is found will be thrust through, and anyone who is captured will fall by the sword. Their little ones will also be dashed to pieces." Isaiah 13:14-16

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 233

PIG

I have received a number of requests to comment on the latest food controversy. The reluctance I have to becoming involved in this, following on the heels of the Sabboth controversy, is due to the respect I have for the professional competence of the writer of the following lines, whose suggestions may have saved the life of one of my children, and the tremendous historical precedent supporting the other side. Excerpted for brevity, the parties speak for themselves. You, the reader, is the one appointed king and priest by your God - you judge.[1].

Pork-Beef Capsules

"The issue is the using of gelatin capsules for health food items. The capsules are a mixture of beef and pork gelatin. ...

"Gelatin is derived from the heating up of skin and bones from cattle and pigs in water and hydrochloric acid. The chemical name for gelatin is collagen - a fibrous protein found in connective tissue, bone and cartilage. ... That is all it is. Just amino acids .... The gelatin in these capsules has to be of high purity to form properly and not break. ... we have this pure compound collagen. Essentially, nothing else, just collagen. Is this a pig anymore? It doesn't look like it to me. ...

1 "Jesus Christ ... hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." Rev 1:5-6

"We are left with ... 50 milligrams of collagen (gelatin) which is 1/600th of an ounce which has 1/1200th of an ounce of pork gelatin. ..."

"Do I violate the letter of the Law? I don't believe so. Do I violate the spirit of the Law? I don't believe so. Do I violate the intent of the Law? I don't believe so. ... Christ said in Matthew 15 that it isn't what goes in a man's mouth that defiles him but that which comes out. He is not saying the food laws are not in effect, nor am I." Scriptures for America, p.9, P.O. Box 766, LaPorte, Colo 80535

The Law

"Thou shalt not eat any abominable thing. ... the swine, because it divideth the hoof, yet cheweth not the cud, it is unclean unto you: ye shall not eat of their flesh, nor touch their dead carcase." Deut 14:3,8. "Ye shall not eat ... the swine, though he divide the hoof, and be clovenfooted, yet he cheweth not the cud; he is unclean to you." Lev 11:4,7

Next to this last quote in the margin of the Geneva Bible, John Knox, John Calvin and the other reformers left a note to enable the reader to gain a better understanding of Lev 11:4, 7. The note said simply: "2 Mac 6:18."

"Maccabees," is one of the 10 books censored from the KJ Bible in 1825. It tells of the wars and tribulation that befell the people of Israel after 50,000 of them returned from captivity to rebuild the temple. Note that the following story revolve about the attempt to make a venerable old man eat swine, or failing that, to just pretend to eat swine.[2]

Eleazar - The Old Man

"Eleazer, one of the principal scribes, was constrained to open his mouth and to eat swine's flesh. But he, choosing rather to die gloriousy, than to live stained with such an abomination, spit it forth, and came of his own accord to the torment....

"But they that had the charge of that wicked feast, for the old acquaintance they had with the man, taking him aside, besought him to bring flesh of his own provision, such as was lawful for him to use, and make as if he did eat of the flesh taken from the sacrifice commanded by the king; That in so doing he might be delivered from death, and for the old friendship with them find favour.

"But be began to consider ... the holy law made and given by God: therefore he answered accordingly, and willed them straightways to send him to the grave. For it becometh not ... Whereby many young persons might think that Eleazer, being fourscore years old and ten, were now gone to a strange religion;

"And ... through mine hyprocrisy, and desire to live a little time and a moment longer, should ... get a stain to mine old age ... For though ... I should be delivered from the punishment of men: yet should I not escape the hand of the Almighty, ... Wherefore ... I die willingly ... for the honorable and holy laws ...

"They that led him changing the good will they bare him a little before into hatred ... proceeded ... And thus this man died, leaving his death for an example of a noble courage, and a memorial of virture, not only unto young men, but unto all his nation." II Mac 6:18-31

In the next story, the alien king made eating swine a "litmus test." Those who would - served him. Those who wouldn't - were traitors.

2 Appocrypha, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $15/copy

The Mother & Her 7 Sons

"Seven brethren and their mother were taken and compelled by the king against the law to taste swine's flesh, and were tormented with ... whips. One of them ... spake ... We are ready to die, rather than to transgress the laws of our fathers ...

"Then the king ... commanded ... to cut out the tongue ... and the outermost parts of his body ... he commanded him yet being alive to be brought to the fire, and to be fried in a pan (and this he did to each of the six brothers).

"... Whilst the youngest was yet alive (the king said that) he would make him both a rich and happy man, if he would turn from the laws of his fathers ... But ... the young man would in no case harken unto him ... the king called the mother, and exhorted her that she would council the young man to save his life ...

"But, she ... spake ..., Fear not the tormentor, but being worthy of thy brethren, take thy death, that I may receive thee again in mercy with thy brethren ... The young man said ... I will not obey the king ... but I will obey ... the law ... I, as my brethren, offer up my body and life for the laws of our fathers ... and that by torments and plagues confess, that he alone is God: ...

"So this man died undefiled ... last ... the mother died." II Maccabees 7:1-41

All these attempts to force a Law violation on the people bore fruit in the case of the old man Mattathias.

Mattathias

"King Antiochus wrote to his whole kingdom, that all should be one people, And every one should leave his laws. ... Yea, many also of the Israelites consented to his religion, ... for the king had sent letters unto the cities of Juda, that they should follow the strange laws of the land ... and sacrifice swine's flesh ... To the end they might forget the law, and change all the ordinances. ...

"In those days arose Mattathias ... and he had five sons... The king's officers .... came into the city Modin, to make them sacrifice. ....

"Then ... said the king's officers ... to Mattathias ... Thou art a ruler, and an honorable and great man in theis city ... Now ... fulfil the king's commandment ... and thou and thy children shall be honored with silver and gold, and many rewards. ...

"Matthias answered ... Though all the nations that are under the kings dominion obey him, and fall away everyone from the religion of their fathers ... Yet will I and my sons ... walk in the the covenat of our fathers. God forbid that we should forsake the law and the ordinances. ..." I Mac 1:41-2:21

Then, Mattathias rose in wrath against the king's officers and his defiance commensed the Maccabean Wars.

From the above examples it is clear that not only pork, but even the appearance of the eating of pork is frought with consequence for those who cherish the history of our fathers.

Clarification

A phone call to the writer of the first paragraphs clarafied much. His above statement answered the "disagreement" and neglected the "agreements."

There are TWO kinds of gelcaps. One "beef" - the other "pork- beef." Gelcaps come in different sizes because different dosages are needed. One - the beef-gelcap - presents no problem. Those offended by the other - the "pork-beef gelcap" - may pull it apart and take the dosage and discard the gelcap. The writer said that he would be glad to tell which capsule is the "pork- beef" capsule. Those offended by touching the pork-beef capsule should be able to work out some other method with the writer.

The writer and I agreed that the establishment often attempts to present us a choice which would force us to violate the WORD - thereby causing us to fight God.

Summery

The WORD states that "The WORD was God," John 1:1 and that according to the reformers[3] "A proofe: because the Lawmaker ... and the body of the Law cannot be divided." The Law is the Law - the Law is God. A violation of the Law is an assualt on the body of God - an unspeakable act. No one intends to do that.

We are all agreed that we are working for "Thy will be done - on Earth!" Incidents such as the one above are good because they force us to use our knowledge, our study, and our authority as "kings and priests" to come to conclusions that are expected of "kings and priests." In time we will develop a unanimity of belief. In the meantime - let us work to learn what God requires of us.

==========

DNA

The papers carried an article about "Melungians," a group of people living in the mountains of SW Virginia who claimed descent from Spanish settled in South Carolina in the late 1500s. They are olive skinned, live apart, and have different ways from their neighbors. The article listed doctors and scientists working with the project-manager to try to prove their ancestry.

I called the man leading the project. He was a "Melungian" himself. Nice chap. He said that blood typing had already revealed that his people were descended from Morescos, Maranos and the general blood groups found in southern Spain and North Africa. He was now trying to get DNA confirmation.

I called one DNA source he gave. The source refused to comment saying that he might be accused of making a political statement regarding race. I called a phone book police source next. Beating around the bush I asked his opinion about a problem I had been told about in Philadelphia - the one where someone looking white applied for and got a "blacks only" job with the fire department. It seems that there, it has be alleged that only blacks are hired as firefighters. The new "white" guy applying for a job said he was black and got a job. The blacks wanted him DNA tested to see if he really did have any black blood. The last I had heard the case was pending. I asked the police source on the phone if it were possible to find this out whether the man was Black or White by DNA testing? Without hesitation he replied - "definitely!"

3 Geneva Bible: James 2:11, note 6.

Next, I called a museum curator and asked him the same questions. His answer was wishy-washy. He indicated that DNA testing gave them the information they wanted for museum purposes, but declined to give any opinion on any theoretical questions.

Next, I called a medical doctor who is supposed to be one of the best authorities on DNA in the country and posed the "Philadelphia question" to him. His answer was involved.

He said that in his opinion present-day DNA testing is too expensive - about $250 per case. Most work is done for forensic purposes by police departments, which is limited. But, a data base is slowing being gathered. Until databases are sufficiently large, it will be difficult to really come up with definite opinions.

He gave an example. The DNA for a black will have certain definite distinctive characteristics. The testing will show the same characteristics for thousands of blacks tested. But, all of sudden, you can run across a single case in which one coal-black Negro has no black DNA characteristics that one has learned to expect from Blacks. How can this be? But there it is!

The doctor was certain that in time other fringe characteristics among the 2 million or so characteristics carried by DNA will be identified so as to correct the occasional rare aberration of this sort, but now, he felt that what is needed is "data, data, and still more data." The doctor also felt that experiments should be widened to include other DNA interests than those demanded by the police.

CONCLUSION: From the reading and conversations I have done on DNA to date; I believe that the day will soon come when there will be few genetic secrets - that the sweat from a fingerprint, a bit of hair, blood, or skin, will reveal everything about a person and his ancestors. This information will be of immense value to those who want peace on earth, which can only come from "separation":

(1) "Come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord." 2 Cor 6:17. (2) "For thou didst separate them from all the people of the world to be thine inheritance." 1 Ki 8:51

LETTERS

ISRAELI - VATICAN ACCORD: "Sir: What is the significance of the Israeli-Vatican accord?" T. M. - Montana

RKH: In exchange for certain unspecified returns, a safe-conduct pass has been issued for the wolf to enter the sheepfold and eat sheep. Without such a pass the wolf is helpless.

JUST ARRIVED: "Mr. Hoskins: I was brought up as a Lutheran, and was taught you could do what you wanted as long as you believed in Jesus Christ. But, now I know that is false. I am reading your book Vigilantes Of Christendom, and I just wish I had read it years ago. Since I have been unlawful and my punishment should be death - my question is - could I become Lawful again? I have repented of my old ways and have a very strong desire to be a Child of God. I am hopeful I will hear from you." H. H. - Texas

RKH: Most everyone who reads the HR has reached the place you are right now. The thief crucified beside Jesus had no opportunity to do good - he just turned what was left of his life over to Jesus. That's was enough. The word is there in your heart. "I will put my law in ... their hearts." Jer 31:33. This is the WORD made flesh called Jesus. You don't call him - he calls you. "The WORD was made flesh, and dwelt among us." John 1:14. You are fortunate, you've been called. He wants you to love him. "And this is love, that we walk after his commandments." 2 John 6 "WHOSOEVER SHALL CALL UPON THE NAME OF THE LORD SHALL BE SAVED." Rom 10:13. ("His name is called The Word of God." Rev 19:13). You have a new master. Welcome aboard.

GENEALOGY: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: How do I research my family?" H. B. - Texas

RKH: Find out how to do it. Get a book on genealogy from the library. If they don't have one, a lending library will. Next, contact a family member who knows most about your family. A single letter or phone call might save you ten years work. Taking the first step is the big thing.

SAME CONFESSION: "Dear Dick: Alcoholics Anonymous and the Masons both embrace whatever god the individual confesses to be god. This could be Buddah, Krishu, or Allah. Isn't this basic Hindu belief?" K. K. - Maryland

RKH: You got it.

SECOND TRUTH: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: What is a 2nd truth lie?" A. M. - Tennessee

RKH: Preachers used to first state the Law, and second, read a parable from the Bible to illustrate. Today, "politically correct" preachers omit the first part - the Law, and read the 2nd part - a parable, sometimes from the Bible. Without the Law, most parables can mean whatever the preacher says it means. This is a 2nd truth lie.

RIGHT WING: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: It is my opinion that there will never be a merging of interest between the political right wing and the religious right wing in this country. The political right wing has no new ideas. Those they do have will put the country right back in the same trouble it is in today." F. D. - Wisconsin

RKH: I agree. The political right wing's lack of imagination will keep the existing monolithic organization with themselves as its kings. That's what we are fighting against now. I sympathize with "national socialism" only as so far as to agree that being ruled by our own people is better than being ruled by aliens. But, that's is as far as I am willing to go. Today's right-wing would replace today's socialist governments with themselves. On the other hand, the religious right wishes to dismantle the entire socialist empire down to the Biblical self- sufficient freehold farm with every man a king and a priest.

INSPIRED BOOKS: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Who selected the books of the Bible to be 'inspired.'?" W. W. - Oregon

RKH: The same ones who issue "safe-conduct" passes to wolves to enter sheepfolds to eat sheep.

CONTROVERSY: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: The fact that Christians will bicker over the Sabbath is ridiculous. I believe it reveals apostate Christianity. No one can make me believe that God would have us expending our energies on such things. There are also controversies over Feast Days, Sacred Name, Baptism, etc. ad nauseam. This division and schism in the household of God is against his WORD!

"Our women and girls are being raped on our streets, our nation is being plundered by thieves, aliens rule our land, and perverts claim to represent the WORD of God - HOW can such divisions be at issue with our people.

"These things are rituals. They are good only in that they are symbolic of higher things. They are a 'confirmation.' Even John the Baptist said that baptism was nothing compared to Christ's Baptism (Matt 3:11-12). That Baptism takes place in your mind. Or, what of the "sacred name." He is called many names. The point is, He doesn't care what you call Him - He only wants us to follow his commandments (Matt 12:46-50).

"I agree with you - any Sabbath is fine as long as we worship Him in truth. Hair splitting is a luxury to be enjoyed by a nation living under God's Laws. This one isn't.

"It is our job as Christians to Witness to the Truth. If anyone out there is not doing something - anything - each day, or at least each week to awaken our people, then he is a phony Christian and a no good son of God. It's time we put away the divisions and schisms, and put on the Word of God." David Tate. Youngest Member of "The Order" - Missouri.

AIDS: "Dick: Saw an AIDS case of 'brain syphilis.' Things are now getting like the 'old times' in medicine prior to penicillin." MD - Florida

UNFILTERED NEWS

RUSHDIE TRANSLATOR KILLED: "AP Tokyo - A professor who translated Salman Rushdie's 'The Satanic Verses' into Japanese was found stabbed to death yesterday, nine days after the novel's Italian translator was attacked in Milan." The Researcher, p.2,

---

BLIND LEADERS: "When asked if they believed that the Scriptures are the inspired and inerrant Word of God in faith, history, and secular matters: 95% of Epicopalian (ministers) said 'no,' 87% of Methodists said 'No,' 82% of Presbyterians said 'No,' 77% of American Lutherans siad 'No,' 67% of American Baptists said 'No." The Gideon p. 13, Jan 1994

RHK: The Gideons, the most devout and sacrificing of all Christian organizations, complain about preacher disbelief, but, they themselves create an impossible paradox by using the command, "Go ye therefore and teach all nations." Math 28:18 , as God's command to scatter his WORD indiscriminately among all and sundry when God also expressly said: "Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not. But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Math 10:5 If the Gideons, Christendom's self-sacrificing elite, can't make the scriptures harmonize[4] how can they expect to deal with apostate preachers who are nothing but walking paradoxes.

PATRIOT: "In the beginning of a change, the patriot is a scarce man and brave, hated and scorned. When his cause succeeds however, the timid join him, for then it costs nothing to be a patriot." Mark Twain

---

4 "God is not a man that he should lie." Num 23:19, "The scripture cannot be broken." John 10:35, "I am the Lord, I change not." Mal 3:6, "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, today, & forever." Heb 13:8

ALTERNATE LIFESTYLE: "Andrei Chikatilo was convicted of murdering and eating parts of 21 boys, 17 women, and 14girls; Jeffery Dahmer killed 17 young men and boys and also ate their body parts. Besides these gruesome tragedies, facts show that the top six US male serial killers were all homosexuals: Donald Harvey claimed 37 victims in Kentucky; John Wayne Gacy raped and killed 33 boys in Chicago, burying them under his house; Patrick Kearney had 32 victims, cutting them into small pieces after sex and leaving them in trashbags along LA freeways; Bruce Davis molested and murdered 27 young men and boys in Illinois; A gay sex-murder- torture ring (Corli-Henley-Brooks) sent 27 Texas men and boys to their graves; Juan Corona was convicted of murdering 25 migrant workers and said he 'made love' with the corpses.

"Among women, lesbian Aileen Wuornos became the top killer last year by murdering at least seven men in Florida. This topped the lesbian nurse team of Catherine Wood and Gwen Graham, who had killed six convalescent patients in Michigan. (Violence and Homosexuality, by Dr. Paul Cameron; a supplement to the Family Research Report) Son Times Publishing, Farmers & Consumers Report, Black Bldg., Suite S2, Fargo ND 58102 Dec 1993 p.3

JAIL TIME: "The Average jail time for murders in the U.S. in 1990, 1.8 years; for rapists, 60 days; for robbers, 23 days; arsonists, 6.7 days; burglars, 4.8 days; auto thieves, 1.5 days." National Center for Public Policy Research, Straight Talk, Oct 21, 1993

HOLOCAUST: "Here are a few facts that are generally not known about the Holocaust: In 1990 the official figure of 4 million deaths at Auschwitz was officially and quietly reduced to 1.1 million. Strange as it may seem the figure of 6 million has not been adjusted accordingly in the media. Franciszak Piper, the head curator and director of the Auchwitz State Museum for the last 26 years, has admitted that the 'gas chamber' shown to tourist for 'reconstructed' after the war. None of the camps on on Germany territory - including Dachau - is recognized by historians as ever having had gas chambers ..." Milwaukee Journal 8-13-93, The Witness, Nov., 1993

Stranger News

JESSE JACKSON: Washington - "The Rev. Jesse Jackson was elected president of the Zionist Organization of America today and immediately announced plans to enter rabbinical school and give up chitlins for cholent .....

"... Friends of Rev. Jackson say that after speaking at a number of Jewish events in recent months about how wonderful Jews are, he was so taken with his own fervent rhetoric that he came to believe what he was saying." The Detroit Jewish News, p. 41, March 5, 1993.

ANTI-BLACK BIAS: "A report released last Monday by the Anti- Defamation League alleges that African Americans are the most anti-Jewish ethnic group in America. The survey ... said 37% of Black Americans fell into the survey's category of 'most anti- Semitic.' Only 17% of whites fell into this category ..." The Philadelphia Tribune, Dec 4, 1992.

RKH: One must remember that once before the owners of the NY banks made common cause with the Blacks. It was after the War Between The States. Shortly after 1872 the "banker-Black" alliance started wearing thin. Black nationalism raised its head. It wanted to run the Whites out and turn the entire South into Black republics. It also wanted to seize the loot gathered by the NY banks. The NY establishment was forced to side with Southern Whites against Black nationalism in order to retain the millions of acres of prime plantation land bought at tax sales. If White Southerners would remove Blacks from power the White Southerners could have the right to rule themselves. The NY banks kept their loot. The whole story is in Hoskins' Vigilantes Of Christendom, "Reconstruction."[5]

Back to Table of Contents

5 Vigilantes Of Christendom, Hoskins, Virginia Publishing Co., PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $18/copy.

Chapter 234

THE GOTHS

"The Saxons were a German or Teutonic, that is, a Gothic or Scythian tribe."[1]. The name "Goth" means "God's people," and, the "Good People." "They shall put my name upon the children of Israel." Num 6:27

The words Scythian, Saxon, and Goth are interchangeable. A more recent name has been added - "German." This name was given the west Goths by the Romans.

Readers will remember the story of the Battle of the Catalonian Fields (August 1992), in which more than a million men fought, and perhaps half that number died. On one side were the invading Turkic Hun horde allied with their enemies the Ostro-Goths and others. On the Gothic side were the Visi-Goths allied with their ancient enemies - the Romans.

1 History of the Anglo Saxons, Sharon Turner, Bk 11, Chapter I, p. 87, London, 1852

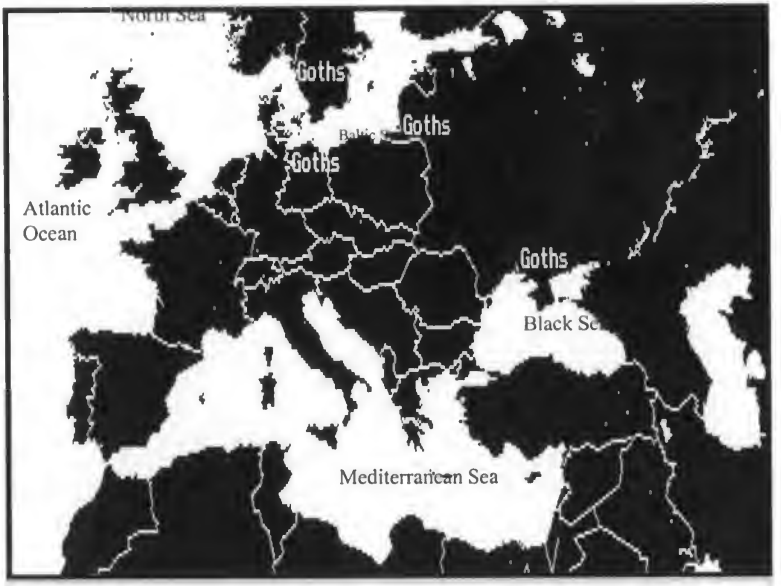

Figure 1: The Long Trip vs the Short

Leaving their overcrowded homelands in the north, the Goths used the Russian rivers to retrace the journey their ancestors had made 700 years earlier, and settled the vacant lands in the Crimea on the north side of the Black Sea.

During the years 7 B.C. to 17 A.D. the Goths first came to the attention of Roman historians as living in the area from Pomerania to W. Prussia on the Baltic Sea.[2] The reason that they moved was:

> "Overpopulation led the people to draw lots and the inhabitants thus chosen emigrated. Their wanderings are said to have taken them across southern Russia into Greece."[3]

Those chosen to move boarded "dragon ships." Instead of

2 "To this day there are numerous European regions bearing the Gothic name ... Swedish Vastergotland and Ostergotland ... as well as the island of Gotland." History Of The Goths, p. 23, Herwig Wolfram, Univ Cal. Press, Berkeley, 1988.

3 Ibid., p.23

sailing out into the North Sea and on into the Atlantic Ocean they sailed up the Vistula River. When they could go up-river no further they drew their ships ashore and put them on wheeled cradles, and oxen dragged the ships overland to a Russian river that flowed south.

Again boarding ship, they sailed down river until they reached the Crimea - on the Black Sea. The land was rich, and vacant, so they landed, put plows into the ground and begin developing their new home. There were repeated arrivals of Goths from about 238 A.D., each group going farther afield searching for suitable land to settle. By 253 some groups had gone as far as Greece and, crossing the Black Sea, they ventured down into Asia Minor. By 268 the Gothic advance had reached the Aegean Sea - deep into the territory of the E. Roman Empire. These new arrivals were trespassing and so the Empire reacted by sending armies to enforce their territorial integrity. This led to a series of wars between the Goth nation and Rome.

The Hunnic Attack On The Goths

The Goths had been ensconced in their new homes for little more than a century when in 375 a new and lethal enemy burst into their rear.

These were Huns. The Huns had complete knowledge about the Goths, their numbers, disposition, wealth, and their method of warfare, but the Goths had never heard of the Huns before. They had received no advance notice of their arrival - no warning. There was not even knowledge that such a people existed.

The Huns arrived one morning in numbers like locusts, riding little ponies, and after launching a swarm of arrows - fiercely attacked anyone in their path. They were not like any people the Goths had met before. They were extremely mobile and favored long-range fighting with the bow. Although quick to dispatch isolated groups with sword and lance, when they could they put captives to death in a barbaric manner.

Figure 2: The Russian River System

Sailing up the Baltic rivers as far as they could go, the Goths pulled their ships overland to nearby Russian rivers that ran south - and sailed on down to their final destinations. The Black Sea could also be reached by sailing from the North Sea south to the Rhine River. Then, sailing up the Rhine as far as possible and transferring over to the Danube and on down to the Black Sea. Both the northern and the southern river routes had been well used for hundreds of years, and are still.

The Goths had traditionally fought in the forest and on the sea. They were now living on the open steppes and had developed no way to effectively fight this new enemy whose method of war was adapted to the wide open spaces of Asia - who were fifty miles away one day - at one's doorstep the next - and thirty miles away in the opposite direction the day after. The Goths were afoot and this fearsome enemy was mounted. While Gothic infantry was formidable, the Huns would not fight unbroken infantry. They surrounded such groups and rained a torrent of arrows on them until there was sign of disorder, upon which signal, they charged with sword and lance.

Individual Gothic homesteads and small settlements were overwhelmed and subjected to ghastly treatment by the Huns, and thousands more poured past on their way to the heartlands of the Goths.

Overnight, the Crimean Goths found themselves inundated in a sea of Huns and fighting for their very existence. Before they could mount an effective defense, half were overrun and made captive. The rest escaped by leaving everything and fleeing for their lives.

Ostrogoths

The Goths who were overrun in the years 375-377, the eastern Goths or the original East-Germans, became suzerain to the Huns and from this time on were known as "Ostrogoths." In exchange for their lives, they gave hostages to the Huns, and received "relative freedom" for agreeing to acknowledge the Huns as their masters; to fight for them when called upon, and to enforce whatever rules and policy the Huns dictated to them.

The Goths gave their word, a sacred act among the Goths, and they rendered loyal service to the Huns - even to fighting their brothers the Visigoths, who had escaped from Hun captivity.[4] Privately, however, the Ostrogoths agreed among themselves that if they ever escaped the yoke of the Huns they would never allow themselves to be made captive by them

4 GODS LAW: "Ye shall not ... fight against your brethren the children of Israel." I Kings 12:24

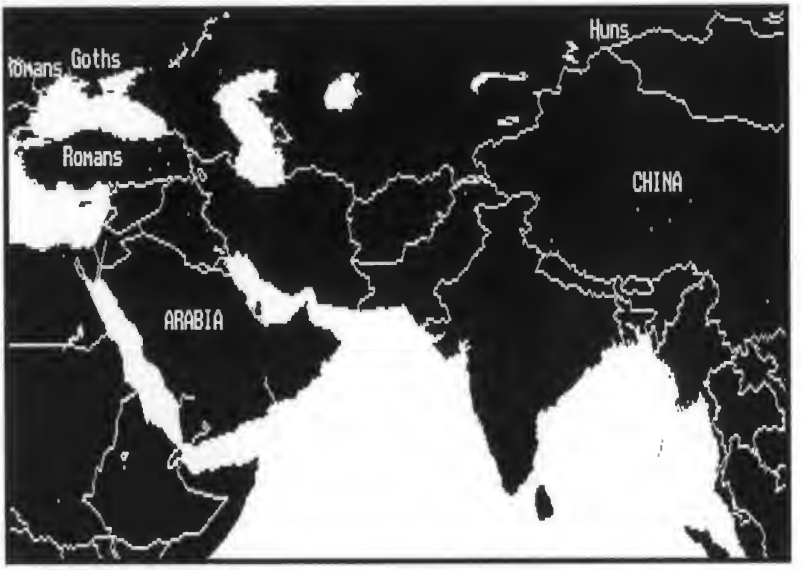

Figure 3: Hun Migration To Attack The Goths

Leaving the borders of China, the Huns migrated toward earlier prey. Marching unseen through the Mongolian deserts, north of the Iranian and Iraqi deserts, the arrived completely unannounced in the rear of the Goths, who were occupied with the Romans. The Hunnic attack was devastating.

again.[5]

The Ostrogoths were quickly instructed in the military by their conquerors. They were equipped with horses in the Hun manner, and with bows and lances. They were introduced to the mobile mounted tactics of the Huns, and to their highly developed horn-braced bow, and learned to wield it from horseback. This allowed them to effectively fight for the Huns with massed firepower that often overwhelmed the more advanced armor, tactics, and might of enemies who were 5 Informers reported this oath to the Huns, but since Goths were known to take great pride in honoring their oaths, the Huns ignored the report. Of course, honoring an oath to a lawless people, an oath that violates the Law "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deu 17:15, effectively prevented effective resistance to their oppressors.

comparatively immobile.

Visigoths

There was an instant transformation in the escaping Goths' method of warfare and civilization. From an agricultural nation rooted to the soil, they became a mobile nation at war. Farms vanished. Every man, woman, and child became a member of their mobile army. Adopting the Hun horse, wagon, lance, and most of his tactics - they became devoted practitioners of what worked for the Huns. They improved certain of their new adaptations to give them an edge - to stay a jump ahead of their fearsome enemy. Metal plates were sewn to their leather armor to help turn Hun arrows. Long-lances were adapted to outreach shorter Hun lances. To counter the Hun "open order" attack - they adopted the tactic of mass- attack designed to run over the enemy not nimble enough to get out of their way.

Figure 4: The Hunnic Conquest Of The Crimea:
The Huns overwhelmed the east Goths (Ostrogoths) and forced them to fight for the Huns. This combined enemy forced the west-Goths (Visgoths) across the Danube and into conflict with the Romans who failed to fulfill their promise to provide food.

Part of the mounted Goths dismounted to fight behind wagons or to become infantry stationed behind hedgerows of spears. While waiting for a chance to use their spears and swords they doubled as archers, while protecting themselves by shields to make the Hun mounted archery less effective. Thus, the infantry protected the wagons, the wagons protected the cavalry, and the cavalry protected the infantry. Both mounted infantry and cavalry soon matched the Huns in long marches.

The Danube - Gateway To The West

The Danube River was the boundary that protected Rome's eastern empire. Most of the land on the Roman side of the Danube lay vacant because Roman tax collectors had long before foreclosed the Roman farmers and had driven them from the land. The Visigoths offered their service as warriors to guard the Danube defenses against the advancing Huns in exchange for the right to settle and farm this vacant land. Of course, they needed food until the first crops came in.

This was agreeable to the Roman leaders who were forever short of soldiers, so they agreed to allow the Goths to cross the river and settle. They also agreed to feed them until their first crops came in the following year. Funds were allocated for this purpose and given to Roman officials to buy food. But, instead of buying food, these Imperial officers embezzled the funds for their own purposes, leaving the Goths to starve.[6]

Adrianople - 378

The Visigoths had given their word. They were trying to live up to it, but the Romans were not living up to their part of the contract - to bring food. The Visigoths were starving. They waited as long as they could and so they requisitioned food from the Roman countryside to stay alive. They were joined in this looting by scattered groups of kinsmen Ostrogoths, and independent groups of Huns and Alani who had found the Visigoth passage across the Danube and had followed them. The Visigoths were now at war with the Romans.

The Goths could not re-cross the Danube - the Huns were waiting for them. They could not stay where they were - there was no food. So, they loaded their women and children in wagons and continued in the direction of Constantinople, the capitol of the Eastern Empire, eating up the countryside as they went.

To meet this invasion the Empire fielded an army and marched to meet the Visigoths. The two armies met on August 9, 378 west of Constantinople, at a town called Adrianople.

The Romans deployed their incomparable legions, and opened the battle with the barritus, the ancient German warrior battle song. The song began quietly and gradually swelled to a thundering roar, which revealed just how German the Roman troops really were. They then commenced their irresistible advance against the Visigoths and their allies.

The Visigoths also sang their war song in praise of their ancestor's exploits.[7] They had circled their wagons, stationed infantry to defend the gaps between the wagons, and waited. The Roman infantry reached the wall of wagons and hesitated - seeing no way of entry. While their efforts were concentrated against the wagons, Visigoth heavy cavalry rode from behind the wagons, charged the Roman cavalry armed with short javelins, and rode right over it. They then instantly reversed field and smashed into the Roman right flank, rolling it up. One Gothic regiment detached itself from the battle and circled behind the Roman lines to fall on the Roman left flank which it also rolled up. This was the first time in history that a Roman legion had been assaulted by mounted Gothic heavy cavalry armed with long lances that were pushed through infantry formations by the weight of charging horses. It was also the first charge of mounted Western chivalry that began the thousand-year reign of the mounted Christian knight.

6 The World Of The Huns. Otto J. Maenchen-Hefew, p. 470, Univ Cal Press, LA 1973

With the lines shattered, the Visigoth infantry sallied forth from their wagon fortresses into the broken Roman lines. The battle degenerated into a massacre. Among the dead were the Roman emperor and 35 of his high ranking officers. Only the badly mauled Roman cavalry and less than 1/3 of the infantry survived. The Visigoths had shattered the defenses of the Roman empire - and in the process opened the door wide for the following Huns.

Influx Of Goths & Germans Into Rome.

The invading Goths settled Northern Italy, France, and Spain. The Germans also settled in Northern Italy, France, 7 The Trojans and the Greeks of Xenephen's "10 thousand" did the same before battle.

and parts of the Balkans. One thing not noted by historians is that the Germans and the Goths were different branches of the same people. One could call the Goths the early "East Germans" and those from Germany - the early "West Germans."

River Travel & Viking Ships

From time immemorial the Goths traveled and traded on the Russian and European rivers. Their ships are described as flat bottomed with figures at the bow and stern, and large enough to transport 25 or 30 men. This is the description of a Viking ship! The Viking ship was born on the rivers of Russia where shallow draft flat-bottomed boats were an absolute necessity. The exploits of the later Vikings were due more to the intrepid men than the flat- bottomed river boats that they sailed.

Genesis

Where did these river people come from? This seldom-asked question is answered in II Esdras 13:39-45:

> "The 10 tribes, which were carried away prisoners out of their own land ... whom Salmanasar the king of Assyria led away captive ... They took this counsel among themselves, that they would leave the multitude of the heathen, and go forth into a further country, where never mankind dwelt, That they might there keep their statutes, which they never kept in their own land. And they entered into Euphrates by the narrow passages of the river. ... For through that country there was a great way to go, namely of a year and a half:[8]

II Esdras quoted above is in the Apocrypha - one of the 10 books removed from the KJ Bible in 1825. It is little wonder that people know so little about themselves.

Josephus wrote the following only 300-400 years before the Goths arrived on the stage of history:

> "There are but two tribes in Asia and Europe subject to the Romans, while the 10 tribes are beyond Euphrates till now and are an immense multitude." Josephus, Antiquities 10, 5, 2.

The two captive tribes mentioned must have been the Israelites in Palestine and the people of Britain and Gaul subject to the Romans. The 10 tribes beyond the Euphrates are obviously the Scythian-Saxon-Goths. There was only one other large group of people in that region who were called "Sarmations" whom we believe to be the ancestors of the Slavs.

River Highways

Look closely at the map of the Black Sea on p. 2. The great river flowing in from the west is the Danube. One could sail up that river as far as he could, hike 30 miles over to the Rhine River, and said down to the North Sea, and save hundreds of miles of dangerous ocean travel. This was done on a regular basis. The Romans were forced to keep a large fleet on the Danube to stop this river traffic.

River Fork Trading Posts

The Russian rivers were the same. One would sail up a river as far as possible, put his ship on cradles and have oxen pull it a few miles to a river flowing in the opposite direction, and sail on down to the final destination. This travel had been going on for centuries.

---

8 Traveling only 8 miles a day, 1641 miles could have been covered in a year and a half, and Israel's captivity took place 700 years before Christ.

Wherever two rivers came together one found a trading post. These trading posts in time grew into villages and towns. They too had been there for centuries. Gothland, early Gotland, or later Russland or Russia, was a series of towns and trading posts scattered alongside rivers all over the immense land area of Russia.

Goth-Slav Relationship

The Slav-Goth, or Slav-Russ, relationship is ancient. Respect has always been rendered between the two - and a reluctance to push differences to the point of confrontation if at all possible. While the Goths settled on farms and villages located on the Russian rivers, the Slavs migrated over the endless steppes, seldom coming in contact with Goth settlements - unless there was a reason to.

Slavs have many admirable qualities, but self-discipline is not one of them. When they drink they tend to drink too much, when they fight their fights can degenerate into massacres. When they rule, they are often oppressive. This lack of organization tended to make them easy prey for roving Turkic nomads who captured Slavs as slaves - which gave them their name - "Slav."

In time, many of the weaker bands sought protection from their more aggressive fellows and Turkic raiders by placing themselves under the protection of the Goths. This was the basis of the ancient Goth-Slav alliance. The Turk was the common enemy.

Vikings

The Russian rivers were Gothic highways. There were few men living on the Baltic in the far north who had not made the voyage to the Black Sea. Those living in the Baltic traveled out to the North Sea and up the rivers deep into the heart of Germany. The Romans named them - "Germans."[9]

These Gothic-Germans in the north heard about vacant land in France, Spain, and Italy, and their younger sons journied to take possession. Roman armies were paid to protect these vacant lands for their absentee landlords. These armies were a nuisance and were looked on in the same way American settlers looked on the American Indians who stood in the way of gaining land for their own - just obstacles to be overcome.

By this time the Roman Empire was a hollow shell. There were no Romans left and soldiers were scarce. Many of these would-be Germans settlers found it more profitable to serve in the Roman armies. It was these "western-Goth" soldiers, or "Germans," who faced the Eastern-Goths, or "Ostrogoths," at the battle of Adrianople. Each sang their ancient war songs of their same ancestors.[10] The Roman Empire was a land-corporation ruled by ever-changing laws, state-religion, judges,

9 Thus, another name was added to describe the same people: "Goth," "Saxon," "Scythian," "Russ," "Saxons from Angleland" - "Anglo-Saxons," the "Saxons from Jutland" - or "Jutes."

10 GOD'S LAW: "Ye shall not ... fight against your brethren the children of Israel." I Kings 12:24 "Thou shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people." Lev 19:18. "Blessed is the man who does not direct his heart with malice against any man." Enoch 44:3. Yankee and Southern Saxons may not fight. British and S. African Saxons may not fight. German, Danish, Australian, or Swedish Saxons many not fight. It is the law. EXCEPTION: "When any persons would compel us to break our laws, then it is that we choose to go to war." Josephus, Against Apion 2:38. He who would require us to break God's law is the enemy.

and mercenary soldiers. The people who had made it had long vanished. Its rulers were administrators who did the hiring, firing, leasing, buying and selling, and levying of taxes. It had devoured most of its own people and managed vast vacant provinces - which is what corporations do in time...

Later, other Goths took their flat-bottomed river boats with carved animal figures at the bow and stern and went "a'roving" into the Atlantic and Mediterranean - they had gone "a'viking" in the Norse tongue. This added still another name to the long list of Gothic names - "Viking."

Hanse

Still later, the Roman religious-political system spread into the north Gothic counties and took the people's land. All land now belonged to the Roman religious corporation called the Roman Catholic Church.

Dispossessed farmers went to seaside villages. These villages grew into cities. These cities built walls and defied the rule of local princes and kings who policed provinces and collected taxes and tithes as part of their fief obligations to the Catholic Church landlord. These cities also built ships which traded with other independent cities inhabited by the descendants of these dispossessed Gothic-Saxon farmers. These ships were armed and powerful. In time many of these cities combined into an organization called the "Hanse." They formed an early monopoly to oppose the "Holy Roman Empire" and the political/economic rule of the Catholic Church. They were so successful in what they did that it is said that the price of bread remained the same for 3 centuries in the Hanseatic League.

The League included cities in Russia, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Germany, England, Holland, and France. An injury to the ships or trade of one was considered as an injury to all. They fought and won wars with some of the greatest of the European powers. Their leaders met periodically on the Island of Gottland in the Baltic Sea, and their Hanse was the most important economic power for centuries. It was not until the power of individual states grew greater than the confederation of Hanse cities that the organization declined in power and then vanished.

Hitler's Living Space - Russia

The Gothic-Russ, allied with Slavs, fought Turkic Islamic invaders almost continuously from the time of the Crusades until 1917. This alliance gradually drove Turk rule from Russia and regained the land that had been lost.

In the process, several Turkic tribes were overrun - former invaders who had moved in and settled on Gothic-Slavic land. These conquered Turks were treated as they had treated others. This heavy-handed treatment kindled smoldering fires of hatred.[11]

Other conquered Turks, aided by kinsmen usury-bankers in the West, made alliances with disaffected Russian-Slavs to overthrow the Gothic-Russ. In 1917, they launched a successful revolution. The Goths, with few exceptions, were exterminated by the millions from the land they had occupied for thousands of years. The Slavs were left with a new master who had always hated them.

Gothic-Russ refugees brought sad tales of disaster to the German West. It was inevitable that a Western German-Goth crusade would be made to reinstate the Gothic-Russ refugees into their ancient homeland. It would also provide a home for the surplus Goth populations living in central Europe. This German-Goth crusade to the east was crushed by a Turkic-led western confederation of Gothic states. By way of punishment additional land was taken from the German and Austrian Goths and tribute has been exacted for 50 years.

11 The southern Turkic provinces are presently attempting to withdraw completely from Slavic Russia to join the Islamic confederacy.

Now, after a rule of 3/4 of a century, there is nothing but ruin left in Slav-Russia. The Turkic nomads are leaving. They are abandoning the land and moving on - leaving shambles behind them. Democratically "media-selected" Slav and Turk administrators are attempting to rule without traditional Gothic direction. The result is predictable.

Summary

"God's people" have eternally been told to flee their nemisis. Adam was instructed to flee Satan; Able - Cain, Jacob - Essau, the sheep - the wolf, the Christian - the Turk. Now there is no place left to flee to. This is not the fault of the Turk. God told his people not to deal with strangers.[12] The fed wolf never leaves the sheepfold. The enemy is not the wolf - it is the disobedient among God's own people who feed the wolf.

For many years disobedient Goths have misled their own people for gold. The teachers, the preachers, and the political leaders. "Goths" are not cities to rule; counties, states, and nation franchises to sell to the highest bidder. We are not someone's property. We have been appointed Kings and Priests by our God[13] and we fully intend to take our rightful place. We know who we are - where we came from - and where we are going.

12 GOD'S LAW: "And ye shall make no league with the inhabitants of this land." Judges 2:2. "Thou shall make no covenant with them...they shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21-24. "If thou hast stricken thy hand with a stranger, thou are snared." Pr 6:1,2

We are children of the Goth-Saxon-Sythian peoples of the Russian and European rivers. Our forebears settled Russia, Italy, Scandinavia, Germany, Britain, France, Spain, America, South Africa, and Australia. They are known by many names including "Indo-European" and "Caucasian" - the mountain chain which contains the narrow doorway called the "Pass Of Alexander," through which they escaped from Assyrian captivity almost 3000 years ago. Names and peoples change, but "God's people" are still known by the three proofs of Israel.[14]

God did not bestow his name - "Goth" - without reason. He also named his people "Israel" so that they would have his "power of attorney."[15]

Take note: The Saxon "white horse" is his sign, the "three proofs" his identification, and the WORD his King of kings and his authorization. His enemy are those who disobey.

Today is the day of the GOTH!

---

13 GOD'S LAW: "Jesus Christ ... hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." Rev 1:5-6

14 (1) God's name - CHRISTIANS - "They shall put my name upon the children of Israel." Num 6:27 (2) Isaac's name, SONS OF ISAAC - ISAACSONS - SAXONS, "In Isaac shall thy name be called." Romans 9:7, and (3) Adamic descent. "Man" in Strong's Concordance is the Hebrew "Adam". "Adam" means to "blush red". "Show blood in the face." Genuine Israelites can produce all three proofs. "CHRISTIAN"- "SAXON"-"MAN".

15 Israel - Heb: Yisrâ'êl - "He will rule as God ... also his posterity." Strong's Concordance

LETTERS

"Dear Mr. Hoskins: What reason does the establishment have for allowing the mass immigration of strangers?" M. G. - Mississippi

RKH: Read what "The Decline & Fall of The Roman Empire, p 273, has to say about what happened in Alexandria: "The lucrative trade of Arabia and India flowed through the port of Alexandria to the capitol and provinces of the empire. ... But the people of Alexandria, a various mixture of nations, united the vanity and inconstancy of the Greeks with the superstition and obstinacy of the Egyptians. The most trifling occasion, a transient scarcity of precedence in the public baths, or a religious dispute, were at any time sufficient to kindle a sedition among that vast multitude, whose resentments were furious and implacable. After ... the authority of the laws were relaxed, the Alexandrians abandoned themselves to the ungoverned rage of their passions, and their unhappy country was the theatre of a civil war, which continued (with a few short and suspicious truces) above 12 years. ... Every street was polluted with blood, every building of strength converted into a citadel; nor did the tumults subside, till a considerable part of Alexandria was irretrievably ruined." (footnote: "This long and terrible sedition was first occasioned by a dispute between a soldier and a townsman about a pair of shoes."

Different people have different gods. Different gods demand that their followers obey their laws which may conflict with the laws of another god. A powerful third party ruler must then judge between them. The average merchant supports such an all powerful ruler so that he may continue to trade and transact business. Nothing has changed. Today's establishment encourages aliens and their gods to enter our land to create chaos so that the establishment will be "legally" authorized the power to judge between the gods. The waves of immigrant aliens give the establishment the power of a god on earth. Hail Caesar!

PRISONER: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: The Texas prison sytem is one of only 4 remaining correctional systems in the US which refuses to pay its prisoners a wage for forced labor. Nevertheless where there is a will there is a way. Enclosed is $6.09 in stamps from a group of us. Would like The Apocrypha, Lost Books of the Bible, War Cycles/Peace Cycles, Josephus, Jubilees, Jefferson Bible, and Red Book. Thank our free-world kinsmen for us. Reading your Vigilantes brought me back to Christianity." M. B. - Texas

---

BYRON DE LA BECKWITH - MARTYR: Byron de la Beckwith, 73, twice acquitted in the 30 year old slaying of NAACP extremist Medgar Evers, was railroaded by a MIXED RACE JURY - IN A THIRD TRIAL. He was given life imprisonment. This travesty of justice was unlawful on at least two major counts. The choice of jury violated one: "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deu 17:15. Trying an event 30 years old is the second: "Let judgment be executed speedily." Ezra 7:26. Byron de la Beckwith is known to be a Christian gentleman, who, along with his wife, has endured a continuing 30 year persecution, and through it all has praised God. History will remember him when the roll is called, and those guilty of violating the GOD'S LAW will stand in the docket and answer for their crimes.

PHARISEE: "Dear Richard: Bible advocates must understand that the 'spirit of the Pharisees' can be not so much meticulous law keeping, as rather going to great lengths and using long winded explanations to circumvent law abiding attitudes and conduct." K. R. - Oklahoma

---

DAVID TATE: David Tate, youngest member of "The Order," was interviewed for an article. When asked "What is your advice to the people outside of prison? He replied:

"Do Something, anything! Just do not sit idle. There are those who would follow the example of The Order, that is not my advice, nor do I disagree with such action. But, I will say this: once you've crossed the line, you cannot turn back. You must leave family and friends, you cannot work with an above-ground organization. You are committed for life. Period." David Tate w/155209, Potosi Corr Center, Rt 2 Box 2222, Mineral Point, MO 63660.

RKH: The representative form of government allows one to build a political, social, or religious platform and to expound his ideas. Every effort should be made to win others to your cause and to push your philosophy in this manner. It is the peaceful way. Even the present marxist government agrees that it is still legal to do this. The other way is the hard way. Strife, once started, runs its course. It is easier to start than stop. "The beginning of strife is as when one letteth out water: therefore leave off contention." Pr 17:14. If God decrees strife - nothing can stop it. Ruby Ridge and Waco were deliberate efforts to trigger premature resistance from American patriots so that they could be crushed. But, in spite of provocations, every peaceful method should be tried first.

ORGANIZATION: "Hi Dick: The earliest reference to the pyramidal structure that Republics embody seems to be in the Biblical reference of 'leaders of tens, leaders of 50s, leaders of 100s, leaders of 1000s." The ancient base unit in Israel was ten families. In a true Republic those ten families would pick one of their members to sit in a higher level in a group of similar size. Each group on that level would pick one member to sit at the next higher level, and so forth. It would only take five or six levels in America to get to the White House." T. R. - Wyoming

---

PRISONER EATING: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: How should prisoners go about 'not eating' food prepared by 'strangers,' as our culinary workers are a mixed lot? 90% of the things we get have a "K" on them, guaranteeing that an edomite blessed them. So, do we starve, or eat what we are not allowed to eat." S. - Nevada

RKH: This problem of being forced to do that which was against God's will existed in an earlier age. This was their solution:

"In case one of their own blood ... should attempt to confound or dissolve their constitution of government (God's Laws), they should take vengeance on them, both all in general, and each person in particular ... that if they were not able to take such vengeance, they should still demonstrate that what was done was contrary to their wills. So the multitude bound themselves by oath to do so." Josephus, Antiquities 4:8:45

The establishment does not allow you to take vengeance, either individually or together. Therefore, following the above rule, a simple protest that what is being done is against your will should be acceptable in God's eyes. Of course, when Christians take back their country - God's Law will be on the lips of all the faithful.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 235

Irresistible Separation

Farrakhan's Discovery

Farrakhan's Black Muslims are being castigated by the establishment press.

The reason - they discovered a secret - a secret they related in a book published by their own Nation of Islam. It is called "The Secret Relationship Between Blacks and Jews". This book quotes Jewish sources to show that Jewish merchants were a prime mover of the African slave trade. Blacks don't like that.

The Black Muslims, with this information, have the potential to destroy the long-time Black/Jewish alliance. All that's needed is for Blacks to start believing that they are patsies. If this should happen the entire political situation in America could unravel overnight.

To avoid discussing the facts, damage control agents of the ADL are attempting to discredit Nation of Islam publishers by attacking their spokesmen. A discredited spokesman can help discredit the offending book.

The ADL smear media is fed quotes and background in a NY Times ad. The NY Times acts as a bulletin board for smear material to be used against anyone.

Developing the Smear

A spy for the ADL crashed a private Nation of Islam meeting at a local college last year. Blacks are easy targets. Many are notorious loud-mouths. Their boasts are "extreme". When they think they aren't being heard, they can be very extreme. Following are excerpts, out of sequence, from a transcript of remarks made by Khalid Abdul Mohammed, at Kean Collegiate, NJ, 11-29-93, contained in the ADL ad printed in the New York Times Sunday Jan 15, 1994.

Private Black Talk

> "Who are the slumlords in the black community? The so-called Jew ... Who is it sucking our blood in the black community? ... A white impostor Arab and a white impostor Jew. Right in the black community, sucking our blood on a consistent basis. The sell us pork and they don't even eat it themselves. A meat case full of rotten pork meat, and the impostor Arab and the impostor white Jew, neither of them eat it themselves. As wall full of liquor keeping our people drunk and out of their head, and filled with the swill of the swine affecting their minds. They're the blood suckers of the black nation and the black community. ...
>
> * * *

"The Jews have sold us,[1] the so-called Jews have sold us, ve (sic) ve, ve suffer like you, ve. Ve, ve, ve marched with Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., ve. Ve, ve were in Selma, Alabama ve. Ve were in Montgomery, Alabama, ve. Ve were on the front line of the civil rights marches. Ve have always supported you. But let's take a look at it. The Jews, the so-called Jews,[2] what they actually done, brothers and sisters, is used us as cannon fodder.[3]

* * *

This same speaker made it easy for the ADL. He also spoke against Whites - even if it was in private. The prominent disclosure of these private talks was calculated to turn Whites against the offending Black separatists.

"We don't owe the white man nothin' in South Africa. He's killed millions of our women, our children, our babies, our elders. We don't owe him nothing in South Africa. If we want to be merciful at all, when we gain enough power from God Almighty to take our freedom and independence from him, we give him 24

---

1 Farrakhan, to try to appease his attackers, first removed the speaker as spokesman, but then defended the "truth of his talk" by consistently referring to the book he held in his hand - The Secret Relationship Between Blacks and Jews. The book documents from Jewish sources the leading participation of Jews in the African slave trade.

2 Blacks have also recently learned from their spiritual cousins in Palestine that most Jews, perhaps 98% of them, are not descended from the ancient Hebrews, but are descended of 9th century Chazar Turks who converted from animism and Islam to Judaism. See War Cycles / Peace Cycles, p. 81, Hoskins, POB 997, Lynchburg, vA 24505 hours to get out of town, by sundown. That's all. If he won't get out of town by sundown, we kill everything white that ain't right (inaudible) in South Africa. We kill the women, we kill the children, we kill the babies. We kill the blind, we kill the crippled (inaudible), we kill 'em all. We kill the fagot, we kill the lesbian, we kill them all. You say why kill the babies in South Africa? because they gonna grow up up day to oppress your babies, so we kill the babies. Why kill the women? They, they ... because they lay on their back. They are the military or the army's manufacturing center. They lay on their back and reinforcements roll out from between their legs. So we kill the women too. You'll kill the elders too? Kill the old ones too. Goddamit, they in a wheelchair, push 'em off a cliff in Cape Town. Push 'em off a cliff in Cape Town, or Johannesburg, or (inaudible), or Port Sheppston, or Durban, how the hell you think they got old. The old oppressing black people. I said kill the blind, kill the crippled, kill the crazy. Goddamit, and when you get through killing 'em all, go to the goddam graveyard and dig up the grave and kill em, goddam, again. 'Cause they didn't died hard enough. They didn't die hard enough. And if you've killed 'em all and you don't have the strength to dig 'em up, then take your gun and shoot in the goddam grave. Kill 'em again. Kill 'em again. Kill 'em again, 'cause they didn't die hard enough.

3 From the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith release, 823 United Nations Plaza, New York, NY 10017 printed in the NY Time. The Anti-Defamation League is an organization of Jewish merchants whose objective is to protect their trade interests by attacking separatists as anti-Semitic. The ADL has labeled many Jews "anti-semitic." Louis Farrakhan says: "Anyone whom the Jews don't like is anti-semitic."

Where does this Muslim get the authority to talk this way? He is unlawful according to Christians and Jews. But, this speaker was not a Christian or a Jew, he was a Mohammedan. He was obeying Allah according to the Koran which clearly teaches:

(1) "Slay the idolaters where you find them. Arrest them, besiege them, and lie in ambush everywhere for them." Repentance 9:5: (2)

"Make war on them: Allah will chastise them through you and humble them." Repentance 9:14: (3) "Fight against such of those to whom the scriptures were given as believe neither in Allah nor the Last Day ... and do not embrace the true faith." Repentance 9:29: (3) "Whether unarmed or well-equipped, march on and fight for the cause of Allah, with your wealth and your persons." Repentance 9:41: (4) "Make war on the unbelievers and the hypocrites and deal rigorously with them." Repentance 9:73; (4) "Believe in Allah and fight with His apostle." Repentance 9:96.[4]

Islam punishes those offending Allah when the offenders are present (integrated) and can be punished. Separatists in other lands are traditionally ignored.

Black's Gods Demand Separatism

Can the recent shootings of Whites by a Black gunman walking though a railroad car be blamed on Islamic teachings? Are the Florida drive-by shootings a copy of Egypt's war against their surrogate rulers, whom the Koran brands unlawful because they would embrace the infidel? Statistics show that 9 out of 10 interracial attacks are Black on White. Can these attacks be blamed on the teachings of gods? Are these acts basically religious?

What about the massacre of Whites in Hati? Both witch doctors and Catholic priests who accompanied them blessed the Blacks who removed the eyes of captive Whites with cork screws.[5] Neither were Mohammedan.

Kris Hanni, the assassinated S. African Black whose hands were stained with the blood of countless White victims, was a good Catholic. He was given a Catholic funeral and buried in holy ground. His blood acts did not offend the god he obeyed. His "christian" was not the Christian WORD of the Whites. Kris Hani's god was the enemy of the Christian God.

4 The Koran, VPC, POB 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $13/copy

5 Story in Vigilantes of Christendom, Hoskins, VPC , POB 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $18/copy

The two-edged Sword

One must clearly understand, what is unLawful to the WORD of the Christian - is often completely lawful to others. Different peoples have different gods.[6] A problem arises when one integrates different peoples whose gods demand different standards of conduct.

Jew Obeys His God And Massacres Arabs

Dr. Baruch Goldstein, a member of the Israeli Kach party, entered a mosque and shot down 39 Palestinians who were on their knees praying to Allah. The enraged Islamic worshipers beat him to death, but not before Goldstein carefully emptied one magazine, reloaded, and coolly fired off another. Other Jewish soldiers arrived and they too, proceeded to shoot down Arabs. It was a slaughter house.

The newspaper article concluded: "Goldstein was a disciple of the late Rabbi Meir Kahane, who preached violence against Arabs and their expulsion from Israel. Goldstein and his wife Miriam were married in 1982 by Kahane." News & Advance, p 2A, March 5, 1994.

Rabbi Kahane & His Backers

Rabbi Kahane always fascinated me. He was a brash,

---

6 GOD'S LAW: "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hod to the one, and despise the other." Matt. 6:24

gutsy, loudmouth - a Jewish separatist - a Zionist. It is difficult being a Zionist. Their big brothers have tied a money string to them.

Wealthy Jewish merchants financed the Zionist dream of having their own homeland. It was something the merchants could do and turn a profit while doing it. Any place in the world would for the homeland - S. America, Africa, Asia - any place. The Jewish merchants financed the deal and chose Palestine. The British agreed that in exchange for bringing America into WWI that they would give Palestine to the Jews. It was called the Balfore Agreement.

There were two parties to this Jewish Palestine enterprise. The financiers and the colonists. Each had his own agenda. The colonists' agenda was to gain the whole of the old Davidic Kingdom in which to practice their separatism. Their financiers' agenda was to use the colonist' invasion as a wedge to unsettle the political and trade arrangements in the Near East.

It was here that the two parted ways. Once the Zionists reached the objectives set by their backers, they were put on short money-rations. They were supposed to step aside and let their merchant backers work their end of the deal. This money flow crisis forced the colonists, and their worldwide Zionist supporter, to turn the untenable Holocaust into a religious belief that required continued reparations from Germany and increased subsidies from the United States. Without this income Jewish-occupied Palestine could not survive. Even with this income Jewish Palestine hangs by a thread.

Kahane Center Stage

Things went too far. Meir Kahane formed the Jewish Defense League.. It was radical to the core. It went around setting off bombs and leaving bodies in their wake. People were afraid of them.

Why the mayhem and all the spotlight publicity? The answer was simple. Zionism needed more settlers in Palestine if the invasion was to push beyond its present borders.

There were two ways to get settlers: idealism and fear. The idealistic Jews were already there living on Arab land in armed settlements in the middle of a sea of hostile Muslims. The bulk of the Jews back in America were living the "good life" in peace and security. The blood, bombings, and carnage left by the JDL were certain to generate an anti-semitic backlash among Americans in time.

The ADL-JDL media types were paid to crow "latent anti-semitism." It scares the devil out of the average Jew. Kahane honed the Jewish fear factor to a fine science. It was certain to generate colonists from among American Jewry ready to emigrate to Palestine. The friendly media gave Kahane prominent coverage.

Zionist groups across America gave Kahane a stage from which to speak. He was much sought after. He also wrote a book that many "stay at home types" wished he had not written.[7]

To change reluctant American couch-potato Jews into more proper aggressive separatists, he told them, "So long as one gentile lives opposite one Jew, the possibility of a Holocaust remains." p. 5: To the Jewish merchants who refused

7 Story Of The Jewish Defense League. It's out of print now, purposely I think, but a gem if you can find an old copy. Kahane knew the hidden agendas. He knew the difference between his own Zionists and the establishment backers. He also was a master in manipulating both. He wrote about what he was doing and what he planned to do. It's all there.

to discuss religion or politics because it was bad for business, he threatened: "Silence on any issue is usually a mask for impotence or unwillingness to act." p.14.

He told them, "Precisely because my own feelings about the inevitable fate of the Jew in America were so clear, I wanted to do all in my power to persuade the American Jew to aliyah (in- gather) and have the JDL work for it." p. 231. What was he talking about?

Let It All Hang Out

Kahane's masterpiece was perhaps his speech given at the Central Hotel in Jerusalem, in December 1971. It was given to a standing- room-only crowd of over 600. In this speech the master of manipulation predicted the inevitable destruction of Jews in America:

> "The World Zionist Congress ... (should) place upon the agenda a resolution calling for an emergency conference of American Jewish communities and organizations both to plan a massive, organized propaganda campaign for explaining the threat to the American Jewish future, and to plan for a practical mass aliyah to the Land of Israel ... and bring over the Jews and his property. ..."

That was precisely what his super wealthy banker backers did not want - they had other irons in the fire. Their own people in power in Palestine had been told to wind things down. The did not want to be dragged into a never ending Arab "Holy War" costing unlimited amounts of treasure and lives. They had planned exactly how far they wanted to push the Arabs - but Kahane would not take his foot off the accelerator. Kahane's speech continued;

> "The affluent Jew ... does not generally leave his comfort to live in the difficulties of the Land of Israel unless he is stricken with the plague of Jew-hatred or comes to fear its imminent danger. ..."

"The sole hope of getting mass aliyah (in-gathering to Palestine) lies in emphasizing over and over again the theme of the inevitability of anti-Semitism in the Western world ... It is to cry out that there is no hope for permanent Jewish survival in the affluent United States or other Western lands ..."

Kahane ended by insisting that this argument was the only argument having a chance of success, and at the same time he insisted that a coming American Holocaust was "tragically true" - an event inevitable and on its way to fulfillment. He demanded that the Israeli government "cry out and call for the emergency evacuation of American Jews."

The Zionist Heritage

While Islam's Koran teaches a militant religion, the holy books of Judaism, the Talmud, is no less militant.

When the Zionists first invaded Palestine, they wiped out entire Arab villages, killing men, women and children, and stuffed their bodies down wells. Just as the Koran told Muslims to kill the infidel - the Talmud tells their followers to treat those considered strangers harshly:

(1) Murder of nun-jew is acceptable if he is bound so that he dies of starvation, sunstroke, cold, a lion, mosquitoes, or an arrow (Sanhedrin 77a-77b); (2) Kill the gentile who studies the Torah (Exh. 60); (3) Even the best of the goyim (non-Jews) should be killed. (Sanhedrin 59a, (Abhodah Zarah, (26b); (4) Extermination of Christians is a necessary sacrifice. Zohar (11,54a); (5) A jew is innocent of murder if he intended to kill a Christian. Makkoth 7b; (6) "The Akum who are not enemies of ours must not be killed directly, never the less, they must not be saved from danger of death. For example, if you see one of them fall into the sea, do not pull him out unless he promises to give you money (Pranaitis, p. &5) (IOD, p. 63)

The leader of the JDL, Meir Kahane, was an Orthodox rabbi. He spoke the will of his god. Eager frontline Zionist separatists believed him and closed ranks behind him.

The Jewish Unforgivable Sin

Kahane was looked upon by his backers as a loose cannon who might upset their time schedules. Kahane refused to roll-over. He went to Palestine and organized his followers in the Kach Party - a party of Kahane militants.

It was radical! It wanted no negotiation. They wanted absolute and unconditional supremacy! "Israel Over All!" Anyone who stood in the way was someone to be smashed! Kach promised unending war if need be in exchange for a permanent place in the sun. Supporters flocked to him. In the chaos of Jewish politics, the Kach threatened to become the balance of power and rule the country.

This would not do. When Kahane returned to honor a speaking engagement in NY - he was shot. The accused gunman said that the Jews themselves did it. The jury believed him.

The King is dead

Kahane is dead, but the Jewish separatism - Zionism - lives on in his followers. The mother of Dr. Goldstein, the slayer of so many Arabs, when questioned about the death of her son commented;

> "I always thought to myself, when would someone get up and do such a thing?' and in the end, my son did it,' ...

> "This is the man who loved the people of Israel more than he loved himself. Look at what responsibility he took on himself! For generations!'"[8]

These are the words of a warrior's mother. While she spoke, thousands of other Zionists paraded, supporting Goldstein's act. To them, the deaths of 39 Arabs was just a price to be paid. True separatists can be difficult.

Meir Kahane was an orthodox rabbi. His followers believe he spoke for the Jewish god.

Christian Separatists

Michael F. Griffin, 32, shot abortionist doctor David Gunn. Griffin said that if one baby was saved it was worth his life. He said he was obeying the Law of his God. Griffin had read many of the statement of the Church Fathers on abortion:

> "Where there is murder before birth, you do not even let a harlot remain only a harlot, but you make her a murderess as well." John Chrysostrom (345-407); "Sometimes their sadistic licentiousness goes so far ... they find one means or another to destroy the unborn and flush it from the mother's womb." - Austine of Hippo (354-430); "We acknowledge, therefore, that life begins with conception, because we contend that the soul begins at conception. Life Begins when the soul begins." Tertullian (c 223); "the woman who purposely destroys her unborn child is guilty of murder. The hair-splitting difference between formed and unformed makes no difference to us." Basil the Great (379); "Those who use abortifacients commit homicide." Clement of Alexandria (223); "(Christians) marry, as do all others; they beget children, but they do not cast away fetuses." Pagan letter describing 2nd Century Christians; "Women who were reputed to be believers began to take drugs ... to expel what was conceived, since they did not want to have a child. See then what great impiety that lawless one (Callistus, the Emperor) has fallen, by teaching both adultery and murder at the same time." Hippolytus of Rome (170-236); "You shall not slay the child by abortions." The Didache (1st Cent) Pro-Life Action News May-June 1993, Box 75368, St. Paul MN 55175-0368.

8 News & Daily Advance, March 4, 1994, p. 2

The WORD teaches:

> "If the people of the land hide their eyes, and wink at that man when he giveth his children unto Molech, and kill him not. Then I will set my face against that man, and against his family, and will cut him off (kill him)." Lev 19:4- 5

The accompanying margin note in the Geneva Bible by John Calvin & John Knox & others follows: "Though the people be negligent to doe their dutey, and defend God's right, yet he will not suffer wickedness to goe unpunished."

Larry Flynt, publisher of the pornographic Hustler was shot. Joseph Paul Franklin was accused of the shooting. It was never proven. Many insisted that Flynt had disobeyed God's Law by printing a magazine said to be a "false witness" which encouraged Christians to do unLawful things - things that would cause God to destroy his people.

> "If a false witness rise up ... Then shall ye do unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother." Deu 19:16-19

Who is Lawful - Who Isn't

Different nations have their own gods. Different gods have their own laws. Muslims have theirs, Jews have theirs, and Christians have theirs. The god of each nation insists that he will destroy those of their own people who are not obedient.

This can result in an untenable situation. If a man obeys his own God - the servants of the other gods may kill him. If he obeys alien gods - the servants of his own God may kill him.

Was the Muslim teacher obeying his god when he taught his people to kill whites? Were Haitian "Christian" blacks and Catholic priests obeying god when the blessed those who killed whites? Was the Jewish mass murderer obeying his god when he shot Arab worshipers? Were Christians obeying God when they punished abortionists and pornographers? They thought they were. All of them thought they were.

Separatism - Today's Imperium

Recently there have been riots in several prisons across America. Black Nationalists and Black Muslims have allied themselves with Whites in the prisons to fight for separation from each other. Read that again.

To confirm this I made several calls. One was to the Nation of Islam in Boston. My caller knew who I was and what my beliefs were. I knew his. He was politely outspoken. I tried to be, too. He inferred that he didn't want Whites telling Blacks what to do. I told him I didn't think that Blacks should tell Whites what to do. He said that his people despised Blacks who practiced racial interbreeding. We both ageed that we didn't want the races integrated and provoked into killing each other. We ageed that separation was what is needed. We agreed to try to stay apart. We agreed that our enemy was the integrationist - the one who would force us to diobey the laws of our individaul gods and thereby force us into conflict by forcing us together where either one god or the other would reign supreme.[9]

Conclusion

Pay attention, establishment! You have mixed the peoples of the world to cause their gods to fight each other You have forced them to borrow from your banks to buy weapons to kill strangers and kinsmen from whom we want nothing. You have stepped over our bodies too many times - all for a dollar. We know!

The stranger's god and our God the WORD look at each other and agree on one thing ONLY - be separate! If you are the obstacle to this separation - this peaceful separation - YOU will be placed in the docket. The jury that judges will judge you - not according to your statutes which you dignify by calling them "laws" - but, you will be judged by the Laws of the gods you have offended.

LETTERS

MIDEAST & S. AFRICA: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: If the Israeli state pulls back from the Goolan Heights, the West Bank, and the Gaza Strip - where will they put the people who will be removed? There is no room any place else in Palestine." G.Z. - California

RKH: Reason it out. Those backing the Zionist settlers

9 I personall believe that one proud Black is worth more than an 18 wheeler full of whitetrash. This Black was a prickly flower! A White "Waco Bill" shames his people.

must have a plan for them. The SA press, mines, and large industry have been in their hands since the Boer War at the turn of the century. Joe Slovo, one of their own, is the SA communist party leader. He directs Mandella snd his Xhosa tribe - the internationaal establishment's surrogate army - armed and paid by them. They are his "cannon-fodder."

For years the Israeli state has dominated the SA Defense Force (the SA army) by providing instructors, training, equipment, and exchanging information. The result; the SADF and its generals are loyal to their paychecks provided by the anti-white DeKlerk. In the midst of a black-black, black-white ongoing civil war, the SA Jewish-convert population, their banks, media, mines, and manufacturing have been off-limits to attack by all sides. Why?

THE APPARENT PLAN: (1) End the conflict against the Arabs in the Mideast. Make concessions to bring peace to Palestine, even if Jewish settlers are sacrificed (this is what the Jewish settlers object to), (2) Use Mandella's black Xhosa surrogates, directed by Joe Slovo - to disarm, disfranchise, and expropiate S. Africa's whites as was done in Rhodesia. Then, (3) they may direct the surplus Jewish immigrants away from tiny overcrowded Palestine - to spacious homes in the new Israeli colony of South Africa. Vacant farms, mines and forest products will await new owners - the greatest single store of wealth in the world and, after Russia, the world's greatest economic coup.

As a bonus - a bountiful supply of cheap black labor is available needing only a touch of the whip to learn their place. This last is what the Nation of Islam objects to. They had been told that S. Africa was to be turned over to Blacks.

In America, Blacks were told that the newly-conquered American South was to be given to them to rule. In 1865, the Black Republicans put them in power and garrisoned armies in the South to keep them there. To survive, Whites began to desert their farms wholesale and migrate to the west. The Blacks then learned that the millions of acres of deserted prime plantation land scooped into the maw of giant NY land companies was to be offered to the refugees of the European 1848 communist revolt. This would be the end of Black rule. In anger, they turned on their NY banker allies. The S. African story is a reply of this plan. The Reconstruction story is in Vigilantes.

This explains the otherwise inexplicable burning and starving of the captured South by Sherman and Sheridan. They were cleansing the land to receive new occupants due to arrive after the war.

This explains today's worldwide media campaign against SA, the Mandella's and Tutu's peace prize, a stranger as US ambassador to SA, and the two new airfields being built by US surrogates 15 minutes flight-time from White SA population centers, and the never-ending surrender initiatives being made by the "SA Generals," lately of the SA Defense Force.

When one realizes that the whole thing is "just business," and that it has been done before, one can see that even relatively little could unsettle time tables and have far-reaching consequences for S. Africa.

Of course, this is just game planning. The displaced Jewish population may be better utilized in America.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 236

DHARMA-CHRISTIAN

"Tolerance"

GATT

History may say that the most important event of the 20th century is the meeting of one hundred and nine nations to sign the "Uruguay GATT Accords." GATT allows the world banker to take raw materials from the cheapest commodity market, to the cheapest labor market for manufacture, to the highest priced market to be sold. In a short time the standard of living world wide will be the same.

The GATT Accord is a 26,000 page document that no one has read in its entirety and that no one understands. However, it will be a binding contract - backed by whatever force is needed to make it work. This document requires signing nations to surrender their sovereignty to the governing group that will enforce the regulation of nations in the guise of regulating international trade.

This is another way of saying that all barriers to usury are now removed. This has been an age-old dream of the international traders.

Trade today usually involves borrowing. This triggers GODS LAW: "The borrower is slave to the lender." Prov. 22:7. Today's trading companies usually insert usury clauses into all their contracts - an act that invariably and inexorably takes ALL a nation's possessions. It is for this reason usury is forbidden to Christians.[1] The merchants of the ancient international silk trade have now at long last subdued their last adversary. The entire world will shortly be theirs.

U.S. To Guarantee Loans

To make GATT economically workable, those governing the United States have been instructed to make the US guarantor[2] for the multi-billion dollar debts of countries like Mexico.[3]

Following the formalities of the GATT signing, on January 1, 1995, GATT will then change its name to the "World Trade Organization." It is GATT today - WTO tomorrow. The

1 GOD'S LAW: (1) Hath given forth upon usury, and hath taken increase ... he shall surely die." Ezek 18:13 (2) "Unto a stranger thou mayest lend upon usury; but unto thy brother thou shalt not lend upon usury." Deu 23:20

2 GOD'S LAW: "Be not thou one of them that ... are sureties for debts." Prov. 22:26

3 GOD'S LAW: (1) "Thou shall make no covenant with them ... For they will turn away thy son from following me, that they may serve other gods." Deut 7:2,4, (2) "If thou hast stricken thy hand with a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien), thou are snared." Pr 6:1

World Trade Organization is the New World Order that everyone has been talking about. It will arrive organizationally complete on January 1, 1995, like it or not.

GATT's "free-trade" regulation is accepted as normal by people conditioned by the media. They think that GATT means "jobs," "security," and the good things of life. In reality, it is the last stone placed in today's one world "Tower of Babel." The first stone was laid in 224 BC. This first stone was "world conquest" planned by Asoka the Great. His carefully honed weapon - "Dharma!"[4]

Storming A Sheepfold

Wolves may storm a sheepfold, slaughter the flock, and eat their fill. But, this involves open war between wolves and sheep. In such a confrontation there is always the possibility that a desperate flock may unite and fight back, inflicting injury on the attacking wolves. This happened to the Huns at the Catalonian Fields, to the Arabs at Tours, and to the Turks at Vienna. Wolf losses in each of these frontal assaults were grievous.

The Side Door Approach

It is easier to persuade the sheep themselves to manage their own slaughter; to open the sheepfold gate, let the wolves enter, and provide members of their own flock to stand guard while the wolves shear and eat the sheep - a packing plant operation. The method is involved, time consuming, but it is safe - and it kills more sheep in the long run. This is how it is done.

4 Asoka was the "St. Paul" of Hinduism. He planned world conquest using his new weapon: "The Edicts of Asoka ... combine the instrumentalities of power with those of education and meditation, and they transform law by love, reason, and tolerance." The Edicts Of Asoka, N. A. Nikam & Richard McKeon, Univ Chicago Press, Chicago, 60637, c 1959 p.viii. See HR #232.

Bribing The Watchman

The Shepherd (God), issues orders to the watchmen (priests) who stand guard at the gates to the sheepfold, admitting those the Shepherd wants admitted and turning away intruders. The Shepherd's orders (God's Law) clearly state who is and who is not to be admitted. A wolf, to enter a sheepfold, must first bribe the watchman to open the gate. Purchasing his services is less expensive than equipping a military operation to break down the gate. The question is: how does the wolf make God's watchman - a priest sworn to uphold the Shepherd's Law - how does he persuade him to betray his Master the Shepherd? The answer is that it is a "non-violent" operation done under the sign of the "Lotus," and that it is an ancient technique that almost always works.

The Lotus And the Serpent

Two Hindu-Buddhist symbols are the "Lotus" and the "Serpent." Hindus say that the Lotus is the symbol of beauty and truth. The Serpent - the symbol of wisdom. Critics protest that the Lotus is "what they say" and the Serpent is "what you get." All Christians know that it was the Serpent who gave Eve the apple. Too few have read further.

The LOTUS: Hindus say that in spite of having 40,000,000 gods, they basically have just one god. His name is Brahma - meaning "truth" - and that all the other gods are simply different manifestations of this one -"Brahma;" each of the other gods represents a different aspect of the "one god." Hindu-Buddhists insist that all the world's religions worship this same "one god," but they do it using different names. Therefore, everyone actually worships the Hindu god "Brahma" using other names.

The SERPENT: Hindus recognize many gods - each one permits something the next god may not permit. If the individual worships the right combination of gods - collectively they may allow him to do almost anything he wishes to do.

Millions of Hindus accept "Jesus" as their god while also worshiping Siva - the sex god. Jesus the WORD carefully regulates sex. On the contrary, Siva allows almost anything. A Hindu- christian may honor the WORD of Jesus one moment, and in the next moment honor the teachings of Siva. It makes an interesting combination.[5]

The Hindu "Thuggee" cult followed Brahma and Siva his creation. At the same time they also worshiped Kali - Siva's wife - goddess of death. Brahma forbids harm to others. Thuggees believed that Kali permitted them to cause the death of travelers of good character before they had the opportunity to do evil. In this way they might be reincarnated in a higher station in life - perhaps as a rich man or even a ruler, instead of possibly an insect. A Thuggee murder was believed to be a righteous act. The murderer was paid for his devotion with money taken from the dead traveler's pocket.

Following the right gods allows a Hindu to do as he likes. Following more than one god is the mark of the Hindu. The Lotus is what he says - the Serpent is what you get.

---

5 GOD'S LAW: "If ye forsake the Lord, and serve strange gods, then he will turn and do you hurt." Joshua 24:20

Dharma

One would think that many different beliefs would cause perpetual war and chaos among Hindus. Such is not the case. In the second century BC, the "St. Paul" of Hinduism, King Asoka, introduced the system of Dharma to calm the land and help him rule. He boasted that with it he had already conquered many kings of the West and in time would conquer the world.

Dharma does not require conversion to Hinduism, it only requires "obedience" to the king, "tolerance" of all other religions, and "non- violence" in word or deed to other religions and races. Once Dharma has been achieved, THEN, Hindu missionaries are sent in to do their work. The bandying about of these words - "obedience," "tolerance," and "non-violence" is proof that Hindu missionaries are active in a land.

Usury was practiced in the temples of Babylon and India. It is a forbidden practice in Christendom.[6] In time, it gathers all property into the hands of the lender. Trade is the best way to induce someone to enter into a usury contract. The Christian religion has long excluded the followers of religions that permit such practices. To gain entry into Western sheepfolds, practitioners disguise themselves or corrupt the Christian priest who stands guard for God The WORD as His watchman.

Corrupting The Watchman

The watchman is usually corrupted by an appeal to his 6 If forbidden - who permits its "tolorance"?

"humanity." Tainted teachings of Jesus are presented to him which explain the necessity for "tolerance," "obedience," and "non-violence." These attributes in themselves are commendable, but the wolf extends their meaning to include himself and his gods.[7] Thus weakened, the priest is vulnerable to offers of tax-exemption, grants, media-access, and advancement. Many accept both Dharma and the bribe.

Those who do then tell their flock that the wolf who is entering the sheepfold is not really a wolf, but "a different kind of sheep," and, that the flock should be "TOLERANT" of different religious beliefs. A flock chosen to be slaughtered must first be made tolerant of those who will slaughter them - otherwise wolves cannot not get close to the sheep. This is basic.

The second part is Ahemsa - "non-violence." Ahemsa helps the bribed king control his people - to keep them calm until the wolf can get them one by one. But, even then, the smell of blood from a slaughtering operation can cause a stampede in a nearby flock - ie. the German flock stampeded as the nearby Russian flock was slaughtered.

ONCE AGAIN: before the wolf can enter a sheepfold to eat sheep, he must neutralize the watchman with bribes and have his endorsement. The watchman's endorsement is the wolf's "safe- conduct pass." It is foolish for a wolf to enter a sheepfold if a watchman has sounded the alarm and rams stand ready to kill the intruder.

---

7 "Tolerance" of other peoples and religions is the first basic Hindu teaching under Dharma: "Obedience" to the king; "Tolerance" of other religions, and suppression of "discriminations within the community." "Hindu Rock Edict VII," "Rock Edict XII." The Edicts of Asoka, N.A. Nikam & Richard McKeon, Univ Chic Press, Chicago 1959

Dharmamatras

To make sure that Dharma was doing its job, King Asoka employed Dharma enforcers called Dharmamatras. They are the enforcement arm of the Hindu priesthood. Those who violate Dharma face Brahma's wrath.

The three functions of Dharmamatras are 1) to teach Dharma, (2) to punish violators, 3) to reward excellence in Dharma.

Unrepentant religious zealots that cause dissension between religions and races are punished. If incorrigible - they are visited by SWAT teams and liquidated. Under the watchful eye of the Dharmamatras the worship of many different gods is accepted in relative peace. Traders trade - lenders lend - and the country is quietly absorbed.

AGAIN: People may object to Hinduism and prefer their own religion. This is their privilege. All that is required is that they practice Dharma - "tolerance" - and not criticize other religions. Dharma is the key the "tolerant Christian" uses to unlock the gate of the Sheepfold to admit the wolf. Christianity plus Dharma-tolerance is an animal unknown to The WORD.

Hindu By Another Name

The Hindu priesthood in foreign nations seldom operates under the "Hindu" name or the many names of its Buddhist offshoot. It usually functions under the name of the local god who is reinterpreted as another manifestation of their own Brahma. Hindu-muslim followers of Islam are called "muslims" - not Hindus. Hindu-christians in America call themselves "Christian." Hindu-Jews are called "Jews." But, it is a case of the Lotus and the Serpent. "By their acts ye shall know them."

Bribing The King

With the priest's endorsement the wolf within the sheepfold can approach the king. The king's protection is needed against malcontents. The bribed king, supported by bribed priests, then uses his police powers to protect the wolf from having his prey taken from him.[8]

(1) To enter the sheepfold and eat sheep, wolves must first have the blessing of the priest-watchman. (2) The blessing of the watchman allows him to buy protection from the king. (3) The king's protection backed by the false priest allows the wolf to safely eat sheep.

Brahmas

The Hindu priesthood (Brahman priesthood) is extremely wealthy. This wealth is based on King Asoka's bequest.[9] Before he died, King Asoka gave the Hindu priesthood one thousand million pieces of gold to advance the missionary work. This wealth has increased many times since then. Some contend that the Brahma priesthood controls most of the wealth of the world through their banks and their hired agents. The Hindu priesthood uses usury banks;[10] Their offshoots and agents have created the "corporation" and the "trust." These techniques remove the ability to trace ownership. The practice of usury and corporate-monopoly in the Christian 8 There is no way that millions of acres of prime Southern land could have been taxed away practically free in violation of GOD's LAW against taxation (Matt 17:25-26), and the Law against selling divided land (Num 26:53, Lev 25:23), except those pretending to be God's watchmen had first been turned from the WORD.

9 Asoka The Great, India's Royal Missionary, by Emil Lengyel, Franklin Watts, NY, 1969, p. 136.

10 The very word "usury" means "To bite like a serpent.

West would be impossible without the connivance of Hindu-Christian priests whose professed religion forbids both.[11]

Reinterpreted Christianity

To neutralize priestly opponents in a targeted nation, Hindu priests thoroughly study the opposing religion. They ask for teachers to come and instruct them. With the knowledge gained, they re-interpret the religion so that the new god may easily and comfortably merge with existing Indian gods. The new god may be called "Jesus." He may retain his teachings of "grace," "salvation," "repentance," and the parables, but, the meanings are changed into Hindu concepts. Jesus becomes a manifestation of Siva. Many Western Hindu-christian priests have learned the following as if it came from the Christian God:

> "What, then, is the Divine Word?"
>
> "It is a power, the omnipresent and omnipotent creative and sustaining spiritual power of the supreme Lord God. Emanating from the Creator in the form of a current or wave of spiritual vibrations of immeasurably powerful intensity, it flows outward without ceasing to permeate and penetrate all worlds and all created things and beings."[12]

---

11 GOD'S LAW: (1) "Unto a stranger thou mayest lend upon usury; but unto thy brother thou shalt not lend upon usury." Deu 23:20 (2) "Woe unto them that join house to house, that lay field to field, till there be no place, and they may be placed alone in the midst of the earth." Isaiah 5:8

12 Yoga & The Bible, by Joseph Leeming, Punjab, India c1963. p.23.

Hindus believe that the Christian WORD is "energy." "Energy" is the supreme being - not the Laws, Statutes, and Judgments.

> "Guru Nanak declares 'the Steward of God becomes God Himself; do not be deceived by his human body.'" p. 40.

In this manner the preacher himself can become a god.

> "The living Masters who now carry on the Father's work are the modern Christs, the elder brothers, and saviors of mankind." p. 54

This teaching allows morally corrupt priests the power to sexually abuse, and steal from their flocks.

> "Inwardly, the Masters are one with the universal Holy Spirit ... They are the Word personified, or in the Biblical phrase, the Word made flesh which dwells among us." p. 56

> RAPTURE: "Nay, only through the Masters do we ... experience true rapture." p. 66

Christianity has no "rapture." This Hindu concept was introduced into Christendom in the early 1700s and is now an intregal part of Judeo-Christianity. This is a cult that has evolved since the 1950s to comply with Jewish religious demands made on "infidels" wishing to use their media.

Hindu-christian converts often know more scripture than Christians. They have been expertly taught by Hindu-priests who re-interpret other religions. This was the reason for Jesus's command:

> (1) "Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying, Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not. But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 10:5. (2) "Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you." Matt 7:6

The corrupted priest will quickly give a dozen reasons why he cannot follow this command of Jesus Christ. To follow it would slam the gates of the sheepfold on the wolf and he would lose the wolf's reward. The result is that the Hindu priest learns about Jesus - and the WORD is quickly reinterpreted to return to destroy the sheep. Establishment-christianity has become - Hindu- christianity. It has been reinterpreted into Brahma. In Brahma - "All gods are one."[13]

> "Billy Graham, in an interview last January with David Frost said:
>
> "Only God working through these men (can govern the world). That is why it is so important for us to have prayer groups and prayer meetings, and join hands together, whether they're Protestants, Catholic or Jews, and pray, because we're praying to the same God." The Protestant Challenge, 600 Woodview Rd., Burlington, Ontario, Canada L7N 3A3, Volume XXII, No 6, Nov-Dec[14]

Christian priests willing to advance this changed version of the Christian WORD, or who merely agree to include the Hindu Dharma-tolerance and tone down the strident demands of the WORD, are the ones who receive prominent media coverage and financial backing. This provides a royal

---

13 "Surveys show that most Protestants ... along with the Pope and liberal Roman Catholics ... maintain that members of other religions, such as Islam and Judaism, all worship the same God Christians worship but call Him by a different name." Christian News, Vol 30, No 20, May 18, 1992, p.1, RR1, Box 309A, New Haven, MO 63068. $20/yr.

14 GOD'S LAW: "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1, and "The WORD was made flesh, and dwelt among us." John 1:14 Christians DO NOT recognize any "god" other than The WORD.

road for scoundrels to rapidly float to the top of theological cess-pools, and all too often, from there straight to prison.

Cooperating "christian" seminaries receive largess; gifts and endowment miraculously appear. They may keep their religion, but embrace Dharma and teach it to their young priests-in- training. Offending "Laws, Statutes, and Judgments" condemning other religions and beliefs are quietly ignored. Dharma's "tolerance," "love,"[15] "non-violence,"[16] and "obedience to the king." Most Christian seminaries now actually have Hindus, or Buddhist or Jewish offshoots teaching on their faculty, teaching future establishment priests to become Hindu-christians. A degree in "theology" today is sufficient cause to arouse a congregation's suspicions.

The Defense

THE WORD protects against every eventuality. It is concise and exact. It is the voice of GOD. It is the only defense against Dharma, and the Dharmamatras.

> "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1 and "The WORD was made flesh, and dwelt among us." John 1:14

==========

15 "Dharma love" is "kissy-kissy," "huggy- huggy," Hindu kind. It is different from GOD'S LAW: "If you love me obey my commandments." John 14:15.

16 God the WORD is NOT non-violent toward those who disobey. He demands capital punishment for murderers, rapists, kidnappers, and the like.

LETTER FROM SOUTH AFRICA

"Dear Mr. Hoskins: March brought increasing violence and death to those opposing communism. The communist ANC rioted in Bophuthatswana and its president asked for help from the South African Defense Force. They arrived, treacherously deposed him, and placed a communist sympathizer in his place. Three of our fine young men went to help Bophuthatswana. They were foully murdered. Looking back, something died in me that day I saw our men lying dead in the dust. They were betrayed by Gen Viljoen and white traitors in the government who placed the reds in control. When we look ahead at the next few weeks, from the human eye it looks impossible that we will survive the wholesale murder of whites. We have done all that is humanly possible and our survival is now in God's hand.

A report came through that England is preparing to evacuate hundreds of thousands who hold British passports, and the Portuguese government also has contingency plans for their citizens. That leaves the rest of us to red slaughter.

After the Bophuthatswan coup, it did not take much to remove the Ciskei leader, but the Zulus proved more difficult, so a state of emergency was called and it was decreed that the Zulus are not allowed to carry arms or even spears. The SADF that was sent in will not protect the Zulus from the ANC armed forces and the Apla gangs dressed in uniforms. Soon, we will know if our army will shoot us when ordered to do so. Millions of newly arrived blacks will vote in the election. This will be another 'one man, one vote, one time' type of election we have learned to expect when blacks take over. The ballots are interesting. They are printed in England and especially treated with all other crosses fading after a few hours, but a cross behind the ANC candidates becoming very clear.

ANC and Apla murderers go free, but not one Zulu or white. One Corrie Lottering has been on a hunger strike for 33 days. He feels that it will be better to die now than wait for the blacks who promised to kill him by degrees after the election.

Radio Pretoria is broadcasting illegally again. Their management felt that to stop before the election will undo all they have tried to achieve. We listen to a person who was in Mozambique when the communists took over there. They had a code word "Operation Sunrise" and masses of blacks revolted to terrorize whites. We have the same thing here. Pray for us." K.J. - S. Africa

LETTERS

PRISONER: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Vigilantes of Christendom continues to make a tremendous impact. It has been instrumental in the salvation of some seemingly unlikely characters - pagan brethren who previously looked on Christianity with utter contempt." B. R. - Florida[17]

USURY AMONG "CHRISTIANS": "Dear Mr. Hoskins: The WORD says that usury is a capital crime. A local church's ministry sells bonds to their own church members - thereby making their Christian brothers receive usury from Christians - violating the Law. The WORD says that this is a crime and a 'false witness.' The false witness gets the same punishment that the victim receives. Question: If the WORD is God, how can Christians violate the WORD and call themselves Christian?" A. M. - Maryland

17 Vigilantes, Hoskins, Virginia Pub. Co., PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $18/copy.

RKH: The WORD allows usury from strangers, but does not permit Christians to charge usury to Christians. To do so, one must follow the teachings of another god allowing this practice. This "other god" cannot be the WORD. Thus, these "so-called christians" worship two gods - one who forbids and one who permits - a paradox. The Hindu religion allows many gods. Those worshiping two gods might better be called "Hindu-christian." God says: "If we sin willfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins." Heb 10:26 AV.

LET CHIPS FALL: "I got Vigilantes of Christendom from the library. When I get the copy I ordered from you I am going to give it to the pastor of my church. It should raise some questions about the brainwashing he got in the seminary. I think its time not to worry about a negative reaction. Let the chips fall where they may. I got so much out of your description of the Laws, Statutes, and Judgments that for the first time in 70 years I understand what it is to be a Christian. I went to Sunday School and Bible Study for the past 40 years and all I got was confusion. The WORD is something to hang my faith on. The preacher says to believe Jesus and follow Jesus. But, without the anchor of the Commandments - there is nothing but confusion. Everyone has a different idea of Jesus unless you look at him in the context of the commandments." G. D. - Washington

---

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 237

ASSASSINS & THUGS

Assassin is the name of a Shiite sect founded by Hasan-i- Sabbah at the end of the eleventh century AD, and remained active in Syria and Persia until destroyed by the Mongols in Persia under Hulagu in the 1200s. That part of the organization located in Syria was destroyed by the Mamluks of Egypt soon after.

Hasan, Shiite founder, spread his peculiar doctrine converting considerable numbers of followers whom he organized into a secret society. In 1090 he seized the strong mountain fortress of Alamut in Persia and settled there as the head of his secret organization. His title was "Old Man of the Mountains," as it is translated from Arabic.

Organization

The Assassins were divided into seven orders:

First - the leader.

Second - three "grand priors" - "emissaries of the faith," who ruled each of three provinces belonging to the group.

Third - the "body of priors" fully initiated into the "secret doctrines." "Secret doctrines" for the insiders - "Islam" for the people. The priors were also missionaries, ostensibly spreading "Islam," but also recruiting.

Fourth - those initiates training to be priors.[1]

Fifth - the "devoted ones," the assassins proper - young men kept uninitiated and in the blindest obedience.

Sixth - novice Assassins, and

Seventh and last - the common people.[2]

"The Assassins" by Marco Polo

Marco Polo passed through the land of the Assassins shortly after their demise, and he heard the following story from the natives of the region:

> "The Old Man. ... caused a certain valley between two mountains to be enclosed, and had turned it into a garden, the largest and most beautiful that ever was seen, filled with every variety of fruit. In it were erected pavilions and palaces the most elegant that can be imagined, all covered with gilding and exquisite painting. And there were runnels too, flowing freely with wine and milk and honey and water; and numbers of ladies and of the most beautiful damsels in the world, who could play on all manner of

1 The "initiated" knew the usefulness of law and custom among the masses, so, the rules of Islam were rigidly enforced. As for the initiated themselves - they believed that positive religion and morality were unproductive. They believed in nothing - an "Illuminati of the Orient." They scoffed at the practices of the faithful, but strictly obeyed their leaders.

2 Assassins, E/B 14th Ed.

instruments, and sang most sweetly, and danced in a manner that was charming to behold. For the Old Man desired to make his people believe that this was actually Paradise. So he had fashioned it after the description that Mahommet gave of his Paradise, to wit, that it should be a beautiful garden running with conduits of wine and milk and honey and water, and full of lovely women for the delectation of all its inmates. And sure enough the Saracens of those parts believed that it was Paradise!

"Now no man was allowed to enter the Garden save those whom he intended to be his Ashishin (assassins). There was a Fortress at the entrance to the Garden, strong enough to resist all the world, and there was no other way to get in. He kept at this Court a number of the youths of the country, from 12 to 20 years of age, such as had a taste for soldiering, and to these he used to tell tales about Paradise, just as Mahommet has been wont to do, and they believed in him just as the Saracens believe in Mahommet. Then he would introduce them into his garden, some four, or six, or ten at a time, having first made them drink a certain potion which cast them into a deep sleep, and then causing them to be lifted and carried in. So when they awoke, they found themselves in the Garden.

Training Assassins

"When therefore they awoke, and found themselves in a place so charming, they deemed that it was Paradise in very truth. And the ladies and damsels dallied with them to their hearts' content, so that they had what young men would have; and with their own good will they never would have quitted the place.

"Now this Prince whom we call the Old One kept his Court in grand and noble style, and made those simple hill-folks about him believe firmly that he was a great Prophet. And when he wanted one of his Ashishin (assassins) to send on any mission, he would cause that potion whereof I spoke to be given to one of the youths in the garden, and then had him carried into his Palace. So when the young man awoke, he found himself in the Castle, and no longer in that Paradise; whereat he was not over well pleased. He was then conducted to the Old Man's presence, and bowing before him with great veneration as believing himself to be in the presence of a true Prophet. The Prince could then ask whence he came, and he would reply that he came from Paradise! and that it was exactly such as Mahommet had described it in the Law. This of course gave the others who stood by, and who had not been admitted, the greatest desire to enter therein.

"So when the Old Man would have any Prince slain, he would say to such a youth: 'Go thou and slay So and So; and when thou returnest my Angels shall bear thee into Paradise. And shouldst thou die, natheless even so will I send my Angels to carry thee back into Paradise.' So he caused them to believe; and thus there was no order of his that they would not affont any peril to execute, for the great desire they had to get back into that Paradise of his. And in this manner the Old One got his people to murder anyone whom he desired to get rid of. Thus, too, the great dread that he inspired in all Princes withal, made them become his tributaries in order that he might abide at peace and amity with them.

The editor of The Travels of Marco Polo give a shortened Chinese rendition of the same Assassin story in a footnote:

"The soldiers of this country are veritable brigands. When they see a lusty youth, they tempt him with the hope of gain, and bring him to such a point that he will be ready to kill his father or his elder brother with his own hand. After he is enlisted, they intoxicate him, and carry him in that state into a secluded retreat, where he is charmed with delicious music and beautiful women. All his desires are satisfied for several days, and then (in sleep) he is transported back to his original position. When he awakes, they ask what he has seen. He is then informed that if he will become an Assassin, he will (again have these delights). And with the text and prayers that they teach him they heat him to such a pitch that whatever commission be given him he will brave death without regret in order to execute it."[3]

Marco Polo goes on:

"I should also tell you that the Old Man had certain others under him, who copied his proceedings and acted exactly in the same manner."[4]

Assassin Murder List

Following are listed some of the more notable assassinations and attempts carried out by the organization.

1092 Nizum-ul-Mulk, formerly the powerful minister of Malik Shah, Seljukian sovereign of Persia, and later his two sons.

1102 Prince of Homsin the chief Mosque of that city.

1113 Maudud, Prince of Mosul in the chief Mosque of Damascus.

1114 Abul Muzafar 'Ali, Wazir of Sanjar Shah, and Chakar Beg, grand-uncle of the latter.

1116 Ahmed Yel, Prince of Maragha at Baghdad, in the presence of Mahommed, Sultan of Persia.

3 The Travels of Marco Polo, fn, p143

4 ibid. 143

1121 Amir Afdal, the powerful Wazir of Egypt at Cairo.

1126 Kasim Aksonkor Prince of Mosul and Aleppo, in the Great Mosque at Mosul.

1127 Moyin-uddin, Wazir of Sanjar Shah of Persia.

1129 Amir billah, Kalif of Egypt.

1131 Taj-ul Muluk Buri, Prince of Damascus.

1134 Shams-ul-Muluk, son of the preceding.

1135-38 Kalif Mostarshid, the Khalif Rashid, and Daud, Seljukian Prince of Azerbaijan.

1149 Raymond, Count of Tripoli.

1191 Kizil Arzlan, Prince of Azerbaijan.

1192 Conrad of Montferrat, titular King of Jerusalem; a murder which King Richard has been accused of instigating.

1217 Oghulmish, Prince of Hamadan.

1271 Attempt to murder Ala'uddin Juwaini, Governor of Baghdad, and historian of the Mongols.

1272 The attempt to murder Prince Edward of England at Acre.

1274 and 1276 There were attempts to murder the great Saladin.

The End Of the Assassins

Marco Polo relates the end of this group:

> "Now it came to pass, in ... 1252, that Alau, Lord of the Tartars of the Levant, heard tell of these great crimes of the Old Man, and resolved to make an end of him. So he took and sent one of his Barons with a great Army to that Castle, and they besieged it for three years, but they could not take it, so strong was it. And indeed if they had had food within, it never would have been taken. The Old Man was put to death with all his men (and the Castle and its Garden of Paradise was leveled to the ground). And since that time he has had no successor; and there was an end to all his villainies."

5 ibid p. 144

Two of the Assassin fortresses refused to surrender - Lembeser and Girdkuh. The first fell after a year and the latter is said to have held out for twenty years and fell sometime around 1270. They still had plenty of food left, but they had worn out all their clothing and were virtually naked. Thus passed the reign of the Assassins after some 170 years.

Assassin Postscript

In spite of what Marco Polo said in regards to the demise of the sect, the editor of the book states in a footnote that the dominion was extinguished, but the sect remained, though "scattered and and obscure."

A missionary of the Ismailis (Assassins) made converts from the Hindu trading classes in Upper Sind. Under the name of Khojas the sect multiplied and spread to Bombay and Zanzibar. Their numbers in the middle 1800s were 50,000 - 60,000. They combined Hindu and Mohammedan practices with Shiite mysticism, but the main characteristic that endures is their attaching divine reverence to the person of their hereditary leader - the Imám (high priest).

When the hereditary Imám resided in Persia, numbers of pilgrims made pilgrimages to see him once in their lifetime,

6 Ibid., p. 145

7 Attaching divine reverence to religious leaders is characteristic of wolf type religions - it is the "stamp of the wolf." Because the leader is divine - he is also infallible.

taking large remittances (Ismail's Pence) to him.[8]

Abul Hassan, the last Imám of admitted lineal descent from the later Sheiks of Alamut, and claiming descent from Imám Ismail and 'Ali Abu Talib, had considerable estates at Mehelati, between Kum and Hamadan, and at one time ruled Kerman. His son and successor, Shah Khalilullah, was killed in a brawl in 1818. The local ruler, fearing Ismailite vengeance, severely punished the offender, and conferred gifts and honors on the young Imám, Agha Khan.

In 1840, the Agha Khan went to Sind, India. In 1866 a schism among the Khojas led to an Indian court case where the Bombay community wanted to convert to respectable Sunnis (the major Islamic Sect). They wanted to exclude Agha Khan and transfer the rights to the property of the community into the charge of the now Orthodox Mohammedans. The judgment was against them and for The Old Man Of The Mountain.[9]

History shows that as late as the 1840s this group was greatly feared in Persia. There must have been some reason for them being feared. As late as 1866 extensive properties belonged to the sect. In the Orient, helpless sects don't have "extensive properties." Lavish gifts were conferred on its leader from fear of retribution. Fear of the group was very much alive in the last century. Perhaps Marco Polo was right - the sect is dead. But, still one hears the wind in the trees.

---

8 Pilgrimage rituals are required by many wolf religions. The early Western Christian Church instituted pilgrimages to Jerusalem and other local shrines at which time the pilgrim was expected to bring substantial offerings.

9 In the Orient, matters involving great wealth are often fixed before they come to trial. Religious leaders world wide tend to view the property of their sect to be their own "personal property." This applies also to the Levitical priesthood of Christendom which ordains its own corrupt members. Ezek 22:23-27, Deut 31: 24-29

And, the Agha Khan still lives today.

Commentary On Assassination

Rulers who possessed large armies used those armies to enforce their will. Certain rulers replaced their armies with the psychological weapon of "Dharma" - the "other kind" of warfare ("Dharma," see HR #236) following the lead of the Indian King Asoka in 224 BC. Dharma warfare removed resistance to change and made the use of large armies redundant. If armies were required to aid the final conquest of "Dharma," they were hired. The added use of assassins fine-tunes conquest by removing strategically placed enemies. It adds the "terror factor" and expedites a conqueror's program. In the Near East, one aspiring to a throne often hired murderers to remove obstacles. The Assassins organization was a murder factory. They produced hundreds of trained killers eager to kill and indifferent to being killed. And, they were backed by virtually unlimited resources.

Assassination on this massive scale was new, different, and almost always successful. The Assassins were a secret weapon - both destabilizing and debilitating - like the discovery of a crusader's body armor by a muslim warrior unaccustomed to such things. Later cases include germ warfare that decimated the North American Indians. The dive bomber, the submarine, and the car bomb were all terror weapons, as are the atom bomb, the sniper, and today's media-assassination. The introduction of a new weapon tends at first to paralyze the victims and induce a dread of those using the weapon.

For more than a generation, no enemy of the Assassins had ever managed to elude them. This sect, the most terrifying ever seen, was founded in 1090 by a man of immense culture, a devotee of poetry, profoundly interested in the latest advances of science.

Members, from novices to the grand master, were ranked according to their level of knowledge, reliability and courage. They underwent intensive courses of indoctrination as well as physical training. Hasin's favorite technique for sowing terror among his enemies was to send members of his sect individually - or more rarely, in small groups of two or three - on assignments to kill some chosen personality. They generally disguised themselves as merchants or aesthetics and moved around in the city where the crime was to be perpetuated, familiarizing themselves with the habits of their victims. Then, once their plan was ready, they struck.

> "Although the preparation was always conducted in the utmost secrecy, the execution had to take place in public, indeed before the largest possible crowd. That was why the preferred site was a mosque, the favorite day Friday, ... murder was not merely a means of disposing of an enemy but was intended primarily as a twofold lesson for the public: first, the punishment of the victim, second, the heroic sacrifice of the executioner, who was called fidai (plural: fida'in, or fedayee), or suicide commando, because he was almost always cut down on the spot. The serenity with which the members of the sect accepted their own death led their contemporaries to believe that they were drugged with hashish, which is why they were called hashashun, ... a word that was distorted into 'Assassin.'[10]

The Assassins, while phenomenally successful in their speciality, often did poorly in conventional warfare and suffered severe defeats. Still, their ability to kill whomever they wished with seeming impunity made them dreaded and spread their evil reputation.

10 The Crusades Through Arab Eyes, Jean-Claude Lattes, Paris 1983, p. 100

> "Drawing lessons from their failures, the sect altered its tactics. (by) call(ing) a temporary halt to all spectacular actions and to return to careful and discreet organization and infiltration."

One of their greatest assassins, "Bahram lived in the greatest secrecy and seclusion, changing his dress and appearance so cleverly that he moved through the cities and strongholds without anyone suspecting his identity.

In 1124, there was a sharp resurgence in the activity of the Assassins. Many in Islam were careful not to criticize openly, because the Assassins began killing those who resisted them. They also supported those who supported them. No one dared to criticize them publicly, neither ruler nor slave. Borsoki himself, the power master of Aleppo and Mosul, suffered the vengeance of the Assassins. Al-Borsoki fell beneath their knives and his murderers were put to death. A few months after the death of al- Borsoki, his son, who had just succeeded him, was in turn killed.

When the Crusaders arrived within the Assassins' sphere of influence, demands were made on them. Their boastful defiance soon turned into polite respect after Count Raymund of Tripoli and Conrad of Montferrat were slain.

The Mongol Hulagu, grandson of Ghengas Khan, stormed Persia and took most of the Syrian branch of the Assassins prisoner including Rukn ad-Din. Rukn ad-Din was treated kindly by Hulagu but he incited revolt among Mongol captives which led to his death and that of 12,000 of his followers.[13]

11 Assassins, E/B 14th Ed., p. 553

12 bid. 103, 104

Some years later the Mameluke sultan of Egypt ravaged the country around Baghdad seeking to root them out. He claimed to have exterminated them.

THUGS

Thuggees were a tightly knit confederacy of assassins who traveled in bands through India. They would gain the confidence of travelers and kill them when the opportunity arose by strangling them with a noose. They then robbed and buried them.

This was done after performing religious rites according to an ancient ritual. The consecration of sugar and the hand-pickax were used in the rituals. Thuggees worshiped Kali, the Hindu goddess of destruction and death, and used fraternal passwords and signs for recognition purposes.

The British infiltrated the organization and began to suppress them in the 1830s. By the turn of the century, the British announced to the world that the Thugs had been completely suppressed and were extinct. Others have their doubts. Few can forget that the Agha Khan still lives, and that Leon Trotsy, Number 3 man in the Soviet Communist government, fled to Mexico where an assassin killed him with a "hand-pickax."

The Indirect Approach

Both the Assassins and the Thuggees began as religious movements without either state or army to protect them. In time, they gained the protection of both, but their real power resided in the victims' fear that somewhere there was someone who would willingly die to take the life of his chosen victim. This fear gave the assassins tremendous power - it generated terror!

13 bid. 102

Westerners are shocked by what appears to be murder and suicide. Other peoples view things differently. The fact is that thousands of young Japanese airmen cheerfully stepped forward and offered their lives as human bombs in Kamikaze attacks on American ships during WWII. In Afghanistan, Muslims crawled beneath Soviet tanks with explosives and died in the explosion. Another son of Islam drove a truck laden with explosives into a marine barracks in Lebanon and killed himself and 240 marines in the explosion.

Who is this Mehmet Ali Agco of the "Gray Wolves" who in 1981 shot and wounded Pope John Paul?

Joe Slovo, communist party leader in SA, calls himself a member of the "Wit Wolves" (White Wolves). Is there a connection between "White Wolves" and the "Gray Wolf" who in 1988 attempted to assassinate the Turkish president Turgut Ozel? Just who are these "Gray Wolves?" Is anyone interested in finding out?

We know that President Lincoln was shot in 1865, Pres. James A. Garfield in 1881, Pres. William McKinley in 1901, Sen. Huey Long, the heir apparent to the White House in 1934, Pres. John F. Kennedy and Robert Kennedy were shot in the '60s. The latter was shot by Sirhan Sirhan. Was this Sirhan Sirhan a Gray Wolf? Is there a connection? - a behind-the-scenes connection?

Lincoln Rockwell, the flamboyant Anti-Semitic speaker, was assassinated. His murderer is said to be living quietly on a farm in Maryland. If this is true, then, it would seem that someone with connections in the government is responsible and would have the answer to a lot of these questions.

Perhaps the most important assassination attempt in this century was the shooting of George Wallace. Wallace himself was a two-bit liberal who ran as a third party conservative. The establishment always selects its own opposition (Democrats oppose Republicans) to prevent facing a genuine opposition. George Wallace was allowed to run to give the appearance of a "free election." He was not expected to win. To the establishment's consternation, George Wallace's 3rd party movement snowballed. It brought together a genuine grassroots organization capable of taking over the country. To stop it - Wallace was shot. The movement collapsed. The establishment was safe.

Most modern states keep hired assassins on their payroll - creatures who will risk or even give their lives if the price is right. America's own CIA organized and directed the dreaded "Phoenix program" in Vietnam. William Colby, former director of the CIA, boasted of the fact that at least sixty thousand Vietnamese had been killed "in cold blood" by his American, Korean, Filipino, Taiwanese and Vietnamese agents.[14] Then there were the government assassins sent out onto the backroads to ambush the Gordon Kahl party. After that, the Ruby Ridge and the Waco massacres. Why the unnecessary killings? Is there a Thuggee- Assassin type organization at work in the West whose object is to instill "terror" as a political tool?

The assassination scenario gives every appearance of becoming worse. The arrival on our shores of many different races and cultures will doubtless bring with them religious zealots to enforce the rules of their gods. No longer will there be just government assassins and Mafia hit men, there will also be Chinese "Tong-assassins," Mexican gang-killers, "Bloods," "Crips," Jamaican killers, Jewish Defense League types, and South American "enforcers" who have yet to receive a name.

14 JFK, by L. Fletcher Prouty.

Conclusion

There are two sides to every coin. The Christian West has borne the brunt of an undeclared war waged against her. FBI reports state that whites are victims in nine out of ten interracial attacks. White casualties are huge and over the world mount by the tens of thousands every month. When the day arrives that Christendom turns to its own God for salvation the following verse from God may cause the persecutors of Christendom to tremble!

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." John 15:13[15]

==========

15 GODS LAW: (1) "If ye love me obey my commandments." John 14:15 (2) "Whosoever shall loose his life for my sake and the gospel's, shall save it." Mk 8:35 (3) "If a man keep my sayings, he shall never see death." Jno 8:51 (4) "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." Revelation 2:10 (5) "The hands of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death." Deu 17:7 (6) "Because thou hast let go out of thy hand a man whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people." I Ki 20:42

LETTERS

RKH: No one knows. Logically, the ultimate usurer is the ultimate Brahman. A Chinese is reputed to be the richest person in the world. India's Hindu priesthood is reputed to be the richest organization in the world. The Catholic Church's banking and politics is reputed to make it the most powerful organization in the world. The high visibility of international Jewry in banking, media, and world communism is said to make it the most powerful. The WORD says that ANYONE who violates the WORD is God's enemy - that includes our own. Could it be that the Brahmans who rule the world come from all sectors - all equally insane with the disease of Dharma?

CORRECTION: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: You make a mistake to believe that blacks can be Mohammedans. Each race has its own god and system of worship. The Blacks' system is voodoo. Any other religion they adopt eventually reverts to a form of voodooism. Blacks proclaim Islam for three reasons. First, as a rallying point to face the White man. Secondly, to disassociate themselves from a sordid and embarrassing history, and, lastly, to hustle their own kind. 'The greatest enemies of wolves are other wolves.' They eradicate competing drug dealers and establish their own. The 'Mr. Clean' image is only skin-deep. The Islamic group in the St. Louis area was recently accused of being involved in heroin and cocaine trafficking and murder. Black ways are always shifting, we can never know them." B. M. - Missouri

---

JDL: "Dear R. K. Hoskins: I just finished reading 'The Story of the Jewish Defense League' by Meir Kahane. On page #326 Kahane outlined a 13 point program. Number #5 being 'Organizing fundamentalist Bible churches into a powerful 'Christians for Zion.' I know first hand that the program is being carried out because my ex-pastor supports the program. Kahane was grossly uneducated in the truths of History, but he certain did know how to cause trouble for other Jews." H. W. - New Jersey

---

MIXED ANCESTRY: "Dear Sir: My grandfather on my father's side was Indian. That would make me according Deu 23:2 not an Israelite. So, if I believe in God and Jesus, where do I fit in on Salvation. Am I lost as a sinner going to hell?" K. J. - Illinois

RKH: No, indeed. This subject has been covered many times in HR. While the scriptures were written for Israel, and other peoples have their own, non-Israel may profit from obeying the Law. "Salvation" comes from the "willingness to obey" the WORD. The thief on the cross had no opportunity to "do good," but he was "willing." In the absence of opportunity - "willing" is sufficient. Non-Israel, wishing to benefit from obedience, may. However, this includes the "separation" required by Deu 23:2. II Enoch (Ethopic) 58:7 states that the souls of non-Israelites will be alive at the great judgment. Elsewhere scripture states that a heaven has been prepared for obedient non-Israel. God is just, and merciful. His solutions cannot be improved upon.

FOUNDING A CHURCH: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: We would like to organize a church here in prison to study Biblical Law. How should we go about it?" B. R. - Florida

RKH: Learn from the wolf. "Wise as a serpent and harmless as a dove." Appear as a lamb. Nothing controversial. No problems. No demands. Many smiles, many "yes sirs," "as you wish, sir." DeKlerk appeared as a sheep before baring his teeth and tearing the flock. You want a place to meet and teach God's Law. This is harmless enough. If the wolf wishes to attend - have a special message prepared for him to hear. A name like the "Presbyterian Fellowship," or "The Sunshine Bible Study Group." A ram by any other name is still a ram. A ram who learns from the wolf is exceptional. A ram who knows what God requires of him, has the appearance of a lamb, and who has learned from the wolf - is invincible. Christendom needs victories not martyrs. The indirect approach. Learn from our enemies.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 238

ASOKA To JESUS

Asoka - Father Of Dharma

King Asoka of India (d. 232 BC) was the St. Paul of Buddhism. He codified Buddhism and erected 10,000 great monuments carved with his edicts all over India. He also fashioned the invincible Hindu weapon of conquest - "Dharma!"

Asoka was the grandson of Chandragupta, the Indian king who successfully negotiated the purchase for 5000 elephants of the entire Indian empire that Alexander had conquered. Chandragupta's grandson, Asoka, ruled this extensive Indian kingdom. Asoka's vast empire adjoined another vast kingdom that had been handed down to successors that Alexander had appointed - that of the Greek-Syrians. Asoka inscribed on the Indian monuments his boast that he had conquered the mighty Greeks also. He had conquered them without armies.

He had conquered them with "Dharma."

Rulers Need Their Subjects Dharmatized

The great problem of conquerors is the extreme reluctance of the people they have conquered to accept other alien subjects of the conqueror. Attempts by the king to integrate them into one easily ruled homogeneous mass are often met with fierce resistance. Unruly and rebellious empires whose peoples refuse to accept each other's money, goods, services, and trade - produce poor tax- collections.

Alexander's Indian Conquests

Alexander's army stormed over the mountains into India conquering all before it. Meeting his last opponent Chandragupta, Alexander's army refused to fight. Alexander appointed a Greek governor and went home - taking with him "DHARMA".

The Hindu-Buddhist priesthood of India removed this problem by devising a Hindu ecumenical system called "Dharma."!1 "System"istheword-"bringing-together.""Removing strife" is its purpose. Ecumenism is a religion without a god, unless "ecumenism" itself is a god. All Dharma-ecumenism does is to require everyone to worship his own god and at the same time tolerate other gods. In this way there can be no friction between gods, trade moves effortlessly, and tribute collections are maximized.

N.O.T. Dharma

Hindu-Dharma requires N.O.T:

"N" - "NON-VIOLENCE: Ahemsa - one must be non-violent to all other races and religions in both word and deed.

"O" - "OBEDIENCE:" One must be obedient to the statutes, and provide the needs of one's family, neighbors, workers, and one must be especially obedient to the ruler, which makes all else possible.

"T" - "TOLERANCE:" One is required to be "tolerant." Dharma directs that one may not discriminate because of race, religion, or national origin. Tolerance also means - "not to criticize." One must not criticize other gods or their practices, regardless of how much it offends. Hindus believe there is no reason not to be tolerant since their basic belief is that all gods are the same god, and each seeming difference is only a different manifestation of the existing Hindu gods - Siva and Vishnu - sons of Brahma the universal creator, or Brahman, the unknown world force. Thus, it is illogical to criticize

1 Ecumenism: "A movement seeking to achieve worldwide unity among religions through greater cooperation and improved understanding." American Heritage Dictionary

someone else's god, for to do so is to criticize a different manifestation of your own god.[2]

Dharma-matras - The Enforcers

N.O.T. are not intangible ideals. They are required behavior dictated by Asoka's law. Asoka gave Dharma teeth. A special priesthood was created and funded by the state - Dharma- supervisors, Dharma-matras - the enforcers. The duties of the supervisors are (1) instruction, (2) punishment, (3) distribution of honors and gifts. (Asoka's Edict XV),[3] Dharma was not optional - it was required.

Where properly enforced, Dharma produces one in 10 who is enthused over Dharma, one in ten who is in various stages of revolt, and 7 in 10 who refuse to express a negative opinion against anyone elses race, religion or politics. It makes no difference whether or not a subject is either for or against the ruler - as long as he does not become an active opponent the ruler can retain power indefinately.

India proved that a country which accepts Dharma is an easy country to rule[4]. Hinduism, through its offshoot - Buddhism, quickly spread throughout Indonesia, China, and Japan - and the mid-east. Ecumenical-Dharma worked.

2 Dharma is a form of tolorence (N.O.T.) not approved by the WORD. Dharma requires the "tolerance" of things cursed by God. Dharma priests are Baal priests.

3 Dharma enforcement today is provided by government: (1) "Instruction" is provided by government schools and the media; (2) "Punishment" provided by government "civil rights" departments, ongoing censorship, never-ending "justice" department persecutions, and "anti-defamation" attacks by government and quasi-government organizations, and; (3) "Honors and gifts" are provided by "Nobel" type prizes, awards banquets, scholarship and achievement awards, foundation grants, and media recognition.

4 In India the Hindu priests rule. Government officials are their administrators whose success or failure may have little bearing on the successful rule of the Brahman priesthood.

Greeks Conquered By Dharma

In about 250 BC King Asoka carved on one of his monuments his boast:

> "(King Asoka) considers ... (conquest by Dharma) the most important conquest. He has achieved this moral conquest repeatedly ... even as far away as 600 yojanas (about 3000 miles, where the yona (Greek) king Antiyoka rules, and even beyond Antiyoka in the realms of the four kings named Truamaya, Antikini, Maka, and Alikasudara ..."!5

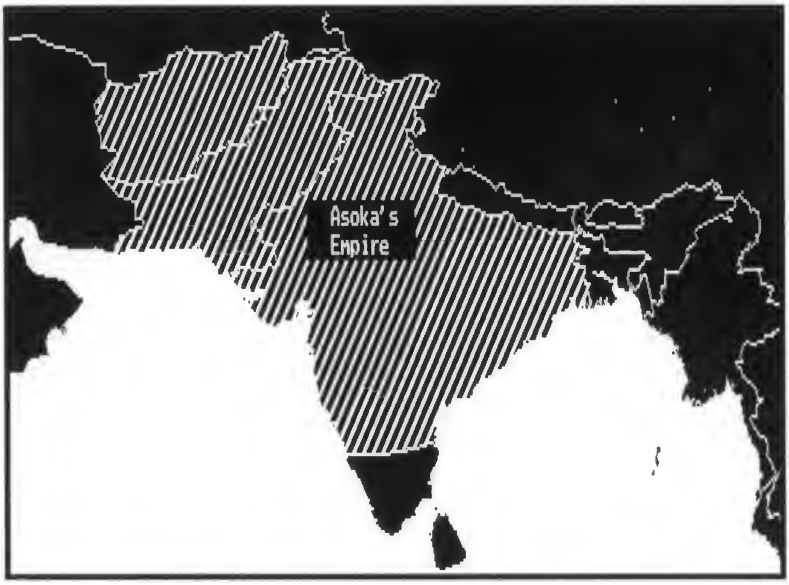
The footnote to the above quote states that the five kings mentioned have been identified as Antiochos II "God of Syria" (261-246 BC), Ptolemy II Philadelphos of Egypt (285-247 BC), Antigonos Gonatas of Macedonia (278-239 BC), Magas of Cyrene (300-258 BC), and Alexander of Epirus (272-258 BC).

"Hellenization" Is Greek Dharma

To tear aside the paper curtain that conceals the past one must carefully examine historical dates and event. By following dates it is often possible to expose a condition that once seen becomes obvious to everyone. Ecumenical-Dharma is such a condition. It is so explosive that it has the potential to cause discontent if widely exposed. Therefore, such things are often "forbidden knowledge." It is the kind of thing that establishment historians "overlook," and are rewarded for so

5 The Edicts of Asoka, N.A. Nikam & Richard McKeon, Univ Chic Press, 1959. p. 29



Asoka's Indian Empire c.250 BC

Asoka inheritated his grandfather's Chandragupta's kingdom. Chandragupta's family had become rulers as result of a plot by Hindu priests. The kingdom grew into an empire with land purchased from the Greeks combined with Asoka's own conquests. Asoka is best known for his bloodless technique of conquest called "Dharma".

doing. If they insist on exposing the situation they may be punished.[6]

The chronological progression we wish to follow starts with Alexander.

- 323 BC: Alexander The Great. Greek conqueror, died age 33. King Chandragupta, Asoka's grandfather, bought his Indian empire for 5000 elephants.
- b.291- d.232 BC. King Asoka the Great.
- c. 250 BC: Asoka boasted that he had conquered the 6 The most widely published historian in the English language, David Irving, is presently being punished, ostracized, and shunned by the establishment media who once doted on him. His crime? He published his discovery that there were no gas chambers at Buchenvaal, no planned extermination of 6 million, no 6 million, and the entire thing is wartime propaganda that has outlived its time. Such a thing is made possible only because of the lack of challenge to today's media monopoly.

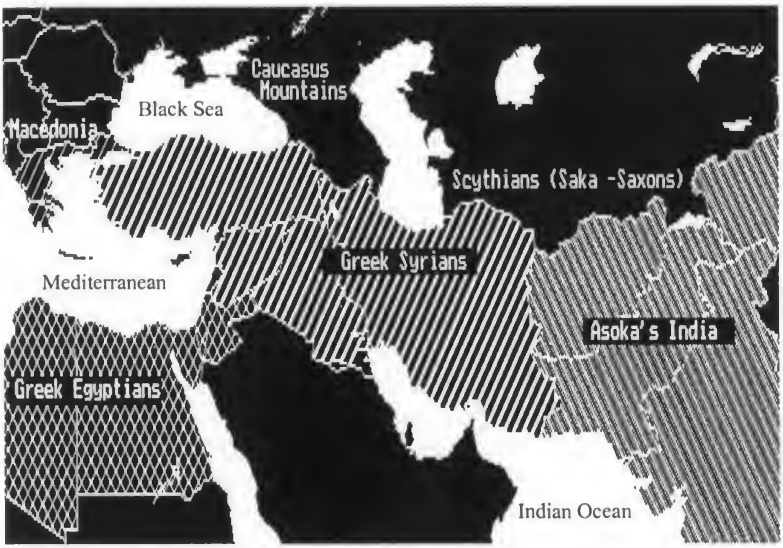
Greeks.

- 261-246 BC: Antiochos II "God of Syria." This is one of the four Greek kings Asoka boasted that he had conquered.[7]
- 223-187 BC: Antiochos III - Suppressed revolts in Media and Persia (220 BC).
- Seleucus IV - son of above. Ruled 187-175. Murdered.



Indian Hinduism Spreads Into Greek World

Revolts by nations conquered by the Greeks resulted in Greek enforcement of "Dharma-Hellenization". "Toleration" of other gods and races was required by Greek edict. The white arrows show Hinduism's spread. The attempt to enforce Hellenization on Judea's Israelites, who recognized only God the WORD, triggered the Maccabean Wars.

---

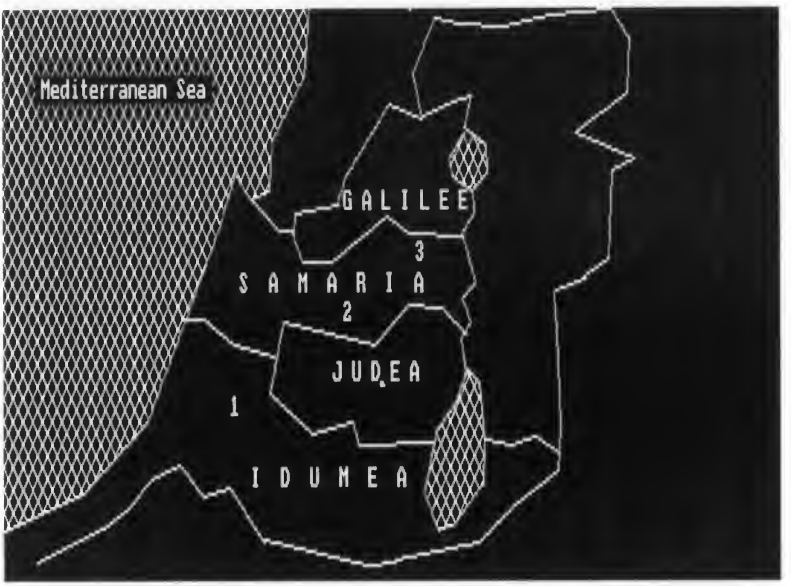
7 Once a king accepts ecumenical-Dharma as state policy to help him rule his people - it becomes STATE POLICY; the accepting king and his subjects are then reluctant to violate "Dharma" by denying a stranger's god, gods, the god's customs (homosexuality and usury are accepted by Indian gods), the god's people, or any other practices - even when the practices are forbidden by the WORD. Greece learned ecumenical-Dharma from India, Palestine and Rome learned from the Greeks. Historians state that "eastern religions" were a major factor in Romes' fall. The fact that "Dharma," as state policy - was the reason Eastern religious practices appeared in the West - is suppressed for obvious reasons.

"Hellenization" Forced On Israel

The Dharmatized Greeks attempted to passify their rebellious conquered subjects with Greek Dharma which they called "Hellenization."

- Antiochas IV - brother of above. Ruled 175-163 BC. In 168 BC declared obedience to the WORD illegal. Mattathias and his sons rose in revolt.

Israelites were stiff-necked, rebellious, and unbending. They preferred to be fried in frying pans rather than accept



Sadducee-Hellenism Spreads Hinduism In Judea

The Israelites returned from Babylonian captivity to rebuild the temple. They complained about Edomites living in Judea (Esau's Descendants mixed with Canaanites). Centuries later King Hyarcanus (134-104 BC) invaded Idumea and: (1) forced the accursed Idumeans to accept the WORD - a violation of the Law. This resulted in two kinds of Jews - Judean-Israelites" from Judea, and "Idumean-Jews" from Idumea who were proclaimed "Jews" by Hyarcanus. 2: Hyarcanus invaded Samaria, peopled with "Arabs" brought in 600 years before to replace Israelites taken into captivity. Palestine was a sandwich affair: Galillee-Israelite, Samaria-Arab, Judean-Israelite, and Esau-Idumean whose influence over the whole land though the Herod kings subverted everything the WORD stood for. By now only Christ himself could save Israel from Phariseeism - the result of Hindu Dharma-Hellenism-Sadduceeism imported to spread "toleration" - the "Hindu toleration" of things cursed by the WORD, which is God.

Indian- Greek gods and eating their pig sacrifices.[8] Israel's God was the WORD. God the WORD ordered his people; "Take the prophets of Baal; let not one of them escape. And they took them ... and slew them." I Ki 18:40. Worse than killing baal priests was the fact that Israelites wouldn't trade with Greeks, God the Word forbade it: "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (Heb: zwur - racial alien) thou art snared." Pr. 6:1, and they slighted the Greeks and those who sided with them; "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me. I Ki 4:21. They continued making disparaging remarks against the Greek king: "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deu 17:15, and hindered his rule all they could.

In spite of the official ecumenical-Dharma proclaimed as law by the Greek king - the Judeans rejected it. This was the problem - if the Israelites of Judea were not broken - others would follow their example and revolt. Chaos would spread in the rest of the Greek empire. Antiochas III came down hard on these rebels. He declared the WORD that was GOD - illegal. His ruthless behavior brought on the Wars of the Maccabees (167-160 BC).

- 166 BC - Mattathias died: He had defied Antiochus IV of Syria which started the Maccabean Revolt in 166 BC.
- 166-160 BC: Judas the Maccabee - 3rd son of Mattathias became leader. Was killed.
- 163-162 BC: The Maccabees won. Antiochas V made peace with the Judeans.

8 See PIG, Hoskins Report, #233, Feb 1, 1994.

- 160-143 BC: Jonathan - youngest son of Mattathias succeeded Judas.
- 143-134 BC: Simon - 2nd son of Mattathias, succeeded Jonathan as leader. Was chosen civil governor and high priest 141 BC. Was murdered.

" Sadducees" - Hebrew Converts to Hellenism

SADDUCEES & PHARISEES: Israelites in Judea who were converted to Greek Dharma-Hellenism were known as "Sadducees." They gave lip service to the WORD that was God, but they also accepted the Greek gods and Greek customs. The Dharma-Hellenist was now called a "Sadducee."

Those Israelites who refused and demanded strict obedience to the WORD were known as "Pharisees."

- 134- 104 BC: John Hyracanus, son of Simon Extended his kingdom to include Samaria, Idumaea, and lands east of Jordan.

Religious Problem - Idumaea & Samaria

John Hyracanus was a military genius. He inherited the conquering tradition of the Maccabees. He conquered Idomea and Samaria, both formerly lands of the Israelites, and now both inhabited by alien peoples cursed by God. In spite of God's warning to Israel to have nothing to do with strangers, Hyracanus wanted to annex these two conquered states and their alien peoples into his own budding empire.

To be obedient to God the WORD required that his only Lawful choice was to (1) withdraw and abandon his conquests, or, (2) remove the alien populations so the lands could be re-settled by Israelites.[9] This choice would provide the powerful Greek-Egyptian Empire in the south, and the powerful Greek-Syrian Empire in the north, an excuse to go to war against him. Or, (3) he could enforce Dharma-toleration on Israel to make his Israelite subjects accept the new tax-paying strangers recently conquered by their king.[10]

Hyracanus the Great became a Sadducee. It was his solution to force tolerance of that which was evil in the sight of God - the integration of Israel with strangers.[11] By edict, Hyracanus required the Idumean wolves be changed into sheep by swearing to obey the WORD and by being circumcised. In an instant he created a new kind of animal - a "wolf-sheep" Israelite. In numbers, Hyracanus Kingdom doubled and trebled almost overnight. It became filled with "instant Judeans." They all took the name "Jew" after the land. But, one people they were not. The rulers who succeeded Hyracanus continued his policies.

- 140-103 BC: Aristobulus I. Son of John. High priest and king of Judea. Was a Sadducee.
- 103-76 BC: Alexander Jannaeus - Brother of above. Assumed title of "priest-king." Continual intrigues, conflicts between Sadducees and Pharisees. He was a Sadducee.
- 76-67 BC: Alexandra - Wife and successor of above. Ruled. Switched her support from Sadducees to Pharisees.
- 67-63 BC: Hyracanus II - Son of above. Appointed by

9 GODS LAW: "The inhabitants of the land ... thou shall drive them out." Ex 23:31

10 GODS LAW: "The stranger that is within thee shall get up above thee very high ... he shall be the head and thou shalt be the tail." Deu 28:43

11 GODS LAW: "There is no hope: no; for I have loved strangers (Heb:"zûwr - racial alien), and after them I will go." Jer 2:25.

his mother as high priest. Was nominal ruler.

- 63-40 BC Aristobulus II, brother to above, actual ruler.
- 40-37 BC: Antigonus was son of Aristobulus II. His niece Mariamne was second wife of Herod the Great.
- 40-4 BC: Herod the Great, King of Judea 37-4BC. Son of Antipater of an Idumean family. Killed his 2nd wife Mariamne. Fled to Rome (40 BC) and there appointed king of Judea. Rebuilt Great Temple at Jerusalem. Supported any form of religious ecumenism that did not reject him because he was a stranger,[12] or the Romans gods since they had appointed him king. It was Herod who killed the Hebrew children. It was he who officiated over the corruption run rampant in Palestine. His soldiers hunted down "followers of the Way" deep into caves in the deserts. There they were given the choice of "Dharma or death." Most chose death and stepped off cliffs or received arrows from Herod's SWAAT Teams rather than live under Herod. Indian Hinduism - called at first "Dharma," then called Hellenism, Saduceeism, and at the last - Pharaceeism - had a strangle hold on the people of Palistine. Israel faced extinction but God remembered:.

"Thus sayeth the Lord, who giveth the sun...and the ordinances of the moon and of the stars ... who divideth the sea ... If those ordinances depart ... then the seed of Israel shall also cease from being a nation before me forever ... If heaven above can be measured, and the foundations of the earth searched out beneath, I will also cast off all the seed of Israel for all they have done, sayeth the Lord." Jer. 31:35-37

12 GODS LAW: "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deu 17:15, "Their nobles shall be of themselves, and their governor shall precede from the midst of them." Jer 30:21

- 1 AD: JESUS - "THE WORD MADE FLESH" was born. He came to save that which was lost - his people Israel. He came to save them from the Dharma of Hinduism.

==========

SOUTH AFRICA NOW by K.J.

Well, the day arrived when our proud nation, the nation that swore that it would never be ruled by strangers - is ruled by strangers - this in direct defiance of God's express command:

> "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deu 17:15
>
> "Their nobles shall be of themselves, and their governor shall preceed from the midst of them." Jer 30:21
>
> "Thou shalt reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over thee." Deu 15:6

White traitors made all the preparations so that Mandella, the newly elected black President, can fill every government office with his cut-throats. They are given such big pay packets that it leaves ordinary whites speechless. They do this and the economy is in tatters. They are changing town names from white to black.

The much vaunted ANC "peace force" ran amuck wherever they were sent. Should these characters be taken into the new SA Defense Force the same problems will continue. This morning the news said that Shell had problems when many of ANC's military wing turned up with their guns and demanded jobs. It does not take long for the first chickens to arrive.

As for my own feelings, I can only look with disgust at the Police and Defense Force. They would surely serve the Devil, too, if he turns up. When the black "peace force" fell flat during the election, they stepped in and showed no mercy tracking down patriots who showed in the least way that they do not like black rule.[13]

About the election. If it was not such a tragedy it would have been a comedy. Most white patriots did not vote. We simply stayed at home. Gen Constand Viljoen received good media coverage. He voted at the headquarters of the army. Just after parliament convened Constand Viljoen turned up to pledge his alliance to the new president, new constitution, new flag and all that goes with it. All the former generals closed ranks with him and did the same - which fulfilled the prophecy you made on page six of the April Hoskins Report.

Most who occupy parliament cabinet posts are all hardened communists. When one sees among those attending the inauguration the names of Hillary Clinton and Al Gore one realizes how firmly the Edomites have grasped the seat of power as they have done in America. We will have to see if Joe Slovo, head of the Communist Party, will press on for a complete marxist state, or will try to do it gradually. It seems that the whites tend to hang on "promises" until they are destroyed.

Word from Pretoria is that millions of blacks were turned back from the big occasion. They had to have tickets to enter 13 RKH: One feels "unease" when passing a steely eyed policeman. One feels the same unease when passing a federal judge, or an FBI or a ATF agent. This is natural. God appointed his people Israel kings and priests to enforce the Law. The authority any other enforcers have is authority first wrenched from God's kings and priests. In this way, little by little, we become serfs on our own land. Sorrowfully I say this - anyone who receives pay, pension, or reward cannot be free from his paymaster. The treason of the S. African generals and Defense Force proves it once again.

Pretoria. This is why so few were seen on the lawn in front of the Union building.

The HNP (far right white political party) quickly convened a main council meeting last Saturday. A meeting with white Conservative Party leaders brought no co-operation. The CP continue to accommodate those who broke away and joined Viljoen. Neither would they say where they stand with Viljoen.[14]

The Telegraph, a British newspaper, published several articles about how the organized Church played a major part in the downfall of the white race in South Africa. It is called "How the Afrikaners at prayer brought Mandella to power." Cute! In the days ahead we will see how these church traitors answer to God

After all these years people are once more turning back to the Bible. Those who have gone to establishment churches because it has been expected of them in order to keep their jobs will soon find that church attendance will no longer help. The church is hand in glove with the enemy. The inauguration of Mandela took place with every type of religion present plus a lot of Witch Doctors to top it off - a proper "new age" affair with Mandela talking about the "rainbow people" of this country.

Radio Pretoria closed down. It was the only way our people could communicate with each other in their own language. The South African Broadcasting Corp TV is for 14 HR believes that the establishment took over DeKlerk's National Party. They also selected the Conservative Party to be its "in house" opposition. This keeps the NP from facing the HNP - the voice of white reason. It's the same in the U.S. "In-house" Democratic and Republican Parties fight "a la Hollywood." A Democratic or Republican loss is never a loss - it is all "Hollywood" Only these two "in-house" parties receive media coverage. It is the same in S. Africa.

blacks and English only. It is alien to us. Commandant Ratte, the local militia leader and on the radio committee, was very much against the closing, realizing how much it will benefit the enemy.

With your last Report in hand, we went there last Saturday. Looking for Ratte, I saw a group of men in army browns - an officer was talking. He allowed those who were against Ratte to go inside. I was told that liberal members of the radio committee wanted to remove Ratte from their radio committee. A speaker said that after a lengthy wait, a license for Radio Pretoria may be issued to allow it to continue as a "cultural station," but that's all. Many people voiced dissatisfaction and wanted Ratte to speak - but he was not allowed.

The motion was made that another committee be elected as the people want the station to continue. The chairman of the committee turned it down. It was very heated. When Ratte arose to speak he was prevented from using the loudspeaker system. Ratte spoke anyway. He said that the Pretoria commando, sponsors of Radio Pretoria who have done everything to keep the station open, are being persecuted for doing so. The little station had become a meeting place and messages were relayed from there all over South Africa.

To complicate matters, an agent of the establishment left a package at the station to be picked up the next day. The next day arrived and so did the police. They walked right over to the package and opened it. It contained explosives. The authorities are using this as an excuse to be heavy handed.

Whelm Ratte said that many of the commando members are jobless and need work. I stood nearly next to him and could see that his own uniform had seen better days. It was worn out. That made me really sad. Here we have a fine young man of intelligence, an excellent soldier, but he is not being used for the good of our people and is now discarded by unscrupulous men. Many of those at the meeting are near the poverty level. Their vehicles are in poor condition and they are poorly clad. It makes me thing of those days just after 1902.

To me it is clear that those who were behind establishing Radio Pretoria had a different reason for doing so than helping our people - it was meant to help the generals. The station equipment is "army issue," although much else was contributed by patriots. The relay stations across the country were built with donations from our people.

It seems that the station was meant to broadcast propaganda to the Boers in favor of the generals. It worked. Radio Pretoria had a tremendous audience. With the election past the station has been shut down. The transfer of South Africa to world communism was accomplished without open revolt. The generals now have no reason to keep it on line and they want it shut down.

The police are persecuting members of the Pretoria commando and are now looking for Ratte. They have also taken several men captive who the police say belong to the AWB. These men are accused of planning to blow up Jan Smuts airport with a five ton bomb. Even I know that this is silly. There is no truck around here big enough to carry such heavy weight.

As far as I can see there are only poor people. Hundreds of poor white families pass by. Affirmative action has turned them out. They have no jobs, no food, no place to live. It seems that the police want to ingratiate themselves with the new regime by persecuting their own people and by putting as many patriots as they can in jail.

Rumor has it that there are plans to send the SADF men to Ruanda. I suppose it is a way to kill off our men as the English killed off the Scots they enlisted into their armies in years gone by.

All western Transvaal districts have been proclaimed "unrest areas" and movements by AWB members severely curtailed.

As much as I detest the thought, if things get worse, we, your kinsmen in distress may have to call on you for help provide food for our destitute children. There is no one else.

RED BECKMAN ATTACKED: "The government grabbed Red Beckman and his wife and removed them from their farm, Friday morning, May 20th about 6:30 AM. His friendly sheriff and SWAT team moved in with assault weapons, grabbed him, removed his wife and belongings and started bulldozing the buildings. Red Beckman and his wife are not in custody; however, they are without a home and are having to pay storage on their own belongings stored by the sheriff. Once again we see the total lack of any justice or due process left in this country. At this time the Beckman's do not have an address or phone number. Will keep you apprised." Copied Faith Baptist Church, June 1, 1994, P.O. Box 188, Houston, MO 65483.

RKH: Red Beckman co-authored the book The Law That Never Was, The book proves that the 16th amendment to the Constitution, the income tax amendment, has never been properly ratified. I have never heard of someone having a tax-dispute in the courts having his house bulldozed.

LETTERS

IRREPRESSIBLE BYRON DE LA BECKWETH: "Attention Professor, Priest, Promotor all: I need copies of Cen- sored Bible Teachings and the Balak Plan to send to some sinners around here.

"I have not found any 'reputable lawyers.' The ones such as Gerre Spence out west whose powers of argument are really needed -are out west. He says that he is loaded up. Even the liberal media calls the two 'free ones' the court gave me - 'inept' - so you know they must be.

"Yep, I had a wee light stroke. A CAT skan says I'm normal - normal for 74! Right now I'm fighting to get bonded out. My Thelma is by herself and she's blind and sick. I ought to be there doing for her.

"By the way, sir, in the future you must address me as 'Mr. President.' That's right. I have been elected Acting President Byron de la Beckwith VI by UNANIMOUS vote to a 6 year term as President of the government of the Confederate States Of America - in exile, from February 22, 1994 to February 22, 2000. Enclosed is official notification from the CSA Department of State - seals and all. The good looking man whose picture is on front is me. I wish I had said the following, so you could quote me: 'A question settled by violence, or in disregard of law, must remain unsettled forever.' - Jefferson Davis, President, Confederate States of America.

"My book, Glory In Conflict is going fast. Only have 400 left out of 2000, $21/copy, Byron de la Beckwith VI, 1510 Albion Way, Signal Mountain, TN 37377. It's bound to be worth at least $1000 as a collector's item one day. Keep your head up - we're winning!" - De La - Tennessee.

RKH: The Beckwith Pardon Petition says it nicely: "After 31 years Mr. Beckwith has been denied a speedy trial, an impartial jury of his peers - by excluding jurors who were not minorities, in violation of the 6th Amendment and the Magna Carta; his retrial without credible new evidence against him was merely a rehashing of 31 year old testimony which was found to be insufficient by two previous juries. It was unfair and a violation of the 6th Amendment; his advanced age, ill-health and the climate of political persecution surrounding his case make a pardon an appropriate and compassionate remedy in the interests of justice."

An excellent write-up of the Beckwith case was done by The Truth At Last, Issue #371, P.O. Box 1211, Marietta, GA 30061, $1/copy. What they have done to this brave Christian gentleman will be remembered. He is another martyr for his people.

BEST BIBLE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: What is the best Bible?" H. C. - Florida

RKH: Each type of Bible has good points. I even like the much meligned ones. Each contains The WORD. For that reason each should be treated with the care that The WORD deserves.When reading at Sunday school, I read from the King James. Others follow in at least 3 other kinds of Bibles. If there is a disagreement in meaning - we jump on it right then. It is a good way to learn.

PRAYER: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I am a great believer in prayer. We are supposed to pray for everyone - and that includes our president!" N.L. - Nebraska

RKH: (1) "I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me." John 17:9; (2) "Because thou has rejected the word of the Lord, he hath also rejected thee." 1 Sam 15:23; (3) "For if we sin willfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins. But a certain fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation ... Of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God." Heb 10:26-29

POWER OF GOLD: "Dear Richard: The establishment has the money and can buy what it likes. How can we compete?" Y. C. - S. Carolina

RKH: I don't know. But I know this: "Neither their silver nor their gold shall be able to deliver them in the day of the Lord's wrath; but the whole land shall be devoured by the fire of his jealousy: for he shall make even a speedy riddance of all them that dwell in the land." Zeph 1:18 To try to save our own who are lost I hand out copies of Censored Scriptures. All conversations today lead to guns. I say that I ran across a Bible verse where God requires men to own guns. They all look with disbelief. I hand them a Censored Scriptures pamphlet and ask them to look at #10. Then, I walk off. They will read all the verses in due time. We must be busy while it is yet day. "Whosoever therefore shall be ashamed of me and my words in this adulterous and sinful generation; of him also shall the Son of Man be ashamed, when he cometh in the glory of his Father." Mk 8:38 There are also "crowns" to be won.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 239

MARCION

Filling the Gap Between Jesus & Constantine

Geneva Bible: James 2:11 note 6 by Knox, Calvin et al: "The Lawmaker ... and the body of the Law cannot be divided." GOD'S KINGDOM BECOMES SATAN'S KINGDOM BY REMOVING THE LAW.

The Background

King Asoka of India boasted that the Greek-Syrians, specifically "King Antiochus, had been conquered by his "Dharma" - "Indian ecumenism that is today known as "Buddhism." King Antiochus imposed these new concepts on the peoples of his empire.

"In those days went there out of Israel wicked men who persuaded many, saying, Let us go and make a covenant with the heathen ... Then certain of the people ... went to the king, who gave them license to do after the ordinances of the heathen:

"Whereupon they ... joined themselves to the heathen, and were sold to do mischief. ... After 2 years ... the king sent his chief collector of tribute unto the cities of Juda, who came unto Jerusalem ... And spake peaceable words unto them, but all was deceit: for when they had given him credence ... And they put therein a sinful nation, wicked men ...

"Whereupon the city was made an habitation of strangers, and became strange to those that were born in her, and her own children left her ...

"King Antiochus wrote to his whole kingdom, that all should be one people, And every one should leave his laws: ... Yea, many also of the Israelites consented to his religion, and sacrificed unto idols, and profaned the sabbath. For the king has sent letters ... that they should follow the strange laws of the land ... To the end they might forget the Law, and change all the ordinances. ... The king ... appointed overseers (surrogates) ... commanding the cities ... to sacrifice, city by city. Then many of the people were gathered unto them, to wit, every one that forsook the law: ... and ... they rent in pieces the books of the law which they found, they burnt them with fire.

"And whosoever was found with any the book of the testament, or if any consented to the law, the king's commandment was, that they should put him to death. ... Howbeit, many in Israel were confirmed in themselves not to eat any unclean thing. Wherefore they chose rather to die .... that they might not profane the holy covenant." I Maccabees 1: 11-63.

Israel's Law forbade Israelites to trade or deal with the Greek Syrians. The Greek Syrians attempted to remove the offending Law and fought the Maccabean wars with the Israelites. Israel won. The powerful empire of Syria was forced to recognize the small country of John Hyrcanus. The condition was that he consider himself subject to Syria and promise to help in Syrian military campaigns. Certain coastal cities annexed by the Jews were also to be relinquished. However, King Hyrcanus quickly re-conquered these cities and also added the land of Idumaea and its cursed peoples to Judean territory.

These conquests were the financial coup of the age. They captured an important section of the ancient spice trade routes that passed from east to west. Hyrcanus received lush tribute payments from the international traders for furnishing protection to this section of the trade route. But, while lucrative, it caused problems with the religiously oriented Jews. Along with the trade routes through Idumaea and the coastal cities came the people who operated these caravans and the counting houses connected with them - the cursed Idumeans.[1] To try and make palatable these annexations to his own Israelite people - Hyrcanus compelled the Idumeans to become circumcised and accept the Jewish faith. He then decreed that his fellow Israelites accept these aliens and treat them as they would their own Israelite people.[2]

The Maccabean struggle was long past and new rivalries had developed. The older Israelite Hellenists who wished to

1 GOD'S LAW: (1) "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (Heb: zwêr - racial alien), thou art snared." Pr. 6:1; (2) "They shall not dwell in thy land; and thou shall drive them out before thee. Ex 23:31; (3) "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." IKi 4:21."

2 GODS LAW: (1) "The stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh (the tabernacle) shall be put to death." Num 18:7; (2) "The stranger that cometh nigh (the tabernacle) shall be put to death." Num 1:51; (3) "Ye shall make no league with the inhabitants of this land." Judges 2:2 (4) "With harlots and adulteresses shall ye be joined, and the daughter of the Gentiles shall ye take to wife purifying them with an unlawful purification." Testament of Levi 4:17.

do away with the Law so that they could trade with the Greeks had been discredited, but their ideas of ecumenical-Dharma[3] - doing away with the Law which prevented trade with the international spice trade and its peoples - were perpetuated in the party of the Sadducees. The orthodox of Maccabean times became the Pharisees of pre- Christian Judaism and the New Testament.

The children of King Hyrcanus had little sympathy with the traditional WORD of God. They came to look with disdain on the rigidly Law abiding Pharisees. The profits from the international spice trade from India that passed through Idumaea caused "these heirs of the Maccabees to become thoroughly Hellenized."[4]

When the Pharisees came into power about 10 years before Jesus they inherited rule over an adulterated religion that incorporated the Israelites[5] whom God had blessed and the Edomites whom God had cursed.[6] Many Pharisees remained honest and upright, but there were also the Edomites of whom Jesus said:

---

3 "Dharma" - the Buddhist technique of controlling divergent populations by legislating "Non-violence" in word or deed toward other races and religions; "Duty" to one's family, elders, village, profession; and "obedience" to one's king. "Dharma" - acceptance and tolerance of different peoples and their gods.

4 The Open Bible, Thomas Nelson, Inc., Nashville, TN, 1975. p. 859

5 Israel - Heb: Yisrâ'êl - "He will rule as God ... also his posterity." Strong's Concordance. Having God's power-of-attorney.

6 (1) "Isaac have I loved but Esau have I hated." Romans 9:13; (2) "Edom is in modern Jewry." Universal Jewish Encyclopedia, 1925 edition, vol 5, p 41. (3) "Esau was a designing and deceitful man, one who hunted after the hearts of men and inveigled them ... And Esau there saw in the land of Seir the daughter of a man of Canaan ... And Esau took her for a wife." Jasher 29:20-23; (4) "John Hyrcanus conquered all of Edom and undertook the forceful conversion of its inhabitants to Judaism. Thenceforth the Edomites became a section of the Jewish people." Ency/Jud Vol 6, 1991 p.378.

"I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan." Rev 2:9; "I will make them of the synagogue of Satan, which say they are Jews, and are not, but do lie; behold, I will make them to come and worship before thy feet, and to know that I have loved thee." Rev 3:9

The reason Jesus Christ came was to save his people from the Hindu-Buddhist "Dharma" that was destroying them. Israel was lost. The reason Israel was lost was that obedience to Dharma had displaced The WORD. The WORD was lost. The WORD that demands that Israel be separate from all others - including the cursed Edomites. Jesus made it quite clear: "I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me." John 17:9

That is - Jesus Christ made it plain to all - plain to all but those who follow the teachings of leaders like Antiochus and King Hyrcanus, and have themselves become Dharmatized (ecumenized). Jesus said:

"I was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel, and to them alone." Matt 15:24

"These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying, Go not unto the way of the Gentiles, and unto any city of the Samaritans enter ye not: But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Math 10:5,6.

When he sent his disciples forth he instructed them:

"As my Father hath sent me even so I send you." (the Father sent Him to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 15:24) John 20:21

"For thou didst separate them from all the people of the world to be thine inheritance." 1 Ki 8:51

The Christian Revolt Spreads

The Scriptures say that Israel was scattered into all the world after being taken into Babylonian and Assyrian captivity 721 years before Christ. To reach these scattered nations Jesus instructed his disciples to go into all the world after them. They did. Some went eastward, some went up the Danube and the Russian Rivers; others went to England[7] and others went to Rome.

Synagogue Abandoned By Christians

Christian missionaries, sent by Jesus, reached their kinsmen in Rome. Their arrival was like a bombshell. They found Rome a moral cesspool. They found Israelites and Edomites worshiping together as they had in Palestine. Their mission was - restore the WORD, and the WORD commands:

> (1) "Now it came to pass, when they had heard the law, that they separated from Israel all the mixed multitudes." Neh 13:3; (2) "For thou didst separate them from all the people of the world to be thine inheritance." 1 Ki 8:51; (3) "Come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord." 2 Cor 6:17; (3) "Separate yourselves from the people of the land, and from the strange wives." Ezra 10:11[8]

Hearing the WORD the faithful separated themselves. It

---

7 "Three great councils of the Roman Catholic Church affirm that Christianity was established in Britain, long before it came to Rome. These councils were the Council of Pisa, AD 1419; the Council of Siena AD 1423; and the Council of Basle AD 1431." Thy Kingdom Come, June 1994, p. 36, 7730 Edmonds Street, Burnaby BC, V3N 1B8, CANADA, 604-524-1170. See also; The Traditions Of Glastonbury, E. Raymond Capt, 1987.

8 GOD'S LAW: (Geneva Bible) "Now when they heard the Law, they separated from Israel all those who were mixed." Neh 13:3; Explanatory note: "That is, all such which had joined in unlawful marriage, and also those with whom God had forbidden them to have societie."

is from this era that Christian-Israel separated from and abandoned the Synagogue - leaving it to the Edomites and their converts.[9]

State Within A State

Always, when Christian revival takes place - changes occur. The WORD demands it. God's people gave their allegiance to the "King of Kings." Obediently, they separated and formed Christian communities which lived according to the WORD. The WORD criticized the emperor's land monopoly and demanded that the land be divided to give each his inheritance. It demanded freedom from taxes and insisted that Israel trade with their own kind. The WORD forbade marrying strangers and demanded divorce from the strangers that had been married - insisting that they give up mixed-breed offspring for adoption. Christians were creating a state within a state. The trade of the international merchant was being impacted.[10]

Roman Reaction

Rome was a business operation. Her rulers worshiped many gods because Rome had many gods. The gods of each conquered nation were added to the existing pantheon of

9 "Strictly speaking, it is incorrect to call an ancient Israelite a Jew, or to call a contemporary Jew an Israelite or Hebrew." 1980 Jewish Almanac p. 1. Identity Crisis. In the 8th century the Pharisee-Edomites abandoned in the synagogues reaped a bonanza with the conversion of almost the entire nation of Mongol Khazars living in S. Russia. These converts now account for more than 90% of world Jewry. It is their value system which is presently attracting notice in Christendom. See War Cycles / Peace Cycles, Va. Pub. Co., PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505

10 For a partial list of Christian teachings Dharma "PC" teachers object to, write for Censored Bible Teachings, P.O. Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $10/100. Free sample. Send SAE.

Roman gods, and state funds were appropriated to build temples for them. Their numbers grew larger and larger. To manage them and keep the peace to ensure free trade, the Roman government enforced ecumenical Dharma copied from Greek Hellenism. The enforced religious toleration caused each god to be treated as a different manifestation of the same one true universal god. The different gods and their peoples tolerated each other - on pain of government displeasure. "Free trade" was the motto.

The separation demanded by The WORD destroyed this tranquility. The WORD proclaimed that it was the one and only true God and ruler of its people.[11] State policy could not allow this. The Christian sector of Rome was becoming a state within a state. It was becoming "off limits" to establishment trade - and establishment rule. Something had to be done.

Reinterpreting Religion

The international traders of the world have dealt with separatists before. The way they handle the problem is to insert the targeted religion with the non-religious teaching of ecumenical tolerance. Tolerance destroys the separatist tendencies. Hindu-Dharma priests join the offending religion, adopt its gods, manner, and traditions, and become its "hoorah section." They are more religious, more devout, and more dedicated than anyone else. In time, their devotion and generous contributions are rewarded and they become priests and even high priests.

In positions of authority they then teach doctrines, or omit doctrines, that offend. The Law is the thing that makes Christianity different from all other religions. Remove the Law and the heart and soul of militant Christianity crumbles.

11 Matt 15:24; Matt 10:5-6; Ezek 3:5; Ps 147:19- 20

The first realization that most targeted religions have that they have been Dharmatized is when they encounter a rush of imported goods, see shops taken over by strangers in every block, see strangers walking the streets around them, and no outcry of protest has been made by their own watchmen priests. "Dharmatized" - the Indian version of the Western "ecumenical movement."

Marcion Discovered

I once did volunteer work for a businessmen's organization whose mission was to distribute Bibles to school children. We spoke to local church congregations asking for contributions to buy the Bibles. Most congregations were enthusiastic.

One day, I visited several Episcopal Churches, all of which gave permission to speak to their parishioners. At day's end I visited one last church where three Episcopal priests were present. They were hostile. I was surprised. They were the first hostile ministers I had ever met. They refused permission but would not give a reason. They asked me questions instead.

One question was why the organization I worked for did not invite Catholics to join. I explained that the organization's rule was that members believe that only the Bible contained the WORD of God. Catholics believe that the Bible AND the Catholic Church - BOTH speak for God. When the Catholic Church speaks - it is the same as if God himself spoke.

The visit was a failure. In an attempt to try to salvage something I mentioned the name "Marcion." Instantly there was silence. The three exchanged glances. Quickly, one of them asked what I knew about "Marcion." I replied that I knew little. I asked them about Marcion - they changed the subject.

I left with a deep seated urge to learn about this Marcion the preachers would not discuss with me.

Note

The important thing about Marcion is his attempt to destroy the power of Christianity by denying the existence of The LAW. The rest of the "bells and whistles" of the Marcion movement are incidental.

Enter Marcion

To destroy the new separatist and militant Christianity and make it docile once again, it was necessary to remove the Law, just as Antiochus tried to do in Palestine. The author of the Roman effort - a sanitized Christianity minus the Law - was Marcion.

Marcion came from Pontus. He was in Rome in the late 130s AD. He knew well the teachings of Jesus Christ and the WORD. His father was the Christian Bishop of Sinope. "Bishop" indicates that Marcion's father was Marcion also, because the church established by Jesus Christ had no such exalted position as "bishop." "Previous orthodox Christians had possessed no monarchial episcopate, no new testament canon, and no creed."[12]

12 "Die Entstehung der Kirche im zweiten Jahrhundert und die Zeit Marcions, Barnikol, 1933.

Episcopal Succession

Hindu trade-religion is of necessity an episcopal priesthood - it rules from the top down. So do its offshoots throughout the world. An episcopal religious hierarchy is absolutely necessary if kings are to rule their people in a tyrannical manner and avoid revolt. Kings appoint their own High Priests, or become High Priest themselves. In Judea, Hyrcanus was both King and High Priest. He ruled his kingdom and spoke for god through his "episcopal" church government, "from the top down," in which he had appointed his own priests to endorse his measures that profaned The WORD.

This type of church government was forever changed by our Savior: "Jesus Christ ... hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." Rev 1:5-6. You and I are appointed "kings and priests." The government God gave us is "from the bottom up" and is called "presbyterian." We admit no ruler except God and His WORD as revealed in the Holy Scripture. Tyrants consider this "rebellion." They favor "episcopal" churches. Those they would oppress favor the "presbyterian" system.

Orthodox Christians in the days following Christ were "presbyterian" in church organization - the Marcion's were "episcopal."[13]

13 Harnach pronounced that Marcion was the founder of the Catholic Church. "Marcion": Harnack. Das Evangelium vom fremden Gott. p. 12, (1st edition 1921, 2nd edition 1924), also his Neue Studien zu Marcion, 1923

Enter Paul

After the crucifixion, there remained hundreds who had personally known Jesus, thousands who had heard him speak and seen his miracles, and tens of thousands who had known those who had known Jesus. Writings about Jesus proliferated.

There was an unknown devout believer of Jesus's teachings named Paul. He wasn't one of the 12, had not known Jesus personally, and had never seen him, but he had spoken to those who had, and he had a personal revelation while on a trip. He had written a series of letters. Marcion took the writings of this unknown and made them famous.

Paul's Letters

Paul's writings did not dwell on the Law. They were not meant to. They assume that the reader already knows the WORD. He proves it when he writes: "Paul, a servant of Jesus Christ, called to be an apostle, separated unto the gospel of God." Rom 1:1. Christians were expected to know that "The WORD was God," and that Jesus Christ was the "WORD made flesh." Paul called himself "a servant of Jesus Christ." The faithful instantly translate this into - a servant of "The WORD made flesh." However, the absence of direct quotes from the Law (except in one minor incidence dealing with divorce) was exactly what Marcion was looking for to build a substitute Christianity.

Marcion's Christianity

Marcion used Paul's letters as his basic literature. He then attached 3/4's of the book of Luke minus the first two chapters - this was the Marcion Canon. There was no Old Testament with traditional Law that judges one's conduct. "The first closed New Testament canon of which we have knowledge was made by Marcion. It consisted of 1 gospel and 10 Pauline Epistles,"[14] vs. 27 now. "The orthodox contended that Christianity was 'as old as creation.' Marcion contended that Christianity started with Christ."[15] "Marcion formed his Bible in declared opposition to the holy scriptures of the Church from which he had separated."[16] Van Soden asserts that Marcion knew nothing of remorse for sin.[17] The "absence of sin" is incidently the age-old hallmark of the Hindu.

The Marcion movement was so successful that orthodox Christians were forced to bring the four gospels together to rebut wild Marcion claims. "The 4-fold gospel was made in Rome between AD 150 and 175."[18] Irenaeus in Adv. Haer. iii. 11 .7 tells us that the Ebionites use Matthew, the Marcionites Luke, the Docetae Mark, and the Valentinians John.[19] This was done to prove to the world that Jesus faithfully followed the Law as did his disciples.

Marcion co-opted the name "Christian." He claimed that "his Christianity" (minus the Law) was the "true Christianity" - in the same way that today's "Judeo-Christians" (minus the Law) claim to be true Christianity.

Marcion Christians were required to believe this Canon - plus Marcion's own book - "The Antithesis" which was

14 Marcion & His Influence, AMS PRESS, NY, E.C. Blackman, BD, 1948, p.23

15 Blackman, p. 36

16 Wescott, pp297f (p.32) (Wescott, "Canon of the New Testament." 1855

17 das Lateinische N. T. in Afrika zur Zeit Cyprians, 1907. Der Lateinische Paulustext bei Marcion und Tertullian. Julicher Festgabe, 1927, pp228-276

18 Blackman, p152

19 Ibid. p. 156

treated as holy scripture by his followers. Since the Law in the Books of the Old Testament was excluded - the "interpretation" was left to Marcion priests - and the priests practiced the ecumenism approved by the Roman authorities.

The lack of LAW produced some interesting results. The Marcions were taught that there was "no law" and therefore no judgment since there was no Law. One could not break the Law and win condemnation because there was no Law. "Judge not, and ye shall not be judged." Luk 6:37 meant to Marcions that the individual could not be judged.

If the state entered the picture - that was something different - and that is what Marcion Christianity was all about; giving God's power to the state. The following quotes, with no Law, gave the Roman state the authority to do anything they wanted to do.

> "Obey in all things your masters ... And whatsoever ye do, do it heartily as to the Lord." Col 3:22,23; "Be subject to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates." Tit 3:1

Statements like those following were unknown to Marcions - they were not in their canon:

> "If ye love me obey my commandments." John 14:15; "We know him, if we keep his commandments." 1 Jno 2:3; "Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man." Eccles. 3:1; "Not everyone shall enter into the kingdom of heaven but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Matt 7:21

Marcion taught that Paul was the only true apostle, to whom Christ committed his gospel. The other "apostles" were false and misled the church. Marcion's enemies were Justin Martyr, Irenaous, Tertullian, Epiphanius, the early teachers of the Christian Church, but, it appeared they were going to be overwhelmed by the Marcion steamroller. There was a period between 160-170 AD when the Marcion Church threatened to win more adherents than the Orthodox Church. Converts were drawn from the heathen, but at expense of the orthodox church.[20] In about the year 200 Tertullian reported that "Marcion's heresy has filled the whole world."[21]

Marcion's teachings had taken a militant separatist religion and opened it to everyone. There were no restrictions - nothing was excluded except those who caused dissent - the orthodox Christians. With no Law, one would think that the Marcion's would go hog wild - and they did in places, but such conduct was the exception rather than the rule. Marcions were known for their passive conduct and attitude.

There was great damage done to orthodox Christianity. Young Christians not founded in the WORD began to fall away from the Law and accept the Marcion interpretation of the story in Acts 10 of Cornelius the Roman centurion - as proof that there was no Law to separate Israel from the world. If the story is judged with the Law, it becomes evident that Cornelius was one of the Israelites who had been scattered in the dispersion. The story of Peter's vision (Acts 10:14) in which animals were let down in a sheet was proof to Marcions that all foods were acceptable.[22]

Roman life style copied many of the corrupt Indian sexual customs. The phallic symbol is the symbol of the Indian god Siva. It is displayed wherever this god is worshiped. Pompeii excavations reveal the same phallic symbol. The hand of India reaches far. The Romans tolerated the gods of India and soon

20 "Ibid, p.13

21 Adv. Marc. V19, p.8

22 Roast skunk with buzzard gravy would have quickly corrected this nonsense.

Roman morals mirrored those of India. They were corrupt in the extreme.

This generated a backlash among many Romans. The Marcions catered to this reaction. In spite of the lack of remorse for sin, the Marcions were considered "good" - and they were when compared with what was going on around them.

Marcion's Trinity

The "Marcion Trinity" consisted of Jesus in the center, Paul at his right hand and Marcion at his left. Marcion acknowledged a world Creator, almost precisely like the "world force" of the Hindu and Greeks, however, this god was distinguished from "the higher God as revealed in Christ. ... The revelation in Christ was intended not merely to supplement or 'fulfill' (The WORD) but to entirely displace it - the one had no connection with the other."[23] There was no Old Testament containing the do's and don'ts of the WORD.[24]

Marcion's Dharma-ecumenical doctrine almost subdued orthodox Christianity. The spirit of The Word was replaced by Ritual. The Parables were taught without The LAW. Murder, rape, and kidnaping were no longer "capital crimes" punishable by death as prescribed by the WORD - they were only acts to be punished, forgiven, or forgotten according to the whims of the state's magistrate. The state once again relaxed and ruled supreme. Marcion's god, which he called

23 Marcion & The New Testament, John Knox, Univ of Chicago Press, Chicago, IL 1942, p.7

24 Geneva Bible: James 2:11 note 6 by Knox, Calvin et al: "A proofe: because the Lawmaker is always one and the self same, and the body of the Law cannot be divided."

"christian," had neutralized The WORD.

Orthodox Christians Counterattack

The enemy to the orthodox church who was almost as great as Marcion was Paul. Paul without the Law was Marcion's prophet. But, as time passed, Christians got to know and like Paul. Controlled by the Law, Paul was thoroughly likable. Paul's teachings began to be used by Christians as illustrations of the Law in action.

In effect, the Orthodox Christians destroyed the effectiveness of Marcion's Christianity by adding Paul's writings to their own writings. The holy scriptures, in addition to the traditional scriptures which are known as the Old Testament, now included among 13 of its 27 writings those ascribed to Paul, and a 14th (Acts) which deals in large part with his career. The real strangeness of the fact does not at first strike us unless we understand the background.

> "Paul was under suspicion in wide sections of the church at the middle of the second century. ...
>
> "The choice here was so clear that it is probably false to call it a choice at all: they (the orthodox Christians) canonized the writings, but they did so by solely adding them to their traditional Scripture, not by substituting them for that Scripture... They undertook to break the force of their authorities by asorbing them into their own canon.
>
> "We have all you have and more. We have the Old Testament and the New."[25]

25 Blackman, p. 38-39

The Last Nail

There was one more reason that caused the demise of Marcionism - it was that Marcion required his converts to be celibate. Marriage was banned, and like Buddhist priests, they were celibate. The Marcion movement had almost died out by the end of the 4th century.[26] They ended the same way the Shaker movement of the last century in America ended - with a handful of members, and for the same reason - lack of recruits. The almost total collapse of the formidable Marcion movement within only a century or so has been given as the reason that the Catholic Church is so adamantly opposed to birth control.

The Christian religion was left stronger than it had been. It retained the Law and it had gained Paul - who was kept safely sandwiched between proponents of the Law - and Marcionism's demise resulted in a resurgence of the Christian revival that once again threatened the very fabric of the Roman Empire.

To fight resurgent Christianity - lions were used. When that failed, the Roman emperor dealt his ace card, one designed to bind the Law forever. "If you can't lick 'em - join em."

Post Script

The last time I visited the Episcopal Church mentioned earlier, the priest gave a fine talk - it was interesting. It delt with "love," the type of "love" that has nothing to do with "If ye love me obey my commandments." John 14:15. I am convinced that to that priest - Marcion lives.

==========

26 Ibid, p. 54

Arab-Turkic Unity

The age old dream of the Arab-Turkic peoples has been unity under a single leader, thereby realizing the incredible power that would result. This was the dream of Attila the Hun, it was the dream of the leader of the Mongols, Kubla Khan, who forsook the invasion of defenseless Europe to annex his kindred people living in Hungary. The latest peace treaty between the Arabs of Jordan and the Khazar-Turks of the Israeli state brings that age-old dream close to reality.

Revolution Among Arab-Turks

ALGERIA's ISLAMIC SEPARATISTS: Two unveiled students, 18 and 19, were shot to death in Algeria enforcing last months vow that women who don't adhere to a strict Islamic dress code will be put to death. Twenty-nine women have been killed in the last two years because for supporting anti-Islamic causes or for associating with Western people. More than 3200 people have been killed since January 1992 when the Western supported Islamic establishment canceled an election in which Islamic-separatists won. The ruling Islamics headquartered in Paris are planning retaliations and have sworn to kill 30 veiled Islamic women for each unveiled woman killed. The anti-separatist group is called Rally for Culture and Democracy. (Story in Chicago Tribune 3-31-94)

TURKISH MUSLIM SEPARATISTS VICTORIES: The recent winning of "mayorships" of the Turkish cities of Ankara, Istanbul, and other top cities by anti-Western "Welfare Party" underlines the continued spread of "Islamic-separatism." The loser was the pro- Western "integration party" of the Prime Minister Tansu Ciller which had campaigned for stronger ties with Europe and further Westernizing of Turkey. Ciller's party was supported by Western interests. (Story in News & Daily Advance, A2 March 30, 1994

ISLAM STRUGGLES: "Gunmen assassinated Egypt's top anti-terrorism officer ... Maj. Gen Raouf Khayrat, the deputy chief of state security in charge of religious terrorist activities, died instantly ... Khayrat was assassinated three weeks after a military court sentenced nine radicals to death for trying to kill Prime Minister Atef Sedki with a bomb. ..." Lynchburg News, A2, 4-10-94

LETTERS

LOWER FEDERAL DEBT: "Dear Richard: I say it is impossible to lower the federal debt in our present system. To lower the federal debt we would have to borrow the money from the banks. This borrowed money, plus the interest on that money, would just put us deeper in debt. Right?" U. E. - Pennsylvania

RKH: Right.

WHY EVIL: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Why does God permit evil? H.F. - Ohio

RKH: "I created man from the invisible and visible ... I appointed him ruler ... to have my wisdom ... I called his name Adam and showed him the two ways ... and I told him 'this is good, and that is bad' that I should learn whether he had love toward me, or hatred, that it be clear which in his race love me." Enoch 30:12-14

BLACK & WHITE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: There is more to this 'black and white' thing than meets the eye. In case you didn't know it, Buddhists consider 'good' to be represented by the color 'black,' and 'bad' by the color white. 'White devil' - really means 'WHITE devil.' Buddhist leaning whites actually worship blacks because of their "holy" color - holy to Hindus." R. D. - Ohio

---

TAXES: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Just finished reading War Cycles / Peace Cycles. You made it plain why there is a shortage of money at times. An old newspaper at Athens, Ill, published the names of about 1200 farms that were being sold for back taxes. My great great grandfather's farm was to be sold for the amount of $3.19. Not three hundred and nineteen, but a lousy $3.19. Almost all were for similar amounts. Some a little more, some for less. This was in the Summer of 1861 if I remember right." G. D. - Washington

RKH: God made us kings and priests. God ordered the land to be divided and never ever sold. He gave each of our fathers a piece of the land for a kingdom to rule as kings enforcing His Law as priests, and to pass it on to their sons. The land is HIS; it is never to be taxed. Taxed land can never be owned. A missed payment discloses the true owner. America has long been faithless. The WORD which is God - is now administering the medicine we need to be healed. In time The WORD will again give us our kingdoms.

RACIAL INTERMARRIAGE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: What is the earliest that racial intermarriage has been a problem?" S.O. - New York

RKH: "Adam and Eve ... went ... and there rested under the shadow of a tree as they were wont. But when there, a multitude of beasts came all round them. It was Satan's doing, in his wickedness; in order to wage war against Adam through marriage." I Adam & Eve 69:9-11

In the very ancient writings races were not recognized. There was only man and beast - it was the one or the other. Preoccupation with the admixtures called "races" are a fairly recent thing.

ADD ONE: "Mr. Hoskins: All I had when I got here was a monkey on my back (drug habit) and a sentence to serve. I can not start to explain the things that are happening in my life. Jesus sure knew what he was doing when he sent me here to prison instead of to death. Thank the Galley Messenger for me. Their books are responsible. By the way, I just figured out the "Wolf and the Sheep. It's John 10." M.S. - New York

---

RE: BYRON DE LA BECKWITH: "Dear Dick: It is interesting that Byron de la Beckwith states 'we're winnin!' THAT is a brave man. After all he has gone through he still keeps the faith! I believe he may be right. Most people are not worth the parings of his nails. Tried three times for the same thing - and call it justice!" N. I. - New York

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 240

CONSTANTINE

The WORD is separatist. God wishes to separate his people from all others. Especially the cloying international integrationist - the Hindu who says that "I am god" because he is one with his universal Brahma. Hinduism is not anti-Christian. It loves Christianity, as it loves all religions. To the Hindu, Christ is another manifestation of Brahma. Brahma draws all to himself - in Brahma all are one.

King Asoka in 250 BC boasted that he had conquered the Greeks with Ecumenical-Dharma. The Greek Hellenism-Dharma attempted to conquer the Israelites. King Hyacanus and King Herod attempted to impose Sadducean-Dharma on the Israelite people. Jesus came to overcome Ecumenical-Dharma and restore The WORD. He sent his disciples into all the world to bring the rest of his people, Israel, back to The WORD. The result was a revolution.

Constanople, Dioceses, and Trade Routes:
Constantine built a city at the choakpoint beteen the Black Sea and the Mediterranean Sea to protect the overland trade from the east, and to protect the trade coming down the Russian Rivers. He then converted the Roman provences into dioces.

In Rome

Rome was no longer a nation of honest independent farmers. It was an Empire. The international merchant had arrived, paid the Roman priests to bless them and allow them to trade, and paid a king to protect them. The king was now an emperor, but still was on the payroll of the international trade cartel. The Roman government was episcopal - rule from the top down.

Jesus, "the WORD made flesh," said that his people were "kings and priests," that they were to obey the WORD. The WORD was the supreme ruler - the "king of kings" - not the Roman emperor. The WORD said that each Israelite was a "king" and a "priest." The name of his people was "Israel." The word in Hebrew means to have God's "power-of-attorney." It was a great responsibility. It was Israel who were to rule. Since each man was equally a king, this meant equal rule, or rule from the bottom up. This type of rule is called "presbyterian." Episcopacy vs. Presbyterianism. It was revolutionary - people had seen nothing remotely like it since the early days of the republic.

The practical aspects of these beliefs came home fast. The Empire taxed its subjects heavily to pay the thousands in the army, the thousands of government officials, foreign aid, and internal improvements. Imperial statutes and decrees made everything "legal." In Palestine, the Scribes and Pharisees, surrogates of far away Caesar, tried to catch Jesus breaking a Roman statute by asking if it were lawful to pay tribute to Caesar. Jesus replied carefully; "Give unto caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's." Knowing only Roman statutes and not the Law of God, they thought this answer meant that Caesar should be obeyed.

Throughout the Roman empire, Caesar's agents found themselves increasingly excluded. People refused to deal with the international merchants or their surrogates. The silk trade through the Near East on which Imperial Rule depended for much of its income was severely impacted. People began to decline to buy the stranger's goods and refused to exercise the "toleration" necessary for trade with strangers.

Rise & Fall of Marcianism

A state within a state was emerging. The international merchant was hurting. His nemesis was, as always, The WORD. In an attempt to suppress it the Roman establishment supported a counterfeit Christianity created by Marcian. This was a religion the state could live with. Its canon was Luke and Paul and it excluded the Law.

Another plus was that it was an episcopacy - Marcian appointed his own bishops - episcopacies are easy to manipulate from the top. This substitute christianity told its followers that there was no sin because there was no Law. It told its followers to "love." Its definition of love was the huggy-huggy kissy-kissy kind vs. "If you love me obey my commandments." It commanded its followers to obey the state's statutes in all things. Only the things condemned by Marcian were considered "sin."

It was anti-separatist. Marcian meetings could be easily identified by the presence of strangers in their congregations. Its meetings accepted those excluded by The WORD. [1]

After an initial surge of popularity, Marcian-christianity began to subside, partly because of its insistence on celibacy. This left the field free to the teaching of orthodox Christians. Christianity swept the empire and affected everything - trade, social transactions, everything. It was during this period that the state executed true Christians by the thousands. Still, The WORD was fast becoming the Law of the land. Caesar was losing control and his wolf-den empire threatened to disintegrate.

Constantine

Flavius Valerius Constantinus, better known as Constantine, was the first Roman emperor to adopt Christianity. Born at Naissus (modern Nis, Serbia) about 280 AD. He was the son of Constantius I, a Roman caesar, and was educated at the Roman court. His father died at York, England in 306 and Constantine was elected caesar in his father's place by his troops.

1 GOD'S LAW: "The stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh (the tabernacle) shall be put to death." No 18:7, (2) "When the tabernacle is to be pitched ... the stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh shall be put to death." Numbers 1:51

He was a fine soldier, and by adroit footwork he managed to become augustus-caesar of Rome, the supreme ruler.

Facts Of Life

All political rulers are surrogates of someone else and Constantine was no exception. Political rulers protect the merchant and his wares. Students do well to remember:

> "In order for a wolf to eat sheep he must first enter the sheepfold. Unless properly introduced by the watchman, the rams will surround a wolf and kill him.
>
> "First, the wolf must bribe the watchman, who then proclaims that the wolf has been magically transformed into a sheep. As a sheep he is entitled to enter into the sheepfold. Once in the sheepfold he hires rams to protect him while he kills and eats sheep."[2]

It makes no difference to the wolf how many strive to obtain the lucrative position of "protector." The wolf can work with one contender as easily as the next. The successful protector is given a generous share of the prey.

Constantine's military adventures cost a great deal and his income for protecting the silk-trade from the east was down drastically. Hostile Persia presented a barrier to the overland trade, and the Christian movement in Egypt adversely modified the Indian trade by sea.

Besides the arrival of the very occasional smuggled goods

---

2 Wolf & The Sheep, Hoskins, Va. Pub. Co., PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505 $7/copy

coming through the provinces of Asia and Palestine, the only route remaining open was the difficult caravan route north of the Caspian Sea whose terminal was the Black Sea. The Black Sea was also the terminal for the trade from the Russian Rivers. This rich, rich trade attracted pirates.

To protect this trade from the pirates infesting the countless Greek Islands, Constantine built a city seaport on the narrow waterway between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean Sea and named it after himself - Constanople.

Christianity - Empire Religion

After the pirates were suppressed, it was time to open the Roman markets. This meant the suppression of The WORD.

Force had been tried. It didn't work. Marcianism had been offered as one of the many religions to choose from. It had failed. The Christians of Rome would follow none other than The WORD. Constantine began to make friendly gestures to the Christian community. "(Constantine) between 323 and 324 ... gradually adopted the Christian God as his protector and on several occasions granted special privileges to individual churches and bishops."[3] This set the stage.

In 324, Constantine embraced "Christianity" still more closely and became openly involved in the affairs of the church. He saw his real opportunity in the Christian dispute over Arianism. In 325, acting as Emperor, he commanded that the leaders of Christianity meet at a great council at Nicea to debate "Arianism." The leaders obeyed, thereby giving Constantine authority over them.

3 Academic Am. Ency: Constantine I

Constantine then proclaimed Christianity to be the official religion of the Roman Empire. This enthused many Christians who thought that the time had come when "God's will be done on earth."

Rome's religions had long been Dharmatized.[4] Besides tolerating other gods, each of temple to each of the Roman gods also contained a stature of the Emperor who was also worshiped as a god. It took very little persuasion for the reigning emperor- god to convince the pagan Roman population that the Christian religion was the true and only religion (while this was in progress he still gave permission for pagan temples to worship him). The emperor had organized the Christian religion and was its head.

Asoka's Rituals - Asoka's Bequest

Statesmen, rulers, or soldiers seldom engage in untested theories and procedures - the rate of failure is too high. They usually copy a program that has a proven record of success. Hinduism, the "merchant's religion," is such a program. It almost always works.

Hinduism is Dharma and more. Dharma requires everyone to love everyone. It embraces all gods - all religions. To the Hindu, the Christian God was a new and welcomed manifestation of Brahma. Hindus gladly worshiped him too. Brahman priests quickly reinterpreted Christianity into a Christian-Hindu philosophy. It melded the flesh of Christianity onto the bones of "dharma" - the result looked like Christianity, talked like Christianity, but - with "dharma" as its basic form - it was the merchants' religion with a new face.

4 DHARMA: Buddhist technique of controlling divergent populations by requiring "non- violence," "obedience," and "tolerance" of all races and creeds, administered by the state by a reward/punishment system.

The great King Asoka of India was Buddhist. Buddhism consisted of the teachings of Buddha melded onto the bones of the Hindus' Dharma. Some of the rituals[5] were as follows:

* processions
* parading relics
* body parts for relics
* incense
* shaven heads
* celibate priests
* pointed hats
* works for merit
* robes
* idols
* rosaries
* integration
* tax exemption
* monasteries & convents
* missionaries
* holy water
* male & female priests
* saints
* auricular confession
* pilgrimages

King Asoka also endowed Buddhism with "Asoka's Bequest. A copy of the bequest follows:

> "This earth enwapped by the ocean in its glorious sapphire garment, this land whereof the face is adorned with many jewels and gems; this soil sustaining all creatures and Mount Madura ... all of this I bequeath to the Assembly of Saints. As a reward for this good deed I ask not for the privilege of dwelling in the palace of either Indra or Brahma, nor do I crave the felicity of kingship, which is fleeting, anyway, and is gone swifter than the running water. The reward I crave for the abiding faith prompting me to convey this gift is self-control, esteemed by saints and exempted from change."[6]

5 The Travels of Marco- Polo, Yule- Cordier Ed., Vol 1, p. 319

Asoka's bequest gave India, its wealth, and its teeming masses to the "saints," or the Brahman priesthood. Asoka also endowed this gift with 1000 million pieces of gold so that it would be everlasting.

Constantine's Rituals & Donation

Some of the rituals of Constantine's new church were as follows:

* processions
* parading relics
* body parts for relics
* incense
* shaven heads
* celibate priests
* pointed hats
* works for merit
* robes
* idols
* rosaries
* integration
* tax exemption
* monasteries & convents
* missionaries
* holy water
* male & female priests
* saints
* auricular confession
* pilgrimages

The traditional Holy Day which had been Saturday was changed by Constantine to Sunday - the same as the Hindu holy day,[7]

To make the Catholic priesthood an everlasting creation, Constantine endowed it the same way Asoka had done. The Encyclopedia Britannica 14th Ed, Vol #7, p.524 states:

6 The Edicts of Asoka, N.A. Nikam & Richard McKeon, Univ Chic Press, 1959, p. 136

7 E/B, 11th Ed., Vol 13, p. 493.

> "Constantine, in gratitude for his conversion by Pope Silvester, to that pope and his successors forever, (gave) not only of spiritual supremacy over the other great patriarchates and over all matters of faith and worship, but also temporal dominion over Rome, Italy and 'the provinces, places and civitates of the western regions.'"[8]

This "Donation Of Constantine" was a deathbed affair because Constantine himself had not accepted the Catholic religion that he had forced on the Roman Empire until he was on his death bed. Pope Silvester accomplished a good day's work by helping Constantine's sinful soul along into purgatory, and the Catholic Church received the entire Roman Empire as payment for praying him out again.

Roman ecumenism, learned from the Greeks, who learned it from India, was now reinstated in a new format - Christian flesh hung on a Hindu-Dharma skeleton. To further the spirit of ecumenism - Buddha himself, Siddharta the son of Suddodhana, was made a saint of the Catholic Church.[9]

Constantine, the father of the Roman Catholic Church, was much like his counterpart King Asoka of India. King Asoka killed 99 of his brothers in his rise to the throne of India. Constantine killed his father-in-law, his eldest son, and his wife.

---

8 From the 10th century on, this document was increasingly employed by popes to support their claims and became a powerful weapon to control temporal powers.

9 "Professor Max Muller ... first pointed out the strange fact - almost incredible, were it not for the completeness of the proof - that Gotama the Buddha, under the name of St. Josaphat, is now officially recognized and honored and worshipped throughout the whole of Catholic Christendom as a Christian saint!" The Travels of Marco-Polo, Yule- Cordier Ed., Vol 2, p. 323-326

"Adding To" [10]

Constantine's new church was called Catholic - which means "universal." It encompassed all the various sects. This church declared that the Holy Scriptures AND the Catholic Church contained The WORD. In time, the death penalty was imposed on laymen who read the scriptures to discover what God commanded. Without the WORD to contradict, the WORD was then whatever the Church said it was. The WORD so eagerly embraced by the Roman Christians was made hateful. This was accomplished in the following manner.

The law against rape states: "The rapist shall surely be put to death." Deut 22:25-26. The Law is not the same for seduction. "If a man find a damsel that is a virgin ... not betrothed ... and lie with her ... then the man shall give 50 shekels of silver, and she shall be his wife." Deut 22:28-29.

Constantine's Law made the ancient Law of the WORD hateful simply by adding to it and mis-applying it. Gibbon's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, The Modern Library, N.Y., Vol 1, p. 375, relates the following story.

> "The successful ravisher was punished with death; ... The virgin's declaration that she had been carried away with her own consent, instead of saving her lover, exposed her to share his fate. The duty of a public prosecution was entrusted to the parents of the guilty or unfortunate maid; and ...if the sentiments of nature prevailed on them to dissemble the injury, and to repair by a subsequent marriage the honour of their family, they were themselves punished by exile and confiscation."

---

10 GOD'S LAW: (1) "Ye shall not add unto the word which I command you, neither shall ye diminish aught from it, that ye may keep the commandments of the Lord your God which I command you." Deut 4:2: (2) "Every word of God is pure ... Add thou not unto his words, lest he reprove thee, and thou be found a liar." Prov 30:5-6.

By calling the above "God's Law," and forbidden to study scripture to confirm the Church's claims for themselves, the people in time turned away from the Law. Trade with strangers again commenced, and the offending WORD - the people's salvation - was once again stripped from them and the people began their descent into the Dark Ages.

The New Rome

As the sole owner of the Roman world, Constantine's Church gave it ecclestical names. The Prefecture of Britain now became the Diocese of Britain. The Prefecture of Gaul became the Diocese of Gaul, then there was Diocese of Spain, D. of Italy, of Africa, of Egypt, etc. Wherever the Roman legionnaire had trod - that land was now claimed by the Catholic church, and that Church ruled Rome through its hired emperors and their legions. The rituals of the church were installed throughout the empire, and the Bishop became the most important officer in the distant provinces.

The Roman emperors were like schoolboys playing "king of the mountain." Whoever struggled to the top was acceptable to the trade-priests, became their "protector," and received an allowance that came from the empire's trade-profits. In time the emperor was replaced by a contender - and the victor in turn was put on the payroll. Emperors came and went - but the church held the title, kept the records, collected the rents, was of god, and continued on without end.

Feudalism

The Roman church introduced "feudalism" into Europe. India's caste system is composed of four basic castes. First - the Priest - the highest caste. Second - the soldier/ruler caste. Third - the farmer/merchants. Fourth - The workers. And those denied a caste - the untouchables and outlaws.

In India, pretenders from the ruler/soldier caste competed for the position of ruler. The victor was accepted and blessed by the priesthood caste as champion of the gods, and protector and servant of the priesthood. He also had a share of the income from the land and the international trade.

The ruler cemented his own followers to himself by grants of provinces, villages, and farms. Each of his nobles held "en fief" to his king conditioned on his loyal support and service in time of war. Each noble in turn granted a few farms to manage to each of his warriors. The system continued and remained intact until the ruling king was overthrown and a new ruler took his place and moved into his palace. Kings, nobles, and soldiers changed on a fairly regular basis, but the workers remained, and the priests who owned the land for the gods were never questioned.

Charles Martel

Charles Martel, the French conqueror of the Arabs at Tours in 732, is credited with instituting the feudal fief, although it had existed long before his time. Charles conquered a local rival. Deposing the rival and his followers, he replaced them with his own. The Enclyclopedia Britannica, 14th Ed, Vol 5, p. 293. states:

> "To attach his leudes Charles had to give them church lands as precariuim ... It was from the precarium, or ecclesiastical benefice, that the feudal fief originated."

The encyclopedia insists on using 50¢ words when 5¢ words will do better. All the above says is that Charles paid his soldiers by letting them have a cut of the rents obtained from farmers who lived on church lands. This arrangement is in direct opposition to the WORD which requires that there be no monopolies[11] and that the land is to be divided and never ever sold.[12]

Charles supported the Catholic Church's mission of St. Boniface to Germany. St. Boniface was appointed Bishop by the Pope in 722. Charles Martel sent word to local Christian zealots not to touch him.

Under Charles protection, Boniface proceeded to talk to many of the German princes. The thrust of their talks was that 1) The Pope owned all the land, the businesses, and everything else on it. 2) If the local prince wanted a cut of the tithes, offerings, and rents, and would like to continue ruling the land, the Pope would appreciate it if the prince would be the protector of Church interests; which meant "riding shotgun" and occasionally twisting the arm of a recalcitrant farmer who refused to pay "protection" or "rent" money.

Princes who did not have a working agreement with the Church got virtually nothing from their stingy unappreciative subjects. To these, the Church offer sounded good. Overnight, entire countries accepted Catholicism. Priests and bishops were installed, the local princes got enough money to live in the style they would like to become accustomed to, the papacy got a larger share, and bishops like Boniface were appointed "arch-bishops." Lands produced an income that they had not

11 GOD'S LAW: "Woe unto them that join house to house, that lay field to field, till there be no place, and they may be placed alone in the midst of the earth." Isaiah 5:8

12 GOD'S LAW: (1) "The land shall be divided for an inheritance ... according to ... their fathers they shall inherit." Num 26:53-55; (2) "The land shall not be sold for ever: for the land is mine; Lev 25:23 done previously. The only people to suffer were the farmers and artisans who now paid between one third and two thirds of their income to God as did their counterparts in India. Almost overnight, freehold farmers, kings living on Biblical homesteads - equal in rights and privileges to greatest kings of the earth - became near slaves.

Constantine had done his work well - his creation, the Catholic Church, spread the feudal system of India throughout the West. The Law that kept Israel free was done away - once again.

LETTER FROM S. AFRICA - By K.J.

Siener van Rensburg's visions were not in consecutive order and many were fulfilled years later, some today and the rest in the last days. No dates were given in the books but I spoke to Rev. Pienaar this morning, he knew Gen de la Rey's daughter as a close friend and Siener told de la Rey the date and time of his death. It must have grieved him greatly as de la Rey was s true friend. "Rev. P" writes letters to leaders like de Klerk reminding them of Siener's visions and deKlerk's crime against his people. When one read his books and Revelations in the Bible together - it all comes together and makes sense.

A lady Daleen Joubert started a home for destitute white children on Rev. Pienaar's farm. The article on this appeared in the South African Patriot. This morning I phoned and old Rev. Pienaar answered. I found him most interesting, a Christian and true patriot. It seems that they are already inundated with children. I did not ask how many but it seems that they have problems housing all. How little do we know about our fellow men who are without work. He has been told that many live in the hills north of Pretoria under plastic. Many others in tents on farms of right-wingers and this winter is the coldest in 30 years. Black frost caused by icy winds killed crops right up to the Limpopo River.

Tomorrow the mother of our enemies, England, has a thanksgiving service in Westminster Abbey celebrating the return of S. Africa to the Commonwealth - about which we are no more pleased than in 1902. Instead of the promised peace, violence is ever increasing as well as strikes. Blacks have job strikes for no reason at all while affirmative action is applied ruthlessly to get rid of whites. We, however, see this and other events now taking place as the run up to the second revolution that will be totally communistic. Countries like New Zealand, Australia, Canada and others are all shopping in S. Africa for highly qualified young people for whose training they did not pay. I realize that it is a relief for these young people to get work but it is still very sad to see them leave their native land.

The 'state of emergency laws' are still in place in Western Transvaal and Kawa Zulu, and not one right-winger went free as was promised before the election. Instead we have Dullah Omar's Truth Commission coming up. Anyone who has ever stood for 'separation' will soon be in the docket.

Richard Goldstone became chief prosecutor for war criminals in Yugoslavia. How much truth will come out of it will be seen. Here he acted on the wildest assumptions without foundation and his Goldstone Commission did not clear up one case. Forty million people died in Russia and not one person is in the docket for their murders. That's where he should be holding his war crimes trials.

The HNP (right wing political party) held a special congress. We will have to see if people from the other political parties join us. Mr. Marias, the HNP leader, is busy with a booklet on Dimitrie Tsofendas who assassinated Dr. H.F. Verwoerd.

The resignation of Finance Derek Keys, one of the two Harry Oppenheimer proposed to Mandela, is getting more involved. The new Minister of finance Chris Liebenberg was the godfather of the entire Reconstruction and Development Program.

A general strike is looming. If it comes about it will be one of the visions of Siener van Rensburg.

I have received information that is quite unbelievable about the depth of treason by men we trusted. Right now it is just word-of- mouth, but I have heard it from different sources.

It seems that our Gen Viljoen had Military Intelligence approach people around the country who held right-wing views. They were told to get prepared and were given lists of people with the same views nearby. The date was set for one month prior to election when they were to take over local government, police stations, etc. These were mostly Farmers Crisis Action (FCA) men. The AWB (right wing militants) would bomb certain places and the Zulus would do their bit in Natal.

When the date of one month before election approached the FCA men were told that the plan would be delayed until one week prior to election. But, as that date approached, the people on the FCA lists found themselves severely harassed by security police to whom Viljoen had passed on their names.

The AWB was the only group to keep its promise and they did start setting off bombs. Viljoen knew the names of the AWB leaders and those were the 40 people taken in one swoop when they were quite legally at a meeting.

The Zulus did not keep their word. Oppenheimer saw to it that a carrot was held out to them. It seems the patriots of the South African Defense Force have been pushed out and those who mobilized when called-up during the election are seen as trustworthy by Mandella's Citizen Force.

Israel is in control of Armacor that used to produce most of the armament that we needed.

This information has been gathered from different people. I have no idea when it will become general knowledge with the court cases that are pending and the Truth Commission which is bringing charges against anyone they choose.

Gen Viljoen has not been forgotten. His treason is not a light matter.

LETTERS

EAT: "Dear Richard: I know that it is forbidden for Christians to eat with strangers (Le 22:16; Lev 22:10-15), but did you know that Japanese will not eat with us? I work in an Alaskan Japanese fish processing plant (almost all Alaskan processing plants are Japanese owned). If we meet our quota we are rewarded by being taken to a local Japanese restaurant for a meal. Eight of us are directed to sit at the central table where we are served. The five Japanese sit on cushions with their backs against the wall and watch. They are served where they sit. They will not eat with whites." H. E. - Alaska

---

OBSERVATION: "Dear Richard: It is worth noting that President Clinton's last 52 appointments consisted of 38 Jews, 3 Hispanics, 8 Negroes, 3 race unknown, and 0 Saxons. This should tell us all we need to know." W. M. - West Virginia

---

BURNING HELL: "Dear Mr. Hoskins; Why is there no mention of a burning hell by today's televangelists?" H. D. - Virginia

RKH:The Hindu religion has no hell - only reincarnation. When one dies he is instantly reborn either in an improved state or a worse state depending on his actions in this life. This is called "karma." Hindus are not permitted to kill. This is the reason for the vegetarian craze and the reluctance of courts to pronounce the death sentence when prescribed by Christian Law. I doubt they will soon learn, "Fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell." Matt 10:28 Media owners allow TELEVANGELISTS to discuss only certain subjects. The topics they permit indicate that the media owners are Hindu.

PRISONER: "Dear Brother Richard: Note my new mailing address. Perhaps now my mail will not meet so many obstacles without having 'Siva the caseworker' and the 'anti-Christ chaplain' fighting over who will censor it first - being it is Christian mail. Please take care and note that only my address changes as I remain always, In service to our Lord." W. C. - Missouri

---

WHO? "Dear Brother Ram: Just who are they, say, the 50 worst enemies of Yahweh and His people? Where are they? Do they work together? Who is the leader of this pack of wolves?" H. W. - Arkansas

RKH: Whoever violates the WORD which is GOD is the enemy of God. The scriptures say who will judge them and who will administer punishment.

CHANGE: "Editor: If all our enemies dropped dead it would do no good. We are the ones who must change. A great shakeup is necessary; one to eliminate all those not willing to live by the WORD. The evils besetting the land presently is the medicine needed. It cannot be improved upon." H. W. - Arkansas

---

BOOK BURNING: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I've been writing to you in despair about the banning of the Hoskins Report. I thought you would like to know that the fight is over, and once again Israel overcomes. The authorities have agreed to look at each piece of mail on an individual basis. This may not sound like much, but Yahweh is on our side for getting us this far." T. R. Prisoner - Colorado

RKH: In America, infidels rule and allow their surrogates to censor what the Christian may read in order to control his mind.

CENSORSHIP: "Dear Sir: My interest remains strong, but the prison system does not permit 'privileges,' ie, my own personal religious beliefs. This facility has warned me of punitive actions to be brought against me if I accept mail from you. Since I am due for release soon, please cancel my subscription to Hoskins Report. Thank you so much for your newsletter and the books. I'm sorry, but there is nothing else I can do. I have learned a lot." L. D. - Colorado

ED: It's supposedly "illegal" to stop a prisoner's mail because of religious or political reasons. But, if a prisoner "voluntarily" chooses not to receive the mail - the establishment cannot be blamed. Prisons have ways to make prisoners voluntarily refuse to receive mail.

SERPENT: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I am convinced that this is the correct translation:

"And the great dragon (those who follow ecumenical-Dharma) was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him." Rev 12:9

"When the dragon (serpent) saw that he was cast unto the earth, he persecuted the woman (Israel) which brought forth the man child (WORD made flesh). Then to the woman were given two wings of a great eagle (Judah & Israel), that she might fly into the wilderness (Europe & Gr. Britain, America, Australia, N. Zealand, S. Africa), into her place, where she is nourished (fed and kept) for a time, and times and half a time (2500 years - the Dispora 721 BC & 580 BC), from the face of the serpent. And the serpent cast out of his mouth water (peoples) as a flood after the woman, that he might cause her to be carried away of the flood. And the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed up the flood which the dragon cast out of his mouth (the peoples brought against her). And the dragon was wroth with the woman, and went to make war with the remnant of her seed, which keep the commandments of God, and have the testimony of Jesus Christ ("the WORD made flesh." Rev 12:13-17

"And it shall come to pass ... that I will give unto Gog a place there of graves in Israel." Exe 39:11. H. O. - Mississippi

---

UNFILTERED NEWS

WEAVERS SEEK $200 MILLION: Randy Weaver, his three daughters and Kevin Harris filed more than $200 million in claims against federal enforcement agencies. The suit seeks redress for the 1992 unlawful murders and woundings at the Weaver cabin on Ruby Ridge in Naples, Idaho in which Fed enforcers shot little 14 year old Sammy Weaver in the back, killing him, back-shot Kevin Harris severely wounded him, and shot the mother Vicki Weaver in the face killing her while she stood in the doorway of her cabin holding her 9 month old baby in her arms. The federal agencies have investigated themselves and have given themselves a clean bill of health.

The plaintiffs will also seek a court order requiring federal agencies to obey state laws. The attorneys said that this order is being sought because of arbitrary FBI rules that allowed agents to shoot adults seen outside the Weaver cabin regardless of whether they were threatening anyone's life. "'The FBI ... cannot come into the state of Idaho and change the rules. We have laws here that apply to everybody ... including the FBI.' Said Weaver's attorney, Chuck Peterson."

At their earlier trial Harris was acquitted on all counts and Weaver was found guilty of failure to appear at his 1991 hearing. Story in The Spokesman-Review, Spokane, Washington, August 3, 1994, p. 1.

RKH: Unfeelingly, the feds named their camp at the foot of the mountain "Camp Vicki" for the mother they killed. The FBI sniper who actually shot Vicki Weaver was immediately sent to Waco where he drove one of the tanks that was responsible for burning the Waco congregation to death. There is a picture showing feds laughing, giving high fives, and whooping it up as Waco men, women, and children burn alive in the flaming inferno shown in the background. Those responsible for doing such things are not normal people and are a hazard to the rest of society.

DAVIDIANS SEEK $900 MILLION: Former attorney general Ramsay Clark, lead lawyer for the survivors of the Waco inferno, filed a claim Friday for Koresh's wife and mother and about 80 other people asking for $900 million.

The raids and the 51-day siege violated a number of federal rights, including freedom of religion, of movement, and "all kinds of restraints on police conduct."

Claims were filed with the Justice and Treasury departments in Washington and with the FBI and ATF in New Orleans where the legal research team is based. The government has 6 months to settle or the group will go to court.

WHICH SIX MILLION?: "Martin Glenn, the past Governor of New York, in a major speech in October 1919 in Albany, NY reported at length to a rapt audience on the 'extermination of six million Jews and the holocaust of European Jewry' during 'the Great War.' ... The full speech of Mr. Glenn was printed, among others, in the October 31, 1919 issue of the American Hebrew Magazine published for the American Jewish Committee." The Christian News p.18, 1-10-94

ANOTHER ABORTIONIST QUITS: Dr. Michael Girtelschmid announced that he is quitting the abortion business. This makes a total of three abortionists who have quit in the Hampton Roads area following the shooting of abortionist Dr. David Gunn in Florida. This leaves only two abortionists still practicing in the Hampton Roads area. (Story discovered in the Lynchburg News, 9-1-94, buried on page B2.)

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 241

THE PROMISED KINGDOM

The Farm

God's promised kingdom on earth is THE FARM.

The self-sufficient farm is ruled by the farmer who is its king, defender, and judge. The farm is the mother of "cottage-industry," the "mill" to help fabricate, and the "country store" to distribute its products.

Kings Are Forbidden

The WORD which is God[1] specifies exactly how the

1 GOD' LAW:"In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1, and "The WORD was made flesh, and dwelt among us." John 1:14

sheepfold is to be constructed and maintained. God The WORD is to rule as "King of Kings" - and no one else. The WORD created "man" in the beginning.[2] He created him in

The Sheepfold

The sheepfold looks like a circled waggon-train. The land within is divided among the sheep. Each sheep rules his portion as king and priest under God the WORD. The watchman warns of approaching danger. The kings and priests live on self-sufficient farms. The trading village is the largest habitation. Large cities and prisons are unknown in a sheepfold

God's image. He named his sheep "Israel," which means in Hebrew - "to have God's power of attorney." Again, God appointed each of us a king and a priest.[3] Our assignment: to rule the earth in His name. We are to be severely punished if we don't.[4] There is to be no king to rule us except Jesus. God warns against other kings. God says that the nation that

2 "Man." Heb: Adam. "He who blushes red." Strong's Concordance.

3 GOD'S LAW: "Jesus Christ ... hath made us kings and priests." Rev 1:5,6

4 GOD's LAW: "O children of Israel... You only have I known of all the families of the earth: therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities." Am 3:1- 2

Wolf-Den

The wolf-den is constructed like a triangle with an alpa wolf at the top and the rest of the pack stairstepping down in authority. Wolf-dens are constructed from invaded sheepfolds. Towns grow into cities as sheep are driven from farm-kingdoms.

chooses a king rejects Him:

> "The elders of Israel ... came to Samuel ... make us a king to judge us like all the nations. ... And the Lord said ... the people ... they have not rejected thee, but they have rejected me, that I should not reign over them. ...
>
> "This will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you: He will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen; ... And he will take your daughters ... And he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants. And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give to his officers, and to his servants. ... He shall take the tenth of your sheep: and ye shall be his servants. And ye shall cry out in the day because of your king which ye shall have chosen you; and the Lord will not hear you in that day." I Sam 8:11-18

Christians recognize no king but Jesus "The WORD made

flesh." Each of us has been appointed "king and priest" by him, and he delegated us our authority when he named us "Israel."

Wolfpacks are the opposite. A wolfpack cannot exist without a leader - an alpha wolf. The rest of the pack stairsteps down from him in authority. Each wolf, even when living apart, must belong to a pack somewhere. It's the wolf's nature. The sheep know this and consequently look upon any group organized like a wolfpack (from the top down) as being a wolfpack or surrogates of the wolf.

The Sheepfold

An intact sheepfold is like a circle of wagons our forefathers used to defend against attack. This circle protects in all directions. It is called "The whole armor of God." The master of the sheepfold is The WORD - the trusted gatekeeper is the "watchman."

It is no profit to the international merchant to go to a far country to trade and not be able to trade because the god of that country will not let its people trade with strangers.[5] Neither is there profit in entering the sheepfold only to be killed by sheep aroused by the watchman.[6]

To do business in a sheepfold the wolf must first bribe the watchman to allow him to enter. Once in the sheepfold he must find a ram who will protect him and his stolen goods. In

5 GOD's LAW: (1) "Thou shall make no covenant with them ... For they will turn away thy son from following me, that they may serve other gods." Deut 7:2,4; (2) "If thou hast stricken thy hand with a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien), thou are snared...deliver thyself as a roe from the hand of the hunter." Pr 6:1,2

6 GOD's LAW: "When the tabernacle is to be pitched ... the stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh shall be put to death." Numbers 1:51.

WOLF-DEN REPLACES SHEEPFOLD

The watchman blesses the wolf and issues him a safe conduct pass. The wolf freely enters the sheepfold and finances a surragate sheep to become a powerful king of the sheep. Such a king is able to protect the wolf and suppress revolt. The wolf rules through his surrogates - the priest and the king. Since the wolf is Hindu - the priests become Christian-Hindu. The wolf is ferocious - his surrogate-king becomes Ike his master. The wolf-city is organized in a stairstep manner. The pecking order is determined by the money one makes. The money one makes determines his place on the latter.

payment for protecting the wolf the surrogate-ram is given a generous portion of the slaughtered sheep. Wolves seldom deal with sheep directly; they find it safer to leave this to their surrogates whom they have made into kings - well paid

"kings."

Making A King

Wolf-gold, wolf-media, and wolf-strategy make ordinary sheep into the forbidden "kings." It is wolf-money that hires a king's army, and buys courts, judges, and lawyers used to conquer neighboring sheep and seize their lands. If the "watchman" remains dumb while wolves pass by - this is notice to the sheep that the watchman is also in the pay of the wolf.

Bribing A Watchman

Once a watchman has been bribed to pass wolves into the sheepfold, he must remain on the payroll to calm the sheep and see to it that they are not alerted to the wolf's transgressions. Corrupt watchmen refuse to see a stranger even when seating them in their choirs.[7] The wolf's capital crimes of usury, murder, and kidnaping are unseen, unreported, and concealed with silence.[8]

False watchmen earn their tax-exemption by no longer reading, teaching, obeying, or following The WORD. They follow the ecumenical Hindu world force whom they rename - "Jesus." This is the very god the Hindu's call Brahma - the god of love. These Christian- Hindus tell their followers that Brahma is "Jesus." But, to these hirelings - all gods are one.

---

7 "The stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh (the tabernacle) shall be put to death." No 18:7

8 GODS's LAW: (1) "If a false witness rise up ... Then shall ye do unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother." Deu 19:16-19; (2) "Not everyone that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Matt 7:21

The only god who accepts all gods is Brahma. To these representatives of the wolf - The WORD and The WORD made flesh, and all His followers who remain steadfast - are a curse.

The Sheepfold

The hard nut to crack is the sheep's Biblical citadel within the sheepfold - the self-sufficient farm.[9] Each "priest and king" rules his own God-mandated kingdom by The WORD. This kingdom is self-sufficient and produces practically everything it needs. It raises its own food, weaves clothing from wool taken from its own sheep, blacksmiths, makes shoes, and trades its surplus for those things it does not make. The sheep do not waste time building homes, they live in homes built generations ago on land which The WORD forbids the sheep to sell.[10] Thomas Jefferson had a clear understanding of the sheepfold and in a letter to Dr. Currie (ii, p.219, 1787, The Jeffersonian Cyclopedia, John P. Foley, Funk & Wagnall, NY 1900, described the Virginia farmer in the following manner:

> "I know no condition happier than that of a Virginia farmer ... His estate supplies a good table, clothes himself and his family with their ordinary apparel, furnishes a small surplus to buy salt, sugar, coffee, and a little finery for his wife and daughters, enables him to receive and to visit his friends and furnishes him pleasing and healthy occupation. To secure all this, he needs the one act of > self-denial, to put off buying anything till he has the money to pay for it."

9 GOD's LAW: (1) "The land shall be divided for an inheritance ... To many thou shalt give the more ... to few thou shalt give the less ... the land shall be divided by lot: according to ... their fathers they shall inherit ..." Num 26:53-55.

10 GOD's LAW: "The land shall not be sold for ever: for the land is mine." Lev 25:13- 28

In a letter to William Duane, Ibid, v, 576. Ford Ed., ix, 312, Jefferson said:

> "The truth is that farmers, as we all are, have no command of money. Our necessaries are all supplied, either from our farms, or a neighboring store. Our produce, at the end of the year, is delivered to the merchant, and thus the business of the year is done by barter, without the intervention of scarcely a dollar; and, thus, also, we live with a plenty of everything except money."

Jefferson had a neighbor who bought and sold $20,000 worth of merchandise in a single year, and at the end of the year balanced his books by receiving just thirty-five dollars. Twenty thousand dollars in the early 1800s was a great deal of money. The interesting thing is that no actual money exchanged hands except at the very end of the year when $35 was received to balance his books. He might as well have received an equal mount of horse shoes or wheat. In other words, money is not necessary to do business in a sheepfold. I remember when farmers coming to Lynchburg on Saturday would give their children "twists" of tobacco in trade for candy. Merchants sold the "twists" as chewing tobacco. Farm boys with tobacco twists to trade had more candy than city boys with coins. I know.

Years ago I spent much time in the mountains of Virginia. Near the Priest and the Three Sisters in Nelson County I stumbled on an intact settlement which had been spared the rigors of war. Many of the inhabitants had not traveled the long twisting dirt road down the mountain to Lynchburg town in thirty years. They had no need nor desire to. Their hundred or so acres on top of the mountains provided everything they needed; a horse, a cow or two, sheep, and a garden. They could have planted more wheat or corn than they did - but they couldn't use it. Their usual crop was sufficient to last the winter with enough left over to trade with neighbors. Each family specialized in something different from his neighbors. Some quilted, others were house builders, furniture makers, blacksmiths, gunsmiths, mechanics, wagon makers, teachers and tutors, homeopathic doctors, and shoemakers. Some had gone to town to work and had returned when the city lost its charm. The children were mostly home schooled or had a tutor. I was told that since it was so far away from town no one bothered them with taxes. That was years ago.

There were no police, no preacher, and no jail. There was no crime. The WORD of God was enforced by the people themselves who took their jobs seriously. They took turns holding Sunday meetings in each other's houses. A house that burned accidentally was replaced by the whole community within a week. Most dwellings in these remote mountains were log cabins - but you should have seen the cabins! A few were hastily thrown up and were rough, but others were plastered, had shaped roof shingles, chair rails, ornate mantels, banister rails, Chippendale furniture, and good china.[11] The local tutor could teach Latin if you cared to learn it. Everyone seemed to know something different from his neighbor. Close kinsmen used first names. Others used the titles "Mister" and "Mrs." as befitted responsible "kings and priests" who ruled kingdoms. They were entitled to that mark of respect. I have never heard of a divorce in a farm family - either in mountain or lowland farms. Divorce was a city thing.

11 In Tidewater, many of the old houses in the 17th and 18th centuries were made of brick manufactured on the farm, or clapboard from trees grown on the place. The studding was all heart pine - one stud from one tree. Ask your builder friend about that!

The Country Store

My great grandfather, Maj. William Hoskins, late surgeon 59th Virginia, returned home and practiced medicine in King and Queen County. There was no money (Except two gold coins. That story is told in War Cycles/Peace Cycles).[12] People paid him in kind. In time Dr. William accumulated 62 pairs of shoes, 96 hoes, 4 muskrat traps, 416 pounds of tobacco, and a number of other things, so he opened a country store to dispose of them. In time, local cottage industries brought their products to his store to be displayed and sold. His store received one in ten of whatever it sold as payment. He later built Hoskins Mill at the Essex Mill Pond near Dunnsville to grind grain for neighbors; one bushel for each 10 bushels ground. The economy of the Virginia county was based on agriculture, and cottage industries were its by-products. Besides country stores, there were all sorts of water mills - grist, saw, pounding, etc. - There were also iron furnaces and shot towers. The farms within the sheep-fold produced an abundance of cottage industries as men found specialities which filled needs.

The Wife

The family spoke as one. Important business matters were entered into by either party - after prior agreement between the man and wife. The man was the legal head of the house, but the farm wife had a full say. Whatever affected the farm affected the future of her man, herself, their children, and their inheritance.

12 War Cycles / Peace Cycles, Va Pub Co, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $18.

When the man was away at war, hunting, or dealing with matters concerning his cottage industry, the wife managed the farm - the whole thing. If her man was gone for a month - she managed. If he was gone to the wars for two years - she managed. When Southern men were away for four long years - she managed.

My ancestor, Capt. John Hoskins, son of Bartholomew the immigrant who landed at Jamestown in 1615, owned widely scattered land-grants that he had gotten in exchange for transporting colonists to Virginia. He also owned five or six ships used to transport these colonists. He maintained offices both at Jamestown and in Fleet Street in London. He spent half his time in Virginia and half in London. His affairs were tangled and involved. He managed the London part and his wife managed his Virginia operations. She knew more about them than he did. His son Thomas took part in Bacon's Rebellion against the Royal Governor. While Thomas was away on active duty his wife ran the plantation. Unfortunately, Bacon's Rebellion failed and Thomas was confiscated.[13] The family was forced to live on the charity of kinsmen. Our women stuck with their men through good times and bad. I don't know about the women in the reader's part of the country, but our Virginia women are absolutely magnificent!

13 Confiscating rebel's property violates God's command that landed property be "never sold." However, confiscation is natural when the alpha-wolf claims everything for himself and his subjects only own land "en fief." "Confiscation of rebels" is the 4th plank of the Communist Manifesto, the code which ruled the wolf-den long before Karl Marx.

The Militia

The old brick cottage with three dormers, "Woodville" near Miller's Tavern, was the manse of the Episcopal priest sent over by his Royal Majesty who was also head of the Church of England and God's representative on earth.

The preacher was paid and "Woodville" was maintained by Essex County and so the place was treated like public land. It was where one cavalry company of the Essex and the King and Queen militia met to drill. The spring down the hill in front of the house is where they watered their horses. The same big oaks a little beyond furnished the shade where they rested from their military exercises in the hot Virginia sun. Before the war Dr. Hoskins acted as surgeon for this company and tended their cuts and broken bones that came mostly from overzealous horseplay as neighbors met to practice the ancient peace-time social event called "soldiering."

This cavalry company was more than 200 years old by 1860. They had fought countless battles in numerous wars in Virginia's past, and their names weren't even listed on the the rolls in Richmond. There were no rolls. Virginia could only guess how many soldiers she had. The militia was volunteer and every man equipped himself at his own expense - uniform (if any), sword, rifle, pistol, tent, blankets, food, and horse. The youngster who aspired to be elected an officer went to the Virginia Military Institute for additional training - at his own expense.

People tend to forget, but in the 17th century the threat of an Indian raid could field eight thousand well mounted militia virtually overnight. The royal governor in Williamsburg only had 300 paid regulars, and the king back in England had just 10,000 professionals. Little Virginia had almost that many and they were volunteers that cost the colony nothing. The Indians who arrived in Virginia on foot from across the Blue Ridge mountains were lucky to leave Virginia alive. Every mountain pass was quickly sealed, and when located, the Indians war parties were chased down by mounted men trained to their work. They fought Indian style - no prisoners - except to take hostages to trade for captives in Indian hands. Every able bodied Virginian from the age of 16 to 60 was expected to participate in some way in Virginia's defense.

Law Enforcement

Most Virginia settlers were descended from persecuted Scottish Presbyterians, English Puritans, and French Huguenots who had refugeed to Virginia. Their forebears had died for their God, and they had learned their religion from the Geneva Bible whose margin notes by John Calvin and John Knox condemned the King and his wolf-den.

The question then as now is - who enforces the Law? The King and his representatives answered - "the king." Virginia next asked - "who is the king?" The Royal Governor said "Charles!" But, it was the king who gave away the Northern Neck to his favorites in fulfillment of the prophecy in I Sam 8:11-18. God did not give him the right to do that! The king said that his insistence that black slaves be sold into the colony was his "divine right!" The Royal governor forbade Virginians to protect themselves from marauding Indians because he did not wish to disturb his fur trade with them. The scalps of Virginia's women and children were of less value than profits from Indian fur pelts.[14] If the king and his representative refused to honor God's Law - what then were the people to do?

Virginians knew. They been brought up on the writings of Calvin. Writings such as:

> "Obedience to man must not become disobedience to God. But in that obedience which we have shown to be due the authority of rulers, we are always to make this exception, indeed, to observe it as primary, that such obedience is never to lead us away from obedience to him, to whose will the desires of all kings ought to be subject, to whose decrees all their commands ought to yield, to whose majesty their scepters ought to be submitted. ... How absurd would it be that in satisfying men you should incur the displeasure of him for whose sake you obey men themselves! The Lord, therefore, is the King of Kings, who, when he has opened his sacred mouth, must alone be heard, before all and above all men; next to him we are subject to those men who are in authority over us, but only in him. If they command any thing against him, let it go un-esteemed. ... "[15]

> "I know with what great and present peril this constancy is menaced, because kings bear defiance with the greatest displeasure, whose "wrath is a messenger of death" Prov 16:14, says Solomon. But since this edict has been proclaimed by the heavenly herald, Peter - "We must obey God rather than men," Acts 5:29 - let us comfort ourselves

14 GOD's LAW: (1) "Thou shall make no covenant with them." I Ki 4:21; (2) "Thou hast abandoned Thy people, the house of Jacob, Because ... they strike bargains with the children of foreigners." Isaiah 2:6 (New American); (3) "If thou hast stricken thy hand with a stranger (2114 zûwr), thou are snared." Pr 6:1

15 "Institutes of the Christian Religion" John Calvin, Westminster Press, Philadelphia. 1960, Book 4: Chapter 20: Paragraph 32:

with the thought that we are rendering that obedience which the Lord requires when we suffer anything rather than turn aside from piety. (Book 4: ch 20, PP 1)

"Earthly princes lay aside their power when they rise up against God, and are unworthy to be reckoned among the number of mankind. We ought, rather, utterly to defy them than to obey them." Commentaries on Daniel (1561, Lecture 30, on Dan. 6:22. (GR 41.25)

John Knox backed this opinion by quoting The Magdeburg Statement which says that one has the duty of armed resistance to a ruler who violates the law of God. (History of Reformation, John Knox debate w/Lethington 1564 (contained in 4 ch20 v31 FN p. 1519.)

Without the lawless suffocating hand of the king and his wolf-den minions to distort and destroy - Virginians spread out over America taking with them the Calvin-Knox dream of Christian freedom in a Christian land. The wolves they left behind dared not follow into the wilderness and those in front were pushed aside. The commands of God were enforced. When Lawlessness appeared - it was judged and capital crimes were punished scriptually:

"The hands of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterward the hands of all the people." Deut 17:5-7

"If thy brother ... entice thee ... saying, let us go and serve other gods ... thou shall surely kill him; thine hand shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterwards the hand of all the people." Deut. 13:6-11

The enforcement of God's Law produced peace and abundance. Biblical self-sufficient farms were established and protected by those who feared to let evil go unpunished.[16]

WAR CREATES DEMAND

The King of England first demanded that native wolves be converted into sheep and accepted into the sheepfold. This resulted in a massacre. After this debacle, he demanded that slave wolves be taken into the sheepfold. Next, the Dutch King demanded that trade wolves be allowed to land in New York. The wolf found there was almost nothing that he could offer that was needed or wanted by the American farms and especially the self- sufficient Virginia farms. These farms themselves produced everything the wolf had for sale. What to the sheep was Camelot, was to the wolf a wasteland. To them, farms and farming are beneath contempt.[17] Before farmers and their farms can be converted into profitable consumer and land developments - they must first be separated from each other. This can not be done as long as The WORD rules. The WORD says that land may not be taxed, sold, or even leased for more than 50 years.

In the North the farm system was destroyed by taxes and usury loans. Farmers borrowed to pay the tax. Wolf-usury lent the money and took the farms. The North and the North Central states were converted into a wolf- den. Former self-sufficient farms now raised livestock or were "developed." Towns became cities. Unused farmland was so plentiful that houses were built in the middle of lots rather than on the front

16 GOD's LAW: "Because thou hast let go out of thy hand a man whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people. I Ki 20:42 edge to save every square foot in back for gardens. Sweat-shops replaced cottage-industries. Giant power grids replaced water mills. Rolling mills and steel foundries replaced the water mill. Railroads transported thousands of tons of cheap manufactured goods and dumped them in giant stores - destroying millions of cottage industries.

17 TALMUD: "No occupation is inferior to that of agricultural labor." Yeb 63a., Exh 161

Before the war the North produced almost nothing that the South needed. After Northern armies destroyed Southern farms the destitute refugees needed everything that they had produced for themselves before the war. Their conquerors moved south and built stores to distribute sweat-shop goods manufactured by northern wage-slaves. Destroying the Southern farm created Southern demand and made the South valuable to the king who now ruled both North and South.

Sherman burned the farms of Georgia, South Carolina, and North Carolina when there was no military reason to do so. Sheridan burned the farms of the Valley of Virginia. Missouri farms were put to the torch by Union Armies. It was no accident that the Union army seldom lost an opportunity to burn mills and farm buildings. President Lincoln stopped all prisoner exchange that would have saved the lives of thousands of farmer-soldiers - both Northern and Southern. The Southland, the land with almost no cities and few needs, once destroyed, experienced massive urban growth as burned out refugees arrived from ruined farms and begged to work for wolf corporations as wage-slaves in newly constructed textile and steel mills. The Southland was converted into a wolfden like the land of their brothers in the North.

SOUTH AFRICA: South Africa's farms were burned to the ground. From that time on practically everything the Boer produced before the war he now had to buy from the international merchant.

RUSSIA: The wolves stormed the Russian sheepfold in 1917 and immediately starved four million Ukrainian farmers to death and combined their independent farms into farm collectives. Survivors had to buy from the wolf things they earlier produced for themselves.

GERMANY: German farms in East Germany were given to the wolves to organize into collectives. The German farmers were driven from the land.

Taxes

Taxes imposed by kings have destroyed more farms than any other single thing.[18]

Cottage-Industries Destroyed By Dumping

Wolf corporations made wage-slaves out of dispossessed farmers and used their sweat-shops to mass-produce wares. Train loads of these wares were sent to Richmond and sold for 1/4 the price that Virginia's cottage industry could make and sell them for. Virginia's cottage textile industry was destroyed. Sweat-shop shoe companies dumped tens of thousands of shoes which were sold in the same manner. Once cottage-industries had been destroyed, the conquerors built textile mills and shoe factories in Southern towns to use the now unemployed cottage-industry textile and shoe makers. One by one Virginia's cottage industries died.

Separated from the protection of his farm - the farmer became valuable prey - a productive asset for the wolf. His farm is now incorporated into a collective, or sits idle awaiting development. In time, the company he works for as a wage-slave will be forced to close because cheap foreign imports are dumped here. Dispossessed, unemployed, with his family in want - the Saxon faces the greatest opportunity he has had in 2000 years.

---

18 GOD's LAW: "Of whom do the kings of the earth take custom or tribute? of their own children, or of strangers? Peter saith unto him, Of strangers." (Gr: allotrios - foreign, not akin.) ... Then are the children free." Matt 17:25-26.

To The Death!

- The wolf-city is big - the self-sufficient farm is small. Wolf- city needs fleets of 18 wheelers to feed itself and supply its warehouses and supermarkets. The farm needs inexpensive work and transportation machinery.
- The wolf-city's power needs are enormous - electric power-grids, gas pipelines, trainloads of coal, million ton oil tankers, and atomic energy. The farm needs a simple windmill or solar cell. Its cottage-industry can produce all the ethanol it needs.
- Wolf-city demands over 40% of one's income in taxes. The farm needs no taxes. Even its Burgesses paid their own way to Williamsburg.
- Wolf-city requires giant 747s and thousands of acres of macadamized runways. The farm requires ultra-lites or small 4- seaters with an unused pasture to land in.
- Wolf-city has crime, pollution, unemployment, race-problems, and moral degenerates. These problems do not exist for the farm.
- Wolf-city needs expensive mercenaries to enforce wolf-policy. The farm furnishes its own volunteer militia to enforce The WORD.
- Wolf-cities' "prison industry" requires billions of dollars to house its millions of inmates. The farm has no prisoners or prison industry. It exercises Biblical "restitution." If one commits a crime such as murder or rape for which there can be no restitution - the offender is put to death. Simple - and cheap.
- Wolf-city uses mass media and telecommunication systems to rule the sheep through "monopoly of communication" and "false-witness." In time the sheep will recognize what is being done to them, and when they return to obedience to The WORD the Law will be enforced and the sheep will be free. One day the sheep will be supplied with a "still to be invented" handheld phone that can dial any place in the world. The "county news" will once again reappear. Monopoly media will disappear.

- The Wolf-city requires that all property be corporate property. The sheep will demand at first that all corporations be turned into partnerships with the workers being the partners. At the last they will demand that corporate property taken by fraudulent usury and war be taken and divided so that new farms can be formed.

Conclusion

God created man in his own image. He gave them The WORD which is God. He made them "kings and priests," and gave them his "power- of-attorney." He warned against "kings" and "levites" who would mislead them.[19] He commanded that the land be divided so that each man would have his own kingdom, and that kingdom was never ever to be sold. He commanded that there be no monopoly. He told them not to allow strangers in their midst "lest ye learn their ways."

Man tolerated false-watchmen and surrogate kings. As a consequence our sheepfold has been stormed by the enemy. Worldwide, watchmen and kings stand shoulder to shoulder with the wolf. The individual kingdoms given us by God have been stripped from us and as wage-slaves we have been driven to cities and stockpiled there until needed. The wealth which we took four centuries to accumulate has been taken and is being consumed in a feeding frenzy by strangers. Now, even the sweat-shops in which we labor are being closed one by one and we are to be left to starve.

19 "Moses commanded the Levites ... saying, Take this ... law and put it in the side of the ark ... that it may be there for a witness against thee. For I know thy rebellion ... behold, while I am yet alive ... ye have been rebellious against the Lord; and how much more after my death? ... For I know that after my death ye will ... turn aside from the way which I have commanded you." Deut 31: 24-29

Unless we wish to die we now have no option but to obey our God - The WORD.[20] The factories of today's wolfden cities are being disassembled and taken to alien lands. The cities are dying. Already entire sections lie abandoned and store fronts are boarded up. The unneeded sheep-workers will soon have no food, no safety, no work, no shelter. They will either wander around complaining until they fall dead - or they will again look across the Jordan at the promised land and begin to act like kings and priests and go to work to gain their self-sufficient farm-kingdoms where they can live as kings and priests are supposed to live.

One day the 18-wheelers, the trains, the 747's and the great smokestacks will all stand still in a dead wolfden that has been eaten out. Grass will grow on the great interstates and cattle will graze on deserted air-terminals. The circle of self-sufficient farms will close and the wolf will be excluded to howl outside and plot to re-enter still again. Once more, the farms of the West will sound to the laughter of children and wives will sing as they go about their work. Cottage industries will hum to the sound of industry and country stores will spring up to handle the overflow. The McCormicks will again invent their reapers and the Wright Brothers their flying machines.

The inventions with which God faithfully rewards his obedient children will send the younger sons to new kingdoms among the stars.[21]

---

20 GOD's LAW: (1) "Do ye not know that the saints shall judge the world?" 1 Cor 6:2; (2) "Take heed what ye do; for ye judge not for man, but for the Lord, who is with you in the judgment." II Cron 19:6

SOUTH AFRICA by K.J.

General Constand Viljoen's treason is now general knowledge. His behavior is such that the ANC simply adore the man. His Volkstaat Council chairman has also revealed himself as an integrationist.

The Conservative Party's leader, Dr Hartzenberg, bypasses his party and does whatever he wants to do. He has been holding talks with Mandela against their wishes.[22]

An intelligence person told us privately that the 33 AWB leaders who were arrested are innocent, but they act as White hostages and the legal expense of these court cases places the AWB under severe stress.

Economically we are definitely the tail end now. Our people, if they have jobs, earn less than blacks but are liable for all taxes - be it income tax, town taxes, electricity, water, telephone, TV license, etc. None are paid by Blacks and the White town councils are faced with these debts of Blacks in Black townships who have not paid for years. There are talks about the Blacks taxing our farm land and small holdings which will wipe out many Whites. I nearly forgot - Blacks have subsidized transport and cheaper petrol for minibuses, and subsidized health care. They do not pay school fees and grants to universities seem to be freely available to them from big companies. But, in spite of it all the Blacks are not satisfied. They see their leaders at the top who earn huge salaries and they want the same.

21 (1) "The Lord(s) (wisdom) possessed me in the beginning." Prov 8:22 (2) "I (God's wisdom) find out knowledge of witty inventions." Pr 8:12. (3) "Cast not your pearls before swine, lest they ... turn again and rend you." Matt 7:6

22 Hoskins Report has warned in the past against S. Afriea's Conservative Party.

S. Africa must be the most lawless country in the world. Whites are murdered every day. Heidelberg, a small town, used to be a student town, but it has become so dangerous that people in the district do not travel except at certain times of the day. After the recent schoolbus shooting incident, many other incidents took place that never got into newspapers. The Blacks go on strike after strike.

Our language, Afrikaans, is being suppressed. The refusal of the license to Radio Dankerhoek is seen against this background.

Daleen Joubert has not been able to get a welfare number to shelter homeless White children as yet. I hope that it is not another case of discrimination.

Can the hatred that we experience from the dark Hindus, those called "untouchables," be because of the separateness we practiced in the past as required by our God? One of them , Fatima Meer is in a position of authority at the South African Broadcasting Corporation-TV. She seems to have a blind hatred for all things White - especially Afrikaans.[23] She is an Indian communist lawyer who defended the ANC. When the National Party came to power in 1948 they offered to pay the passage of those who wished to return to India. Few took advantage and the reason is now clear - they would have been unacceptable to other Indians, no matter how much money they have and many did get rich here. In their suburbs, three-story houses are plentiful.

23 To the dark colored Dravidians in southern India - "white" is the color of the devil - black is the color of Hindu gods. Many Indians hate Whites because of their color.

GOVERNMENT AGENTS: "Africa confidential, a publication by British Intelligence, brought to light that both General Constand Viljoen and Gen. Tienie Groenewald are allies of the new Mandela government. The greatest benefit which these generals achieved for the government, according to the publication, is to provide them with information that led to the arrest of 2 of the 33 AWB members involved in planting bombs just prior to the election. The publication makes allegations that both these generals furnished information on a regular basis, especially over movements in right-wing politics." Die Afrikaner," 19-25 August 1994

TRAITOR: "Gen. Constant Viljoen, present freedom front leader, when Chief of the Army, conducted a sustained campaign to populate deserted farms in Northern Transvaal with White farmers. At the moment as ally of former terrorists he volunteers to assist the ANC minister of land affairs, Derek Honekom with redistribution of the farms now owned by Whites to Blacks. ... As another act of treason by Viljoen's Freedom Front, this party is now busily arranging that White farmers who lose land as a result of Viljoen's actions in parliament obtain land over the border in the Black nation of Mozambique to get the economy of that Communist state going." Die Afrikaner, 12-18 August 1994

IRREPRESSIBLE JAPP MARAIS: "The ANC state will topple over and the Afrikaner must utilize that day," says Jaap Marais, of the HNP political party.

"Nowhere in Africa and even Haiti did a Black state succeed. They failed though economic foolishness and corrupt management, every one. Nowhere did a Communist government succeed. Communism failed everywhere in spite of the millions of human lives that Communist terror methods claimed. ...

"Inflation is increasing and will get out of hand. Salaries of ministers and even Black ministerial typists, plus the distribution of millions to Black neighboring states show just one thing, and that is inflation! The civil service is an employment service for the ANC. The ANC will have to increase taxes which will slow down economic growth and they will finally have to create money through the printing machine. The rand will lose its value still faster than ever. Further losses will come from striking Black unions, and we have only seen the beginning.

"Car thefts, murders, burglaries, and murder of Policeman have reached unbelievable heights. Suicides among Police office is now problem, and it is difficult for Police to combat murder when they are ordered to treat criminals with kindness. ... The ANC state cannot last. Their priority is vengeance against the Afrikaner. The Truth Commission is the first move in revenge against Afrikaners who as members of the armed forces took action in the war conflict against the enemy. ... The Communists are now busy with ... the security forces who must be prepared to act against Afrikaners and perhaps Zulus. ..

"We must prepare ourselves for the time when all these affairs miscarry," Mr. Marais warned. "DeKlerk's National Party is useless. ... Salaried members of the Volkstaat council and other right-wing parties looking from reconciliation must also be excluded. ... Never was the HNP (Marais' political party) more necessary in the life of the Africaner people than now," Mr. Marais warned his enthusiastic audience." The HNP has the absolute right to change the outcome of the war against the Afrikaner. He has the absolute right to take back with peaceful means what has been taken away by fraud. The moral base of the HNP is unassailable." Mr. Marais said." Translated from Die Afrikaner 12-18 Aug 1994.

FLAG SUPPRESSED: The Conservative Party's youth council expressed shock that one of its members was suspended from the University of Pretoria for raising the historical Afrikaner republican flag, the Vierkleur, on campus. (Story in The Citizen, SA, May 17, 1994)

PUBLIC DISARMED: Mr. Bantu Holomisa, Deputy Minister of Tourism, recommended that the S. African society should be disarmed. The article decries the White fear of Black attacks that has caused the White population to arm themselves. (Citizen, SA, August 17,1994)

AIDS: "The AIDS epidemic is flooding S. African hospitals. One in every five patients admitted for treatment to medical wards at Johannesburg's Hillbrow hospital is infected with virus that causes AIDS." Sunday Times, S.A., July 8, 1994

CANADA

JESUS BANNED: The name of Jesus Christ has been dropped from the opening prayer of Canada's House of Commons by unanimous consent of members of Parliament. The new prayer approved opens its doors to the public and calls on the blessings of Almighty God. The changes took place after a senior House committee complained that the old version did not reflect Canada's multi-faith reality. (Story in Ft. Worth Star Telegram, Jan 27, 1994)

RAPE?

WHEN IS IT "RAPE"? "Clarence Thomas ... was in his younger years a member of the Black Panther Party. ... I saw only one mention of Thomas's former status as a Black Panther. It is hardly surprising that the media also neglected to mention that one of the requirements of becoming a Black Panther was that the prospect must rape a white woman. Let's ask the judge about that." Kingdom Chronicle, PO Box 6388, Asheville, NC 28816

SOMEONE NOTICES: "The Gulag Archipelago is replete with ... tales about cruelties in Soviet Russia in our time and not a single official anywhere in the human-right-conscious West has called for a single trial; a single arrest. Our Department of Justice, which has a special section to search and deport Nazi criminals, seems uniquely indifferent to all others." Otto Scott, Compass, July 1, 1994

MATHEMATICS: "As of 1985, the German government had paid out over 4,395,000 'holocaust survivor' claims. Funny thing, that. Especially considering that no more than 3,500,000 'Jews' resided in all German-occupied territory during WW II and they killed 6,000,000 of those! Funny how math works sometimes, isn't it?" Winton's Journal, 3902-45A St., Ponoka, Alberta, Canada T4J 1B6

AUSTRALIA

AUSTRALIA LOOTED: "Australian owned industries now employ only 16% of the workforce, the rest are foreign owned and their profits go overseas, not into the local enomony." Strategy, p. 19, Aug 1994

CIVIL RIGHTS - "DHARMA"

GERMANY: The government suspended Charlotte Hoehn, head of a population study institute after she said that scientists have the right to question whether or not Africans are as intelligent as other races. The German Interior Ministry said that the government is pursuing disciplinary action against her.

PHILADELPHIA - Four WHITES wielding baseball bats broke down the door of a house belonging to "Blacks" and beat a Black woman and her son "while shouting racial slurs." Three men and a woman were arrested and besides "assault," are alleged to to have made "terroristic threats," including "ethnic intimidation."

RKH: Across America in the same year, at the same day, on the same hour, the American monopoly media conspired together to stop identifying the race of criminals when they are strangers. When they are White it is another story. This latest item reveals a newly invented media-crime - "terroristic threats." This is crime committed by Whites. According to the wolf-media, thus far, Blacks have never made a "terroristic threat" against a White.

ISLAM

CONTROL: In Islam, as well as Christian nations, all government above the village level is controlled by surrogates of those engaged in international trade. Islam is far ahead of Christendom in their struggle to win freedom. The Islamic struggle has turned ugly.

ALGERIA: Sixteen civilians were beheaded by armed men. The violence was blamed on Muslim militants opposed to a political solution with the military-backed government. The militants want an Islamic nation and nothing else.

SAUDI ARABIA: In a crackdown on Muslim fundamentalists, Saudi Arabia arrested 110 people whom the government terms "agitators." They were accused of seeking to spread anarchy and sedition in a conspiracy with "suspect groups" abroad. One week earlier the government "detained" hundreds of fundamentalists who have been agitating for stricter Islamic law.

ALGERIA'S REVOLT WINS: Establishment government leaders in Algeria are making friendly overtures to Islamic fundamentalists by releasing the leaders of the Islamic Salvation Front. It is supposed that an agreement has been made to legalize the Front in exchange for a truce in the 2 1/2 year old rebellion that has left 10,000 people dead. The French government fears that the successes of the Algerian rebels may encourage the French right wing.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 242

ORPHANAGE FOR ABANDONED CHILDREN

October 8, 1994

"Dear Mr. Hoskins;

"Thank you so much for your letter and your interest in our children's care center. We women started this center because nothing was being done for our own children. Millions are being spent by the Black government for Black children and millions upon millions more is being sent from Christian ministries in America to care for Black children, but nothing for our own White children whose plight is truly desperate.

"Things are moving at a very disturbing pace in this country. I am traveling about addressing people in an attempt to shake them up a bit. It was quite unsettling to see how people have become negative and have lost their fighting spirit now that the election is over and after the closing of Radio Pretoria.

"After talking to people it was encouraging to see that people started coming to life again, taking an interest in our project and how they are beginning to work together once more.

"Seventeen thousand white school teachers have been notified that they are being retrenched (fired) at the end of November - white teachers only.[1] In Pretoria alone 4,000 teachers will be without jobs. At this stage we can accommodate only a few destitute families, but the need is indescribable! We are forced to start our own school on this farm with living quarters for students so that children can be sent to us from all over the country. We have built up large quantities of emergency stock - groceries, medical supplies, etc. Our vegetable garden is also coming on nicely and I am negotiating with the farmers for a better price for chickens to really build up a well established chicken stock. Also sheep and cows. We must be self maintained and ready to survive when the chaos hits this land!

"Now, to answer some of your questions. This organization is named after me. This was not my choice, but it was decided by the Management Board. We have a democratically elected board consisting of a chairman, vice-chairman, secretary, treasurer, and 20 additional members. We have various committees in full operation i.e. a fundraising committee, welfare and counseling, supplies, media, building,

1 ED NOTE: "Fear ...God ...teach your children letters, that they may have understanding ... reading unceasingly the law of God." Book of Levi 4:1-2 planning, etc. These people are working hard and they really put in a lot of effort to try and make this project work. I will send a newsletter to you as soon as possible. I will have to translate our constitution from Africaans into English for you.

"There is also a Trust being established in which the old minister bequeaths his land to the Children's Home. His children all signed this document, so when he dies, the land cannot be included in his estate. It will remain in the Trust and we can go on with our work.

"We will send you a formal receipt for any money that your readers can send to help us, and I will have a letter typed to enlighten your donors as to what we used the money for. I will most certainly send photos as well since I know that people love to see what the children look like whom they care for.

"You also asked about the "protective wall." That was not what we had in mind. It is more a security fence with an electronic gate and an intercom system so that we can keep the 'wolves' out. I have had people give us quotations to build the fence and it was so expensive I could not believe my ears. It will be at least R70,000 (seventy thousand rands) [about $17,500] to fence in the farm. We have to secure the whole farm as we have a problem with Black squatters on neighboring farms which endangers the children's lives. For the essential buildings to house approximately 250 children and fifty families (families housed separate from the children) will cost more than $100,000. So we are talking in the vicinity of $150,000 or more to get started.

"You see, the children we are taking in are mostly children who had been abused, molested, and highly neglected. Thirty eight of the children had been abandoned by their parents. The parents simply disappeared! You simply cannot imagine what it is like here. I couldn't have imagined it myself five years ago.

"When 'affirmative action' causes a White man to be fired he tries to find another job, but can't. He uses up his savings and is unable to make house payments. He is then evicted onto the street with his furniture. Leaving his furniture and taking his family and a few articles he drives to a relative who is in as bad a condition as he is. Unable to stay there he drives until he runs out of gas. On foot with his family he wanders the countryside looking for work and something to eat. When his family begins to starve, he becomes desperate. He leaves his children at what looks like a prosperous farm and goes on, hoping that the "prosperous farmer" will feed his children. Unknown to him the "prosperous" looking farmer is seldom prosperous nowadays. He is on the verge of losing the farm and is finding it hard to feed himself let alone someone else's children. The children go somewhere else and there is nowhere else to go! White children roam the countryside everywhere.

"This is what the economic situation is doing to our people. They cannot find work because they are white and because of the 'affirmative action' by the government. Affirmative action means Blacks get all the jobs now, no white person gets employment any longer. Can you see why I am desperate to help our own kind!!

"I heard of a case last week where Black women with a qualification of "Standard 3" (a White child of 11 years is normally in "Standard 3" in school! I don't know what grade that is in America) well, this woman is now placed in posts in government departments where these posts used to be occupied by White people with at least a university degree.

As long as you are Black the job is yours! We will soon be a third world country.

"You asked about General Joubert who was involved during the late South African unpleasantness with the British. Yes, he was a kinsman of my late husband. I am a duPlessis by birth. My grand- father fought in the Anglo-Boer War. My father's mother was a Wagenaar. Her great grand-father was one of the first governors in the Cape in the time of van Riebeeck. My late husband's mother was a sister of a late South African Prime Minister Advocate J. G. Strydom. Do you remember him? He was just before Dr. Verwoerd.

"The one most comforting thought that we have and which you emphasize in your book Wolves and Sheep,[2] is that Sheep have a Shepherd! We must learn from our past mistakes and keep the wolves out of our sheepfold.

"Kindest regards, Darleen Joubert, Pres., Daleen Joubert Children's Home

Editor's Update

Mrs. Joubert's letter contains much interesting information that is omitted from our media. However, HR #243, that follows, reports a phone call from Mrs. Joubert to the effect that in spite of the trust being created to protect them, the Children's Home still lost its lease.

When the editor is informed of a more stable condition established for the care of the children he will pass on the information so that those who wish to help may do so.

---

2 Wolves & The Sheep, Hoskins, Virginia Publishing Co, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505

LETTERS

IMMIGRATION: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Almost no one wants immigration in the country. We have immigration. Why?" J. J. - Mississippi

RKH: America is ruled by international money powers who are Hindu. The Hindu "Rock Edict 7" states "Asoka desires that members of all religions live anywhere they choose." The Edicts of Asoka, p. 61, N.A. Nikam & Richard McKeon, Univ Chic Press, Chicago 1959.

MURDER & RAPE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Where does the American justice system get off putting murderers and rapists back on the streets again." H. S. - Virginia

RKH: The Buddhist-Hindu, or Christian-Hindu believes that there is no heaven or hell - only "reincarnation." If someone does good - when he dies he is instantly reborn perhaps as a rich man or even a king. If he had been bad he may be reborn deformed, a beggar, or even a rat or insect. To execute people when they do wrong deprives them of their chance to redeem themselves before their next reincarnation. America's legal system is no longer Christian.

O.J. SIMPSON: "Dear Dick; Why all the whoop-de-do over a Black who kills his White wife and her Jewish boyfriend? A mention in the newspapers could be understood, but every day is a bit much!!" R. M. - Alaska

RKH: The "OJ Thing" has little to do with murder. The media has been ordered to remove all stops in its promotion of interracial marriage. Almost every TV and newspaper picture shows Black OJ with a pretty White wife; what a desirable marriage it was for the White girl, and how it was approved by her "understanding" and "unprejudiced" parents. Critics of interracial marriage are not allowed to quote God's Law in condemnation. The media is a false witness.

WC/PC: "Greetings From Canada. I read excerpts from your book 'War Cycles, Peace Cycles' and purchased it through my book seller. It is a triumph of reason and research." O. M. - Toronto, Canada[3]

CONFISCATION: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Is there a philosophical reason for the present rash of confiscations of private property?" A. D. - Arizona

RKH: Yes. It is allowed by the 4th plank of the Communist Manifesto. The 10 planks are: 1) No land ownership by private owners (taxed land is not owned). 2) Progressive income tax. (3)Inheritance not permitted. (4) Confiscate rebels. (5) A national bank. (6) Communications and transportation in the hands of the state. (7) Establishment owned production. (8) Equality of sexes. (9) Farming to be combined with manufacturing (corporate interests now own both manufacturing and farming). (10) Public schools. All ten planks are necessary for the proper operation of a wolf-den.

Second: Confiscation of rebels is the second duty of

3 War Cycles / Peace Cycles, Hoskins, Va. Pub. Co., PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505.

4 GOD'S LAW:(1) "Whoso sheddeth man's blood by man shall his blood be shed." Gen 9:6; (2) "Whoso killeth any person, the murderer shall be put to death." Num. 35:29-30; (3) "The hands of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death." Deu 17:5

"Dharmamatras" - enforcers of "Dharma."[5] Their duties are: 1) Instruction. 2) Punishment & rewards. 3) Honors & gifts. The punishment is confiscation. Goverment agents are used as the Dharmamatras.

IRAQI CASUALTIES: "Dear Sir; Anti-abortion demonstators are willing to be beaten and jailed for their beliefs. I never read that they are against the murder of 500,000 Iraqis. What would King Asoka's position be? Care to comment." C. D. - MI

RKH: One enemy at a time. Abortorioums are here. Anti-abortionists can do something about abortion. They can't do anything about American mercenaries chewing up Iraqi women and children. The public still doesn't realize it, but Washington DC could be burned to the ground and the media could keep the rest of the nation from knowing anything about it.

UNFILTERED NEWS

COMPROMISE? Two conservative Republicans soften their tone. Dan Quale, former Vice President, and William Bennet, former federal drug director and education secretary, darlings of the religious conservatives, spoke to the Christian Coalition. Quale appealed to Republicans to be tolerant of homosexuals and abortion. Bennett cautioned religious conservatives not to let issues like homosexuality distract them from pressing matters like the upturn in divorce.

5 DHARMA - Hindu-Buddhist technique of controlling divergent populations. Memory-peg - N.O.T.: "N"- no-violence, "O"-obedience, "T"- tolerance;" Non-violent in word or deed toward other races and religions; Obedience (duty) to Brahma - one's family, elders, village, profession; and obedience to one's king. Dharma - acceptance and tolerance of different peoples and their gods. "DHARMATIZED" - One who voices "politically correct" opinions, or is "silent" - "dharmatized." One who is PC about race, politics, and religion. One who actively accepts or passively tolerates that which is cursed by Jesus Christ. A person or nation who has been conquered by the Buddhist teaching of "Dharma."

RKH: To remain in power the wolf must control both the party in power and its opposition. The wolf media ignores all other contenders. If a true opposition were permitted - disaster could strike at the next election.

TWO GODS: "Church officials in Albuquerque estimate that over a 30-year period as many as 200 people were abused by 45 to 50 priests. The archdiocese currently is defending itself in 41 separate lawsuits. Another 20 people have said they have claims." Christian News, p. 2, 1/10/94 PUNISHMENT: Christendom has two punishments - reparations if possible, if not - death. Christian- Hindus are reluctant to put people to death because it interferes with "karma" and re-incarnation, so they imprison them. Prison punishments in America are now - Murder - 1.8 years, Rape - 60 days, Robbery - 23 days, Arson - 13 days, Assault - 7 days, Burglary - 6 days, Car Theft - 4 days, Theft - 2 days. (Statistics in Your Window Into The Future, p. 7, Aug 1994.

Africa

GUNS: The Black President of S. Africa, Nelson Mandela, expressed support for a nationwide campaign to reduce the number of handguns and asssault weapons in South Africa. A church delegation lead by Bishop Peter Storey of the methodist Church presented the "Gun Free South Africa Plan" to Mr. Mandela. (Story in the S. A. Citizen, 9-3-94) sheep.

ED: The wolf and his surrogates always disarm captured

NELSON MANDELA: "'The savior of S. Africa,' is removing 30,000 White soldiers from the S. Africa military so that Blacks can run the Army. He is removing White teachers and replacing them with Blacks. He has established a 'Truth Commission' that will force Whites to 'Confess' to 'sins in the name of apartheid.' Mandela will force companies to pay Black managers 50% more than they pay White managers. He will tax Whites 50% of their income to pay for his new programs for Blacks. The major media know all this. They just won't report it to the American people." Washington Report, copied from Straight Talk, Oct 13, 1994.

Abortion

KANGAROO COURT: A federal judge denied the Rev Paul Hill the opportunity to make the Biblical defense of "justifiable homicide" in his shotgun slaying of an abortion doctor and his bodyguard. In effect, this ruling denied the supremacy and jurisdiction of God's Law under which Hill maintains that he committed his acts. The prosecution admitted that the abortion center was used to kill (terminate, execute, murder, annihilate, abort, butcher) unborn babies (over 13,000,000 thus far) but that a newly enacted federal abortion clinic access statute gave them the right to do so. Hill, acting as his own attorney, maintained that killing unborn children is murder[6] and that murderers must be stopped. In effect, the judge's ruling denied Hill the opportunity to make any defense at all.[7] This prevented him from cross-examining and questioning witnesses, and he was unable to present any evidence that the court would accept. His brief closing statement was: "This government is unjust because it does not protect innocent life. To the extent we take part in this evil, we must answer to God. May God help us all."

Rev. Paul Hill faces a separate trial in a Florida state court Jan 30 on murder charges and could get the death penalty.

RKH: Jewish zealots kill Palestinians and others for the sake of their god. Islamic zealots blow themselves up to fulfill the commands of Allah. It is silly to think that there are no Christians who love God The WORD as much. The Jews are forced to choose between obedience to their rulers and the words of their rabbis. The Arabs are forced to choose between obedience to their rulers and the words of Mohammed. Increasingly, Christians will be forced to choose between the demands of their rulers and the demands of their God: "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon." Matt. 6:24.

OPERATION RESCUE: The U.S. Supreme Court

---

6 GOD'S LAW:(1) "Whoso sheddeth man's blood by man shall his blood be shed." Gen 9:6; (2) "Whoso killeth any person, the murderer shall be put to death." Num. 35:29-30; (3) "The hands of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death." Deu 17:5

7 (1) "We must obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29; (2) "If ye love me obey my commandments. John 14:15

cleared the way for Operation Rescue founder Randall Terry to go to jail because an anti-abortion demonstrator showed Bill Clinton a fetus during the 1992 Democratic National Convention. The Court let stand Terry's contempt-of-court conviction and 5 month jail sentence for disobeying a federal judge's injunction.

RKH: The American establishment is making the same mistake that the Arab establishment made. Heavy handed force will not do. Already, establishment thugs have broken arms, legs, noses, and ribs of little old ladies, and have caused pro-life protestors to have miscarriages. They have roughed up people who can not fight back. They are sowing the seeds of a whirlwind. Establishment judges and police in Islamic countries are now being judged by those they once judged.

Islam

GAZA STRIP: Yasar Arafat's 9,500 man police force cracked down on Hamas - the Arab fundamentalist organization. Hamas kidnapped a Jewish corporal to hold as hostage for the release of the Hamas leader, Sheik Ahmed Yassin, and 200 others who had been kidnapped by the Israelis. Hamas believes that Arafat has been bought by the American CIA and that the CIA is a surrogate of the Israeli state.

RKH: Increasingly, the leaders of all states are having trouble with their separatist countrymen who insist on following the laws of their ancient gods rather than the wishes of their politicians.

ALGERIA: Algeria: The husband of a feminist activist who resigned as government spokesman last month to protest official contacts with Muslim fundamentalist leaders was stabbed to death. Four men entered the office of the orthodontist husband and stabbed him. He died en route to a hospital.

ALGIERS: Seven Italian sailors had their throats slit in the night. A few days later five E. European technicians were forced out of a bus, forced to kneel, and were shot. A day later, two workers from the former Yugoslavia and two Algerians friends were shot down in a fashionable restaurant. Two leading Algerian education officials were also gunned down. The assailants are believed to be Muslim "fundamentalist" militants who last September declared foreigners to be targets. Already half the foreigners in Algeria have left. (Story in The News & Daily Advance, p. A2, 7- 12-95.

EGYPT: Nobel Prize-winning novelist Naguib Mahfouz was stabbed outside his Cairo home Friday. The Egyptian Organization for Human Rights called the stabbing "intellectual terrorism." The attack is believed to be part of the campaign of fundamentalists to install Islamic rule.

Japan

JAPAN BOUGHT: Retired intelligence officials and former diplomats said that the CIA gave money to the Liberal Democratic Party in the 1950s and '60s, according to the New York Times. The Liberal Demoratic Party ended its 38 year one-party rule last year after a series of corruption cases, many involving secret cash contributions.

RKH: Many believe that the world's merchants rule the world through America's CIA by corrupting the leaders of foreign nations. Practically every Arab and 3rd world leader is believed to be on the payroll. This includes the Soviet leaders, Saddam-Hussein - who the media admits was put into power by the CIA, Peries - the Jewish chief of state, and the most recent - Mandela, who has already received millions, and DeKlerk who has a retirement home in Spain. Whatever can be made grist for the merchant's mill is subject to their attentions.[8]

Back to Table of Contents

8 (1) "A merchant shall hardly keep himself from doing wrong." Ecclesiasticus 26:29 (2) "The kings of the earth, who have committed fornication and lived deliciously with her, shall bewail her, and lament for her, when they shall see the smoke of her burning." Rev 18:9; (3) "And the merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her; for no man buyeth their merchandise any more." Rev 18:11

Chapter 243

FARM SEIZURE

The Reason? - Making Serfs

After the wolf is in the sheepfold his first act is to begin a tax-program designed to seize land - the physical part of the sheepfold. The reason? The sheep who owns his own tax-free land is self- sufficient. He doesn't need the spice-merchant or his goods.

The empire building technique of removing land from freemen and reducing them to serfs is ancient. Douglas Read in his The Controversy of Zion, Noontide Press, Newport Beach, CA, 1985. p. 219, has this to say about it:

> "Next, Karl Marx. The Protocols say, 'The aristocracy of the peoples, as a political force, is dead ... but as landed proprietors they can still be harmful to us from the fact that they are self-sufficient in the resources upon which they live. It is essential therefore for us at whatever cost to deprive them of their land ..."

"Karl Marx in his Communist Manifesto exactly followed this formula. True he declared that Communism might be summed up in one sentence, 'abolition of private property', but subsequently he qualified this dictum by restricting actual confiscation to land and implying that other types of private property were to remain intact. (In the later Marxist event, of course, all private property was confiscated, but I speak here of the strict parallel between the strategy laid down before the event alike by the Protocols and Marx.)"

The transfer of free people into slavery moves in lockstep with the transfer of the ownership of their land to their rulers who are agents of the international spice-merchant. But, before the transfer can take place, the ancient gods who oppose the transfer of land must be replaced with gods that approve the transfer. Only then can the transfer take place.

The Druids

As the invincible Roman armies advanced into Europe, they encountered fanatical opponents among the Celts and Saxons. If conquered, they rose again in revolt after revolt. The Romans questioned their captives and learned that this fanaticism was the result of the teachings of their Druid priesthood. In other words, for the Romans to secure peace over their conquests the Druids must be exterminated.

It was the policy of the Roman Church to destroy the records of religions that were defiant to Roman rule. Because of this, practically all records of Druid beliefs and teachings vanished and the vanished Druids became what their conquerors said they were. This allowed the establishment to create a picture of crazed hooded barbarians, who, in league with trolls and witches, engaged in human sacrifices at night on desolate moors. It has only been in the last hundred years that a more balanced picture has emerged. The following articles give a different view.

"The Druids may be described as an association of professional wise men, philosophers in the early Greek sense, claiming to be experts in all the higher branches of knowledge. They professed special knowledge of the gods, the other world, the future life, the form and measurement of the earth, the movements of the heavenly bodies, the history of men; and they were accepted as authorities in matters of religion and law."[1]

The following sheds even more light:

"An ancient Greek manuscript translated by C. S. Sonnini, and printed in English in 1801 AD tells of St. Paul's visit to Britain. Verse 13 reads, 'And it came to pass that certain of the Druids came to Paul privately, and showed by their rites and ceremonies that they were descended from the Hebrews which escaped from bondage in the land of Egypt, and the Apostle believed these things and he gave them the kiss of peace.'

"Mr. Charles Hulbert, writing in 1825 AD says: 'So near is the resemblance between the Druidical religion of Britain and the Patriarchal religion of the Hebrews, that we hesitate not to pronounce their origin the same."

"Cassell's 'History of England' says: 'The Druidical Rites and Ceremonies in Britain were almost identical with the Mosaic Ritual."

"Crania Brittanica' records: '...the unearthing of a cist or barrow at Stonehenge, in which were the remains of a Druid perfectly clad in his sacred garments, with a breast-plate on his breast, the facsimile of that worn by the Hebrew High Priest."

1 E/B, 14th ed, Ireland, p. 599

"The Ten Commandments of the Druids, were almost identical with those given by God to Moses. The Druids worshipped a Trinity, one of Whose Names was 'Yesu,' so when the early Christians preached Jesus as God they preached the most familiar Name of its own Deity to Druidism. In the ancient British tongue 'Jesus' has never assumed its Greek, Latin or Hebrew form, but remains the pure Druidic 'Yesu.'

"So it seems apparent that the Druids were Levites, and that they too must have arrived in the British Isles before the Israel Nation was established in Palestine. Possibly the 'seven thousand' whom God said had not bowed their knee to Baal were these Druids in the 'Appointed Place,' the Isles of the Sea, North and West of Palestine."[2]

Saint Patrick 387-461

The conquest of Ireland took place without the need for an armed invasion. It is a textbook case.

Saint Patrick was commissioned by the Roman Church to secure Ireland. He was an ideal selection. He knew the land and its people. He was a Briton who had been carried off as a slave to north-eastern Ulster. After laboring six years as a shepherd [3] he was released and made his way back to

2 Jer 31:10; Jer 3:12, 23:8

3 GOD's LAW: "And if thy brother, a Hebrew man, or a Hebrew woman, be sold unto thee, and serve thee six years; then in the seventh year thou shalt let him go free from thee. .. thou shalt not let him go away empty: Thou shalt furnish him liberally out of thy flock, and out of thy floor." Deut 15:12-14

the Continent and spent 15 years studying in the Church of Auxerre. Receiving his instructions he was given the rank of first bishop of the Irish in 431 by Pope Celestine I, and set out for Ireland where he arrived in 438.

He could have gone to any one of a dozen nominal Irish kings, but he chose King Loiguire. The records say that he was vigorously opposed by local priests (Druids), but that King Loiguire, son of Niall, received him eagerly and proved to be an eager listener.[4]

Patrick explained to him the workings of the Catholic Church, how that it was God's representative on earth and its priestly administered "last rites" sent the faithful to heaven. It could also excommunicate and send people to hell. He told the Irish King that the Church was willing to publicly confirm him in his kingship over the lands he claimed, and punish any of his subjects who objected with excommunication. He explained that the parishioners would be required to pay tithes and taxes, and pay the church to pray their loved ones out of purgatory. All this should amount to a tidy sum which would be shared with the king in return for his protection, endorsement, and help in collection. All that was needed was his blessing and protection to set up operations.

King Loiguire was an ambitious man, and in the manner of ambitious men was perpetually short of cash. This offer was the best one that had come his way. He agreed.

Saint Patrick was jubilant. He had arrived in Ireland in 438, and in 439, the short space of a single year, with the king's help he was so successful in establishing the Roman Church that his patron Germius had to send three bishops to his assistance. Their names were Secundinus, Auxilius, and Iserninus. Patrick chose Armagh for his own "see" near the ancient Ulster capitol. These four bishops divided the country between them and Ireland was added to the empire without the usual expense of an invading army.

4 Before the arrival of the Catholic Church, those called "kings" were often judges, or war-leaders, not a king in the modern sense - one who holds himself above his fellows.

Observation

It is interesting to note that Patrick bypassed the obstacle of the Druid priesthood by first securing the protection and endorsement of a sympathetic king. Once the Catholic Church was installed, the Druids were suppressed. Then, the ancient laws of Ireland were replaced with laws of the Catholic Church making rule much easier. Slave ownership was abolished and the freed slaves turned into tithers and taxpayers. Feudalism was gradually introduced which reduced freemen to slaves. Monasteries were established to train priests to manage the new owner's wealth of land and money that flowed into church coffers.

Charlemagne 742 AD - 814

Priests open the gates and prepare the way, but, events move faster if there is a strong conqueror with whom proper arrangements have been made. Such a king will annex the people's land wholesale, punish those who object, and leave it to the Church to manage the property, make collections, and split the take. Charlemagne was such a king.

Charlemagne ruled most of Europe. On Christmas Day in 800, he was hired to protect the empire and the crown was placed on his head by Pope Leo III. He was given the title of Emperor of the Holy Roman Empire, and he was authorized to rule that empire as the Church's representative and protector.

Charlemagne inherited great wealth and a strong army which he used to double the size of his kingdom. In 772, he commenced a 30-year offensive against the Saxons aimed at converting them to Roman Catholicism and annexing their lands. He employed mass executions and deportations in his wars against the recalcitrant Saxons. In 782, 4,500 of them were executed in one day.

Building The Wolf-Den

Old Roman cities in France, whose populations had dwindled to almost nothing, were revitalized as hundreds of thousands of Saxon refugees, dispossessed from their own self-sufficient farms, poured in seeking food and shelter. These destitute new arrivals ensured profits to Church-owned industry by providing both a pool of cheap labor and also consumers in the need of everything.

Organizing Wolf City

These cities were organized like cities in India. A count was appointed by Charlemagne and a bishop was appointed by the Church. The count led the local army and the bishop managed Church property and kept records of rents and taxes. The count's jurisdiction was called "pagi" or "districts," and the overlapping administration of the church was called a "Diocese." The name for districts facing an enemy were "marks" or "marches."

Charlemagne conquered many different peoples and races. Each was allowed to keep his own customs and laws provided that they accept the Roman Catholic religion. The Roman Catholic religion provided the "Dharma" that made possible unrestricted trade throughout the empire. Dharma required obedience to the rulings of the Catholic Church whose rules were enforced by the king's strong arm. The Catholic Church provided ecumenical "Dharma," and the King provided the "Dharmatra-enforcers." The Academic American Encyclopedia "Charlemagne" states that in order to develop trade "he strongly encouraged the development of Jewish communities." The Jews operated the western terminal of the spice-trade that originated in India and China, and being non- Christian, they lent money at usury, but they did it under the close supervision of the Catholic Church.[5] The article ends by saying; "The effect of his conquests was to spread Roman Christianity across central Europe."

Charlegmane's conquests brought to Europe the Roman Catholic religion, rents and taxes, and the feudal caste system. At the cost of countless lives, the independent farm system was destroyed and an integrated empire was installed in its place in which unrestricted trade could take place. The conquered peoples began their slide into serfdom working under taskmasters - all of which was blessed by a god who was what the priests said he was.

==========

LETTER FROM SOUTH AFRICA by K.J.

"Thank you for your phone call and kind words. I really

5 In time, special departments were established to keep track of every Jew and every loan they made so that the usury profits and the foreclosures would be properly shared. The Jews were possessions of the establishment.

appreciate them. Somehow I could never bring myself to write about the dire need of many of our Afrikaners and some English. I kept many news articles but never sent them.

"The HNP Political Party is celebrating its 25th anniversary on Sat 29th. The effort of Jaap Marais and loyal party members are responsible for keeping our ideals alive. They refused financial aid from the state. To keep the aid coming is one reason the Conservative party is looking for positions in the ANC government.

ANC plans for the farmers are ominous. They confiscated young white farmers and then try to encourage them to settle in Zambia in the Zambezi valley. It has a terrible climate with unbearable heat and tropic diseases. We went through this area when we farmed 90 miles south of Lusaka. The land must be bought with a 99 year leasehold[6] but I cannot remember anyone who stayed very long. A white would build up a place and for some reason he would be forced out just as they did in the Congo. The soil is good and rainfall high, but a black government[7] and no infrastructure left or easy access to farm implements or parts, plus other needs such as doctors are real obstacles.

Our schools and universities are all threatened. To compensate, Christian National Identity Education private schools have been established - mostly in small towns. Even Pretoria has one. The number of these will have to be increased in order to survive as a Afrikaner nation.

---

6 Ed. note: This is feudalism at its worse. The land can never be owned but is leased only to revert to its true owner in time.

7 Ed. note: "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: racial alien) over thee who is not thy brother." Deut 17:15

Our Dutch Reformed Church finally went overboard. They had Mandela as guest speaker at their four-year general synod session. He told them how much damage their church did by applying "separateness" etc. and he asked their support for the government lottery program, and that they unite with the black and colored churches. They not only agreed to all this but sang a hymn pronouncing benediction on Mandela, an atheist and ancestor worshiper at best. They confessed their sin of separateness, but will have to convince their members at local level to accept integration. They see no sin in praying with Buddhists, Hindus, Moslems, Jews, etc. and they want to rejoin the World Council of Churches. A Dr. Beyers Naude, an active communist, was also welcomed back with a benediction. The Reformed Church that Paul Kruger belonged to is turning left, leaving dissatisfaction among members.[8]

I marvel at the evil Viljoen is doing. Perhaps he is hoping to receive a title from Her Majesty. His latest effort is cooperation between the Freedom Front, Conservative Party, and National Party, which he hopes will come together in early December to form one group. According to Vijean they aim to obtain a so called Volkstaat that will not exclude anybody because of race or color. Just another lie by Viljoen and the National Intelligence Service. It will be a money power group without nationalism.

The murder of whites continue daily and we are told that 8 Ed note: Most Christian "seminaries" received substantial donations from international spice-merchants in exchange for accepting teachers they selected. Also, they must refrain from teaching the Christian Laws, Statutes, and Judgments, and refrain from condemnation of the Hindu "Dharma-integration" that makes the Spice Trade possible. The result is that today ALL seminary trained preachers are suspected of disloyalty to The WORD which is God.

blacks are flooding the country from all over Africa.

News Items From Africa

CHURCH LEADER SHOT: The shooting of an integrationist white church leader branded "a traitor to his race" raised fears of more retaliation in South Africa. "Police refused to speculate on why Johan Heyns, former head of the Dutch Reformed Church, was killed Saturday night by a single shot to the head. President Nelson Mandela mourned Heyns as a 'soldier of peace.' Heyns died instantly after an unknown attacker using a large-caliber rifle shot him through a window of his home in Pretoria. He was hit in the back of the head." (Story in Atlanta Journal, Nov 7, 1994)

REFUSAL: "The SA Defense Force has admitted that on April 1 it refused an order from the ANC to invade Natal and arrest the KwaZulu government. According to a Frontline Fellowship press release, the military flatly refused to conduct this coup d'etat. Of a 500-man unit called up for this action, only 10 reported for duty." IMPACT, June/July 1994

GO TO ALL NATIONS: "In Rwanda, 500,000 people were killed in two months' time in tribal fights ... Those who commit such atrocities were previously considered good Christians. One Christian leader said, 'After 94 years of evangelization, these murders prove our defeat. 'Christians' vandalized the churches. The people never assimilated Christian values. ... (50% of Rwandans are baptized), but there is little change in their life." Richard Wurmbrand, Aug 1994, The Voice Of The Martyrs.

ED: Almost half the money raised by establishment churches go to foreign missions. It is used to convert Samaritan wolves into "Christian" sheep. As "sheep" they can then enter the sheepfold and hold the door open for the Silk Merchant. Billions upon billions are spent this way every year. Who really believes that false shepherds parading as "ministers of the Gospel" will shut the sheepfold gate on this kind of money? God has not repealed his Law - like breeds like. "I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me." John 17:9

LETTERS

ELECTION: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I'd appreciate your comment on the current national election results." C. C. - California

RKH: Gladly. "Two steps forward - one step back!" It is necessary to give America's sheep a breather. Too much too fast: Homosexuals, baby killing, the Ruby Ridge and Waco Massacres, the kangaroo trials and sentencing of the survivors, "Three Trial Beckwith," King's aquittal and the L.A. riots, murders, rapes, and robberies - wolves protecting wolves. America's abused serfs are beginning to long for their ancient Shepherd and his Law, and are forming militias for mutual protection. Defiance is in the air. To calm them, the establishment appears to be sacrificing a discredited Clinton. They hope this will satisfy the sheep. When things quiet - the wolf attacks will commense again.

America's political parties are elected by the establishment's media. They bless murder and chaos. The book Votescam reveals that elections not won honestly are stolen by electronic voting machines. The Democrats are fast poison - the Republicans slow poison. The International Merchant controls both the ruling party AND its opposition. Failure to control both may allow a true national party to slip into power and possibly destroy the Establishment.

The Democrats were for GATT - the world-wide agreement against trade tariffs. The leader of the newly-elected Republican majority is for GATT. One World Bolchievism marches on regardless who is elected.

In South Africa the opposition to DeKlerk's National Party has been the Conservative Party. The Conservative Party was hastily thrown together to keep the nationalistic HNP Party from power. The establishment media in SA favors both the National and Conservative parties with publicity so that they will remain the "very, very, loyal opposition." The HNP is unknown outside of S. Africa and to many people within.

God's people will learn to compare every establishment word and act to the requirements of God's LAW. They instinctively respect God's LAW. The wolf fears the day when the flock declares: "The reason such-and-such must be opposed is because it violates The WORD which is God!" This will mean that the wolf will have to exchange his silk glove for a steel gauntlet. Everyone will have to choose. No longer will men, women and children be burned alive with impunity. A new age will have arrived.

ORPHANAGE: "Dear Dick; The plight of our kinsmen in South Africa makes you want to weep. I'll contribute and spread the word to others. It seems hopeless to build, being defenseless in the enemies camp. But, what else can they do? Perhaps outside the fence will flow another Blood River." W. D. - Florida

RKH: Be sure to see the end article where the Darlene

Joubert Orphanage had its lease lifted.

PRISONER: "Mr. Hoskins: We've recently won a fight with the prison who tried to ban the Report. The Reports I've gotten from you are read by all the brothers and they are an invaluable source of info. I'm even using them to try and bring the Chaplain here to the truth." B. L. - Colorado

---

ABORTIONISTS LOGIC: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I don't understand how someone can't see that a baby five minutes before it is born is a person just as much as he is five minutes after he is born." O.B. - Virginia

RKH: You are talking about Christian logic. Hindus don't think that way. The E/B states:

> "The theory of the transmigration of souls ... Where the passage of the soul ... with ideas of retribution for the sins or accidents of this life, the influence of Buddhism or Hinduism has probably been at work. ... and often with ideas as to a plurality of souls in a single individual ..." E/B, 14th, #15, Metempsychosis, p. 336

> "In Plato's view the number of souls was fixed; birth therefore is never the creation of a soul, but only a transmigration from one body to another." E/B 14th, #15, p. 337

I am told that many Hindus believe that the transfer of the soul from one who has recently died into a new born baby takes place at birth. If the baby has no soul because there has been no live birth, and, consequently, no transfer of the soul of a dead person into the baby, there can be no murder. "Hinduism" thinly concealed by calling it "Christian" is widespread in America.

PAUL HILL CAN NOW SPEAK: Paul Hill was denied his right to use "Justifiable Homicide" as a defense at his trial for shooting an abortionist. I wrote asking him if he had a copy of the argument he was prevented from using in court. He said would get someone to send me the arguments. When they arrived I found that they were copyrighted. I again wrote for written for permission to use them. Paul Hill made some interesting comments in his letter which are excerpted below:

> "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Both civil servants and those who appoint them must equally submit to Christ's Law-Word. ... Some are elected to rule using the sword or the keys or the rod of discipline - but they are elected to serve under God's Word.
>
> "If they turn from God's Word the responsibilities given them by the individuals immediately fall back on the individuals. i.e. in the abortion controversy, the magistrate no longer defends the unborn so the individuals responsibility to do so is increased.
>
> "In summary. The monolithic unified government needs the individuals in it to constantly challenge it. The government suppresses the individuals when they deviated from The WORD and the individuals challenge the state when it deviates from The WORD. Both are equally ultimate. But those in power arise from the individuals and not vice-versa - Thus those in power must ultimately be subordinate to the many individuals when they turn from God's WORD. In His Service, Paul J. Hill," #SH2-1, PO Box 17789, Pensacola, FL 32522.

NEWS ITEMS FROM AMERICA

CANADIAN ABORTION VIOLENCE: "Police tried to find the person whose bullets critically wounded ... Dr. Garson Romalis as he sat at home eating breakfast Tuesday.

... 'It will raise a level of fear,' said Dr. Mark Schonfeld, president of the British Columbia Mediacal Association ... Romalis performs abortions ... He worked at both of Vancourver's clinics, and was one of the few area doctors who performed late-state abortions. ..." News, A2, Nov. 10, 1994

NORTH CAROLINA MASON: The North Carolina Mason, of March /April 1994, states, "All barriers for membership based on race have been removed from our code." To justify this position the paper used quotes from the Jewish Talmud, Shabbat, 31a, the Christian Bible, Matt 7:12, the Buddhist Udana- Varga 5,18, the Confucian Analects 15,23, and the Islamic Sunnah.

Ignored were the commands of Jesus: "Come out from among them, and be ye separate." 2 Cor 6:17, "For thou didst separate them from all the people of the world to be thine inheritance." 1 Ki 8:51, "When they had heard the law, they separated from Israel all the mixed multitudes." Neh 13:3, "Separate yourselves from the people of the land, and from the strange wives." Ezra 10:11

The only religion that accepts all religions and quotes all religions is the Hindu religion. Hinduism is a trade religion. Anyone with the price of admission, or anyone who promotes business, is honored - anything opposed is condemned. King Asoka, the great missionary prophet of the Hindus-Buddhists said, "One shall not condemn another religion or race by word or deed." This is the Hindu "Dharma position. The North Carolina Masons statement is pure "Dharma. The paper quoted all religions to support their new position. "Ye shall know them by their fruits." Matt 7:16 Their words indicate that the N.C. Masons are just another tight Hindu business organization. By no stretch of the imagination do they fit the description of Christian, Islamic, or Jewish "Separatists" religions.

DESCENT: "Spanish & Portuguese historians - both Jewish and non- Jewish - have accepted the strong tradition that the Sephardim, or 'Spanish Jews' are Judahites. ... Ancestors of these Sephardim who migrated to the Peninsula during the period following the destruction of the first Temple; some of them possibly as early as the time of Solomon." (From Bible Research Handbook, copied from ACP.)

RKH:This argument is used to justify the inclusion of today's Jews into the modern day nation of Saxon-Israel. It is a false argument. It neglects to say "which" Jews are being discussed - the Edomite "Herod type" illegally brought into Palestine by King Hyracanus, or the Israelite adamite type of the rest of the nation represented by Jesus Christ and his followers. The Edomite type were mostly Sadducees who gave lip service to the WORD but obeyed the king. They were ecumenical and had no restrictions against "racial intermarriage" (or anything else) and quickly blasphemed. The scripture teaches "The WORD was God." John 1:1, and God said; "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord; even to his tenth generation shall he not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel)." De 23:2 Spanish Jews have freely married with Ashkanazi Jews living in Russia. These Ashkanazi are Khazar Turks who have converted to Judaism in the relatively recent past. (Others converted to "Christianity"). Turks are mixed-breeds. This makes the Spanish Jews double mamêrs, and thereby excluded from Saxon-Israel by Deut 23:2.

GRAHAM CRACKERS: "The Rev. Billy Graham expanded this week on comments he made concerning interracial marriages in the November Life magazine. 'I don't see anything Biblically wrong with interracial marriage.' the evangelist told the Charlotte Observer. 'There is nothing in the Bible to forbid it.' Graham also reminisced about his friendship with Dr. Martin Luther King, recounting a conversation they had on the subject. 'I asked ... whether he would let one of his daughters marry a white man. He said: 'No, I would not. I have to think in terms of the children.' And I think that's my position." Atlanta Journal Nov 2, 1994

RKH: The Bible condemns racial intermarriage more than almost anything else. "Integration" is the opposite of "separation." Sheep must have separation to exist. "Integration" causes sheep to end up inside the wolf. When a wolf breeds with a sheep - the result is not half and half - the result is one more "wolf." "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord." Deut 23:2

TWO GODS: Hillary Rodham Clinton went to Jerusalem's Wailing Wall, built by King Herod the Edomite-Jew who murdered the Israelite children. She tucked a note into a crack in the wall in the ancient Jewish tradition. (Story In The Atlanta Constitution Oct 28, 1994)[9]

COURAGEOUS TEEN-AGERS: The real world of

9 "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other." Matt. 6:24 teens is much brighter than the nightly news will ever tell. Last year's Who's Who Among American High School Students polled revealed 74% declaring themselves virgins. In the 1992 PRIDE National Drug Survey, 81% of students do NOT abuse alcohol. Cocaine abuse was below 1%. Over 3 million young people prayed around the flag poles last fall." Tall City Evangel 2/94, Midland, TX, Witness, Lubbock, TX 4/94.[10] "Let the Hebrews marry ... virgins ... and no ... harlot, whose matrimonial oblations, arising from the prostitution of her body, God will not receive." Antiq 4:8:23 PUNISHMENT: Christendom has two principal punishments - reparations if possible, if not - death. Christian-Hindus are reluctant to put people to death because it interferes with "karma" and re- incarnation, so they imprison them. Prison punishments in America are now - Murder - 1.8 years, Rape - 60 days, Robbery - 23 days, Arson - 13 days, Assault - 7 days, Burglary - 6 days, Car Theft - 4 days, Theft - 2 days. (Statistics in Your Window Into The Future, p. 7, Aug. 1994.

MIDWEST INDIANS: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I relate to pioneers such as Lew Wetzel. In W. Central Minnesota lies a historical marker detailing the account of the Sioux Uprising and the savagery displayed by the Indians. One marker states that in one family the women were raped and she and their children were killed. A mile away is a marker titled 'The Scalp Dance" which occurred when Sioux savages brought captured settlers to a field and brutally murdered them - making them an offering to their god Okee. Today, there is a movement by anti-whites to take down the monument." A. G. - Minnesota

10 LAW;virgins

EUROPE

MAFIA: "The Mafia controls up to a fifth of all commercial activity in Italy and made a profit of about US$66 billion worldwide in 1993 in business activities ranging from jeans to corporate finance, a new study says, according to a Reuter report. ... The study .... said the Mafia was gaining a foothold in businesses across Europe and the former Soviet Union. The study ... said the Mafia also controlled up to half of the financial holding companies in Italy, one-fifth of the construction industry, and a quarter of the distribution of agricultural products. ... money-lending the Mafia's fastest growing business, ... The report warned that the Mafia had teamed up with its Russian counterpart in several business ventures that earned billions of dollars last year in Eastern Europe and the former Soviet republics." IMPACT, p. 10, June/July 1994

GERMAN CRIME: "Foreigners are estimated to constitute only 8% of the German population, their contribution to crime has been analyzed by Federal police agencies (for 1990) as follows: Pickpockets 79%; Cocaine smugglers 51%; gang rape 44%; mugging 41.5%;. In Frankfurt/Main foreign youth crime reached a high of 67.7% of all crime committed." IMPACT, p. 29, June/July 1994

RUSSIA

YELTSIN A CIA AGENT: "Boris Yeltsin came to power with the help of the American Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). In payback for this, he has been obliged to shape his policies to the advantage of the USA.

"This sensational news was revealed by the CIA to the Atlantic Monthly. Yeltsin's association with the CIA goes back many years, and it was because of this that the CIA were able to decode the secret codes used by the generals during the attempted coup in 1991. On their part, the CIA enabled Yeltsin, using the same code, to talk to the rebel generals and persuade them to give up the whole idea. Yeltsin's bravery - when he stood in that square in front of the Russian parliament in the face of the generals' tanks sent to enforce their authority - now appears to have been pure play-acting.

"The decoding of the rebels' code allowed the CIA to listen in on the conversations between the chairman of the KGB, Vladimir Kruchkov and Minister of Defense Dmitri Yazov. This was the key from which they learned who supported who, and so Yeltsin was able to gain control.

"It is generally accepted that this sensitive information, divulged by Seymour Hersch in the Atlantic Monthly, will help to undermine Yeltsin's position further." IMPACT, p. 17, June/July 1994

Orient

JAPAN BOUGHT: Retired intelligence officials and former diplomats said that the CIA gave money to the Liberal Democratic Party in the 1950s and '60s, according to the New York Times. The Liberal Democratic Party ended its 38 year one-party rule last year after a series of corruption cases, many involving secret cash contributions.

RKH: Many believe that the world's merchants rule the world through America's CIA who corrupt the leaders of foreign nations. Practically every Arab and 3rd world leader is believed to be on the pay roll. This includes the Soviet leaders, Saddam - whom the media admits was put into power by the CIA, Peries - the Jewish chief of state, and the most recent - Mandela, who has already received millions, and DeKlerk who has a retirement home in Spain. Whatever can be made grist for the merchant's mill is subject to their attentions.[11]

CHINA: Chinese authorities have arrested 60 people accusing them of producing pornography. This is part of a national campaign against illicit material.

ORPHANAGE LEASE LIFTED

I received a frantic phone call from Mrs. Darleen Joubert. She has lost the lease to her orphanage and is frantically looking for other facilities.

It appears that the lease on which the orphanage was located is invalid. We had been assured that it was a "done deal." The fact that the orphanage itself existed made it appear that it was so, but apparently that is not the case. The land is occupied by a preacher who does with it pretty much as he likes. He agreed to the orphanage plan. However, the land is really owned by an Evangelical Christian organization that employs him and whose charter only permits certain activities. Its use as an orphanage is apparently not one of them. It's a legal thing.

11 (1) "A merchant shall hardly keep himself from doing wrong." Ecclesiasticus 26:29
(2) "And the merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her; for no man buyeth their merchandise any more." Rev 18:11

This changes the situation drastically. A going concern that has a track record of being able to care for a few children stands an excellent chance of being expanded into one caring for many. On the other hand, starting a new operation from scratch is something entirely different. Many men dreamed of flight. Millions were invested in their dreams, but the Wright Brothers had a workable model. Money invested with them paid off. It was the ancestor of the giant 747. Thirty-three years working with Wall Street has taught me that what is not operational is a dream. Dreams are for dreamers - but a going concern is required before one puts up hard earned money.

I am sorry for Mrs. Joubert and those who are working with her, who through no fault of their own have been dealt this blow. Above all, I am sorry for the needy children who are the ones who will suffer most. However, the need for a "security fence" and cottages for children will still be needed when once again a viable orphanage is in operation. When that time comes, I am sure America's Christians will want to do all they can to help.

In the meantime, your checks will be returned to you. Your self- sacrifice and loyalty to your kinsmen in S. Africa is appreciated. Incidentally, it was a substantial amount of money.

==========

Back to Table of Contents

1994 - Index

A

abortion
- early church beliefs 74

Adrianople
- battle - 378 AD 49

Algeria
- Europeans killed 225
- govt overtures 211

Apocrypha
- Mattathias revolts 28
- mother & 7 sons 28

Asoka
- Asoka's Bequest 165
- Hindu rituals 166
- St. Paul of Buddhism 115
- world conquest 83

assassins
- Assassins & Thugs 97
- by Marco Polo 98
- murder list 101
- organization 98
- training 99

B

Balfore Agreement 69
Beckman, Red 132
Beckwith, Byron de la 158
- kangaroo trial 60
- no lawyer 133

black
- Hindu holy color 157

Black Muslims
- death to Whites 65

Blacks
- cannon fodder for Jews 65
- Voodoo vs Islam 112

bonds
- sale to Christians 96

Buddha
- Christian saint 11

Buddhist teachings 90

C

Catholic Church
- founder 148

Charlemagne 232

Christianity
- first in Britain 143
- reinterpreted 90

Christians
- Talmud against 73

church
- how to organize 113

Clinton, Hillary Rodham
- visits "Wailing Wall 244

Communist Manifesto
- 10-planks 219
- confiscation of rebels 194

Constantine 159
- "Donation of Constantine" 168
- kills family 169

D

death penalty
- reasons for 16

Dharma 86, 115
- Dharma-Christian 81
- Dharmamatras 88
- meaning 219

DNA
- facts about 30

Druids 228

E

Eve
- first racial intermarriage 157

evil
- why evil exists 156

F

farm
- Karl Marx 228
- seizure 227
- self-sufficient farm 183

G

GATT 81
Goths 41
- Hunnic attack 43
- Ostrogoths 45
- Visigoths 47

Graham, Billy 92
- interracial marriages 244

Greeks
- conquered by Dharma 119

Griffin, Michael F.
- shoots abortionist 74

Gulag Archipelago
- unpunished cruelties 209

H

Hanse
- trade organization 55

Hare Krishna 10
hate crime
- Goldstein shoots Arabs 68 hell

- burning 177

Hill, Rev Paul argues justifiable homicide 240 denied Biblical defense 222
Hindu
reincarnation 218
transmigration of souls 240
Hindu-Buddhist symbols lotus & serpent 84
Hinduism 1
Siva Temple 3
teachings 90
tolerance 87
Yogaville 1
Holocaust
4.4m claims 210 figures revised 38 gas chambers missing 38 reason for story 69
Hoskins Report
banning 178
Hoskins, Dr. William country store 192

I

India
Chandragupta 115
Dharma 115
Indians
scalp dance 246
International Trade Cartel
Islam against 211
Islam
unveiled women shot 155

J

Jackson, Jesse enters rabbinical school 38
Japan
CIA election money 247
Jewish Defense League
organizing Christians 112
Jews
why excluded from Israel 243

K

Kahane, Rabbi 69
Jewish Defense League 70
Koran
death to non-believers 66

L

LAW
abortion 75
adding to 169
contracts w/strangers 139 covenant w/strangers 82 curse 85
eating with strangers 62
false witness 75
guarantee another's debt 82 land division 172
land sale 189 merchants 226
monopoly 169
seduction 169
strangers in temple 139
taxes 200
two masters 68
lie
2nd truth lie 34

M

Maccabees
prelude to war 138
map
Alexander's Indian conquests 116
Asoka's India 120
Constantiople dioceses trade .. 160
Europe's waterways 45
Goths in Europe 43
Hinduism in Judea 122
Hinduism spread 121
Hun invasion 47
Huns in Crimea 48
Marcian 137 and Paul 148
discovering Marcian 145
Marcian's trinity 152
Marcianism rise & fall 161
Marcion
Catholic Church Founder 148
Martel, Charles 172
Marx, Karl farms 227 masons
new integration policy 242
Melungians - DNA 30
mind control
terroristic threats 210

O

organization
10s, 50s, 100s 62

P

Patrick, Saint 230
pig pork controversy 25
prayer
praying for everyone 135 preachers

percentage apostate 36 priests lawsuits 221 prisons length of sentences 221

R

rapture 91 rituals Buddhist 166
Roman Church 167
Roman Church
St. Jehoshaphat - Buddha 169
Russia
Hitler's living space 56

S

sadducees
Hindu converts 124 salvation mixed ancestry 113 separatist
Rabbi Meir Kahane 73 serpent
correct translation 179 six-million twice 181
sodomites
top killers 37
South Africa
Black Christians killed 237
Gen Groenewald 206
Gen Viljoen 206
Jaap Marias - Blacks 207
John Heyns shot 237
Mandela's antisaxonism 222 orphanage 173 213 revolt stymied 175
the generals 131
whites replaced 127 synagogue abandoned by Christians 142

T

Talmud
agricultural labor 199
punishing strangers 72
Tate, David - The Order advice to act 61 ritual vs Law 35
Thomas, Judge Clarence
Black Panther Party 209
thugs
see "assassins" 108

V

Vigilantes Of Christendom
converts pagans 95
Virginia
militia 194

W

war
creating demand 198
Weaver, Randy sues government 180

Y

Yeltsin, Boris
CIA agent 246
yoga 9

PAUL HILL'S

DEFENSE

and other stories from

HOSKINS REPORT

1995

Copyright © 2007
by Richard Kelly Hoskins

All rights reserved. No portion of this book may be reproduced without written permission from the publisher except by a reviewer who may quote brief passages in connection with a review.

Published by

Virginia Publishing Company
P. O. Box 997
Lynchburg, Virginia 24505
Phone 434-384-3261

First printing 2007

ISBN 1-881867-23-4
Printed in the United States of America

Also by Richard Kelly Hoskins

OUR NORDIC RACE, 1958

ISBN 1-881867-00-5
Add'l Printings 1958, 1961, 1961, 1962, 1965, 1975, 1986, 1998, 2005

History of the Saxon nation.

$5 copy plus $3 p&h ($5 overseas)

WAR CYCLES/PEACE CYCLES, 1985

ISBN 1-881867-01-3
Add'l printings 1985, 1986, 1991, HB 2000, 2005

History of usury and war. 250 p.

$25/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

VIGILANTES OF CHRISTENDOM, HB 1990

ISBN 1-881867-02-1
Add'l printings sb 1991, 1997, 2005

The Story of the Phineas Priesthood, 472 p. sb

$15/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

THE WOLF & THE SHEEP, 1993

ISBN 1-881867-03-X
Add'l printings 2002

Wolves eat sheep. That's what they do.
Sheep try to keep from being eaten. That's what they do. 78 p. sb

$5/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

IN THE BEGINNING, 1995

ISBN 1-881867-04-8

The Hindu takeover of Western business, politics,and religion. 249 p. sb.

$15/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

Virginia residents add 5% sales tax

1995 - Table Of Contents

244 - PAULICANISM: The deceptive heresy the Roman Empire substituted for Christianity.....1

245 - PAUL HILL'S DEFENSE: The defense the judge refused to allow him to make before condemning him to death.....25

246 - THE THIRD REVOLT: There have been two major revolts against the establishment in the past 2,000 years. The third has started.....57

247 - WHITE BLOOD CELLS: The white blood cells of one's body fights aliens the same way patriots fight aliens. 81

248 - OKLAHOMA CITY: Why the government blew up the federal building in Oklahoma City.....103

249 - THE PROGRAM: The genocide in the South preparing the way for the privatization of her wealth.....121

250 - THE EVIL EMPIRE'S RULERS: Those who actually own the media, courts, politicians and industry. 137

251 - THE QUIET INVASION:Why foreign troops and equipment are stockpiled here in America. 161

252 - THEY SHOT GORDON SELNER: Selner refused to pay taxes for causes he said were immoral. The authorities shot him 185

253 - AUSTRALIA AWAKES: Australia has suddenly become aware that her resources are being looted and that she is vulnerable to invasion.....209

254 - WHOSE LAWS: Two law systems strive for supremacy. One will live - the other will die.....229

255 - IN THE BEGINNING: The story of the International Trade Cartel - born in India and spread worldwide.....251

INDEX 275

Chapter 244

PAULICANISM[1]

"We wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." Eph 6:12

Hinduism vs. The WORD
Buddhist-Hinduism vs. The WORD
Hellenist-Hinduism vs. The WORD
Sadducee-Hinduism vs. The WORD
Pharisee-Hinduism vs. The WORD

1 Christians use Paul to prove the Law. Paulican-Hindus use Paul to disprove the Law. That is the difference between followers of The WORD and Paulicans.

Marcian-Hinduism vs. The WORD
Catholic-Hinduism vs. The WORD
* Paulican-Hinduism vs. The WORD
Protestant-Hinduism vs. The WORD

Hinduism & The Silk-Trade

Hinduism is a trading religious-system. It was created for "people-control" - to maximize profits. ANY religion plus DHARMA is Hinduism. Christianity plus Dharma is Christian- Hinduism.[2]

Hinduism's "Dharma" was designed to include everyone. To exclude potential customers hinders trade. The WORD opposes usury, kidnaping (prisons), monopoly, and dealing with strangers. The WORD impacts trade and automatically incurs the displeasure of Hindu merchants and their hirelings.

In order to open selected geographical areas for trade, the "silk-merchants" spend seed-money to bring friendly kings and priests to office. The ones selected, whose faces you see every day, are selected with the understanding that they WILL NOT teach or honor The WORD with its offending "Laws, Statutes, and Judgments." The sole reason for existence of these kings and priests is to support the Hindu merchant's silk-trade.

Cathars

Forbidden to teach The WORD that condemns the silk-trade and its practices, the selected religious leaders rely on:

2 DHARMA: Buddhist-Hindu teaching to pacify divergent populations - to facilitate rule and expedite trade. Dharma - "acceptance," "non- violence towards," and "tolerance of" different peoples and their gods, and "obedience" to one's rulers.

1) Ritual, entertainment, and social activities to keep their following. (2) "Reform," "self-improvement," or "cleansing" of the individual. This "cleansing" or "purification" is called "Catharism." It retains Christian parables and buzzwords while rejecting Christian Law. Catharism with ritual is all that is left once the Law is abandoned. The name is often used interchangeably with "Paulicanism."

Paulicanism

"Paulicanism" - a later name for "Marcionism." Marcion re- interpreted The WORD brought by Jesus into a substitute religion without the offending Law. He compiled a canon that left out the scriptures that Jesus used and most gospels. He retained Paul, since Paul's teachings contain little Law, and part of Luke. Banning the Law removed the ban against the spice-merchant strangers and his employees.[3] "Paulicanism," was immanently acceptable by the authorities. To the Paulicans, the Law was whatever the preacher said it was. Each Paulican preacher had a different "twist" and local beliefs ranged from the familiar to the bizarre. There were almost as many sects as there were teachers, which meant that there were many, many sects. The US has more than 300 such "sects" today.

---

3 GOD'S LAW: "And the seed of Israel separated themselves from all strangers (5236 nehkr - strange, alien). Neh 9:2; "So shall we be separated, I and all of Thy people, from all the people that are upon the face of the earth." Ex 33:16; "I am Yahweh thy God, which have separated you from other people." Lev 20:24; "They shall not dwell in thy land; and thou shall drive them out before thee." Ex 23:3l-33; "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21,24; "If thou hast stricken thy hand with a stranger (zuwr), thou art snared." Pr 6:1,2; "What part hath he that believeth with an infidel? ...come out from among them and be ye separate." II Cor 6:15-17; "Can two walk together, except they be agreed." Amos 3:3

Paulican Sects

> "PAULICANS, an evangelical Christian Church, spread over Asia Minor and Armenia from the 5th century onwards..."[4]

The same E/B article states that in 868 AD emissaries from Constantinople visited the "Paulican" fortress of Tephrike to try to secure the release of Byzantine prisoners held by the Paulicans. This tells us that Paulicans were not only a strong religious power but also a strong political power.

Many of the eastern Paulican sects drew directly from Hinduism as from the Catholic religion. The results sound strange to our ears. The Armenian fathers held that Jesus, unlike other men, had incorruptible flesh made up of ethereal fire. Other Paulicans believed that certain of their number became the direct agents of the godhead and they became christs here on earth. These "Perfect" or "Elect Ones" are almost identical with the Hindu "Perfect teachers" or living christs. These christs were later honored as "saints."

Paulican princes were in constant conflict with Constantinople, and under the princes' protection Paulican sects sent out clouds of missionaries. Their greatest successes were in Armenia and northwestward among the Slavs in Bulgaria. The crusaders found them everywhere in Syria and Palestine. During the ages following the crusades they are found scattered all over Europe.

Paulicanism was really quite useful. One could claim to worship Jesus without having to do anything Jesus commanded if one didn't want to - it recognized no Law. Their trademark today is the same as it was almost two thousand years ago - their exclusive devotion to Paul and ignoring the Law of Jesus.

4 E/B, 14th Ed, Paulicans, #17, p. 396.

Nestorians

Nestorianism takes its name from Nestorius, Bishop of Constantinople 428-431. Not having the Law to distract him, Nestorius engaged in hair-splitting theological arguments with the priests of Constantinople, in which he was rebuffed. He then went to the strangers in the east and gathered a great following.[5]

Nestorianism was even more successful in the east than its Roman Catholic competition was in the West. Its center was at Ctesiphon on the Tigris, a major trading center. Nestorian missionaries were sent to local rulers with offers to split with them the expected income to be gotten from their subjects. It was "the St. Patrick story" all over again, and again, and again. In exchange for endorsement and protection the Nestorian Christians became established among the people and the income was divided with the ruler.

They founded bishoprics in Syria, Armenia, Arabia, Sarmarkand, Buluk, in Peking and Hsien fu in China, and Kaljana and Kranganore in India. Their missions extended to Japan. In China several emperors became "Christians." They allowed special privileges for the Nestorian-Christian traders from India that were not given to native Chinese.[6]

5 GOD'S LAW: "I was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel, and to them alone." Matt 15:24 N.E.B.

6 This is why China is against Paulican-Christianity today, and especially Catholics which tried to fill the vacuum left by the departed Nestorians.

Nestorian-Christianity was highly respected by Genghis Khan. He fully intended to be the Nestorian's next protector as he planned the conquest of the West. The E/B, 14th Ed, #16, p. 245 says, "Marco Polo is witness that there were Nestorian churches all along the trade routes from Baghdad to Peking."

In time, the Hindus of India and the Buddhists of China came to look on Nestorian-Christianity as religious competitors and so they exterminated them. Their numbers were further reduced by the rise of militant Islam which triggered massacres by the Kurds and Turks. Today, out of the scores of millions of Nestorian Christians there remain less than 100,000.

Bogomils

Paulican missionaries spread their cult to Bulgaria and what was Yugoslavia where they became known as Bogomils after their founder. They adopted several local religious practices that added to their popularity. From there, Bogomil missionaries spread their teachings to Italy and France where they were known as "Cathari" - the "reformers," or, "the pure ones," or, "Albigenses." Presenting a choice to the existing corrupt Catholic rule, they were acceptable to many.

Albigenses

> "The heresy, which had penetrated into these regions probably by trade routes, came originally from eastern Europe. ... they kept up intercourse with the Bogomil sectaries of Thrace. Their dualist doctrines ... present numerous resemblances to those of the Bogomils, and still more to those of the Paulicans." (E/B, 14th Ed, #1, p. 528, Albigenses.)

The Bogomil-Paulican mission to Southern France in the 12th and 13th centuries took the name of the French town of Albi where they were centered and became known as Albigenses. As Paulicans, they ignored the Law and substituted ritual.

> "At all events they were free from all moral prohibitions and all religious obligations, on condition that they promised by an act called convenenza to become 'hereticized' by receiving the baptism of the Spirit before their death or even in extremis." (E/B, 14th Ed, #1, p. 528)

The above means that just before an Albigencion died he had to say to God, "excuse me," for a lifetime of wrong doing and then he could go to heaven. "The Law is done away" has great allure for many who wish to do as they like without fear of consequences. In the Hindu manner they rejected the eating of meat since the spirit of another human soul might be imprisoned there. They also rejected the traditional teachings on hell, purgatory, and the sacraments. (Hinduism has neither heaven, hell, nor purgatory. One is rewarded or punished by being reincarnated in a better or worse state.) The "perfect masters" received a baptism of the soul which was administered by laying on of hands. These "perfect masters" were expected to observe a severe ethical code that their co-religionists did not have to observe. Their reward for their clean living was that they were looked upon and obeyed as living christs on earth. With their faults the Albigencens were comparative angels beside the worldliness of the Catholic Church.

Using the "St. Patrick" technique in France, they approached William IX, Duke of Aquitaine, and, exchanging a portion of future income for his protection and endorsement, they quickly established an episcopacy led by bishops and gathered a large following. Soon, a great part of the southern nobility followed suit. This replaced the Pope's rule and took the income that had formerly gone to the Catholic Church.

Suppressing Heretics

Pope Innocent III called for a crusade against this invasion of his domain. This resulted in the infamous Albigensian Wars 1209- 1229 between northern and southern France. The massacre of the the villagers of Beziers and other atrocities rapidly followed one after another.

Catholic religious orders such as the Cistercians and Dominicans were entrusted with Albigension suppression and were sent in to deal with it. The French king was given authorization to do the actual fighting. He was paid by being given the rule of the lands he conquered from the Albigensian nobles in the south. His followers were rewarded by giving them rule over conquered villages and farms. Feudalism was at flood tide.

The Inquisition was developed by the Dominican Order to deal with suspected heretics. Torture and the smoke from burning victims was the order of the day. In 1245, the Inquisition seized the Albigencion citadel of Montsegur, and 200 "Cathari" were burned in one day. Severe chastisement was decreed against all suspected of sympathy with the heretics. The search for Catharists groups spread out all over Europe for the next 100 years.

Waldenses

The Waldenses in the 12th century took the name of their founder, Peter Waldo, a wealthy Lyon, France merchant. It too was a Paulican reform movement. They were critical of unworthy clergy, the abuses of the church, and revealed their true origins with their refusal to take human life under any circumstances in spite of The WORD's command to take the lives of murderers, rapists, and kidnapers.[7]

The Catholic Church attacked the Waldenses in the same manner as the Albigensions. After 80 of their members were burned at Strasbourg in 1211, most of the survivors hid themselves high in the mountains of Northern Italy.[8]

Inquisition-Dhamamatras[9]

To perform specific tasks, the Catholic Church creates - "orders." Each "order" is assigned a specific task. The duty assigned the Dominicans was that of Dharmamatras. They investigated, rewarded and punished heresy. The accused were brought before inquisition tribunals where they had to prove their innocence. If they straightway confessed to minor infractions they were given punishments ranging from whippings to performing penance. More serious violations were punished with confiscations and death.

If inquisitors had to spend time obtaining confessions with torture the victims were often confiscated and then burned. If one ran - confiscation was automatic.[10]

The confiscation of the estates of heretics was a great source of income to the Catholic church. The various Paulican and Cathar sects - the Bogomils, Albigensions, Waldenson,

7 The Edicts of Asoka, N.A. Nikam & Richard McKeon, Univ Chic Press, 1959, (non-violence) "Nature of Dharma as meditation and non-violence." Pillar edict VII, (cont. from IV.1), p. 40

8 Today's surviving Waldensian church is a member of the World Presbyterian Alliance.

9 Dharmamatras: A Buddhist Dharma-supervisor - a category of high officials charged with the promulgation and supervision of morality. "Dharma- mahamatras."

10 This policy is copied in the 4th plank of the Communist Manifesto requiring "confiscation of rebels and emigrants." Confiscation is also US government policy toward those they "criminalize."

and others served to fill the Vatican coffers for many years.

Crusades & Pilgrimages

It is important to grasp the unbelievable power of the Catholic entity, its strengths and its weaknesses. This organization launched a crusade that involved the entire West - all of its kings, all of its nobles, and all of its people - everyone participated in one way or another. The people were told that they were serving God. Its true motive was to gain back land that had been lost, to garner money from Palestine's holy places, and to capture protection money from the silk-trade profits that now was going to the Arabs who stood astride the trade routes. All these used to be the exclusive monopoly of the Catholic Church.

The organization that launched the crusades is efficient. It has launched many other crusades using the same techniques and the same system of rewards and punishments.

Pilgrimages

Hinduism requires pilgrimages to holy places. Most holy places contain "relics" consisting of body parts of saints long dead, or is a place where a miracle occurred. India has many such holy places. Reaching "nirvana" requires many good works. Making a "pilgrimage" to a shrine is considered a "good work." Leaving a rich gift for the priests is a "good work." The greater the gift - the greater the good work. Such good deeds count for much to the one seeking nirvana.

The Roman Catholic religion also has many important pilgrimage shrines. They are established in the same way in every land where Roman Catholicism is practiced. The most important are in Palestine and consist of Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Lydda, and Nazareth. The wealth left at these holy places by devout pilgrims hoping to buy the keys to the Kingdom is truly mind-boggling. Shrines are an important source of Church revenue.

Until the 7th century, Palestine and the silk-trade ports were safely protected by the armies of Constantinople. When Constantinople fell to Muslim conquest, arrangements then had to be made with the new Turkic rulers to give them a large share of the profits in return for permeating Christian pilgrimages. This worked until the 11th century when greedy Seljuk Turk rulers demanded almost all of the pilgrimage offerings. Constanople's refusal resulted in the Muslims banning pilgrimages.

The Muslim ban provided the Roman Pope an opportunity, an opportunity that he was quick to seize. An agreement was reached with Constantinople that if Constantinople would not interfere, and if the Pope's armies were successful in conquering Palestine, the Roman Church would get Palestine and the pilgrimage income, plus the income from the Indian silk-trade. Constantinople, in return for supplying and transporting the Roman Catholic armies in transit past the city of Constantinople, would get the vast lands that would be conquered by Western crusaders passing though Turkey on the way to Palestine.

Issuing The Orders

The Pope marshaled his armies. He proclaimed a Crusade to free the Holy City and rescue the grave of Jesus from the infidel.

"Constintine's Bequest" gave the Church all the land of the Roman Empire, including the lands of the west. The Church parceled out this land to kings to manage. The princes of the world held their principalities from the Church "in fief"

- a feudalistic concept.[11] The kings of Europe were bound by feudal oath to fight for the Church, the nobles were bound by feudal oath to fight for the kings, and the peasants and yeoman were bound to fight for their nobles. As an added incentive, the Pope promised them - "eternal merit," "land," and "indulgences,"[12] and he also promised to take back the fiefs and excommunicate and send to hell all those who would not honor their feudal obligations. Because of these incentives - millions "volunteered."

Fruits Of War - 1099

The Pope proclaimed the first crusade to be a success. The Roman Church got the Palestine shrines and their income. The Orthodox Church got back their lost lands in Turkey. The Western kings and knights who fought the wars with their peasant and yeoman followers were decimated. Most died. By the millions they died.

Back home the nobles had mortgaged their estates to finance their part in the crusade. Since usury was a capital crime to Christians,[13] the Church used the infidel Jews to do what they could not do - lend the needed money at usury. The Church decreed that while crusaders were alive and fighting, interest on their loans only accumulated, but payment was not demanded. If they died, or returned home, payment was due.

11 Feudalism has four castes 1. priest, 2. king and warrior, 3. farmer and merchant, 4. worker. Feudalism was imported from India.

12 An "indulgence" was an official signed document granting God's "Pardon" for sins - a veritable passport to heaven. In time these indulgences were bought and sold in everyday business.

13 GOD'S LAW: "Hath given forth upon usury, and hath taken increase ... he shall surely die." Ezek 18:13

If not forthcoming, their estates were foreclosed and passed into the lender's hands.

The kings numbered and taxed the Jews to gain their portion. They also received the Jews entire holdings at their death. The Church received its portion from its vassal kings according to prior agreements.[14]

The Latin Kingdoms

Christian rule in Palestine was doomed from the start. Instead of dividing conquered lands among the people by lot Biblically,[15] the Catholic Church paid its crusading kings by giving them the lands they had captured - en fief. The kings divided their allotted holdings to their loyal counts on the same basis. The counts divided their share among their surviving knights, who in turn divided their shares among their surviving men-at-arms. It was a closed monopoly-agreement. Since so few survived, the land allocations were far larger than had been planned earlier. The few controlled much and the land was sparsely settled by them. As a result, the Crusader Latin Kingdoms, with kings and hundreds of barons, 14 "The Jews could freely reside in such towns only as had an Archa for the preservation of the Jews' deeds and starrs, from which the king could ascertain their capacity for further taxation." J/E, England, p. 165; "The clergy complained that ... the Jews (did not) ... pay the tithe to the Church." J/E, Portugal, p. 136; "They lived on excellent terms with .. the clergy; they entered churches freely, and took refuge in the abbeys in times of commotion ... and helped to build a large number of the abbeys and monasteries of the country." J/E, England, p 162; "All property obtained by usury ... fell into the king's hands on the death of the usurer." J/E, England, p. 162; "The deeds proving the indebtedness ... to the Jews were not in the tower, the mob rushed to the cathedral, and there took possession of them and burned them." J/E, England, p. 162.

15 GOD'S LAW: "Joshua divided the whole land by lots to Israel for an inheritance, as the Lord had commanded him." Jasher 90:19; "The land shall be divided for an inheritance ... To many thou shalt give the more ... to few thou shalt give the less ... the land shall be divided by lot." Num 26:53-55;

thousands of counts, and tens of thousands of men-at-arms arriving monthly as reinforcements to fulfill their feudal obligations to the Pope, were short of settlers and fighters. They could retain almost none of the reinforcements since there was no free land on which to settle them. Most "defenders of the cross" were forced to return home as paupers.

Approved Lifestyle

The Christian conquerors of Muslims, after satisfying their initial blood lust, allowed most to remain to work the land, and even tried to convert them. As a consequence, and with the Church's blessing, many Christian rulers found solace in the dusky arms of comely Turk women - thereby delivering the land and inheritance to their mixed-breed Turk offspring in the next generation.[16]

Business First - Constantinople's Conquest

Being an ally of the Vatican was like being an ally of the United States today - it was risky business. Constantinople was wealthy and its defenses weak, so, in 1204, the Pope's armies stormed Constantinople and made off with its gold. Of even more value was its treasure house of relics that had been collected for a thousand years. There were bones of saints and pieces of the cross on which Jesus was crucified.[17] These found new homes in Europe's churches and became drawing cards to the credulous. Pilgrimages to these sites deducted years from one's allotted time in purgatory - as did a sinner's donation of land to the shrine.[18]

16 GOD'S LAW: "The lips of a strange (2114) woman drop as a honeycomb ... Remove thy way far from her ... lest strangers (Heb: zwer - racial alien) be filled with thy wealth." Pr. 3-10; "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of Israel." De 23:2

17 It is said that there were enough "pieces of the cross" in existence to have built the Spanish Armada.

The Vatican's occupation of Constantinople lasted for 57 years before the Greeks reclaimed their city. In the meantime all the rents and taxes from the lands, businesses, and peoples that had formerly been claimed by the Eastern Church went to the Roman Church.

Constantinople next fell to the Turks in 1453, a fall from which she did not recover. Russia then became the head of Constintine's Eastern Orthodox Church. The Czar of Russia and his church owned virtually everything in Russia and his nobles held their lands in fief.

When the Khazar-Turks revolted in 1917 and killed the Russian Czar and took control of his government - the ownership of the land, businesses, and peoples of Russia, and the Orthodox Church itself, passed to the new government which still owns it. It was this new Soviet Turk government who appointed and confirmed the Christian Orthodox Church officials. These new Soviet rulers were the same Khazar-Turks who converted to Judiasm in the 9th century. The church confessionals that had worked so well as intelligence gatherers for the Czar's government now supplied intelligence to the new communist government.

Many Khazar-Turks switched to Orthodox-Christianity. Some became priests. In Roman-Catholic Poland, todays' Polish Catholic Pope was first approved as a priest by the Soviet communist occupation government. This, plus the popes approval of the widespread Turkish immigration into Europe has fueled speculation among Catholics whether or not this present pope is himself of Polish Turk descent.

---

18 GOD'S LAW: "Ye shall not offer unto the Lord ... an offering thereof in your land." Lev 22:24

Letter From S. Africa by K. J.

Mr. Willie Marais, chairman of the HNP, has warned of interest rates going up to 30%, and we have heard for a long time that the word passed to the banks is to reduce lending to homeowners. This could land many more whites on the street. The ANC has been recklessly spending money on administration budgets and banks are creating money at a rapid rate with 22% more in August, but not for productive purposes.

Mr. Jaap Marias pointed out at a main council meeting that the full extent of the treason perpetuated by Viljoen, Dries Bruwer and Dr. Piet Gous has still not been fully exposed, and that their acts are mostly against our farming community. He also warned that Viljoen's Freedom Front, the Conservative Party and the Broederbond (now Africanere Bond) will use the upcoming education crisis to force unsuspecting people to support them. The Broederbond was i the forefront selling us out to the communists.

Prof. Johan Heynes, Former Dutch Reformed Church moderator, assassinated on Nov 5th in his house, makes strange reading. The ANC and Viljoen immediately tried to blame the right-wing and use the incident as an excuse to disarm them. Heynes was a spent factor. He split his church and those who did not agree left long ago. The feeling is that the left-wing needed a martyr. Joe Slovo expressed his outrage in parliament.

His funeral was a strange affair. In spite of using every luxury in life, the family chose what we call a "jewish coffin" of plain cheap wood with rope handles. The burial took place at the cemetery with few family, friends and servants present. Only after that did they have a service at a Dutch Reformed Church, a service much in keeping with the Jewish faith. My daughter saw him close up earlier this year at a gas station and she was convinced that he wasn't one of us. We may never know who did what. It was a strange affair.

Best wishes, K.J.

LETTERS

CATHOLIC PUT OFF: "Mr. Hoskins: I was initially a little put off by a few of your Hoskins Newsletters, but I never faltered in being a fan of your work. I'm more aware now than before of the Catholic Church's shortcomings." M.R. - Nevada

RKH: I haven't meant to single out the Catholic Church for criticism. However, for 1000 years they were the only ones around and it was they alone who were responsible. Now, most Protestant Churches are doing many of the same things the Catholic Church did to incur the wrath of the people and God and they share the guilt. Followers of The WORD which is God have much to do.

WE DID SOMETHING RIGHT: "The media is always telling how bad whites are and how good blacks are. I know one thing the media won't tell. I was on Bouginville in WWII. The Japs attacked the black 93rd Infantry Division. The U.S. Army couldn't keep the blacks in the line - they would run away as fast as they were rounded up and put back in the line. Finally, the U.S. Army had to disband the division and put the personnel in truck and quartermaster units. The media won't talk about it but it happened! We whites weren't so bad when we had to do the blacks' share of the fighting as well as our own." A.E. - Wisconsin.

MISSING LINK: Dear Mr. Hoskins: The Hindu scenario and the 'Spice Merchant' fill the 'missing link' of the mystery. The moral degenerates ruling the Christian West are only agents. What other types could they find to betray their own? It's all there - reason and everything." W. A. - Spain

---

VENGEANCE IS MINE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Explain "Vengeance is mine, I will repay." Romans 12:19." A. I. - California

RKH: The WORD says who God is: "In the beginning was the WORD, and word was with God and the WORD was God." John 1:1; God is the WORD. The WORD then explains who Jesus is; "The WORD was made flesh, and dwelt among us." John 1:14. Jesus is the personification of the WORD. We can not understand the WORD made flesh except through the parables and examples of Jesus. The WORD says what God's name is; His name is called The Word of God." Rev 19:13.. The WORD says "Vengeance belongeth to me, I will repay". deut 32:35. Who? "Vengeance" belongs to The WORD! Not you, not me, but The WORD. The WORD spells out exactly who shall die and who shall live. Murderers, kidnapers, and rapists are condemned to death by The WORD. The WORD also forbids killing others who it protects. Vengeance is not personal. Who shall live and who shall die are determined by The WORD which is God. The WORD established a priesthood to enforce the decrees of The WORD. "Vengeance is mine (The WORD's), I (The WORD) will repay." Paulicans, living without the Law, love to bless evil by saying that someone in a long dress and blond hair and a a beard will some day use magic to clear up the world's problems, and in the meantime all that people should do is to pray. Recognizing no law, the Paulican priests themselves describe how this feat of magic will be accomplished. To them "Vengeance is mine I will repay" means whatever they choose it to mean. To Christians who follow The WORD, it means what it says it means.

IMMIGRATION: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Is there an economic reason immigrants are pouring into the U.S.?" A.F. - Washington, DC

RKH: Yes. J.F.K., The CIA, & Vietnam by Fletcher Prouty reveals that Ho Chi Minh was a CIA agent. North Vietnam was armed by the CIA with weapons previously stockpiled for the WWII invasion of Japan that did not take place. The CIA, in league with Catholic Priests in North Vietnam, scared 1.3 million Cochien Chinese Catholics into refugeeing south with stories of a planned Communist persecution. The CIA promised them food, shelter, and land and used American planes and ships to transport them. Then they arrived in S. Vietnam they found none of these things. They became bandits to keep from starving. These were the so-called Viet Cong that helped overthrow our South Vietnamese "ally" - after the U.S. agents assassinated the S. Vietnamese president.

The scum of the earth have been promised food, shelter, and jobs in the U.S. and are immigrating here to get them. Most are finding no jobs, no shelter, and little food. They will become America's Viet Cong. The same thing is happening in Europe, S. Africa, and Australia. The establishment is using "ecumenical - dharma" to condition the natives. Gun-control is being pushed by bolsheviks in government to prepare the way. The 30,000,000 killed by abortion creates a shortage of labor and is the excuse used to justify the invasion. In Germany, two babies die for each one born. Media hype has caused us to take major casualties before the war gets hot and there are 30,000,000 less the bolsheviks will have to fight and kill. Everything is on schedule.

KILLER VIRUSES: "Editor The News: We face a new highly virulent killer virus that makes HIV and the resultant AIDS look friendly ... The real threat to our population is from viruses in the rian forests of Zaire, Rwanda and other countries of the equatorial wilderness. The Marburg and Ebla virus are just two of the 18 emerging filoviruses, which are level 4 viruses (the most dangerous and no cure) compared to the Kinshaw Highway (AIDS) virus, which is level 2. ... These viruses are aerosol in nature and can be transmitted by breathing. The viruses travel easily from one infected person to another person by touching or breathing the same air, which cannot be filtered. The viruses seem impossible to stop and fatal in 30-34 days. Ebola Zaire could wipe out a hospital through the ventilation system in little more than a month and then radiate outward into the community. The viruses are unstoppable, if they arrive in this country." Lt. Col. D. M. Hopkins, USMC (Ret), Monroe, Virginia. The News & Daily Advance, p.3, 8-28-94

RKH: My father, a medical doctor, practiced four specialities at the same time - Eye-Ear-Nose & Throat, Internal medicine, Urology, and Surgery. He was very interested in Black diseases and discussed the matter with other doctors. It was his opinion that Black diseases, still unidentified, caused the high death rate prevalent among White children before the War Between The States. After the War the races were separated and the death rate fell to the level of that among White children in other parts of the country. Along with many other doctors, he considered eating or drinking after Blacks, or contact sports with them an unacceptable health hazard. The health statutes of Virginia reflected this general belief and required separate water fountains, eating and toilet facilities, and forbade mixed sports events.

UNFILTERED NEWS

MONOPOLY: "Montpelier, VT: A state board Friday denied a permit to build the first Wal-Mart in Vermont, fearing it will drive smaller stores out of business." News & Daily Advance, p.2, December 24, 1994

RKH: This is front page stuff hidden on p.2. it is called "Interposition - the interposing of the power of the state between the Federal Government and the people of a state." This is what the State of Virginia (the king) did to protest Federal Government's (the priest) seizure of Virginia's schools to implement "ecumenenical-Dharma." It would have succeeded except the "priest" had placed a "DeKlerk" named "Almond" in Virginia's governor's mansion. He betrayed Virginia and wa paid for his treachery with a Federal judgeship and pension for life.

The feudal system's never-ending battle between "State" and "Priest" for supremacy continues. In time it always presents the 3rd class - "farmers & store keepers" along with the 4th class - "the workers" their opportunity. In the past most land and business corporations were owned or controlled by the Church. Little has changed. Today, most land and business corporations are controlled by unknown owners who vote stock held by banks in trust departments or in nominee names. History reveals that priests organized usury banks while persecuting others for violation the Law against usury. It was an establishment monopoly. The Swiss and Italian bank defaults of the late '60s and early '70s revealed that the Church owned banks - a thing that cannot be where The WORD is King. both king and priest dread the day when The WORD will rule - alone.

POPE PAUL II SPEAKS: "From the beginning, Christian Revelation has viewed the spiritual history of man as including, in some way, all religions, thereby demonstating the unity of humankind ... The Church sees the promotion of this unity as one of its duties: There is only one community and it consists of all peoples." Times Fax, p.7, Oct 17, 1994

RKH: Religious toleration is required to have free trade, but toleration of false gods conflicts with the separation required by Jesus Christ: "For thou didst separate them from all the people of the world to be thine inheritance." I Ki 8:51; "Come out from among them, and be ye separate." 2 Cor 6:17; Dharma- integration is Hindu-Brahmanism.

READY WILLING AND ABLE: "The Oppenheimer interests which are on very good terms with the ANC made an offer to the ANC government to buy state assets if they are privatized ... so that the ANC can finance their housing plans. ... The ANC regime is busy negotiating with the Oppenheimer group over the disposal of what is left of the SA family silver. Sasol and Iscor are already gone. The next state enterprise is Eskom (assets R49.9 billion), Transnet (assets R56 billion), Denal (assets R3.2 billion(, Alexcor (R236 million), Safcol ($660 million), and Aventura (R165 million). Foreign companies have indicated that they will pay big money for arms manufacturer Denel to obtain its secrets. Oppenheimer has his eye on Industrial Development Corp which has mining and chemical interests. ... total worth about R7 billion. ...It is expected that Oppenheimer's personal friendship with Mandela with decide the issue." Die Afrikaner, 29 Jul - 4 Aug 1994

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 245

PAUL HILL'S DEFENSE

On March, 10th, 1993, Dr. David Gunn was shot and killed as he was about to enter an abortion clinic in Pensacola, Florida. Five days after Dr. Gunn's death, Rev. Paul Hill appeared on the Phil Donahue Show to defend the use of force to protect innocent life. Soon after he was arrested. At his trial the judge refused to let him make a defense of "justifiable homicide", so he stood without a defense, mute, and was condemned to death.

The media would not allow Hill's Biblical arguments to appear in print, so HR's editor wrote and asked for the Scriptures on which he had planned to base his defense. In reply, he sent a paper he had written in July 1993. From this, he planned to excerpt his argument to the jury. This paper by Paul Hill explains his position and is printed with permission.

Two Essential Distinctions

Two distinctions must be made in order to rightly understand the issues surrounding the death of Dr. Gunn.

1) Distinguish between the wisdom of using force to defend the unborn and the justice of so defending the unborn. The wisdom of using force to defend the unborn has been debated by many. Some say it harms the pro-life cause. It is best to suspend judgment on any given forceful act to defend life until all the facts are in.

The wisdom of using force to protect life would depend on many variable factors. Certainly not any or every violent act intended to protect life would be wise. It must not be forgotten that we not only have a responsibility to protect the unborn, but we also must protect ourselves and provide for those dependent upon us. Our current government threatens you with imprisonment or death if you protect your unborn family members or your unborn neighbors with force. Individual discretion is, therefore, required to determine when any given defensive act would be wise.

The justice of using force to defend the unborn is apparent if we don't forget that the object is to defend unborn babies from violent death. The justice of using force to protect unborn children from deadly force would be easy for you to affirm if your life had been spared by the use of defensive force.

2) The second distinction to be made is between what is just and what is legal. It is self evident that a government may declare an act legal that is actually unjust according to God's law. A slave owner prior to the Civil War may have abused his slave in a way that was legal, but ultimately unjust. The present abortion laws legalize the killing of unborn children, but they are unjust in God's eyes. Yet this legalized killing was just about to be carried out when David Gunn's life was taken.

Don't Forget The Babies

Your conclusions on this matter will be largely determined by where your true sympathies lie, with the doctor or with the preborn children.

If next to Dr. Gunn's dead body were to be spread the gruesome remains of the thousands he killed, the mere space needed would be staggering.

Most equations that condemn using force to defend our children do not duly consider the children in question. Many distort the true situation by focusing on the force used to stop a "legal act." In reality, it is just to protect the innocent from a bloody death at the hands of a paid killer.

Anyone who denies that the preborn are human beings would have no basis upon which to defend them with force. If the preborn are in fact human we owe them the same protection we would render any other defenseless human. If we believe the preborn are living human beings, how can we justify defending them with force only after they are born?

Biblical Basis For Defensive Action

In order to determine if we may use force to protect the unborn we must ask and resolve two questions. The first question is, "What responsibility does the individual have toward his neighbor if his neighbor's life is about to be taken by force?" The answer to the question is, "You must take all action necessary to protect innocent life."

The Bible clearly teaches that we may protect our own lives from unjust harm with deadly force if necessary;

> "If the thief is caught while breaking in, and is struck so that he dies, there will be no blood guiltiness on his account." Exodus 22:2

The Scriptures also clearly teach that as we should defend our own lives with force, we should also do so for our neighbor. The second great commandment is to "Love your neighbor as yourself." Luke 10:27

Surely Rahab protected the innocent lives of her neighbors when she hid the Israelite spies, Joshua 2:1-24. The Hebrew midwives also defended the lives of the Jewish boys, Exodus 1:15-22. The disciples protected the innocent life of Paul from imminent death in Acts 9:23-25. They helped him escape Damascus by lowering him in a basket through an opening in the wall. In each of the situations referred to above, whatever action was necessary to protect life was taken. In Exodus 22:2 deadly force is justified when used in defense of the innocent. In the case of the midwives, deadly force was not necessary. Therefore, the Scriptures clearly teach that we should take whatever action is necessary to protect innocent life.

The second question that must be asked is, "May we use force to protect unborn children from imminent death even if the government forbids us to do so?" The answer to this question is found in Acts 5:29b. When the State or any other authority requires one to do what is contrary to God's law, the child of God "must obey God rather than men." This was clearly the opinion and practice of Peter and the Apostles.

The Hebrew midwives were greatly blessed by God for defending innocent life though the civil authorities forbade them to do so. Moses also illegally used deadly force to defend the innocent, "and when he saw one of them being treated unjustly, he defended him and took vengeance for the oppressed by striking down the Egyptian." Acts 7:24. He did so even though no one had appointed him ruler or judge, Acts 7:27. In this context Stephen clearly extols Moses for delivering the oppressed Hebrew from the Egyptian. His point is to condemn the Jews for rejecting the deliverance of Moses and Christ. Hebrews 11:24-26 clearly refers to the act of Moses as an act of self- denial.

Acts 9:23-25 and II Cor 11:32-33 tells us the Jews joined with local civil authorities in seeking the death of Paul in Damascus. The disciples certainly broke common local laws forbidding individuals to breach the walls of a city when they let Paul down in a basket. Clearly breaking these laws Paul and his disciples were actually protecting innocent life from imminent death. Laws designed to protect life may be violated if the violation does in fact protect innocent life. Individuals may, therefore use force to deter a mass murderer who wantonly begins to kill innocent school children. Using the same logic, we may also use force against mass murderers who wantonly kill preschool and preborn children. We should do so even if some horribly unjust law presumes to declare it to be wrong to do so.

If we should defend born children, we should also defend unborn children. If we should defend born and unborn children from harm, we should also do so if our government forbids us to do so. As Rahab, Moses, the Hebrew midwives and Paul all broke the law to do whatever was necessary to protect innocent life, so may we.

There is no question that deadly force should be used to protect innocent life. The question is, whose life is innocent - those who kill our children or the children who are being killed? The government believes those who kill our children should be protected. We believe the unborn should be protected. The question then for us is, whose life is innocent - those who kill our children or the children who are being killed? The government believes those who kill our children should be protected. We believe the unborn should be protected. The question then for us is, should we protect innocent life from harm if the government forbids us to do so? The Golden Rule clearly and irrefutably answers the question in this way;

> "Therefore whatever you want others to do for you, do so for them; for this is the Law and the Prophets." Matthew 7:12.

If someone was about to tear your limbs from your body, what would you do? If you could defend yourself with force, would you? If you couldn't defend yourself with effective force, would you want someone else to? If so, Christ teaches that you should treat others similarly.

If you dispute this clear teaching of the Bible you will have assumed the unbearable burden of having to prove the justice of using force to protect the born, but not the unborn. You can no more deny our responsibility to defend the unborn with force than you can deny the good Samaritan's responsibly to aid the wounded and dying traveler. The priest and the Levite must have tried to justify their neglect of the dying traveler. Has human nature changed so drastically that we are no longer in danger of justifying our neglect of our neighbors?

Ethical Basis For Defensive Action

In addition to defending the innocent from a brutal death there are other reasons for using force in the abortion controversy. One of these reasons is found in Numbers 35:33;

> "So you shall not pollute the land in which you are; for blood pollutes the land and no expiation can be made for the land for the blood that is shed on it, except by the blood of him who shed it." Numbers 25

Another is through the example of Phinehas. Phinehas violently took the life of two immoral persons in order to turn God's wrath away from the people. Numbers 25 tells us that the Israelites were playing the harlot with Moabite women. God's wrath in the form of a plague, therefore, turned against the people. As a result of the sins committed, Moses and the Judges were weeping before the tabernacle. As Moses and the leaders looked on, Zimri, the son of Salu, brazenly brought a Moabite woman named Cozbi by the weeping leaders. He led her past them and into a tent for immoral purposes. When a son of a priest named Phinehas realized what was happening he was filled with zealous jealousy. He then followed them into the tent and checked the plague by driving a spear through them both.

The startling truth is that this violent act was not done by a civil leader or after due legal process. Yet, this violently zealous act by an individual "Made atonement for the sons of Israel." Though sin had fanned God's righteous anger to a searing blaze, the shedding of guilty blood had cooled the flame and saved the people from destruction.

The commentators essentially agree on the factors necessary in order for zeal such as Phinehas' to be ethically just. Such an act must first arise from a pure motive. It must also be according to the legal standard found in the Bible and summarized in the Commandments. Lastly all such actions must ultimately seek the glory of God in order to be ethically justifiable. All true defensive action, therefore, must arise from the motive of love for God and our little neighbors. It must also be according to the objective law of God and seek the ultimate glory of God.

The zeal of Phinehas by which he "made atonement" was, after this incident, taken up by the people as a whole, verse 16, "Then the Lord spoke to Moses, saying, 'Be hostile to the Midianites and strike them.'" Lest someone object to the individual or corporate vengeance that led to such violence, consider Calvin's comment on this passage:

> "Inasmuch as God constantly forbids His people to take vengeance, it is surprising that the people of Israel should now be instigated to do so; as if they were not already more than enough disposed to it. We must bear in mind, however, that since God, who is the just avenger of all wickedness, often makes use of men's instrumentality, and constitutes them the lawful ministers for the exercise of His vengeance, it must not be altogether condemned without exception, but any such vengeance as men themselves are impelled to by carnal passions. If any one is injured, straightway he is carried away to the desire of vengeance by the stimulus of his own private injury; and this is manifestly wrong: but if a person is led to inflict punishment by a just and well-regulated zeal toward God, it is not his own cause, but that of God which he undertakes."

The remarkable thing about the violent zeal of Phinehas is that it arguably received as much or more emphatic approval from God than any other act in the Old Testament. God's approval of violent zeal is also seen in the New Testament example of Christ cleansing the temple of money changers. In Christ's example the act was not only violent, but also an act of civil disobedience. Who could say whether his cleansing delayed judgment on Jerusalem for a few more years? Are there any heinous sins being committed today that could again fan the flames of God's righteous anger to the scorching point? Is there any need in today's world for men of the stamp of Phinehas? Could the bold daring of Cozbi and Zimri in parading before Moses as he wept over sin have any modern parallels? The righteous zeal of Phinehas did not permit him to stay his hand long enough to even ask Moses or the church leaders of the wisdom of his action. If any similar zeal be found among us today, occasion to exercise it will not be lacking.

Theological Basis For Defensive Action

Biblical Christianity affirms both the individuals' and their leaders' responsibility to protect the innocent from unjust harm. The responsibility to protect innocent life is not given directly to government leaders from God. This responsibility is first given to the people who delegate some of this responsibility to their appointed civil servants. If our civil servants neglect their responsibility to protect our children, the responsibility falls even more heavily upon us as individuals to do so.

Supporting Authors

We would be naive to think that we are the first to deal with issues such as these. Ecclesiastes rightly affirms that "There is nothing new under the sun." Taking defensive action in the face of oppressive civil governments is nothing new. The common sense principals asserted in this pamphlet have been held by untold numbers of Christian theologians. Franklin Sanders also makes this point in an article in the Herald of the Covenant" dated April 15, 1989:

> "The real question is, Can any civil government make a law which is ... (against the law of God)? As to the Scriptures, there is no question that this is impossible. As to the commentators, Thomas Aquinas, Martin Luther, John Calvin, Ulrich Zwingli, John Knox, George Buchanan, & Samuel Rutherford, to list only a few, all agree with our position: such a law is no law at all. As to the civil law, we have already shown that constitutionally and legally, no such law as 'legalized abortion' can be established.

"Is John Calvin ambiguous against such a presumption when he writes (Comm. Daniel, Lecture XXX, on Dan. 6:22), 'For earthly princes lay aside their power when they rise up against God, and are unworthy to be reckoned among the number of mankind. We ought, rather, to spit on their heads than to obey them.' Stout talk, even for the mild John Calvin ..."

John Knox also understood the Scriptures to require individuals to protect innocent life in spite of government opposition. Francis A. Schaeffer's A Christian Manifesto, makes this point on page 97. In referring to John Knox, he says, "He maintained that the common people had the right and duty to disobedience and rebellion if state officials ruled contrary to the Bible. To do otherwise would be rebellion against God."

In a meeting John Knox had with Queen Mary, she questioned him about his views with legitimized subjects resisting their princes. "If their princes exceed their bounds, Madam, it is no doubt that they may be resisted even by power," said Knox. When Mary protested that the Apostles had not resisted their persecutors by force, Knox replied that the reason was solely the lack of funds (Roland Bainton, The Reformation of the Sixteenth Century, Beacon Press, 1952, p. 241.)

Samuel Rutherford also defended the right of the individual citizen to protect innocent life on page 188 of his well-known Lex Rex:

But because I cannot return to all these opinions particularly, I see no reason but the civil law of a kingdom doth oblige any citizen to help an innocent man against a murdering robber, and that he may be judicially accused as a murderer, who faileth in his duty, and that Solon said > well ... It is a blessed society in which every man is to repute an injury done against a brother, as an injury done against himself. As the Egyptians had a good law, by which he was accused upon his head who helped not one that suffered wrong; and if he was not able to help, he would help to accuse the injurer, if not, his punishment was whips or three days' hunger; it may be upon this ground it was that Moses slew the Egyptian. Ambrose commended him for so doing.

Later on the same page Rutherford adds:

> Ambrose (Lib. 1, offic. c. 36) citeth this same text, and commendeth Moses who killed the Egyptian in defending a Hebrew man. To deliver is an act of charity, and so to be done, though the judge forbid it, when the innocent is unjustly put to death.

He further proves his point on page 189:

> God, commanding that we love our neighbor as ourselves, obligeth us to the same, except we think God can be pleased with lip-love in word only, which the Spirit of God condemneth (1 John ii. 9, 10; iii. 16). And the sum of law and prophets is, that as we would not that men should refuse to help us when we are unjustly oppressed, so neither would we so serve our afflicted brethren ...

The principles advocated in this pamphlet are, therefore, not only true but commonly accepted truths of the historic Christian church.

Who Was The Real Aggressor?

Before considering common objections to this historic position let us pause to consider a helpful distinction made by Barry Sindlinger in his paper "Is it Just ... ?" The distinction is made by indentifying the aggressor and defender in this case. Rather than accepting the common portrayal of a gentle hardworking doctor being chased down and shot in the back by a murderous lunatic, consider the facts. A brutal paid killer of hundreds upon hundreds of innocent unborn children was deterred by a deadly force as he approached his latest victims. The man who killed Dr. Gunn took the defensive posture and with apparent self-sacrifice killed the guilty to defend the innocent from a horrid death. The fact that the government describes what Dr. Gunn was about to do as abortion does not change the fact that it was the bloody slaughter of people made in God's image. The fact that Dr. Gunn killed the innocent in the white garb of the doctor with government approval does not justify his killing. His killing was no more justified than a man entering a school and personally killing school age children. Dr. Gunn was the violent aggressor. The man who killed him was defending your neighbor's children at great personal cost.

Ten Objections Resolved

Having given many clear and certain proofs of the truth that we may take all action necessary to protect innocent life, let us proceed to consider the common objections to this biblical truth.

 Objection 1: Isn't a Government Leader Required For Forceful Civil Disobedience?

To respond to this objection, one must consider an important distinction. The distinction is between a private citizen defending his neighbors from another private citizen who is seeking to kill them, and a group of men taking up arms against the established government. In the first instance, a magistrate would not be required; in the second instance, a magistrate ordinarily would be. Biblical proof has already been presented to substantiate the validity of a private citizen taking all just action necessary to protect innocent life. Dr. Gunn's death was the result of one individual trying to stop another individual from taking innocent life. This action does not require the authority of a civil leader.

Many who affirm that a government official IS necessary for forceful civil disobedience also assert that a government official IS NOT necessary for nonviolent civil disobedience. There is no biblical evidence for this distinction. It should not be considered valid until proven. The biblical evidence used to support nonviolent civil disobedience also logically supports violent civil disobedience. If we say that one may justly trespass upon clinic property, upon what consistent biblical principle may we say that destroying clinic property requires a civil official?

 Objection 2: Only Peaceful Civil Disobedience Is Justified

Someone might object to the use of force to protect life and point to the "peaceful" civil disobedience of Martin Luther King, Jr. or Gandhi. Limiting civil disobedience to pacifism does not reflect consistent Christianity. Pure pacifism more closely reflects the teachings of the Hindu religion than those of Christianity.

The Bible does not endorse militarism in which deadly force is used regardless of whether a cause is just or not. Nor does the Bible advocate pacifism in which all violence (even in a just cause) is considered to be wrong. The Bible does teach, however, that just force may be used to protect innocent life. Our undying gratitude is due to all who have and continue to use peaceful civil disobedience. Such persons should also consider the justice of taking ALL action necessary to protect innocent life.

If we consistently neglect the truth, the soldiers of an oppressive government could come into every home in its domain to rape, kill and steal. They could do this without fear of anyone using deadly force to protect innocent life as long as no lower opposing civil ruler were properly constituted.

If you do not believe it to be our responsibility to take all acts necessary (including deadly force) to protect the lives of the unborn, please ask yourself a question. At what point do you think it would be just to use force to protect innocent life? How old does a helpless child have to be before we defend him with force?

 Objection 3: Use of Deadly Force

Some might question the use of deadly force in protecting innocent life by suggesting that merely wounding the oppressor would be just, but killing him would not. In some circumstances this is true, but not in this one. The principles considered earlier in this paper under "Ethical Basis For Defensive Action" clearly speak to this question.

In addition to these principles, experts in self-defense hold that in life and death situations you often need to seek to use deadly force in defending yourself or another. If you seek to simply wound the one seeking to harm the innocent you may not harm him at all. Even if you do wound him, he may still succeed in killing his victim or you, the one protecting his intended victim. In conditions where the government is just, merely wounding an unjust aggressor might be sufficient as he would be arrested and prevented from doing further harm. It might not be wise to merely wound an unjust aggressor if you had reason to believe that he would return to kill the ones you were protecting. Mistaken sympathy for an aggressive killer could result in the death of the ones who should have our ultimate sympathy.

 Objection 4: The Example Of Christ and Christian Piety

Someone may object and say, "Christ is to be our example and He did not resist the government that put Him to death." Christ had a direct command from God that he should offer His life as an atoning sacrifice. His case was unique. We have no such command. We have the God-given responsibility to take defensive action to protect life.

Many people will say, "Rather than taking such decisive and possibly violent action, should we not prefer the more "spiritual approach of prayer and fasting?" Any thinking Christian will soon see the biblical inconsistency of this objection. True faith shows itself by good works. Common sense clearly condemns the "piety" that would respond to the mugging of a helpless victim with prayer without taking defensive action.

 Objection 5: Defensive Action Is Not Loving

Some might object that the action suggested in this paper isn't loving. The truth is that if we love Him we will keep His commands to defend innocent life.

Another might say this isn't in the Christian spirit of meekness and gentleness. In order for an action to be right, it must proceed from the right motive and the just biblical standard. These objections focus on the motive of the one taking an action. It is true that all action to protect life must be from a humble heart of self-denial and zealous love for our neighbors. Yet from this motive we must act by God's objective standard to protect life as summarized in the Sixth Commandment. Biblical Christianity has always held in highest esteem the true Christian soldier. The Christian soldier (while preferring the joys of domestic tranquillity) is willing to temporarily lay them aside to self-sacrificially respond to the call of duty to protect life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The Christian soldier may, therefore, with love and humility, take guilty life to defend innocent life from unjust harm.

 Objection 6: What If Church Leaders Oppose Defensive Action?

Another likely objection is, "My church leaders oppose taking all just action necessary to protect innocent life." When lawfully constituted authority in family, church or state oppose an individual, that individual must weigh the issues involved seriously and humbly. The Bible summarizes its teachings on an individual's responsibility to authority in the Fifth Commandment. The Westminster Shorter Catechism tells us what duties are required in the Fifth Commandment;

> "The Fifth Commandment requireth the preserving the honor, and performing the duties, belonging to everyone in their several places and relations, as superiors, inferiors, or equals."

Therefore, it is the individual's responsibility to both preserve the honor of his superiors and to perform the various duties he owes to them. If he finds it his duty to oppose those in authority over him, he must do so in a way that preserves the honor of the one in authority. That an individual should, under some circumstances, disobey authority has been previously proven from Acts 5:29.

The biblical position is that we are never permitted to sin even though someone in authority over us requires us to. If an individual's authority is merely in error but not forcing that person to sin, he may use consitutional means to seek to rectify the error. If an individual's authority requires him to sin, he must resist it utterly and at once. Apart from these principles, those in authority could rule wickedly with little or no fear of contradiction.

Church leaders must, however, do much more than merely allowing their members to defend the unborn. They must do what leaders are supposed to do and lead the people. They must do so even if they lose some followers. This calls for men who love the truth and are willing to swim against the tide. Jesus affirmed this in Matthew 10:38,

> "And he who does not take his cross and follow after Me is not worthy of Me. He who has found his life shall lose it, and he who has lost his life for My sake shall find it."

We should not be surprised to encounter opposition to these truths from the church. ...

 Objection 7: Everyone Can't Take Defensive Action

Some well-intentioned person may ask, "Should everyone take the most drastic defensive action? The answer is "No." One of the rules for the right understanding of the Ten Commandments in the Westminster Larger Catechism is as follows, "That what God forbids, is at no time to be done; what he commands, is always our duty; and yet very particular duty is not to be done at all times." Although we have the duty to protect innocent life, there are many valid ways we may do so. We also have other important duties summarized in the Ten Commandments. We must use wisdom to know which duty is to be done at what time and in what way.

One of the major functions of wisdom is to direct us as to when and how we are to carry out our various duties. Consider this maxim of wisdom, "One may at times postpone a good deed to pursue a better one." We may deduce from this maxim that there are many duties we may justly postpone in order to come to the aid of our innocent children who are daily being killed in staggering numbers. For lesser duties than stopping abortion men have left their families and occupations to fight and die in World War II and the Civil War.

 Objection 8: Judge and Jury Are Necessary For Defensive Action

Some may object and assert that a judge and jury are necessary before someone may be killed justly. Others object that the killing of Dr. Gunn was premeditated and not spontaneous self-defense. These and similar objections have excellent answers if one compares the killing of Dr. Gunn to the theoretical killing of notorious Soviet death camp commandants. We are told that Dr. Gunn was a hardworking man who traveled widely so as to kill as many of the unborn in a given week as could be reasonably expected. Who knows how many of the 30,000,000 million unborn killed in America were literally torn limb from limb at his hands? Sixty million people have died in death camps in this century. The flick of a finger indicated to guards which prisoner would live and which would die. The reader can resolve the objections raised above and many others through the use of this and similar analogies.

 Objection 9: Many People Oppose Defensive Action

The beliefs and duties outlined in this pamphlet are so entirely contrary to popular opinion and practice that opposition is to be expected. Many who will eventually take defensive action may be slow to adopt the concept at first. Our reaction to opposition must be one of understanding and patience. We must respond to severe criticism and searching questions with solid answers and winning persuasion. As people grasp at any straw of an objection to deny these truths we must recognize what they are doing and be patient.

 Objection 10: This is Religious Fanaticism

Many will scoff at the principles asserted here as "religious fanaticism." It is true that all men are religious and have accepted by faith either the validity or invalidity of the Word of God. By faith, Christians accept God's Word to be true and may deduce from His Word the principles in this paper. People who assert their faith that God's Word isn't true no longer have an objective standard from God by which to determine what is ultimately right or wrong. When those who reject the truth of the Scriptures mock those who accept them, we may ask, "By what absolute moral standard do you ridicule the truths of God's Word?" They have none. For those who reject God's Word, there is no consistent higher ethic from which they can conclude that the killing of Dr. Gunn was unjust. Their mockings are ultimately directed at God. Their hatred of the Creator reaches its most blasphemous height when they kill the unborn made in His image and when they vilify us for protecting them.

The Duty Of Defensive War

The next question to be raised and answered is "What relationship does the previously proven duty of the individual have to the duty of government leaders to wage war upon just occasions?" The answer to this question is clear. Both the individuals and the civil leaders that represent those individuals have a God-given responsibility to take all just action necessary to protect innocent life.

We have established the fact that individuals should protect innocent life according to their stations in life as citizens. It is a natural extension of this truth to assert that men who have been given the responsibility of acting as civil magistrates should protect innocent life as civil magistrates. All the evidence previously produced to show the individual's responsibility to protect life also applies to civil leaders with equal or greater force. The case of Phinehas in Numbers 25 clearly demonstrates that just individual action often immediately precedes a just war.

The current civil government will not admit that the Bible and the American Constitution are entirely and fundamentally opposed to the murder of unborn children. Our government defends with the sword the killing of approximately 4,100 innocent people every day. Yet, the most fundamental responsibility of the civil government is to protect innocent life from harm. Government leaders, therefore, have the God-given responsibility to resist our civil government that we may escape the wrath of God due to our country.

The question, therefore, naturally arises as to what individuals and leaders should do in the present circumstances. The classic treatment of just war principles is found in Samuel Rutherford's Lex Rex. He outlines several options given to those required to protect innocent life from unjust harm. The FIRST option is to protest. This option has most certainly been put to use in the years since abortion was legalized. Nor may we justly be content to wait for four years and six million human souls to pass before we try the poll box option to protest again. If any other viable options exist, we have a responsibility to pursue them. The SECOND option is to flee. If citizens were to flee from their present circumstances it would be from the responsibility to protect those in the womb who cannot flee. The THIRD option is to take up arms in a defensive war under a lower magistrate. Considering the pressing urgency of our cause and the lack of any other justifiable course of action our duty is to pursue a defensive war if possible.

Defensive wars have been waged even when there was no apparent hope of victory. Such wars have shown the righteous indignation of those oppressed. Just wars are, however, usually considered unwise until there are enough men and resources available to offer a reasonable hope that the effort to overthrow the existing government will be successful. In order to obtain such resources people must be won to the cause.

The Necessity Of Proclamation

To this end the full and free proclamation of the justice and necessity of the cause is essential. One of the most fundamental responsibilities each of us has is not only to believe the truth, but to pour our energies and resources into propagating the truth.

The first amendment to the Constitution was drafted to protect and promote the responsibility of heralding just such a cause. If we may not speak of protecting the unborn, neither should we be able to speak of protecting any other group of humans who are being violently put to death.

Some may object that we should not promote these truths as the pro-abortionists would like for us to do so. Isaiah 1:17 tells us to, "Seek justice, reprove the ruthless." This objection asks us not to do what God has required us to do. We must, however, proclaim the whole counsel of God. We have a special responsibility to proclaim truths that could result in the saving of millions of human lives. As strange as it may seem to us, obeying God is often the wisest thing to do. What is right is also what works best. All citizens, therefore, have the responsibility to hold and freely stand for defending the innocent.

The Defensive Use Of Arms

Americans also have the responsibility to defend the defenseless and the American Constitution. We should do so with the force of arms if given the opportunity. The second amendment to the Constitution upholds this right, "A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed." One of the reasons we have the responsibility to keep and bear arms is so we may individually and corporately take all just action necessary to protect innocent life.

A Call To Specific Action

You may ask, "What special duties do righteous politicians, governors, mayors, police, military men and other civil leaders have in the present circumstances? Surely civil leaders should feel a special responsibility to protect the unborn. Righteous men, therefore, in positions of civil authority should stand ready to use their authority to cast down those who oppose God's authority. They should be willing to do so if given the opportunity. The wisest course of action is for civil leaders to maintain their positions of authority if they may in good conscience do so without sinning against God. The specific means and actions people pursue in defensive action must be left up to the individual's skill, cunning and wisdom.

Surely individuals should continue to protest and pursue political remedies. In addition, we may justly use legal and illegal direct action. Picketing, sidewalk counseling and trespassing are all to be used with zeal and vigor. The possible legal and illegal activities that could be considered may be found in numerous books and other sources.

As we put our convictions into concrete actions, the millions who are indifferent to abortion or accepting it as expedient will be forced to reconsider. Our proclamation of the justice and necessity of our cause combined with our consistent action will certainly persuade the vast majority. ... How much more will the pro-abortionists lose heart when they see our faces set like flint in defense of the defenseless. When this occurs, the time will have arrived for the lower civil magistrate and those in positions of power to call the multitudes to unified action.

Until that time many men will respond to God's call to give of themselves in direct action. Thousands died in violent action during the Civil War for a lesser cause. Thousands more wasted away in confinement. The odds are slim that many already born will die in our cause. The modern jail system compares favorably with that of the Civil War system. The prospect of suffering for doing right is not easy, but never without parallel reward. Such unjustly imprisoned men would surely give truthful lawyers an opportunity to present the justice of their cause and persuade others of it. Perhaps only a few good men unjustly arrested in protecting innocent life would be required to move the multitudes to see the light of truth. Never before will so few have the opportunity to accomplish so much for so many.

Prospects Of Ultimate Success

You may ask, "May we dare to hope that our cause will be successful in the end?" The answer is an emphatic "Yes!" There are numerous and compelling reasons for us to have abundant hope that defensive action will bring abortion to an end.

The reason abortion began and has not ended yet is due to our inconsistent thinking and action. If we think and act consistently we will force our opponents and the undecided masses to do the same. Our position requires us to selflessly take all just action to defend our children from mortal injury. Their position requires them to selfishly do all they can to defend the mass destruction of human life. As the logical consequences of these two positions are forced upon the multitudes by our consistent action the majority will choose life. You need not be an enlightened Christian to prefer protecting innocent children to destroying them.

There is an initial shock and horror that comes from considering that the death of Dr. Gunn may have been justified. Once this shock has passed, the truth and duties involved will have an abiding effect. These truths will grip men's minds and not release them from their duties. Men will be forced to admit their horrendous neglect and will respond with zealous repentant hearts.

Our zeal will be from God Himself. He will cause us to "mount up with wings like eagles." He will make us "run and not get tired." By his strength we will "walk and not become weary." He will give us strength and joy in defending the innocent that we have never dreamed of before. The joy of laying down our lives and possessions in such a cause will overwhelm thousands. We will, therefore, rise above those who have nothing but fear, selfishness and inconsistency to motivate them.

God has given you the energy and resources you now have for His service. Now is the time to use them in defense of the defenseless. Many battles in the Old Testament were fought and won when God's people rose in a just cause. In many instances God's people virtually stood by and watched as God fought for them. If we will but act in true repentance and faith God will bless our zealous but feeble efforts with abundant success. Therefore, we must act in a decisive and timely manner.

Every civilization experiences the ebb and flow of peace and war in which lives and resources are garnered and stored in peace and then expended in war. ... This is the time for us once again to expend our energies, resources and lives in defense of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Not all can be on the battle line. However, all able-bodied men who are men indeed should rise to serve the cause in one form or another. Many rode into the Civil War in full gallop without being forced to enlist. Surely their families suffered as their resources were drained and as their young men spent the vigor of their youth upon the bloody fields of battle. But isn't sacrifice and suffering in doing our duty to protect life the honorable way to serve our God?

The concept of a just cause urged both sides into the conflict in the Civil War. If their motives were mixed and their cause unclear, ours need not be. Our motive is love to our unseen neighbor and our cause is just. Should we not therefore with zeal fired to a steady white glow, go forth to show forth God's righteous indignation upon those who defile with gruesome death children made in His image and likeness?

Will you remain at home while your neighbors respond to the call from the womb? Will you continue to build bigger barns while your little neighbors are being abruptly decapitated? Will you be like the priest and Levite who passed by on the other side on the way to pursue their own interests? Or will you be like the good Samaritan who gave of his time and property and risked his very life because he realized that all his fellow men are his neighbors?

Death opens her cavernous mouth before you. Thousands upon thousands of children are consumed by her every day. You have the ability to save some from being tossed into her gaping mouth. As hundreds are being rushed into eternity, other questions shrink in comparison to the weighty question, "Should we defend our born and unborn children with force?

I believe we are forced to defend them. We must take defensive action!"

Paul J. Hill #459364, R-2-S-2, Florida State Prison, P.O. Box 747, Stark, Florida 32091

==========

EARLY CHRISTIAN BELIEFS

The opinion of the early Christians on abortion was settled:

* "Where there is murder before birth, you do not even let a harlot remain only a harlot, but you make her a murderess as well." John Chrysostorm (345-407);

* "Sometimes their sadistic licentiousness goes so far ... they find one means or another to destroy the unborn and flush it from the mother's womb." - Augustine of Hippo (354-430);

* "We acknowledge, therefore, that life begins with conception, because we contend that the soul begins at conception. Life Begins when the soul begins." Tertullian (c 223);

* "The woman who purposely destroys her unborn child is guilty of murder. The hair-splitting difference between formed and unformed makes no difference to us." Basil the Great (379);

* "Those who use abortifacients commit homicide." Clement of Alexandria (223);

* "(Christians) marry, as do all others; they beget children, but they do not cast away fetuses." (Pagan letter describing 2nd Century Christians);

* "Women who were reputed to be believers began to take drugs ... to expel what was conceived, since they did not want to have a child. See then what great impiety that lawless one (Callistus, the Emperor) has fallen, by teaching both adultery and murder at the same time." Hippolytus of Rome (170-236);

* "You shall not slay the child by abortions." The Didache (1st Cen.) Pro-Life Action News May /June 1993, Box 75368, St. Paul MN 55175-0368

God Sanctifies The Unborn For Himself

Scripture recognizes and sanctifies the unborn:

"Before I formed you in the womb, I knew you; and before you came forth from the womb, I sanctified you, and I ordained you." Jer. 1:5

"There has been no man in his mother's womb, but that already before, even to each one there is a place prepared for the repose of that soul." Secrets of Enoch 49:4-5

"Thou hast covered me in my mother's womb ... My substance was not hid from thee when I was made in secret ... Thine eyes did see my substance, yet being unperfect; and in thy book all my members were written ... when as yet there were none of them." Ps 141:13-16

==========

LETTERS

FETUS IS A PERSON BY LAW: "Dick: The enclosed quote comes from Blackstone's Commentaries, revised by a member of the NY Bar, NY, 1877. Quoted from: Book I - Of The Rights Of Persons:

"Question 19. How is an infant in ventre sa mere (unborn fetus) considered in Law?

"For many purposes, it is supposed in law to be born. It is capable of having a legacy, or a surrender of a copyhold estate, made to it. It may have a guardian assigned to it; and it is enabled to have an estate limited to its use, and to take afterward, by such limitation, as if it were then actually born."

"By law a fetus is a person. It appears that all those conspiring to kill it are guilty of violating the law against murder." M. J. - Virginia

UNFILTERED NEWS

FREE SPEECH SUSPENDED: "Regina Dinwiddie, Host and Producer of Kansas City's Rescue Radio, has been sued by the Department of Justice for allegedly violating the Freedom of Access to Clinic Entrances Act of 1994 (FACE). In granting a temporary Restraining Order against Dinwiddie (pending further proceedings), U.S. District Court Judge Joseph E. Stevens, Jr. cited expression of opinion Dinwiddie has made in various settings including national television programs. FACE makes it a federal offense to use force or intimidation to prevent any person from obtaining or providing abortions.

"In granting the restraining orders, Judge Stevens cited 3 instances of Constitutionally protected free speech as being violations of FACE. The first instance cited was a statement made by Dinwiddie when Paul Hill was sentenced to death for slaying an abortionist in Pensacola Florida. Dinwiddie declared to the sentencing Judge her opinion that 'This man is innocent and his blood will be on your hands, the hands of the people of the State of Florida and on the jury.' The second instance cited was the fact that Dinwiddie signed a published statement declaring that 'whatever force is legitimate to defend the life of a born child is legitimate to defend the life of an unborn child.' The third instance of Constitionally protected speech cited as a violation of FACE occurred on December 29, 1994, shortly after the death of Judge Michael Coburn who was viewed by prolifers as being biased in favor of abortion. At a Planned Parenthood facility Dinwiddie declared her opinion that 'God Almighty has struck down Judge Coburn and God will strike down other judges who support abortion.'

"Two other instances cited involved alleged threats made by Dinwiddie directly to two persons who profit from providing abortions and who have a financial interest in restricting prolife protests. Dinwiddie denied making these threats. Judge Stevens declared the testimony of these persons to be 'completely credible' while dismissing Dinwiddie's testimony as having 'virtually no credibility' because she and her mother are 'zealots.'

"In response to the Judge's order Dinwiddie said 'I am so grieved about what happened today, not because it happened to me but because it happened to America. The Federal Government is using me as fodder to fetter the First Amendment." Donna Bray, Director, Defenders of the Defenders of Life, P.O. Box 544, Bowie, MD 20715, 301-805-6835

BYRON DE LA BECKWITH IV: "Dear Dick; My dearest Thelma fell out during Thanksgiving - the phone was off the hook for 72 hours. I called friends and they had police open the house and they took her to the hospital in Chattanooga. Four days of sedation and lots of blood transfusions got rid of a bad stroke and blood clot. She is now home and much better at 85. I suspected this would happen, and asked the court to let me go home to take care of her, but they want their pound of flesh. Glory to Yahweh. I'm glad I did not lose her. Let's carry On!" - Byron de la Beckwith IV, PO Box 1452, Jackson, Mississippi 39215

RKH: Byron de la Beckwith was accused of shooting the radical integrationist Medgar Evers in Mississippi 30 years ago. He was tried twice and twice a jury failed to convict him, so, the government tried a third time in spite of the Constitution's prohibition of double and triple jeopardy. The Constitution also guarantees a jury of one's peers. Beckwith was given a jury - 8 of whom were Black and the 4 remaining were Whites carefully selected by the government. Most damning - God's Law was violated: "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) over thee." De 17:15. This is an attack on "The WORD that was God."

MOTHER KILLS BABY: A Florida mother has been charged with manslaughter. She is accused of killing her unborn baby by shooting it and herself. She survived, the baby died. (Story - CBN, 1-26-95)

RKH: This is the logic of the Establishment rulers of Florida, the same state that sentenced Paul Hill to die for killing someone who killed 25 unborn babies a day.

MONUMENT STOLEN: "Waco - A monument to the federal firearms agents killed in a February 1993 raid on the Branch Davidian stronghold at Mount Carmel has disappeared. ... The disappearance is under investigation, a spokesman for the McLennan County Sheriff's Department said. ..." Dallas Morning News, Sept 11, 1994, p. 28A.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 246

THE THIRD REVOLT

Lollards

The rebellion of 1381 had been suppressed in a river of peasant blood. It was the emergence of something new. It was not another warmed over "Paulican" struggle for the church's wealth; a fight between Church and King, or a new wannabe rival on the scene. Wycliffe's Bible had released The WORD into the minds and hearts of the people. The WORD itself was the leader. It was something that could not be reasoned with, or, as it turned out - stamped out. The people were following a leader who was not "the King and his appointed preachers," nor "the Church and its appointed kings" - it was God The WORD who Himself stood against both King and Priest. It was no longer the 1st and 2nd castes of priest and king suppressing the 3rd and 4th castes of farmer-merchants and workers. The vision that was now followed was "Thy kingdom come on earth as it is in heaven."

Wycliffe's secret followers were called "Lollards." After Wycliffe's death in 1384, the "poor-preachers" that he had trained quietly used Wycliffe's Bible to declare the authority of The WORD into the late 14th and early 15th centuries. They were highly critical of the wealth and power of the church. In time they won the support of Oxford scholars, country gentlemen, wealthy merchants, powerful nobles, and the masses of common people.

In the meantime, the King and the Pope patched up their differences and had more time to devote to the Lollards who were subject to more and more persecution. Executions were continuous. To set an example, King Henry V even brought his friend, the popular Sir John Oldcastle, to trial and then burned him at the stake. The Lollards remained underground where they survived to await another day. They were now custodians of The WORD.

The Hussite Revolts

John Huss (1372-1415), was a Czech religious reformer. He was an ordained priest who came under the influence of the writings of John Wycliffe and became the leader of the Catholic-Slav reformation. He too, criticized the church's wealth and corruption, and he supported Wycliffe's doctrines.

Gradually losing the support of the Catholic clergy, he was forbidden to preach and was excommunicated in 1411. One after another he was abandoned by the archbishop, king, and university. Given safe conduct by Sigismund, the Holy Roman Emperor, he traveled to Constance in 1414 where he was arrested and condemned for heresy. He was burned at the stake.[1]

Huss rejected the absolute authority of popes and the church. He asserted the authority of scripture over the church. His execution ignited the Hussite revolt by his followers who spread slavic-protestant teachings among the slavs of central Europe.[2]

After Huss's death, his followers the Hussites spread out through Bohemia and Moravia teaching the supremacy of Wycliffe's teachings over the doctrines of the Catholic church. In time they split into two factions. One faction wished to retain episcopal government and traditional ritual. The other wished to return to a primitive simplicity, conform to scriptural mandates, and proposed warfare to subdue God's enemies and transgressors of the Law. This group provided the main military force of the Hussite revolution which seized and destroyed church lands and property.

The pope called for a counter-reformation crusade against the Hussites. The Hussites, fighting from heavily built wagons containing cannon, repeatedly defeated their opponents. In time they were worn down to a handful who sought safety in the hills. Some joined the Catholic church, others joined Luther's revolt. The non-violent group of Hussites survived and have come down to us in the form of the Moravian Church.

1 The eternal lesson is that violators of The WORD can never be trusted. A thief, a liar, or a usurer will murder.

2 The WORD, passing through the Slav filter, becomes slavic. Because of the Law, it is a twisting of The WORD - a form of paulicanism. However, slavs are our close kinsmen. We owe them and they owe us. And, they too have suffered at the hands of a common enemy.

Zwingli's Revolt

Ulrich Zwingli (1481-1531), was a leader of the Swiss reformation. A Catholic priest, he became a chaplain to Swiss mercenary troops hired to fight in the Italian campaigns. He became convinced that hiring men as mercenaries to kill other men was a great evil.[3]

On his return home he continued his Bible studies. This led him to drop his papal subsidy, and attack ecclesiastical abuses. He allowed his followers to eat meat on fast days, and married in violation of church prohibition. Zwinglis' Sixty-seven Articles became basic for the Swiss Reformed Church.

Zwingli was responsible for extending the reformation to other Swiss cities - Bern, Ballen, and Basel. Zwingli was killed on the battlefield of Kappel in 1531 defending Zurich from the counter- reformation crusade by the Catholic cantons of southern Switzerland who had been sent by the papacy.

Luther's Revolt

The Reformation proper is said to have started in Germany on Oct. 31, 1517, when Martin Luther, 1483-1546, an Augustinian Catholic priest posted his "95 Theses." The "Thesis" invited debate over the sale of indulgences by the Catholic Church. The papacy viewed this as heresy and proceeded to take steps against Luther.

Luther was protected from the Catholic Church by Frederick III, elector of Saxony. Frederick extended his protection over Luther in exchange for Luther's endorsement of his seizing church property - in the same manner as Wickliffe had been used earlier by the King of England. Luther's writings invited the Christian nobility of the German nation to reform the church themselves. He attacked the papacy and its view of the mass - the Catholic teaching that the bread and wine of communion was miraculously changed into the actual blood and flesh of Jesus. He said that the people were being taught to be cannibal-like - eating God's flesh.

3 This is a lesson that the U.S. must again learn. If the price is right her mercenaries will destroy any people or nation in the world.

He translated the New Testament into German, and wrote the Small and Large Catechisms, countless sermons, hymns, and over 100 volumes of tracts, biblical commentaries, thousands of letters, and then translated the whole Bible into German.

In the German states where protestant princes supported him, he organized Evangelical churches. He abolished confession and private mass. Priests were allowed to marry and monasteries were abandoned. Preaching The WORD he sowed the wind.

The German Peasants' War 1524-1526

The pope had been having money troubles.[4] To raise cash he put entire bishoprics up for sale. A prince with a bag of gold could buy the church's claim and combine the office of bishop with that of prince. A single warrior-priest received double pay in rents, tribute, taxes and tithes replacing separate warrior and cleric. He appointed his own cronies to the double- offices of count-abbot. A fighting monk had much to 4 I was a stock broker for 33 years. I know many wealthy people, but I never met one who had enough money.

recommend him. It simplified the organization. This new reorganization of the Catholic Church in Germany displaced many knights. An unemployed warrior is just another wage-slave. He can become a problem if he can't find work, because his profession is fighting.

In Aug. 1522, the knights (the Ritterschaft) who had been fired, went after the Church and besieged Trier, the city of a prince- archbishop and elector of the Empire. The church called for loyal kings and knights to come to Trier's aid. The unemployed knights were defeated. The year was 1523.

These trained and still unemployed knights wandered around the countryside looking for jobs. At the same time an explosion had been building up among the peasants.

The church did not like for its serfs to walk off the job and go elsewhere - it was expensive - so, they forbade it. As a consequence, each land section which had been assigned a peasant family had to be divided with the peasant's growing family, his children and grandchildren, again and again. Families were actually starving on their assigned acreages.[5] All the while the Catholic Church, the monasteries, the priests, and their kings waxed fat on the sweat of the peasants.

Most of these conditions had existed for centuries. The WORD thrust into this explosive mixture by Luther's teachings started the conflagration.

5 This is why land, once divided, is never to be sold. Younger sons are to go to unsettled lands. The Goth's younger sons left the northlands. America was settled by younger sons. Government, foreign land- monopolies, and alien immigrants frustrate God's plan. Outer- space may provide tomorrow's frontier for younger sons. The door will open when the time comes.

Lutherism Of The Peasants

The Peasants' War was precipitated by Luther's Bible. Luther had gotten the backing and protection of the princes by preaching the same things Wycliffe had taught more than a century before. In exchange for being allowed to preach The WORD and to secure protection from being executed by the Catholic Church for doing it, Luther taught that the princes were more entitled to church lands and their income than was the church. He also taught that the church was corrupt, which it was. Luther's message was democratic. Its force and directness added fuel to the discontent smoldering for generations alongside natural anti-clericalism.

Seven years after Luther's attack on the indulgence system,[6] the Peasants had learned their God-given rights and revolt broke out. It was sudden. The Standard - a peasant's wooden shoe, a "clog" - on a pole.

In June 1524, encouraged by the successful bid for freedom made by the Swiss, many cities, knights, and even princes came to terms with the insurgents and joined their ranks. The rebels put forward a religious and social program. A basic demand was that each village be allowed to elect its own pastor who wasn't appointed by the Catholic church. They made another demand - that church land be divided among the peasants. This demand was to separate the people from their ruling kings.

Many of the prince-ecclesiastics felt that it would be better strategy to have the church land that was under their management divided into many peasant farm holdings than it was to have it given to individual protestant princes thereby making the princes powerful opponents. Amongst these ecclesiastical "friends of the farmers" were the elector-palatine, the Bishops of Bamberg and Speyer and the Abotts of Fulda and Hersfeld.

6 Indulgences: a certificate guaranteeing forgiveness for uncommitted sins.

Then too, by being agreeable and negotiating, they might save their heads, and maybe retain some land and income. Being disagreeable put them in double jeopardy. The covetous Lutheran princes on one side were poised to seize their land and on the other side the peasants already had it. Much of Europe went up in flames as the peasants wreaked havoc on their ancient oppressors.[7]

However, this revolt was playing hob with the agreement that Luther had made with Philip of Hess. Philip was a major figure in Germany at that time. Luther had agreed to support Philip's claim to church land in exchange for his protection. Philip could get the land only if he secured Luther's help to suppress the Peasant's Revolt.

Luther was now caught between a rock and a hard place. The WORD contained in the Bible he had translated and his teachings had triggered the insurgents. At first, he sympathized with them and wrote a pamphlet protesting the harsh measures used against them. But Philip was threatened with losing the coveted Church property to the upstart peasants. Luther was the reason for this. If he lost this land he would have no economic reason to protect Luther from the tender mercies of the Catholic Church. Faced with the loss of Philip's protection and the possible loss of the whole reformation movement caused Luther to reconsider.

7 "There was much secularization of church property, suppression of monasteries and introduction of the Lutheran service in many churches." Ency. Brit., 14th ed, Vol 23, p. 265

Luther chose to cast his lot with the princes against the peasants. He wrote another tract Against The Murdering, Thieving Hordes Of Peasants. This latest tract breathed fire and slaughter down on the peasants.

The main revolt was subdued before the end of 1525. It ended in disaster. Peasant outrages and propaganda against them had united the princes, and when they had the upper hand they wreaked outrages of their own in a ferocious vengeance on the people. The Protestant princes had retrieved the land-monopoly from the peasants after the peasants had taken it from the Church. They also took steps to make Lutheranism a "state-religion" so that this sort of thing would not happen again. This too was not a Catholic atrocity, but state- Protestantism drowning Peasant- Protestants in a sea of blood.

A notable event of 1525 was the action of Albert of Hohenzollern, grandmastor of the Teutonic Order who, supported by most of his knights, declared for Luther, secularized the property of the Teutonic Order and made himself the personal ruler of its territory between Poland and the Baltic.[8]

This defection was stunning. The Teutonic Order of the Catholic Church was the principal warrior priesthood of the Roman Catholic Church.

Lutheranism - The Prince's "State-Religion"

Since the peasant rebels had in nearly all cases claimed religious sanctions for their acts, the peasants were allowed to keep Luther's Bible so as not to unduly antagonize them. However, to safeguard the possession of the new property acquired from the Catholic Church plus the property taken away from the rebellious peasants - the princes demanded that new Lutheran pastors be appointed by episcopal means, "from the top down," rather than presbyterian, "from the bottom up." The princes were to have veto power over the selection of Lutheran bishops. This gave the German princes power over what was to be taught the people by Lutheran pastors.

8 Ency. Brit., 14th ed, Vol 23, p 265

Princely selection of Lutheran bishops forced new Lutheran priests to teach only the 1/3 of the Bible not dealing with government. State-protestantism was a revival of the ancient "Paulicanism" by which nothing but Pauline scriptures are used to disprove The WORD rather than the correct method of using Paul to prove The WORD. The protestant princes were adamant. They had no intention of losing their lands again to the peasants the way the Catholic Church had - just because the Bible said "the land is to be divided and never sold."

Besides Germany, state-Lutheranism of the Princes became the state-religion of Denmark, Sweden, Norway, and Finland. Lutheranism as a state-religion cannot be not be used against the state, the preachers attempting to do so will be fired. In revised form and as a popular movement state-Lutheranism penetrated Hungary, Transylvania, Moravia, Bohemia and Poland.

Roman Catholicism, the religion of the Latin nations and Poland, except for brief periods had always tolerated corruption as a way of life. It still does. The Protestant state-churches of Europe and America are better in degree only - if at all. The great thing accomplished by Luther's revolt is that the Bible was released from a thousand year captivity and The WORD was loose in the land.[9]

French Huguenots

Lutheran tracts and missionaries spread the protestant movement to France. In France the Protestants, called "Hugonenots," became very strong. In 1559, 2,000 congregations met to organize a nationwide church.

By 1550, perhaps 1/4 of all Frenchmen were Huguenots. A substantial number of noblemen joined with the peasants and offered them protection. Catholic attempts to suppress the movement with force were beaten back. In a feigned attempt to draw the nation together the king's sister was promised to the leader of the Huguenots to be his wife. It was a ruse to disarm them.[10] Just before the wedding, the Catholics received word from the king to kill all protestants. On Saint Bartholomew's day, Aug. 24, 1572, in a surprise attack, some 70,000 protestants were slaughtered. The Catholic Church struck a medal to commemorate the event.

Later revolts by Protestant peasants such as the one by the Camisards in the Cevennes region (1702-1711) were brutally suppressed. The Huguenots who survived fled to Germany, Holland, England, America, and South Africa.[11] The Catholic Church kept its lands in France. With titles held in bank

9 At Fishburne Military School in the 1940s, the Bible instructor was a Lutheran pastor. He was one of the best. Much of American Lutheranism has been influenced by religious dissenters escaping Europe's state- religions who owe allegiance to the entire WORD - not just the acceptable 1/3.

10 The lesson to be learned over and over is that the word of nonbelievers is never ever to be trusted.

11 My wife's ancestor, a little girl, was smuggled from France to Holland in a barrel.

nominee names - they still are.

Pope vs. Princes - 30 Years War 1618-1648

Once the peasants and their allies among the knights and nobles had been crushed, the princes held the land unchallenged - excepted by its previous owner - the Catholic Church. The Catholic Church ordered its Holy Roman Emperor to get it back.

The resulting war was between a consortium of Catholic princes and the confederated "Protestant" Princes. The re-enslaved peasants on both sides were driven into the armies of both factions to fight the wars, and bloody wars they were, too. Brandenburg, Mecklenburg, the Palatinate, Wurttemberg, Pomerania, and parts of Bavaria lost 50% or more of their population. Some estimates say that the population of Germany dropped from 20 million to 6 million. Whatever it was, the war between the Catholic Kings and the Protestant Princes over the ownership of the people's land was the bloodiest thing seen before the 20th century.

The war ended when there weren't enough peasant soldiers left to fight any longer. Catholic princes and Protestant princes got together and made a notable agreement - one having effects down to today. The agreement was this - if a prince were Catholic, his people had to be Catholic. Those who weren't could move elsewhere. If a prince were Protestant, his people had to be Protestant, those who weren't were free to move. This resulted in most German states being either Catholic or Protestant. Today, most sons of the peasants who fought the wars have no idea why this is so, but, those who profited from the war - they remember.

The peasant's enemy in Protestant lands was now their own Protestant princes and their Lutheran state-religion taught by Prince- selected politically-correct priests. In Catholic lands it was the Catholic Church and their appointed religiously-correct kings. The enemy of both Kings and Priests was The WORD - and The WORD rests ultimately with the people The WORD claims as its own.

Calvin 1509-1564

One convert made from the Lutheran tracts and missionaries sent to France was a Catholic priest named John Calvin. He went to Geneva, Switzerland where he helped found a great evangelical organization. His book Institutes of the Christian Religion (1536) had great influence in Scotland and France. John Calvin, John Knox, and other reformers translated the Bible into English - a different translation than Wycliffe's translation from the Catholic Vulgate. It was called the Geneva Bible. The unique thing about this Bible was that it contained margin notes by the reformers in small print expounding on sections that many find difficult to understand. In this way, the finest brains of the reformation put their collective opinions into a record that was read by practically every household in Britain. The result was so incendiary that King James was forced to authorize a new Bible to replace it - the one we know today as the King James version.

The first settlers to America brought the Geneva Bible. It referred to the patriarchs as "our fathers." The first settlers to America believed that they were Israel since God said "The house of Israel, are my people ... And ye my flock ... are men (Heb: adam - those that blush rosy), and I am your God." Ezek 34:30-31; "I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Mathew 5:24. This took the title "Israel" from Britain's Episcopal Church and Rome's Catholic Church for themselves. THEY the people, were the Israel nation scattered throughout the West. This is an important claim.[12]

Calvin is considered the father of British protestantism. Close attention was paid to the things he wrote - things such as:

> "I know with what great and present peril this constancy is menaced, because kings bear defiance with the greatest displeasure, whose "wrath is a messenger of death" (Prov 16:14), says Solomon, but since this edict has been proclaimed by the heavenly herald, Peter- "We must obey God rather than men" (Acts 5:29) - let us comfort ourselves with the thought that we are rendering that obedience with the Lord requires when we suffer anything rather than turn aside form piety. And that our courage may not grow faint, Paul pricks at us with another goad: That we have been redeemed by Christ at so great a price as our redemption cost him, so that we should not enslave ourselves to the wicked desires of men - much less be subject to their impiety. (ICor. 7:23)." Institutes of the Christian Religion, The Westminster Press, Philadelphia. 1960, Book 4: Ch 20, PP 1.

Revolution In Scotland & England

The Protestant Revolt reached its most advanced stage in Great Britain. By the time John Knox (1514-1572) arrived on the scene, Henry VIII had already seized the properties belonging to the Catholic Church. He took over the Catholic Church in England, made himself its head, and installed his own bishops. This was Henry's own Protestant state-church. In reality, it was an English Catholic Church with a new name, run locally. It was entirely episcopal.

12 Israel - Heb: Yisrâ'êl - "He will rule as God ... also his posterity." Strong's Concordance.

Just to the north in Scotland - Mary, Queen of Scots, sat on the throne. John Knox had been a Catholic Priest. He became a protestant through the efforts of George Wishart - who was soon thereafter burned at the stake. In retaliation, Scottish Protestants executed Cardinal David Beaton who had been Wishart's judge. The Catholic Church sent a force to punish the rebels. Knox joined in the defense of St. Andrews Castle and was captured. Sentenced to serve on a French galley, he secured his release after 19 months.

In 1553, Knox sought refuge in Geneva where he met and worked with John Calvin. In 1554, Knox began to justify resistance to faithless rulers who attack their dutiful subjects. He also collaborated in the writing of the Geneva Bible.

Returning to Scotland in 1559, he was foremost in the fight against the Catholic queen who was forced to abdicate in 1567, whereupon protestantism was secured in Scotland. Unfortunately, the Church lands were promised to the nobles who held them in return for their support.

The English Civil War

In England presbyterianism spread as the Lollards came to life and their ranks rapidly grew. As people rebelled against the Episcopacy of the king and his Church, the income produced from church lands and businesses began to diminish. This forced the king to demand increased taxes. The people resisted and demanded the total abolition of the office of bishop by the Church of England and the replacement of the neutered verses contained in the Book of Common Prayer with the Bible.

In time, the dispute centered in the king vs. parliament. The king turned to his supporters who held their land "en fief" to him and commanded them to take the field with their supporters. Parliament called up the nation's militia - under command of nobles sympathetic to parliament.

Cromwell

The leader of Parliament's forces was Oliver Cromwell. In a series of brilliant battles, he defeated the king's forces. Parliament talked about dividing the land. When it ordered Cromwell to disband his army, he refused, packed parliament with his own supporters, and set himself up as a king with the title "Lord Protector." Next, he killed the defeated king and settled his followers, en fief to himself, on lands confiscated from the king's supporters.

Protesting his reverence for God, he set about undoing the reforms of the protestant presbyterians. He put religious reform on hold and in his army he forbade dissenters to discuss their religious dissents. To keep a following, he respected the prevailing prejudice against Catholics, but broke the expulsion decrees of 1290 by allowing the re-entry of the Jews, who for centuries had been surrogates of the Catholic Church.[13]

When Cromwell died, the old rulers quietly stepped back into the shoes that he had kept from the presbyterian protestants. King Charles II then restored the Episcopal Church as the protestant state-religion. He banned the Covenanters as

13 "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21,24; (2) "Receive a stranger into thine house, and he will disturb thee, and turn thee out of thine own." Ecclesiasticus II, 11:34 traitors, banned Presbyterian meetings and persecuted those who attended field meetings. He allowed Cromwell's followers to keep the lands if they would transfer their enfiefment obligations to him. The Covenanters who demanded that The WORD be followed were outlawed.[14]

The Counter-Reformation Continues

The Reformation period involving one revolt after another against the feudal system of kings and priests was a traumatic time for the Catholic Church, the Anglican Church, various Protestant state-churches, and the Catholic Church's bankers - the Jews. They stood to lose the pirated wealth of a thousand years if another such revolt should occur.

The problem was The WORD. The WORD that was God to the Saxon. The WORD told the people that it was THEY whom the Bible spoke to, it was THEY who were the kings and priests that God had selected to rule. It told them that the land was to be divided, that they were not to be taxed, and that they were not to have strangers rule over them. The WORD was THE troublemaker. It was mutually agreed that steps had to be taken to see that such a thing as a Reformation revolt could never happen again.

The Bible had become freely available and almost everyone was reading it. If it could not be banned - it could be misdirected and re-channeled so that it would demand less and be less violent.

The Catholic Church, dictatorial as ever, simply continued to forbid its parishioners to read The WORD. It told them what to believe and sent its Jesuits to all and sundry to make converts like themselves.

14 Their story can be found in Vigilantes Of Christendom

The Anglican Church demanded that their prayer book be used in place of the Bible, printed a state Bible (the King James) to replace the Geneva Bible with its offending margin notes, and continued to appoint politically reliable priests. Like the Catholic Church, they sent missionaries to make converts like themselves among the Indians and Blacks in S. Africa.

Europe's Lutheran Church was converted into an episcopal state- church with reliable bishops approved by the local princes.

"Dissenting protestant churches" in Europe and America, which tended to teach the whole WORD, were ostracized by the ruling political leaders, and, "safe" politically correct state-churches and state-priests such as Billy Graham were held up as examples for people to follow.

Today, state tax-collectors cast a kindly eye on "paulican" state- churches that "voluntarily" ceased instruction of the forbidden 2/3rds of the scriptures dealing with government. Tax exemption is stripped from churches that offend.

In education, the Catholics established colleges teaching Catholic doctrine. Protestants established colleges teaching Protestant doctrine. Both applied for and received money from great private semi-secret international trade cartel trusts. Requirements for the money included dismissing the forbidden 2/3rds of The WORD, and teaching the "Dharma-integration" necessary for international trade.

Lastly, the seminaries training ministers have been subverted. To qualify for funding most Protestant seminaries must first prove their liberalism by hiring at least one heathen staff member. This proves their "Dharma." These seminaries teach that Christianity is no longer exclusive but inclusive. To them, Christianity has become an encompassing trade religion whose god is one with the gods of the world.

Yet, in spite of all the precautions the establishment has taken, cracks are appearing. God's people demand to be led by The WORD. The First Reformation was brought by Jesus Christ himself - the Second by the great reformers. Now, the Third Great Reformation has begun. Poor preachers once again travel about teaching The WORD - including the forbidden 2/3rds. Communities of Christians are forming. People are coming together.

It is inevitable that today's Feudal System will attempt to stop God's people from building His kingdom here on earth. It must to survive. And, it is as certain as day follows night, it will fail.

LETTERS

FEDERAL DEBT: "Dear Richard, I say it is impossible to lower the Federal debt without raising the debt of the private sector. To lower the Federal debt we would have to borrow the money from the private sector - and that would leave the total debt the way it was. Right?" U. E. - Pennsylvania

RKH: Right!

Paul Hill's Defense

PAUL HILL: "God, Paul Hill, I, and now you and your readers know that Paul was judicially lynched by the judge's refusal to allow his defense. I have written FIJA about this. The case deserves more scrutiny & public outrage." L. T. - Ohio

RANDY DUEY: "Dear Richard: Enjoyed the Hill article. I wish he had mentioned that in the Phineas Example - both the Moabitess and the Israelite were punished. The real aggressor here are the ones who decide to kill the child - the mother usually, sometimes the father. The doctor was her agent, a paid killer. What I like about Hill is that, when the judge told him that he couldn't use the 'justifiable homicide' defense, which is totally outrageous, he decided to present no defense at all. Hill was willing to take his lumps, which is a quality I really admire. The system couldn't possibly deal with a few thousand Paul Hills." (Order Member) Randy Duey 09884-106, PO Box 1000, Oxford, WLI 53952.

HILL'S DEFENSE: "Dear Richard Hoskins: Sincere thanks for printing 'Paul Hill's Defense.' This is a thorough Bible exegesis of defensive action in general, and the protection of our helpless little neighbors, in particular. Hill's study is certainly timely. Many of us have had mixed reactions to his action that led to his being sentenced to death. Even before this, we've had questions about the rightness of revolt against today's version of King George III's misrule. Now, thanks to Hill we have a framework for individual study. It's too bad Hill mistakenly identifies as "Jewish boys" the Israelite sons defended by the midwives. This continues the confusion wrought by Judeo-churchianity's false doctrine." F. J. - Texas

RKH: Perhaps it was a slip of the pen. (The name "Jew" came into existence later, and then there were two kinds - "Israelite Jews" and "Edomite Jews." One was blessed and the other cursed.)

HILL'S DEFENSE: "MAN OF THE YEAR: Winston's Pick For '94 - The Irrepressible Rev. Paul Hill." Winston's

Journal, CANADA

HILL'S DEFENSE: "Dear Brother Dick; "The abortionist is only the effect of sin (murder) that has been conceived in the heart of the woman." W. H. - Pennsylvania

---

PRO-CHOICE?: "I am personally opposed to killing abortionists. However, inasmuch as my personal opposition to this practice is rooted in a sectarian (Catholic) religious belief ... I am unwilling to impose it on others who may ... take a different view. Of course, I am entirely in favor of policies aimed at removing the root causes of violence against abortionists. Indeed, I would ... support mandatory one-week waiting periods, and even non-judgmental counseling, for people who are contemplating the choice of killing an abortionist ... I believe in ... respecting the rights of conscience of my fellow citizens who believe that the killing of abortionists is sometimes a tragic necessity - not a good, but a lesser evil. In short, I am moderately pro-choice." (Mona Charen column on death sentence for Paul Hill, quoting Robert P. George, Prof. of Politics at Princeton.) The Christian News, Dec 19, 1994, p2.

MORE ON HILL: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Paul Hill makes some good points but is remiss in certain areas. Hill fails to tell us the reason for the abortion push. It is 'anti-white population growth.' Hill does not say that the White race numbers but 10% of the earth's population - down from 30% at the turn of the century, and that that 10% has fully 65% of the abortions. It doesn't take an intellectual giant to see what a dire predicament his people will be in if this process isn't stopped before long. Hill apparently does not see the racial angle here, or, even with the electric chair facing him, prefers not to disturb non-White sensibilities." H. F. - Illinois

PERMISSION TO COPY: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Please tell the people who inquire that they may copy or reprint my defense as they will." Paul Hill #459364, Fl State Prison Box 747, Starke, FL 32091

Bid To Become S. Africa's State Church

REFORMED CHURCH WELCOMES MANDELA: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: The Reformed Dutch Church recently welcomed the Black - Mandela - with open arms and standing ovation. This is the same group that did the same when Whites ruled. Is there a reason for this?" K. G. - S. Africa

RKH: There can be great profit in being a "state-religion." A "state-religion" gives lip service to God and blesses the king in exchange for monetary and other benefits. The Dutch Reformed Church long acted as the state-church for the conservative National Party. When the National Party turned pro-communist, the DRC ran to keep up with the change. When the National Party abdicated rule to the Blacks it left the Reformed Church with no home. The Reformed Church was largely abandoned by the Whites when it became theologically closer to African witch-doctors than to The WORD which is the God of the White farmers whom it shepherded at one time. The rising ovation given Mandella was the whore offering her services as a "state religion" to a stranger. The sniper execution of one of its high prelates is the measure of White disgust. Some say that it draws a line in the sand.

CHRIS HANI: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: One thing bothers me. The Black Chris Hani was a high ranking official of the ANC. He was responsible for the death of many Whites. He was also an avowed Communist atheist. Yet, the Catholic Church buried him in holy ground with the blessings of the Church. How can this be?" R. C. - S. Africa RKH: Only in Communist China is the Catholic Church a "state church" with Church leaders chosen for political reliability. Everywhere else the Roman Church is controlled from Rome. It has an Order called "the Jesuits." This order reports directly to the Papacy. They have no uniform and its primary mission is "education," which of course involves politics. Disguised Jesuits can be found on both sides of hot political issues as Protestants or atheists, etc. The unconfirmed report is that the black Chris Hani was a Jesuit. If so this makes the Catholic Church an interested party in the South African debacle. If Hani wasn't a Jesuit, the Catholic Church should explain the Catholic burial.

UNFILTERED NEWS

LOOTING: "AT&T ... is trying to hard to gain control over SA's conventional and cellular telephone networks. It's most recent move was to buy 40% of a privatized Telkom. They already have the full co-operation of the ANC, by promising between R5 and R8 million to the Reconstruction Fund.

"The AT&T is the greatest channel of electronic information gathering for the US's spy service, the CIA, which collects information not only about political and military matters, but also trade and industrial spying. It would mean that the CIA could access any telephone, telegraph or fax message sent in S.A. Furthermore, the whole country's portable phone system could in a time of crisis be put out of order, any time it suited the Americans." Impact, #35 - #36, Dec

1994 - Jan 1995, p. 5, P.O. Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA, $30/yr

==========

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 247

THE WHITE CELLS

NOTE: In the wake of the Rev. Paul Hill affair I have received requests to re-print the 1989 article on "Cells" to explain what the uninitiated find inexplicable.

A doctor who lives nearby read my newsletter and commented "You make the simple complicated. Life is simple! Business is simple!"

The following is one doctor's concept applied to conditions today as best as I can remember his conversation and analogies. I found it interesting.

Description of the Body

Western society is almost an exact enlarged copy of an individual's body. The brain is the government, the nerves - communications, the stomach - manufacturing. The liver purifies the blood. These organs are natural components of every body. Each has its function. In a healthy body each instinctively does its assigned task in harmony, regulated by the brain. The blood cells are the workers.

The Body Of The Nation

There are red and white blood cells. The red cells work and white cells defend by fighting "germs" and alien substances. For 700 red cells there is only a single white cell.

Alien Substances

Every healthy well-ordered body is always under attack from germs, i.e. viruses, organic and inorganic substances. Entry may be gained quietly through all the natural openings, usually through the mouth along with what we eat. Alien immigration can cause a stomach ache. Alien entry can also be made by piercing the skin - everything from a mosquito bite to a bullet which corresponds to invasions by armies all the way to the quiet individual wetback wading the Rio Grande. Either can cause infections.

Cuts & Abrasions

Attacks from without are often painful. The body notices a Pearl Harbor. Even an indian attack is noticed. The first corresponds to a wound from a .357 magnum. The last to a mere splinter.

The splinter may become painful. When removed, the alien portion that remains is surrounded by white cells and attacked. The resulting pus is the dead white blood cells that perish in the conflict.

Fever and Pain

The combat around the splinter causes the battle area to become warm. The pain and the warmness of the wound signal conflict with an alien presence in the body which responds at last by producing more white blood cells.

Local Abscess

White cells are unique. They attack the alien presence on sight and willingly die in the process. It's the reason they were created. Every different body has these white blood cells. They are called Shiites in Islam, Kamikazes in Japan, and Phineas priests in the West. Abortion and tax protesters are recent examples.

An infection may grow to become an abscess. It will either expel the alien presence, or the alien presence in the wound will overcome the body's defenses and kill the body.

Blood stream Infection

If a toxic wound releases poisonous material into the body, this material is caught up and moved about by the body's blood stream transportation system. An AIDS-type infection brought in by alien bodies may quickly spread from New York throughout the body and infect healthy blood cells. This may be very serious. This is why white cells are so very contentious about the smallest splinter - a splinter that others don't consider important.

Tumors - Cancers

An alien presence can cause a tumor, or take up residence in an existing tumor. Tumors often grow abnormally as they absorb body nutrients meant for others. Brain tumors are often responsible for many abnormal acts. Bodily organs may respond by retaining poisons in prisons instead of eliminating them. They may even direct their release into the body where they again walk the streets doing injury to healthy red blood cells.

Nervous Disorders

Tumors, pressing on the governing brain, or normal cells made toxic by association with invading viruses, can produce nervous disorders. Entering the pituitary gland, they may cause it to release abnormal amounts of monetary adrenalin. The body may respond to this stimulus with sudden feverish activity. A sudden drop in monetary adrenalin may be followed by an epileptic stupor (boom/bust syndrome). Resulting falls can be very harmful.

Acts characterized not just abnormal but actually insane may result. The body may administer civil war type self-inflicted wounds, or assault its nearby fellows in World Wars. It may cause the forced mixing of its own blood cells with toxic cells of invading alien bodies thereby causing its own cells to become toxic. It may make abrasions in its own skin allowing bacteria to swarm in. It may drain off and ship its own needed body resources to benefit hostile alien bodies.

In cases of advanced infection, a diseased brain may launch attacks on its own defensive white blood cells, and even permit millions of its own newly-created red blood cells, needed for future work and survival of the body, to be killed in aboratoriums. Its liver may no longer purify the blood by removing alien substances. The kidneys may no longer expel toxic poisons but parole them back into the body after a short 6 month stint.

In terminal cases, bone cancer infections may spread to the bone marrow where production of blood cells takes place, aborting new cells and stopping their production altogether. The patient then dies.

The whole thing can be complicated by hallucinations when an infected brain allows an infected nervous system to proclaim to the body that this condition and behavior is normal, good, and that there is no need to worry. The normal red blood cells welcome this assurance and continue about their assigned tasks. The white cells panic.

Diagnosis

To find an enlarged tumor that may be harmful, look for the largest buildings in your downtown. They are the ones getting the largest share of the body's nutrients. Without exception the largest are the pituitary gland bank buildings, next, the brain - government buildings, and a poor last - church buildings left over from the last century falling into disrepair.

It is the duty of qualified doctors to examine the patient to determine if the tumors are benign or malignant, and whether or not surgery is called for. Today, some are calling for surgery and their complete removal. Others believe that a different diet can cause the body to heal itself. These are all questions that must be faced in time.

Virus Defenses

A virus must appear harmless to survive. It may even appear beneficial. If the body's nervous system gives no danger signal, the white cells tend to be inactive. Their numbers may even be reduced by tax courts, abortion lock-ups, Fort Smith trials, Ruby Ridge and Waco genocide. The resulting low white cell blood count is abnormal. This low count is a danger sign that can be picked up by the body's developing alternate nervous system that operates when the primary communication system becomes useless because of infection. Panicky white cells begin to group together in militias for self-protection regardless of virus threats and assurances.

The improvised alternate newsletter nervous system releases the truth and more white cells are created to gather at abortoriums to try to ensure the birth of red blood cells. There they undergo beatings, jailings, and fines as is expected of their kind. The conflict broadens, the temperature rises higher. More white cells are now being created than destroyed. The body is beginning to fight for its life.

Things begin to happen. The body is beginning to notice abnormalities not seen before. It notices that the cars speak Japanese, the computers, Taiwanese. It notices that half the body's food requirements are imported while its own farmers are paid not to grow. Other food leaves to feed strangers. The body has no anti-missile defense and no bomb shelters while its enemies do.

Over the protest of its diseased brain and captive nervous system, word filters into the body that the extravagant tax demands fund abortion mills, kill Palestinians, pay for invasions of innocent nations, and import unwanted viruses. Opposition candidates are fielded and are actually elected. And, over the angry protest of the leaders of organized religion, the ancient laws of conduct that guarantee health and survival are once more being sought and are being followed by increasing numbers of individuals, if not the church.

The disease-free healthy body is its own best doctor, and is perfectly capable of judging itself by its jury system. It instinctively knows right and wrong and if left alone usually judges accordingly. Recently, white blood cells came before a jury of red blood cells in Fort Smith and were found not guilty. Another jury of red blood cells believed the innocence of two white blood cells in North Carolina. They were accused of shooting down a porno-parlor of homosexuals and burning the building on top of them. The temperature is rising.

Conclusion - The Patient is Sick

A fever is again apparent in the body of the West. It is the old sign of the body's attempt to heal itself. The outcome, as always, will determine whether the body lives or dies.

Recommendations

The current disease of the West has brought about profound changes. The fever and the attempt that will follow to heal itself will bring more. Through it all we must live. A runaway outlaw pituitary Federal Reserve gland now rules and usurps the functions of the brain in Washington. It releases adrenalin when it likes, in any quantity it likes, with no restraints. One day its faults will be corrected, but for now its actions determine economic life and death to the cells. We must know what it is doing to avoid damage.

Its latest acts show that it is beginning to remove high interest rates that have caused the short money supply. In time we may expect abundance of money. From deflation to inflation.

Go with the flow. At present, buy thirty year governments and municipals to take advantage of lower interest rates. Common stocks should also benefit from growing amounts of money and eventual quickening economic activity.

Balance between fixed income and equity, and be ready to slide from one to the other as the economy is forced to do one thing and then another.

Check the investment allocation table for the latest investment allocation recommendation. Re-arrange as necessary - and tip your hat when you see the Law abiding white blood cell[1] go by. He makes it all possible.

NOTE: The above stock market recommendations made in 1989 proved correct. However, today is another day - investment-wise. As for the "War of the Cells" - it continues unabated - as it must for the patient to live.

GERMAN HEROES

The three nations - Germany, South Africa, and the American South - are rebel nations against the International World Cartel. Every effort has been and is being made to denigrate everything to do with these nations, their institutions, their religion, and their heroes. Therefore, it behooves us to do everything to keep alive the greatness of these nations. The following is taken from GANPAC, Hans Schmidt, P.O. Box 1124, Pensacola, FL 32524, 12 Aug 1994

Letters to the Editor, The Washington Times, Dear Editor:

"The Suzanne Field's column stated that Germany has a hard time finding heroes from WWII, appeared on 8 Aug. 1994. This is not correct.

The world's greatest tank ace, namely;

1 "Then stood up Phineas ... and so the plague was stayed." Ps 106:30

- SS-Captain Michael Wittmann, was killed in action in Normandy. During five years of war, he was always at the front and in danger, Wittmann and his crew destroyed 138 enemy tanks and 132 guns. Wittmann - no hero?

- About one million German soldiers KIA stand against 7 to 15 million Soviet KIA. No American G.I. ever had to fight against such odds for 4 long years.

Other German heroes were:

- Erich Hartmann, the world's greatest air ace ever with 352 air victories,

- Hans Ulrich Rudel, a Stuka pilot who destroyed more than 500 Soviet tanks, one battleship, one cruiser, one destroyer, 70 landing craft, four armored trains and hundreds of pieces of other military equipment in over 2,000 sorties.

- Hans Jochim Marseille, who died tragically (undefeated) at age 23 after shooting down 158 excellently trained British pilots in North Africa in only 382 missions.

- Gerardes Mooymann, a very young Dutch volunteer of the Waffen-SS who in Feb. 1943 single-handedly destroyed 17 Soviet tanks (13 in one day) on the Eastern front.

These few men must be stand-ins for the tens of thousands of highly decorated German soldiers in a long war in which, contrary to popular belief, the men and women of Heer, Luftwaffe, Kriegsmarine, and the Waffen-SS usually fought against overwhelming odds. No heroes these? Nobody else even came close!"

NOTE: Like the prisons in America and South Africa - German prisons are filled with political prisoners. Sometime we will try to print a representative list. It is unbelievable the charges brought against ordinary patriotic Germans by the appointed Allied occupation government that still rules with a hand of iron - after a half-century has passed since World War II ended.

LETTER FROM SOUTH AFRICA by K.J.

All which the white man has built during the 300+ years is being destroyed by blacks within a few short months. What is not being broken down, stagnates. Building this country was an arduous process. Every school, every farm and business took years of hard labor and doing without. The sadness is that most whites watch it pass away while acting as if paralyzed.

What will it take to wake up whites caught in this web of lies and conflicting reports? They seem to accept as normal that no law and order exists, that most of their earnings disappear as blacks spend tax money like water. It is safe to say that most blacks in any official capacity are corrupt. They do not see misappropriation of funds as wrong and feel that a lavish lifestyle is their right. They continue to demand more and tax more. The taxes are placed on whites.

The farmland tax will ruin the farmers. They are pushing affirmative action and feel no need to exert themselves when they get government jobs. The make endless demands. The million unemployed whites that Louis Botha spoke about is not far- fetched. With no white welfare system it is bound to reach a critical stage. Whites are murdered constantly, but will a wholesale massacre have the effect of forcing whites to defend themselves? I wish I had the answer.

Buthleze, who saw no wrong in hard-core pornography, walked out of parliament because the ANC and National Party did not keep a minor promise. There are signs of increased violence by ANC members on the Zulus of Inkatha Freedom Party. More and more arms find their way into ANC hands.

Mandela must be seen as weak. He cannot control his wife Winnie and that is fatal in the black society. A few of the more radical young blacks are more than ready to take his place. Mandela felt himself in a strong position after the weak Zulu king, King Goodwill, moved closer to the ANC. But, according to "The Patriot" the king is ill and Butheleze is the most suitable to take his position. He also has the support of the 300 traditional Zulu leaders.

The HNP said in a public statement that the English Queen is not welcome. She will only cost us money which we no longer have. It goes against the grain to pay for the entertainment of an enemy.

Those parents who cannot afford private schools will receive assistance from an HNJP committee of very able people to help in home schooling. The public schools who eagerly sought black pupils to qualify for government money now have a multitude of problems. They now have students quietly leaving for private white schools. Inter-school athletic events where mixed races take part have become intolerable. The disapproval is stoked by the black's unacceptable behavior.

Squatters were moved to a piece of land near us during this last week. They will require vigilance on our part.

A young couple near us applied for a home loan only to have it canceled by the bank. According to the bank it was too much of a risk. Local blacks now realize that continuous black immigration from across the border is taking away their jobs. This realization is causing friction between blacks.

The AWB bombing trial has began. I hope to get articles on the case to send you. Eugene Terre' Blanche tried to get amnesty for the men but did not succeed. Mr. Marias is not very happy with Terre' Blanche, but, one can feel sympathy for his men and their families. It seems that the AWB was infiltrated by many National Intelligence people. Viljoen and his henchmen are still crowing about their part. Since deKlerk is spending much of his time traveling abroad, many National Party members are beginning to look to Viljean as a possible leader.

Some Conservatives are joining the HNP and are holding meetings at different places every night. The yearly HNP congress will be held the 17th and 18th of March.

LETTERS AMERICA

OBSERVATION? "Dear Mr. Hoskins; I am a teacher in Buenos Aires who read your book War Cycles / Peace Cycles several years ago. Based on a more mature observation, what do you see as the direction of race relations in America?" D.B. - Argentina

RKH: If you wish to see tomorrow - look to the mid-East. There the government State-Islamics are being held at bay by Fundamental-Islamics. Look at their style of warfare - their targets. It will all be replayed in the West.

CONFUSION: "Dear Richard: It seems most logical to me that the English word 'Jew' provided the translators a catch-all name for several different groups identified in Scripture by slightly different Hebrew and Greek words. For example: Judaites of the Southern kingdom; Judeans, whether Israelites, mixed race, or Edomites; proselytes of the Judean religion, and; foreigners who speak the language of the Judeans (Judaites in exile as well as the post-exilic remnant who returned to Jerusalem). Unfortunately, most churchmen today consider all people of the promise, from Abraham down through the Israelites, to have been 'Jews.' Wrong! There were certainly Judean Israelites - but NEVER - 'Israelite Jews,' as you would have it. Israelites were, and are, racial descendants of Jacob/Israel. Jews are a race-mixed people; some descended from Edomite/Judaite cross, most from Khazar amalgam." F.G. - Texas SPIRITUAL ISRAEL: "Dear Brother Dick: For the past 100 years new churches in America have been repeating the same myth that was exposed in Europe and Britain some 400 years ago. This myth, which has become 'Bible truth' so far as the state-church is concerned simply teaches that Christians are 'SPIRITUAL ISRAEL!' This myth is the core, or foundation upon which their control of Christians is maintained. The Lord said He was sent 'TO THE LOST SHEEP OF THE HOUSE OF ISRAEL' (Matt 15:24). Bingo! The Spiritual Israel lie of the state-church that had enslaved them for centuries was exposed. Result? The soil of Europe and of the Isles became soaked with blood, the blood of the lost sheep and the blood of the state- church that promoted the lie! They who promote the lie simply cannot afford to have 'the lost sheep of the house of Israel' learn the truth. Nevertheless, we have the WORD's assurance on the matter ... 'blindness in part is happened to Israel, until the fullness (complete number) out of the nations be come in. And so all Israel shall be saved ...' (Rom 11:25- 26).

---

"I've taken the liberty of correcting the tendering of the text (KJV) according to the Greek. I refuse to use the word 'Gentiles' as it is a 'church-created word' and not ever used in the Greek! The 'spiritual Israel' crowd reads the Bible as it was originally written in English. They never check up on the translation they use; they never consult a lexicon or dictionary of the Bible's original languages. Their 'gurus', when informed of the Greek meaning(s) will usually cry 'That may be so but Jesus talked to me last night and told me so & so.' In other words, when confronted with the truth they claim Christ told them an 'un- truth'!

"The spiritual Israel doctrine applies those verses to Esau's descendants and not to Jacobs. God promised to gather His people from among the heathen from all the nations and from the coasts of the earth (Jer 23:3, 29:14; 31:8; Ezek 36:24; etc.) Romans 11:25-26 are written to the lost sheep of the house of Israel - not Esau/Edom!!! The gathering has been on-going for at least 400 years, and will continue until the full number is reached. It is not for us to number. We need to be fishermen (Jer. 16:16). 'Hear the word of the Lord, Go ye nations and declare it in the isles afar off, and say, He (God) that sanctified Israel will gather him, and keep him, as a shepherd doth his flock' (Jer 31:10)." Harry L. Werner, 686 W. Penn Ave., Robesonia, Pennsylvania 19551.

RKH: Harry Werner compiled a list of selected Reformer's notes from the Geneva Bible that are informative.

J.A. MARAIS - To The Queen

LETTER TO THE QUEEN: "Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, Buckingham Palace, London ENGLAND: Madam: Your majesty will be visiting S. Africa for the first time since 1947, when you came out with your mother and late father at the invitation of Gen J. C. Smuts, then Prime Minister of S. Africa, who wanted to use the royal visit to promote his party against the Afrikaner nationalists. His party, nevertheless, was defeated, and Afrikaners for the first time since the Anglo-Boer War gained political control of their country. ...

"What transpired thereafter is one of the most amazing and shocking developments. Last May an Afrikaans newspaper quoted an influential Briton on 'the venom' on the part of 'a considerable number of influential Britons against Afrikaners' with reference to S. Africa's freedom after 1948. A newspaper described it as a 'hymn of hate emanating from Britain.' ...

"In line with this the British government in 1961 instituted an arms boycott against S. Africa, which is nothing less than an act of war. The Anti-Apartheid Movement in Britain was a concealed Anti-Afrikaner Movement financed by the British secret service. The ANC, while conducting a terrorist war against S. African Whites, had its head office in London and this was not only tolerated by your Majesty's government but evidently enjoyed their approval - while publicly condemning terrorism.

"The Sunday Telegraph on July 1, 1990, reported that the British secret services had told Margaret Thatcher, then British Prime Minister, that 400 of the 500 top positions in the ANC were occupied by Communists. ... This is not an isolated wrong against our country. During the British aggression of 1899-1902 against the Boer Republics the British government launched a holocaust that murdered 26,000 Afrikaner women and children in British concentration camps in what was described in World Link, as an exercise in what is now called 'ethnic cleansing".

"Afrikaners are not fooled by the feigned moral indignation on the part of British clerics, academics, journalists, and politicians about 'apartheid'. The British Colonial governments in the Cape Colony and Natal practiced 'apartheid' in schools, in residential area, in social and economic arrangements and in politics. ... The Pass Laws, the Master and Servants Act, the franchise laws were all innovations of the British Colonial governments to enforce separation between Black and white. The Land Act of 1913, defining the territories of the different race groups in S. Africa, the act of 1924 introducing job reservation, the statutes of 1943 for controlling Black influx to the towns and cities, and the separate representation of Blacks in parliament of 1936, were all enactments dating from before 1948.

"It is ironical that Afrikaners are told to repent for 'the sins of apartheid', but that the British representatives in S. Africa are not called on to repent. And what is morally even more objectionable is that the British establishment that urges the repentance of Afrikaners probably never felt a pang of guilt about the atrocities committed against Afrikaner women and children during the Anglo-Boer War. ...

What is conveniently suppressed is that under the policy of 'apartheid' or separate development, even the severest critic of the Afrikaner government admitted that 'the nation was suffering from a surfeit of prosperity'. ... There was an economic growth rate of almost 8% and the living standards of Blacks were rising by 5.4%. These healthy and wealthy conditions were destroyed when 'apartheid' was abandoned to be replaced by integration with its economic misery and lawlessness.

"In view of all this, Your Majesty's intended visit to S. Africa is regarded as most unfortunate by many Afrikaners and many of their English-speaking compatriots. You will be honoring ANC-SACP regime which on their own would never have been able to gain political power in South Africa. They were used as the cat's paw by other powers to rob the Afrikaners of their legitimate political position and historical right in S. Africa.

"It is hoped that your Majesty will reconsider your intended S. African visit and thus avoid adding insult to injury. If you do come to S. Africa, there is an act Your Majesty as a woman and a mother may consider performing. You might go to Bloemfontein and in a symbolic act kneel at the monument erected to the memory of those thousands of Boer women and children whose lives were snuffed out by the British methods of barbarism. It would at least be a belated show of compassion with the suffering that British leaders inflicted on those who wanted to be a free Christian people in Africa." J. A. Marais, Leader, Herstigte Nasionale Party, Pretorisstraat 1043, Hatfield, Pretoria, 0083, Tel 012-342-3410; Fax, Posbus 1888, 0001 Pretoria 012-342-3417

P.S. Do not mistake the F.W. deKlerks and Pik Bothas as true representatives of the Afrikaners. Afrikaners have their traitors just as the British have had their Burgesses and Macleans, the Alan Nunn Mays and the Anthony Blunts.

RKH: J.S. Marias is the only S. African politician in whom I have any confidence. He has the personality of a clam, ignores his friends, his would-be friends, makes everyone mad, is contentious, and is alien to compromise, and in line with the rest of the S. African right wing - I have yet to hear him call upon the Lord. His saving grace is that his view of S. African politics has been the correct one. He has been correct consistently in the past, and thus, may well be right in the future. There is no one else in S. Africa who fits this bill.

NEWS AUSTRALIA

AUSTRALIAN HATE CRIMES: "The Australian government of Nov 1, unveiled legislative proposals to jail people

'who threaten racial violence.' The Racial Hatred Bill will also crack down on racist statements in public. ... 'Racial violence' and 'racist statements' can be construed to be anything the judge deems fit." Impact, Oct/Nov 1994, PO Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, S. AFRICA, $30/yr.

NEWS SOUTH AFRICA

JOB HUNTING: At least 7 former KGB agents are in South Africa offering their services as assassins to crime bosses and other parties... Most of the men had previously worked for Spetnaz, the military intelligence wing of the KGB ... While 3 of them had been 'picked up' ... the other out-of-work agents were intent on obtaining commissions from organized crime syndicates. 'They arrived here destitute,' said one source. 'These okes will do anything for money, and they would work for absolutely anybody,' ... they are very dangerous,' he said. ..." Citizen, S. Africa, Nov 8, 1994

INTEGRATIONISTS GNAW AT THE ROOTS OF CIVILIZATION: "South Africa's destruction was the objective of such human right's defenders as Newt Gingrich, Richard Lugar, Dan Qualyle, Nancy Kassebaum, Ted Kennedy, Stephen Solarz, Walter Fauntroy, Howard Metzenbaum and Lloyd Bentsen to name but a few US politicians of the New World Order Establishment. ... who, on Oct 2, 1986 voted in favor of the economic extermination of SA via the Comprehensive Anti-Apartheid Act (CAAA) which came as close as a US declaration of war on SA as makes no difference. ... SA is a made-in-America disaster, a blighted land, an economic and social horror story. These good folk, always so concerned about 'human rights' have coldly and wilfully brought ruin to umpteen millions, mostly Blacks, hapless folk who roam our streets in idleness, starving, robbed of all hope, for themselves, their children and quite conceivably, their children's children." Aida Parker Newsletter #174, June 1994

THE ANTI-CHRIST & HIS OWN: "An atheist, Slovo had given instructions that there should be no religious service at the funeral. However Chief Rabbi Cyril Harris spoke at the funeral and memorial services were held in at least two Anglican cathedrals, Cape town and Pretoria." The Roca Report, #73, Jan. 1995, p2.

NEWS EUROPE

HEALTH FILLINGS: "The dental use of the silvery-black amalgam filling material for tooth cavities in children and youths has been banned in Sweden as from June 1995. From January 1, 1997, the filling material will be totally banned, and dentists will have to use alternative materials such as plastic or porcelain. The blow which led to this law was the case of a baby that died of amalgam poisoning because during her pregnancy the mother had four teeth filled with amalgam. ... Amalgam manufacturer 'Degussa' has already taken the step and suspended production." The Insider, PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA.

LOCAL SIX MILLION: "As of 1985, the German government had paid out over 4,395,000 'holocaust survivor' claims. Funny thing, that especially considering that no more than 3,500,000 'Jews' resided in all German-occupied territory during WWII and they killed 6,000,000 of those! Funny how math works sometimes, isn't it?" Winton's Journal, CANADA

NOBLESSE OBLIGE: "Anthony Blunt, a member of the Notorious Cambridge spy ring, smuggled the German crown jewels out of Germany at the end of WWII at the behest of the British royal family, the Sunday Telegraph reported. It said papers found in the Public Record Office in London showed King George VI asked Blunt to hide the jewels, which included a diamond crown, boxes of rings and a gold dinner service, in a safe at Windsor Castle." Impact, Dec 1994 - Jan 1995, P.O. Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA, $30/yr

---

CENSORSHIP: "Swedish Publisher Ditlieb Felderer was given a one-year prison sentence on December 15, 1994 for maintaining that there is no evidence that six million Jews were exterminated by the Germans during World War II. His address: Ditlieb Felderer, Box 568, 184 25 Akersberga, SWEDEN (From The Christian News Feb 13, 1995, p.3.)

RKH: The Jewish media has quietly reduced the 6 million number to 3 million by saying that only 1 million were killed at Auschwitz instead of 4 million formerly claimed. Question: If the first figure was a lie - why should the corrected figure be true? What about the six million the Jews claimed were killed in World War I? Do they still claim that? Was that the truth - or was that figure also quietly corrected?

LOOTING CONTINUES: The Versailles Treaty ending WWI imposed severe sanctions on Germany. The Americans were to receive reparations in dollars, the British in pounds, and the French in francs. The Germans owned none of these currencies and so were forced to sell bonds in each of these countries to raise the cash to pay the victors. Adolph Hitler came to power and stopped the payments saying that the Allies welshed on their promises to treat Germany according to President Wilson's 14 Points - which included no aggrandizement either in land or money. The post-war allied-installed German government is now generously paying these bonds - $1000 each with accumulated interest up to 7% for 60 years. It's quite a bonanza, especially for those who bought the bonds for $10 each.

PRE-EMPTIVE STRIKE: The Russian general Victor Suvorov in his book "The Icebreaker - Hitler in Stalin's View", Hitler's march into the Soviet Union came a mere 14 days before Stalin's troops would have overrun Europe and enslaved it under communism." Insider, 15 Jan 1995, PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA

ROYAL DOINGS: "The queen ... marking the contemporary synthesis of Commu- Capitalism, just recently visited Moscow and laid a wreath there in tribute to the Communist war against National-Socialist Germany. ..." (RKH: "Ye shall not go up, nor fight against your brethren the children of Israel." I Kings 12:24)

"The Royal Family has had many Jewish connections." said the publishing director of 'Burke's Peerage', ... as quoted in the London Daily Mail, Sept. 12, 1992. ... and there was published in that newspaper concerning the new husband of the queen's daughter, Princess Anne, now entitled the 'Princess Royal.' It seems that this august custodian of the British heritage was unable to find someone of our breed to her taste. Instead she was obliged to take to bed a descendant of a Zaccaria Levy of Vienna, a Jew who married a daughter of another Jew, Moses Haim Montefiore, and migrated to London, and whose son, Joseph, changed the family surname to

'Laurence'. ... Presumably, royalists will be quite prepared to doff their caps to these marriage partners and the mongrel offspring of this misalliance."

Gothic Ripples, Thorgarth, Greenhow Hill, Harrogate, HG3 5JQ, ENGLAND £6.50/yr.

RKH: In a feudal society, the "priest" and the "king" always tend to follow a hyphenated religion i.e., "Christian-Hindu." The "merchant-farmer" and the "workers" tend to follow the old God - the WORD. The WORD prohibits racial interbreeding. (1) "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel)." De 23:2. (2) "Menelaus, that traitor to the laws, and to his own country." II Maccabees 5:15

NEWS AMERICA

SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY: "In the 1870s, Congress passed .... legislation that enabled outraged citizens to scrape crooked state judges off the bench. But quite recently the US Supreme Court ruled that judges have sovereign immunity. This last action has completely annihilated the earlier Congressional Act." ACRES USA, Jan 1995

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 248

OKLAHOMA CITY

The incident at Oklahoma City that killed women and children was reprehensible. Having said that, let's take a look and see if we can tell who killed them.

Raid On The Federal Compound

On the anniversary of the Waco Massacre, a rented truck was parked in front of the federal compound in Oklahoma City containing the offices of the ATF. A device within the truck was detonated and the resulting explosion scooped out the front of the building doing a remarkable amount of damage. At the time of this writing, the explosion has left 121 dead including 15 children.[1] 1 This compares with 87 dead at Waco including 34 children.

Media Reaction

The International Trade Cartel's (ITC) media sprang into action. They were told to fight "terrorism." The identity of the terrorists to be fought is of no consequence - there are repressive laws that the ITC wants to put on the books and it needs to fight "terrorism" in order to get congress to pass them.

In lock-step the media went after Islamic terrorists in a feeding frenzy. They discussed ways to retaliate against various mid-east countries. Experts were brought forward who suggested air strikes, economic boycotts, strategic assassination, and SWAT team actions. Sketches were produced demonstrating the feasibility of such acts.

Then, the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), the supposed target of the attack, pointed their finger at conservative, white, militia-connected, homegrown avengers. Media indecision and confusion lasted less than five minutes. Pointed in the right direction with new prey in their sights - they quickly came to the conclusion that since the attack took place on the anniversary of the Waco Massacre, the bombing must be in retaliation for the Waco Massacre.

For those with short memories, at Waco, scores of ATF agents appeared at the entrance to the Davidian Church demanding audience with the church leader, David Koresh. When he appeared in the door with some of his followers, male and female, the ATF opened fire, wounding Koresh and severely wounding several standing near him. Immediately, an ATF assault was launched against the wooden complex. The attack was supported by helicopters which flew back and forth overhead spraying bullets into the building that contained women and children, several of whom were killed in these attacks.

The assault helicopters were shot down. The ATF assault team was repulsed with four troopers killed and something like 38 wounded. The remaining ATF assault team surrendered. The Davidians, in a charitable gesture, allowed the ATF to take their dead and wounded and, hands in the air, retire to the safety of their own lines instead of holding them as hostages for their own safety. By this time an unknown number of men, women, and children in the church had been killed. No one inside or outside the church complex knew the reason for the attack. They still don't.

The FBI arrived and took over from the ATF. Their first act was to ban the press so that the world would not see the carnage inside the wooden church buildings. They brought up heavy tanks containing flamethrowers - the driver of one being the sniper who had just finished killing Vicki Weaver at Ruby Ridge.. Vicki's 14 year old son was also slain. He was shot in the back as he tried to escape a federal ambush. Vicki was shot in the face while she held her nine month old baby in her arms.

The media daily reported the exaggerations, falsehoods, and deceptions of the FBI spokesmen who accused those trapped inside the church complex of all sorts of things - accusations later proven false. The media quoted every word, making no complaints over the censorship. The condemned in the church were prevented a chance to tell the public what was being done to them. We do know this much - the FBI denied bandages and medical assistance to the wounded women and children - and they did this after the mercy shown the survivors of the ATF storming party who had been allowed to return to the safety of their own lines.

After taking more than a month to indoctrinate the American public by demonizing the Davidians - it was time to hide the evidence. The 87 men, women, and children were incinerated. Heavy US Army tanks first immobilized those trapped inside by spraying banned CS poison gas into the church so that their victims would be paralyzed and unable to escape. Then, lying helpless, the church was torched over them.

Those viewing the burnt bodies reported that many of them showed gun-shot wounds between the eyes. The FBI said that they had committed suicide. Pictures show black-clad men stepping out of the burning complex and walking casually away. There were no Davidian prisoners with them. Many believe that the gunshot wounds were inflicted by these black clad FBI shooters wearing gas masks who, after the besieged had lapsed into unconsciousness, went about making sure that there would be no survivors.

What was left of the burned bodies was taken to refrigerated morgues to await autopsies. Federal obstructionism delayed the autopsy paper work. While this was going on - the FBI turned off the refrigeration. Over the next several months, the bodies decomposed in the hot Texas weather beyond the ability of the medical examiners to achieve anything by autopsy. This destroyed the last shreds of proof of government wrongdoing. The bodies were then pushed into a mass grave. Their families weren't notified. There were no speech makers flying in from Washington, no wreaths, no media outpouring of sympathy for the 34 burned children and their mothers and fathers. As far as Washington was concerned, it was just so much trash thrown out with the garbage.

Instead of bringing those of the ATF and FBI responsible for the massacre to trial, trials were held for the few Davidian survivors. They were found innocent of all but minor charges, but had the book thrown at them by the federal judge who handed out forty year terms.[2]

"Tears In Heaven"

"Tears In Heaven." That's the title of the media picture showing the fireman removing the body of the child from the ruins of the Oklahoma City Federal Compound. President Bill Clinton, "Waco Bill" to his detractors, proclaimed a "National Day of Mourning." Headlines proclaimed: "Flag Half-Mast;" "Day of Prayer;" "Suspect's Lawyers Don't Want Case;" "Right-Wing Militia Suspected;" "Rage Of America." When asked by a reporter if Oklahoma City didn't compare with Waco - the president dropped his mask and exclaimed - "No! The people at Waco were killers!" So much for his concern for the 34 Waco kids who were burned to death at the hands of his henchmen.

The president had a solution for the disaster; "Stop criticizing the government," no more "Waco talk;" "Commence wire taps," "infiltrate organizations suspected of anti-government bias," and, instead of disbanding the agencies causing the trouble, he recommended hiring one thousand more to act as "anti-terrorist government agents." Preventing future Wacos is seemingly far from his mind.

Waco - An Isolated Incident?

Samuel Francis writes for the Washington Times. A recent article of his criticizes the continuing "mini-Wacos" that have occurred after Waco - mini-Wacos not reported in the media

2 Elsewhere, a jury found the Weavers innocent and released them. They are now suing the government for the deaths of their family members. The FBI officer in charge of the Ruby Ridge killings was promoted to #2 man in the agency.

- incidents revealing a government wolf preying on the sheep they are supposed to protect.

On Aug 25, 1992, Donald Carlson's home in California was invaded by Drug Enforcement Administration agents after midnight. Mr. Carlson reached for his hand gun to defend his house - the DEA shot him dead. No drugs were found.

The DEA visited Donald Scott in October bringing along the LA Sheriff's Department. Breaking into his house at night, the deputy sheriff shot Scott and killed him. No illegal drugs were found.

In Sept, 1991, 60 agents from the DEA, ATF, National Guard, and the US Forest Service stormed the home of Mrs. Sina Brush and two neighbors at dawn. She and her daughter were made to kneel and were handcuffed while dressed only in their underwear. No drugs were found.

Last summer the ATF visited Harry Lumplugh in Pennsylvania. Twenty of the ATF forced him and his wife to open safes and hand over private papers while holding a machine gun on them. Bored, they stomped the Lumplugh's cat to death. No charges were brought against the Lumplughs.

Last year, four ATF agents raided the bedroom of Monique Montgomery at 4:00AM. She reached for a gun and was shot to death. Nothing illegal was found.

The ATF raided the home of Louis Katona III in Ohio. They roughed up his pregnant wife, causing her to miscarry. Nothing illegal was found. In the Scott case, the DA found that the raid was motivated by the desire of the officers to seize the Scott's ranch under federal asset-forfeiture laws (see plank #4 Communist Manifesto).

Mr. Francis comments; "In none of the cases I know about have any of the federal agents been charged; few have been disciplined; almost none made the national news." He goes on; "Congress ... should find out who authorized these and similar raids and who committed these atrocities against law-abiding citizens. It should abolish the agencies responsible, and it should make certain that the tyrants and murderers in federal uniform who planned, authorized or committed these crimes are brought to justice."

The one responsible for Waco is the FBI. The one mostly responsible for the mini-Wacos is the ATF. If these out-of-control organizations had been disbanded following Waco, there would have been no mini-Wacos and no reason for an Oklahoma City payback.

The Second Bomb

A caller told me to watch the TV. I switched onto a scene of absolute confusion. A building was in ruins, survivors were being evacuated. Rescue efforts were being suspended while experts attempted to disarm a second bomb discovered inside. Periodic reports were delivered to the announcer on the bomb dismantling process. After half an hour the announcement was made that the bomb had been dismantled, but a third bomb had been found and efforts were under way to dismantle this one also.

In the midst of the continuing bomb dismantling announcements, a message was handed the announcer. He stopped what he was doing, and changed the subject, and, neither the 2nd nor the 3rd bombs were mentioned again. One must ask the obvious question; "Why hasn't the subject of the 2nd and 3rd bombs been mentioned?" The obvious answer is - the answer would be embarrassing.

The media has been showing diagrams of the 1st bomb which they say consisted of twenty 55-gallon containers. This means that each barrel contained 250 pounds of explosive. The FBI now claims that the barrels were made of blue plastic because of fragments found at the scene of the explosion. One of the Michigan suspects had a couple of blue plastic 55-gallon barrels in his barn - along with three empty fertilizer bags and one full 100 pound bag. They did not explain what a farmer might be doing with fertilizer, except to insinuate that it must have been to blow up the federal compound.

I called and talked to one of the rescue workers. He said that the building in Oklahoma City contained a parking deck, but that it was too low to allow a Ryder truck to enter. This means that instead of being able to transport bomb #2 and #3 into the building by truck, if they were of the same type as #1, the 55 gallon drums would have to be taken in on handtrucks. This would mean that two lots of twenty 55-gallon barrels, each weighing 250 pounds, would have to be manhandled into the building. It would seem that someone would have noticed the mysterious Suspect #1 and Suspect #2 working to pile up 55-gallon containers in the halls.

A simpler explanation is that it was an inside job. The ATF had the opportunity - they had offices in the building. No one would question their activity in bringing barrels into the building, and they certainly wouldn't comment on it later. How could they - they would be dead. They also had reasons - something that we will discuss later. But, of course - our government would never kill its own people. Would they?

Track Record

Think back. What did Frankin Delano Roosevelt do when he learned that the Japanese planned to attack Pearl Harbor a month before it took place? Did he notify the military, or did he let American boys be slaughtered by the thousands in order to bring on a war? The answer to that question is a matter of history.

Could it be that the masters of today's feudal system would sacrifice hundreds of their own in order to bring on a war - a war where restive peasants were slaughtered so that they could not mount a larger revolt later? Such thinking might be a bit bizarre, but, so was Pearl Harbor. Then too, what other reason could there be to teach the general population the technique of simple bomb making!

The Media - Bomb Making Teacher

Yesterday I went to the hardware store to buy a whet stone. A customer came in and as a joke asked for bomb-making fertilizer to put on his yard. The customers and everyone behind the counter laughed. There had been several jokes like that during the day.

The media has taught the country to make fertilizer-bombs. The announcers and their guests instructed them in every step - in minute detail. Experts were brought in to tell the viewing audience "how simple it is." The customer who made the joke regaled us with his TV instructions:

> "Take fertilizer having 42% ammonium nitrate (they all do). Mix it with heating oil at a 15 or 16 to one ratio, insert a detonator, and store in a water proof container."

That's it. As the TV expert said time after time; "Anyone can do it." The media was very interested in teaching everyone how simple it is to make inexpensive fertilizer bombs.

The basic need of the International Trade Cartel is to have orderly markets peopled with orderly populations - populations trained to accept foreign merchants, foreign products, and foreign workers who arrive with their foreign gods.

Anything less hinders trade. GATT could not have been passed two years ago. Two years ago too many people still refused to trade with strangers. Only this year have enough people been conditioned so that the country will accept it.

The reason that the Christian religion has always been a media target is that the Christian religion forbids trade with strangers;

> "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (2114), thou art snared with the words of thy mouth. Pr. 6:1;

> "Nor do we delight in merchandise, nor in such a mixture with other men as arises from it ... having a fruitful country for our habitation, we take pains in cultivating that only. Our principle care ... is ... to educate our children well; ... to observe the laws that have been given us ... Since ... there was no occasion offered us ... for intermixing among the Greeks, as they had had for mixing among the Egyptians, by their intercourse of exporting and importing their several goods; as they also mixed with the Phoenicians, who lived by the sea-side, by means of their love of lucre in trade and merchandise." Flavius Josephus Against Apion 1:12

The Christian religion does not permit strangers to live in Christian lands;

> "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21

Or, the acceptance of their gods;

> "If ye forsake the Lord, and serve strange gods, then he will turn and do you hurt." Joshua 24:20

Christianity teaches separatism. It stands in the way of free trade and is therefore public enemy #1 of the International Trade Cartel.

To open the land to free trade and free travel by merchant-strangers and their gods, the priests, and the king and his soldiers reward those obedient to their wishes and punishes the disobedient. This is the key to understanding Waco. A separatist is guilty by his mere act of trying to be separate. Weaver lived on a mountain top, Davidians lived a separated lifestyle in a Texas church complex, black separatists lived apart in Philadelphia and were exterminated. All separatists must be reeducated, or marked for death. To discover separatists, the king incites the people. Those who will not accept the king's edicts rise - and are suppressed. This is the final stage on the road to empire.

Civil disorders uncover disaffected separatists. People trying to protect themselves from a government-gone-wild brand themselves as separatists - "rebels." It is in this context that one must look at the foreigners quartered at US military bases. At the proper time they will be given their own military equipment that has been stored for them in government warehouses, and they will help the ITC restore order in America - another UN police operation. The precedent has been set.

Bombs vs. Blitz

Bombs used for political purposes is old news for the Jewish revolutionaries in Poland in 1905, the Russian Bolsheviks in 1917, Ireland's IRA, and the Arabs in the Near East, but Oklahoma City is the first time America has seen what a bomb can do, and has had it explained to them how it was done.

Storming defended strongpoints can result in casualties of 50% or more. They are costly in men and material. My old regiment The Richmond Light Infantry Blues was a militia regiment from 1684 until 1917. Then it became part of the National Guard. Its battle standard contains so many battle streamers that one can scarcely get the fingers of both hands around them. Most regiments are proud to have one or two. Civilians have no idea what these streamers mean. Each one was won at the cost of a mountain of casualties - dead, wounded, maimed - a river of blood. Gettysburg alone cost half the command.

Suppose, instead of storming the center of the Union lines, just suppose, the call went out for a volunteer - just one volunteer to dress in a Union uniform and drive a wagon around the Union lines, or take a mule loaded with explosives, and come in from the rear on the Washington road to the headquarters of the Union command. If someone could give his life and possibly save the lives of thousands of husbands and sons who died on that killing field the next day - would someone volunteer? What do you think? By the hundreds! The chance of the volunteer surviving might be one in a thousand, and if captured it would be certain that he would be shot, but,one man's life in exchange for thousands! Yes!

Who is this Timothy James McVeigh? Is he a patriot seeking to put a stop to future Wacos, a government agent, or a fall guy? We remember that the media was beating the drum for "anti-terrorist legislation" before there were terrorists. It was only after the media demanded anti-terrorist legislation that the New York Trade Tower was bombed. The Arab terrorists arrested for that bombing quickly realized that they had been set up. It was then that they played their ace in the hole. They produced tapes of a US government agent urging them to blow up the very Trade Towers that were attacked. Why is the US government so interested in having someone blow up something in America? It's the FDR ploy once again. It gives an excuse for doing what could not be done otherwise.

Michigan Militia

The ongoing Oklahoma City story produced another interesting piece of information. One female announcer when asked what made the Michigan Militia a possible center for violence, stated: "They were the ones who last year attempted to seize federal warehouses where Russian tanks were stored." This was the first I had heard about this - I didn't know anything about Russian tanks being stored in federal warehouses on American soil. I have heard reports by the alternate media, but there has been nothing in the newspapers. The announcer had made a slip of the tongue. In itself, this revelation was nothing, but, when added to the list below it makes a pattern. See for yourself.

1. Russian tanks stored in government warehouses
2. Manufactured mini-Waco incidents to cause disorder
3. Soviet military personnel quartered at US bases to provide help in restoring order
4. Americans denied bomb shelters
5. Americans denied anti-missile defenses
6. US govt floods America with anti-white settlers
7. Fluoride depressant placed in public water supply
8. US govt encouraging whites to abort babies
9. US aid to communist movements worldwide
10. US aid to overthrow anti-communist governments
11. US arming of the Yellow Peril
12. US disarming of America
13. NAFTA to de-industrialize America

Pulling It Together

It is interesting to note how fast the government held anti-terrorist hearings on the Oklahoma City bombing. Compare this with their absolute lack of interest in holding hearings on the Waco Massacre. It is also interesting to watch politicians when queried about comparing Waco with Oklahoma City - they fidget and refuse to talk about Waco. They are media-elected and don't dare antagonize their masters.[3]

The policy of the ITC is to pass restrictive legislation to bind the populations of Western nations. This is being done in Europe, S. Africa, and Australia-N. Zealand. It is now our turn. It makes no difference whether or not the cities of New York and Oklahoma City are blown up, or not blown up - the ITC policy is to clamp down on white people wherever they are. There is nothing our people can do or not do to avoid it. The policy is set and the die is cast.

If, indeed, it turns out that the bombing of the federal compound in Oklahoma City was done by the conservative right - the result will be that there will be no more Wacos and mini-Wacos. The announcement has been made that that will not be tolerated. Government wolves will have to think again if the people have the tools to punish illegal acts. If it turns out that the bombing of the Oklahoma City compound was done by the government itself, which is the most likely scenario - the result will be the same. The media, in their effort to promote civil disobedience, opened pandora's box. They may have done their job too well.

3 GOVERNMENT: There are two forms of government: "Episcopal" - rule from the top down; and "Presbyterian" - rule from the bottom up. An episcopacy may be a dictator, governor, monarch, or democracy. (Democracy calls itself presbyterian, but is in fact "episcopal" since the uninformed masses must be told for whom to vote. Media owners tell voters to vote for their agents - and are therefore "king.") A presbytery may go by such names as "hundreds" or "republican." hundreds - ten families elect a spokesman and ten spokesman elect a burgess to speak for a hundred families. "Hundreds" is the oldest form of presbyterian rule. In the presbyterian system every man holds a self- sufficient farm on lease from God. This holding is considered to be a kingdom, and the holder is treated as that kingdom's king and priest - the supreme ruler under the WORD which is God.

Other things pointing to government involvement in the Oklahoma City bombing are these: the FBI, the ones who ordered the final assault on the Waco church complex, should have been the logical target. They didn't have offices in the federal building that was attacked.

Who placed the bombs that were disarmed within the Oklahoma federal compound?

What about the seismograph story - that there were two explosions - ten seconds apart? Engineers tell me that 4800 pounds of fertilizer explosive is a lot of explosive, but fertilizer bombs are very inefficient, and, there was an awful lot of damage done to that building. That amount of damage would be far more likely if an inefficient outside bomb were helped by an efficient one inside. Then, too, the YMCA building just across the street was still standing. Window washers weren't even blown off their scaffolding.

Lastly, and most interesting - of the 20 employees of the ATF in the bombed building, guess how many were hurt in the explosion - the explosion that at this writing has killed 121, including 15 children, and may possibly include 70 more? NONE OF THEM WERE HURT![4]

Conclusion

My advice to the nation's public servants, the media, and the law enforcement personnel is simply this: Public servants, do your job - honestly, Media - tell the truth for a change, Law enforcement - be nice. Everyone is entitled to three strikes - you've had four; Gordon Kahl, Ruby Ridge, Waco, and now Oklahoma City. America's illusions were blown away by Oklahoma City.

4 NY Times, 4/26/95, p. A12.

==========

UNFILTERED NEWS

BOMB COMMENT: "Dear Dick; I don't understand how a sidewalk car bomb can almost demolish one building, but leave the YMCA across the street standing. There must have been another bomb inside." G. T. - Virginia

---

JUDGE REMOVAL: "Newt Gingrich may love the Constitution, and the Democrats may hold it up as 'their' contract with America, yet the last time a Federal judge has been scraped off the bench for violating the Constitution and /or violating the rights of an American citizen was March 12, 1804, when John Pickering was forced to go home." Acres USA, p. 4, Apr. 1995

FBI ADMINISTERS HANDSLAP: The FBI disciplined 12 agents Friday (a Jan 6, 1995) for their participation in the Weaver Ruby Ridge Massacre, yet the sniper who shot Weaver's wife in the face while she was holding her baby wasn't reprimanded. Director Louis Freeh doled out punishments ranging from reprimands to 15-day suspensions. Supervisor Larry Potts will still be promoted to deputy director of the FBI. Weaver's Wyoming lawyer, Gerry Spence, called Freeh's actions "a handslapping." (Story in APM Newsletter, PO Box 157, Sandpoint, Idaho 83864.)

RKH: In the editor's opinion - the Ruby Ridge and the Waco massacres offer sufficient proof that the FBI is a public nuisance, as well as a public menace, and should be disbanded. Each agent should be carefully investigated for complicity in past mini-Waco crimes and those without homicidal tendencies who can be rehabilitated should be carefully deprogrammed before being allowed to mix with the general public. Those who can't should be permanently incarcerated or deported to New York City.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 249

THE PROGRAM

What is our program? If victory were ours today, what program do we offer our people? Our right wing leaders in America, Europe, S. Africa and Australia-New Zealand haven't a clue. They complain, they find fault, they offer themselves as "new kings" to do it right. Our grandfathers died for those promises time and again. Some want a new constitution? Balderdash! We've got Constitutions all over the place right now and all of them have beaten us to death without exception. We know what doesn't work. It's time we studied the operating manual and got it right.

View From The Mountain Top

If you can get to the right place, you can see that Lynchburg is located in a large valley. The bald top of one of Candler's Mountain's long ridges is the place from which to observe. Candler's Mountain is part of the Buffalo Ridge chain. Far across on the other side of the valley one can see the stately column of mountains marching by - Tobacco Row, Potato Hill - where my father used to foxhunt, Locke's Mountain, Rocky Mountain and No- Business Mountain - Jefferson's favorite, and where I almost died from sunstroke when I was 18.

You can almost see Thomas Jefferson's Bedford County home, "Poplar Forest." The town of Lexington is over the Blue Ridge, 38 miles away, where General Lee and General Jackson are buried. Twenty miles east is Appomattox; fifteen miles south is Red Hill, Patrick Henry's home. The James River cuts through both mountain ranges in its march eastward to Richmond, Norfolk, and the Atlantic. Everything is seen through the blue haze that is the trade mark of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

The most prominent landmark for the entire area is the Peaks of Otter - 18 miles west. They are not named for the little animal - it's an Indian name whose real meaning has been lost. They were holy mountains to the Indians and these peaks have witnessed countless Indian wars. They are in the center of land claimed by three Indian nations - the Iroquois, Algonquin, and Cherokee who fought each other year after year for scalps, booty, and glory, only to lose to the White man's Law which was superior to their own.

Legend has it that the Spanish were here before Jamestown was settled by the English in 1607. Relics show that even before them the land was settled by the Celts, Phoenicians, and Hebrews. Each in turn held the land as long as their strength allowed them. Then, through weakness, weariness, or treachery, they were driven away or killed.

Today, the White man is struggling to hold to the land he has lived on for three hundred years. A flood of strangers is pouring in through gates held wide by traitors who hate their nation and the WORD. The great Piedmont valley, used since 1607 as a military road by countless Indian nations, the French, the British, their German mercenaries, and by invading blue hordes, is ready for tomorrow's would-be conquerors.

Incident In Fredericksburg

Following the Piedmont to the northeast one reaches Fredericksburg. The Lynchburg News of April 6, 1995 carried a story of a woman clerk in a Fredericksburg store who had her face pounded by a Black who demanded money. Video replay showed three men and three women standing by who offered no help. Did these six obey the law? those standing by and allowing the woman to possibly be beaten to death? Of course they were. Statutes are such today that if they had assaulted the mugger and had harmed him - they would be liable for damages. Government has fixed it so that it is not worth it to become involved, especially in the case of simple assault - which is what the establishment would call it.

But, suppose it were a capital crime being discussed - and there is a code of Law that brands "spoiling with violence" a capital crime - what would the situation be?

Statutes in force today dealing with capital crimes state:

> "Capital punishment in rabbinic law, ... must not be inflicted, except by the verdict of a regularly constituted court. (Lesser Sanh.) ... who must also depose that the culprit had been forewarned as to the criminality and the consequences of his project (Sanh. v. 1, 40b et seq.; see Hatraah). The culprit must be a person of legal age and of sound mind ... and if any one wilfully kills him before conviction, a charge of murder will lie against such perpetrator (Tosef., B.K. ix. 15; Sifre, Num 161; compare 'Ar. j. 8, 6b)." Jewish Enclyclopedia, p. 556

In complete opposition to the above, the Christian WORD is clear:

"If he ... doeth the like to any one of these things ... hath ... defiled his neighbor's wife, ... hath spoiled by violence (armed robbery, mugging) ... he shall surely die, his blood shall be upon him." Eze 18:10-13.

This is simple enough. Armed Robbery with force is a capital crime. But, who is supposed to enforce the Law? Is it the local police? In the 20 minutes or so it would take for them to arrive - the woman might be dead. What does the Law say about that?

"The hands of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death." Deut 17:7

According to the WORD, the six witnesses who stood idle were responsible for enforcing the Law. If, by some fluke, the criminal escaped into the streets he then fell into the hands of the people:

"The hands of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterward the hands of all the people." Deut 17:5

The Scriptures say that if the authorities prevent the witnesses to a crime from enforcing God's Law, the authorities themselves fall outside the Law by dissolving or confounding the Law. If this happens the following steps are to be taken:

"In case anyone of their own blood (a kinsman) should attempt to confound or dissolve their constitution (the Law of Moses), they should take vengeance on them, both all in general, and each person in particular ... if they were not able to take such vengeance, they should still demonstrate that what was done was contrary to their wills." Antiquities 4:8:45

According to this, Witnesses must enforce the Law, or, if they are prevented by the authorities from executing the Law and if they do not demonstrate that the pervasion of the Law that protects the guilty is contrary to their wills - if none of these things is done - the witnesses themselves must be charged as being "false witnesses." This triggers another Law:

> "Because thou hast let go out of thy hand a man whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people." I Ki 20:42

This is heavy stuff. Did the six witnesses attempt to obey the Law? Yes! Which law? God's Law or State statutes. They obeyed the statutes of the state that are enforced today instead of God's Law! They did this in spite of clear instructions:

> "We must obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29; "If ye love me obey my commandments. John 14:15

This act of theirs triggers God's punishment:

> "Because thou hast let go out of thy hand a man whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people." I Ki 20:42

This involves all of us. It is what God's Law demands - and what God says will happen if we do not enforce his Law. Does this mean that we should jump on someone committing what the Bible calls a capital crime and administer punishment - punishment that will violate the statutes of the state and which will land us in jail charged with murder? Paul Hill did.

He did this with full knowledge that it would cause him to risk his life and all his worldly goods from lawsuits. What about us? What should we do? About all we can do is protest to the authorities and our kinsmen that what is happening is unLawful:

"If they were not able to take such vengeance, they should still demonstrate that what was done was contrary to their wills". Antiquities 4:8:45

Not knowing what else to do we protest to the authorities. This fulfills the command to protest unLawful behavior. Still, we know full well that God's curses will still pour out upon our land because the WORD is disobeyed.

Lynchburg's Cemeteries

Looking down from the mountain on Lynchburg one can see its cemeteries. A lot can be learned about a town from its cemeteries. The old one is City Cemetery. Its oldest graves were moved from downtown when they were uncovered while building the old courthouse. They date back to the late 1600s. One was the skeleton of a seven foot giant. Three thousand Confederate soldiers are buried there. City Cemetery has so many buried there that every time a new grave is dug an old grave is disturbed, so, they closed the cemetery.

Spring Hill Cemetery is the newest one. It was opened about 1840. The author of the Federal Reserve Act rests there along with old fire and brimstone "Jubal A." - the one who saved Lynchburg from being burned by Gen. Hunter, and scared old Abe to death by his sudden raid on Washington. Jubal Early in his younger days commanded the 1st Virginia - the old Richmond Light Infantry Blues. Patrick Henry was its one time commander. I was a subaltern in that regiment when a young man, as was my father and my ancestor Col. Bird Hoskins. He was a Lieutenant then. Jim Dearing is buried close by "Jubal A." He was almost 25 when he was killed.

Carter Glass
b Jan 4, 1848
d May 28, 1946

Jubal Anderson Early
b Nov 3, 1816
Maj 1st Va Inf Mex War 1848
Lt Gen May 31, 1864
d. March 2, 1894

Brig Gen James Dearing
b. Apr 25, 1840
d. Apr 22, 1865
Mortally wounded High Bridge Apr 7

The Presbyterian Cemetery was established in the early 1800s. Some graves go back to the 1700s, but they were brought in from family cemeteries when Virginians were forced from their land after the War. Nearly every family plot has one or more of its members buried there who were killed in America's wars. Some like John Acree, a friend of my older sister, were killed in WWII. The 29th Division that landed at Normandy was from Bedford County and Lynchburg. It furnished its share. After WWII, I was in the National Guard honor guard that fired salutes - three and four times every week - month after month after month the coffins would come home in a steady stream. However, most are from the War Between the States and so many were brothers.

Lt. J. G. John White Acree USNR
b Apr 23, 1918
Buried at sea Oct 26, 1942

Pvt John A. Garrette
16th Va Cav, CSA
Dec 2, 1864

Pvt Samuel Armstrong
Goochland Va Arty CSA
Mar 29, 1865

Linnaeus B. McKinney
Fell at Burgess Mill Mar 31, 1865
Aged 25

Col R. M. McKinney
Fell near Yorktown, Apr 16 1862
Age 26

The War

The war was started to destroy the South's system of self-sufficient farms. The South didn't even know that the North had a great depression in 1855. In a self-sufficient economy, depressions are virtually unknown. Self-sufficient states seem as barren wastelands to the International Trade Cartel (ITC). They are poor customers since they buy little from them and need almost nothing. There is no profit when people are self-sufficient.

Pvt John Walton
Co B, 2nd Va Cav
CSA
Nov 21, 1863

The accumulated wealth of the South was great - if it could be exploited. The move was started to take it. The ITC had been allowed to quietly buy up newspapers in the major cities. These were used to elevate fawning servants to political office. It was also used to suppress those who might cause trouble. The prime objective now was to destroy the self-sufficient farm system of the South so that the people this system protected could become easy prey.

William Kinckle Boyd Died from disease contracted in the army July 16, 1865 Aged 17	Charles Agustus Boyd Died in defense of his country Nov 26, 1861 Age 21

Pvt Warren Stuart Co C, 13th Va Arty CSA 1845-1863	Pvt John P. Stuart Co C, 13th Va Arty CSA 1848-1864

Our enemies know that it is the nature of the Saxon not to willingly raise a hand against a kinsman:

Lt Charles G. Tyree Co E, 11th Va Inf, CSA 1864	Pvt Samuel E. Tyree Co G, 11th Va Inf, CSA June 1, 1862	Pvt Richard Tyree Co G, 11th Va Inf, CSA Aug 23, 1863

"Ye shall not ... fight against your brethren the children of Israel." I Kings 12:24; "Thou shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people." Lev 19:18.

Our enemies learned from missionaries[1] that there is one excuse that will cause our people to go to war, and that is:

1 "Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying, Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not. But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 10-5

"(If) any one of their own blood ... should attempt to confound or dissolve their constitution of government (the Law), they should take vengeance upon them." Antiquities 4:8:45

Pvt John Watts
Co A, 2nd Va Cav CSA
Jan 6, 1864

The ITC first bought the media to prepare the way, the media selected Northern candidates for the Saxons to vote for. Then, they selected a cause. It was necessary to show that the selected victim was unLawful. People voted for the best candidates they knew - but the only candidates they knew were the ones that had been selected for them by the media. Next, a campaign of vilification was launched against the South so that the North would be justified in going to war against them.

Robert Emmet Rodes
Maj Gen, CSA
b March 30, 1829 d Sep 19, 1864
Killed Battle of Winchester
Aged 35 years

Col R. M. McKinney
Fell near Yorktown
Apr 16, 1862
Age 26

Surg D. S. Green
CSN
CSA
1811-1864

Pvt Jerome Wheeler
Co G, 11th Va Inf
CSA
Feb 7, 1864

Pvt Charles L. Burk
Mooreman's Batt, Va Arty
CSA
1864

The issue selected was slavery. Slavery was a result of the king of England's insistance that it continue in spite of two appeals from Virginia's Legislature to stop the practice. Now we know that the king got a percentage of each sale. New England slavers got rich on the trade, and, according to The Secret Relationship Between Blacks and Jews by the Nation Of Islam, quoting Jewish sources, Jewish slavers transported a shockingly large part of the trade.[2]

2 Secret Relationship Between Blacks and Jews. Order Virginia Publishing Company, P.O. Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505. $24.95/copy + $2p&H

Virginia was Abolitionist - as was most of the nation except the deep South which needed labor and New England slavers who furnished it. The existing abolition plan was to first ban slave importation. This was done at Virginia's insistance. Next, buy the slaves already here and send them back to Africa. This plan was in operation and had widespread public support. It had been in operation for years. One of the movement's first presidents was Thomas Jefferson.

The ITC media ignored this existing abolition effort. Instead, it insisted on a plan designed to infuriate everyone. It told its Northern readers never-ending atrocity stories about the treatment of slaves in the South. They demanded Southern slaves be instantly freed without compensating their owners. Southern slave owners resisted this - especially when there was no plan to send them back to Africa - which was the reason for the abolition movement in the first place.

Usury-bankers hired a White renegade, John Brown, to kill slave-owning Whites in Kansas. The media beat the war drums. The media's candidate was elected president. He spoke peace as he ordered the invasion of Charleston Harbor - without constitutional authorization. When Charlestonians defended their city from invasion he used that defense as an excuse to order the invasion of the rest of the Southland.

43 Unknown Confederate Soldiers

The people of the South had trusted in the Constitution to protect them. It failed. Next, they trusted in "states rights" to correct that which the Constitution failed to do. Thus, they abdicated their mission as Israel[3] and trusted man-made institutions. The media "false-witnesses" spoke lies punishable by capital punishment.[4]

3 Israel - Heb: Yisrâ'êl - "He will rule as God ... also his posterity." Strong's Concordance.

Usury-banks financed wolves to harass the sheep. But, since all this was protected by the Constitution they permitted it. Because the South tolerated evil - harvest time came. By the tens of thousands - by the hundreds of thousands - the best blood of the land was poured out in the attempt to hold back a flood that could have been held back in the beginning by simple obedience and with little effort.

The 11th Virginia infantry regiment was a militia unit from Lynchburg, as was the 2nd Virginia cavalry, and Latham's and Mooreman's batteries. They scattered their dead all over the state. At the very end, at Appomattox, Lynchburg's 2nd Virginia Cavalry charged through the middle of the union army at night, shooting and slashing a path for our Lynchburg guns. On the way home the artillerists stopped long enough to bury their guns in a creek so that the Yankees would never capture them, then, swore an oath of silence as to their location. There the guns lie today - undiscovered. The 2nd Virginia rode into Lynchburg with its red-crossed battle flag flying. In parade order they rode through the streets lined with cheering children and women in black. They rode on to Miller Park where they had formed up in 1861. There they halted, called Roll, and disbanded the regiment. The survivors went home. They never did surrender. It was all so glorious - and all so unnecessary.

The many graves of the war dead in the private family plots represent a tremendous effort on the part of Lynchburg families to bring their dead home. For each name, many, many others rest in unmarked graves, and there are thousands and thousands of graves everywhere in Virginia.

4 GOD'S LAW: "If a false witness rise up ... Then shall ye to unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother." Deu 19:16-19

Following is a quote made by Gen. Lee to Governor Stockdale of Texas after the War.

> "Governor Stockdale ... Those people hold me as a representative Southerner; hence, I know they watch my words, and if I should speak unadvisedly, what I say would be caught up by their speakers and newspapers, and magnified into a pretext for adding to the load of oppression they have placed upon our poor people; and God knows, Governor that load is heavy enough now ...
>
> "'Governor, if I had foreseen the use those people designed to make of their victory, there would have been no surrender at Appomattox Courthouse; no, sir, not by me. Had I foreseen these results of subjugation, I would have preferred to die at Appomattox with my brave men, my sword in this right hand.'"[5]

Even General Lee had been taught a lesson. It would have been better to have been obedient at the very beginning and to have given a little, than to have been disobedient and forced to give all in the end. The wise learn from mistakes. Our dead are stark reminders of the price that must be paid for disobeying our God. Knowing this - the war continues - but our war objectives are different. The International Trade Cartel has grown bigger and stronger. It now has its GATT, its affirmative action, its UN army, its Waco Bill to rule us, and its FBI assassination teams to eliminate that which cannot be converted. But, while we are weaker than we were in 1861, we are stronger. We have learned. We are smarter. We have learned that the thing that we need to save us is the LAW. The LAW is our invincible KEY to victory.

5 Life & Letters of Robert Lewis Dabney, Thomas C. Johnson, Banner of Truth Trust, Edinburgh, Scotland: 1977, pp. 497-500

Randy Duey On The Law

Last week I received a letter. Those who aspire to leadership had better pay attention to its contents:

"Dear Mr. Hoskins: "I think the Law is the whole program.

"The major reason why we have the problems we do is that we ignore it. Most other areas in the right wing are a million miles behind us because they have NO program at all. They have no system of Law and they're light years from coming up with one - they just don't realize it. All they can do is to complain about what "is" now. They have nothing to replace it with. If they sat down and figured out something, it would be just another clumsy attempt by men, who think they know a lot more than they really do, to devise a system of Law that works. Without a system of law, you have no program; you're impotent. I think that point is so obvious that the fact that no one is really trying to devise a program is like proclaiming over a loudspeaker - 'We've tried everything we can think of, for centuries, and nothing has worked. We just don't know what to do.'

"Most of the small percentage of those in the right wing who believe in the LAW don't realize what they've got. They think the LAW is something to be used in conjunction with some other system of manmade law. There's this unspoken consensus that we shouldn't go overboard; that we should be 'reasonable' about this; that it'll never work; we'll never be able to institute Divine LAW; it's too radical a change; the LAW was made for another by-gone age, and this is the modern world, etc., etc.

"Needless to say, I disagree. The LAW was, is, and always will be - the program.

"Here's an important point: People tend to have the idea that the LAW can't be applied to the modern world. So, instead of rejecting those elements of the modern world that are incompatible with the LAW, they reject the LAW. Hitler called the masses 'impenetrably stupid.' Right on! huh. Anyway, for example, if the LAW regarding land distribution and ownership can't apply to modern real estate practices, modern real estate practices will have to bite the dust.

"I think that those who follow the LAW have a tremendous advantage over the rest of the fumblers: we have a program. It's only a matter of implementing it; whereas for the others, they have yet to formulate it. That gives us another advantage, too. We don't need to have anything to do with the Beast system. We don't need to spend our time, money and other resources bitching, moaning, demonstrating, fighting and whatever, about what the Beast is doing. Who cares what the Beast is doing? It's totally irrelevant. For the others, since they don't have a program, their whole world is a counter-world. All they can do is complain.

Let the Beast do what it wants. Our responsibility is to not argue with it or fight it, but to ignore it as best we can. Our responsibility is to implement the LAW. If the Beast goes out of its way to torment us while we're doing that, that's where Divine protection and the Phineas priesthood come in." Randy Duey #09884- 016, PO Box 1000, Oxford, WS 53952.

(Randy Duey - The Order.)

==========

UNFILTERED NEWS

FORMER FBI AGENT CHARGES: "The U.S. government planted the bomb in the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building to create a pretext for a crackdown on the secretive militia movement. ... more than 600 ... citizens listened in rapt attention (to) ... former FBI agent Ted Gunderson and Michigan paramilitary leader Mark Koernke ... " Chicago Tribune, May 9, 1995

OKLAHOMA CITY VICTIMS: "Rescue workers were ordered to stop searching for survivors while federal officials removed boxes of documents. ... You'd think that they would have let their evidence and files sit at least until the last survivor was pulled out. ... They had guys carrying out boxes while the rescue workers were forced to sit on their hands." The Daily News, p.2, of May 1, 1995

RKH: This was going on at the same time the feds were crying about babies still in the ruins.

HOW CAN YOU DO THAT? "The force of the blast (at Oklahoma City) blew the edifice of the federal building 50 yards across the street, where it slammed into another building and slid down onto a parking lot." Daily Reporter, April 20, 1995

RKH: This supports seismograph finding that there was a second more powerful explosion. An explosion inside would be far more likely to throw pieces of the building outward across the street than an outside explosion which would tend to drive wreckage inward.

THE ESTABLISHMENT SELECTS ITS OPPOSITION: Sen. Orrin G. Hatch of Utah, Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said that the House should take the lead in holding hearings on government actions at Waco and Ruby Ridge. Soon Afterward, Sen Arlen Spector of Pennsylvania, left-wing candidate for the presidency, announced that his terrorism subcommittee would hold a hearing on May 18 to review the assault on Waco and Ruby Ridge. If the establishment does not organize its own opposition, a true opposition will fill the vacuum and in time will pull down the establishment.

FBI BITES FBI: Larry O. Potts, the commander of the 1992 FBI assault on the Weaver cabin in Idaho has charged in a letter to the Justice Department that the FBI's review is a cover-up intended to shield top officials. The Spokesman Review of May 10, 1995 says: "Commander Eugene F. Glenn charges that the FBI review blamed him for managerial lapses in the Idaho operation and sought to let off Freeh's top aide, Larry A Potts, with a mild rebuke. ... Potts helped draft the plan for the Waco assault and was the primary supervisor from Washington in the standoff with Weaver. Potts now has overall responsibility for the Oklahoma City investigation."

PAUL HILL CASE: "Justice has not been served in the case of Paul Hill. ... Everyone deserves a fair trial. Paul Hill did not receive one!!! ... Paul Hill should have been allowed to present his defense. Not only did the judge refuse to allow Paul to present his defense, he would not allow any discussion on the matter. To make matters worse, the judge denied Paul Hill the right to be represented by the counsel of Paul's choice - the team of Heuser and Hirsh - forcing Paul into representing himself when the state was seeking the death penalty. Now Paul sits on death row in Florida State Prison...." Liberty & Justice, P.O. Box 33034, Louisville, KY 40232,

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 250

TRACKING THE EVIL EMPIRE RULERS

Tyranny's evil trinity are the international MERCHANT, his bribed PRIESTS, and his created KINGS.

It is as simple as ONE, TWO, THREE, FOUR: (1) The merchant demands his profit, whatever the cost. (2) He pays the priest to open the sheepfold gate. (3) The wolf enters and finds a kindred spirit among the sheep whom he helps to become a powerful king, one powerful enough to protect the merchant and his loot. (4) The sheep are the fourth party involved. They are the prey and the potential enemy of the rest. The first three comprise the "International Trade Cartel" (ITC).

Truth is simple and obvious once one thinks about it. However, one must be able to explain it to those who have only recently become aware that their world is being destroyed.

Punishment For Theft

The priest is essential in Western society. He consults God and proclaims God's wishes. This is an illusion kept alive by the merchants' media. In the real world, the one who pays the bills calls the tune.

Ancient Christian Law is precise. It states that theft must be punished in the following manner. A thief caught with an undamaged item, such as an automobile, must repay two automobiles. If he wraps the stolen automobile around a telephone pole, he must repay four. If he steals a very valuable automobile and destroys it - five.[1] If he does not have the money he must submit to servitude until he works it off. If he runs - he dies.

The Christian Law system allows no prisons. A holding tank for a couple of days, perhaps, until a speedy trial can be held - but no prison. Putting someone in prison is called "stealing a man" - kidnaping. This is a capital offense. An offender of the Law must repay if it is possible to repay. In the cases of murder, rape, or kidnaping, repayment is impossible, so the offender dies. There are no prisons.

This is the Law of the Christian. But, in the Christian West

---

1 GOD'S LAW: (1) "If a man shall steal an ox, or a sheep, and kill it, or sell it; he shall restore 5 oxen for an ox, and 4 sheep for a sheep." Ex 22:1: (2) "If the theft be certainly found in his hand alive, whether it be ox, or ass, or sheep; he shall restore double." Ex 22:4; (3) "Do not despise a thief, if he steal to satisfy his soul when he is hungry; but if he (who steals and has means to pay for it) be found, he shall restore sevenfold." Prov 6:30-31: (4) "He that hath purloined gold or silver, let him pay double. ... Let him that hath stolen cattle pay fourfold ... excepting the case of an ox, for which let the thief pay five fold. Let him that is so poor that he cannot pay ... be his servant to whom he was adjudged to pay it." Antiquities 4:8:27 today, a thief is caught and enslaved in prison. The victim is not repaid, but is taxed to support the thief while incarcerated. How can this be?

Whom Do Priests Obey?

Christian priests refrain from preaching God's requirements contained in the WORD. They see evil and say nothing. They discuss the weather, vacations, the next church social, and tell men to obey the king. They are gelded pigs - unfruitful and unclean. The politicians are instructed to make them tax exempt in payment for their seeing no evil. If they see evil and proclaim it - both tax exemption and media exposure are removed and church receipts plummet. Today's priests do not speak for God. They tolerate the edicts of other gods in exchange for gold.

- Who actually determines which law is approved and must be obeyed?

The courts.

- Who appoints the courts?

The politicians.

- Who elects the politicians?

The media. People vote for candidates they know. They don't know anyone else to vote for. The media only gives publicity to agents of the media owner. These agents of the media owners, when elected, appoint the members of the court.

- Who are the media owners?

Media corporations chains.

- Who manages the media chains?

Mega "media-managers" such as Robert Maxwell, who was found floating in the Atlantic Ocean after being caught skimming from the companies he managed. Before that happened it was thought that he was one of the wealthiest men in the world - and the owner of all he managed.

- Who actually OWNS the media?

Stock companies.

- Who owns the Stock Companies?

Unknown persons who register the stock they own in nominee names in international banks. When Robert Maxwell died, the banks threw aside their anonymity in their haste to be first in line to claim their property. They insisted that in spite of Maxwell's claim to own all he managed, that he was only hired to manage their property.

- Who owns the international banks that own the media?

The international merchants - the International Trade Cartel (ITC).

- Who are the actual members of this International Trade Cartel?

When the Continental Illinois in America and Baring Bank in England and the Far East folded, the Queen of England, head of the Anglican Church, was exposed as an owner - in violation of the Christian prohibition against usury. After all, the Queen is head of the Anglican Church. When a cluster of Swiss banks failed in the 1970s, and the more recent Vatican Bank failed, the Catholic Church was exposed as the owner of usury banks. The Vatican owns an unknown number of banks, as do the Rothschild and Rockefeller interests. Charles Brown Sung was called the richest man in the world in the 1940s. His descendants are believed to be Far East members of the cartel. There are others.

The partial list above includes people from different lands, different races, and different religions. The thing they have in common is that they all get their income from international trade.

There is one religion in the world created for the express purpose of promoting and expediting trade, and which allows different religions to co-exist in peace, side by side, for the sake of trade. The name of this religion is Buddhism. Buddhism requires only ecumenical- Dharma.[2]

In the final analysis, it is ITC members that select the law to be blessed by their denominational priests, proclaimed by their courts, and enforced by their governments. The world's premier merchants are the actual rulers of the world. Their hired kings enforce their laws, their appointed courts tell the world what is lawful and what is not lawful. Today's denomination priests are nobodies - false watchmen - unclean beings who are paid to put god's stamp of approval on whatever the merchants and their kings and courts do. They are kept on the tax-exempt payroll by the merchants for their cosmetic effect, to calm the sheep, and to bless their sins.

The scriptures have much to say about these ITC merchants:

> "A merchant shall hardly keep himself from doing wrong." Ecclesiasticus 26:29

> "A rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven. ... It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God." Matt 23-24

2 DHARMA: Buddhist teaching to pacify divergent populations; to facilitate rule and expedite trade. Dharma - acceptance, non- violence, and tolerance of different peoples and their gods and obedience to one's rulers; "The Edicts of Asoka ... combine the instrumentalities of power with those of education and meditation, and they transform law by love, reason, and tolerance." The Edicts Of Asoka, N. A. Nikam & Richard McKeon, Univ Chicago Press, Chicago, Chicago 60637, c 1959 p. viii.

"Babylon ... the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies. ... The merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her; for no man buyeth their merchandise any more. ... The merchants of these things, which were made rich by her, shall stand afar off for the fear of her torment ... And every shipmaster, and all the company in ships, and sailors, and as many as trade by sea ... cried when they saw the smoke of her burning ... for thy merchants were the great men of the earth ... And in her was found the blood of prophets, and of saints, and of all that were slain upon the earth." Rev 18:1-2,11,15,17-18,23

The day will come when the evil trinity of the International Trade Cartel - (1) the merchants, (2) their priests, and (3) their kings, will fall together, and in their place will stand - (4) the kings and priests appointed by God.[3] The empires and kingdoms of the merchant will disappear in smoke and burning and the self-sufficient farm- kingdom commanded by God will be a building block of the new.[4] The WORD is the cement that will bind the new world together.

From Africa by K.J.

"Dear Mr. Hoskins: "Few of us feel very sympathetic toward the police, they did their best to get all right-wingers behind bars, and the way in which they treated these people leaves a bad taste.

"The British Queen came and went. Blacks at Langatownship outside Cape Town got out of hand and her entourage had to hurry back to safety. What is of importance is the sudden interest in the British royal family. Many are waking up to the fact that they are not what we have been told.

3 "Jesus Christ...hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." Rev 1:5-6

4 GOD'S LAW: "The land shall be divided for an inheritance ... To many thou shalt give the more ... to few thou shalt give the less ... the land shall be divided by lot." Num 26:53-55; "The land shall not be sold for ever: for the land is mine." Lev 25:13-28

"The HNP Congress has called on us to continue the fight. Mr. Marais, its leader, never involves himself in religion, but I know he feels very deeply about it. When there are so many die- hards in the party of different denominations it makes it difficult to take one distinct course that may be in opposition to the others.[5]

"If someone told me two years ago that the moral tone of many in this country would go down so fast, I would have had difficulty believing him. It is really a time of purification of God's children in this country.

"Most of us went through the summer without rain and when it was far too late for summer crops, rain fell. We hope the farmers have enough for the winter crops they are planting.

"Krugersdorp took over the local black township's debt and it bankrupted them. These black townships are still not paying for their utilities and public services. The black mayor spends lavishly on entertainment. Winnie Mandela, twice dismissed now, used to go into exclusive shops and buy clothes worth thousands. When the management inquired about payment they were told to charge it to the department. The behavior of black schoolchildren is shocking. A headmaster has to tell them at opening in the schoolhall to use toilets for their needs.

5 The age-old presbyterian fear is that those refusing to publicly submit to the WORD serve an episcopacy. This has led some to believe that Mr. Marais wishes to become master of the people he offers to lead. It is my observation that true followers of the WORD are not reluctant to publicly bind themselves to the restrictions of the WORD and they will tell the world that they do. Paul Kruger didn't mind.

"The SA TV removed most Afrikaans programs, and the black announcers use pidgin English. They were hired because of "affirmative action." The pidgin English has upset most English listeners dreadfully, they never thought these changes would affect them.

"The ANC communists have ruled for one year, and have nothing to show for it. They voted themselves huge salaries but the rest of the ANC regime has come to a standstill. It would seem that their most important aim is to oppress and banish everything Afrikaans. Afrikaners were first to be removed from the civil service and thereafter wherever they found them. They banished his language from TV, and removed his names from dams, airports, and towns as if they want to sweep away all evidence of our existence. All of this pleased the liberal English living in S. Africa no end, little did they realize that they would be next. Now the ANC say openly that they are fighting against all whites.

"On 'Freedom Day' Mandela released 13,000 prisoners and a further 90,000 had their sentences reduced. Young criminals who got amnesty were back doing that they did before, murdering, raping, robbing, pickpocketing and shoplifting. Criminals can move about freely which causes White citizens to stay locked up behind bars, electric fences, etc., and are never free to go where they like. Police chiefs and prosecutors are disheartened and the Attorney General of Witwatersrand resigned. Many others are doing the same. Not one right-winger or other White gained his freedom during this general amnesty.

"There is a war on in KwaZulu-Natal between Zulus and Xhosas. The Zulus feel defrauded. They wanted a federal system. Instead, Mandela went there and made statements seen by some as a war declaration. Shots were fired and Mandela escaped in an armored car and flew away by helicopter.

"During the week we had sheets of corrugated iron ripped off a big barn. To save what was left we had to remove the rest and lock it up. It is just a formality to call the police. One doesn't expect any good to come from it.

"Squatters (illegal immigrants) are still streaming in our open borders. They settled in on an open piece of land in the middle of Randburg yesterday, very much at home squatting around fires. Everyone fears that they will bring the Ebola virus with them.

"Proposals by the ANC to the Constitutional Assembly outlawing our Christian religion has come to our attention.

"There is another problem. Just when it became so important I do not know. Calvinism features very much in our Protestant Churches, but it is Calvin without the law. It has no problem with usury. The Voortrekkers showed no sign of this type of heresy, but it brings the house down if one dares to quote Calvin today. This is why they can so lightly say that 70% of the population are Christians. Tutu at least is honest when he said that Christianity is fine during the day, but Blacks need something stronger at night - the ancestor spirits.

"There is one positive occurrence; the plan to send White farmers to Mozambique has fallen flat, and with Zaire's health problems, that will also come to nothing.

"At the unveiling of the assassinated Cris Hani's tombstone, a Catholic priest officiated. Very Interesting. There are a lot of strange fingers in the S. African pie that are only now becoming visible."

"With best wishes, K.J. - South Africa"

More From South Africa

GOVERNMENT AGENT MADE BOMBS: "A key state witness, who has admitted building the three car-bombs which killed 20 people before the April elections last year, disclosed in the Rand Supreme Court yesterday he was a police informer ... Mr. Koekemoer admitted that without his expertise ... the bombs 'probably could not have been built.' ..." Citizen, March 4, 1995.

RKH: Tyrannical governments, including the US, encourage violence to have a reason for their existence by putting it down.

KRUGER'S GRAVE DESECRATED: "The desecration of the bust and grave of President Paul Kruger in Heroes' Acre in Pretoria is directly connected to the visit by the British Queen to S. Africa. ... Mr. Jaap Marais ...remarked that ... the British Queen demonstrated no affection during her visit towards the Africaner, on the contrary she made her loathing clearly known. ... The grave of Paul Kruger is not an ordinary grave of a Boer, it is a sanctuary of the Afrikaners, it symbolizes and represents everything for which he fought. ... If this happened to Jewish graves, the world would have heard about the evils of antisemitism, but because it is the grave of a Boer hero, it is of no importance." Die Afrikaner, 31 March - 6 Apr 1995

JUDAS LIBERALS: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Yes, the position is getting rapidly worse here. What I find amazing is the number of liberals who after being mugged by reality - are now getting fed up with the blacks. They still won't admit that they themselves are the original cause of the present problems. It was the liberals who would not listen to reason and voted blindly for Judases in government." G.R. - S. Africa

---

KILLING THEM SOFTLY: "Instead of driving the Whites 'into the sea', revolutionary councils decided to 'kill them softly' by depriving them of employment. ... 'Nearly 1 million Whites will lose their jobs because of so-called affirmative action". University of OFS labour economics lecturer Dr. Louis Bothma said Whites would lose their jobs as the public and private sectors made their workforces 'representative." Impact, Feb/Mar, 1995, P.O. Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA,

---

TRAITORS: "South Africa's destruction was the objective of such human rights defenders as Newt Gingrich, Dan Quayle and Senators Richard Lugar, Nancy Kasselbaum, Ted Kennedy, Howard Metzenbaum and Lloyd Bensten, to name only a very few of the US politicos of the New World Order Establishment. This news appeared in both the 'Aida Parker Newsletter' and the 'Insider.' Both are published in S. Africa and both are right on target." SAU, Dr. Robert L. Slimp, 4636 Crystal Dr., Columbia, SC 29206, 803- 782- 0924.

HOSTAGES CAUSE AWB TO KNUCKLES UNDER: The White AWB commando units proposes to enter mainstream S. African politics ... provided it can achieve indemnity for its own 26 jailed members like the ANC has for its own members accused of violent crimes. Citizen, 1-31-95

CHOICE: "Afrikaners will have to choose their leader - the National Party, HNP, Conservative Party, or Freedom Front ... The National Party no longer professes to be an Afrikaner Party. The FF of Gen Viljoen can be ruled out - he is not asking for an separate Afrikaner nation. The CP led by Dr. Ferdi Hartzenberg is a renegade party without teeth. The HNP under the capable Mr. Jaap Marais is all that is left." (Letter in Citizen 2-7- 95)

MURDERER REWARDED: "The AWB expressed shock at the disclosure that the policeman who shot dead three wounded AWB members in the former Bophuthatswana last year has not been charged. ... A Sunday newspaper reported at the weekend that the policeman was still a member of the Bophuthatswana police force. ..." Citizen, 2-15-95

RKH: Another article says that the name of the Black who killed the 3 AWB men is Sgt Phillemon Nare. He is still in the police and is seen as a hero by his fellow Blacks.

AIDS: "The Government is hiding the true facts the same way that Zambia did, until they let the bomb shell drop telling the world that if AIDS increases at its present rate on the Copperbelt, the copper mines would have to close down in 1997 because there wouldn't be any men between the ages of 26 and 48 alive, to work the mines." Patriot, 2-10-95

Waco

EVIDENCE: "The former forewoman of the Branch Davidian trial told a jury-rights publication that significant evidence was withheld during the trial which may have changed the guilty verdict which landed many Davidian survivors in prison for 40 years. Sarah Bain told the Fully Informed Jury (FIJ) activist. "I am becoming aware now of numerous items that we were not permitted to see." She was asked if she were aware that the judge in the case had refused to allow evidence supporting the self- defense argument of the Davidians., a decision made without the jury present and without their being informed. She answered that she had been unaware of that decision. (The Sword & the Trumpet), The Witness, February 1995)

DISBAND THE FBI!: "Bo Gritz, the former Green Beret Colonel who negotiated the end of the 1992 Weaver siege by the federal government, has provided new information indicating that the FBI sniper team which killed Vicki Weaver intended to do so prior to the shooting. ... Gritz said, 'A senior member of the Red Cross support team told me that he was standing directly behind HRT agents (FBI sniper team) as they loaded machine guns and heard the commitments to kill Randall, Vicki, Sara, Rachel, Elisheba and Kevin Harris.' Further, Gritz said that he was told at the time by the FBI agent in charge of the sniping that Vicki Weaver was a distinct target. ... On 9 December the Clintonista head of the Civil Rights Division on the Department of Justice, Deval Patrick, ruled that the FBI had not 'intentionally' used excessive force in the Weaver killings." Wake-Up Call America, Feb 1995, 7625 W. 5th Ave., Suite 200-E, Lakewood, CO 80226

EXPERT WITNESS: "A powerful source of information has come forth recently, one, Brig. Gen. Benton K. Partin, USAF, Ret. In a letter written to Sen. Don Nickles, Gen Partin wrote: 'I spent 25 years in research, design, development, test and management of weapons development. ... I was also the first Chairman of the OSD joint Munitions Requirements and Development Committee.' Gen Partin is a weapons systems and demolition expert. In his letter he stated that it is his opinion that a "single bomb" that the federal government states that did all the damage to the federal building in Oklahoma was wrong! In his opinion it was impossible for a fertilizer truck bomb to do the structural damage that took place. He went on to say 'The entire building in Oklahoma City could have been collapsed with relatively small demolition charges against the base columns and with even less explosives if linear cavity cutting charges had been used. I know of no way possible to reproduce the apparent building damage without well placed demolition charges complementing the truck bomb damage.' Gen. Partin ended his letter to Sen. Nickles with these words; "Why such a hurry to destroy evidence.' In other words, why be in such a hurry to blow up the remaining portion of the federal building that was still standing." Information Consulting Corp, PO Box 784, Munising, MI 49862. (Send $15 for a 6 page copy of Gen. Partin's letter, a hard copy of the above message, and a 60 min audio cassette tape by Ted Gunderson, a former FBI agent, on the Oklahoma City Bomb cover-up by Federal Agents.)

America

SELECTING IT'S OPPOSITION: HR has warned its readers time after time that the only way the establishment can stay in business is to select its own opposition to fight with.

If a true opposition develops, and comes to power, the establishment may lose everything it has worked for for a thousand years. The establishment cannot afford this. It is not by accident that Ginrich is a lifetime member of the NAACP. It isn't by accident that the arch-liberal Dole has changed into a conservative, and Gramm - married to an oriental with half-breed children - is being paraded by the media as being presidential material.

PAUL HILL: "The heat is difficult where Paul is. The weekend we visited Paul it was 100 degrees in Jacksonville. We were visiting in a room with no air conditioning and for security reasons the doors were closed. Paul does not complain, but it is very hot in his cell. ABC ran a 10-15 minute summary of Paul's trial on May 27. The summary was prepared by Court TV. ... He was very pleased with the way the trial was summarized. ... A Faretta hearing was held on May 16th in Starke. ... Chief Judge Elzie Sanders made a recommendation to the Florida Supreme Court that Paul be allowed to represent himself on appeal. On June 22 the Supreme Court unanimously decided Paul could not represent himself. ... Paul will be allowed to file a supplemental brief stating his desire to represent himself, but court-appointed counsel will still plead the case. The US Supreme Court has ruled that defendants can represent themselves in death penalty cases, but the State of Florida has never allowed it. I spoke for 30 minutes with the public defender, W.C. McLain. ... Paul will not be allowed to be present at oral arguments. Paul is under 2 separate death sentences. ... The Lord is good and gives each of us abundant daily grace."

Karen Hill

ED: Paul Hill was convicted and sentenced to death for shooting an abortionist and his bodyguard. A Florida kangaroo court denied him the opportunity to present his defense. His address is Rev. Paul Hill #459364, R-2-S-2, Florida State Prison, PO Box 747, Starke, FL 32091

THE PROGRAM: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: 'Randy Duey's Observation' (The Program HR #249) is very cogent. My complaint has been that the non-Christian 'right' fails to recognize why the 'left' always wins. They blame their readers for not acting on their dazzling rhetoric. If mighty Wehrmachts can't turn the tide, how are their inflammatory words going to do it? They fail to see that God has already given us the means to survive - a PROGRAM!

"I will cause you to pass under the rod (of Zog no doubt) AND I WILL PURGE OUT FROM AMONG YOU THE REBELS, AND THEM THAT TRANSGRESS AGAINST ME." Ezek 20:37-38

"A God who knew every first-born in Egypt certainly knows every anti-christ, and, every right-winger who insists on doing it 'his way' - and failing every time. Our survival requires us to do what works! He has given us a handbook containing the program. Read it, then do what it says. Follow the PROGRAM!" H.F - Illinois

---

MILITIA: Roanoke. "A construction worker who organized a militia to combat gun control pleaded guilty Monday to possessing illegal machine guns and silencers and conspiring to circumvent firearm laws. He pleaded guilty to seven of 16 charges against him in exchange for 5 years instead of 60." News & Advance, B- 2, 3-5-95

RKH: These guys asked for it - and got what they asked for. It is perfectly legal in Virginia to walk down the street with a pistol on your hip and a rifle on your shoulder. On the other hand concealed weapons are illegal, unless you have a license, and licenses are easy to get. Different states have different laws - know the laws in your own state. As regards to machine guns - you have to purchase a federal license to own one. The licenses are easy to get, but expensive. Silencers are illegal. The federal government pays finks to harass the citizen's militias. Kings do not like having their rule challenged. Militias are legal. Study the statues and obey them.

Then, investigate one or more of the militias near you to see if you both are congenial. In early Virginia - militia membership was the law for all males from age 16 to 60, so, it was worth the time to select a company you liked and which liked you. When your city is being torched, and murder and rape is the order of the day, it will be too late to buy a gun and organize protection for your family and your neighbors.

NO PUNISHMENT: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: There is something I do not understand about our Catholic religion. Why is it that child- molesting priests, or others like them, are never punished?" G.H. - New York

RKH: We understand how one's "reincarnation" is reward for the Hindu. He is reborn in a higher or lower state depending on his acts in this life. Violent offenders are merely restrained - imprisoned - to give time for them to repent and "do good" so as to redeem the bad they have done. Catholic dogma embraces purgatory. The time spent there depends on one's good or bad acts here in this life. In essence - one's acts determine reward and punishment. The Catholic Church feels that they cannot improve on this. The WORD teaches that punishment for crime should be - restoration when possible - death when it is not.

From Prison

DAVIDIANS UP CLOSE: "Sir: For the better part of 2 years I have been listening to rantings about the 'Waco Disaster,' the 'Mount Carmel Massacre,' the 'Branch Davidian Siege,' the 'Waco Holocaust,' etc. ad nauseam. What occurred there was tragic and an epic display of government out of control, but it is time for us to examine the debacle from a proper perspective.

"Over the past few months I have come to know a former resident of the church at Mt. Carmel. We resided in the same cell-block. We discussed scripture. He is a well-read Bible student ... but hardly well-learned. This individual receives a large volume of mail - much of which comes from my brothers and sisters - followers of the WORD. They write seeking friendship from this man they know nothing about. He is a man affiliated with a group antagonistic to our beliefs. They want to know about 'The Mystery of the Seven Seals.' They offer books, money, and visits. A cult has sprung from the media-labeled 'Branch Davidians.'

"The mystery is: Why are those who profess to follow the WORD so taken with the personal lives of people who practice race-mixing and hippie-type communal living? The Branch Davidians are not believers who share a common scriptural faith so much as followers of a man who profited by and with his ability to enchant the intellectual type and those easily persuaded to believe that he was a divine incarnation of the Father. Yes, this story is true. And they now await His resurrection. What then? Will they defeat the ATF? Vernon Howell, alias David Koresh, enjoyed approximately a quarter million dollars worth of musical equipment; a customized Harley-Davidson motorcycle; the only air- conditioned quarters at the residence; the women of his choice; and a group of followers willing to die for him.

"We need to look at the whole picture. Mt. Carmel was not a bastion of Christendom. In no way did Koresh espouse the basic tenets of our faith. It was different with the Weaver tragedy. I met Randy and his son some years ago and knew they were part of us. Perhaps now the reality of the truth given us in prophecy will begin to separate the wheat from the chaff." N.S., Prisoner - Texas

---

BECKWITH GUILT: "Dear Dick: Enclosed are newspaper articles showing that even the media is now becoming uncomfortable with my third trial conviction of killing Medgar Evers. The proof should be easy to obtain by anyone monitoring my four recent 30 minute shows. With a voice stress machine one can INSTANTLY tell from my voice exactly who DID NOT kill Evers!" Byron De La Beckwith VI, PO Box 1452, Jackson, MS 39215

News Near East

FUNDAMENTAL ISLAM IN EGYPT: Thirteen Muslims were convicted in the near-fatal stabbing of Nobel Prize-winning novelist Naguib Mahfouz outside his Cairo home. Sheik Omar Abdel-Rahman 6 years ago said that he deserved to die for his anti-Islamic writings. The military court sentenced two to death and 11 to prison for terms of various length. (Story in News & Daily Advance, A2, 1- 2-95)

KILLING OUTSIDERS: "Militant Islam is on the advance and continues to spread. A particularly high number of attempted murders on 'western foreigners' take place in Algeria, Egypt, Palestine and Lebanon. The governments of the regions claim to have the situation under control, this is not so. ... only a fraction of the actually-committed murders of and assaults on tourists, diplomats and foreign businessmen are disclosed in order not to endanger the tourist industry." Insider, 15 Jan 1995, PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA

MEMORIAL HONORS GAYS: "Gay men and lesbians ... held the first service at Israel's Holocaust Memorial to honor tens of thousands of homosexuals murdered by the Nazis. ... Counter demonstrators, mainly Orthodox Jews, said the Bible banned homosexuality, and the service had no place at Yad Vashem." Detroit News, 6A, May 31, 1994

News Europe

EUROPEAN THREAT: "Little-noticed plans for a new air defense system to protect Europe against ballistic missile attacks from North Africa reflect the seriousness with which Western strategists view rising Islamic militancy. ... There is an explosive combination in the Muslim world of Islamic extremism, rapid population growth, and the spread of weapons of mass destruction and the means to deliver them. ... The system will complement the the advanced Patriot PAC-3 system, which is due to be deployed at the turn of the century ..." Washington Times, National Weekly Edition, March 20-26, 1995, p. 18

DARK AGES RETURN: "Belgium has now adopted an Anti-Revisionist Law, with a 1 year sentence and/or a $30,000 fine for offenders. Denmark, long a bastion of liberal thought and relative freedom of speech, thought and inquiry, has suddenly turned into a regressive regime." Ernst Zündel's Power, 206 Carlton Str.,Toronto, Ont CANADA M5A 2L1 (416)922-9850, Jan 1, 1995

VATICAN DHARMA: "Pope John Paul II says wealthy nations have to welcome migrants from poor countries and work toward building multiracial societies. The 74-year-old pontiff said in his weekly Angelus message at the Vatican yesterday that host countries had to 'respect and love' their immigrants. Speaking from the window of his Vatican apartments to pilgrims gathered below in St. Peter's Square, he said: 'Because of growing migratory waves, which take millions of peoples from one country to another - and especially from developing countries to wealthy societies - a reciprocal understanding and integration are necessary.' The pope said he was praying for 'integration among peoples, a multicultural and multiracial society' and so that 'those who arrive from faraway places feel they are understood by the countries hosting them." Washington Times, Feb 20, 1995

MEDIA CONSPIRACY: "How else but with the word 'conspiracy' can one describe the fact that this year every US daily newspaper, as if on command, published extensive articles on the Dresden horror (almost always making certain that both the very low number of victims - 35,000 - AND the so-called 'Holocaust' are mentioned at the same time) ... What could have caused ALL German newspapers this year to lower the number of Dresden victims to 25,000 instead of a quarter million to three quarters of a million dead?" GAN-PAC, German-American National Public Affairs Committee, PO Box 11124, Pensacola, FL 23524-1124. $50/yr.

NEWS FROM AUSTRALIA

FOREIGN OWNERSHIP: "The new 'baddies' are Australian citizens who start agitating on the subject of 'foreign ownership.' ... For those interested, the level of foreign ownership of Australian resources and business is well over 90%! But don't go talking about it, will you." Queensland Police Service, Media and Public Relations Branch, Police Headquarters, Roma Street, Brisbane, Qld, AUSTRALIA, Nexus, p.8, Feb-Mar 1995, P.O. Box 30, Mapleton, Qld 4560, AUSTRALIA

Brady Anti-Gun Bill

MARGIN OF THREE: "The Brady anti-gun bill passed the US Senate with only three persons present. It was Thanksgiving recess 1993. Most Senators had left Washington. Those three Senators and the Vice President met to discuss the bill: Bob Dole, another Republican, a Democrat, and Al Gore. Dole reportedly said, 'Let's get this thing over.' The majority rule was suspended, and the anti-gun bill passed 2 to 1." Voice Of Liberty, 692 Sunnybrook Dr., Decatur, GA USA 30033, Spring 1995

Abortion

ABORTION: One third of the babies conceived in the USA are killed before birth. In France, the number of abortions per year is estimated to be 600,000, and in Germany at least 750,000. On a world-wide basis, the wholesale murder of 60 to 70 million unborn children is undertaken annually." Insider PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA

ABORTION PROTEST: Fr. David Trosch has just been sued for allegedly violating FACE. He is being sued by an Alabama abortionist with whom Fr. Trosch appeared on Geraldo at the time of Paul Hill's trials. During that show Fr. Trosch stated that abortionists should be given the death penalty for murdering the unborn. Geraldo then asked if the abortionist Bruce Lucero should be killed. Father Trosch stated that he should. For this expression of an opinion in response to a national television personality's question, a FACE violation is claimed!

"Pay careful attention to what you hear in the media. You will notice the pro-abortion establishment (along with sympathetic media and political types) hinting that the speech of prolifers needs to be restricted. In their minds it is our words that cause people to rescue the unborn. It's our words that cause people to sit-in and our words are the reason abortuaries have been burned. It isn't the fact that they dismember innocent human beings for profit that provokes these responses. It is the fact that we describe what they do! ...

"Planned Parenthood ran a full page ad in the New York Times claiming that Words Kill ... They accused Cardinal O'Connor, Pat Robertson and other pacifist opponents of abortion of being responsible for 'violence against clinics.' Make no mistake about it. The goal of the abortionists is to prevent you from calling abortion what it is - MURDER! ... They want to stop us from speaking the truth. Local police and the Justice Department have refused to investigate documented violence against local prolife activists and have even ignored published death threats issued against them. The ACLU, Rutherford Institute, and ACLJ have refused to defend prolifers in these instances."Donna Bray, DDL., PO Box 544, Bowie, MD 20715, 301- 805-6835.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 251

THE QUIET INVASION

TRIGGERS MILITIA ORGANIZATION[1]

"I think our American people will welcome a Russian military force for peacekeeping purposes." Sen. Sam Nunn, on planned joint US/Russian military maneuvers in the U.S., New York Times, June 1, 1994.

A controversy is raging in certain circles throughout this country. The question concerns the growing presence of foreign soldiers and military equipment within the continental United States. Among certain of the largely conservative groups opposed to the imposition of a New World Order regime in the United States, concern is turning to alarm.

1 Reprinted courtesy RELEVANCE, Philip M. O'Halloran, Editor, 320 E. Maple Road, Suite 297, Birmingham, MI 48009, $110/yr. Copied from Bulletin, PO Box 986, Ft. Collins, CO 80522, $25/yr

Shocking as it would seem to most Americans, militia groups are quietly forming in large numbers and training throughout this country (as is lawful under 10 US Code 311) to counter the perceived threat of United Nations and NATO combat forces on our soil.

We have interviewed members of these militias and what is striking to Relevance is that the are by no means "rabid, right- wing" survivalist die-hards from the seventies, nor are they neo- Nazis, racists, skinheads or Klansmen. By and large , they are law-abiding, middle class Americans who support the Constitution and see a grave threat to its continued authority in the United States. ...

Relevance has obtained an obscure State Department publication, drafted under John F. Kennedy in 1961, which helps to explain the escalating political power of the United Nations. Publication 7277, unlike most government publications .... can be read in 20 minutes. This document has been a virtual blueprint for the following recent developments:

1. The growing presence of foreign military units within our borders (during the simultaneous dispersal of our own forces to ever increasing foreign hotspots from the Balkans to Rwanda).

2. Recent White House directives which subordinate American soldiers under United Nations command and Congressional initiatives to create a United Nations Standing Army.

3. As the Clinton Administration takes budgetary steps to close US bases and drastically "down-size" our forces, foreign troops from France to Nepal converge on American soil for operational exercises. Permanent stationing of German troops in this country is now a reality.

4. The shipment into the United States of large amounts of heavy Russian military equipment - a number of which have been painted white with UN markings - and the melding of Russian and US military (and police) forces as cheerfully announced by Senator Nunn in our opening quotation.

Freedom From War

"In stage III progressive controlled disarmament and continuously developing principles and procedures of international law would proceed to a point where no state could have the military power to challenge the progressively strengthened UN Peace Force .... (emphasis added)."

The quote is from p. 18 of "Freedom From War: The United States Program for General and Complete Disarmament in a Peaceful World." It was released in September of 1961 and was only briefly available to the public. It laid out in plain language the long range strategy of the US government to do exactly what the title suggests: to completely disarm the world. Of course, it asks to keep just a few nukes and a standing "Peace Force" controlled by the United Nations. The document has been around since 1961 but it has been resurrected of late in the wake of so many of its mandates becoming current public policy.

Most recently, The New American magazine enclosed a reprint of the small publication within the pages of its excellent Nov. 29th, 1993 issue which warns of US troops being conscripted into the "New World Army." It also discusses a study contracted by the US government to the Institute for Defense Analysis, entitled "A World Effectively Controlled by the United Nations." (Send $2.50 to The New American, PO Box 8040, Appleton, WI 54913.

Globocop

Publication 7277 outlines a three-stage process leading to the final creation of an all-powerful UN version of "Gort" (the omnipotent robot in the film "The Day the Earth Stood Still"):

Stage One

Disarmament begins with modest steps toward nuclear treaties like SALT, INF, START etc. nuclear non-proliferation agreements, the creation of international arms inspection teams, peaceful joint use of outer space, safeguards to prevent accidental nuclear war, and the use of unarmed peacekeeping observers in trouble spots. We have completed this phase.

Stage Two

Accelerates the above and calls for: "Establishment of a permanent international peace force within the United Nations; The Peace Force will be progressively strengthened" and we will see a worldwide "halt in the production of chemical, bacteriological and radiological weapons ... or their conversion to peaceful uses." It would continue with "The dismantling or the conversion to peaceful uses of certain military bases and facilities wherever located ..."

Stage Three

The third stage is when we proceed to a point where "no state would have the military power to challenge the progressively strengthened UN peace force." Nothing more needs to be said about stage three.

Right now we appear to be entering the latter half of Stage Two. ... note that on page 12 we are informed that "Disarmament shall take place as rapidly as possible until it is completed." As you will read in this report, the process is accelerating at an alarming speed. It may soon be irreversible.

Global Governance

Evidence of the program's "continuously developing procedures and principles of international law" are all around us. The World Economic Security Council proposed at the UN Commission on Global Governance is just one example. The Law of the Sea Treaty just passed is another (it is a vehicle for raising funds for the UN which will sell phony "rights" to develop the sea). The proposed International Criminal Court sought by Senate Resolution 32, introduced by Senator Christopher Dodd January 28, 1993, would have the power to try Americans in foreign courts. European Commission boss, Jacques Delors sums it all up, "How can we gradually take a global view of the world as it becomes unified?" and "How can we make the link between trade, currency, the environment, the social dimension, and the population?"

The Silent Occupation

Foreign Military Forces in the United States

Foreign troops and equipment in the Unites States. Sounds harmless enough on the surface, but what are they doing here?

The estimates of foreign troops range from mere handfuls of men scattered around a few bases for routine specialty training to wild reports of mechanized, combat battle groups concealed inside our national parks or in virtual underground cities throughout the nation and totaling up to 500,000 men. The sources of these reports are diverse. Some are from average citizens: Hunters and hikers in states from Michigan to Oregon, have reported stumbling across large groups of foreign soldiers operating outside of US military bases in national parks such as Glacier in Montana or the Smokey Mountains in Tennessee. Motorists in several states have photographed trainloads of foreign military armored equipment being transported on our roads and by rail. As you can see, several of these photographs have been obtained by Relevance. These reports have been submitted to Congressmen, Sheriffs departments and other authorities in such numbers as to belay offhand dismissal. We have followed up on many of the leads and found more probables than improbables.

Relevance is investigating the reliability of these estimates and the exact numbers of forces are unknown. The reports range from the obvious hoaxes to solid and verifiable ones like that from former college professor, Steve Wilson, a Republican candidate for the US Senate in Tennessee. Wilson told Relevance that in May he found himself driving alongside a long convoy of Canadian troops heading south on Interstate 40. He pulled over to report it to Knoxville talk-radio station WTNN. Soon callers on the interstate were verifying the sighting from their car phones. He stated, "That was the first time I'd ever seen a foreign troop convoy in the US so I thought that was rather newsworthy." A former officer in the military, he added: "I'm sorry, I don't want it on our soil." We mention this merely as an example. Many similar reports are being made across the country.

To obtain the official line, we contacted spokesmen from several US Bases, who have confirmed to Relevance that foreign military personnel - in some cases up to battalion strength - have recently trained on such bases as Fort Polk in Louisiana, Fort Lewis in the state of Washington, and Fort Benning in Georgia. Authorities at Fort Sill, Oklahoma told Revelance that its Field Artillery Center currently has personnel from over 40 countries, including the United Kingdom, France, Germany, Canada and Israel. (Note: The press secretary at Fort Hood, Texas could not confirm or deny a persistent rumor we've heard that part of the base was restricted to US personnel. Similar restrictions are said to exist in other US installations and in certain national park areas). Again, many of the items that flit around in the various citizen patriot networks are gross exaggerations or worse, yet the Pentagon's known record of false public denials makes the verification process confusing at best. Nevertheless, we have confirmed the presence of foreign soldiers in this country.

What Are They Doing Here?

Military spokesmen say they are here to train. Many Americans formerly in the military can attest to seeing visiting foreign military personnel dating back over several decades. And indeed we have sent our forces to train overseas. True enough. However, the numbers appear to be increasing throughout the nation. Now, entire combat units - not just small exchange groups - are rotating through our bases. Major Rick Spearman, public affairs officer at the Joint Readiness Training Center near Fort Polk, told Relevance that on two occasions they received a full company of German paratroopers and, throughout May of 1993, Ft. Polk hosted a contingent of Latin American forces at battalion strength. The soldiers were from El Salvador, Guatemala and Venezuela.

The expansion in foreign military forces on our soil might be better understood in the context of a speech George Bush gave to the United Nations in New York on September 21, 1992. In addition to calling on member states to "transform our collective institutions" and to provide peacekeeping forces which "must be available on short notice at the request of the Security Council," he stated:

> "The United States is preparing to make available our bases and facilities for multinational training and field exercises. One such base, nearby, with facilities is Fort Dix."

Note: The Fort Dix, NJ press office told Relevance there are no UN troops there at this time and that President Bush was merely citing Fort Dix as a possible example of where they could be placed. We have, however, learned of a UN communications center on the base. We've also interviewed an ex-serviceman eyewitness to large airlifts of military equipment with UN insignias in Fort Dix's adjoining McGuire air base.

"So we're training foreign forces on our bases. What's the problem?"

We'll answer the question with another question: Do we really want the camel's nose of NATO peeping under our own tent? Plus, it may not just be "training" for long. According to the Dallas Morning News, May 11, 1991, officials in Bonn, Germany and Washington, DC planned to station German troops in the US.

The paper reported: "The German lawmakers said US officials reacted favorably to the idea of a permanent German military presence that could be far larger than the 2,500 German troops who regularly rotate through the US for training (emphasis ours)."

Like George Bush, Mikhail Gorbachev stands squarely behind a greatly expanded UN peacekeeping apparatus. As we mentioned in last month's report, the Gorbachev Foundation has "magnanimously" established a task force to assist with American military base closings. Our sources indicate that certain of these bases have been earmarked for conversion to UN bases. The above article also implied that among the possible candidates for housing the German force are Carswell Air Force Base in Fort Worth, Bergstrom Air Force Base near Austin and Chase Naval Air Station at Beeville, Texas. What would happen to the US forces originally there? All three bases were identified as targets of the base closing commission. In fact, Bergstrom is all but closed and we're told it will soon be bulldozed and converted to a civilian airport. Carswell has been scaled down to a small reserve unit, the 301st , and houses no active duty personnel.

The Luftwaffe Has Landed in Texas

The same Dallas Morning News article also reveled that at that time there were 1,000 German soldiers at Fort Bliss in El Paso and 500 at Sheppard Air Force Base in Wichita Falls. "The rest are scattered at some 70 US bases," according to the article ... Tony Cuciniello of Fort Bliss public affairs told Relevance that the Luftwaffe and Army stationed there at this time total 1,500. He was unable to reveal where in the US they go during their training but he was the second military official to reveal that they do not always remain at the Fort Bliss Air Defense Training Center and operate in other areas of the US.

"... A civilian employee at Bergstrom AFB who was very upset with these developments told us that the foreign troop presence is an open secret there but is being deliberately kept out of the national media. She also stated that the Germans at Fort Bliss number in the several thousands and do not always stay there but are dispersed to other locations within the US after they arrive.

Can anyone out there possibly provide a reason why German soldiers should be permanently stationed in the United States?

Fort Chaffee in Arkansas is also undergoing "realignment" and was one of the participants in the large scale exercise in April/May in the Southeastern United States known as Agile Provider '94. These maneuvers involved over 40,000 soldiers and, through the force was largely American, French Foreign Legionnaires and Dutch Commandos participated. Though official spokesman have been reluctant to provide information, our sources suggest the "realignment" may have been with the United Nations and/or NATO.

Joint Russian American Maneuvers

"So foreign troops are to be permanently stationed here. But they're mostly our allies, right?"

Correct. For the moment ... However, we are also inviting Russian forces to come over for ground maneuvers. Russia and the United States were to conduct joint maneuvers inside Russia this month (July, 1994) but the Russian government cited "nationalist opposition" against the presence of American troops on their soil. So the maneuvers were rescheduled to take place in the United States. As we go to press, the office of Senator Sam Nunn stated that within the last week there was talk of reverting back to a Russian venue. As noted above, on the subject of our hosting the Russians, Senator Nunn stated: "I think that our American people will welcome a Russian military force for peacekeeping purposes." (See The New York Times. June 1, 1994 "US Agrees to Postpone Joint Exercises in Russia")

Former Soviet Republics like Ukraine are getting into the act too. Less than two weeks before this writing, in Fort McCoy, Wisconsin, Ukrainian military officers, including the highest- ranking officer in Ukraine, two other generals and two colonels "got a chance to fire some of the big guns in the Army reserve arsenal." They watched A-10 ground attack planes drop live bombs and shoot 30-millimeter cannon. (See

The Lacrosse Tribune, July 21, 1994 "Ukrainian Military Brass Witness US Firepower Up Close"). This was not an isolated public relations op but a part of a nationwide Department of Defense effort known as the Military to Military Contact Program. Mr. Marv Clark of Ft. McCoy explained that the program brought together American soldiers and those from Eastern Europe, Russia, and the former Soviet Republics. A spokesman from the US Army Reserve Command noted that the program was set to expand "if it's a success." He didn't explain what constituted the success of such a program.

A joint US and Russian naval exercise was conducted this year in the North Atlantic and both nation's air forces collaborated in a war games in March. To many Americans, this hardly raises an eyebrow since, after all, "we won the cold war" (or so we're told) and Russia is being groomed as our next ally. Perhaps less obvious is this simple question. Why should we train together? And against exactly whom is the combined military might of the United States of America and Russia going to be deployed? Where is the enemy?

The New World Tyranny

More than a few Americans are beginning to get nervous when they see such close "cooperation" among the two most powerful military forces on the planet - nervous that they themselves might become the enemy by default ... or by design. Are they paranoid? Or just a little too well informed for their own peace of mind? But isn't a US-Russia "partnership" in the United Nations world peacekeeping force going to make us more secure? Author William F. Jasper said it best: "Any organization powerful enough to enforce world "peace" would also be powerful enough to enforce world tyranny. No organization should ever have that kind of power!" (Global Tyranny ... Step by Step: The United Nations and the Emerging New World Order, Western Islands).

Yet plans for the New World Army are proceeding at breakneck speed. Senate Joint Resolution 65 of March 16th 1993 introduced by Senator David Boren called for "the creation of a standing international military force under the United Nations Charter." It seeks a "Commission on United States Participation in a Permanent United Nations Peacekeeping Force." President Clinton's Presidential Decision Directive 13 issued last year was to allow tranferral of command over US forces to the United Nations in specified instances. The specter of dead American soldiers being dragged through the streets of Mogadishu, Somalia last fall put a brief damper on the sovereignty sellout.

Then, on December 14, 1993 the Army produced a draft of a peacekeeping manual which, according the the Conservative Research Center's Policy Briefs, "states that US combat forces are now subject to direct United Nations command while engaged in peacekeeping operations." Finally, on May 3rd, Bill Clinton signed Presidential Decision Directive 25, which allows the subordination of United States military forces under direct United Nations command. Unfortunately, as of press time, the Administration has still not released the text of the Directive. Despite requests for full disclosure by Congressmen, the White House is keeping the document secret and has released only an "executive summary," to Congress. Relevance has obtained a copy of this summary.

Some of its key points:

1. Section VI B. Funding for UN operations involving US combat troops will now flow from the deep wellsprings of the Department of Defense, instead of the chintzy State Department budget as before. Sure enough, our Defense budget now contains $300 million for peacekeeping expenses. More than any other directive, this guarantees a geometric expansion in the "growth industry" known as UN peacekeeping.

2. Section IV D of the summary introduces the Peace Operations Training Program, pledges US civilian and military personnel to serve in the UN's Department of Peacekeeping Operations and reiterates Bush's pledge to "offer the use of US facilities for training purposes."

3. Section V states: "The President retains and will never relinquish command authority over US forces." Sounds encouraging - even constitutional - until the very next sentence: "On a case by case basis, the President will consider placing appropriate US forces under operational control of a competent UN commander for specific UN operations authorized by the Security Council (such as a possible Haiti jaunt for which we just got the Council's permission)." The placing of US soldiers under the direct command of foreign peacekeeping officer such as Turkish UN General Civik Bir (in Somalia), is now the stated policy of the US government.

4. Section VII urges support for legislation "to amend the War Powers Resolution to introduce a consultative mechanism and to eliminate the 60-day withdrawal provision." This is a necessary step toward wresting the power to declare war from the Congress and into the growing Executive Branch/United Nations combine.

The report does include a few reassuring lines such as "The US does not support a standing UN Army." We see this as deceptive sop to the gullible Congress - "just a spoonful of sugar" to help our medicine go down. The fact that the entire document is being withheld from Congress does not inspire confidence in the report's benignity.

It's Later Than You Think

About six months ago, a Michigan couple, long-time friends of your editor, related their sighting of a military armored car driving near Grayling, Michigan. They were struck by the vehicle's white color and the unmistakable, blue letters "UN" painted on the side. Since then we at Relevance have been compiling similar reports and photographs of non-US military vehicles and equipment.

In light of the foregoing, the following information is all the more disturbing. Innumerable reports of foreign military vehicles, more than a few accompanied by photographs, are cropping up in many states. Here is a sampling of the data we're receiving:

1. Confirmed reports of at least 30 Russian T-72 tanks, being transported by road around the country, including a sighting in Montana in which the tank was actually on the street, tracks rolling.

2. In May, for five straight days, trains carrying hundreds of Russian jeeps, assorted support vehicles and armored cars of unknown national origin (possibly Russian BMP- 50's - "urban pacification vehicles" - designed to shoot out large nets with which to snare large unruly crowds (of protesters against the UN for instance?). These same vehicles reportedly contain ultra high capacity gatling-style machine guns (in case the nets don't work?) The trains loads of equipment were 100 flatcars long and carried 1,500 pieces of heavy equipment.

Let's stop right here for a moment. Surely there must be a reasonable explanation for all this. Let's play devil's advocate for a moment ...

"So what if we have confirmed reports of Russian tanks, trucks and other foreign vehicles with UN markings in Montana? Maybe they're being set up for a possible US action in Korea conducted under United Nations auspices."

Relevance counters: Russian tanks?"

Then there is the explanation that our military has, over the years, used captured Russian tanks for training our troops.

"Maybe they are being brought in for the planned Russian-US joint exercises?"

Relevance counters: Why are they scattered all over the land from Florida to Montana? Why are thy not restricted to the tank training facility at Fort Hood, Texas? Or to the National Training Center in California which was the proposed site for the joint maneuvers? If there are thirty confirmed sightings, how many have we missed?

3. We have a photograph of a Russian Hind helicopter gunship flying over the DeSoto National Forest in Mississippi. We also have an unconfirmed report of a Russian anti-aircraft missile launcher being transported on a Kentucky highway. (We will update you on this one as soon as we confirm it but the source is a very reliable and experienced journalist who has obtained a photograph of the missile launcher. Just a few short months ago he had discounted our contention of a foreign troop build-up in the US).

4. In December of 1993, a shipment of 540 E. German and Russian military trucks sent from Rostock in the former E. Germany, landed at Gulfport, Mississippi and were parked briefly along the road near Biloxi. Local residents became concerned when the origin of the vehicles was discovered. Calls to radio programs like WTIX's Ron Hunter show in nearby New Orleans resulted in a minor stir.

A retired General claimed to have imported the units which were purportedly destined for Iowa for "painting and refurbishing." They were then scheduled to be sent to Africa to be used for "humanitarian" purposes. The question arises: Who is this retired officer who can afford to purchase a motor pool worth an estimated $30 million - not to mention at least $12 million to have it all shipped half way around the world for a little "painting and refurbishing." Surly the Germans are more than capable of doing the job?

Since the original shipment, more vehicles have arrived and a total of over 2,000 are now reported in this country. While they were parked in Saucier, Mississippi, investigators obtained a copy of the bill of lading which was taped to each truck's window. We have obtained a copy of the bill. It is in German but it does say "Res. for UN" next to the shipping company's seal. Our photos of the trucks show the letters "UN" followed by a number on the front bumper and show the same bills of lading taped inside the truck's windshield. We have confirmed through a confidential congressional source (herself very concerned about these developments) that the trucks are now being transported to Scranton, Iowa for painting and refurbishment by a company named New Way. The source understands that the trucks are being painted white and "UN" in large letters is being applied. Apparently, two thousand such trucks could field two or three divisions of soldiers.

One of the more disturbing aspects to the latest troop and equipment sightings echoed by numerous investigators, is the increasing credibility of those doing the reporting. That is, we are now getting more information from active and former US military personnel who are increasingly alarmed at these developments. Also, more photos are being taken as people are being instructed to carry "throwaway" cameras in their cars.

Exactly were are we going with all this?

"Comfortably Merged"

To the serious students of what we like to call "conspiritology," none of this is particularly surprising. They would point to an infamous quote from a 1954 Congressional Committee known as the Reece Commission, which investigated the tax-free foundations in America. One of the prime Congressional investigators, Norman Dodd, interviewed the then head of the Ford Foundation. Rowan Gaither. Dodd quoted Mr. Gaither:

> Mr. Dodd, we operate here under directives which emanate from the White House ... The substance of the directives under which we operate is that we shall use our grant making power to alter life in the United States so that we can comfortably be merged with the Soviet Union.

Cop Swaps

Toward this end, we are seeing not only military melding but sign of increasing linkage between US and Russian police forces. The following are headlines from various newspapers around the country over the last few years:

"Kansas to Train Russian cops"
(The Topeka Capital-Journal August 25, 1992)

"Cop Swap: His Beat is Leningrad but He's on Loan to LAPD.
His Local Host Will Visit USSR"
(The LA Times Apr. 30, 1991)

"Soviet CHP (California State Highway Patrol) Cadets Relish Unique Challenge" (The Bakersfield Californian,
November 27, 1991)

"Russian Officer Makes the Rounds in Prescott" (The Prescott [Arizona] Courier, November 27, 1992)

"Russian Cop Gets a Taste of Arizona Law and Life"
(Arizona Republic, December 7, 1992)

These visits and many more are part of the Russian-American Police Exchange Program. Not to be outdone, the Chinese police have their own version of merger mania, called the US and China Executive Development Program for Police Management:

"Top Chinese Officers See Future Here"
(Chicago Tribune, May 19, 1993)

The tyrannical Crime Bill, HR3355 has a section 508 which mandates that the Justice Department:

> "... recruit and hire former Royal Hong Kong Police officers into Federal law enforcement positions. The report shall discuss any legal or administrative barriers preventing a program of adequate recruitment of former Royal Hong Kong Police officers."

The FBI signed an agreement on July 5, 1994 with Russian authorities which called for "the exchange of information among police forces, cooperation in investigations, the detention of alleged criminals in each other's countries and the training of Russian officers in the FBI's more modern techniques." (The New York Times, July 6, 1994)

The same article reported that the Bureau's Louis Freeh also announced the opening of an FBI branch office in Moscow. In what has to be one of the most shocking milestones in the history of American naivete ... "Freeh said he would welcome a similar Interior Ministry office in Washington at the Russian Embassy, though he said there had been no formal request thus far." So we've just invited Russia's internal secret police to live and "work" in our capitol.

(Editor's note: in case you've wondering where we've been the last five years, we should point out that we do not subscribe to the widely held view that Communism has collapsed and the Russians are all "democrats." As you'll see next month in our Special Report: "The New Lies Strategy: the KGB's Advance Through Retreat," the entire glasnost and perestroika initiatives were planned years before as part of a very clever strategic deception).

"Amerika": Too Close to the Truth?

The 1986 ABC miniseries "Amerika" is beginning to look more eerily prophetic with each new report of foreign military forces and police inside our borders. The movie, written and directed by Donald Wrye, depicts America in 1997 after a bloodless Russian-backed takeover by "United Nations Special Services." Martial law is in place, black-uniformed black-helmeted soldiers obscured by dark visors patrol the streets in black armored cars with black helicopter gunships hovering overhead. Concentration camps reprogram patriot resisters and the neighborhoods are full of turncoat informants.

The movie even depicts a pre-takeover controversy about the presence of foreign troops. The protagonist, played by Kris Kristofferson, is chastised on television for his paranoia by an opposing political candidate for President. He chides,

"I've been all across this great land of ours and I haven't seen any foreign troops." He then asks the surrounding reporters if they've seen any. They chime "No" in unison. The movie provides a grim, but engrossing portrait of American life under martial law, and it is worth the effort to obtain a copy of it. Unfortunately, even the video outlets specializing in rare works don't carry it.

The Blue Helmets

Then again, it was only a fictional movie. In an excellent non- fictional example of media foreshadowing, the Public Broadcasting System aired a documentary by Pacific Street Film Project in New York entitled "The Blue Helmets." The piece narrated by Rev. Jesse Jackson, aired in September of 1990 and detailed the expanding role of the United Nations peacekeepers around the world. Near the end the suggestion was raised that some day these same blue helmets could be called in to quell disturbances o the streets of US cities like Los Angeles or Detroit. Since then we've seen the LA riots. Are the "blue helmets" far behind?

Global Gun Control

"But these are just movies. Documentaries or not, it doesn't mean any of this is actually going to happen."

A fair point. Instead of movies, documentaries and quotes, we will refer you back once again to State Department Publication 7277.

It is important to note that this publication wasn't just some nutball proposal that died on the vine a few years later. The principles embodied in Publication 7277 were written into public law as PL 87-297 and signed by President Kennedy later that month on September 26th. Go to the library and look it up under Title 22 US Code Section 2571(a) and 2552(a). This law has been updated with 18 amendments right up to the present. It is the on-going official policy of the United States Government and it calls for total disarmament - including the guns of the individual. This is why when the United Nations introduced initiatives toward imposing global gun control just two months ago, the White House supported it. Remember what they said with the Brady Bill: "It's a good first step."

As we've shown you above, many of the mandates of State Department Publication 7277 have already been implemented. Relevance believes that the document has predictive value in gauging future developments in world disarmament. What can we expect to see in the future? According to 7277: "States would retain only those forces, non-nuclear armaments, and establishments required for the purpose of maintaining internal order (our emphasis). "Of course, when the state holds a monopoly on lethal force over a disarmed populance, we have the definition of a police state - and we all know that they go to the darndest lengths to "maintain internal order." The very next phase tells us these states "would also support and provide agreed manpower for a UN Peace Force."

Military Musical Chairs

"But our American boys would never fire on their own countrymen."

A document reprinted in 1960 by the National Economic Council, Inc. taken from a proposal by the World Association of Parliamentarians for World Government provides a chilling answer. It is a map outlining the worldwide deployment of soldiers taken from one nation to police the peoples of other nations in a regionalized world government. The outline calls for the remains of the United States to be split up into regions (as is depicted in the movie, Amerika) with the various regions policed by Belgian, Russian, Mongolian and other forces. Meanwhile American troops would be stationed in Australia, parts of Russia, India and Argentina.

The reason for playing military "musical chairs" is to ensure that the "security forces" are separated from their own people. After all, a Mongolian soldier won't be quite as "squeamish" when ordered to shoot an American dissident and vice-versa. As our forces are today being deployed to more and more foreign crises and foreign forces are - as you read this - being "familiarized" with our national landscape, are we seeing the implementation of a truly "long-range" strategy? Who says the American government is short-sighted?

The Counteroffensive Begins

Despite the shocking and dismal thrust of this report, there is good news. Across the country, people are waking up to these threats and becoming politically active at the grassroots level in a wide range of issues from taxation to home schooling to gun rights. Though the power resides in the federal government, the momentum is shifting to its victims. State and local legislators are beginning to assert state's rights, with major victories such as the Colorado state legislature's House Joint Resolution 94- 1035 which resolves:

> 1. That the State of Colorado hereby claims sovereignty under the 10th amendment to the Constitution of the United States over all powers not otherwise enumerated and granted to the federal government by the United States Constitution.

2. That this serves as Notice and Demand to the federal government, as our agent, to cease and desist, effective immediately, mandates that are beyond the scope of it's constitutionally delegated powers.

The vote passed by a resounding 54-13 on April 7th in the House and 25 to 7 in the Senate on April 21st. Nearly identical resolutions and legislative initiatives are being introduced across the country. We would urge all subscribers to call their state representatives in firm support of the 10th amendment sovereignty resolution if you haven't already.

Victories against the gun-grabbers have also occurred in Montana, where a local sheriff successfully defied the unconstitutional Brady Law in court.

On March 28th, Oklahoma's Democratic State Representative John Monks has easily passed a resolution, which among other things, memorializes the US Congress to:

1. "Cease any support for the establishment of a new world order or to any form of global government."

2. "Cease engagement in any military activity under the authority of the United Nations or any other world body."

Special note: Though we have oscillated over the past year in our belief in this story, the weight of evidence is now too heavy to refute. We urge you to investigate and verify for yourself the items we've presented. Then make as many copies of this newsletter as you can and distribute them as widely as possible. (Permission is hereby granted to you for unlimited copying of this issue). In particular, distribute this letter to friends and relatives in the military and police forces and to your state and local representatives.

LETTERS & CALLS

HINDU MARRIAGE IN AUSTRALIA: I received an anguished call from a man in Australia whose niece was engaged to marry a Hindu Indian. He had been told that interracial marriage was cursed by God, but the local preachers pretended not to know the Biblical prohibitions.[2] Their silence is the reason Hindus are in Australia and why the cursed marriage is taking place. I promised to put a few Bible verses together and send them to him. The pamphlet Can Integrationists Be Saved is the result.[3] Silent preachers are false witnesses. They open sheepfold gates to the wolf. They fight God and will receive His punishment in due time.

==========

Back to Table of Contents

2 "To him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not, to him it is sin." Jas 4:17

3 For a free copy, write VPC, POB 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505

Chapter 252

THEY SHOT GORDON SELLNER

The SWAT team sniper took careful aim and squeezed off his shot. Gordon Sellner, standing in his yard and on his own property, dropped like a rock.

The bullet hit the left side of his neck, passed through into his right shoulder. When Gordon fell, bleeding heavily and temporarily paralyzed, twenty men jumped out of the bushes where they had been hiding in ambush. One held a shotgun against Sellner's head. Two others rolled him over, snapped on cuffs, dragged him 50 feet to a pickup truck, threw him in the back and drove off. That ended a three year standoff.

Rules Of Engagement

America's God has rules. Doing business assumes that the contracting parties respect these rules. The Rules state that there shall be no lying, murder, kidnaping, rape or theft, etc. It specifies the punishment to be administered to transgressors. These Rules are called The WORD. The WORD is the God of its followers.[1]

In obedience to their God, followers of the WORD have for a thousand generations put to death murderers, kidnapers, and rapists. The survivors married each other and produced offspring like themselves. Like breeds like. Children of the WORD the world over are a distinctive looking, distinctive acting breed. They are made in the WORD's image.[2] The thought of violating the WORD fills most of them with fear and trepidation because of the punishment the WORD will impose on the land that becomes lawless.[3] Obedience to the WORD blesses the land with peace, health, and wealth.

Strangers are different. Their gods bless them when they murder, kidnap and rape. The most successful murderer among them becomes their premier, dictator or chief. He has many wives, many children and great wealth. This is true of

1 "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1

2 "God created man, in the likeness of God made he him; Male and female created he them; and blessed them, and called their name Adam." Gen 5:1-2

3 "If thou wilt not ... do all the words of the law ... the Lord will make thy plagues ... great plagues, and of long continuance, and sore sicknesses ... all the diseases of Egypt ... they shall cleave unto thee. Also every sickness, and every plague ... until thou be destroyed. And ye will be left few in number ... because thou wouldest not obey the voice of the Lord thy God ... ye shall be plucked from off the land ... and thou shall fear day and night, and shalt have none assurance of thy life." Deut 58:66; "Therefore will I number you to the sword, and ye shall all bow down to the slaughter, because when I called ye did not answer, when I spake, ye did not hear; but did evil before mine eyes, and did choose that wherein I delighted not." Isaiah 65:12; "It shall come to pass ... the blessing and the curse ... and thou shalt call them to mind ... and shalt ... obey his voice ... then the Lord thy God will turn thy captivity (reverse your status)." Deut 30:1-3

all strangers - black, brown, red or yellow. Like breeds like. The stranger is the result of a thousand generations of selective breeding. He is the mirror image of his ancestors. He can only be what he is - he can be nothing else. If his ancestors had lived in the land ruled by the WORD, the stranger would not exist today because his ancestors would have been executed by the WORD's followers for their transgressions many generations ago.

Today's stranger, seeing the wealth of the WORD's followers, desires a share. He bribes a priest to swear that he too is made in the image of the WORD so that the WORD's followers won't drive him away.[4] At first he plays the part, conceals his misdeeds, and pretends to obey the WORD. But his god blesses those things the WORD curses - and he was created by his own god.

In time the stranger gathers the gifts the WORD gave his own people and becomes powerful with his monopolies and his hired help. He bribes the king who passes hateful laws of the strangers god to replace the WORD, and he demands that the follower's of the WORD obey them.[5]

Some follow the stranger's god. Others, fearful of the punishment that the WORD will inflict on his disobedient people, drop aside and turn to confront the lawless establishment that has been created. Some join the Republican party and participate in its periodic "one step back - two steps forward" dance. Others join the militias to be ready for the

4 "Thou shall drive them out before thee. Thou shalt make no covenant with them, nor with their gods. They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." Ex 23:31-33

5 "The stranger that is within thee shall get up above thee very high; and thou shalt come down very low." Deut 28:43 ever-coming Armageddon. Some seek safety in flight. Some spread the WORD. Still others, others like Bob Mathews the zealot, Arthur Kirk the farmer, Gordon Karl the tax-protester, Randy Weaver the separatist, and the latest - Gordon Sellner - refuse to go one step further. On one excuse or other the establishment hunts them down and shoots them.

Protest Before The Storm

In 1973, "Gordon Sellner stopped filing and paying income taxes when the supreme court ruled that it was OK to murder babies."[6] In 1988, the IRS brought charges against him to make him pay taxes. In 1992, the IRS sold his interest in their property. On March 4, 1992 he was stopped for expired registration, no insurance, and no drivers license. On May 4, 1992 Gordon Sellner wrote the following declaration "because the court refused to let him use and or even bring up his religious or constitutional beliefs and right she registered his protest at the county court house:

"Whereas, the State has outlawed the Christian God in schools and public buildings.

"Whereas the state has mandated man's insurance.

"Whereas, the State is unlawfully taxing the people.

"Whereas, the State has forced oppressive regulations upon the people.

"Whereas, the State has become a law breaker and is making and enforcing laws against Jesus Christ and the laws, statutes and judgments of the Christian Bible.

"Whereas, the State has elevated its laws above those of King Jesus.

"Whereas, the State, under threats of fines or imprisonments, is attempting to force me to honor its laws above the laws of the Christian Bible.

"Whereas, the 1st Commandment forbids me to have any gods above the God of the Bible. To do so amounts to Baal worship, which I will not do.

"Whereas, I have done everything in my power to live peacefully and have harmed no one.

"I must now make a decision. The State of Montana's own constitution recognizes that all people are born free. As a free- born person, I will make my own choice of whom I will serve and will not have the State force its choice on me.

6 Quotes are those of his wife, Roberta Sellner, unless otherwise indicated.

"The Bible says you cannot serve two masters. (Joshua 24:15, Matt. 6:24, Luke 6:13)

"Whether it means life or death, I will serve the Lord Jesus Christ, my only Master and King, as a servant or if needs be as a soldier. Furthermore, since I have a King, my citizenship is in His Kingdom. I am therefore not to be considered a citizen of the state of the forum, but rather a non-resident alien."

"Gordon D. Sellner, Subscribed and sworn to before me this 2nd day of March, 1992, Kirk Penrod, Notary Public for Flathead County, State of Montana, My Commission expires 4-1-94, Published in the Bigfork Eagle 3-4-92"[7]

Sellner's wife, Roberta, continued the story:

"A jury trial was set. Gordon named Jesus Christ as his choice of counsel (meaning that he would stand before the WORD). The court did not accept his choice of counsel. Gordon then refused to appear at trial and one was held in absentia. Gordon was found guilty on all three above described charges, fined $430, given six months in jail with all but four days suspended. Gordon was then arrested at our home and served his four days. When Gordon came home he stated that after being in state court twice and federal court once, and seeing how both systems are totally satanic, he would never go to jail again, or enter another courtroom."

Gordon Sellner made his living sawing and planing timber. He lived far out in the countryside of Montana where neighbors were few. He left people alone and people left him alone.

Self Defense?

One day Gordon went with a friend while he called on a neighbor. The friend and the neighbor had a disagreement and the neighbor called the sheriff. Gordon was not involved in the argument but he was a witness. He left before the sheriff arrived. Late that night he was riding home with a kinsman when a police car came up behind them with its flashing lights turned on. Gordon figured that the sheriff was going to use the fact that he had been a witness to someone else's dispute as an excuse to nail him, so he jumped out of the car and ran into the woods. The deputy gave chase calling out "stop or I'll shoot." Those are fighting words. Gordon tripped and fell and rolled over - the deputy was aiming his pistol at him. Gordon drew and shot first. The bullet hit the deputy's bullet-proof vest and spun him around. Further shots were exchanged and the deputy left to join other police in the road.

7 Internet 2:02 p.m., 8/11/95

Instead of going home, which had been staked out, Sellner spent a month in the mountains. He was not dressed for the cold and managed to survive by squeezing into a hollow tree. Later he was able to get clothing and supplies from home, but, from then on he was "wanted."

Wanted signs went up over the county. Gordon countered by taking down the wanted signs and putting up wanted signs for the Sheriff - telling the county why he was being hunted. Support for Sellner grew and an informal neighborhood watch was set up to warn him if the sheriff came. Feeling relatively protected, Sellner again began to run his saw mill to make a living for his wife and children. Neighbors continued their lookout.

Media Hype

During this time Gordon's wife helped him publish a bulletin that related his side of the story. I have a number of these bulletins in a file. While blacked out on the national media Sellner was the object of a number of local newspaper stories, a surprising number of them favorable.

Shooting Gordon Sellner

On July 18th, about 11:00 AM, Gordon was in his house working with his AR 15. The bolt was sticking. He oiled it and went outside and fired two shots into a stump. It was still sticking. He went inside and worked on it some more and went outside and aimed at the stump. Before he could pull the trigger the bullet from the SWAT team sniper's hit him, causing his third shot to go off involuntarily.

Update

The wound was a painful one but clean. Gordon Sellner was captured while he was temporarily paralyzed lying on the ground. He survived the attack and is now in the Polson jail, Polson, MT and appears to be healing.

The police went through the Sellner house taking Mrs. Seller's private papers. Mrs. Sellner was arrested for not turning in her husband and harboring a fugitive. She spent two weeks in jail and was then released on her own recognizance. She has also been charged with carrying a pistol - something that every other person in Montana does. Gordon Sellner's two sons-in-law have been charged with harboring a fugitive and are awaiting trial.

The state appears to be going to try to make an example of Gordon Sellner. We'll see what the jury says. The Sheriff's name is Joe Geldrich, 1-406-883-4321. He tells a different story. I am relating the one that I copied from the Sellner file and got from telephone calls - a story that I doubt will be told by the establishment.

Conclusion

In the age that we are moving into - the age of the WORD - the Sellner saga will be impossible. One will read his story as being like science fiction. Such things cannot be. There will be no tax to violate because taxes are against the LAW.[8] There will be no abortion to offend a Gordon Sellner or a Paul Hill because abortion is against the LAW.[9] There will be no jackboots to kill you, because you and your neighbors will enforce the LAW.[10] There will be no judge to condemn you other than yourself and your neighbors because you and they are appointed kings and priests.[11] There will be no prisons to persecute and afflict you week in week out, month in month out, year in year out - because the WORD does not allow a son of Isaac to be kidnaped.[12] The punishment will be Lawful; restitution or death - in fulfillment of God's WORD.

Is Gordon Sellner guilty? Guilty of what? Refusing to pay taxes? Guilty of hating abortion? Guilty of hating the corruption in the land? Guilty of defending himself? Today the jackboot rules - Babylon is obeyed under protest. In the days ahead ALL knees will bow and everyone will obey the WORD which is God.

==========

8 "'Of whom do the kings of the earth take custom or tribute? of their own children, or of strangers? Peter saith unto him, Of strangers." (Greek: allotrios - foreign, not akin.) ... Then are the children free." Matt 17:25-26.

9 "Before I formed you in the womb, I knew you; and before you came forth from the womb, I sanctified you, and I ordained you." Jer. 1:5; "Whosoever he be of the children of Israel that giveth any of his seed unto Molech, he shall surely be put to death" Lev 20:2

10 "Let the saints be joyful ... and a two-edged sword in their hand, to execute ... the judgment written: this honor have all his saints." Ps 149:5- 9

11 "Jesus Christ ...hath made us kings & priests unto God and his Father; Rev 1:5-6

12 "If a man be found stealing any of his brethren of Israel, and maketh merchandise of him, or selleth him: then that thief shall die." Deut 24:7

AMERICAN WRITER HANS SCHMIDT OF GANPAC ARRESTED

German-born Hans Schmidt, 68, was arrested on Aug 9th at the Frankfurt airport when boarding a plane to return to his home in Pensacola, Florida. Schmidt publishes GANPAC and U.S.A. Bericht, described by Mrs. Schmidt as "historical revisionist" publications. "Historical revisionist" is a term that refers to writers and researchers attempting to correct WWII propaganda denigrating Christians.

Schmidt is accused in a March arrest warrant of using the term "Jewish contamination" in his November 1994 publication. To combat revisionists, Germany has passed a draconian law against what they call "racial hatred." This law extends its protection only to racial aliens in Germany and not to native Germans. Mrs. Schmidt said, "In America he has freedom of speech," and called his arrest "unjust" since all he did was to mail copies of his newsletter into Germany. She further said that Germany does not have the right to arrest an American for writing what is perfectly legal to write in America.

RKH: The kidnapping and incarceration of Hans Schmidt, an American citizen, distresses me deeply. The State Department should be made to protest this thing. If Germany is allowed to act like a two-bit communist state, every copy-cat strongarm man in the world who doesn't like something an American writes will arrest and jail him. Hans Schmidt is a gentleman. He is one of the leaders protesting the draconian censorship practiced in Germany. His incessant publicizing of the arrests, imprisonment, and punishment of German writers has enraged Germany's puppet masters. Schmidt predicted that when the last American soldier leaves German soil the Germans will unseat their present puppet rulers and hold trials for the ones who have betrayed, robbed and kept them in chains for half a century. Time will tell if his prediction is fullfilled. In the meantime, the supply of his book Das Deutsche Reich Und Die USA has completely sold out. Back orders have piled up and we are waiting until his wife returns from Germany to send us another shipment. Please be patient. Others parties who are interested may order from Virginia Publishing Co., PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505. $15.95 plus $2 p&h.

MILITIA CHAPLAIN SHOT

"Mike Hill, the Chaplain of the Ohio Militia, was shot and killed at 2:15 am, 6-29-95, by Frazeysburg, Ohio Policeman Matthew May. May stopped Hill for having a Militia Chaplain plate on his car. Dan Ritter, Stark County militia leader, said that Ohio law allows such tags under a variety of circumstances.

"Mike Hill was a native of Canton, Ohio, and was a former member of the Canton police department where he worked for five years. He resigned in 1973. Mike Hill was the co-author of a book with fellow Canton Police Officer, Edward J. Grant, I Was There, a book about the Kent State shootings from a guardsman's point of view.

"Three witnesses, Joseph Yacapraro, Jr., Joshua A. Yacapraro, Jr., and Larry Martz, in a car behind Hill, said he did not brandish a weapon. The policeman, Matthew May, claims Hill pulled a gun, so he shot him four times. Friends of Mike Hill in central Ohio, described him as 'a very peaceful man, and very religious.'" Linda Thompson, Internet 6/29, copied from AFTC Newsletter, PO Box 672407, Chugiak, Alaska 99567, $20/yr.

Oklahoma City - Manufactured Event?

ATF REHEARSAL 7 MONTHS EARLIER: "CNN reported (June 7) that Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) conducted a 'test' explosion last October on a van similar to the Ryder truck allegedly used in the Oklahoma bombing. The report says the agency used 'the same kind of explosives, ammonium nitrate and fuel oil' in the experiment, only agents used 1000 pounds of the slow burn material instead of 4,800 pounds.

"The test 'proved invaluable' the report said, invaluable because one of the agents involved in the testing just 'happened to be across the street' from the Murrah Building on April 19, 1995. 'It gave us, very quickly, an idea of what had occurred,' Ralph Ostrowski, ATF explosives Chief said.

"CNN's Mark Feldstein called the October test a 'virtual dry run' of the explosion in Oklahoma City. Skeptics who believe the ATF was involved in the fatal blast are investigating why there were only 5 of 15 ATF agents in the building the day of the explosion and if the ATF knew in advance the bombing would occur." Jubilee News Report, Box 310, Midpines, CA 95345

Ruby Ridge Killings

DISBAND THE FBI? "Mr. TRAFICANT. Mr. Speaker, let us look at the facts: The FBI shot and killed Randy Weaver's unarmed son. The FBI then shot and wounded Randy Weaver. The FBI then shot and killed Randy Weaver's unarmed wife while she held her infant son, shot her right between the eyes. Now reports say that the FBI destroyed documents to conceal the incident of Ruby Ridge.

"Did anyone really believe the FBI would leave a smoking gun on Ruby Ridge? It is unbelievable, my colleagues.

"The bottom line here is the FBI says that they made a mistake. I say the FBI committed felonies and committed a crime on Ruby Ridge. Since when did the Congress of the United States empower the FBI to first entrap and then shoot down and kill unarmed American families?

"The remains of the Weaver family are screaming out from graves for justice, and Congress is turning its back. Let us investigate Ruby Ridge, and let us let the FBI answer to the people, the Constitution, and the Congress of the United States of America." (Congressional Record), July 13, 1995, p. H6918; Copied from Inkling News, 604 7th St., Hawarden, IA 51023) Aug 1995.

REST OF STORY: "The SWAT unit calls itself: Metropolitan Areas Narcotics Traffic Interdiction Squads - MANTIS for short (as in preying? Oh well, what's in a name "Camp Vicki," "Texas - BBQ Showtime" - you get the picture!" News, 604 7th St, Hawarden, IA 51023 - inknews@aol.com August 1995

RKH: Camp Vicki is the name of the FBI camp in Idaho. It was named that in honor of the mother they had just shot. Texas BBQ Showtime is the sign the fed jackboots displayed while Mount Carmel burned in the background.

Waco Massacre

WACO: "CAUSE had obtained film from infrared cameras mounted on an aircraft flying over the center during the final tank assault. That film, which can detect heat sources through walls, showed that the initial 'heat sources' which ultimately consumed the complex in flame were from the very areas where the tanks were smashing through the building. In other words, government evidence implicated the attackers as the source of the fire while the regime was publicly maintaining the fire was the result of a 'suicide pact' on the part of the Davidians." CAUSE Foundation Special Report on Waco, Box 1235, Black Mountain, NC 28711

ATF HIGGINS: "The day has long passed when we can afford to ignore the threat posed by individuals who believe they are subject only to the laws of their god and not those of our government." g News, 604 7th St, Hawarden, IA 51023 - Internet, inknews@aol.com August 1995

RKH: GOD's LAW: "We must obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29; "If ye love me obey my commandments. John 14:15; "Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man." Eccles. 3:1

Silent Invasion

SILENT INVASION: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I am a long distance truck driver. I saw 5 Russian tanks in a truck terminal in Pennsylvania waiting to to be shipped." G.W. - Pennsylvania

RKH: Phone calls could not confirm this report. This does not mean the report was wrong - I just could not confirm it.

SILENT INVASION: "Dear Dick: Several months ago I saw eight railroad cars loaded with Soviet tanks, personnel carriers, and heavy weapons. It was dusk and I had no camera so I couldn't take pictures. There is a 'silent invasion - believe it!'" A.M. - Montana

---

MORE TANKS IN PA: "Dear Sirs: I get your HR. July 26 at 1:45 PM I was going to market to get some tomatoes for dinner. I spotted two trucks each with a Russian tank, low profile, 20 mm cannon, and an OD green-gray color not used on any USA military, no markings at all, only #1021 and #1050 for each tank. I was in US Marines in Vietnam 4 years and Special Forces 12 yrs reserves. They were NOT US issue! They had stopped to repair holding chain." H. B. - Pennsylvania

---

INVASION: Alexandria-Pineville, LA - "Invasion: Ukrainian troops take last-minute pictures in a hangar at England Airpark before boarding buses to Fort Polk. Troops from 16 nations arrived Sunday to join in military exercises sponsored by NATO Partnership for Peace, the first NATO exercise hosted on US soil." Alexandria Daily Town Talk, Aug 7, 1995, p. 1

RKH: The front page article was complete with color photographs showing Ukrainian-Russian troops of mostly nordic type uniformed in current US military field uniform. Their units appear to be 100% White, which may be the only way to distinguish them from American units. Judging by the pictures, tomorrow's foe may be indistinguishable from US army personnel. The other nations furnishing troops include Albania, Bulgaria, Canada, The Czech Republic, Estonia, Hungary, Kyrgyzstan, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Rumania, Slovakia, Slovenia, the United Kingdom, the US, Ukraine, and Uzbekistan. Asian, African, and other 3rd world types were conspicuous by their absence. Perhaps they will arrive in force for the next "exercise" after the novelty of hearing about foreign troops engaging in war exercises on American soil has worn off.

AMA Strikes Again

BODY PARTS: "The AMA (American Medical Association) publicaly announced their desire to use living defective babies as organ donors. These heinous doctors want to dissect living babies and take organs and parts from them while they are yet alive." The Herald Times, p 42, 5-24-95, Bloomington, IN SOUTH AFRICA REPORT by K.J.

South Africa is becoming a communist state - religion, work- ethic, education, health-care, farming, crime, you name it - we are getting it. Mandela used the world-cup rugby series to say that we are a rainbow nation, and he made the most of the people's enthusiasm to make himself popular with whites who cannot think clearly. That also passed, and with communist rules showing up in many areas, the magic has gone.

Whites are upset about expensive health-care and the way in which they are forced to support millions who never want to work, but keep demanding. The cutoff date cannot be that far away when whites will no longer be able to stay afloat. If Mandela's primary task is to destroy SA, he is succeeding. Entire departments of the government now have staffs of Indian origin.

For the first time we have arson in buildings housing government departments. Money is disappearing on a vast scale - mostly as perks to government officials. The housing promised during the election is unlikely to ever be built. Most firms seeking orders from the housing department have given up trying. 'Stocks and Stocks,' a large construction firm was told that they can bid to build housing, but they must use local black labor as subcontractors. These black subcontractors are paid by the government, but the main contractor will have to wait 9 months for payment on materials. And, on top of that, he has to guarantee for five years the workmanship of the blacks who do the subcontracting work.

"The center of Johannesburg has been taken over by blacks from Nigeria and they control the drug selling in that area. The main buyers are white children.

"The Hervormde Reformed Church has kept article 3 which separates races, but the Dutch Reformed Church is now almost part of the South African Council of Churches. They recently had Beyers Naude preach to his former congregation. He is a communist.

"Die Afrikaner openly took note of your comment in the April Hoskins Report about none of the South African leaders calling upon the Lord. The reason is that certain rightwing parties have given Christianity a bad name. They praised God while they destroyed his people. I for one look up to the Christians in America. There is so much that I need to know about God's way.

"In South Africa, the newest enemy is the patriot. If he has a record of being an excellent soldier and right-winger the police leave no stone unturned to convict him of something. Such a man was recently caught by the police who blamed a number of murders on him. His wife, parents, and community stand by him as well as his Hervarmde Church minister. The police spend their time with this sort of thing when there are not enough police to protect the people.

"Some of the former army staff say that Gen Constand Viljoen did not do so well in farming and that is why he went into politics. When the IRA's Gerry Adams came on a visit, he got on very well with Viljoen. Adams paid tribute to Slovo and he apparently came for money and arms. The Irish came to our aid during the Anglo- Boer War so we have always felt sympathetic towards them, but Adams' praise for a blood-thirsty communist was an insult to Afrikaners.

"The new S. African constitution has been drawn up by Cyril Ramaphosa (an Indian), and among others; Sir Anthony Reeves, Kader Asmal, Valli Moosa, reds of all shades. The New World Order is forced upon us by international powers over whom we have no control.

"From a Beleaguered South Africa - K.J."

LETTERS

STATE OPPOSES BIBLE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Why is Bible instruction forbidden by the state? It's history!" L.O. - N. Carolina

RKH: The king who rules the state need to have the state's statutes bless his sins. The Christian God is a law system that often curses the states' statutes. Knowledgeable Christians say, "We must obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29. Today's apostate churches don't teach the WORD - the king is safe there. He would be a fool to let schools teach the WORD to children - it would destroy his kingdom. The king is quite logical once you think about it.

"Fear ...God ...teach your children letters, that they may have understanding ... reading unceasingly the law of God." Book of Levi 4:1-2

BLACK POLICE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: One constantly sees Black police on TV dominating Whites. Is there a reason other than 'affirmative action'?"

RKH: Of course. The enemy knows Scripture. The Law states "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deut 17:15 There was a time when our people remembered the Law. When I was young it was unthinkable to have Black policeman - he might be called on to arrest a White. Neither would the authorities allow fights between Blacks and Whites in boxing matches, or play against Black teams. To do so was to accept the chance that the Black fighter or Black teams might win and thereby "rule over thee." Neither were Blacks used in army combat units lest an enemy be White and the stranger be used to rule over them. God's punishment for allowing this to happen is severe. (Lev 26:14-35) Our enemies force us to do those things that bring us in conflict with our own God so that our God will destroy us as he promised he would do. (Send a self addressed envelope for the pamphlet The Balak Plan, P.O. Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505)

READY TO CONVERT: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I see Christianity as a latter-day cult designed to suppress the average man and keep him ignorant. The Jews have the right answer. I have thought of dumping Christianity and converting to Judaism. What is your opinion? B. E. - Pennsylvania

RKH: I think you should. Both Christendom and Judaism stand to gain.

CATHOLIC PRIESTS: "Mr. Hoskins: I can vouch for the Catholic priests not knowing the law in Australia. My first cousin moved from Ireland to Sydney where he has friends. He was courting a Filipino through the mail. I sent him an article by Bert Comparet, 'God Commands Racial Segregation', and wrote telling him not to marry the Filipino. My cousin showed the letter and article to his local priest who denied the scripture and told my cousin that I was the one whom God would punish and endorsed the marriage!" C.J.-California

---

CHURCH DEFENDER: "The ... bill prohibiting discrimination on the grounds of sexuality is said to urge that all exemptions for church groups and religious schools be dropped, so that homosexuals can have full access to all children, not just in the public schools. ... Only two churches have entered the debate - the Uniting Church in favor and the Catholic Church against. Given the ominous silence of the churches, the homosexual lobby has taken heart and feels that this new legislation will go through quite easily." The Strategy, August 1995, p. 7, 92 Neale St, Bendigo, Vic, AUSTRALIA 2550, $28/Yr

---

ASSAULT: "A breakfast cook in New Hampshire was charged with assault against two Vermont state troopers. His weapon? Michael Towne, 20, spiked the troopers' eggs with Tabasco sauce. Towne faces two years in jail and a $4,000 fine. He said he did it as a joke." The Moneychanger, June 1995, P.O. Box 341753, Memphis, TN 38184

ABORTION

"The reaction of the American middle class to the abortion issue has been ... a unique phenomenon ... I never thought the American people could get so riled up about anything. ...

".... medically speaking we're losing the war; the opponents of feticide are being defeated by the pharmaceutical industry. University of California scientists have proudly announced that 'safe and easily acceptable abortions' are now here in the form of two inexpensive drugs already on the market. ...

"One of the drugs, methotrexate, has to be given by injection. It strangles the placenta thus causing the fetus to starve to death. Four days later, misoprostol taken vaginally, aborts the dead fetus and the placenta. The doctors who prescribe these drugs must have forgotten the 'do no harm' clause of the Hippocratic oath.'" Ref: Contraception, October 1994; Second Opinion, Wm C. Douglass, MD, PO Box 457939, Atlanta GA 31146-7939

DHARMA: Hillary Rodham Clinton said that people who disagree about abortion should encourage adoptions. Mrs. Clinton lamented the historical bias against interracial adoptions. (Story in News & Daily Advance, 7-30-95, A2.)

RKH: "Now it came to pass, when they had heard the law, that they separated from Israel all the mixed (mongrel) multitude." Neh 13:3; "Therefore let us make a covenant (an agreement) with our God to put away all the (strange) wives, and such as are born of them, according to the counsel of my Lord, and of those that tremble at the commandment of our God; and let it be done according to the law." Ezra 10:3

ABORTORIUM OPENS: The Tidewater Women's Health Clinic open without fanfare. Clinic directors declined to comment on the attention it has drawn. The abortion clinic is the third owned and operated by William Brenner Jr; the other two are in Raleigh and Chapel Hill, NC. Hillcrest Clinic in Norfolk is the only other clinic in Tidewater to offer abortions. (Story in News & Daily Advance, 4-16-95, B6.)

ABORTION PROTEST: The Catholic priest, Rev. David Trosch has just been sued for allegedly violating FACE. He is being sued by an Alabama abortionist with whom (Rev.) Trosch appeared on Geraldo at the time of Paul Hill's trials.

During that show (Rev.) Trosch stated that abortionists should be given the death penalty for murdering the unborn. Geraldo then asked if the abortionist Bruce Lucero should be killed. (Rev.) Trosch stated that he should. For this expression of an opinion in response to a national television personality's question, a FACE violation is claimed!

"Pay careful attention to what you hear in the media. You will notice the pro-abortion establishment (along with sympathetic media and political types) hinting that the speech of prolifers needs to be restricted. In their minds it is our words that cause people to rescue the unborn. It's our words that cause people to sit-in and our words are the reason abortuaries have been burned. It isn't the fact that they dismember innocent human beings for profit that provokes these responses. It is the fact that we describe what they do! ...

"Planned Parenthood ran a full page ad in the New York Times claiming that Words Kill ... They accused Cardinal O'Connor, Pat Robertson and other pacifist opponents of abortion of being responsible for 'violence against clinics.' Make no mistake about it. The goal of the abortionists is to prevent you from calling abortion what it is - MURDER! ... They want to stop us from speaking the truth. Local police and the Justice Department have refused to investigate documented violence against local prolife activists and have even ignored published death threats issued against them. The ACLU, Rutherford Institute, and ACLJ have refused to defend prolifers in these instances."Donna Bray, DDL., PO Box 544, Bowie, MD 20715, 301- 805-6835.

IMMIGRATION

IMMIGRANTS: "Most industrial countries have been flooded with immigrants from third world nations seeking a better life or welfare. Germany has about 40,000 Vietnamese nationals in the country. To solve the problem, the German government has decided on mandatory repatriation. The 40,000 Vietnamese, all of them, have to go home by the year 2000. Let's do the same." Washington Report; Straight talk, Aug 3, 1995

ILLEGALS: "An estimated 500,000 illegal immigrants from Communist China have come to America during the past 10 years." Washington Report; Straight talk, Aug 3, 1995

ALIENS: "In 5 more years the New York City population (70% white in 1970) will be 35% white." Washington Report; Straight talk, Aug 3, 1995

The Media-Master Speaks

BOOSTING CLINTON: The media has Clinton on TV every day. People can only vote for candidates they know. No other candidate is getting "Clinton Exposure." The conclusion is that the International Trade Cartel REALLY wants Clinton re-elected.

ON THE LINE: "The mayors of Newport News and Hampton and six other public and private area leaders took a four-day fishing trip to Canada this week to talk about the region's future. The Daily Press paid for the trip, and its top two executives attended. ..." News & Daily Advance, 7-30-95, B4.

RKH: People can only vote for those whom they know. Politicians who receive media exposure are known and are elected. Thus, the king-maker is really the king. On occasion the king-makers take aside the kings they have made and they go fishing and talk about the weather.

Rule Over Thee

AMA's NEW RULER: The American Medical Association has elected a black president. He says that he has never defined his agenda by race, but now he appreciates its symbolic importance. His job is to testify before Congress and travel the country as chief spokesman for the 298,000 members of the organization. The AMA represents 42% of the nation's physicians. (Story in the News & Daily Advance, 7-13-95, B2.)

RKH: "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deut 17:15

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 253

AUSTRALIA AWAKES

Australia is one of our youngest Saxon countries. It was being settled while America fought England for her independence. The international trade cartel (ITC) in Britain learned the danger of the American self-sufficient farm system and prevented that institution from becoming deeply rooted in Australia.

Australia and New Zealand have been used as a source of raw materials and cannon fodder. Her natural resources are world renowned. Her loyal mounted Australian-Saxon volunteers were used against Boer-Saxons at the turn of the century. Britain again used them in WWI in France against German-Saxons and more successfully against the Turks in the Mid-East. They were used once again during WWII in North Africa. Australia is being repaid by the ITC by being looted. It is the same repayment being received by South Africa, Western Europe, and America.

At present the conquered in Australia are bemoaning this fact. Tomorrow, anger will harden and resistance will spring from today's dejection. This article appeared in The Strategy, Sep 1995, 92 Neale St, Bendigo, Vic 3550 AUSTRALIA ph.(054)-412- 558. It was condensed and contains footnotes by the editor of Hoskins Report.

The Takeover

"We used to say back in the '80s that it was 'five to twelve' on the political clock. Looking back I would say that was correct, and it is now 12:15 AM.

"What does that mean? It means that our country has changed hands and we are now all living in a country vastly different than the one that most of us were born into.

"Will it return to where we, the people, control the representatives and limit the power of governments? No, it will not return to that situation; at least, not in the foreseeable future. There are several reasons why our country cannot be quickly saved. ...

"1. The constitution ... (was) circumvented by the Australia Act of 1986 ... without a referendum, but with the quiet consent of all politicians at the time.[1]

"2. The infrastructure and major industries of Australia no longer belong to Australians. Many have been shipped offshore in a deconstruction program. Foreign investors are in the majority in most industries, and now even our utilities are sold to foreigners. Prices are raised; profits go overseas.[2]

"3. The voice and power of the people can no longer be heard because both media and banks are totally foreign controlled.[3]

"4. The new generation has been taught to place the State above God, so now there is no belief in right and wrong, or

1 This is Australia's recognition that constitutions, treaties, and agreements in themselves offer no protection. It also is recognition that the ITC must install its own "king" to be able to rule as it wishes.

2 Stock- exchanges were established to quietly buy up industries using unlimited bank-created credit. Once bought, they can be kept or sent overseas to utilize cheap foreign labor. The sale to foreigners of the nation's utilities means that Australia's feudal system is almost fully operational and the people have been reduced to wage-slaves.

3 The banks own the media. The media publicizes only those it wants elected. People can only vote for those they know - the ones the media has told them about. Those elected are beholden, not to the people, but to the media owners who elected them - the banks.

constant laws. Everything is subject to who buys the government. At any time we have only the best government that foreign money can buy![4]

"... Few will escape the pincer of a foreign stranger that is moving simultaneously on Canada, USA, Australia, UK, S. Africa, NZ and Western Europe. These are the countries that used to feed the world.[5]

"These are also the countries that were blessed with the world's highest living standards. More than 90% of the world's foreign aid, missionaries and money for deprived sectors traditionally came from these countries. What did they do to bring such a judgment upon themselves as is happening today? Whom did they offend? ...[6]

Power Of Deceit

"It took a lot of deceit to do this to a once powerful system. That power of deceit was injected into Australia by a very carefully concealed source. However, that source attacks anyone who resists or identifies it. It would be quite powerless to continue attacking us if it were identified. ...

What Can We Do?

"We don't do anything by going to the polls which are no longer reflecting the actual votes cast. The results are the subject of the same contrived outcomes that exist in everything that they control. Truth, facts, and honest research are definitely not part of this new order.

4 The Anglican Church is episcopal. Its leaders are appointed by the Queen and her representatives. The Queen and her forebears were appointed by the ITC. Thus, the priest is the representative of the ITC whose job it is to bless that which God curses.

5 This is recognition that all Saxony shares a common destiny. In time, it will recognized that all Saxony is being attacked with the Balak Plan of ancient antiquity.

6 This is the most important question of all. Leaving the "Law of the Covenant" brought these evils to Australia. Returning to the "Law of the Covenant" will save them. The rest of this article develops these four main points.

"We don't do anything by appealing to the representatives to represent us. ... The representatives value their very comfortable jobs which can only be jeopardized by rocking the boat. Not one of them can reach the public's ear via the media if they turn against the new order ...

Australia Will Be Rebuilt

"As soon as the new owners have all our assets, Australia will be rebuilt for the benefit and under the control of the new bosses. Exactly as was done in Russia by exactly the same small group and their comrades. In Russia they never became more than 4% of the nation's population, and even then half of them were untrusted Russian proselytes, so there were constant purges on this sector.

"When our captors rebuild, it won't benefit the people. The invisible bankers, media barons and their now fully privatised government and private sector bosses just become obscenely rich. So again, what do we do? What did past generations of oppressed people do?

"When a country loses a war, its government is taken over by the victors, its internal assets are taken over - 'to the victor go the spoils' - so we can certainly identify the stage that the war has reached here. ... the captors used deceit, not bullets, to wage this war, so they now have to convince the public that nothing happened. Otherwise we will be disgruntled subjects as in the Iron Curtain countries ...

Alternatives

"... We can be part of their rotten new system, or we can choose not to be a part of it. ... It's definitely time to study the identity, culture and money habits of those who have taken control of our economy. You might also get into some history, especially that which is banned, and look at what they did last time they dominated a country. ..."

ANALYSIS OF THE ABOVE

Recently, the Australian alternate media have been listing hundreds of companies that have been bought by foreign interests. The list would completely fill several newsletters this size. It is now estimated that foreigners own more than 94% of Australia's companies. This means that our Saxon brothers in Australia, in most cases, work for strangers.[7]

A condition causing alarm is the severe downsizing of the military by their media-elected government. Indonesia, their giant next-door neighbor, is arming with the latest equipment, while the Australian government has reduced its own defense force to mere battalions instead of divisions. The ships of Australia's fleet can be counted on the fingers of both hands. The Australian government is even now training Indonesian armed forces in Australia. Australia has 18 million people and Indonesia has 250,000,000 and has never shown itself to be a particular friend of Australia.

As is the case in the rest of the West, establishment churches in Australia are worthless. They are no watchmen. They have broken the Covenant.

The media-elected Australian government fears the Australian people as is the case in America. It fears them more than foreign enemies and is enacting one restrictive gun-law after another. It also is pushing for censorship laws that carry heavy penalties to silence the outcry against the flood of orientals invading the country. This last is called "the Asianation of Australia." As in the rest of the West, a great part of the high crime rate is caused by these immigrants. The media protects the criminals by refusing to reveal their race. This refusal is the litmus test of ITC ownership.

7 "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: nokriy - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deu 17:15

Conclusion

Australia, New Zealand and South Africa are about 5 years behind Western Europe and the US in identifying their problems, and none of our countries has yet developed an effective defense. Western Europe is one vast police state with draconian laws to keep her peoples suppressed. Canada is becoming a police state where people look fearfully over their shoulders whenever they speak. S. Africa is under the heel of the Black surrogates of the ITC. This means that the fight for freedom will most likely be developed in the United States and Australia.

HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS IN GERMANY

The following is condensed & cited from an April 1995 Human Rights Watch/Helsinki publication, Library of Congress Catalog No 95- 76078, ISBN 1-56432-149-5, p. 69-77 and 108-109), by Ernst Zundel, 206 Carlton Street, Toronto, ONT., Canada, M5A 2L1, 416-922-9850, Internet http://www.cebcom.com/~ezundel/english/.

Human Rights Watch/Helsinki is a non-governmental organization, established in 1978, whose function is to monitor and promote the observance of internationally recognized human rights as well as international compliance with the human rights provisions of the 1975 Helsinki Accords. Its focus is on Africa, the Americas, Asia, the Middle East and on the signatories of said Helsinki Accords.

In an April 1995 publication, this agency released a stinging condemnation of current governmental practices in Germany. In a chapter entitled "Government Measures to Ban Right-Wing Groups and Prohibit Hate Speech," here is what Human Rights News Watch/Helsinki says of Germany:

> "... sweeping restrictions that affect entire parties, organizations or philosophies inevitably cast too broad a net, they can be used to suppress dissenting political movements of all sorts and often encourage gratuitous restrictions beyond those initially foreseen. ...

Human Rights Watch/Helsinki then points out a chilling sentence:

> "The Federal Constitutional Court has the power to determine whether a political party is unconstitutional and should be banned.

Under the subtitle "The Prosecution of Hate Speech and Other Forms of Expression," Human Rights Watch/Helsinki, referring to Article 86 of the German Criminal Code, states that this article forbids

> "Dissemination of the propaganda of unconstitutional organizations ...

In other words, the government decides who is a "criminal" - with no legal recourse provided for individuals or groups - and follows up with punishment! Is that a democratically run State?

Human Rights Watch/Helsinki then cites recent cases of government crack-downs, such as:

> "Gunther Deckert, sentenced by a lower court to a one- year suspended sentence. "... ought to be given a stricter sentence for stating that the Holocaust never occurred."

"An eighteen year old was sentenced to 20 months in prison for giving the stiff-arm salute.

"Four young men were arrested for singing the national-socialist anthem in a private house in Neukoln.

"Neo-Nazi leader Heinz Reifs was convicted to a five months suspended sentence for having exhibited the Hitler salute and for having denied that the Holocaust happened.

"Ewarld Althans, a German nationalist youth leader, was sentenced to 18 months imprisonment without parole" ... for having denied that the Holocaust occurred" in propaganda videos and for having used banned Nazi symbols.

"Christian Worch, the head of the banned right- wing "National List" in Hamburg, was sentenced to two years of imprisonment for having continued to carry out activities of a banned organization.

"Arnulf Winfried Priem, formerly head of the now-banned 'German Alternative' in Berlin, has been held in pre-trial detention because he allegedly possessed Nazi propaganda.

To this list we might add the recent arrest of an American citizen, Hans Schmidt, 68, of Pensacola, Florida, for having used two words - "juden-und frimaurerverseucht," (meaning "Jew-and Freemason-infested") in an Open Letter sent to a government official in Germany. Apparently, the warrant for his arrest was Europe-wide.

Furthermore, states Human Rights Watch/Helsinki a new "Crime Prevention Law" went into effect on December 1, 1994, with many provisions that were aimed primarily at right-wing extremist groups. These provisions included:

> "an end to the requirement that prosecutors show that a racist statement is an "assault on human dignity." (emphasis added). Now anyone who denies the Nazi genocide against the Jews can be sentenced to a period of imprisonment of up to five years for incitement to racial hatred.

This means that, according to some statistics, tens of millions of Americans who now have doubts about some aspects of the Holocaust and dare express these doubts about the German Government approved version of the Holocaust are vulnerable to arrest if they happen to travel in Europe!

Human Rights Watch/Helsinki goes on to say:

> "... Human Rights Watch/Helsinki opposes laws that prohibit the expression of anti-foreigner or anti-Semitic sentiments, as well as laws that prohibit groups that hold such views from forming associations and holding public gatherings, so long as that speech, association or assembly does not rise to the level of incitement to or participation in violence. We base our policy on our conviction that the protected rights of speech, association and assembly are fundamental rights and should be guaranteed ... It is our view that it is inherently dangerous for governments to have the power to determine which political philosophies are "threatening" - power that invites abuse against political foes. ...
>
> "Such laws are often justified on the grounds that they curb racial and ethnic violence. But there is little evidence they achieve their stated purpose, and they have often been subject to abuse. Many governments or other actors that encourage or exploit group's tensions issue "hate speech" laws as a pretext to advance a separate political agenda or to enhance their own political power. In a number of counties, the chief targets of "hate speech" laws have been minority rights activists fighting discrimi- nation by the same majority that administers the laws... (emphasis added).

"We therefore view as suspect any action by governments to criminalize any expression short of incitement to illegal action and consider any law or prosecution that is not based on a strict interpretation of incitement to be presumptively a violation of the rights of free expression.

"... Expression should never be punished for its subject matter or content alone, no matter how offensive it may be to others."

Mrs. Clinton's Statement On Free Speech

Mrs. Hillary Rodham Clinton, the First Lady of the United States of America, spoke to delegates of the International Women's Conference in Beijing, China. This endorsement has particular meaning for Germans and German descendants world-wide and particularly in Canada where open discussion and freedom of speech has been banned concerning the remarkable Holocaust theory that maintains that 6 million Jews were killed by the Germans in WWI and again in WWII. Mrs. Clinton was quoted in the International Edition of the New York Times, Sept. 6, 1995, as saying:

"Freedom means the right of people to assemble, organize and debate openly ... It means respecting the views of those who may disagree with the views of their governments. It means not taking citizens away from their loved ones and jailing them, mistreating them, or denying them their freedom or dignity because of peaceful expression of their ideas and opinions."

Based on the above statement, the following letter copied from the "Internet" says it all:

Open Letter To Mrs. Clinton

"Dear Mrs. Clinton, Americans of German origin greatly applaud you for your recent address in Beijing, China. Your words have a very special meaning at a time when the great civil rights activist, Hans Schmidt, of Pensacola, Florida lingers in a German jail cell in total isolation from his family and the outside world. ...

"In his October 1994 German language newsletter, written and published here in the US, Hans Schmidt pointed out the "contamination (verseuchung)" of institutions of Democracy by powerful interest groups. He held them largely responsible for this spirit of vengeance and hate. His naming of these powerful interest groups now serves as a pretext for his incarceration.

"Since Hans Schmidt is an American citizen, what are the implications for other Americans who wish to visit Germany? Will they too fall victims of a warped and arbitrary German system of justice if what they say or write here in the United States is deemed to be objectionable? Let there be no doubt about it, the free exchange of ideas and opinion in Germany is no longer possible. Fear, intimidation and the vagueness of so-called "rubber paragraphs" have dealt the death knell to the main ingredient of democratic life and represent a danger to every American traveling in that country who has ever made a comment that German authorities consider politically incorrect....

"As proof that your remarkably enlightened speech in Beijing, China, is meant for "all men," we respectfully request your intercession in the matter of Hans Schmidt and the other victims of German oppression and tyranny." Yours Sincerely, George Rhine (Internet 9/95)

GANPAC, ("German American Political Action Committee,") headed by Hans Schmidt, human rights activist, now imprisoned in Germany, asks that people write protesting his incarceration:

I feel sorry for Hans and his family, but frankly, he's a soldier. He cannot give his youth - he has already done that, but he can give what is left of his 68 year old life for his people - and he is doing that! What greater gift can a Saxon make his people than to give his life for them.[8] Each of us will have to answer to our Maker if Han's sacrifice is made in vain because we did not take advantage of the opportunity it presents. He is the most recent victim - our cause célébre. The misery and suffering that are his today at the hands of an evil and tyrannical government await us tomorrow if this tyranny is not stopped, now.

After the Gordon Kahl, Ruby Ridge, Waco, and Oklahoma City massacres - the mood of America has turned ugly and distrustful and their politicans have suddenly become respectful of their wishes. Citizens don't want any more of their number shot down, burned, or locked up - or any more of their liberties tampered with. The politicians don't want to see any more of their number thrown off the public payroll. The Hans Schmidt affair is made to order. It was an incredibly stupid international incident to take an American citizen and throw him in jail for exercising his right to free speech in America. I have no doubt that the ITC desperately wishes it had never happened any more than the other incidents - but it happened!

---

8 "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." John 15:13

And, it is our job to make America aware that the ITC has done it again! But, this wonderful opportunity is of no use what-so-ever unless we take advantage of it. It is up to us. We've got to make another "Gordon Kahl," "Waco," "Oklahoma City" case on or hands. Our just protest is: (1) Hans Schmidt is an American citizen - foreigners should keep their grubby hands off American citizens. (2) American citizens are guaranteed "freedom of speech" by their Constitution and by the universal "rights of man." (3) Countries that do not recognize these facts are outlaw nations, and the US should take proper steps against them. (4) What are you doing to preserve "free speech?" especially as it affects the case of Hans Schmidt?

When writing, be polite, be nice. Make your point - being nice while you are doing it. The mere fact that you write upsets public officials because most voters don't write, but make your point. For each letter received they imagine that there are 5 or 10,000 others who do not write. Three letters could indicate 30,000 dissidents - an appalling development to a politician. Being "nice" removes their excuse for refusing to act because of writer rudeness.

Oklahoma City

FBI TACTICS: "Jennifer McVeigh, the sister of a suspect in the Oklahoma bombing, says FBI agents used fear tactics to break her down. "I didn't have time to think things out. It was constant pressure altogether," she said. "They showed me pictures of burned dead kids ... They put me and my mother in this room with all these posters with my name and a picture all blown up with all these charges against me ... like life imprisonment, death penalty and this and that ..." (New York Times 8/14/95). Only a few years ago the nation was horrified that these same tactics were used by the KGB in communist USSR. The constitution prohibits such action by our government. (Copied from The Witness, Sept 1995)

LONESOME LEG: According to the FBI, the unattached mystery leg found in the rubble of the federal building belonged to a black woman aged 16-30. The leg was clad in a size 7 1/2 military-style boot and an olive drab strap of the sort used by soldiers to tuck their pants into their boots. The article said that the fact that it was a black woman weakens the case that it was the "real bomber."

In the minds of many who have had to deal with past FBI "Ruby Ridge" and "Waco" announcements - their latest "leg" denial merely means that there may be a good probability that the leg actually did belong to one of bombers; a black, female, affirmative action, government trained "foul-up," who spoiled what might have been a perfect scam and set the country asking questions.

Dalai Lama - Put In Place

UN SNUBS DALAI LAMA: Interfaith prayer services at the Catholic church of St. Paul the Divine, in New York City, took place under the auspices of the Temple of Understanding. The leader of the Tibetan Buddhists, the Dalai Lama, 60, was not invited because of opposition by the Chinese government in Beijing, whose army presently occupies Tibet.

At one time it was said that Tibetan Buddhists were the most powerful political and monetary power in the world. They exercised political and trade power over the Far-East by control over the minds of their converts. This religious order made and pulled down rulers. With Western backing, China's Chairman Mao conquered China and severely curtailed the power of the Buddhist priesthood and the Buddhist family system. Allied victory in WWII curtailed their power in Japan.

This UN "snub" tells the world that the Tibetan Buddhist Priesthood no longer rules. The Dalai Lama is an emperor whose empire is now ruled by another - for the time being.

Tidbits

GINGRICH: "The most conservative Republican in the U.S. Congress, Newt Gingrich, has hired Arne Christensen as a senior policy staffer. Officially, Mr. Christensen will be in charge of budget and spending matters, but as a former senior lobbyist for the American Israel Public Affairs Committee he may have his loyalties elsewhere." Destiny Digest, 1501 W. Peoria, Phoenix, AZ 85029, June/July 1995

RKH: The speculation is that Christensen was assigned to Gingrich after his request to Henry Kissinger for better media coverage - which he got.

BETTY CROCKER: General Mills is giving their 1990s Betty Crocker a multi-ethnic makeover. The announcement was that "she won't be the fair-skinned, blue-eyed homemaker whose image has appeared on and off over the years on cookbooks, cake and brownie mixes." Lehman Brothers analyst Caroline Levy remarked "I think it's a great idea to revitalize the brand." University of Minnesota marketing professor Akshay Rao said, "The face of the nation is going to be very different than it was 20 years ago."

Black Racism On Juries

JURIES SPLIT RACIALLY: "Memphis black Rep.

Harold Ford's first trial on bribery charges ended in a hung jury. It was 8 to 4 for acquittal. The eight for a 'not guilty' verdict were Blacks. The four voting 'guilty' were Whites A majority Black jury acquitted him in a second trial. More and more Blacks are refusing to convict fellow Blacks no matter how strong the evidence. This is especially true when the victim is White. What is our Justice Depart. Civil Rights Division going to do to protect White people's rights in such conflicts? The American Way Features Feb 25, 1993

RKH: This problem has become epidemic. When Blacks ruled the South after the War Between the States, justice was dead. It was impossible for Whites to secure convictions of Black criminals from a justice system run by Blacks. This is the way it is today in both America and South Africa. Unless someone can come up with something better - yesterday's solution could be tomorrow's solution.

Nine Million Holocaust Book

Toronto - "Deliberate Allied policy killed at least 9 million Germans after World War II - most of them women and children, controversial author James Bacque says in a book soon to be published. .... In the new book, called Crimes and Mercies, Bacque maintains that between 1946 and 1950 'the four wartime Allies agreed on a policy that deliberately exterminated at least 9 million Germans.' ...The basis for this claim, he says, lies in previously secret Russian and US papers ... He believes the high mortality stemmed from three factors: deaths of Germans in flight as they were expelled from their former homes in Eastern Europe, deaths of prisoners in POW camps and deaths in Germany due to Allied policies. 'The Allies refused to allow the Germans to fish, to make fertilizer, to earn money to import food, to make oils for tractors and farm implements, to make steel for farm implements, to buy medicine such as penicillin. They refused to allow foreign countries to donate food to save the lives of children,' he said. Bacque said Allied authorities falsified statistics to hide death tolls." Toronto Globe and Mail, copied from The Christian News, p. 3., July 31, 1995

EUROPE's UNFILTERED NEWS

KISSINGER ACKNOWLEDGED: Henry Kissinger, former US Secretary of State, received an honorary knighthood from Queen Elizabeth II. Kissinger later rode in the queen's lead carriage to the Royal Ascot horse races. (Story in the News & Daily Advance, 6- 21-95, A2.)

RKH: This is the same queen, head of the Anglican church, God's representative on earth, who lost heavily in the collapse of Barings - a usury bank.[9]

FRANCE'S INVASION: "The official French population is 55 millions. The coloured immigrants might already be between 12 and 15 millions. And nobody knows how many millions of 'Frenchmen' are Blacks, Arabs, or of mixed blood. Certainly another 10 million if you count the two million Blacks from overseas Territories. As far as the under-20s are concerned, those of European stock are certainly already a minority. One has only to go around primary schools in Paris, Lille, Toulouse, Marseilles, etc. to be appalled! - MG (Toulouse, France) copied from Impact, P.O. Box 28233,

9 "Unto a stranger thou mayest lend upon usury; but unto thy brother thou shalt not lend upon usury." Deu 23:20; "Hath given forth upon usury ... he shall surely die." Ezek 18:13

Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA, $30/yr, June/July 1995

ISLAM IN SWEDEN: "In Sweden the fastest growing religion today is Islam. There are classes in some Swedish schools with not a single Swedish pupil." Impact, P.O. Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA, $30/yr, June/July 1995

SPAIN'S HATE: Spain adopted a repressive hate law in July. Power, 206 Carlton St., Toronto, Ont, Canada M5A 2L1

1945 Letter Refutes Media Dresden Lies

DRESDEN: "A letter from the Dresden Municipality dated 7/31/1992 reads: 'According to reliable reports from the Dresden police of 3/20/1945, there were 202,040 deaths, principally of women and children. Of these only about 30% could be identified. Including the missing persons, a figure of between 250,000 and 300,000 victims would be realistic." Impact, June/July 1995, p. 23, P.O. Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA, $30/yr

RKH: Establishment media propaganda has set a cap of 25,000 deaths on the Dresden holocaust.

Milk Cow - Occupied Germany

"The German State is like a big insurance company who, without proper and forensic investigation, negligently and carelessly settled a claim about Holocaust casualties solely based on the perjured testimony of alleged 'eye witnesses' and who accepted cooked evidence, forged invoices and fudged proofs of losses. The German political leadership of today and their intelligence agencies undoubtedly know this, and they know that the public exposure of this reckless negligence and massive raid could not only bring down the ruling Kohl Government but could overturn the entire Allied-created Quisling order in postwar Germany.

"To save their incompetent hides and their lucrative careers, they silence the whistleblowers. This is a classic case! ...

"Individual Jewish people, organizations, groups, and the State of Israel have received huge sums - over 100 billion Deutsch Marks! - so far from the Germans alone in induced guilt money. If the Holocaust is not true, they have received from the United States taxpayers an almost equal amount in fraudulently based and obtained 'sympathy contributions,' foreign aid, military aid, grants etc.

"That in a nutshell is what the Holocaust is all about. .... Should we succeed in exposing the Holocaust and its spin-off industries, it will lay bare a criminal conspiracy of such parasitic nature and global reach involving entire nations, branches of governments, etc. that it will cast dark shadows on some of the most revered public figures in America, Germany, Israel and elsewhere. That's why doubting Holocaust scholars and just ordinary Revisionists are being so mercilessly persecuted around the world. ...

"The issue of the Holocaust has become a quasi-criminal enterprise, an octopus-like industry with its own lobby, promoters, legal arm, public relations branch - even enforcers. Writers, politicians and recipients all have a vested interest in suppressing any research or public exposure of this alleged event in history. ...

"These people have mounted a world-wide campaign to outlaw and thus criminalize unfettered historical research. They have become a public menace and a threat to freedom and constitutional government. ... but they can no longer squash the worldwide 'freedom of speech' and 'freedom of inquiry' movement. ..." Power, Ernst Zundel, p. 3, 206 Carlton, ONT Canada M5A 2L1, Canada

---

HATE CRIME: "The Israeli gunman walked down the aisle of the bus, asking the elderly tourists where they were from. When he came to the first German, he shot the 64-year-old woman three times, killing her. ..." News & Daily Advance, 7-13-95, A3.

TURKS FIRE-BOMBED: Germany, Frankfurt - In the 5th straight night of attacks on Turkish property police arrested five Kurds. Kurdish activists have launched a campaign of violence to make Turkey's biggest trading partner, Germany, pressure Turkey to give the Kurds their own country. The 2 million Turks - including 450,000 Kurds - are Germany's largest minority. (Story in News & Daily Advance, 7-13-95, A3.)

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 254

WHOSE LAWS?

The Triumph

In ancient times our ancestors refused to put the Holy Scripture into print lest people worship the very print on the manuscripts. To prevent this the WORD was recited from memory. Only much later was it written down - and people predictably began to worship the manuscripts as a substitute to memorizing God's COMMANDS.

When the Romans conquered Jeruselem, they captured great wealth. Gold lost half its value because of its overabundance. The Romans paraded much of their captured wealth in a great "Triumph" held in Rome a year later. Included in the parade were prisoners-of- war - the best specimens of men the Romans had so heroically fought. Following them were floats containing the golden utensils and plate from the temple. Then followed scores of other large floats. On each float rested a panoramic model of incidents that occurred during the battle - sieges, wall breaches, and siege victories. The fights on the walls were displayed in detail, with houses and soldiers as they had been. Each little figure bearing the likeness of the soldier who had fought there.

The most valued possession of the conquered people was paraded at the very last of the parade to give it the respect and climax that the parade deserved. This was a great float preceded by trumpeters and pulled by many oxen. High on the float stood a canopy - and under the canopy was a dais, and on that dais was the great prize that millions had waited long hours to see; It was a parchment. It was a copy of the Laws, Statutes, and Judgments of Israel that the priest of the temple had made for themselves. This was the most important possession of the people whom the Romans had conquered. It was their God.

The Romans took this God to the Emperor's own palace to live temporarily until a new temple could be finished. Once there, the WORD would be safely esconced, and like the other Roman gods, each living in its own temple, they could reign together in catholic ecumenism and the Roman priests would tell the people what the gods desired of them.

There was one difficulty. The new God, the WORD said; "Thou shalt worship no other god: for the Lord, whose name is Jealous, is a jealous God." Ex 34:14; "He is a holy God; he is a jealous God ... If ye forsake the Lord, and serve strange gods, then he will turn and do you hurt, and consume you." Josh 24:19; The WORD escaped from the confines of the temple, and the priests of darkness have tried ever since to put him back.

Who Is God

Not one "Christian" in ten has the foggiest idea of who God is. It isn't the god of the Judeo-Christians! It isn't the god of the Catholics; It isn't the god of the so-called mainline Protestants! It is the WORD. I have in my hand a Presbyterian catechism printed in 1898. When you open it the first thing you see is this:

> "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1[1]

Our fathers knew this. They knew that God and his Commandments are one. They knew that if you have God the WORD you obey his Commandments. To deprive you of God's COMMANDMENTS is to deprive you of God.

One cannot have TWO gods. One will have to follow one or the other.[2] What happens when the evil ecumenical priesthood moves in once more to capture The WORD which is God, to reduce him to being equal to the other gods? The WORD says: "We must obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29.

---

1 The Son is; "The WORD was made flesh, and dwelt among us." John 1:14 Jesus Christ is the personification of the WORD. He is a living parable illustrating the living COMMANDMENTS. He might have been called Joe or Bill. That is unimportant. The Scriptures say: "His name is called The Word of God." Re 19:13 Who cares what his human name was? Christians don't worship a man's name! Their God is the WORD! Violating one of God's COMMANDMENTS is more than a mere "no-no" - it is blasphemy against the body of God; an act that will be punished by man - or both man and blasphemer will be punished drastically! (I Ki 20:42; Lev 16:14- 35.)

2 "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon." Matt 6:24 (Lk 16:13, Jas 4:4, 1John 2:15)

The OJ Trial

"If ye forsake the Lord, and serve strange gods, then he will turn and do you hurt, and consume you." Josh 24:19. Only one God can rule. If there are two - human judges must decide between the two. Then we are ruled by man - not a god or the gods - but man! This violates the WORD.

OJ Simpson walked! A mostly Black jury refused to convict him. In South Carolina a Saxon mother murdered her two children and the jury put her in prison instead of sentencing her to death. It just depends on who sits on juries as to what penalty the guilty receive.[3]

A Black confessed to burning down a school and boasted that he had burned it down. A jury of eight Whites and four Blacks acquitted him instead of making him to make restitution. Saxon Law was again thwarted. People vote the law of their gods.

America is re-learning a lesson that the South learned in a very painful manner. Given the opportunity, Saxons live by Saxon Law and Blacks live by Black law. Blacks don't convict Blacks using Saxon Law. To put it so that even a liberal can understand - Blacks don't care about what Whites think or about what they call their Western justice. It's something you have to understand if you come before a Black jury as did Byron de la Beckwith, Louis Beam, the LA policemen and so many others. If there are strangers on the 3 MURDER: "Ye shall take no satisfaction (substitute) for the life of a murderer, which is guilty of death: but he shall surely be put to death." Num 35:31; KIDNAPING: "If a man be found stealing any of his brethren of Israel, and maketh merchandise of him, or selleth him: then that thief shall die." Deut 24:7 BLACK LAW: Punishment is policy of the headman. TALMUDIC LAW: "But in general the Pharisees surrounded the penal laws, especially the death penalty, with so many qualifications that they were rarely executed." Jewish Encyclopedia, "Pharisees", p.662.

---

jury they will judge you by their own law. This means that if you are White - "guilty." If you are Black - "not guilty." Saxons are made in the image of their Law. Blacks and other strangers are made in the image of their law. People tend to follow their own gods. Its the way they were made.

After the War Between the States, Blacks were given the franchise.[4] At the same time White Southerners who had fought in the war were stripped of their right to vote. Since women couldn't vote, this meant that voters in the South were Blacks. Virginia had a Black Lt. Governor, Black state senate, Black house of delegates, Black judges, Black congressmen, and Black police. Blacks ruled Virginia. They were abusive. South Africa is now going through precisely the same experience the American South went through.

When Blacks were charged with a crime, a conviction was almost impossible. If outraged public opinion and media exposure demanded a conviction, the culprit would be sentenced to a lengthy term, only to be found walking the streets a few days later. All of this is covered in Vigilantes Of Christendom.[5] It seems that it is a story that America must learn all over again. Western Law was made for those made in the image of that Law, and for them only.[6] Others follow their own gods, and with good reason; "There are many nations ... all are his, and over all has he appointed spirits to

4 "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: nokriy - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deu 17:15

5 VOC, Virginia Publishing Company, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505,.

6 "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1, God and his Commandments are one and the same: "These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded the, saying, Go not unto the way of the Gentiles, and unto any city of the Samaritans enter ye not: But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Math 10:5,6.

rule ... but over Israel ... he alone is their ruler." Jub 15:23.

Some time after the War a deal was made with the International Trade Cartel (ITC) branch in New York that if they would take the Blacks off our backs they could keep the millions of acres of prime plantation land they had looted at tax sales. They could also keep the newspapers and businesses they had stolen. If one must choose between Black rule and extortion - extortion is the lesser of the evils. It was a long time before Southerners could again be forced to let Blacks vote, hold office, or rule over them again.

Court In Essex County

My Uncle Deane Hundley was judge in Tappahannock. I remember sitting in the back of the court when a White man was brought in for wounding another White man. Uncle Deane sentenced him to five years in prison. Next, a Black was brought in for wounding another Black on Saturday night. Uncle Deane fined him $50. I later asked Uncle Deane why five years for one and $50 for the other? He replied that the White knew better, and the Black had only wounded his brother-in-law because he was drunk. He didn't mean any real harm, that was just what colored people did. Besides, if he "locked up every Black there wouldn't be enough jail cells in the entire state of Virginia to hold them," and if there were, there would not be enough money in the state to feed them. The ACLU wouldn't stand for such "unequal treatment" today.

I remember another case. It was a custom of Black slaves to plant a cedar sapling at the grave of each of their family members. Over a couple of hundred years these cedars became massive. A White speculator suggested cutting the cedars and splitting the proceeds with the Colored community. A storm of protest erupted. Ten years later a Black cut the cedars without asking anyone. He kept the proceeds himself and not a word was said about it. That happened at Ben Lomond - Judge Muscoe Garnett's old place.

In Essex County, Virginia in the 1930s - there was one law for the Whites, and one law for the Blacks. There were no Black judges or juries. We had had a full dose of that shoved down our throats and were unanimous in the opinion that it was a disaster - and that's the way it was. The way it was was a lot better than the way it is now. Now, once again it is becoming like it was after the war when Blacks ruled. Then, men had to carry pistols with them wherever they went. It's the same today.

Million Man March

Louis Farrakhan called for a million Black men to march on Washington. Almost a million did. This was an impressive show of power. Whites had better pay attention. Readers of my book, Vigilantes Of Christendom, will remember the following quote:

> "There is one kind of Black leader who, in time, will end all the personal relationships that have made endurable the proximity of Whites with Blacks. The Toussaint L'Overture type. There are a number of carbon copies around these days. They hate Whites, all Whites. They hate his god, his manners, his science, his culture, and everything about him. They are hard to tell because they all look like acceptable types - suits, clean linen, good English, acceptable manners - the works. They use the lickspittle Kennedy-types to open doors for them, but hate them while using them.
>
> "The Toussaint L'Overtures will dictate tomorrow's race relations, and, if history has any meaning, the future will be like the past. "There is nothing new under the sun."

This Louis Farrakhan may be just the one the above quote described. He says he wants Blacks to develop their own society without Whites. I have no doubt he does. If he is weak - he will do what he will do peacefully, but, he has at least a million Blacks behind him. This means that he is strong. Much stronger than the media has led us to believe. He may decide to do what he wants to do with force.

Agreements with such a person will have to be backed by a force great enough to guarantee compliance. If history is judge, any agreement with the likes of a Farrakhan will be tedious at best, and, he may decide not to negotiate. That's something that has to be kept in mind.

There is a bright side to all of this. The Black Muslim separatist movement definitely benefits the Saxon race - a Black separation into their own kind. This can result in nothing but good to both groups. It will NOT be seen as a good thing for the ITC. They will see such a separation as the fragmentation of their trade markets. Consequently, they will fight it tooth and nail.

We can expect the ITC to try to bring Whites and Blacks into conflict with each other. The conclusion of such a conflict will be on ITC terms - integration. A newly integrated society ruled by the ITC. It's what they have a history of doing.

The Hans Schmidt Bust

The government of the U.S. has joined Germany in casting aside the silk glove and now showing the mailed fist. Their joint motto is a copy of the motto of the Buddhist ITC; "Without regard to race, creed, or national origin." The state that adopts that motto cannot exclude the merchants or the people of the ancient silk trade.[7] Hans Schmidt, an American writer, has written articles in America critical of the flood of strangers pouring into Germany. This is his cardinal sin. His articles, written in America, are the reason he is in a German prison. Americans have been amazed that their government has not come to the rescue of one of its citizens. Wonder no longer! The U.S. government is the reason he was arrested in the first place.

The Internet reports that the U.S. Justice Department provided German authorities with Hans Schmidt's passport number so that he could be arrested. This is something that merits Congressional investigation. There appears to be an agreement with Germany to jail Americans critical of American or German records on civil rights. The Justice Department furnishes the passport number - and the Germans put the offender in jail - for writing something that is legal to write in America. The US government's refusal to protect an American citizen from arrest by a foreign nation, for writing something in America, something that is protected by America's Constitution, is proof of the charge.

If the reader has not yet written to protest the Hans Schmidt case - the addresses are given once again. It's important.

The FBI Has Dirty Fingernails

The government of the United States, its media, and its minions appear to be self-destructing.

In the past, America's president was viewed as repre-

7 "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (zwur - racial alien) thou art snared with the words of thy mouth. Pr. 6:1; "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21

senting all that is good and virtuous. He is now seen as a lying buffoon. J. Edgar Hoover's sacrosanct FBI is viewed as an out-of-control mob of blood-thirsty jack-booted thugs - a dangerous, murderous private army. Even with the help of media whitewash, not only do Wacos and Ruby Ridges go wrong, but long buried dirt is now rising to the surface and recent disclosures even sound suspicious.

Someone recently pulled rail spikes and a train was derailed. No one claimed responsibility. The FBI said that a note had been found signed "The Son Of Gestapo," or somesuch, claiming responsibility for the wrecked train in retaliation for Waco and Ruby Ridge. Son of Gestapo? Really. WWII has been over for 50 years. In any event, this claim was quickly challenged by a train passenger who stepped forward to say that the note had to have been placed there long after the wreck because it was not there just after the wreck. The passenger had been standing at the very spot the note was found and there had been no sign of any note. This would mean that the saboteur had been standing around all the time when the FBI was combing the area, and when no one was looking, scribbled a note and put it where it could be found. Do you believe that? "Son of Gestapo?" Do you believe that?

Could it be that someone just derailed a train as people in America seem to do periodically for no good reason. Then, the FBI dropped in and tried to make news out of an "ho-hum" event, and ended up doing something else stupid? Or, could this be too simple an explanation?

The FBI Stench Is Bubbling To The Top

It's hard to say where it started. Perhaps it has been going on all along and the public has been too idealistic to see what was happening. Perhaps they believed the media. One can only believe what he is told, and until the recent emergence of the alternate media, no other point of view has been heard.

The FBI is supposed to go by certain guidelines. Beating up their own is not one of them. An article in The News & Advance, June 22, 1994, A2, revealed that the FBI hired the Mafia to work with them against the KKK.[8] The article goes on to describe how Gregory Scarpa, Sr. persuaded a Klansmen to talk by putting "a gun borrowed from the FBI" into his mouth and threatening to "blow your ... brains out!" The article didn't say what other means of persuasion were used. Needless to say, the fellow talked. However, this isn't the story. The story is that the Mafia and the FBI amiably and agreeably worked together.[9]

Are we supposed to believe that the later FBI crackdown on the Mafia was anything other than "eyewash"? Another phony Capitalism/Communism confrontation - a "Berlin Wall" erected to make the "communist threat" look real? The history of the US government working with the Mafia goes back at least 50 years. During WWII our government cooperated with the Mafia to get intelligence on German troop movements in Italy; later, the Kennedy administration hired the Mafia to try to kill Castro.

Shady activity of this sort by our government can scarcely be credited by Mr. John Q. Public. After being told nothing

8 Ku Klux Klan: Organized in 1867. Quickly disbanded in 1868 because of vicious attack by America's media. Bogus KKKs were operated by the establishment for years to create anti-Southern sentiment. Reorganized 1915 for political action. Controlled 24 statehouses w/7 million members. Faded in 1941 with the outbreak of WWII. KKK today is used by the media to create anti-Saxon sentiment needed to justify continued White suppression.

9 "Can two walk together, except they be agreed." Amos 3:3; "All flesh consorteth according to kind, and a man will cleave to his like." Ecclesiasticus 13:16 but good things for decades, they discover that the Mafia closed ranks with the FBI to fight the Klan, a Klan admittedly badly tarnished by media hype, but still, a Klan made up of American Citizens. Could it be that it is not really the FBI who is actually calling the shots - but the other half of the duo, instead? Take a close look at Waco and Ruby Ridge and ask yourself if you honestly believe that those were American or Mafia type operations?

Other Incidents

What about the time the media told us that the Klan blew up a church and killed three Black children? That really gave the Klan a black eye. It turned the whole country against them. What did the media do when the news came out that the Klansmen who did the deed were in the pay of the FBI? They buried the report in the inside pages of the newspaper.

The establishment media told us about the North Carolina Seven and how they shot a half dozen poor defenseless Communists. They didn't mention that the instigator of the whole thing and the one who led the Klansmen into the Communist's ambush was in the pay of the FBI.

Then there was the case of Viola Liuzzo. She was riding in a van with her Black boyfriend when she was shot by a Klansman.

> "The 1965 murder of Viola Liuzzo, a White woman who marched in Selma, Alabama, played a key role in passage of the 1965 Voting Rights Act. She was shot and killed, allegedly by a man who was apparently an FBI agent, but the agency tried to pin the crime on the Ku Klux Klan." Straight Talk, p. 4 July 13, 1995

Then there were the Sedition Trials. The judge dismissed the charges against the accused because the FBI witnesses lied so often that they couldn't be believed about anything.

Then there was the Trade Center Bombing. The fellow who showed the muslims how to build the bomb was working for the FBI. The FBI knew about the bombing before it happened - and they let it happen.

Then there was the Tarrants case:

> "The FBI had a pair of informants hire the Klan's top bombing expert, Thomas Albert Tarrants III, and one of its most notorious leaders, Danny Joe Hawkins, to bomb a Jewish leader's home the night of June 29, 1968. Then FBI agents and a few trusted city cops set out to do their duty - assassinate them in the act. This wasn't just entrapment. This was murder.
>
> "Nelson, then a Los Angeles Times correspondent, broke the story in 1970. The wrath of J. Edgar Hoover followed, and the FBI director tried to wreck Nelson's career."[10]

In short, the FBI has a record of acting like "out-of- control, jackbooted thugs." These are definitely not the sort of people that you'd invite home to meet the family.

Waco Whitewash

To regain the credibility that had been lost by the FBI and assorted alphabet agencies, congress held hearings on Waco. It was a disaster. The Republicans had a chance to hold the federal bureaucracy accountable. They botched it.

The politician-questioners acted as if they were hopelessly ignorant of their subject matter, and only five minutes were allowed each committee member. Any political appointee can handle five minutes of questioning.

10 TERROR IN THE NIGHT, Jack Nelson, Simon & Schuster, p. 287

Then, the Chairman, Bill McCollum of Florida seconded the party line by declaring that the Davidians started the fire that killed them.

The damaging testimony was presented by a 14-year old who claimed to have been sexually abused by David Koresh. The committee did not investigate the testimony before allowing it to go out all over America. Later, after the damage was done, Ambrose Evans- Pritchard of the London Sunday Telegraph made telephone calls that raised serious doubts. It appears that the 14-year old was living with her grandmother at the time she claimed Koresh molested her.

The bureaucrats being questioned were given prime time to defend their Waco Massacre - and they used every minute to best advantage. They knew full well that the politicians themselves are now being widely viewed by Americans as being the enemy.

Conclusion

At this moment in history, Saxons are finding that their own elected government is enforcing the laws of strange gods. The country's resources are being squandered, and its legal system lies in tatters with "justice" being provided for strangers - only. The politicans make cosmetic statements about liberty and freedom - but pretend that Hans Schmidt doesn't exist.

A basic rule has been broken: "He that ruleth over man must be just, ruling in the fear of God." II Sam 23:3. The American government and its agencies have been neither Lawful nor just. The consequence is that the people are learning that if they tolorate the rejection of the WORD that is their God - their God will reject them. Without his God to protect him - the Saxon dies.

UNFILTERED NEWS

Travelers Alert

"A few days ago two uniformed port authority of NY and NJ policemen were summoned to a Lufthansa departure area at the NY International Airport and began to interfere with the distribution of leaflets by a group calling itself the 'Hans Schmidt Defense Committee' (HSDC) ... The officers were politely reminded by the picketers demanding Free Speech privileges that a 1993 Supreme Court decision established that all concourses at American airports are subject to First Amendment rights.

"On Saturday, Oct 14, an unidentified middle-aged German Lufthansa flight supervisor bolted out of her aircraft ten minutes before its afternoon departure for Frankfurt and lashed out at two young members of the HSDC handing out leaflets again. The supervisor exclaimed in her heavily accented English: 'The passengers on board are very disturbed and are asking questions about the recent arrests of American tourists at the German airports for alleged speech crimes'. ... This 'Traveler's Alert' is systematically distributed on weekends at the New York City area international airports by supporters of the First Amendment and Free Speech. The Alert warns travelers against arrests for things they might have said or written while on American soil. ...

"The HSDC advises Lufthansa and Continental passengers to destroy the 'Travelers Alert' while on board the aircraft since it too might contain some illegal words that could cause their arrest in Germany. ...

"The chief representative of the German tourist industry in the US, Mr. Henschke of the German National Tourist Office in New York (Tel: 212-661-7200) and Mr. Hanel at the German Embassy in Washington (Tel: 202-289-4000) appeared bewildered when contacted last week and asked for '... a list of forbidden words, literature and ideas in Germany." They replied that such list is still not available. ...

"HSDC reports that leafleting at American airports with flights to Germany will continue for as long as American citizens remain in German prisons for speech violations, and as long as Hillary Clinton, who spoke out in Beijing on behalf of Mr. Harry Wu, remains silent. ... " (adapted from a report by Tanya Solovejko by Ernst Zündel on Internet http:// www.webcom.com/ ~ezundel/english/ Ontario, CANADA (416)922-9850 10-23-95

Haiti Blocks Takeover

ARISTIDE REBELS: Haiti, long the plaything of the international bankers, nationalized a number of industries. The US-UN cartel invaded the island and installed their puppet, Catholic priest Jean-Bertrand Aristide, as president. The deal was for him to privatize nine major nationalized industries and receive $100 million from the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund. He welshed. Now, lets see how the US plans to get Aristide out and put another puppet in to get the job done. Sometimes, nothing goes right.

Oklahoma City, Waco

OKLAHOMA CITY FALL-OUT: "Sam Cohen, inventor of the neutron bomb, told KFOR-TV on their 10 P.M. news-cast, 'I don't care how much fertilizer and fuel oil they used, it would never be enough. Demolition charges placed at key columns did the dirty work.'" Nexus, Aug-Sept, 1995, p.8.

KORESH ACCUSER LIED? "Kiri Jewell, the teenaged girl who tearfully told the Senate Waco hearings that she was sexually abused by David Koresh when she was ten, could not be telling the truth. After Evans-Prichard heard the testimony he took the time to check out the story. With only a few phone calls, Evans- Prichard discovered that Kiri Jewell was not living at the Waco Branch Davidian complex during the period she claimed Koresh abused her. She was living in California with her grandmother and mother. Further, the London Telegraph reported that girl's father, David Jewell has been exploiting the allegation, taking his daughter on the lecture circuit with the story. David Jewell was described as being of 'questionable character." Evans- Prichard noted that the girl's story was very easy to check out, requiring only a 'few phone calls.' The fact that the committee staffers didn't even bother with even this minimum investigation of the Jewell allegations indicates that the truthfulness of the charges was irrevalent to them. The tear- jerk testimony was simply included to slander Koresh in an attempt to justify the government's military assault upon the Branch Davidian Church. Spotlight, Aug 7, 1995, 300 Independence Ave SE, Washington DC 20003.

News From The Mideast

HANDOUTS: "The United States gives Israel a total of $13 billion a year in loans, grants, and loan guarantees. The purpose? To give it an incentive to buy U.S. products. ... Last year the Israelis ran a trade deficit of $7.5 billion with the European Union - meaning they're using our credit to buy goods and services from the Europeans, ..." Survival Report, Aug 15, 1995, Ron Paul, PO Box 602, Lake Jackson, TX 77566, $99/yr

---

ROUNDUP TIME: Egypt, Cairo - The government arrested 200 activists of the powerful Muslim Brotherhood, sharply escalating its long-running campaign against Egypt's Islamic opposition. Islamic Critics said the arrests were aimed at discrediting the brotherhood before this fall's parliamentary elections. (Story in the News & Daily Advance, 7-30-95, A2.)

RENOUNCE BELIEFS: Egypt, Cairo - One hundred and sixteen prisoners were released - all suspected Islamic militants - after they renounced violence in their struggle to install a strict Islamic regime. The government has released 710 Muslim militants from prison this past year after they renounced their belief in the use of violence. A security official described the program as part of the government's 'intellectual confrontation.' Each released prisoner was given $50 and promised a job. (Story in the News & Daily Advance, 8-13-95, A2.)

RKH: The kings and priests of all nations which are part of the International Trade Cartel (ITC) are intellectual Buddhists. They are at war with anyone who inhibits business. Militant Islam restricts business. The ITC kings and priests who rule Egypt are at war with their own people who support a purely Islamic state. It is a preview of what is in store between the ITC and followers of the WORD in the West.

FOREIGNER SHOT: Algiers. Algeria - The 10th Italian, shot in the neck in an ambush in Algiers last week, died of his wounds. The Government blamed 'armed terrorists,' the usual reference for Muslim fundamentalist militants. The Italian's death means that a total of 87 foreigners have been killed by Muslim fundamentalists fighting the government to establish an Islamic state. The crisis started when the army repudiated January 1992 legislative elections that the Islamic Salvation Front won. The resulting violence has left more than 30,000 dead. (Story in the News & Daily Advance, 7-25-95, A2.)

FOR THE FAITH: Algiers, Algeria - A power plant south of Algiers was knocked out by three suicide bombers transporting high explosives in a truck. Killed were the bombers and eight others. Power was knocked out in a wide area. Large parts of the region were still without electricity a day after the attack. (Story in the News & Daily Advance, 8-8-95, A2.)

TORTURE: In an AP article dateline Jerusalem, it was reported that the Israeli Shin Bet secret service chief admitted that "tougher interrogation tactics" were used to make Arab detainees talk. For years Arabs have complained that the Jews were torturing Arabs, but no heed was paid to their complaints. The Shin Bet chief announced that he had given authority to use force to get a confession from suspected mastermind Abdel Nasr Issa who then revealed the identities of his ring of suicide bombers from the Muslim militant group Hamas. This article stated that "Justice Minister David Libai said the Shin Bet chief had the authority to order tougher methods of interrogation the minute Issa was arrested and that the chief wasn't restricted by any laws." (Article in News & Daily Advance, P1, 8-25-95

News From Europe

KEEPING THE WAR GOING: The US government approved a small group of retired American generals working with Croatia to organize its army along democratic lines. The generals signed a contract with the Pentagon in 1994 and have made several visits to Zagreb to advise the Croatians. The program came to light as Croatia's successful offensive rolled over the formerly Serb-held area of Krajina. (Story in the News & Daily Advance, 8-8-95, A8.)

News From Northern Ireland

ULSTER WON'T DEAL: Belfast, Northern Ireland - Ulster Unionist leader David Trimble said he wouldn't negotiate with IRA supporters even if they start disarming. The reality remains that Sinn Fein-IRA would be constantly threatening a return to violence if they don't get what they want." (Story in News & Advance, Sept 10, 1995, A2

News From SOUTH AFRICA

GEN. VILJOEN'S PARADISE: Gen. Viljoen, posing as a patriot, sabotaged the White South African's freedom effort. Recently, he worked a deal with Mandela to take the farms of White S. Africans and send them to next door Mozambique to farm their land. The following is a report from a party who investigated the Mozambique paradise. The following was translated from Die Afrikaner, 5-11 May 1995, entitled:

The Mozambique Scene

"Except for towns like Beira and Tete there are no shops, everything needed must be taken along from S.A., including tools, food, clothing, etc. Roads simply do not exist. A few have been rebuilt but there are no maintenance teams as the budget does not allow for it. Gravel roads are impassable during the rain season. A few ferry boats exist on the main rivers, such as the Zambezi and Shire Rivers but they are in a bad condition.

"The spokesman said he has seldom seen as many mosquitoes in his life. There is a deadly strain of malaria in Tete according to WHO. The spokesman feels that it is his duty to warn all farmers seriously who consider going there based on the nice promises Gen. Viljoen is making. There are no hospitals and if you are lucky enough to find a first aid post they cannot provide any service. If you catch Malaria, one must go to a decent hospital immediately - which is at least a five hour drive. A member of the investigating party was flown to Johannesburg where he was in intensive care unit for a week.

"There is a total lack of accommodation. Every house in every small village has been razed. The local population destroyed everything by vandalism. There is no electric power, drinking water, churches or schools and needless to say no telephones. The result is that large parts of the country are cut off from the rest. Highway robbers are everywhere. There are hundreds of thousands of landmines all over the country. They are of every type and origin and can be found anywhere along the roads that have been declared free of mines. This is in addition to those found scattered over lands and bushes. A woman gathering wood was blown up in the sight of our party scarcely ten meters away.

"Mines are everywhere and precaution to sweep mines on roads apply only to certain routes, but there are no safeguards and a certificate of safety is issued simply on the strength that no mine has exploded on a given certain road. They act in this way because to sweep a road 1 km long by 8 m. wide costs $2,000 US dollars. A team of minesweepers can at the most do only 1 km a day.

RADIO PRETORIA: "Radio Pretoria has been on the air since Apr 30 ... Our objectives are to preserve our Reformed Christian faith, our Afrikaner language, our culture, heritage and history. ... In regard to founding a new Afrikaner nation, there are four principles which must be paramount: 1. We must have a future country and society based upon Christian principles and the moral law of God. 2. We must, as Afrikaners, stop bickering among ourselves and unite. 3. We must have an Afrikans majority in any future homeland even if this means some Afrikaner people must move to a new area for that purpose. 4. Afrikaners must be willing to accept the inevitability of no longer relying on Black labor. We must look to each other to do all of our work. ..." Dr. Robert L. Slimp, Aug 1995, 4636 Crystal Dr., Columbia, SC 29206, 803-782-0924, $25/yr.

RKH: These four principals hold true for Saxons anywhere.

==========

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 255

"In The Beginning . . ."

"THE STORY OF THE INTERNATIONAL TRADE CARTEL"

By Richard Kelly Hoskins

In The Beginning is a new book by Richard Kelly Hoskins. It traces the advance of Hinduism, the business religion of the East, into Classical Greece, Imperial Rome, the Holy Roman Empire, and into modern-day Western churches and governments.

Delivery date is promised to be the 2nd or 3rd week in December. Book buyers can expect to receive their copies in late December or early January. Order "In The Beginning", "The Story of the International Trade Cartel," SB, 250 pages of ancient, medieval, and modern history - including maps - from the Virginia Publishing Company, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, Virginia 24505, $15/copy plus $3 p&h.

The following article is the book's introduction."

The Merchant

PRIME DIRECTIVE: The merchant must find a market for his goods."

The historical geographical center of world trade is India.

Its products - spices, gems and gold.

The King

The merchant must establish a king to protect him and promote his interests.

To ensure a constant supply of trade goods the merchant hires a king to protect and keep order in his trade markets. The king is a key part of the trade system called feudalism. Feudalism maximizes production. It assigns every man to a job which he becomes very good at performing. In time, feudalism caused maximized production which in time saturated Indian markets.

The Priest

Before The Merchant can trade in a market he must first secure the blessing of its god, or the people may kill him.

Feudalism's over-production forced Indian merchants to open markets in other lands. Often, the gods of these foreign nations were hostile, and they ordered their people to kill the Indian merchants. Being killed removes the profit from trade for the merchant. This is a very real problem to the trader. The problem with foreign gods was solved by the merchants of India developing a trade-religion and sending missionaries to take this religion and with it to change the minds of foreign gods - to make them more friendly and receptive to Indian merchants and their trade.

Buddhism's Dharma

The religion developed by the Indian missionaries to help their trade effort is called Hinduism. The missionary part of Hinduism is called Buddhism. Buddhist missionaries are charged with the basic work of changing the attitudes of the people who live in new markets from hostility to acceptance. This is done by teaching potential customers Dharma - "acceptance." Dharma changes hostile separatist religions into warm, friendly integrationist religions. The customer loses nothing. He keeps his own god, his own customs and rituals, and makes money. Dharma only asks that its customer-converts adopt two simple beliefs:

- (1) All gods are basically the same, and
- (2) Since all gods are basically the same, there is no reason not to tolerate all religions without regard to race, creed or national origin.

If a land targeted by the merchant learns these two simple concepts - "all gods are one" and "toleration;" it then follows that the land and its people will also accept the international merchant and his wares. The merchant and his wares must be "tolerated" before the trader can trade. This is why the Buddhist missionaries see to it that native Dharmatized churchmen living in targeted markets are provided with big houses and big cars. The missionary agents of Indian merchants spend tens of billions spreading Dharma - which in time returns hundreds of billions in trade profits. The Buddhist missionary and his converts among the native clergy must obtain customer good-will before the merchant can trade.

Media

The Merchant's media control customer attitudes to prevent rebellion against king, priests, and merchant.

Formerly, a steady flow of gifts to local dignitaries provided the goodwill needed to protect the merchant's interests. Later, the purchase of local media through native agents provided the same service. The media glorified the merchant's agent who was elected "king." Thus the merchant had his own king to rule his market. The merchant's media vilified the merchant's enemies and the people were taught to scorn them also. Priests who blessed the king and merchant were praised and their wealth increased. Priests who cursed the king and merchant were ignored and remained poor.

The Trader

India sold her products both to the Far East and the West. The ones who carried the products and operated the spice routes were the traders. These trade and transportation specialists gradually became a closed union. They developed their own rules, passwords, and customs. To protect themselves in lands not yet tolerant, they adopted the customs of the land, including the local religion. If the customers were tolerant, they openly practiced their own ancient trade-religion.

The Wholesaler

In the Far East, the Chinese emperor operated a closed franchise. He required that all spices, gold, and gems arriving from India be sold to the Empire, which in turn resold them through imperial outlets. The spice trade from India was an imperial monopoly. Because of the great profits to be gained, many smugglers attempted to secretly bring in goods in spite of the risk of losing their heads.

The effort to break the Imperial monopoly resulted in the rise of competing war lords. In time, internal dissension provided outsiders an opportunity to get part of the profits of the spice-trade. European war fleets gathered off the coasts of China. Western technology prevailed in the ensuing conflict between East and West and European nations occupied Chinese coastal cities and proceeded to distribute Indian goods, as well as their own. Chinese merchants selected by Western interests replaced the Chinese rulers.

In the West the early Indian trade franchise was operated by the Roman Empire. This franchise was continued by the Roman Catholic Church which also operated as a monopoly - a monopoly that has existed for more than a thousand years. Just as had happened in the Far East, the tremendous profits generated by the spice-trade monopoly brought competition from war lords in England, Germany, and Scandinavia who broke away from the Roman Catholic Church to compete with its trade monopoly. To regain this trade and secure markets in new lands, the Roman church sent out a cloud of Catholic missionaries called Jesuits to dispense Dharma. Protestant war lords sent a cloud of missionaries into Catholic lands and third world nations to do the same. Converts to either Protestantism or Catholicism supported the god of the missionary that had converted him - in both trade and war. Thus, the missionary was a very important instrument of state and trade policy in spite of the Christian prohibition against such things.[1] In Protestant lands Dharma was dispensed by newly created episcopal protestant churches whose priests had been appointed with the approval of the local war lord. The episcopal church in England was named the Anglican Catholic Church; the German and Scandinavian episcopal church was named the Lutheran Church.

Attempts by protestant Christians to reform the protestant state religions were dealt with by allowing them to establish

1 GOD'S LAW: "Go not unto the way of the Gentiles, and unto any city of the Samaritans enter ye not: But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 10:5-6; "I was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel, and to them alone." Matt 15:24 state approved episcopal sects such as the "Methodist" in England and "Reformed-Lutheran" in Germany. Keeping them episcopal took reform into harmless channels because it allowed the war lords to continue appointing ecclesiastics who approved their rule. The Catholic Church met the problem of reform by allowing the reformers to establish a new order. When the reformer died a new head of the reform order was appointed by the Catholic Church who was "conservative" and all was as it had been. The reform lasted for the life of the reformer.

The roving traders of the spice routes dispensed Dharma through their media monopoly. All parties, while intolerant of each other, were vitally interested in teaching potential customers to be tolerant of the trader and his wares.

Presbyterian

The protestant episcopal religion spawned a breakaway sect that was more difficult to handle. It was called presbyterian. Presbyterian was the type of organization - rather than belief. While episcopal prelates were appointed from the top down - presbyterian speakers and teachers were selected from the bottom up. They claimed to follow God whose commands were to be found in the Holy Scriptures. The teaching of the Holy Scriptures placed this group at odds with local rulers and with the International Trade Cartel composed of merchants, traders, missionaries, and kings. Strict adherence to the WORD resurrected the old Christian prohibition forbidding trade with strangers.[2] This impacted trade. Destroying trade was the reverse of what the episcopal church had been established to do. Establishment religion existed to open and expand trade markets - not close them. The establishment church was the natural enemy of those who followed the presbytery form of church government. Historically, the episcopal Protestant church treated these breakaway Protestant-presbyterians almost as brutally as did the Roman Catholics.

The Contenders

There is much written about "The Great Conspiracy," the "New World Order," and secret organizations of one kind or another. People are asking - what is the game and who runs it?

The answer is simple. The game is the same game that has always been played for the profits from international trade. The International Trade Cartel (ITC) is a confederation of international merchants, war lords and priests to monopolize international trade distribution. Their wholesalers are the great billionaire business barons of today. Their retailers are the Western corporations.

The great battle is between the episcopacy of the ITC and the presbytery of people who refuse to accept their lot as "wage- slaves." Christians speak of the end time conflict between the WORD and Babylon as Armageddon.[3]

==========

2 "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger, thou art snared." Pr. 6:1; "Ye shall make no league with the inhabitants of this land." Judges 2:2; "Thou shall make no covenant with them." Deut 7:2

3 IN THE BEGINNING, The Story Of The International Trade Cartel, Richard Kelly Hoskins, 250 p., sb, Virginia Publishing Company, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505

Letter From Hans Schmidt

"Dear Dick! Thanks for the Hoskins Report dated Nov 1 which I received on the 17th. I enjoyed reading it. You expressed also my thoughts when you wrote that different cultures - like Blacks - have a different sense of justice than we. The Simpson trial pointed that out. I also liked your assessment of Farrakhan. Doesn't everybody see that? Well, perhaps not.

"Yesterday Lech Walesa lost out in Poland. Another loss for the one worlders. And yet another still: The 'candidacy' of Colin Powell flopped.

"Thanks for the kind words about me. I'm OK as far as things go. However, I think it is awfully wrong to arrest a man, any man for speaking his mind. While the Communist 'Dons' of the former Greater German Republic walk free while on trial, and can expect probation, this is not possible in my case. At an age nearing 70, and being totally without legal blemish, I am being held without bail among criminals. This in spite of the fact that I also have a permanent residence in Germany and I want this trial to proceed, in order to help free the German people from 'legally' imposed chains.

My indictment is 29 pages long. My lawyers have to study it diligently. I have no idea when the trial will be held. Thanks again, Sincerely, Hans Schmidt, B313, PF 1252, 18246 Butzow, GERMANY

P.S. Did you notice the considerable increase of private gold purchases in countries like Germany?

RKH: We are fortunate to have Hans Schmidt to represent twenty thousand of our brother Saxons rotting in German prisons just because they insist on exercising their God given right of "freedom of speech." Freedom of speech is a right that should be enjoyed not only by our Saxon kinsmen, but by every person alive. I'm betting that Hans Schmidt and the cause of "freedom of speech" will prevail.

Hans Schmidt & Censorship by Zundel

CENSORSHIP: "Censorship creeps over Western Europe. Bit by bit and inch by inch, much like some hissing snake, restrictive 'hate laws' have been passed in many countries in the last two years, banning all kinds of speech, thoughts and writings. This happened in France, Spain, Switzerland, Germany, Belgium, Austria and even Denmark ... . It seems the only country still relatively 'free' is the United States of America. How long? ...

"American legal experts and patriots were shocked that Hans was not called before a judge in open court and read the charges, so that 'justice' could be seen to be done - one of the fundamental rights and legal traditions of people lucky enough to live under the umbrella of Anglo-Saxon laws and criminal codes. ...

"I was imprisoned on similar charges. I was astonished when a Munich judge found me guilty in absentia and didn't bother calling me before him - with or without my lawyer, who was available and on stand-by and could have appeared with me or at least for me before the judge on a 20-minute notice! ...

"Nevertheless, I was summarily and imperiously convicted to a fine of about $30,000 in Canadian money. The judge simply re- copied the text of the charges by the State prosecutor as my 'conviction' as if they had already proven beyond a reasonable doubt. I was forced to sign this document of shame ...

"The next judge at the appeal level did not allow a single one of my experts who had been flown at my expense to Munich from America. France and from other cities in Germany, to testify. He did not allow a single explanatory document, paper - nothing! - to be submitted into evidence. ... what a disgrace! ...

"I am telling you all this in such detail in order to give you and the Schmidt family an idea what can be expected as the trial of Hans Schmidt proceeds. I reiterate ... that the only way to influence the outcome of the Hans Schmidt case is to spend more money on publicity about the police state tactics of present-day Germany, and to make the case known worldwide and bring pressure to bear on the Germans, rather than to hope for clever legal arguments to convince a German judge whose hands are bound by directions from 'high up'. Hans Schmidt rattled the cage of powerful segments of the current German and US establishment, and now they intend to punish him in what I call an 'impact prosecution' - whereby the 'State,' having all the power at its disposal, singles out an individual to make an example out of him - to inflict pain, suffering, vilification and even incite mob terror against him, so that no one else in the population will have the guts or temerity to challenge the 'powerful and well-connected.'" Power, Ernst Zündel, p.5, 206 Carlton Str.,Toronto, Ont CANADA.

News from South Africa by K.J.

A communist state is emerging - like the one in Russia. The Saxon HNP told its followers to prepare for a similar situation that existed just after the Anglo-Boer war in 1902. Then, our people had to hoist themselves out of the utter devastation in which the country was left and build a civilization once more.

Realization is at last beginning to dawn as to the extent of our complete surrender when you can have amnesty for Blacks and not for Whites.

The government's prime enemy is still the Afrikaners whose history and heritage they intend to wipe out completely. When they changed the names of dams, they left those in Natal having English names strictly alone. Against this background, the export of farmers and soldiers to other African countries becomes understandable. Mercenaries from here fought with the Angolan government, forcing the anti-communist Unita to negotiate. They are now in Sierra Leone fighting against rebels. Apart from salaries to the individuals doing the fighting, this does not benefit the rest of us.

Next on the list are the commandos (militias) that they want to disband. They are made up mostly of volunteers who keep in touch by radio in farming communities and in some areas prevent crime. The government know these people still form a force they have to reckon with and disarming them will be a priority.

Our state hospitals are in a very bad state. An elderly relative of a person at the same firm as our daughter went to a state hospital on the Rand, and as usual nowadays, took his own bed linen and towels along. No sooner did he go to the bathroom when the black staff stole everything. At mealtimes, he was lucky if he got a potato. The old man did not survive the treatment. Intensive Care Units are cleaned out of medical supplies and instruments. We read that the same thing has happened in parliament. Like locusts, they strip and take everything they can.

One lighter remark is the fact that Winnie Mandela, whom Nelson wants to divorce, cannot be caught in order to serve papers on her. She turned up in China, but could not slip in as she usually does. the doors were firmly closed by security men. This is not the treatment that she is used to.

In times like this, Dr. Fanus Serfontein transplants organs in spite of government prohibitions and at no cost to the patient. This has meant much as an example to the rest of us. Young people are moved by ideals more than money.

Strikes are taking place everywhere from hospitals to factories and shops. When it affects our poor postal service it upsets me very much. Hardly any letters came through this last week.

The Chinese who came mostly went back; too much violence here.

The Sunday Times of Oct 29 reports that former Minister of Defense Gen Magnus Malan and ten high-ranking officers were served with warrants of arrest. If this is true it will cause a few waves and may lead to a chain of events. The news seems to be true and might be the beginning of a witch-hunt against all the whites which they want to get rid of a la Nuremberg type trials.

Constand Viljoen tried to gather a few votes when he accompanied AWB wives to Mandela where they pleaded with him to extend the amnesty date to May 10, 1994. How this black enjoys lording it over Afrikaners, and how Viljoen loves to have him do it.

The Citizen of Oct 31st reports that the AWB and the Conservative Party want to unite with Viljoen. Will they never learn! Viljoen is a bad actor and I doubt if he will change.

Afrikaans, our language, finally disappeared from the TV news broadcast last night.

The "Indian influence" on the ANC and the SA Communist Party is becoming noticeable. Although they are only a small minority in the country, the civil service is full of them. More about this next time.

Please keep us in your prayers. With best wishes, K.J.

WHITE MAIDS: "Zulu King Goodwill Zwelithini greeted white maidens Saturday at the annual Reed Dance Ceremony in Nongoma, KwaZulu Natal, where virgins are paraded before the king to choose a wife. This year, white maidens danced for the king for the first time in the traditional Zulu ceremony." Arkansas Democrat Gazette Sept 3, 1995, 6A.

DANGEROUS: South Africa, together with Poland and Hungary, has advanced to the most dangerous tourist destination in the world. ... At least one in 20 visitors must expect to be assaulted, robbed, injured or murdered." Insider PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA, Aug 15, 1995

DISBAND COMMANDOS: "The abolition of the country-wide commando network, which is the first line of civil defense and military security to many rural and urban communities, has been demanded by the ANC's parliamentary caucus. The commandos are part of the country's part-time forces, which number some 240,000 people. Apart from urban commando units in many parts of the country, commandos link almost the entire farming community in a security network through the Marnet radio system." Citizen, Nov 1, 1995.

MANDELA GOT HIS: "The African Bank had to close its doors. When Mandela heard about the bank's problems in his official capacity - a day before the closing - he withdrew his own savings. Nearly a million the story goes. ... " Die Afrikaner, Sept 22-28, 1995

Unfiltered News From America

GUNS: "I normally reside in New Orleans. I made the mistake of coming to Pennsylvania for a funeral. I was pulled over by the Pennsylvania State Police for a traffic violation and ended up with a 'misdemeanor' weapons violation. Possession of an unregistered firearm. The firearm was registered to me in my own state of residence. But since I failed to register it with PA. upon entering their state, I am now sitting in a Yankee prison for a period of 18-36 months. This is a gross injustice if you ask me. Just another instance of government abuse of a citizen." (Copied from The Southern National Newsletter Vol 17, #1, 1995, Southern National Party, PO Box 18214, Memphis, TN 38181, $20/yr.)

TRACTS: "A fellow pastor gave me some of your TRACTS and said he thought I'd enjoy them. To say the very least, I am! I give God praise for sending your tracts into my ministry at such a time when my flock needs them most." Pastor T.J. - S. Carolina

---

PRISONER: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Thank you for the HR. There are 15 people who read each one. It seems that the ITC just can't help themselves. It appears that they are waxing strong, but anyone with a little discernment can see that they're losing their audience, bit by bit, and there isn't a thing they can do about it. They have to do the desperate things they've been doing and its those very things that show more and more people their true nature and make it necessary for them to do still more desperate things. It's still going to be a while in these places for me, the many others, and more to come, but there is light at the end of the tunnel. " Randy Duey - The Order

---

YESTERDAY: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: My pastor and I are trying to find some books which contain the sermons written in the 1700s by the Patriotic Pastors which led to the American Revolution. Information would be appreciated." H.S. - Texas

RKH: In the 1700s, "establishment preachers" were Anglican. Those who weren't were called dissenters. Few of their sermons were written down because that would provide the state with evidence. Read Fair Sunshine to get a feel for that age. One of my ancestors preached to his tiny congregation from a barred window of the Bowling Green jail in Coroline County. Tyranny must suppress the WORD to exist.

CENSORSHIP: "Hoskins Report: Restriction of incoming mail: Racial Newsletter 'Hoskins Report' Nov 1995, No 254 against non-whites, Not allowed per policy." Sgt. Dale(?scribble?), Callam Bay, Washington

RKH: This is the only prison in the US that censored HR 254. I was told that this censor is an anti-White, anti-Christian, Islamic Black. This liberal "anti-truth" shallow mindedness is the type of thing we must all fight.

MARK OF THE WOLF: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: One of your letters commented that swarthy French, Spanish, and Italians look like swarthy Sicilians and Hungarians. A little study will reveal that they are all descended from Arab-Turk invaders. They are the same people. That's why they all look alike." F.G. - Canada

FBI Accused Of Manufacturing Evidence

EXPERT HELP: FBI Special Agent Frederic Whitehurst talked. He told the world that the FBI manufactures evidence. This news has upset America's legal system since there are many thousands of people put in prison because of evidence furnished by the FBI. An AP News release admitted that this "called into question several high-profile government cases, including the bombings of the Oklahoma City federal building, the World Trade Center, and a Georgia mail bomb scheme against federal judges."

FBI Chief Louis J. Freeh said; "The bureau's own ... investigation ... has found no evidence of problems ...." However, there has developed an understandable reluctance on the part of many to rely on unsupported FBI pronouncements. In an effort to put public concerns at rest, a five man team consisting of three foreign government employees and two American state employees are being brought in to "assist" the FBI's investigation of its own crime labs. (Story in News & Advance, A3, Nov 9, 1995)

RKH: Governments espouse "Dharma" to facilitate trade. It is notice that they have been taken over by the International Trade Cartel. The sole purpose of government is to protect Cartel interests. Because of this, employees of one government can be easily interchanged with those of other governments. A five man party of selected individuals will still heed the voice of their master. A clean bill of health is a foregone conclusion.

FBI EARNS KEEP: New York - "A small bomb damaged an unmanned weather station used by air traffic controllers, and a note bearing a swastika claimed that the blast was in retaliation for the raid on the Branch Davidians, ...

"The FBI's Joint Terrorism Task Force, which investigated the World Trade Center bombing, joined the investigation. Police said at ... that they were giving the investigation added emphasis because of the note and because the vandalism occurred as the UN is about to observe its 50th anniversary. ... Police ... said the site ... has been vandalized before. .... News & Advance, 10-15-95, A2

RKH: With an unenviable history of lies, deception, and deceit, and with their labs charged with and being investigated for providing tainted evidence - the FBI is definitely not the organization to investigate anything or anyone. At this moment thousands are in prison because of evidence provided by this organization. How much of it was manufactured? Even the Mafia would be hard pressed to provide a terrorist record of violence equal that of the FBI. The FBI should not be placed in charge of investigating terrorism because it just might be possible that the terrorism being investigated was committed by the FBI itself. Americans have learned the hard way that the FBI is NOT the Mr. Clean of media reports. Their word cannot be relied upon and their record colors everything they do. The FBI is an organization that has outlived its usefulness and should be disbanded. Their job should be taken over by state agencies whose directors are NOT appointed by Washington.

More OJ Fallout

OJ: "Consider the O.J. Simpson verdict ... If this verdict is not an injustice of gross proportions, then I do not understand Divine law and order. Please note: O.J. Simpson was not found innocent, but rather not guilty because Mark Fuhrmann used the word "Nigger" some ten years ago. This was not a murder trial, it was a 'get even' trial." Kingdom Courier, Nov 1995, 5393 Carleton Rd, Mariposa CA 95338, Dr. H. Graber.

RACIAL CARD: "The 'Racial Card' is INTEGRATION; mandated mongrelization/adultery! The Seventh Commandment demands Neither shalt thou commit adultery." Deut 5:18. Adulterate - 1. "To corrupt, debase or make impure by admixture ..." 2. To give a hybrid character to ... " Webster's Dictionary. Kingdom Courier, Nov 1995, 5393 Carleton Rd, Mariposa CA 95338, Dr. H. Graber.

Balanced Budget Charade

If there is $10 in existence - and that is all there is, and, if it is lent to someone under condition that he repay $11 - he can't do it. This is basic.

Ten dollars or ten trillion dollars - the principle is the same. To repay the 11th dollar - it must first be borrowed into existence. Once borrowed into existence, the debtor then owes $11 and must repay $12. It never stops. The debt grows larger and larger. If the debtor does not borrow the 11th dollar into existence to balance the budget - there is no interest to pay the 11th dollar. Then, there is a massive default - the country bankrupts. What happens is that the floating supply of money disappears as people try to make their mortgage payments with what is left of the dwindling floating supply of money. Soon, that is gone and there is no money anywhere, and, there is no new money being borrowed into existence.

This is not theory. This happened in 1840-1841, 1891-1892, and 1930-1931 - in the last part of the other Jubilee cycles. The same thing will doubtless occur once again as Washington's Dog & Pony Show tries to do the impossible once again. If they mandate a balanced budget in the next seven years - sometime in the next seven years there will be a momentous crash as money disappears.

The budget can be balanced only if there is no usury. This will happen only when Christians unite to form their own "Free State." It will happen. There will be two societies. One of "darkness" the other of "light".

MAKING A DIFFERENCE: Spc. Michael G. New, US Army medic, is on trial for refusing to wear UN blue while in the US Army. He argued that it is illegal to place American soldiers under UN authority. New is the only one who stood up for the US army uniform in a sea of people who meekly submitted to wearing UN uniforms. If convicted, New faces a bad-conduct discharge, forfeiture of pay and allowances, and prison for 6 months. Defense lawyer Henry Hamilton demanded a copy of the classified Presidential Decision Directive 25, saying it is the basis of the Army's contention that it was legal to order New to wear a UN uniform.

RKH: Spc. New is a hero. He is making the public aware of problems that they did not know they had. One problem is the Presidential Decision Directive 25 that is "classified." Call it what you will - that is "private law" - a private law that Americans didn't know they had. Private law is made by kings. "Waco Bill" thinks he is a king. If we are going to have kings making their own private law - we should fire Congress, save the money, and let Bill do his thing.

The UN functions as the ITC army. The ITC used to hire nations and their armies to execute their will. In this way they were able to have the North destroy the self-sufficient farm system of the South in the War Between The States, the British Empire do the same to little South Africa in the Boer War, and 32 nations of the World crush Germany in WWII for her bid to become a "free- state." All this involved behind the scenes negotiations, promises, and trade treaties - contracts sometimes difficult to deal with after the event. With NAFTA to break down trade barriers, and the UN army to enforce its will - the ITC is now free to remodel the world into a true international merchants' paradise.

Spc. Michael G. New, by himself, has brought all this into question. One man can make a difference.

Black Nationalism

"As a black S. African and a former member of the ANC, I regret very much that the ANC's Hierarchy is surrounded by Jewish advisors who appear to be out to destroy the Afrikaners, and any hope of reconciliation between the Blacks and Afrikaners.

"Lot of us blacks have come to realize that the Afrikaners were used as front men by the Jews who have hijacked the wealth of this country. During the Apartheid era the Jewish intellectuals, industrialists and money lenders made money by exploiting the Black labourers and the Afrikaner bureaucrats. Indeed they were even instrumental in framing Apartheid laws and perpetuating the exploitation of the Blacks. It appears that they change their colours as often as necessary to control the wealth of the nation. I was sent by the ANC to the former Soviet Union to study communism. I have now realized that communism was nothing but a Jewish ideology to keep the people of the third world hopeful all the while the revolutionary movements were being exploited for their own ends.

"With many ANC decision makers married to Jewish women, maybe because they don't like their own black women (inferiority complex), or maybe they were manipulated by Jews, and many Jews as advisors to the ANC, I see no hope of S. Africa achieving peace and harmony between the racial groups. I hope our leaders come to their senses and realize who their true enemies are, otherwise S. Africa faces ruination and the black man will suffer untold misery." Isaac Maimela, Patriot, Atteridgeville. S. Africa. 7/28/95

Jewish Nationalism

Israel - Yigal Amir shot and killed the Israeli Prime Minister whom he blamed for agreeing to Arabs demands to withdraw from occupied Arab lands - in essence - making peace with Arabs in spite of well known Zionist objectives of an expanded homeland. In 1992, Amir spent 5 months in Latvia, teaching Hebrew to Jewish school children. But newspapers cite security sources as saying that Amir's real job was to protect the Jewish community in Latvia. The Shin Bet trained Amir in marksmanship and protection practices before he was sent abroad.

This most recent assassination is another shot in the war between the Jewish religious-separatists and ITC-internationalists. To the Jewish nationalist, a Jew in danger anywhere in the world is the business of all Jews. To the ITC, anything that interrupts international trade is the enemy. The two are forever at odds. Earlier, Rabbi Kahani, the separatist, was shot by ITC assassins to stop his separatist activities. This time, the Israeli Prime Minister, the agent of the ITC, was shot to stop his integrationist activities. The struggle continues.

Incidently, don't think for a moment that the Arab leader, Yassir Arafat, represents the Arabs, or that our own brave leader in the White House represents Saxons. The establishment kings and priests of the world are created to by the ITC to protect their interests.

Mixed Marriage Damned

MIXED MARRIAGES: "Dear Richard: What is the single most damning indictment of racial intermarriage you have run across?" G. R. - North Carolina

RKH: "If there is any man in Israel who desires to give his daughter or his sister to any man who is of the seed of the Gentiles, he shall surely die .. for Israel is holy to the Lord, and every man that defiles must surely die... And to this law there is no limit of days and no ceasing and no forgiveness ... because he has given of his seed to Moloch ... And thou, Moses, command the children of Israel ... that they shall not give any of their daughters to the Gentiles and that they shall not take any of the daughters of the Gentiles; for this is accursed before the Lord ... And it is disgraceful to Israel to those that give and to those that receive from the Gentiles any daughters, for it is unclean and accursed to Israel; ... for there will be plagues upon plagues, curse upon curse, and all punishment and plagues and curses will come .. and if they blind their eyes to those that commit uncleanness ... then shall the whole people together be punied."Juilees 30:6-13

Back to Table of Contents

1995 - Index

A

abortion
- Blackstone Commentaries.....52
- early Christian beliefs.....50
- law against protestors.....52
- mother shoots unborn baby.....54
- Scriptures.....51

agents provocateur
- S. Africa govt agents.....146

Algeria
- ongoing civil war.....246

AMA
- baby body parts.....199
- elects black president.....207

Anglican Church.....255

Australia
- antisaxonite legislation.....98
- awakes.....209

B

Beckwith, Byron de la
- voice stress test.....155
- wife-72 ill.....54

Blacks
- black 93rd Div WWII.....17

Buddhism.....252

C

Calvin 1509-1564.....68

Cathars.....2

Catholic
- Pope - multiracial society.....156
- priest promotes integration.....202
- priests not punished.....153

Catholic Church.....255
- Pope on integration.....22

Clinton, Hillary Rodham
- interracial adoptions.....204

Crocker, Betty
- new alien looking.....223

Cromwell, Oliver.....71

D

Dalai Lama
- snubbed by UN.....222

Davidians
- personal interview.....153

dharma.....141, 253

Duey, Randy - The Order.....264
- Hill's defense.....75
- Law observations.....133
- program support.....151

Dutch Reformed Church
- S. Africa's state church.....77
- welcomes Mandela.....78

E

England
- English Civil War.....71

England's royals
- Ann's Jewish husband.....101

F

FBI
- bombing involvement.....241
- destroys Oka. City evidence...150
- FBI agent blames FBI.....135
- fear tactics OK. City.....222
- killed Viola Liuzzo.....240
- manufactures evidence.....266
- murder plans overheard.....149
- names victims.....196
- Ruby Ridge coverup.....136
- Ruby Ridge killings.....195
- tradetower bombing.....241
- Waco massacre on film.....196
- wrist-slaps agents.....118

Felderer, Ditlieb.....100

feudalism.....252

foreign tanks
- seen in US.....197

G

German heroes.....88
- Erich Hartmann - 352 planes...89
- Gerardes Mooymann 13 tanks .89
- Hans Jochim Marseille - ace....89
- Hans Ulrich Rudel - battleship.89
- Michael Wittmann - 138 tanks.89

Germany
- 9-million Holocuast.....228
- Dresden holocaust.....226
- Hans Schmidt writings.....258
- Human Rights Watch.....214
- Lutherism of Peasants.....62
- Peasant's War 1524-1526.....61
- reparations.....100
- USSR strike preempted.....101
- Zundel - censorship.....259

Gingrich, Newt.....98, 147, 223

God
- who is God?.....231

gun control.....180

H

Hani, Chris buried by Catholic Church 78
Hati
Aristide welshed takeover 244
Hill, Mike
militia chaplain shot 194
Hill, Rev Paul 136
Calvin on vengeance 32 fair trial 136
Franklin Sanders 33
Hill confuses "Jew" 76 his defense 25 justice vs legal 26 more elaboration 77
Phinehas example 31
Randy Duey - "the guilty" 75 ten objections to disobedience..36 thief breakin in 27
use of force 28
wife reports 151 wisdom vs justice 25
Hindu interracial marriage
"Can Integrationist Be Saved"184
Hinduism 252
world's trade religion 2
holocaust
6-million revised 99
Hoskins, Dr. John H.
black diseases 20
Huguenots 66
Huss, John (1372-1415) 58

I

In The Beginning
new book by Hoskins 251 Interposition
state power vs industry 21
IRA
Gerry Adams meets Viljoen...200

J

Jew word meaning 92
Jewish nationalism 271
Jews
protected by king & church 13 judges sovereign immunity 102 juries
black racism 224

K

Kissinger
knighted by Q. Eliz II 225
Kruger, Paul grave desecrated 146

L

Latin Kingdoms 13 LAW
curses 186
integration & wealth 14
land division 13
land tithe 15
mixed marriages 273
racial separation 3 rich men 141 separating races 204 separation 255
theft 138
trade w/strangers 112
usury 12
vengeance 18
Lee, General Robert E. war statement 132
Liuzzo, Viola killed by FBI 240
Lollards 1381 57
Luther, Martin 60
Lutheran Church 255
Lynchburg
soldier's graves 131
Lynchburg cemetaries 126 brothers .....127 - 128
Gen James Dearing 127
Gen Jubal Early 126
Gen Robert Rodes 129
Lt John Acree 127

M

mayors & media meet 206
McVeigh,Timothy 114

N

Nine Million - book
Germans died after WWII 225
Nunn, Sen welcomes Russian military 161

O

Oklahoma City
fertilizer bomb nixed 244 manufactured event 195 raid on 103 bombing 135

P

Palistine
Israelis OKtorture 247
Partin, Gen Benton
expert witness Okla City 149

Paulicanism....3
Potts, Larry O.
Ruby Ridge coverup....136
privitazation
AT&T buys in S. Africa....79
South Africa for sale....22 program
today's right wing program....121

Q

Quiet Invasion concealed in national parks....165
cop swaps....177
military occupation of US....161
Russian American maneuvers 170

R

Reformation
counter-reformation....73
Roman "truumph"....229

S

Schmidt, Hans
German legal system....258
Germany arrest revisionist....193 Defense Com
forbidden word-list....243
Sellner, Gordon tax-resister shot....185
Serbia
US pays Serb opponents....248
South Africa
black murderer protected....148 black rebel pulls out....270
Cris Hani - Catholic?....145
farmland tax....90
Indian civil service....260
J.A.Marais letter....94
KGB agents seek work....98
Queen visits....142
Viljoen & Mandela plot....248 whites to lose jobs....147 spiritual Israel....93

T

Talmudic Law
on murder....123 tanks
Russian tanks in U.S....115 teeth amalgum fillings outlawed....99 traders....254

U

United States
Anti-Apartheid Act 1986....98

V

viruses
new killer viruses....20

W

Waco
ATF monument stolen....55 evidence withheld....149 false testimony exposed....245 whitewash hearings....241
war
30 Years War - 1618-1648....67 war lords....254
white cells....81

Z

Zundal,Ernst
German milk cow....226
Zwingli, Ulrich (1481-1531)....59

Volksverraad

BETRAYAL

and other stories from

HOSKINS REPORT

1996

Copyright © 2007
by Richard Kelly Hoskins

All rights reserved. No portion of this book may be reproduced without written permission from the publisher except by a reviewer who may quote brief passages in connection with a review.

Published by

Virginia Publishing Company
P. O. Box 997
Lynchburg, Virginia 24505
Phone 434-384-3261

First printing 2007

ISBN 1-881867-22-6
Printed in the United States of America

Also by Richard Kelly Hoskins

OUR NORDIC RACE, 1958
ISBN 1-881867-00-5
Add'l Printings 1958, 1961, 1961, 1962, 1965, 1975, 1986, 1998, 2005
History of the Saxon nation.
$5 copy plus $3 p&h ($5 overseas)

WAR CYCLES/PEACE CYCLES, 1985
ISBN 1-881867-01-3
Add'l printings 1985, 1986, 1991, HB 2000, 2005
History of usury and war. 250 p.
$25/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

VIGILANTES OF CHRISTENDOM, HB 1990
ISBN 1-881867-02-1
Add'l printings sb 1991, 1997, 2005
The Story of the Phineas Priesthood, 472 p. sb
$15/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

THE WOLF & THE SHEEP, 1993
ISBN 1-881867-03-X
Add'l printings 2002
Wolves eat sheep. That's what they do.
Sheep try to keep from being eaten. That's what they do. 78 p. sb
$5/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

IN THE BEGINNING, 1995
ISBN 1-881867-04-8
The Hindu takeover of Western business, politics,and religion. 249 p. sb.
$15/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

Virginia residents add 5% sales tax

1996 - Table Of Contents

256 - THEOCRACY: All states are ruled by a God of the people or the state God.....1

257 - FALSE IDENTITY: The Biblical anti-christ confesses that the Saxon is ancient Israel.....25

258 - MODUS OPERANDI: The White S. Africans' refusal to admit Black labor led to the Boer War.....47

259 - TIMOTHY MCVEIGH: David Lane of The Order warns against kangaroo trial.....69

260 - FINAL SOLUTION: To destroy the Saxon by intermarriage with strangers 87

261 - THE ELECTRONIC IRON CURTAIN: Coming internet censorship 105

262 - STATE OF THE SAXON UNION: Includes political, media, economic and rituals. 125

263 - EMPIRE CYCLE: From self-sufficient farm to kingdom, to Empire and back again 149

264 - MISSIONARY: Agents sent to wage religious and psychological warfare. 171

265 - "VOLKSVERRAAD": South Africa betrayed by her own church and politicians.....193

266 - SAXON IDENTITY: Tracing ancestors back to the patriarchs.....215

267 - SLAVE REVOLT: The world is learning about Hindu "Dharma" conquest.....239

INDEX 263

Chapter 256

THEOCRACY

Definition Of Theocracy

THEOCRACY - a state ruled by God.

Noah Webster's 1st Edition, 1828 defines theocracy in the following manner:

> "THEOCRACY: Government of a state by the immediate direction of God; or state thus governed. Of this species the Israelites furnish an illustrious example. The theocracy lasted until the time of Saul."

The Oxford American Dictionary, 1980 defines theocracy:

> THEOCRACY: 1. A form of government by God or a god directly, or through a priestly order. 2. a state having this form of government."

All States Are Theocracies

All rulers claim that they follow the dictates of a power or an intelligence greater than their own, and, that they and the state are merely agents of this greater power. If this defines a god - even communist states bow to the all powerful intellectual god of Marxism/Leninism.

Three Western Theocracies

Traditionally, Western governments have claimed that their power to rule is granted by the Christian God. This power - this will of God - is transmitted to those being ruled in three distinctly different manners by three distinctly different groups - each claiming this right from God. These are:

1: theocracy by priests
2: theocracy by the individual
3: theocracy by the state

1. Theocracy By Priests

The little known independent episcopal[1] Hindu priesthood of India is the most powerful example of a self- perpetuating priestly theocracy.

The Roman Catholic Church in the West is the best known example of a self-perpetuating priestly theocracy.

The next best-known example of a self-perpetuating priestly theocracy is the Anglican Church of England, an offshoot of the Catholic Church.

Priest and state combine in an episcopacy that rules from the top down, selecting its own relatively ideologically sound replacements. Like the others, Anglican priests may be individually poor, but the wealth of the Anglican Church makes it a major factor in international trade and finance.

1 "Episcopal" - rule from the top down vs. "presbytery" - rule from the bottom up.

There is a tacit understanding between the three major groups.[2]

(The best-known example of American Christianity is the Judeo- Christianity of the televangelists. It is a missionary outreach of another and as such has no real power except from its propaganda.)

2. Theocracy By The Individual

The Roman Catholic Church ruled Europe for a millennium and a half. It was corrupt and tyrannical. Certain Roman Catholic priests started a reform movement called the "Reformation." The leaders of the Reformation placed their new movement under the protection of local rulers who were looking for an excuse not to forward their tax and tithe collections to Rome.

Unlike the Roman Catholic Church where only priests were allowed to read Holy Scripture, the Reformation encouraged all to study God's WORD, claiming the priesthood of the individual: "Jesus Christ... hath made us kings and priests." Rev 1:5-6. These new priests read secrets long concealed and one of the first things they learned was the following:

> "And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Son of man, say ... There is a conspiracy of her prophets in the midst thereof, ... they have devoured souls; they have taken the treasure and precious things; ... Her priests have violated my law, ... they have put no difference between the holy and the profane, neither have they showed difference between the unclean and the clean ... and I am profaned among them. Her princes ... are like wolves ravening the prey, to shed blood, and to destroy souls, to get dishonest gain." Ezek 22:23-27

2 Omitted are the Methodists, Mormons, Moonies and other Buddhist groups, etc.

This scripture was first used against the priests of the Catholic Church, and next against the kings employed by them. But, as knowledge of the Scriptures spread it was taken to mean a close watch should be kept on ANY professional priesthood and ANY state that attempted to subvert God's WORD - Protestant or Catholic.

The former Catholic Priests who were the leaders of the Reformation merely attempted to reform the Catholic Church - to reform the existing organized religion. Growing knowledge of the Scriptures drastically expanded this vision as the people learned the requirements of the WORD and cast about for a way to put God's Commands into action. Banding together, they went far beyond what the reformers intended.

The Revolution

The Reformation turned into a revolution as the realization dawned that each Christian had been appointed king and priest and was responsible individually to God. These newfound priests determined to do all that Scripture required. They took and divided the land that had been taken from the people by both the Church and the kings.[3] They banned taxes

3 "Joshua divided the whole land by lots to Israel for an inheritance, as the Lord had commanded him." Jasher 90:19; "The land shall be divided for an inheritance ... To many thou shalt give the more ... to few thou shalt give the less ... the land shall be divided by lot: according to ... their fathers they shall inherit ..." Num 26:53- 55

since taxes were forbidden[4] and they quickly disobeyed kings who disobeyed God's Commands,[5] and when kings failed to punish transgressors of the Law - the people did it[6] themselves in order to avoid God's punishment for disobedience to the WORD that falls on all who fail to obey the Law.[7]

Reaction Of Establishment Kings & Priests

The Kings of northern Europe, wishing to keep for themselves the lands and taxing powers they held from the Catholic Church, had an economic incentive to support the original Reformation. When the people went beyond and began seizing the lands claimed by them and dividing them and refusing to pay taxes - the kings became the enemies of the people.[8] To regain these lands and rents these Protestant kings turned on

4 "Of whom do the kings of the earth take custom or tribute? of their own children, or of strangers? Peter saith unto him, Of strangers." (Gr: allotrios - foreign, not akin.) Matt 17:25- 26

5 "We must obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29

6 "The hands of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterward the hands of all the people." Deut 17:7.

7 "If thou wilt not ... do all the words of the law ... the Lord will make thy plagues ... great plagues, and of long continuance, and sore sicknesses ... all the diseases of Egypt ... they shall cleave unto thee. Also every sickness, and every plague ... until thou be destroyed. And ye will be left few in number ... because thou wouldest not obey the voice of the lord thy God ... ye shall be plucked from off the land ... and thou shall fear day and night, and shalt have none assurance of thy life." Deut 58:66

8 Kings are always the enemy of God's people; "Then all the elders of Israel ... came to Samuel ... make us a king to judge us like all the nations. ... And the Lord said ... the people ... they have not rejected thee, but they have rejected me, that I should not reign over them. ... And Samuel told all the words of the Lord ... 'This will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you: He will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen ... he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them ... And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give to his officers, and to his servants. ... He shall take the tenth of your sheep: and ye shall be his servants. And ye shall cry out in the day because of your king which ye shall have chosen you; and the Lord will not hear you in that day.'" I Sam 8:11- 18

their former Protestant subjects and slaughtered them by the tens of thousands to prevent their setting up a theocracy of the people. The revolution died in a river of blood. Except for a flicker that has continued to this day - the flame of the Reformation died.[9]

The Catholic Church looked on. As soon as it had beaten back the Turk invasion of Austria, it called for a fresh crusade to reclaim its lost lands and revenues now in the hands of Protestant kings. Its Catholic kings obediently marched against the northern Protestant Kings launching the Thirty Years War that left parts of Germany with only 10% of its former population. Millions had died.

3. Theocracy By The State[10]

Both Protestant and Catholic kings learned a great lesson from the Reformation.

The first lesson was; "keep religion on a tight leash." This means both the presbytery Protestant revolutionaries trying to create God's theocracy here on earth, and the Catholic Church trying to regain its lands and taxes. Both were a danger. The Protestant revolutionaries had taken the kings' land and taxes - and the Catholic Church had caused a war between the Catholic and Protestant kings that almost killed every second person in Europe, making it almost worthless for business.

9 The first Reformation is discussed in "In The Beginning ... Hoskins,

10 Readers must always remember that "states" are creations of the International Trade Cartel (ITC). States are created to protect and expedite trade - not to represent the interests of the people. The people are property that go with the state. They are there to produce the goods and services needed. They are "wage-slaves." The same applies to organized religion. The ITC must control both the priest and the king or it cannot exist.

With this threat hanging over the heads of both Protestant and Catholic kings, the kings developed a simple method to control religion and use it to bless their own operation. They turned organized religion into a state religion - a state theocracy. The Lutheran religion became a state religion in north Europe, and the Catholic religion and its off-shoots became a state religion in south Europe and elsewhere.

The local king simply appointed the head of the local religion. Those appointed were politically reliable. The result was that the state supported the church and the church supported the state. In this manner this state theocracy blessed everything the state did and the state gave religion economic advantages such as tax exemption. The state theocracy was set up to bless that which God cursed - and it did. State theocracies quickly multiplied.

The King of England, holding his realm en fief from the Pope, announced that from now on he, not the Pope, was God's chosen representative on earth and from then on he was going to appoint the leaders of his own personal Anglican Church - and he did. His appointees were very loyal.

The kings and governments of the German and Scandinavian states appointed leaders of their own Lutheran Churches. They, too, were very loyal to the one who appointed them.

In spite of vehement denials from the Vatican, the kings of Catholic nations, with few exceptions, managed to have veto privilege in the selection of Catholic bishops appointed to head their own national Catholic Churches. These bishops were expected to side with the king against the Vatican itself, and they usually did.

As a consequence of this loss of political power to its hired kings, the Vatican's main effort has been "mission work" with its Jesuit schools manufacturing "fanatics" who quickly become the usual nominal Catholics upon graduation. The visible effort has been "show-business" and the promotion of "Dharma" necessary for the furtherance of its vast business operations.

Judeo-Christian Religion

The Jews have occupied a special protected place in the West. In addition to being the international trader transporting goods from East to West, they were also required to do those things that Western Christians could not do - such as lending money at usury and collecting taxes.

As strangers, they were friendless in Christian lands and became servants of the Catholic Church which numbered them and farmed them out to its hired kings. Constantly abused and railed at, the Jews were always carefully protected from real harm - they were too valuable.

The Crusades and the Reformation, times of death and destruction arising from religious differences, caused a reaction against the Jews that nearly caused them to be expelled from the West.

In the years following, they were largely left out of governing and religious councils of the West. This was serious, because international traders must have agreements with both kings and priests for their personal safety and the safety of their goods. This was especially true in America, since the people were religious and the WORD that they followed caused Christian America to continuously verge on the outright rejection of both the international trader and his trade. The Jew could never be sure if or when he and his goods would be banned entirely.[11]

A New Religion

The solution decided upon was simple. It was to insert "Dharma" into existing evangelical Christianity without changing anything else.[12] Dharma neutralizes all religions - including Christianity. Almost overnight Christianity was made harmless to the alien and his trade. TV's Dharmatized Christianity appeared in the households of almost every American family. Overnight it became America's religion. Billy Graham was chosen "pope" of evangelical Protestant Christianity and he made regular visits to the White House to bless all that was going on.

Today's State

The government of every modern-day Saxon state is hand picked by the ITC media. The media managers select candidates and publicize them, and ignore all others. People vote for candidates they know. The only ones they know are the ones the media tells them about. These ITC selected political agents then take office to protect the cartel and its agents from irate citizens.

All people follow their gods. The Saxons' God is the 11 "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (2114), thou art snared with the words of thy mouth. Pr. 6:1; "They shall not dwell in thy land; and thou shall drive them out before thee." Ex 23:31; "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me. I Ki 4:21

12 "DHARMA:" Buddhist teaching to pacify divergent populations; to facilitate rule and expedite trade. Dharma - acceptance, non-violence, and tolerance of different peoples and their gods and obedience to one's rulers.

WORD. The WORD excludes strangers and their goods. The ITC media owners replaced watchmen of the WORD with their own hand selected televangelists. To keep their jobs, the televangelists act as a state religion and bless that which God curses. The loyalty of the rest of organized religion is assured by 501(c)3 tax exemptions granted by ITC office holders (kings) put in office by the media owners.

The Logical Sequence

Once one has accepted the fact that the media owners are the ones who actually hand pick both government and god for the Christian West, the next question arises - WHO owns the media that has done these things?

We were told that Robert Maxwell was the most powerful man in Europe, the owner of newspaper, radio and TV chains. What was not told us was the fact that he did not own these companies, he was only managing them. The media also reported the allegations that he was also skimming from the companies he managed and as a result was found floating in the Atlantic. When this happened, the banks descended on his estate to claim what was theirs. Thus, Robert Maxwell's untimely death revealed that the banks were the real owners of his media empire.

Next question - who owns the banks? The media tells us that "it is the people who are the bank stockholders." However, we remember that in 1973 when a number of Swiss banks went into default it was revealed that they were owned by the Vatican. That could not be, because usury is forbidden to Christians! The Catholic Church has written volumes against usury.[13] Yet, there it was.

Since then there have been other Catholic Church bank defaults - big, expensive ones - banks that no one knew were owned by the Catholic Church. How many other other banks owned by the Catholic Church have NOT defaulted? Perhaps ninety-nine percent haven't.

The newspapers reported that the Queen of Britain was caught in the closings of a major US midwest bank and more recently in the recent default of Baring Bank. This is more than "a human interest story." The Queen of Britain is not only a Queen, she is head of the Anglican Church and God's representative on earth. Thus, the Anglican Church is also up to its ears in usury.[14]

How many other major factors are in the usury business? We know that usury banking originated in India. We know that many offshore banks in the Caribbean are staffed by Indians and that they are now showing up in force in financial institutions all over Wall Street. Why are they there? To keep tab on their banking interests? It might be safe to surmise that in addition to the Catholic Church and Anglican Church, the Brahman priesthood of India continues to occupy a substantial place in usury banking.

We are told that the Jews are the usurers - the Rothschields and all the rest. I'm not convinced that the Jews are any more than "the ones who manage for others." We are regaled with stories of multi-billionaire Jews who made their start a few decades ago, penniless, and by the dent of hard work, saving their pennies, etc. have become billionaires. This is supposed to explain how they accumulated their great wealth. This is the story handed out about Rupert Murdoch, the current media mogul of Australia and the United States. Why is he different from Robert Maxwell? Which is easier - to save your pennies and become a billionaire - or to be given a few billion to manage?

13 "Hath given forth upon usury, and hath taken increase ... he shall surely die." Ezek 18:13

14 "For if we sin willfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins." Heb 10:26

Let's look at another case - Henry Ford. He wasn't a Jew - he was a Catholic. He was presented to the world as an Anti-Semitic right-winger, a car manufacturer who suddenly became enormously successful and made billions. This right wing anti-semite left his money to a left-wing pro-semite communist- leaning trust - the "Ford Fund For The Republic." Do you believe that a smart fellow like Henry Ford would do something stupid like that with his own money? Somebody else's money perhaps - but his own? Could Ford have been a right wing conservative all his life and then leave his considerable wealth in trust for leftwing causes? It would be more believable if Henry Ford was, like Robert Maxwell, a "money manager" who had no say over how the money he managed was to be used after his death. This begs another question - if Henry Ford was a money manager - a money manager for whom?

Conclusion

There are things that we do know. We know that Christians are leaving organized religion in droves. They sense a wolf in sheep's clothing. Logic reveals that both our government and our religion have been created for us by the media. Maxwell's untimely death revealed to us that these same media are owned by the banks. Catholic and Protestant bank failures have shown us that organized religion is up to its ears in bank ownership and the practice of "usury." The Scriptures teach us that usury is grouped along with murder.[15] This means that these people are capable of anything - ANYTHING! The Anglican Protestants saw nothing wrong with British death camps in S. Africa nor the slaughter of congregations meeting in fields and woods of Scotland. The Catholic Church saw nothing wrong in the 1641 slaughter of almost half the non-Catholic population of Northern Ireland. All together these things explain what the prophets knew from the beginning.

> "We wrestle not against flesh and blood - but against principalities - [16] against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world - [17] against spiritual wickedness in high places." Eph 6:12[18]

These same Scriptures confirm who started the "round robin" in the beginning and who keeps it turning today. It is called "Babylon." The Scriptures say that Babylon is run by the merchants of the international trade cartel for their insatiable love of money.[19]

The Scriptures say this about them: "A merchant shall hardly keep himself from doing wrong." Ecclesiasticus 26:29. The Scriptures also tell us the end of the story:

> "Babylon ... the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich though the abundance of her delicacies." Rev 18:2-3; "The kings of the earth,

15 Ezek 18:8-13

16 Principalities are managerial districts created by the ITC to organize their trade.

17 The ITC together with their false priests and kings.

18 The Godless watchmen who know to do good and do it not.

19 "The love of money is the root of all evil." I Ti 6:10 who have committed fornication and lived deliciously with her, shall bewail her, and lament for her, when they shall see the smoke of her burning." Rev 18:9; "And the merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her; for no man buyeth their merchandise any more." Rev 18:11; "Alas, that great city, wherein were made rich all that had ships in the sea by reason of her costliness." Rev 18:19; "Babylon ... for thy merchants were the great men of the earth." Rev18:21,23

A Christmas Story

Yes Virginia - there is a theocracy. Today it is the false theocracy of the priest and state - creations of the merchants' trade cartel. Tomorrow, things will be different, the theocracy will be the theocracy of God the WORD.

News From S. Africa by K.J.

The Truth Commission's members outbid each other on what they intend doing to apartheid criminals. It is the Blacks' opportunity to take revenge on Whites with Indians figuring in largely. Strangely, few Jews are seen, while the establishment media have articles at every opportunity about the Nuremberg trials and Nazi Germany. They have articles about every person they manage to drag into court overseas on what they call "hate crimes" and comment on how this would help to heal the country here.

I am sending you articles on the arrest of General Malan and the others. At their first appearance in court the same type of crowd turned up that attended the Derby-Lewis trial. The government took the unusual step of calling a meeting with all foreign ambassadors just before Malan's arrest. The feeling exists that this is only the beginning of more to come.

During the visit by Helmut Kohl of Germany he made the statement that war could break out in South Africa. It would come from ordinary Whites. In the latest Patriot of November 17-23, Dr. Macke mentions that it was heard in Atlanta last weekend that war in South Africa was expected within 4 months and that it is not safe to travel to South Africa.

In reality we are already in a low intensity war which could escalate. There are daily attacks on Whites and Zulus and it may develop into a full scale war, but I have no idea who will lead. We can only pray that it will be governed by God's Law. We no longer enjoy one night's peaceful sleep with the hordes of robbing, murdering Blacks roaming the countryside.

After a series of burglaries, we phoned the local police station to be told that we cannot defend ourselves. I was refereed to a police chaplain who told me in a smooth voice about taking the law into one's own hands and that there are still good policemen. Then he came to obedience to authority and Romans 13. I told him to read the scriptures about obeying God rather than man. He promised to send the police to see me, and sure enough, a police Colonel came who told me it was perfectly legal to defend person and property. He gave me the latest case law supporting it. We had a long talk and we talked about the uncertainties worrying him. He left with a lot of information including "Whose Laws" from Hoskins Report. Soon he must reapply for his position with the police. There is a good chance it will go to a Black.

Much has happened these past weeks that has been unreported and misreported by the media. P.W. Botha, former president, phoned Jaap Marais before his meeting with Mandela and Viljoen, held at their request. Apparently Mandela wanted P.W. to admit to the guilt of the generals - which he absolutely refused to do. I am told that the upcoming S. African Nuremberg Trials have become an embarrassment to the government. In the meantime, the Conservative Party leader has come under so much fire from Whites who don't think that he is standing for their rights that he has offered to resign.

It is interesting how the Mail & Guardian pro-communist newspaper pounced on the Botha-Mandela meeting. This is a Jewish newspaper funded by the Astors from London and carries on the same kind of media vituperation that occurred a century ago. For the ordinary person, the hatred displayed by the English crown against White S. Africans is not easy to understand. A recent story in Rapport of 26 Nov states that very little of England is owned by ordinary people; that the establishment possesses the English soil. The fact that so many S. Africans still own their own land may account for the crown's display of ill will.

DeKlerk has become a joke, just as Mandela said. He only comes to S. Africa for short intervals and the rest of the time he and his wife Marike travel to the world's vacation spots. He is not shy about enjoying the benefits of his enormous salary.

White S. African Christians now own 42 schools. Four of these are in the Cape Province, 1 in Natal, and the rest in the Free State and Transvaal. One feels truly sorry for Afrikaans children who have to share their schools with Blacks. Many parents cannot afford private schools. Young Whites who graduate find it difficult to get work.

The O.J. defense lawyer Cochran turned up here for a visit and something tells me it is not for nothing. After all, he had great success with his 'race card" during the trial.

Until next time - KJ

LETTERS

THE SOUTH & TRADE: "Dear Dick: The American Civil War was fought over the issue of high tariffs for the North with a corresponding depredation of the South's economy largely based on export cotton. Would you, as a Southerner, advocate a freer trade policy, which would have favored the South before the Civil War, or one of high tariffs which would have benefited the North, and is the choice of many of today's patriotic groups?" M.E. - California

RKH: The "Self-Sufficient Farm System" is central to our survival - I would do everything to promote and protect it. This would call for high tariffs to discourage imports and encourage local cottage industry to furnish things needed. Also, high tariffs should be put in place against manufactured goods from other sections of the country - for the same reason. If that were done - heavy industry belonging to the ITC would die on the vine - and the "Self-Sufficient Farm System" with its allied cottage industries would reign supreme. The owner of the self-sufficient farm would reign as king and priest, under God.

Frankly, everything today is falling into place for just such a scenario. Heavy industry is leaving the country. Saxons are being abused and exploited. In time they will find their leader who will seize corporate land, divide it, raise tariffs to cut off imports and encourage cottage industry, and stop the distribution of mass manufacture of goods from American cities. Think it through. After the people are fed, the demand for all sorts of things will develop instantly. Someone will have to make the shoes, tools, clothes, blankets, transportation vehicles. etc. Someone will have to produce the ethanol to fuel them.

What about defense? Who says that we have to fight an invader with conventional weapons and conventional warfare? We will have a ready-made army, the militia, armed with cottage produced anti- tank and anti-aircraft missiles - which I am confident our people can make with their cottage industry. The South, with a quarter the population of the North, fielded an army half the size of the union army, built torpedoes, the first submarine to sink a ship in war, a score of formidable ironclads that when compared ship to ship, were more powerful than those of the North, and they used revolutionary artillery tactics, storm tactics, and tunnel warfare at Petersburg.

Little South Africa fought the entire British Empire - and almost whipped it, and WWII Germany - struggling to be free from ITC bonds, fought 32 nations - and almost won. The ITC fears the fragmentation of its cartel and the rebirth of the self- sufficient farm system like hell fears water, and with good reason. The rebirth of the one means the death of the other. The workers of darkness do not welcome light.

HINDU: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: You stated in HR #254 that the WORD was the thing important and that the name Jesus was not. That makes you a Hindu." G.S. - Virginia

RKH: You still don't get it! There are 50,000 people named Jesus in Cuba and another 100,000 in the rest of Central and S. America. Which one of them is "the one"? The scripture says that "His name is called The Word of God." Re 19:13. If the WORD is his name - that is his name!

PRISONER: "Dear Publisher; Your NL is right on target. Most important is that I find nothing in the news about facts you relate until much later. Thank your subscribers for me."

G. R. - Prisoner, Michigan

DE LA BECKWITH:"My Dear Compatriot RKH: While enjoying my 3rd or 4th reading of your superb work, Vig. Of Christ., p. 80, I was delighted to see that Bartholomew H. - age 15 arrived in Jamestown 1615 - Bully! Bully! old Chap - ! Which reminded me that on p. 19, Glory In Conflict, my story by R.W. Scott, it relates that William Beckwith arrived in Jamestown in 1607 aboard the good ship "Phoenix" - and joined up with Capt. John Smith. And on over a few pages it seems like there were over 50 Beckwiths who fought in the American Revolution - ! It is no wonder I feel so close to people with like heritage. And, hell yes! I'm still fighting - yes too - there is lots more to do - and of course we are still fighting the same enemies - as we continue our occupancy until He comes." Byron de la Beckwith VI, PO Box 1452, Jackson, MS 39215

RKH: There are numerous reports appearing in the alternate media alleging that a retired FBI agent has confessed to planting explosives in Beckwith's car causing him to be sentenced to a lengthy prison term. He said that he did it on instructions from his superiors. De La Beckwith's book is Glory In Conflict, Camark Press, PO Box 123, Camden, AK 71701, $12/copy plus $2 p&h.

REVOLUTIONARY WAR PREACHERS: Dear Mr. Hoskins: I have read books on Revolutionary War preachers and their sermons. There is The Chaplains and Clergy of the Revolution by J. T. Headley, a book by Colin McIntire put out in the '70s. Both can be gotten from the Christian Patriot Assn, PO Box 596, Boring, OR 97009. Pastor Bob Hallstrom of Gospel Ministries, PO Box 9411, Boise, ID 83707 has information on this subject. Ask for newsletter 11/95." E. M. - New Jersey

---

PRISONER: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Just arrived in this new prison. Have met several of the brethren here. They are young and young in the WORD, but diligently seeking. You will be hearing from 2 or 3 of them soon. The 'Awakening' continues. Yah bless & Thanks." J.S. - California

News From Australia

INVADED! "Dear Richard: We are a Christian family and have been warned about the Babylonian system approximately 10 years ago. During the past years we have prepared by becoming totally debt free and now we are seeking a path of wisdom for the current time.

Australia has become overrun with Asians who quickly take control of sectors of the food industry and government positions. Our councils, industries, government departments, and defense force are all privatised to nominees who represent the bankers. Australia will soon be an unfriendly place for both Christians and Caucasians. We want to do something for our family before the Kangaroo Curtain cuts us off." M.R. - NSW, Australia

---

ENDANGERED SPECIES: "Under the cloak of tolerance racial integration and religious syncretism are being promoted not worldwide but in the 'white' Christian countries. Healthy nationalism, white racial pride and immigration control are condemned as xenophobia and racism. In 1900, 20% of the world's population was white, but in 1990 it was only 7%. Today only one in every 40 babies born is white, while the white nations continually feed and subsidize the expansion of other races. At the present rate of decrease it is estimated that the demise of the white population will be irreversible by the mid 21st Century." (B.I.W.F., Bookroom and Library, 6 Palmerston Street, Camberwell, VIC, 3124, AUSTRALIA, May 95; TKC, Aug 1995.)

An Opinion From Argentina

GAME IS UP: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I have read your book, War Cycles /Peace Cycles. I am curious about some political situations in the U.S. Take the case of Strom Thurmond: How do you explain his political odyssey from being a Dixiecrat in 1948, a Wallace supporter later, and then his change to the Republican Party, and finally his fervent repentance for his 'racist views' as he hugged the new U.S. Senator from Illinois, the black woman, Carol Braun (Or is the politically correct term now African- American?). Wasn't there recently a conclave of Baptists of all colors who voted repentance for their former 'racist' Church denomination? In other words, 'isn't the game up?' Shouldn't all whites join the integration bandwagon? It appears that 'The South' is at last Reconstructed!" D. B. - Argentina

RKH: I remember standing at a stoplight in the rain handing out Strom Thurmond's campaign literature. I was young and didn't understand how the "democratic" system worked. Later I discovered that "the media" selected a "conservative" and a "liberal" and gave both publicity. All others were blacked out. Those selected were the only ones the voters were told about. In effect, those selected were beholden to the owners of the media for their election. People voted for the media-selected one they liked best, or hated least, and one of the two was elected. It's all very "democratic." Once elected, the media's man appoints judges. The judges rule that what the "media-agent" does is legal. The result is a "democratic" system more tyrannical than that of King George. Strom Thurmond posed as a "conservative." There are hundreds like him. The whole lot can switch from conservative to liberal tomorrow and back again the day following without a twinge. The trouble is - people have now figured it out.

Re "Reconstruction:" There is something you don't understand. I sit at my desk for days and receive only an occasional call. Then - for no apparent reason I will get 15 or 20 calls a day all dealing with the same subject. Why is one time period different from the next? Is there some invisible thread holding a certain kind of people together - something that makes them do the same thing at the same time?

Sure, there is. An example: The papers are full of Ruby Ridge, but, they aren't going to tell you the rest of the story. I was at a Church meeting in Colorado at the very time the Feds were making their move. The grapevine brought us word that the feds had killed Randy Weaver's son and were trying to kill the rest of the family. We immediately called a prayer session and hundreds streamed in to participate. We also got word to Bo Gritz to try to go up there and see what he could do. The Feds wouldn't let Bo Gritz talk to Randy Weaver, and the national media killed all press releases. But still, the feds didn't kill them all. I am convinced that the only reason that Ruby Ridge didn't end like Waco - with everyone dead - were the combined prayers of Christians that night.

In the 1870s, in spite of what the history books say - America was in bad shape. Corruption, violent crime and interracial marriage were rampant. Then - it stopped. North, South, East, and West. God's COMMANDS were obeyed, at the same instant, everywhere. God heard his people and delivered those made in His image. The WORD gives us life.[20]

Unconditional Surrender

AXIS ATTEMPTS SURRENDER: Rome - "Newly declassified US documents suggest that both Germany and Japan, using the Vatican, tried to end WWII before they were forced to surrender unconditionally. Secret US-Japanese talks in Rome would appear to be a major revelation, although a Vatican historian cast doubt that any such meeting ever took place, but the historian confirmed that contacts between the Vatican and Germany were made." Richmond Times Dispatch, April 15, 1995, A4

RKH: If Vatican commercial interests were pressing for an economically advantageous "non-conditional surrender" - it would have been economic foolishness to work for a less advantageous "conditional" surrender. The question is still being asked as to the relationship between the Vatican banks and the banks of both post-war Japan and Germany.

NOTICE

Hans Schmidt's trial is being pushed forward to the first week in January. Pray for his persecutors. Call and write! They are trying to dispose of Hans before an international incident develops over his case. This is another form of Ruby Ridge and Waco tyranny. The world must be told that Ameri-

20 "To me belongeth vengeance, and recompense." Deut 32:35 can citizens cannot be jailed by foreigners for what they write in the United States.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 257

FALSE IDENTITY

The Ad

A few months ago I received an advertisement from the new country of Israel about a "Revolutionary New Discovery." The discovery was that the people of northern Europe were descended from the ancient Israelites. I sent for the book and received The Tribes, The Israelite Origins Of Western Peoples.[1]

This book was one more Jewish-authored book revealing "the amazing discovery that Saxons[2] are Israel." It contained most of the same proofs that Bible students have long known. It came with maps of the migrations of the tribes of the early

1 Tribes, Yair Davidy, Susia, Hebron Mountains 90401, Israel. 480p. sb.

2 "They shall put my name upon the children of Israel." Num 6:27 - "Christian." And: "In Isaac shall thy name be called." Romans 9:7. Isaac-sons - "Saxons."

Israelite-Saxons, their final places of settlement, and the counties in which they settled - Naphtali to Norway; Asher and Gad to Britain, Scandinavia and Germany; Dan to Denmark, etc.

Ben Israel's Argument

The Jews have always known the truth about Saxon-Israel and have used the information, or not used it, as circumstances demanded. The entry of the Jews into Britain was a time when they needed to use it.

The background

Henry VIII declared himself head of the Roman Catholic Church in Britain. He renamed it the Anglican Catholic Church, appointed his own bishops, confiscated vast church properties, destroyed church monasteries (the training schools for Roman Catholic business managers), and banished the Catholic Priests who would not work for his own Anglican religion. This left virtually no one in Britain to manage unseized Roman Catholic Church businesses and manage them under earlier trade agreements. Managers were desperately needed.

The "someone" selected were the traditional bankers and servants of the Roman Catholic Church - the Jews. However, there were no Jews in England. They had been banished by an irate Britain in 1290 after having been first admitted in 1066 to practice their usury banking.[3]

Manassah Ben Israel occupied the same place in his day

3 Half the proceeds of each foreclosure went to the king. When the usurer died all foreclosed property went to the RC Church and his money went to the king.

that Robert Maxwell did and Rupert Murdock does today. In addition to his banking and trade operation out of Holland, the center of world trade, he directed public opinion through his book business - the predecessor of modern mass media.

Ben Israel was assigned the project of getting the Jews into England. To rally public support he published a book in 1650 named The Hope Of Israel. This book used the familiar Saxon-Israel argument with a twist. It went this way: Since Britain already contained the 10 tribes of Israel, the addition of the Jew, which contained Judah and Benjamin, would cause Israel to be the complete 12 tribes. Once that happened, the second coming of the Messiah could then be expected.

The book was sent to the "fundamentalists" of the time to build a following. With this backing, Ben Israel then petitioned Oliver Cromwell to allow the Jews to enter England. Oliver Cromwell was already in his pocket. A loan of a couple of million gold pieces kept him there. Oliver Cromwell got his money, the Jews got a new market in which to distribute goods from the spice trade, the Catholic Church got managers for their undiscovered assets, and the Anglo-Saxon got the Bank of England a few years later.

Saxon-Israel history has been known by friend and foe for a very long time, and has been used AGAINST the Saxon as much as FOR him.

Saxon Identity & The Establishment Church

Through the years the Jews have been relatively honest when discussing early Saxon history. The same does not apply to the Establishment Church (EC). The Jews win credibility by being relatively honest; the EC risks losing everything if they are honest. Each time the Jews announce their Saxon-Israel "new discovery," the EC treats the new discovery with silence - sometimes with "pooh-poohs." The Jews delight in bringing up the subject for a number of reasons; they enjoy tweaking the nose of the Establishment Church, which holds their fate in their hands; they really don't like the Christian religion very much; they make money each time they make their "new discovery" announcement; and they use the subject to help them keep their primary job - which is to distribute the goods of the ancient spice trade.

What Organized Religion Fears

Announcements of the discovery that the Saxon people are descended from the ancient tribes of Israel are treated by the established church as "non-events." The EC cannot recognize another rival to this title. The reason is that centuries ago it co-opted the title "Israel" from the Saxon people for itself. They co-opted it for a reason. Strong's Concordance translates the word "Israel" in the Hebrew to mean, "He will rule as God." Armed with this title and the authority it bestows, the establishment church (both Catholic and Protestant) claim the right to "rule as God" because of the power that resides in the name "Israel." This is how non-Scriptual "spiritual Israel" was born.[4]

Today, the establishment church needs that title as much as it ever did. How else can it explain away the brutality of its kings, the venality of its bankers, its land monopoly, its trade monopoly, its taxes, its adultury and the flagrant immor-

4 Saxons are forbidden to bear the name "Israel" today. In ancient Palestine, and before being scattered over the world, God said he would give Israel a new name: The Lord God shall ... call his servants by another name." Isaiah 65:15 (Hos 2:17). True Israel can't be called "Israel." God gave them his name - "Christian," and Isaac's name - "Saxon."

ality of its clergy. Armed with God's power of attorney that resides in the name "Israel" - it speaks for God and can do no wrong. Not for one second can it afford to have Saxons learn that it is they and not the church that is Israel. Once Saxons learn who they are they will rise up and strip the priests of their power, the Churches and their governments of their riches and divide the land and rule themselves according to Scripture.[5] What then will become of the Establishment Chruch?

Why The Big Lie

Saxons are Christians - or they are nothing. Christians believe that "We must obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29. The establishment churches, claiming to be spiritual Israel, teach that man-made statutes are to be followed instead.

To keep Saxons quiet, establishment priests promote the following three things:

1. They teach the dogma that all the people of world are descended from Noah.[6]

The doctrine that Whites and non-Whites both originated in one set of ancestors logically results in the silly theory that separate races must be a myth and that one God fathered us all. This theory violates the WORD and nullifies God's command, "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of Israel." De 23:2. The

5 "The land shall be divided for an inheritance ... To many thou shalt give the more ... to few thou shalt give the less ... the land shall be divided by lot: according to ... their fathers they shall inherit ..." Num 26:53-55

6 The WORD calls Noah "man." Strong's Concordance says MAN: Heb: Adam 119 - "to show blood(in the face), ie: to flush or turn rosy: - be (dyed, made) red(ruddy).

dogma drags on to its logical conclusion which is that since everyone is descended from Noah, all must be bastards (mixed- breeds) from the beginning.[7] Noah carried non-Whites on his ark, but not as "blush red" men, but under another name.

2. Co-opt the title "Israel"

The title "Israel" infers the power "To speak as God." To seize this title, establishment church dogma proclaims that there is no more unmixed physical Israel to inherit the title, that unmixed Israel "disappeared," and that they are taking its place as new "spiritual Israel." This justifies their possessing and monopolizing the wealth of the world - the heritage of Jacob- Israel.[8][9]

3. Ignore the word MAN

Ignoring the word man ("blush red")permits the Establishment Church to continue to receive tribute from man and human (hued- man) alike. The Establishment Church sits securely on its ancient feudal throne proclaiming that it holds the keys to heaven, while carefully protecting itsef with hired politicians and their mercenary armies. This is near the center of Babylon where the Saxon-Israel message is banned.

---

7 Saxons, appointed "kings and priests" by their God believe that the WORD teaches that non- Whites were created before "man."

8 "Thus sayeth the Lord, who giveth the sun ... and the ordinances of the moon and of the stars ... who divideth the sea ... If those ordinances depart ... then the seed of Israel shall also cease from being a nation before me." Jer. 31:35- 36

9 Nation: ... originally denoted a family or race of men descended from a common progenitor." American Dictionary, Noah Webster 1828

Back To The Book

The book Tribes, mentioned above, faithfully follows the Saxon-Israel message with a couple of wrinkles that one would expect. Some of them are the same wrinkles used by Manassah ben Israel in 1650. Both proclaim that Saxon-Israel is composed of 10 tribes,[10] the other two tribes being the Jews - one of which is Judah. The Jews say that being Judah gives them the right to rule the rest of Israel - meaning us.[11]

Letter Of Commendation

The most interesting thing about the book is the Letter of Commendation in the front, from Rabbi Abraham Feld of the Maccabee Institute, POB 31264, Jerusalem, Israel. He states that, "Upon reading Mr. Yari Davidy's book on the dispersion of the ten lost tribes, and contemplating on how most people will receive this as startling new information, I was reminded of a law that US President Bush recently endorsed."

This law was passed on March 20, 1992, when President Bill Clinton signed a joint Resolution of both Houses of Congress recognizing the Seven Noahide Laws as the "bedrock of society from the dawn of civilization" and urged America to "return the world to the moral and ethical values contained in the Seven Noahide Laws."[12]

Rabbi Feld continued, "This ... is at once a recognition of Torah's relevancy and a basis for a common denominator

10 "James, a servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ, to the twelve tribes which are scattered abroad, greeting." James 1:1

11 Bible students reject this claim out of hand because the WORD says, "No bastard shall enter Israel," and the Jews confess themselves to be a mixed race. This negates any claim they make to the name "Israel."

12 H.J. Res 104, Public Law 102-14

among all the nations of the world ... a common heritage and bloodline that so many people share unbeknownst to themselves."

Now comes the punchline, "... the Jerusalem Talmud declares in the days to come the ten tribes will be righteous converts (Sanhedrin, 10)" and concludes, "We of Mosad Maccabee have only the highest praise and respect for this valuable contribution to understanding our roots and heritage."

This is an interesting admission. It spells out what we have long suspected, and that is, the Establishment Church has its itinerary and the Jews have theirs. If the Establishment Church can claim to be Israel and have God's power of attorney, the Jews can too, and with the hired help of televangelists they do and with their natural grasp of "showbiz," they can do it better. They insist that it is THEY who are physical Israel.

Noahide Laws

The world as seen by the Jew is divided into Jews and non-Jews. The Jews are ruled by one set of laws and non-Jews are ruled by the Seven Noahide Laws. The Jewish holy book, the Talmud states: "Jews are obligated to try to establish the Noachide Code where ever they can." (Yad, Melakhim, 8:10; Judaica, p. 1189)

The actual "seven laws" deal with: 1. Idolatry 2. Blasphemy 3. Murder 4. Sexual Relations 5. Theft 6. Eating limbs of a living animal 7. Establishing Courts of Law

The problem is not the "7-Noahide Laws." On the surface they are harmless enough. The problem is the implementation of these laws. Unlike the WORD from the Bible, Noahide Laws are not set in concrete. Judaism is not governed by the WORD as is Christianity. They offer a different route in the following manner:

1. The Torah (Laws of the Bible), whose meaning is interpreted by
2. The Talmud, which is compiled and interpreted by
3. Rabbis.

Jewish rabbis have power that can only be compared with the power of a Hindu "perfect christ - a god on earth."[13] Thus, observance of the Seven Noahide Laws, which is now law, is predicated on the opinions of Jewish rabbis, and that is a real matter of concern, as we shall soon see.

Their Place In World Affairs

The Jews distribute and merchandise a sizable part of the trade of the world, as they are first to admit. The International Trade Cartel (ITC) could care less who guarantees transportation and delivery of the world's trade as long as it is done smoothly and in order. Mohammed became a world figure by placing himself and his followers astride the spice routes and stopping the caravans. After a year this forced the ITC recognize him as protector and to pay him protection moneys. This made him the most important man in the mid-east. This arrangement with the ITC allowed him to become so powerful that he even professed himself to be god's representative on earth.

13 "The hurdle that must be cleared in preparation for observing the Seven Noahide Commandments is the acceptance of the idea that mankind's way to the Father is through the rabbis." Path Of The Righteous Gentile, Chaim Clorfene & Yakov Rogalski, Israel, Targum Press, 1987. Intro. p. 4.

Televangelists - Noahide Priests

The Seven Noahide Laws are taught and implemented in selected markets. It is done in part to facilitate trade and in part as a Jewish religious duty. Its spokesmen in the West are carefully selected televangelists whose loyalty is guaranteed by their need for continued media access.

These chosen televangelists make no apologies for what they do. They even identify their heresy with a new name - "Judeo- Christian" - a name unknown before 1910.

In exchange for the media exposure that lines their pockets, they teach canned Noahide and related doctrines starting with: 1. that all mankind are descended from Noah, 2. the Jews are Israel, ie., "God's chosen people," 3. they ignore the word "man" and 4. they never EVER repeat the Laws contained in the Bible.

This avoids the condemnation in the Talmud which teaches, "A Gentile who studies the law deserves death." (Sanhedrin 59a, p.75.) A Noahide priest is forbidden to proclaim things such as:

> "The rapist shall surely be put to death." Deut 22:25-26; "If a man lie with mankind, as he lieth with a woman ... they shall surely be put to death." Lev 20:13; "Whoso killeth any person, the murderer shall be put to death." Num. 35:29-30

Noahides must not shed human blood. The Talmud teaches:

"(Noachides are) required to choose martyrdom rather than shed human blood" (Pes. 25b and Rashi).

The Jewish Encyclopedia adds:

"if he slay a man in self- defense, the Noachide is guilty of murder and must pay the death-penalty, although under the same circumstances an Israelite would not be executed." (Ency Judica , Vol 12, p 649)

If you have wondered why the great push to confiscate guns - it might not entirely be the fault of "big brother." It might just be the implementation of religious doctrine. Without guns, Noahides could not violate the Talmud prohibition of slaying in "self-defense." How is it possible to pass such laws? Easy! Look at the country's leaders. Both Clinton and Gingrich are pictured in the media wearing yarmulkas - the sign of submission to the God of the Jews.[14]

Televangilists act as Noahide priests. They follow the rules exactly. Thumping the pulpit, they declare that the Bible is "the infallible word of God;" they use Christian terminology and parables to maintain the Christian facade needed to win the confidence of their audience, and then they preach a whole sermon without once repeating a single law, much less the Whole Law of the Bible.[15] The congregation is gulled as the Law is replaced with the "opinions" of the rabbis that amplify the 7-Noahide laws. The entire two-thirds of the Bible dealing with government is also off-limits. The Noahide law forbids Noahides to "study those parts of the Torah (Talmud) that do not apply to the Noahite's service to God" (Sanh 58b), meaning government and governing.

Conclusion

The Jews know the Israel Identity message. The Establishment Church knows the Israel Identity message - Queen Victoria, head of the Anglican Church, brought it into favor in the last century. All televangalist whom I know personally

14 "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other." Matt. 6:24

15 "Read this law ... that they may ... do all the words of this law." Deut 31:11- 12 also know the Israel-Saxon Identity message. There is scarcely an educated minister in the country who doesn't know the Israel Identity message. They have joined ranks to keep this message from the Saxon. They do this to protect their ill-gotten positions and possessions. But, in spite of their claims, it is NOT the Establishment Church that is Israel, it is NOT the Jew who is Israel. It is the one whom God chose for his very own.

It is written:

> "Ye have not chosen me but I have chosen you, and ordained you." John 15:16; "Ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a peculiar people." I Peter 2:4

I believe that NOW is the time that God has chosen to tell his people;

> "Ye are my people and I am your God."

The knowledge that we are his people is the spark feared by the imposters. It is that spark that will trigger an explosion that will result in:

> "Thy kingdom come - ON EARTH ..."

==========

UNFILTERED NEWS

From Occupied Germany by Hans Schmidt

"Dear Dick: Yesterday I received your NL. Vielen Dank! It might interest you to know that one of your reports was not given to me since it allegedly contained material dangerous to the stability and quiet of the prison.

"It is absolutely necessary to inform as many Americans as possible that I am also fighting for their freedom abroad. As it stands, any American can be arrested in Deutschland if he/she has printed material on his/her person that is somewhat critical of the 'forever persecuted ones' or that describes the racial situation in the USA or Germany correctly. I consider myself a fighter for freedom of expression in the tradition of John Peter Zenger (c1690-1740) whose battle was instrumental in America getting the First Amendment.

My trial is to be held in the first of January at the 'Landgericht' (Superior Court) Schwerin. The outcome is uncertain. But a review of the entire matter seems to indicate that it will mostly involve my words critical of the power of Zionists here and in the USA. The mere mentioning of this allegedly non-existing power is being considered a crime. So much for democracy in Deutschland.

A positive fall-out of the entire matter was the knowledge I gained about the mental state of the so-called 'East'-Germans (really, Central Germans), i.e., the people living in the former Communist part of the Reich. Right after the fall of the Berlin Wall, I predicted that from the differences in 'Weltanschauung' between the two German groups a spiritual confrontation would arise between 'Ossies' and 'Wessies' as they are now frequently called. Well, I was not wrong. Right now the 'East' Germans are beginning to realize that they have been defrauded royally, and that very many of the Western helpers that came across the former border between the two parts of Germany must be considered 'carpetbaggers'. Relatively few West Germans that came here to assist in rebuilding a better Germany, came here for idealistic reasons.

"At the moment approximately 14% of the 'East' Germans are unemployed, and all efforts by Bonn to relieve this insanity are falling flat. Imagine, there will be (soon) a world-wide depression (as I am predicting), and the unemployment here will rise to nearly 50%: Then Germany will have the beginning stages of a revolution, and the Bonn parliamentary system will not be able to counter it. Already the system stands on shaky grounds, and that is the real reason why I am incarcerated.

"I am getting the 'Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung', the German equivalent of the NYT, daily, and am well informed of world events. However, it helps that I have my prior background knowledge, and I can add things the German newspapers would never print. They have indescribable taboos here (and they seem to like them, it probably prevents real deep thinking).

"As for Bosnia: Looking at the situation from a geopolitical angle, the entire scheme looks like a NATO mobilization for a much greater war. But against whom and when? You know as well as I do that both Zionism and Freemasonry have the re-erection of Solomon's Temple as a stated goal. But this cannot be done until the Al Akhbar mosque in Jerusalem is destroyed. Will we see the dynamiting of this holy shrine of Islam in 1996, and therefore the beginnings of a horrible religious war eventually enveloping the entire world? It could be possible.

"In spite of everything, 'Frohe Weihnachten' and a Happy 1996 to your family and readers, Sincerely, Hans; Mr. Hans Schmidt, B313, Bf 1252, 182242 Butzow, GERMANY:

Hans Schmidt's Trial

Since writing the above, Hans Schmidt has been released from prison and is now home in Pensacola, Florida. His trial was begun in early January. He called me and briefly filled me in on the happenings during his his odyssey.

At first his jailers treated him like any other prisoner. Then they learned that he was one more civil rights victim of the rulers of occupied Germay, imprisoned because his words were not pleasing to them. Not only that, but the words which offended them were written in America. This has all the makings of an international incident. Learning this, their attitude changed. The telling difference was when the blizzard of letters reached the German newspapers, politicians, and American authorities from American Christians. Then, their attitude really changed. The authorities quickly realized that they had inadvertanly tapped into the American mainstream and the consequences of doing that could be serious.

Hans was taken before the German court and was given the opportunity to tell his entire story to the German judge - that he was being held in a German prison for something that he had written in the United States - an outrage against the Laws of America. After hearing his story, the judge gave him back his passport, several hundred additional letters that had been received but not yet censored, and released him on his own recognizance. He is now at his home in Pensacola, Florida undergoing medical treatment because deteriorating health that resulted from the time he spent in the damp ancient prison in Germany. He wishes me to thank you all for your help in his time of need. You are the reason that he is back home.

Unfiltered News From S. Africa by K.J.

"Gone are the days when we had little happening and lots of peace. I am trying to do a few things about the house, but it takes much longer with the constant threat of lawless blacks roaming about.

The police commissioner contents himself with newspaper interviews, but not a word about law and order. There are so many violations that the newspapers can't print them all. We had policemen at the stolen car depot involved in a multi-million rand car racket. The list drawn up by a Boere organization with the names of policemen who went far beyond the call of duty to arrest right wingers and torture them while in custody is getting longer.

The Katz Commission hit upon the idea of whites being taxed 30% of their income accruing to retirement funds. This will cause hardship to many elderly whites.

The HNP had a congress on short notice and a number of people from other organizations came who did not vote in the 1 Nov election. Mr. Jaap Mariais gave a good overview of present and past events. He told us that we must regain our self respect and respect in the sight of friend and foe. A priority is to fight the enemy single-minded and organize to recover our liberty with faith, courage and loyalty, free from domination, black numbers and foreign interference. Mariais ended by stating that this dispensation will collapse with violence and the whites will then live in extreme danger.

On AIDS the figures are as follows; in black women it is 1- 60 and black men 1 in 80; while in white men it is 1 in 2,000 and white women 1 in 45,000.

We were told that the present regime make laws but exists in name only. It does not rule. In fact, they have no answer for the crime, economy or anything else - except in destroying Afrikaner values. This is simply a continuation of England's imperialism. From the time of Cecil Rhodes, England has chosen the Afrikaner as her enemy, and it remains like that today.

At the HNP meeting, many speakers from the floor did not feel very sympathetic towards Gen Malan and the rest. A no-win war leaves a lot of scars and no pride. The slogan "Vir Volk en Vaderland" sounds very hollow today when one realizes that the government did not want us to win the war. When boys lost their lives the church and government told their families that it was for the country's good.

Recently, blacks trashed the Witwater Rand University. This was THE liberal university along with Cape Town. These liberal establishments never had kind words for Afrikaners and preferred to call them "hairy backs" and "rock-spiders." In their opinion they were far below other human beings. Now, all universities and colleges have quota systems that have been imposed on them. Starting next year they will have 50% black while the remainder will be divided between White, Indian and Coloured. No failures will be tolerated. The liberals no longer think matters are funny.

The HNP concluded the rally by predicting that violence will continue and build into a full-scale war. And so the battle continues." K.J. - South Africa

More Observations from S. Africa

"The irony of the arrest and charging of Malan and the other generals is that, without exception, these men went along with the gradual betrayal of White interests from the days of John Vorster when a policy of eroding the White power base was implemented - not only of S. Africa, but of Rhodesia, SW Africa, Angola and Mozambique. Now, however, they have become symbols of the White man, to be humiliated and degraded! After consistently aiding ANC/SA Communist Party interests, directly and indirectly, over the years, what must be their pained surprise to be hauled into court on what is probably a trumped-up charge. Now we hear Malan protesting, yet in all the years since 1966 not one of them had the courage to come out publicly in support of their own people's interests - as the Russian General Lebed is doing today, and as General Stratemeyer (one-time Chief of the American Airforce) did in the 1960s." Impact, Oct/Nov 1995, P.O. Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA, $30/yr.

Letter From America

"Dear Mr. Hoskins: Re sermons from the 1700s. Following are some more sources: The Bible & The Const.Of the US of America, by Verna Hall, & Rosalie Scater; The Christian History of Const. Of the US of America, A compilation by Verna Hall; The Christian History of the American Revolution, A compilation by Verna Hall w/ Rosalie Slater. The above published by The Froudation For American Christian Education, Box 27035, San Francisco, CA 94127. Also: The Chaplains & Clergy Of The American Revolution byJ. T. Headley, available from CPA Books, 33838 Kelso Rd, Suite #2, PO Box 596, Boring, Oregon 97009. S.G. - Oregon

Unfiltered From Saxon Canada

GUN REGISTRATION: "Dear Dick; The recent federal firearms registration acts state that all guns and owners are to be registered or face 5 years in jail and a $10,000 fine per gun. Stay irrepressible and remember to whistle while you work." H.B. - Canada

"In The Beginning ..."

ITB "Dear Dick: I thumbed through "In The Beginning ..." and read its last chapter, "The Promised Land." It sent chills down my spine and again forced me to promise Yavh to keep His Law. 'Then shall we see His ... new kingdom among the stars.'" W.R. - Florida

ITB... "Dear Richard: I believe In The Beginning ... is the best expose of the symbiotic relationship between merchant, priest and king that I have seen. It should be read by every person professing to be a Christian." David Lane #12873-057, Box 7000, Florence, Colorado 81226. Formerly of The Order[16]

Disney

DISNEY: "Dear Brother Hoskins: I do not think you will want to promote Disney once you know that Disney helped underwrite the 1993 Hollywood Gay & Lesbian Task Force; gave advertising dollars to support the homosexual magazine Out; added a sexual- orientation clause to give homosexuals special rights; its VP of feature animation is an open homosexual; hired an avowed lesbian to develop female and lesbian movies; published a book for children entitled Growing Up Gay; hosted Gay/Lesbian Day at Disney World for 5 years; is one of the top sponsors of pro- homosexual TV programming; is the owner of several subsidiaries which buy, produce and/or release R-rated movies." D.W. - Idaho

Unfiltered News

WWII;Japanese viewI"Seisuko Okuno, quoted in the Canadian newspaper Globe and Mail, states that the war crimes committed by the Allies were more grievous than all those committed by Japan ...many of the war-time atrocities attributed to the Japanese had, in the meantime, been exposed as propagandist lies ... In his speech, the 81-year-old Okuno said:

16 "In The Beginning ...", Virginia Publishing Company, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, Virginia 24505

a) Japan's object WWII was simply to liberate and stabilize the Asian countries which had been colonised and oppressed by Whites.

b) The main cause of the war was that the USA had frozen Japan's financial assets abroad and imposed an oil embargo on Japan in the Summer of 1941, as a result of which Japan had no choice but to fight or to perish.

c) If anyone is to apologise for their behaviour during WWII , then it is the USA with its allies ...

d) After the war, the USA introduced its own version of history, and during the period of occupation it staged war crime trials which were mostly unfounded. The Japanese were led to believe that their government had conducted a criminal war of invasion and had committed wrongs. The trend was, however, now turning and people were now gradually beginning to discern the facts."

"The above article was editorially pulled to pieces and described as untrue by Globe and Mail. Insider, Aug. 1, 1995, Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA

HEAD OF WHAT? "Queen Elizabeth, head of the Anglican Church of England, will attend a full service in a Roman Catholic Church for the first time, Buckingham Palace announced Thursday. The monarch accepted an invitation from Cardinal Basil Hume to an ecumenical service in Westminster Cathedral in London on Nov. 30 to mark its 100th anniversary. Westminster Cathedral is spiritual home to Britain's Catholics. The nearby Anglican Westminster Abbey is where monarchs are crowned." Ottawa Citizen July 21, 1995; TKC

Oct 1995.

INTELLECTUALS: "When Bill Clinton and Al Gore stopped off at Monticello en route to Washington for their inauguration, Gore pointed to two portraits hanging in Mr. Jefferson's home and asked the guide, 'who are those two guys?' 'Jefferson and Madison,' the stunned historian answered." The Free Market Market, Connecting Link, Aug-Sep 1995.

Church & State

GOVERNMENT REMOVES TAX EXEMPTION: "State revenue officials on Friday followed the IRS lead in revoking the tax-exempt status of the Indiananapolis Baptist Temple, a Southside fundamentalist Christian church ...

"(Pastor) Dixon likened the IRS to the Gestapo and the KGB and called the tax collection agency a liar for saying it has revoked the church's status. The church ceased to be a corporation in 1983 and, therefore, it does not have an identification number with the government, he said. ...

"'Regardless of whether it acknowledges itself to the IRS by applying for a (identification) number, the IRS has the authority to assign it a number.' Stumpf said. ...

"In March 1994, the IRS filed tax liens totaling $3.6 million against the Baptist Temple because it refused to withhold income tax and Social Security from employee payroll checks from March 1987 to December 1993. ...

"If the Baptist Temple refuses to pay the liens, the IRS may seize its property and sell it to cover the tab. Stumpf said. ..." The Indianapolis Star, July 8, 1995

RKH: In Britain in the 1660s, followers of the WORD were condemned for insisting that there is "no king but Jesus," and refusing to say "God save the king." They were also condemned for refusing to agree with government officials that "the Church is a department of the government." Nothing's changed. Yesterday's unfinished business is on today's front burner.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 258

MODUS OPERANDI

The following article was translated from Vir Vilk en Vryheid in Afrikaans by P. F. Bruwer. It tells the story of WHY the British invaded S. Africa at the time of the Boer War at the turn of the century. We have been told that the war was over gold, but in itself that could not be the complete story since the mine owners had already contracted for extended gold mining rights. This article tells the rest of the story.

The Reason For The Boer War

Through the entire history of South Africa the British moneypower has lurked in the background. It is not surprising that G. Wheatcroft, author of The Randlords - "The men who made South Africa" wrote, "The war was fought to make Transvaal safe for Corner House ..." Milner's close co-operation was naturally with Corner House, which emerged in the postwar decade as not only the greatest, but overwhelming the richest mining house. (Wheatcroft, p. 218-219, 1986)

One of the biggest points of disagreement between the owners of the S. African mines and the old Transvaal government was over the question of labour. Underground mining required a large amount of labour and the mine owners did all in their power to entice millions of blacks to the Transvaal in order to keep their pay as low as possible. They had written to President Kruger's government in 1890, "Private labor providers repeatedly failed in their efforts to obtain a sufficient supply of black labour. This task must be undertaken by the government and we trust that your government will give it all its support. ... In spite of this the government did nothing to help the capitalists increase the amount of black labour." (Innes 1984, p58.)

Although black labour could go to the Rand and work in the mines, President Kruger had no intention of allowing millions of blacks to overrun his country. However, the mine owners were determined: the gold mines needed a permanent reserve army of workers from which they could satisfy their labour requirements. (Ibid., p.60)

In time the demand for an unlimited supply of black labour became the decisive factor in the mine owner's decision to exert themselves to bring about British intervention. "It was only through direct intervention by the imperialistic state (Britain) that the requirements of the monopolistic money power were finally met ... With a good government (a co-operating British occupation government) there will be an over abundance of workers and no difficulty in cutting wages." (Innes p. 61-63) This connection became obvious in time. "After the British victory the mine owners finally had a pliable government on their side." (Wheatcroft p.218)

There were many people in favor of white labour at this time, but, "White labour was a curse to the money power. They never believed that a smaller number of white workers could do the work as cost-effectively as a larger number of blacks. White workers always meant problems. Fitzpatrick loathed the idea of a white paradise ... Whites with labour unions will demand better salaries and better work conditions and blacks don't make such demands ..." Wheatcroft, p. 220).

Milner, the British occupation Governor, supported the mine owners and helped bring in hundreds of thousands of blacks to the Transvaal to work the mines. Most of them came from outside South Africa. About 75% were Mozambicans, and others came from places as far away as Sierra Leone, the Gold Coast and Liberia. (Innis p. 62).

After the war the number of blacks pouring in quickly increased from 40,000 in 1903 to about 107,000 in 1905. Still, this was not enough to suit the mine owners - they wanted still more so that wages could be forced lower. This was the time when all different kinds of plans to recruit labour were tried:

"An effort was made to recruit Italian mineworkers, but they did not turn up for their ship in Napals. A proposal was made to send American Negroes to South Africa. They could be handy workers not withstand the inherent laziness of the race, and the Americans would be glad to export them. There were also ideas to bring workers from the West Indies."Wheatcroft, p. 219

It was in these circumstances that the money power with support from the British Prime Minister Balfour and Colonial Secretary Lyttleton decided that the solution was to be found in importing Chinese. On Feb 12, 1904, the concerned ordinance was passed and in June the first Chinese made their appearance in Johannesburg. In just over three years 60,000 Chinese were transported to Transvaal over a distance of 10,000 miles. (Ibid., p. 221) Johannesburg quickly turned into a Chinese city where murder and robbery became the order of the day. This action by the mine owners showed precisely in what light they viewed the Transvaal. What was our land, the place where we would spend our lives and build a healthy future - was to them simply a place to exploit - to make the biggest profits possible, irrespective of the dead bodies it cost.

Although the Chinese were later sent back, the blacks stayed. It was this attitude that has caused the blacks to be permanently embedded into the South African economy. The price for this policy of greed is being paid by us. The mine owners have the profits they wanted and have sent it overseas for safety. If need be, they can join it if events make it necessary.

==========

Observations

During the Boer War one of the major mine owners fired his workers and left. He made no effort to provide food and water to help these blacks on their journey home. There were more than 30,000 of them who attempted to cross hundreds of miles of the desert to their homes. If the Boers had not rushed emergency assistance - most would have died.

Alfred Beits and Julius Wernher, mine owners, maintained a sub- rosa alliance with Milner during the war. While appearing to aid the Boers, they secretly sold them out.

MOST IMPORTANT: The importation of millions of black workers into South Africa was done to lower South African wage levels. The unchecked flood of strangers into Saxon nations is being done for the same reason. The object is to reduce the Saxon into an abject wage-slave.

The flight of industry from Western nations and the resulting loss of jobs is playing into Saxon hands. At some point Saxons will find an uncensored method of communicating with each other and will use means to seize political power. (Perhaps it is the internet.)

When this is done tariffs can be raised 2000% to prevent either factory or manufactured goods from re-entering Western nations. This will give a tremendous boost to cottage industry, which will solve the employment problems overnight.

The last major political project will be the implementation of Saxon Zionism. Like the other peoples of the world - Saxons require separate development in order to worship their God.

==========

LETTER FROM S. AFRICA

"Dear Mr. Hoskins: We had a quiet period the few days between Christmas and New Year, but, by January 2nd many squatters returned from their short holiday at home to resume their activities. They felt so certain that they have intimidated us that they came right up to the kitchen wall at the back. Within a week a few more holes were cut in the fence and they tore the roof from a carport. We realized that we must change our strategy and from then on we provoke and challenge them. My husband has a very loud carrying voice which can be heard on the farm next door and they know we will shoot.

During a visit to the dentist this week, the dentist told us he lost a hundred thousand rand's worth of goods when his family were held up by armed robbers. From the flood of letters to the press, it is clear many suffered a similar fate but they also lost loved ones who were murdered. Big trucks have taken to forcing mostly white women off roads resulting in fatal accidents.

I resumed telephoning police headquarters and they listen very attentively. A captain came out to see what can be done, but that is as far as it goes. White lives simply do not count any longer. It is clearly ethnic cleansing against Whites and Inkatha Zulus. Not one White turned up at this year's intake at the police college.

Our leaders absolutely refuse to accuse white traitors of fighting God by supporting strangers to rule over us in violation of the WORD that is God.[1] At this time of our dire need they still refuse. If they only would the people could then tell who supports God and who fights God. I am told there are too many denominations. I don't see what that has to do with anything.

A recent issue of Die Afrikaner was devoted entirely to the "Day of the Covenant" and its meaning, but still our leaders will not quote the WORD to tell our people what our God requires of us. Our people are robbed both by taxes and robbers. The women are raped, men lose their jobs in affirmative action and many are murdered on farms and in towns, and still they are silent. Only when our people are told what their God requires of them will they be willing to obey His commands.

1 "Thou mayest not set a stranger over thee, which is not thy brother." Deu 17:15; "Their nobles shall be of themselves, and their governor shall precede from the midst of them." Jer 30:21

Finally Afrikaans children are threatened by savages in their schools. The list is endless and causes me endless concern. We are one people and we have only one WORD! What the WORD requires of us (God's Commands) are the very thing that our leaders will not allow to cross their lips. They still insist on doing things their own way and for doing that our poor country pays and pays and pays.

The National Party appears to be changing it name to "National Party Mission." We can only wonder what the "mission" stands for, but we expect for the party members to disband the party.

The ever scheming Broederbond has been working on some plan to get Whites to work with this new National Party Mission. It was the Broederbond who sold us out in the 1970s. This "togetherness" theme with those who sold us out before was again the theme at the December 16 Blood River gathering. It was the first time in many years that liberal Afrikaners were present at a Covenant commemoration. The editor of Rapport spoke about the need for a leader and said in the past a leader would suddenly and unexpectedly appear on the scene. But, on contemplation, we find such cases have been rare in S. African history. Some of the would-be leaders, like Constand Viljoen, have caused our country great distress and adversity. There is a distinct resemblance between today and the time in May 1993 when we desperately needed a leader. In 1993, Gen. Viljoen was suddenly raised up as the leader and we were betrayed. Now, we need a leader more than ever, but we are afraid of another Viljoen who will stir up feelings and again lead us into the sterile politics of the National Party, Freedom Front, and the Conservative Party.

The African National Congress finally rejected the idea of separate development for South Africa's ten separate races - each in its own volkstaat.

Our services are all in decline. We once could count on regular postal service, but no more. The last I heard from you was two months ago.

An Academy for Christian-Volksown Higher education has been established in Pretoria. It took two years of intensive planning and work to provide young Afrikaner students the means by which they could escape from the present situation. They started off on February 2nd with two institutes but will try and provide for others in time. The onslaught against Afrikaans schools are increasing, but with the Academy, young students will have something to look forward to. According the S. African Teachers Federation executive committee; "At the moment the status of Afrikaans speaking people are reduced to that of peasants in their own country. DeKlerk sold Afrikaner interest and any claim made by Afrikaners as to their language, religion and culture is stigmatized as unreasonable discrimination." Till next time, with best wishes, K. J.

==========

READ CAREFULLY: "It now seems inevitable that by the end of 1996 in white S. Africa, there will be fewer non-HIV black adults (from all the black nations together) than white adults. It looks as though the underlying factors will make the present strange deviation (black rule) no more than a hiccough in the destiny of the white South African nation - reminiscent of Cromwell's Commonwealth in England, for example."[2]

2 Impact, p. 5, Jan 1996, P.O. Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA, $30/yr.

LETTERS

PAUL HILL UPDATE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins; Paul's case is in the mandatory appeal stage at this point. A 70 page brief was filed on his behalf on 12/19/95. The brief was prepared by 2 attorneys who took the case pro bono. Paul tried to represent himself during the direct appeal, but the Florida Supreme Court voted unanimously that Paul could not do it.

"The state must respond to the brief by 3/19/96. Of course, they could request an extension. Soon after the reply brief is filed, the Florida Supreme Court will set the date for oral arguments. The entire direct appeal could be over in a year. If one or both of Paul's death sentences are upheld, he does not plan to participate in any post-conviction proceedings.

"I will try to send you the date of the oral arguments when I know them." Karen Hill,

---

BECKWITH UPDATE: The Jackson Advocate, December 14-20, 1995, a Black newspaper in Jackson, Mississippi, ran a front page story on Byron de la Beckwith which states that Judge W. O. Dillard has filed a "Friend of the Court" petition to intervene in the upcoming appeal of Beckwith.

"Dillard's petition alleges that the FBI withheld vital information it possessed about individuals possibly implicated in the case 'and conspired to deprive him (Beckwith) of his civil and constitutional rights under the federal and state law and the federal and state constitutions."

The petition goes on to say that FBI informant Gordon Lackey of Greenwood, Mississippi told the FBI on July 13, 1966, more than three years after Medgar Evers was shot; "They got the wrong man, Beckwith did not do the shooting." The petition states that the FBI never revealed Lackey's statements to either the defense or prosecution in the last trial."

"It can be readily seen that this prejudiced the defendant. He was convicted on the theory of being the lone assassin of Evers." Dillard's petition maintains that the FBI should have furnished this evidence to the state of Mississippi along with the name of its informant in order that it could be shown whether Lackey in fact made the statement and if so would have to have had some personal knowledge of the crime or whether the FBI's informant was being paid, and if so, how much for false information. The FBI made an investigation of the crime, yet withheld from the district attorney the evidence they obtained.

The petition of former Hinds Chancery Judge Dillard asserts that both convictions, in 1973 and 1994, resulted from FBI conspiracies against Beckwith.

In his third trial Beckwith was accused by the feds of transporting an explosive device. The Jackson Advocate article states,

"Attorney Dillard presents pungent evidence developed from Bill Stringer, a former FBI agent that Stringer was asked to help frame De La Beckwith on explosives charges. Stringer asserts that in 1973, he was told by Special Agent in Charge Roy Moore to assist FBI Special Agent Tommy Webb in getting dynamite into the automobile of Byron De La Beckwith."

Stringer said; "I immediately informed Mr. Moore that I absolutely would not participate in such an act, that such an action would be a criminal action and would make me no better than any criminal I have ever tried or would try to obtain information on to convict them in court. I told him absolutely that I would not set up Mr. Beckwith or any other person in an illegal manner."

When Beckwith was on his way to New Orleans, Stringer says that two FBI informants, L.E. Mathews and Gordon Clark, met with De La Beckwith while FBI Agent Webb placed "several sticks of dynamite, an alarm clock and a battery on the floor of Beckwith's car behind the driver's seat." Beckwith drove away with Webb right behind. He was arrested after crossing state lines into Louisiana.

It appears that everything is as Byron de la Beckwith has said that it was - that he had been framed by the FBI from the beginning. This news is not surprising coming on the news of Ruby Ridge, Waco, and charges by the FBI's own agents that the organization regularly manufactures evidence to facilitate its arrests. Hoskins Report states once again that this organization is out of control, is a menace to the civil rights of Americans and should be disbanded.

It is singular that the only newspaper in the country to carry this news is a Black newspaper. The establishment media is once again conspicuous by its silence. Perhaps the day has arrived when Black, Hispanic, Jewish, Oriental and Saxon separatists can work together to protect themselves against the ITC and its agents so that each of us can be left alone to live in peace.

WHO CHOOSES?: "Dear Mr. Hoskins; I think your quotation of John 15:16 "... you have not chosen me, I have chosen you ..." is most appropriate. Another aspect of it is the fact that he chooses the ones we minister to here on earth." I must have a copy of your new book, In the Beginning ..." that people are talking about. Incidentally, how does money get into the book fund?" Randy Duey, 09884-016, PO Box 1000, Oxford, WI 53952. Member of The Order.

RKH: The book fund is the ministry of HR readers. The fund may contain only $10 or $20 at the end of the month, but books are purchased and sent all month long as soon as donations are received. HR does the paperwork, fills the orders, and donates postage as its part.

WAR CYCLES - PEACE CYCLES: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I came across your book, "WC/PC", while doing research at the Library of Congress last week. Thank you so much for writing it. I was very interested to read your history and analysis of the usury system and its connection to wars. Your book should be required reading all over the world." D.N. - Maryland

---

ITB: "Dear Dick: Congratulations on your just published book, In the Beginning ... - It is superb! At last we have a book that cuts to the chase and rather than dwelling on conspiratorial minutia. Readers will recognize that Dharma's success requires 1) that it never be recognized or exposed, and 2) that this ingenious tool of enslavement rides firmly on our lack of obedience to the WORD to remain separate. The cry "Blood and Soil" in time will again ring out amongst our Saxon brethren. This is the key to staving off the Wolf Pack. When this happens, the ITC parasites will be stuck with their large spice trade management payroll but the wage slaves will have flown the coop. The ITC vampires need us but we never needed them! Let the merchants of the earth weep and wail." Sincerely, Barry Huddleston, Winston's Journal

APOCRYPHA: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: The following is a letter I received from Gordon Winrod regarding the Apocrypha:

"The Apocrypha are 14 parts. They were considered by the Church extra (outside) Holy Scripture, but were carried along with it, until 1546 AD, when the Council of Trent rejected three parts (The Prayer of Manasses, and III and IV Estras), elevated the other 11 parts to the station of Holy Scripture, calling them Deutero-Canonical, and ordered a Revision of the Vulgate.

"The Revision did not come until 1592 AD, but in subsequent printings of the Vulgate, always those three parts have still been courteously included at the end of the volume until about 75 years ago. In the Vulgate from Madrid of 1982 AD (which Winrod offers for sale), those three are no longer included.

"The English Catholic Bibles of this century still have the other 11 parts, ordered as Scripture by the Council of Trent. Both the original King James version of 1611, and the original Douay Rheims of 1582, 1609-10 retained all 14 parts (though the Douay Rheims kept the 3 parts at the end, following its Scripture). It could be correctly stated that the Protestant Bible had three more books than the Catholic Bible." Gordon Winrod, Gainesville, MO 65655, RKH: Because the Catholic Church ecclesiastics choose or reject scriptures doesn't necessarily make them "inspired" or "not inspired". The Catholic Church has its own agenda. I have never found God's COMMANDS to differ in the ancient scriptures. The COMMANDS of God remain unchanged forever. God and his COMMANDS cannot be separated.[3] Interested readers may order the Apocrypha HB, VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505.

GUNS & POLICE: "Maranatha! On the night of Feb 1

3 "For I the Lord, do not change." Mal 3:6

thieves broke in my house and took three guns, some shells, and $10 cash. They left their flashlight behind. I phoned the Ontario Provincial Police. They took me to the station, fingerprinted and photographed me. They took the rest of my guns plus all my shells. I tried to tell them we have wild animals here that are destructive. Better to talk to the wall." C. R. - Canada

WAR IN CYBERSPACE

An event of the magnitude of the collapse of the Berlin Wall has occurred during the last 30 days, and not a word in the establishment media.

The Simon Weisenthal Center in California sent 2000 letters calling on providers not to provide space for "hate" pages - and particularly the Zundelsite that provides counter arguments to the Holocaust dispute. The word hate is used by today's establishment to describe what "patriot" described yesterday. The intent was to prevent discussion of the Holocaust and particularly airing the Zundelsite. Thus instructed, Germany censored the Zundelsite. When this happened the free-speech crowd worldwide jumped into the dispute declaring that one does not have to agree with what is being said but a person has the right to say it.

Individuals began setting up mirror sites all over the world. While Germans could not get Zundelsite from a single provider in the US, they now have a choice of 50 other providers. This is really something new. Unable to contain the Zundelsite from a flood of sites from all over, the German government ceased censorship and now anyone who wants to can stop in. For the first time in 50 years Germans are able to read the truth about the Holocaust. Lively discussions among German students are said to be going on at this writing.

A new age appears to have arrived. Perhaps the establishment is powerless to keep the German Saxons from re-entering the real world of people once again. Let us hope so.

Saxon News From Rhodesia

Two hundred and fifty thousand Rhodesian Saxons had won the war against communist insurgents backed with both USSR and Western aid when their establishment leader, Ian Smith, suddenly turned them over to the blacks - one man one vote - the same as was done later in S. Africa by the establishment's deKlerk. Renegades in both Britain and the US promised that whites would be protected. They lied. The Citizen of 1-8- 96 reports that the president of Zimbabwe (Rhodesia's new name) Robert Mugabe has vowed to, "for once and for all, money or no money," seize White- owned farms and pay the owners "in the future." The 80,000 whites still left are becoming destitute and have nowhere to go and no means to pay for their transportation.

RKH: Our people must learn that establishment priests and politicians represent establishment interests only and exist to entangle the Saxon in Dharma. The WORD is all the leadership we need. The day will come when a blow to a Saxon anywhere will be avenged as a blow against all Saxons.

Unfiltered News From Saxon Australia

SUICIDE CENTER: Sydney: "A Buddhist millionaire has promoted a debate across Australia by publicizing his plans to set up a suicide center in Sydney ... Australia has one of the world's highest suicide rates. In 1993, Australia recorded the world's highest rate of suicides among 14 to 24 year olds. ..." Christian News, Rev Hermon Otten, 32177 Boeuf Lutheran Road, New Haven, MO 63068, 314-237-3858, (OT-TEN@AOL.com), Feb 12, 1996, p.11.

AUSTRALIA BETRAYED: "Our most consistent and debilitating economic problem has been the deficit ... We have had similar problems on four previous occasions in our history and in three of these cases severe depressions followed (1840s, 1890s & 1930s) ... On every occasion a surge in population, largely fueled by immigration, has preceded the economic downturn ... In all three of these cases an element of government regulation of the financial system led to a massive inflow of foreign capital, which was then overwhelmingly invested in the unproductive areas of property and property speculation." Australia Betrayed, Graeme Campbell & Mark Uhlmann, Oz-One Promotions, PO Box Q65, Queen Victoria Building, Sydney 2000, Aus$20+$2 p&h.

AUSTRALIAN IMMIGRATION: One in four Australians was born overseas. One of the largest groups in 1976 were Lebanese escaping the troubles in Lebanon. The same year a large number of Greeks, Cypriots, Turks and Italians also came, but their numbers were down from the previous two decades. Starting in 1980 the influx of S. Africans began, but today the figures are well down from the high 1986 figures. Vietnamese migrants have accounted for a large part of the total. Last year continued the Chinese influx - a steady trend ever since the Tinanmen Square massacre. Many Hong Kong Chinese are arriving seeking safe haven. Last year saw large numbers of migrants arrive from the former Yugoslavia.

RKH: Like other Western lands, these people bring their own gods with them. Even when they profess to be Christian

- it is a Samaritan Christianity.[4]

AUSTRALIAN POLITICS: The basic establishment plan for Australia is the same as as it was for South Africa and is for other Saxon states. They are to be subjugate under a tidal wave of strangers.

In Australia there are two main parties. The Liberal and Labor parties. The Labor Party is the equivalent of the American Democratic Party or the South African ANC/National Party; and the Liberal Party that of our Republican Party or the SA Conservative Party/Freedom Front. The candidates of both establishment parties are selected, advertised, and elected by the publicity given them by media owners - as is done in all other Western states. Third parties are blacked out. The "Asianisation of Australia" may be the most emotional issue. Most Saxon Australians are Anglican and Catholic and know virtually nothing of God's Commandments. Kept illiterate and docile by their prelates, they are separated from the WORD - their only guide and protector.

Unfiltered News from Saxon-Germany

GERMAN EMIGRATION: "It is probable that by the year 2010 up to 21 million more foreigners will move to Germany and 13 million Germans will emigrate. Experts warn that Germany's exemplary social security system will collapse under the pressure of the new immigrants. Huge slums are to be expected in the larger cities and native Germans will be reduced to a racial minority in their own country. These figures were released by the Federal Research Institute for Country And Regional Planning in Bonn.

4 Samaritan: One professing the Saxon God who is not descended from Abraham Isaac and Jacob. "I am sent but to the 12 tribes of Israel", "Oh Israel, only you have I known of all the people of the earth." An Israelite is an "adam" (Heb: he who blushes red) and of the line of Isaac (Isaac- son, "Saxon").

Anti-Saxon Justice In Germany

Michael Friedman, the Jewish executive member of the ruling Christian Democrats recently slandered Christianity as being a fundamentally brutal creed and, ultimately, the cause behind the persecution of the Jews. This outburst proves the anti-Saxon bias of the German courts and government since no criminal charges were bought against him for incitement as was done in the case of Hans Schmidt.

News About Saxons In Europe

NORTHERN ITALY: "Northern Italy wants to govern itself and does not wish to be 'exploited by the country's Mafia-ruled south." This is the outcome of an opinion poll among North Italians that was commissioned by the Lega North Party, and in which more than 50 percent voted in favor. Lega North demands its own parliament for Northern Italy, whereby Central Government in Rome should only determine foreign and defense policy. State President Scalfaro has now instructed his legal advisors to ascertain whether the Lega North demand does not constitute high treason." Insider PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA, August 15, 1995.

Irish Saxons Deceived Again

IRA ARMS: "Only recently the IRA received yet another large delivery of arms from Iran. Not a word of it was disclosed to the media. ... The politicians do not seem to grasp the fact that if the IRA is ready and able to pay for a large delivery of arms well into 1995 it is unlikely to surrender it almost the next day." Special Office Brief, 37 Upper Mount Street, Dublin 2, Ireland, Tel: 01- 760705

RKH: It is strange that people cannot seem to make the connection between the heavy invasion of Turk immigrants into Western Europe and the Iranian shipment of arms to the IRA in Ireland.

Scandinavian Saxons Discover The Wolf

SCANDINAVIAN countries are busy with a campaign against television pornography, and particularly against Filmnet, which is responsible for transmission of pornographic films four evenings per week in Sweden.

"Investigations have revealed that Filmnet's pornography business is apparently controlled by two S. African companies: Harry Oppenheimer's Anglo-American and Anton Rupert's Rembrandt.

"This startling news was divulged in Martin Craemer's Engineering News of Sept 8." Impact, Oct/Nov, P.O. Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA, $30/yr BRITISH RACISTS: "Two-thirds of Britons say they are racist to some extent, and more than half think non-Whites should be given money to help them return to their country of origin. The August ICM opinion poll, published in the London Daily Express, also shows that one in four would vote for a political party supporting repatriation and a 'Whites first' policy. Fewer than half the country's Blacks and Asians said they felt British. ...

---

"Jewish communal leaders in Britain have expressed concern over the poll. ... " Impact, Oct/Nov, P.O. Box 28233,

Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA, $30/yr

TERRORISM FRANCE: "A Moslem terrorist training camp was recently discovered in Ardeche, in south-eastern France. French observers now believe that Algerian militants are on a course to conquer France." Impact, Oct/Nov, P.O. Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA, $30/yr

---

AUSTRIAN CATHOLIC SCANDAL: "... The turmoil began last spring when a former Catholic school student accused the head of the church, Cardinal Hans Hermann Groer, of sexually molesting him 20 years ago. The 75-year-old Groer, who is also archbishop of Vienna ... stepped down as head of the Bishops' Conference ... The scandal has shocked Austria, where leaders of the powerful Catholic Church had been regarded as virtually untouchable. For centuries Austria was the bulwark shielding European Christendom against Turkey's Islam and other Eastern faiths; today, more than 6 million of Austria's nearly 8 million citizens are declared Roman Catholics, though only 1.2 million are active churchgoers. Still, the government assesses a church tax on residents who are required to register a faith. Just as the Groer controversy seemed to settle down, a gay-rights advocacy group stunned the public by calling a press conference to declare that four senior bishops are homosexuals. ... but offered no evidence. The four bishops, including Christoph Schoenborn, who was named by the Vatican to fill in for Groer and is considered Groer's very likely successor, denied they were gay and threatened legal- action against Krickler. The activist stuck by his claims, which triggered energetic public debate ..." Los Angeles Times, 9-12-1995

Confederate Ball

Richmond - Once a year re-enactors, dressed in period Confederate uniforms with their ladies in hoop skirts, attend "The Confederate Ball" to raise money for the Confederate Museum. This year, Wilder, the black ex-governor of Virginia attacked the attendees as racists having a "magnolia mentality." He all but accused them of wanting to go back to the old days to sit on front verandas, sip mint juleps and whip slaves. He demanded that the ball be canceled and that an apology be made to blacks. Immediately there was a rush to buy tickets and they were quickly sold out. The ball was a smashing success. Instinctively Saxons know that their God frowns on strangers ruling over them.[5]

Far East

JAPAN NIXES CHINESE: Japan has clamped down on Chinese immigration - Japanese consulates have asked their Chinese counterparts to tighten emigration control over Chinese citizens trying to get into Japan illegally. There are an estimated 40,000 illegal Chinese migrants resident in Japan. Intelligence Digest 12/95

DALAI LAMA DOUBLE: BEIJING: People will die for the priests who can show them the path to heaven. Buddhists claim that ability. The Buddhist leader from Tibet is a six-year-old child called the Dalai Lama. Guided by his advisors he tells Buddhists the world over what to do and they do it. To stop this - China invaded Tibet. The Dalai Lama fled, but continues interfering in the internal affairs of China. China recently selected their own 6- year-old boy in opposition to the Tibetan Lama. China also appointed his politically-safe advisors. Now there are TWO Dalai Lamas. One represents China's establishment state religion, the other represents the universal religion of Tibet's Buddhist priests. Both meddle in Western Christendom as the war continues on a different level. Westerners must learn about such things.

5 "Their nobles shall be of themselves, and their governor shall precede from the midst of them." Jer 30:21

Mid East

INDIA BARS HINDU: India's supreme court ruled that Hindu supremacist, Balasaheb K. Thackeray, is disqualified from holding office because of his "vituperative speeches" against Muslims. (Story in NY TIMES Dec 12, 1995, A16.

RKH: The great ideal of Hinduism is the union of all religions into one. Islam rejects religious integration and is therefore coming under increased attacks by the Hindus. The Indian courts try to act as peacemakers, but the fact is, the world's separatists are being attacked unceasingly by ITC integrationsts.

==========

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter #259

To TIMOTHY MCVEIGH

By David Lane, POW

"First, let me say that I am in no position to make judgments about the accusations brought against you by the Federals. However, having faced the Federal Inquisitors, and having experienced their injustice system first hand, I am inclined to believe there is a good chance that anyone they charge with a political crime is innocent. Furthermore, governments have created their own 'incidents' in order to advance agendas or enhance police states since governments were first formed. Those with common sense and rudimentary knowledge of explosives know that a fertilizer bomb outside the building did not shear off the support columns of the building that you are accused of destroying.

"Finally, before getting to the real reason that I am writing this letter, I would like to say that the hypocrisy of Janet Reno, the Butcher of Waco, in screaming for your head on a block is beyond the comprehension of those who retain their powers of reason. The attempt to divert attention away from the crimes of Clinton, Reno and the criminal regime seems transparent.

"Timnothy, since you are about to experience firsthand the farce which the system calls a federal trial, but which in brutal honesty is nothing more than a perjury circus, I would like to share with you a bit of what to expect. I was utterly dismayed to hear in the system media that your lawyer referred to Judge Matsch, recently appointed to hear your case, as a fair and honest judge. Having personally experienced the 'honest and fairness' (sic) of Judge Matsch, to the tune of a 150 year sentence, in a travesty which included blatant violations of the 5th, 6th and 10th amendments, I speak with first-hand knowledge. Furthermore, every iota of relevant testimony against me was perjury created by FBI agents and federal prosecutors, using blackmail and bribery.[1]

"Judge Matsch, whom your lawyer calls 'honest and fair', was well aware that all testimony against me was thus created. Indeed, ALL federal judges know that the FBI and prosecutors create perjured testimony and present false evidence as standard practice. So, any statement by your so- called defense lawyer that lends credibility to the system is irrefutable evidence that he is a conductor on the railroad that the Federals have put you on. Whatever slight chance you have depends on your putting the government on trial, and a system devil called a lawyer will not do that. So, you have no choice but to defend yourself.

1 Buried on page B8 of the New York Times of Sept 15, 1995 was a story entitled "FBI Chemist Says Experts Are Pressured To Skew Tests." An FBI chemist, Frederic Whitehurst, complained about the handling of the evidence in the Trade Center case and in the 1991 trial of Walter L. Moody, convicted of mail- bomb killings. Louis J. Freeh, now the Director of the FBI, led the prosecution of the mail-bombing case. Frederic Whitehurst worked for 13-years for the FBI. He received a doctoral degree from Duke and was the FBI's top bomb- residue expert. In 1994 he was demoted after taking his complaints to his superiors.

"When you first express your intention to defend yourself you will find that the judge and the lawyer assigned to pretend to defend you will argue that you need them in order to cover the details which might allow an appeal. That is pure hogwash. There are no appeals in a political case, just pretense.

"Timothy, you are dealing with a government that over the last two centuries has traveled from Dixie, to Cuba, to Mexico, to Panama to Grenada, to a dozen Latin American countries, from the halls of Montezuma, to the shores of Tripoli, to Italy, to Germany twice in WWI & WWII, to Japan, to Korea, to Vietnam, to Iraq, to Waco, to Whidbey Island, to Ruby Ridge and dozens of lesser known wars, occupations and assassinations, in pursuit of their Novus Ordo Seclorum, or New World Order. In the process they have killed and maimed many tens of millions of very real people. They are not going to let a little thing like justice for Timothy McVeigh stand in their way, now that they are so close to completion of their goal. The capacity of people to forget the past is exceeded only by their willingness to accept the propaganda of the present. So, you have to talk to the jury and present the big picture. I cannot guarantee success, but I can guarantee you that a system lawyer masquerading as your defender will only bury you.

"Now, in order to expose Judge Matsch as a system hatchet man, I must tell you who I am, what I represent and why I, too, was and am a target of the system.

"My name is David Lane. You may disagree with my politics, but certainly you are aware that a White man who demands a nation or territories for the preservation of his race is the target of the most vicious attacks the system can devise. Timothy, some 15 or 20 years ago I became aware of some demographic statistics that are hidden by the system. Only about 8% to 10% of the earth's population is White. And additionally, due to heavy taxation and other destructive practices, we are an old race. Between two and three percent of the earth's population is White female of child bearing age or younger. The race springs from its women. While political, religious and economic systems can be destroyed and replaced, the death of a race is eternal. The government under which we live denies the White race not only White nations, but White schools, White neighborhoods, White organizations and everything necessary for survival as a race.

"Of course, the propaganda for mixing the last of our women with strangers is never ending in the system media. This is deliberate, malicious genocide. But the most effective weapon in this genocide program is forced busing. Judge Richard Matsch, the judge handling your case, has been Denver's busing judge for over two decades. In the process he has established himself as one of the foremost forces for the murder of the White race on the continent.

"When I discovered the intent of the New World Order crowd to mix and destroy my race, and realizing that it would be an irreversible tragedy, I set out to resist. In the process I first developed a pamphlet called 'Death of the White Race.' I set out on a campaign to distribute a half million copies along the front range in Colorado. So in 1981, at the behest of the ADL, according to my sources inside the Denver Police Dept., a special team was sent after me. Through luck or the will of the Gods, I escaped this attempt. The details are in the archives of the Denver Post in the summer of 1981. Although the real story is, of course, obfuscated.

"I have, also, coined a motto which is now used by the remnant of loyal White people around the world. It is FOURTEEN WORDS. The fourteen words are 'We must secure the existence of our people and a future for White children.' So, I am considered to be an enemy of the system.

"In 1985 the system accused me of participating in the assassination of a talk show host named Alan Berg in Colorado. The Federals tried me through the ruse of RICO or racketeering trial, which was held in Seattle, WA. The only crime of substance with which I was charged was the Berg assassination. One hundred percent of all relevant testimony was government created perjury. I was given a sentence of 40 years with this, my first felony conviction. But, the system was not satisfied. In 1987, the Federals took me to Denver and again tried me for the Berg homicide. I was tried in the court of Judge Richard Matsch. Judge Matsch knew that I had published articles accusing him of genocide for his forced bussing of tens of thousands of White children. He knew that for this genocidal crime I advocated the most extreme punishment when the day of justice comes. But he did not recuse himself.

"Judge Matsch knew that I had been jeopardized already for the Berg homicide in a previous trial in Seattle, and yet he rejected my arguments against double jeopardy. In Seattle I was charged with violating Berg's civil rights. In Denver they added motivation, which was that I violated his civil rights because he was a Jew and had a job. This, according to Judge Matsch, made it a new offense. Under this reasoning I could be tried yet again because he wore glasses that were manufactured in New York.

"Also I denied that Matsch had jurisdiction to try me. Homicide is a state crime. I told him that under the constitution he could try me for treason, counterfeiting and crimes on federal property. He denied every motion or demand. I threatened to discuss the Constitution with the jury. I was told that if I tried it I would watch the trial on TV or be gagged. Judge Match does not allow the Constitution to be discussed in the travesty he calls a trial.

"A co-defendant with me in the Berg trial was Richard Scutari. He is currently imprisoned at the Federals' worst prison in Marion, IL.[2] He will confirm all that I tell you. The Feds told him at Seattle that unless he pleaded guilty, his wife would be charged and the state would get his daughter. So, he agreed to plead guilty and get 60 years. The agreement included an inonclad guarantee that the Feds would not prosecute him in any additional trials. Then, they reneged and prosecuted Mr. Scutari for the Berg homicide again in Denver. Scutari showed Judge Matsch the agreement and even had his lawyer from Seattle come to testify that the government was breaking its agreement. But, Judge Matsch, this paragon of justice, honesty and fairness, according to your so-called defense lawyer, allowed the prosecutors to try Mr. Scutari anyway.

"Lastly, a careful perusal of old issues of the Denver Post and the Rocky Mountain News will show that Judge Matsch for many years had the closest possible ties to Zionist organizations and ADL approved groups. Whether these ties are ethnic as well as for political expedience, you would be well advised to ascertain before you demand that Judge Matsch recuse himself. The record is clear, the judge assigned to your case is a lifelong legal assassin or hatchet man for the system. By publicly proclaiming that this system hack and perverter of the Constitution, to say nothing of being the murderer of the White race, is an exemplar of justice, your misnamed defense lawyer has exposed himself as a member of the team that intends to dispose of you. In my opinion, gained the hardest way possible, whatever little chance you have depends on taking your defense directly to the jury and exposing the evils which you have set out to destroy.

2 Richard Scutari #34840-08, Lewisburg, PA. He was just transferred after spending 7 years in solitary at Marion.

"Best wishes from the gulags of the occupation government." David E. Lane #121873-057, U.S.P. Florence, POB 7000, Florence, CO 81226[3]

NOTE: One does not have to agree with David Lane on everything to appreciate his condemnation of America's legal system. It would be wise for those who operate the federal system to examine it closely and correct the injustices that have crept in. If this is not done - in due time more Americans will become disillusioned.

==========

Letter From S. Africa by K.J.

"The biggest black hospital in the country is Baragwanath Hospital. The black nurses went on strike, walked off the job, and left patients to die - and many did. White universities also have had problems. The more liberal the rector, the more demands made on him.

3 Copied from Focus, David Lane, Issue #601, 14 Word Press, HC01, Box 268K, St Maries, ID 83861, $20/yr. Back issues $3/ea.

The chairman of so-called Truth Commission is Desmond Tutu, archbishop of the Anglican Church, the state church of England. This is also the church of Joost de Blank, Trevor Huddlestone, French Beytagy and Ambrose Reeves of the 1950s and '60s. The latter fled from S. Africa after the Sharpeville unrest because he was involved and afraid he would be caught. They represented the British state church in South Africa and as expected of them, they carried on a running battle against the Afrikaans National government from 1948 to 1966. That struggle against Afrikanner- nationalism with the Anglican Church in the forefront is continuing in the form of "Nueremberg Lynching Trials" cloaked with a pretense of justice.

According to Rappart newspaper of Dec 10, 1995, a pamphlet appeared in September 1994 with the title "Introduction to a Religious Consultation on the Truth and Reconciliation Commission." It was published by the World Conference on Religion and Peace, South African Chapter. The pamphlet vigorously recommended that a Truth Commission be established. The pamphlet even contained nice stories about Idi Amin's Uganda. Guess who did the writing and recommendation? Why archbishop Desmond Tutu, Yasmin Sooka and Dr. Alex Boraine! All three end up as members of the Truth Commission that they recommended be established.

The census planned for October 9th this year will provide a hostile government with all the information they need for the communist confiscation of all they want.

The Anti-White attitude of British visitors is notorious. You can observe it in the attitude of their sportsmen coming to play here. The captain of the cricket team from England recently thought it quite in order to say how backward and narrow minded we are, and he used the old "hairy-back" epitaph when he spoke of our team. "Hansie and his hairy-backs". Our boys just laughed.

"The English upper-class are buying up large estates around Cape Town, like Margaret Thacher's son and a number of their so-called 'nobility.' Are any Saxons left in England or were they all sent out to the colonies?

Pardon me if I am not quite clear about their reason for wanting to destroy the Afrikaner, his religion, language and culture, and also divest him of his lands and all he ever possessed. One day I think it must be New Age Hinduism which has to destroy separatism whereever it is found, and the next I think it is just greed to make a fast profit at someone else's expense.

If we suppressed the English culture or language here or kept them from working among us, they would have reason, but they have had equal rights to language, rights, and culture. They also kept all the top position is business and industry. A few side with us. We have one very dear English lady in the HNP and she does more than her share, but she is still only one. A few of the English would argue for Afrikaans schools, but more would say that it is racism or blame apartheid for all the country's problems. If a public meeting is held in Afrikaans they will immediately object. They cannot understand what is going on, yet I know in the farming community where I grew up there were a few English families surrounded by bilingual Afrikaners while they continued to speak only English and they had been in the area for almost 100 years.

Cyril Ramaphosa, one of the two contenders for Mandela's position, acknowledged on TV that he is a Muslim. Thobo Mbeki, the other one, has just been appointed by Mandela to take over many of his tasks. The Jews support Mbeki and the Muslims support Ramaphosa.

Urgent!

"Dear Mr. Hoskins: An article in the last Afrikaner seemed so important that I feel the need to send it right away. I talked about the enemy in the last letter but now the enemy has a name. It might sound superficial to say that those who really rule England are our enemy, but that is the way it looks.

==========

"British involvement in the commemoration of the outbreak of the Anglo-Boer War, 1899 ...

(The following was translated from Die Afrikaner, 23-29 February 1996)

"It is the Mandela- regime's intention to take the lead in commemorating the outbreak of the Anglo-Boer War 1899. The aim is to take the initiative out of Afrikaner hands and place the British, who enslaved the Afrikaner through this war, in a position of honour, and by these means continue the 'Boer War' against the Afrikaner.

"This forms the core of a media statement that Mr. Jaap Marais, leader of the HNP issued with reference to the planning. His complete statement follows:

"The excessive homage from the British-side to Mandela will apparently reach a culmination , when he will shortly visit Britain. According to press reports he will stay at Buckingham Palace as the personal guest of the British Queen, and he will ride with her in the royal carriage though the streets to the palace. The whole to-do radiates diplomatic baseness.

"This is a typical gesture from the British to honour

Mandela flatteringly for the war waged by means of the ANC-SACP's terrorists against Afrikaners, with moral, diplomatic and actual support from the British side, without which there would not have been a terrorist war against South Africa.

"There was never any doubt that the Anti Apartheid Movement (AAM) was in fact an Anti-Afrikaner Movement (AAM), financed and and managed by the British secret

Charles, Prince of Wales
On a visit to a Hindu Temple and Cultural Centre in north London.
The Citizen, Jan 3, 1996

service. And the fact that the ANC and SACP both had their head office in London, from where the war was waged against SA, was the undeniable evidence of the British usage of the ANC-SACP against the Afrikanerfolk's political power.

"The present open warfare by the ANC-SACP government against the Afrikaans language, Afrikaans schools and the remembrance of Afrikaner heroes, is the continued 'Boer War' that from the British-side is continuously urged on, to make South Africa a British country.

"It is in the light of these realities that the commemoration of the outbreak of the Anglo-Boer War in October 1899 becomes of the utmost importance.

"Information exists that the ANC-SACP government is already busy organizing this commemoration as a state function, with a plan to have Prince Charles as the main guest of honour and involve representatives from 43 states.

"The ANC-SACP will naturally exploit the opportunity in such a way that it can be used to benefit them politically in the 1999 general election. It will be easy to synchronize this intention with those of the British-side.

"The drive behind the ANC-SACP plans is likely the British government with the Foreign Office in the forefront. Blacks in S.A. were never really interested in the Anglo-Boer War of 1899- 1902 and their involvement in the conflict was secondary. The present Black government is only a British tool in this connection.

"It is obviously the aim to use the centenary commemoration as a vehicle to celebrate the 1994 conquest of political power over the Afrikanervolk, as the semi-final stage of the 'Boer War'. The final stage will be as Lord Randolph Churchill envisioned in the 1890s, 'The days of the Dutch as an independent people in South Africa are numbered. They will disappear; unloved, unsung, scarcely even remembered.'

"This expression of Boere-hatred is not unique. The Telegraph wrote about the Afrikanervolk as recently as 1959:

> 'Today's Afrikaners are the product of the scum and dregs of 17th century Holland and Germany .... The > Afrikaans language has emerged from the idiom that dregs took with them to the Cape. This language of riff-raff has in the meantime degenerated even further. How could it be otherwise, since the children were brought up by Coloured slaves, and the parents were ill-bred louts from the lowest levels of Dutch society ... The inevitable occurred: the inherited lack of intelligence of their Dutch forebears has brought the Afrikaners where they are today ...'

"This is how the British-side fight to deprive the Afrikanervolk of his honour. A lower moral plane is inconceivable.

"Afrikaners must realize that Boere hatred still burns in British power politics and that the planned commemoration of the outbreak of the Anglo-Boer War by the ANC-SACP government is a most important phase in the continued fight against the Afrikanervolk.

If there is a case around which Afrikaners must now rally, it will be to use the occasion of the centenary commemoration in 1999 to accentuate the Afrikaners historical meaning, energize patriotism, inspire national pride and to turn the conversation again to the Boerehatred of the British authority.

"In the light of present attacks on the Afrikanervolk's values and spirit and the anticipated role which the Confession Commission of Desmond Tutu will play, all Afrikaner fronts must as soon as possible give this affair priority."

Early South African History

England invaded S. Africa during the Napoleonic Wars. She imported ruthless administrators and judges to harass the earlier Dutch settlers. The abused Afrikaners were forced to flee inland to Orange Free State and the Transvaal. Their vacant farms were sold to English speaking immigrants. Millions were made on these land deals. Today's Afrikaners are being encouraged to flee S. Africa so the British can repeat the scam. This same scam was attempted in the South after The War Between the States. Blacks were put in power and backed by federal bayonets to institute a reign of terror. This forced tens of thousands of Whites to refugee West. The plan was to sell their abandoned farms to European immigrants at tremendous markups. Black nationalism shut out the NY bankers and the plot failed. Establishment churches exist to bless this sort of thing. The media-suppressed story is told in Vigilantes by Hoskins.

LETTERS

ITB: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Greetings Kinsman! A short note to let you know that after 7 years of lock-down at Marion I have finally been transferred. I am now at Lewisburg where I remain in the hole while they decide whether or not to let me out among the general population. In The Beginning ... was excellent. Perhaps this book will educate our Folk enough so that they will now stop chasing bogeymen and concentrate on the real enemy. Take care and may our God continue to guide you as you bring our Folk into knowledge His WORD minus the preacher talk." 14 words, Richard Scutari, PO Box 1000, Lewisburg, PA 17837. (The Order)

REPLACING CELLS: "Brother Dick; One can easily see the repetitive pattern of YHVH's cleansing (destruction of parts) of our race. This occurs in man. When any cell of our body becomes defective it is destroyed. THEN (and only then) the body replaces it. (The contrary would be to replace the defective cell when new cells become available - which is never done.) This is the same pattern that is going on in S. Africa & elsewhere & soon will intensify here in USA." MD - Florida

ED: The doctor knows what he is talking about. Weak Jews long ago dropped away from their militant brothers. Weak and treasonous Arabs are now dead. Both Arabs and Jews are lean and mean. Saxons will walk the same conditioning path. Liberals and traitors will drop away and in time we will become hard and ruthless as others. Today we have no Arafat or Perez who tell the world that Islam or Judaism is the only way. Neither did they when they got started. There is not one Western politician in any of Western nation who will fearlessly step forward and proclaim that God's Commandments are the ultimate authority - that they are the absolute, non- negotiable, set-in-concrete leader that we must follow. In time we will have our leaders. Events will have made them. Our losses will be replaced with aggressive and vigorous battle hardened cells. Saxons will follow the banner, but first - the banner must be raised. The WORD must be proclaimed as the one and ONLY leader. First the WORD lifted high to tell warriors where they are being led - then they will form ranks.

Jefferson To Madison On Land - 1785

Fontaineblau, France, Oct 28, 1785: "Dear Sir: ... The property of this country is absolutely concentrated in a very few hands. ... I asked myself what could be the reason so many should be permitted to beg who are willing to work, in a country where there is a very considerable proportion of uncultivated lands?

... Whenever there are in any country uncultivated lands and unemployed poor, it is clear that the laws of property have been so far extended as to violate natural right. The earth is given as a common stock for man to labor and live on. If for the encouragement of industry we allow it to be appropriated, we must take care that other employment be provided to those excluded from the appropriation. If we do not, the fundamental right to labor the earth returns to the unemployed.

"It is too soon yet in our country to say that every man who cannot find employment, but who can find uncultivated land, shall be at liberty to cultivate it, paying a moderate rent. But it is not too soon to provide by every possible means that as few as possible shall be without a little portion of land. The small landholders are the most precious part of a state."[4]

ED: Breaking wage-slavery in America must be our goal. Our people are entitled to a piece of land where he can return to sink a plow and produce his groceries. Anything less is to remain a slave to the one who writes the paycheck.

SEWER TALK: London - Feb 9, 1996. "Some of the world's best known church leaders, including Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu and Bishop Edmond L. Browning, head of the Episcopal Church in the U.S., have given a major boost to gay Christians by adding their names to a public message congratulating a British gay Christian group on its 20th anniversary. Advertisements congratulating the organization - the Lesbian and Gay Christian Movement (LGCM) - and bearing the names of 300 distinguished church officials

4 GOD'S LAW: "The land shall be divided for an inheritance ... To many thou shalt give the more ... to few thou shalt give the less ... the land shall be divided by lot: according to ... their fathers they shall inherit." Num 26:53-55: "Ye shall not offer unto the Lord ... an offering thereof in your land." Lev 22:24 (GB); "Give me thy vineyard ... and I will give ... thee money. And Naboth said ... the Lord forbid ... that I should give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee." I Ki 21 2-3

- including Archbishop Michael Peers, of Canada, and Lord Soper, a veteran British Methodist, as well as Roman Catholics - appeared on February 9 in three church newspapers in Britian. ... Lutheran bishop Maria Jepsen, of Hamburg, Germany has given her support to a church blessing to a homosexual couple in a Hamburg church. ... A conservative church group has criticized the blessing as 'blasphemy.' 'Thou shalt not lie with mankind, as with womankind: it is abomination.' Lev 18:22; 'If a man lie with mankind, as he lieth with a woman ... they shall surely be put to death.' Lev 20:13 Christian News, Rev Hermon Otten, 32177 Boeuf Lutheran Road, New Haven, MO 63068, 314-237-3858 (OTTEN@AOL.com).

ED: We should encourage Christians to withdraw from this scum. The Living God will deal with them in due time.

MUSLIMS IN THE WHITE HOUSE: Americans marked a milestone in the acceptance of Islam with the first presidential reception (February 20) to mark the end of the holy month of Ramadan. "It is only fitting that just as children and families of other faiths come here to celebrate their holy days that (Muslims) come here, too," first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton said at the event.

ED: Christianity is all but banned in the lands of Islam and Palestine. Here, Waco Bill's backers require that all worship his own god, but tolerate the others without separation. Either that or die - a la Ruby Ridge and Waco! This is the Hindu outreach called Buddhism.

METHODIST AWARD: The Reverend Doctor Stanley Mogoba, the presiding black bishop of the S. African Methodist Church, received the 1996 World Methodist Peace general-secretary of the World Methodist Council in Johannesburg. (Story in the Citizen.

ED: "The WORD was God." John 1:1;; God says that strangers are not to be placed over us, "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: nokriy - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deu 17:15. These prelates say that this black stranger has accepted God and is therefore our brother. On the other hand, the WORD says, "Whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother." Matt 12:50.. The scripture says, "The stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh (the tabernacle) shall be put to death." No 18:7. This black breaks the WORD by coming into our midst. He is not doing the will of our Father which is in heaven and is therefore not our brother - regardless of oaths, acceptances, hands on, ordinations, honors and awards.

To aid dull witted prelates and others, the WORD says it twice; "The stranger (zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh (the tabernacle) shall be put to death." No 1:51. It even tells trolls of low understanding how they should act upon learning of this disaster; They should say, "We are confounded, because we have heard reproach: shame hath covered our faces: for strangers are come into the sanctuaries of the Lord's house." Jer 51:51.

But, such is not the case. This black has violated the WORD. A brother is, "Whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven." Matt 12:50. This black has disobeyed and is not a brother.

The prelates who are honoring him and calling him a brother are false witnesses. They, and trash like them, are the ones who have placed strangers to rule over us in violation of the WORD.[5] These prelates fight God; "O children of Israel, fight ye not against the Lord God of your fathers; for ye shall not prosper." II Chron 13:12.

It is you who have let the wolf into the sheepfold and for that you will have to give an accounting.

Back to Table of Contents

5 The WORD says; "Thou shall make no covenant with them ... they shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21-24; The Geneva Bible states, "Neither of the hand of a stranger shall ye offer the bread of your God of any of these, because their corruption is in them, there is a blemish in them: therefore shall they not be accepted for you." Lev 22:25. The notes in the Geneva Bible by the reformers say, "Ye fhall not receive any imperfect thing of a stranger, to make it the Lord's offering: which hee calleth the bread of the Lord."

Chapter 260

THE FINAL SOLUTION

One must know certain basic historical facts in order to understand current events. Lincoln's Abolition Plan to free the slaves was done to keep them enslaved; that the Blacks were meant to be used to enslave the Whites; and, that it is all part of an ancient plan to destroy Israel.

Historical Background

History has shown that as long as a racial group can maintain its cohesiveness and laws it may escape the clutches of the International Trade Cartel (empire).

"1772 - Virginia again petitioned England to prevent the importation of slaves ... The petition was refused."[1]

"1817 - The American Colonization Society was formed in Washington, DC. Its purpose - to finance the return of blacks to Africa. Its founder - Rev. Robert Finey, a Presbyterian minister. The reason - Israel was to separate themselves from strangers lest they learn their ways. The group immediately came under attack from the 'liberals'..."[2]

1 War Cycles/Peace Cycles, Hoskins, p. 132,

Colonization Abolition Plan

The Colonization Abolition plan was started to buy Black females reaching 18 and males reaching 21 and re-settle them in Africa. Older slaves were to remain in America and in time grow old and die. In this way slavery would quietly and surely cease to exist as the younger Blacks returned to Africa and older Blacks died out.

It was also planned that the slave owners would be compensated for the loss of their property so the Law against theft of property would not be violated.[3]

The Colonization Abolition Plan worked in the following manner:

1. Money was raised from individual donations and grants from states;

2. Slaves were obtained from owners who had bought them from New England slave traders. Some were purchased, many others were freed by their masters on condition that they be re-settled.

3. The newly freed slaves were then furnished with clothing, seed, and tools, and settled on farms purchased in Liberia. In their new country they were protected from European and Black African interests who were interested in again reducing them to slavery.

2 Ibid, p. 141

3 GOD'S LAW: "Thou shalt not steal." Ex 20:15: "Know ye not that .... thieves ... shall (not) inherit the kingdom of God." I Cor 6:9-10; "If the theft be certainly found in his hand alive ... he shall restore double." Ex 22:4

This plan was supported by prominent leaders in both the North and South. Tens of thousands of Blacks were re-settled in Africa in this manner.

Radical Abolition

The Blacks were needed by the International Trade Cartel (ITC) to provide the "final solution" to the "Saxon Problem."[4] If they were deported to Africa it would mean that the critical element would be lost. To prevent their departure a substitute plan was introduced.

This substitute solution was - "radical abolition." It was meant to destroy the existing repatriation plan. Radical abolition simply demanded that the slaves be freed instantly without compensation to their owners. Neither was there incorporated in this plan a way to care for the slaves once freed, and it certainly did not include a plan to re-settle them in Africa. This plan was not supposed to solve the Negro problem in America. It was proposed in such a manner that it was sure to be opposed by the South, and in the conflict to follow the entire self- sufficient farm system of the South could be destroyed and the entire section could be added to the economic empire in the process of being built.

Radical Abolition Sold By Media

The ITC owned the American media which made it possible to sell this radical incendiary plan. From the first, practically all mention of the existing Colonization Plan was blacked out at the very time it was doing its greatest work. There was no voice to oppose the ITC media in the big cities as it launched a full- blown hate campaign to demonize the South.

4 Lenin, writing in 1916, says flatly, "... the aim of Socialism is not only to abolish the present division of mankind into small states and all-national isolation, not only to bring the nations closer to each other, but to merge them."

Every mention of slavery concentrated on the extremist speeches and statements of radical abolitionists. Headlines dwelled on Southern atrocities against defenseless black slaves and incidents were manufactured where none existed in fact. Incited against their Southern brothers by this propaganda campaign, Northern Whites forgot that there was an existing, peaceful American Colonization Plan. At the same time, Southern Whites began to bristle over the lies told about them.[5]

Good Men Do Nothing

We Southerners, loving the comforts of home and the companionship of wives and children, held back and allowed a Dharmatized[6] priesthood to roam the land spewing poison, and a lying media to go unpunished. We did not really believe that our disregard of God's Law would cause Him to do to his own people what he said he would do:

> GOD'S LAW: "Thou hast let go out of thy hand a man whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people." I Ki 20:42

The result of our unbelief and indolence was a war in which 600,000 White men died. The Blacks were seized as booty and compensation was refused their owners. Since plans had not been made to furnish the confiscated slaves with food, shelter, or a way to provide a living, many starved or lived on the limited bounty of their now destitute former masters.

5 GOD'S LAW: "If a false witness rise up ... Then shall ye to unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother." Deu 19:16- 19; "A false witness shall not be unpunished; and he that speaketh lies shall perish." Prov 19:9

6 Hindu: "Dharma" - tolerance. "Dharmitized" - to be conquered by Dharma.

It was not until the abject misery and starvation of these Blacks who had been seized by Union Armies and transported to other parts of the country became an international disgrace that "40 Acres and a Mule" was offered to quell criticism. Even then it was a boondoggle. Top dollar was paid toITC land and animal speculators for thousands of acres of worthless sandy land and thousands of diseased scrawny animals. The media reveled in the righteouness of it all.

Had the ITC's media informed Americans truthfully about the peaceful "American Colonization Plan" of Tom Jefferson and others of the nation's founders, and the results of adopting "Radical Abolition" of Abraham Lincoln and the Black Republicans - they would have chosen the peaceful way. If Blacks had been given the choice, after having had it explained to them, they would have done the same. As it stands today, the lying media of the ITC has propagandized both Whites and Blacks to hate those who had their best interests at heart, and love those who have caused them pain and suffering.

Occupation & Confiscation

Agents of the International Trade Cartel installed Black government to rule over the ruined South. Their mission - to pull down what remained of the old system. Southern plantations were virtually confiscated for pennies at tax sales, and the Southern self-sufficient farm system was destroyed. Slaves were taken without compensation and 600,000 men were killed - most of whom owned self-sufficient farms and who had been declared "kings" and "priests" by their God.[7] The starving defeated army that had followed Robert E. Lee to final defeat at Appomattox had no idea that they were being incorporated into the American Empire. The South was one more conquered province being brought kicking and screaming into the empire, and the empire was in position to finish the job.

Imperial Rule

The history of the world since Christ is the history of empires. An empire is a business operation. Its government is based on the Indian feudal system. All feudal systems are the same. They consist of priests, king and soldiers, businessmen, and workers.

The imperium of empire is to supply its needs by incorporating weaker neighbors. The larger it gets the more diverse are the people incorporated into the empire. Diversity tends to split the empire apart. The greatest problem makers has always been the Saxons whose religion commands, GOD'S LAW: "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord." De 23:2.[8]

To hold the empire together, diversity of this sort must be overcome. This is an old problem and the solution is also an old solution. It is to enforce "Dharma." "Dharma tolerance"

7 GOD'S LAW: "Jesus Christ ... hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." Rev 1:5-6

8 Margin note by the reformers in Geneva Bible 1599: "This was to cause them to live chastly, that their posteritie might not be rejected."

is a Hindu discipline. Empire subjects must be taught to be tolerant of other subjects so that trade can take place - smoothly. Strictly enforcing this tolerance are "Dharmatoids." Dharmatoids believe in "forced tolerance." A Dharmatoid will kill you in the name of tolerance. Dharmatoids and their Dharma are the glue that hold the empire together. They are essential.

Promoting Racial Intermarriage 1870s-1880s

It was time to permanently incorporate the South into the Empire. The Episcopal, Methodist and Catholic establishment churches remained predictably quiet as the media campaign promoting racial intermarriage went into high gear. The 1870s-1880s media cry promoting "racial intermarriage" found support from those who were willing to support "empire." Racial intermarriage is the empire's final solution to the problem of diversity.

At this time, being a member of the Republican Party meant that one was expected to support its programs. At least, one did not condemn them. There were even some, like Col. John Singleton Mosby of the famed "Mosby Rangers" of the former Confederacy, who joined the "Black Republicans" to receive preferential treatment.

Black Nationalism

Unfortunately for the Empire timetable, the campaign promoting racial intermarriage foundered on the rocks of Black nationalism. The former slaves, understanding at last how they were being used as pawns of the ITC establishment, tried to banish ALL Whites from the Southland which they now ruled under the protection of federal bayonets. The Blacks planned to turn the conquered Southland into a Black republic.

The story of how Black Nationalism forced the ITC to switch sides and ally itself with the conquered White South is told in Vigilantes Of Christendom, Hoskins, Virginia Publishing Company, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, Virginia, $18 copy. Black Nationalism was the last thing the ITC expected.

Overnight the formerly hostile media began to support the crushed Southern Whites to help them remove Black rule which also made it possible for the ITC to save some part of the wealth they had accumulated during and after the late war. Help from this unexpected ally, combined with the ubiquitous rise of the Phineas Priesthood over the entire country, put an end to the integration plan - for a time. (See Numbers, Chapter 25.)[9]

The Garvey Case

In the 1930s, 50,000 Blacks gathered in a tent city on the site of what is now Newport News. They wanted to go back to Africa. Plans had been made with Liberian officials and land had been set aside to settle on.

Their leader was a giant of Jamaician birth, Marcus Garvey.[10] This remarkable Negro had put together an organi-9 All nations feel entitled to their own land where they can worship their own gods free from the groping greedy hands of outsiders. This includes Blacks, Jews, Chinese, Japanese AND Saxons. The separatist interests of nations are opposed by integrationist interests of economic empires. The ITC hires help from all nations and inflames one national group against another to prepare the ground for Dharma enforcement. But, the Dharmatoids' treatment of Marcus Garvey, Rabbi Kahani, and the Weaver separatists exposes the mailed fist beneath the silk glove of empire "brotherhood." Separatists are the natural enemies of empire integrationists every time they meet.

---

zation of six million dues-paying members who wanted to separate from White society and return to Africa.

His organization bought several war surplus "Liberty Ships" of WWI vintage, sailed them down to Hampton Roads, and made ready to embark the waiting colonists. He called it the "Black Star Line."

A Coast Guard cutter pulled alongside one of the ships. A search uncovered a case of contraband whiskey. The ships were confiscated, Marcus Garvey was jailed, and his effort was destroyed. The story is told in Cox's Teutonic Unity and War Cycles/Peace Cycles. Plans had been made for Marcus Garvey's followers, and returning them to Africa wasn't one of them.

The Classic Case

The ITC propaganda machine continuously propagandizes the glories and correctness of integration. All state agencies promote its glories. The "Pocahontas" affair in Virginia was blessed and encouraged by the Church of England. The intermarriage of the Spanish conquerors with South American Indians was encouraged and blessed by the Catholic Church. And the silence of today's tax- free establishment Churches bless interracial marriage. They are all paid not to mention God's prohibitions - and they don't.

THE BALAK PLAN

All plans of integration conquest follow closely yesteryear's master plan - the Balak Plan. It was an attempt to 10 Col. Ernest Sevier Cox told me that Garvey was a thoroughbred. Even the palms of his hands were black.

Dharmatize our entire nation. So that we would never forget, it was recorded:

> "Balak, the king of the Moabites, who had ... a friendship ... with the Midianites, saw how great the Israelites were grown, he was much affrighted ... he ... did not judge it prudent to fight against them ... so he resolved to send ambassadors to the Midianites about them.
>
> "Now the Midianites, knowing there was one Balaam ... who lived by the Euphrates, and who was the greatest of the prophets at that time ... sent ... to entreat the prophet to come to them, that he might imprecate curses to the destruction of the Israelites.
>
> "So Balaam received the ambassadors, ... and told them ... that God ... had raised him to great reputation on account of the truth of his predictions; ... and not to persist in their enmity against the Israelites ... Balaam ... went along with the ambassadors ... (to Balak)." Antiquities 4:6:3

Plot To Destroy Israel

The prophet Balaam advised Balak, the ruler of the Moabites, that he must do the following in order to destroy the Israelites:

> "If you ... gain a victory over them (the Israelites, then do thusly)
>
> "Set out the handsomest ... of your daughters ... then ... send them to be near the Israelites ... and when they are enamored of them ... persuade them to leave off their obedience to their own laws and the word of that God who established them ... for by this means God will be angry at them. ... when Balaam had suggested this counsel to them, he went his way.
>
> "... this Balaam ... did ... suggest that advice to them, by making use of which, our enemies had well-nigh corrupted the whole multitude of the Hebrews with their wiles ..." Antiquities 4:6:6-13[11]

One must clearly understand the point being made. Strangers, unable to destroy the Israelites openly, tried to make them violate God's Law against intermarriage.[11]

The proof that destruction is certain is that God's people have been destroyed in every nation where intermarriage has been allowed.[12]

Once Again

Once again Essau has set in motion the same old Balak Plan that he used so many years ago. Nothing has changed. He kept the Black Slaves from being freed into a land of their own. He prevented the descendants of those here from leaving. He has brought in hordes of strangers. His media displays them adorned in paint and costly apparel, and his government and courts give them preferential opportunities to accumulate wealth. All this is being done for the sole purpose of destroying Israel to remove the danger to the lawless ones.

Seeing their approaching doom, like sheep our people mill in consternation not knowing what to do. At some point the 11 LAW: God absolutely forbids racial intermarriage. GOD'S LAW commands: (1) Thou shalt not take a wife...of the Canaanites ... but thou shall go ... to my kindred, and take a wife." Gen 24:3,4. (2) "We have trespassed against our God, and have taken strange (nokriy - alien) wives of people of the land." Neh 13:23-27. (3) "They have dealt treacherously against the Lord: for they have begotten strange (zûwr - racial alien) children." Hosea 5:7. (4) Ezra the priest stood and said "Ye have transgressed, and have taken strange wives ... now ... separate yourselves from the people of the land and from the strange wives ... until the wrath of our God (plague) for this matter be turned from us." Ezek 10:10-14. (5) "Neither shalt thou make marriages with them: thy daughter thou shalt not give unto his son, nor his daughter shalt thou take unto thy son." Deut 7:3. (6) "We have trespassed against our God, and have taken strange (nokriy: foreign, non- relative, alien) wives ... therefore let us make a covenant with our God to put away all the wives, and such as are born of them, according to the ... commandment of our God." Ezek 10:2- 3.

---

12 Copies of the Balak Plan handout are available from the Virginia Publishing Company, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, Virginia 24505, $5 per 100. Please add $3 p&h.

simple word that will deliver them will at last sink into their consciousness. They will stop following their lawless priests and leaders. Instead, they will remember:

"If ye love me obey my commandments." John 14:15

And they will turn to their God who will then bless them.

LETTERS

PAUL HILL: "Dear Dick: Sorry to be slow to respond. I am astounded at the amount of mail I have coming in. I am currently working on a book in which I would (I believe) make reference to the Geneva Bible. I hate to request such an expensive reference book but believe it could make a significant contribution. The Lord is rich blessing me here. I would not trade this experience for anything in the world." Paul Hill 459364, Florida State Prison, Box 747, R-2-N- 17, Starke, Florida 32091

RKH: Rev. Paul Hill is awaiting martyrdom for liquidating an abortionist doctor. His story can be found in Vigilantes of Christendom, Hoskins

UNFILTERED NEWS

RUBY RIDGE REVISITED: "The US Marshal Service last month bestowed its highest award for valor to five of its men involved in the 1992 shoot-out at Ruby Ridge, Idaho. This award, for 'exceptional courage' and 'sound judgment,' went to the man who shot a 14 year old boy in the back and another marshal who provoked the firefight by killing the boy's dog. Later, their 'high degree of professional competence' included calling in the FBI Hostage Rescue Team which resulted in killing the boy's mother, Vicki Weaver." In Touch International, Bill PO Box 28240, Tempe, AZ 85285

RKH: None of the murderers of innocent American citizens at Ruby Ridge or Waco have been indicted. Instead, the killers receive awards and commendations - with the approval of the administration for whom they work. Rewarding evil makes certain that evil will strike again. Their acts show both the individuals members and their organizations to constitute a clear and present danger to American citizens. They are out of control and should be disbanded. If they are not others will suffer.

Coushatta

Two hundred and fifty militia arrived in Coushatta, Louisiana armed with cameras to prevent Lynn Truman Crawford, 42, and his 78 year old mother from being slaughtered.

The two had been terrorized by FBI agents who without warrants, arrived in their yard demanding that Mrs. Bonnie Crawford sign a release to search her house. Their excuse was that they wanted to question Lynn about the Oklahoma City bombing. Because they had no warrant Mrs. Crawford asked them to leave. They refused. Because she suffers from poor circulation she asked to sit - the agents would not allow it. They prevented her from entering her house. When she tried to get out of the sun - they forbade it. When she tried to drive off in her car - they blocked her in.

After an hour, the FBI agents presented what they said was a warrant. Mrs. Crawford then gave them a key and told them her dog was inside. They kicked in the kitchen door and sent in an attack dog. Mrs. Crawford's dog engaged the attack dog and chased him out into the yard where the government agents riddled it with bullets - killing it.

Lynn Crawford heard the shots and saw his dog being killed. Fully aware of Waco and Ruby Ridge he retrieved his father's shotgun and confronted them shouting, "Stop it! Back off!" They did. Only then did they announce, "FBI," and left.

Four hours later they returned and sealed off the isolated Crawford residence, set up two road blocks, and called in two Black Hawk military helicopters. The siege that was to last six days was under way. Bonnie Crawford was taken away by patrol car but was allowed to return to her home the next day and stayed with her son until he surrendered.

Lynn Crawford called Norm Resnick, a Colorado talk show host, who called the Alabama Gadsden Minutemen who called Johnny Johnson of the Texas Constitutional Militia. The militia phone tree was then activated with the news that the FBI was at it again in Coushatta.

The feds cut the telephone communications several times, but Johnny Johnson was able to talk them into restoring the service so that communication with Lynn Crawford could continue. When the telephone was reconnected Lynn Crawford exclaimed, "These people have come here to kill me! I am firmly convinced that is what they came here to do."

Johnny Johnson said that militia contact was established in all states within 45 minutes. The phones then began ringing at Red River Parish Sheriff's office. According to the Houston Chronicle, Chief Deputy Sheriff Warren Perkings said, "We were getting calls within three or four hours of this standoff. There were probably a hundred of them (today) from all over the country."

Bob Worn of the Norela Common Militia reported that many of the conversations with both local and fed agents were tape recorded. Jeff Randall of the Alabama Gadsden Minutemen called the FBI and gave this solemn warning: "Militia are headed that way. If you don't back off there is a possibility that there could be blood in the streets." Polite calls from the militia network to federal and local agencies continued through the siege.

Mike Kemp said in the Gadsden Minuteman Newsletter, "Video is our most effective weapon. Do what they don't expect. Confront them. They are trained to pursue. When you pursue them with video it destroys their plan."

Militia commanders advised the FBI; "Send in Bob Worn to negotiate." He agreed. Regarding the FBI, Worn observed, "The old timers were polite but the arrogant yuppie types gave me a cold chill."

The FBI asked him to deliver two messages; "We're not going away. We will do our job." and "Washington has given permission for Bob Worn to accompany Lynn Crawford from Coushatta to Shreveport to St. Louis." This last was to assure Crawford that he had a friendly eye during all legs of the journey.

Specific terms of surrender were drawn up and accepted by federal authorities. Based on these terms, Crawford surrendered. Contrary to the terms, he was held at the newly-constructed Federal Prisoner Transfer Facility at Will Rogers International Airport, Oklahoma City. He has since been transferred to Ste. Genevieve County Jail near St. Louis, Missouri.

According to the New Orleans FBI agent, John Fleming, Crawford was indicted by a federal grand jury in Missouri on February 14th. He is accused of willfully failing to pay child support across state lines. This evidently means that the FBI is into child support collections now.

Bob Worn says that he saw no warrant. "Only thing was a Writ of Seizure." he said. By the time of Crawford's arraignment, a great many documents had been "found."

The people of Coushatta applauded the militia. "So gratifying to see people from out of town show up to help out with the feds." Bonnie Crawford reports "The whole community is very supportive and couldn't be more wonderful." Mike Kemp of Alabama Gadsden Minutemen summed it up: "He's still alive." (Excerpted from Coushatta, Louisiana - FBI Told To Back Off, by Reinhold Sommerstedt.

RKH: I was told that this story was printed locally and was blacked out nationally. Negotiations with the FBI are fraught with peril. The FBI sent a robot to the Weaver's cabin door at Ruby Ridge to deliver a paper. The robot contained a 12 guage shotgun. If Randy had reached out to get the paper his head would have been blown off. The FBI could then have walked in unopposed, disposed of the children and destroyed the evidence a' la Waco, Gordon Kahl and Oklahoma City. This would have saved them the embarrassment of being sued and paying $3.2 million dollars reparations. No one would have been left alive to collect.

CHAOS: "About 1 million whites were murdered, robbed, assaulted or raped by blacks in 1992." Straight Talk, PO Box 960, Pigeon Forge, TN 37868

G0ETZ GUILTY! A jury containing four blacks and two hispanics said Bernhard Goetz acted recklessly and without justification when he shot Darrell Cabey in 1984 and was ordered to pay the black $43 million. (ASA - Internet)

RKH: "Jury nullification" by informed Saxons can overturn any statue strangers pass. Therefore, to achieve absolute rule, "jury nullification" and juries must be abolished. The best way to abolish it is to abuse Saxons with juries made up of lawless strangers. The Law says: "Thou shalt not have a stranger to rule over thee." "Strangers" are not made in the image of the WORD - they are Lawless. Their resulting Lawless decisions has brought the ancient Saxon jury system into disrepute among Saxons. Strangers intend to take this disrepute and replace the jury system with their own appointed "judges" who can be counted on to render PC decisions. This is the reason for the series of "show-trials" in which Bernard Goetz is the latest martyr.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 261

ERECTING AN ELECTRONIC IRON CURTAIN

by Louis Beam

Information Freedom

The internet, perhaps the last truly free means of information exchange in the Western World, may soon be choked by censorship and government controls.

The circumscribing of the net may cause the death of what has become the first people-to-people exchange of ideas and information on a worldwide basis. The forces behind this effort appear at first glance to be an unlikely coalition of conspirators: the CIA, some Jewish Religious groups, and various foreign governments. While this unholy alliance for censorship and control may seem unusual to some, politics makes the bed for these strange fellows. Indisputably, an international cabal of special interest groups both within and out of governments are working both openly and secretly to end the unregulated direct exchange of information between people. At stake is nothing less than the regaining of information control which the internet has shattered. Up for grabs is nothing more than the thinking and decision-making abilities of informed men.

The Old Way

Information has flowed from the top down for most of this century. Filtering of information by middle men from government, newspapers, radio, and then television has left most Americans depending upon Paul Harvey "for the rest of the story." Suddenly, almost without warning, the internet mushroomed into popularity connecting people all over the world together electronically and thereby threatening the power of those who disseminate information. If information is power, then the control of information is more power. The ideas of men are shaped by what they are told. For those who hope to erect a "New World Order" upon what they view as the antiquated ashes of free speech, control of the internet has jumped to near top of the list of "things to do." Governments and religious groups manipulate and control people by what they are allowed to know or not know. A decision has been made by the information brokers to end unregulated information exchange. Overnight the propaganda begins as these forces build their case for control and censorship.

Pornography On The Net

Quickly the nightly news lights up with horror stories of pornography on the net. Minutes later the same channel runs four hours of lurid programming bringing profanity, sex, sodomizers and violence into the homes of viewers who were just shocked about porno on the net. Newspapers carry feature-length stories about children being lured from home over the computer telephone line, as if somehow typing a request to a child for sex over the phone line is more effective than saying it over the same phone line. The Anti-Defamation League issues a report saying that bomb plans can be found on the net along with anti-Jewish opinion. As if the same were not available in every public library in the United States. Politicians in Washington began to talk about "protecting the children." The same politicians whose destructive social policies and no-win wars have destroyed more mothers' sons than all the pagan empires of the past. Rabbi Abraham Cooper calls for censorship of politically incorrect ideas in Canada and asks for the establishment of an "internet police." A delegation from the Nazi-hunting Simon Wiesenthal Center in Vienna, Austria, which for the most part has run out of 80 year old former Nazis to hunt, takes on the new task of information censors and asks Italian Prime Minister Lamberto Dini, European Union president, to back World Jewish Congress initiatives to stop those who disagree on the impact and importance of the holocaust from using the internet. Then in a joint effort of the ADL and the Simon Wiesenthal Center, letters are mailed to Internet service providers in earl;y 1996 urging providers not to carry messages that contain non-complimentary opinion about Jews, which is quickly labeled as "cyber-hate speech." This is but a glimpse of the public efforts of the information censors to unleash "info police" on the net. It is clear that those who have previously served as the middlemen of politically correct information are distraught at their having been taken out of the loop.

The Government Steps In

Meanwhile, sources within the federal government, who wish to remain unnamed, reveal that there are considerable behind-the- scene efforts to bring the flow of information under government control. In the labyrinth bunkers of the CIA in Arlington, Virginia, a team of planners has begun discussion on how to control the net by establishing internet node servers throughout the system that will act as a "strainer" of unwanted electronic information flow (there are indications this process has begun now). The Army Security Agency (ASA), which has the world's most sophisticated signals intelligence and electronic monitoring capabilities has began setting up clandestine servers to monitor traffic, catalog, classify, and archive.

Election Iron Curtain

From the above sampling of events, it is clear that both government and pressure groups with sacred cows to defend have determined that uncontrolled information flow between people is a threat to their interests. The results of this statist thinking will lead to a "war on information" similar to the "war on drugs," curtailing free speech and informed opinion. Like the war on drugs the real objective will not be to save society but rather to control society. CYBER WARS are breaking out between the people and government over the flow of information. What is wanted by these would be internet thought police is for government and a religious group to pass on what is proper for the public to know and censor that which they consider not proper - an electronic iron curtain.

Another Inquisition

Efforts at censorship by religious groups are not new to this continent. The Spanish Catholic Church saw nothing of value among the writings of Aztecs and Mayans and so ordered their books burned in contempt. Like them, Rabbi Abraham Cooper and the Anti- Defamation League see nothing of value in the world of those who beg to disagree. Black robed priests yelled the smear words of the 16th century "Vile heretic!" and labeled non-catholics "pagan savages." Rabbi Cooper and his religious cohorts of the new inquisition cry "anti-Semitic" and label those who believe differently "hatemongers." The words have changed, but for those shouting them the objective is the same: eliminate the opposition, the opponent is never answered; he is discredited. Fear kept many silent who would have otherwise opposed the Catholic Inquisition. Fear of the rack and straps, of being labeled anti-Semitic will keep many quiet today. The call now for censorship by Rabbis is much like the pyres of Priests in the fifteenth century. It is an electronic equivalent of book burning. The zealot's willingness to accept only his personal vision of the world around him has led mankind down this same pernicious path before. Intolerance, solely it is clear, is not sole a non-Jewish characteristic. A new inquisition has begun. This one will seek out the heretics of the internet for the stake. Each age it seems, has its TORQUEMADA.

The Anti-Freedom Front

A warning of what is to come: as the Federal Government, Anti- Defamation League, and the Central Intelligence Agency seek to squelch or control the net, look for senseless acts of random electronic violence. These acts of subterfuge could well be committed by computer nerds at CIA and the ADL or their agent provocateurs and will appear to have been perpetuated by "white racists," "neo-nazis," "patriots," "extremist anti-government radicals," "hackers," or other identifiable dissidents of the right and left. The purpose of these incidents will be similar to those of a driveby shooting - to terrorize people into submission. In this case, consent is wanted for censorship rather than drug turf but the principle is the same: a political/religious gang wants control. Understand that establishment media, as the propaganda arm of the government , will on cue make the call for censorship of the net. Those who have the resources to employ the best politicians money can buy also own newspapers, radio and television networks, for all serve their design. That design being the control of people through the filtering of information and repressive laws. After investing billions of dollars in media/information empires and politicians, all geared to work in tangent keeping people under control, these modern day equivalents of the book burners of former ages will not willingly let unfettered information exchange hinder their efforts.

Whip Cracker Hired

The new head of the CIA, John Deutsch, was hand picked by Bill Clinton and his backers to carry forward plans for a technological police state to rest upon the typical shoulders of bullet proof vests, black boots, and front doors shattering under their assault. Air Force Lieutenant Colonel Edward G. Lansdale, CIA operative par excellence, personally recruited the new CIA director for his first government job in the early 1960s at just 22. Deutsch became one of Secretary of Defense Robert MacNamara's ("we never intended to win in Viet Nam") whiz kids in the Pentagon who would help to design the Vietnam War; a slaughterhouse for other kids not so fortunate as to have political connections. Deutsch has held political posts under Democratic administrations and advisory or academic positions during Republican administrations. Deutsch became part of the elite permanent government of the United States that is accountable to no one, and virtually immune to the oversight process. The shell game of elections and political positions, always on the public dole, never elected, spending their entire lives trying to control the affairs of others. Much like the secret CIA Air Base (Area 51) at Groom Lake in southeastern Nevada, there is an aureole of secrecy surrounding their lives and functions. Deutsch's grandfather was a diamond merchant who ran the Zionist Federation of Belgium and he is therefore expected to work closely with the ADL and other pro-censorship groups. President Clinton appointed Deutsch as Director Central Intelligence in May of 1995 at the moment when the bombing of the federal kindergarten in Oklahoma had allowed his Administration to launch a maximum political/propaganda counter-offensive against the rapidly growing discontent with, and mistrust of, the federal government. Black smoke, mutilated bodies, dying children, crying distraught mothers, created exactly the atmosphere the government needed to turn things around.

Censorship is a word of many meanings. In a narrow sense it of course may refer to suppression of information, or ideas. In a broader sense however, it is the rape of the human mind: Taking away that which is needed to make fair, informed opinions about this life. The mental rapist of today is no different in his goals than the back alley pervert who by force assaults a defenseless woman, taking from someone else that which he has no right to. Both acts are the works of the most contemptible sorts of humankind, desperate men, fearful of the light of day.

It seems ironic to many that the ADL which has made innumerable calls for "diversity" would spearhead these efforts at censorship. What is being called for by them, the Simon Wiesenthal Center, and Rabbi Cooper is the equivalent to "Bosnian ethnic cleansing," a sort of information cleansing of the internet. Perhaps a new organizational motto of "many Cultures, One Opinion" would be more in line with true ADL objectives. Is it not just a little bit odd that the same people who fear firearms in the hands of the people fear information in the minds of people. The ADL supported the recent government ban of certain types of firearms just as it supports government action to censor the net. As firearms laws only disarm honest citizens who obey the laws, information bans only affect people who desire to think for themselves. One pundit has already quipped that "I'll give up my information when they pry my cold dead fingers from the keyboard."

In closing, the author would like to make two additional things clear. First, there are Jews who oppose censorship, although to this point their voice is but a whisper compared to the intolerance of the Anti-Defamation League and Rabbi Cooper. Second, that writing about Jewish religious leaders and government spymasters operating in a collusive effort to erect an electronic iron curtain to restrict freedom of speech and information does not make one anti-Semitic or anti-government. The government is erecting a police state.

NOTE: Louis Beam served two tours of duty in Vietnam as a door gunner on a UH1D Bell helicopter. He was decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross for Heroism, and has received several other medals. For only the third time in U.S. history, he and several others were charged in 1987 with Sedition against the government. He was tried by a jury of his peers at Fort Smith, Ark. in 1988 and found not guilty. Mr. Beam holds a BA in history from the Univ. of Houston.

THE BATTLE OF MAJUBA

The history os S. Africa is the ongoing story of the Afrikaners to be free. They first fought the tyrannical Dutch East India Company, then the government of the Netherlands. Their last enemy has been the most persistent, savage, untruthful, untrustworthy, un-Christian, and underhanded - the British Empire. This enemy has been responsible for invasion after invasion, one broken treaty after another; murder, rape, pillage, alliances with strangers, and concentration camps that murdered tens of thousands of women and children. These abuses have been met time after time by the Boers in open conflict as told in the story of the Battle of Majuba that took place in the 1st Boer War of 1880-1881. It was translated from The Patriot Feb 24, 1995.

"Carter, a British correspondent, was a witness at the Battle of Majuba. He relates that after the battle the Borere asked but these two questions to the British; 'Why were the British gunsights set for so far away while the Boere were so nearby?' and; 'Why did the British start the battle on a Sunday?'[1]

"These two questions describe the Boer nation's way of life in an exceptional manner. The Boere were a group of individuals of whom each acts on his own initiative during the battle, each had his own planning strategy for his particular situation, while the British had to wait and act on a command. The order to adjust sights for shorter range never came in the ensuing panic and they did not dare to use their own discretion.

1 "Boere" means "farmer" in Afrikaans.

"The question over the Sunday dispute also points to the way of living of the Boere of old. Sunday was a day of rest, a day devoted to the honour of God and it caused a great deal of unhappiness to think that the English used this day to put into action their war tactics. Small pieces of history like this make you realize who and what your forefathers were.

"While going up the mountain you realize that the Boere must have been outstanding soldiers, for without shelter they slowly climbed the first part of the mountain in four hours. It feels unreal that the ground on which you now walk was where the battle took place and where your forefathers won the decisive battle of the first Anglo-Boer War.

"On Majuba mountain you experience again the manly courage and boldness of the Boere as you walk about and see the exact places where the British fighting lines were placed. You see where the Gordon Highlanders took up position - a regiment known for its exceptionally brave soldiers. You follow the path with Comdt Ferreira and Field-cornet S. Roos and D. Malan followed against the northern side till they were nearly on top and split into three groups. You look out over the plateau and see the place where the Boere camp stood and where Gen Piet Joubert earlier that morning at about six o'clock matter-of-factly said that the English must be taken off the mountain as soon as possible.

"Before your mind's eye you see how 150 men on horseback charged to the foot and with a rifle in one hand ascend the mountain. There on top it is difficult to understand why

Gen. Sir George Colley and his 600 men at that stage still did not realize the danger. He even sent a heliographic message to his camp at Mount Prospect and said that the situation is completely under control.

"He still believed that a handful of Boere only served to disguise the main Boere evacuation of Loings-neck and sent word that the Boere were only wasting their ammunition.

"He perhaps had a good reason because in little more than five hours of shooting only four British were wounded. What Colley did not realized is that the shooting was a cover by the men older than 50 years, who were sent to distract the British attention from the younger men who in three groups were reaching the last part of the top of the mountain.

"On top we walk to where Colley and his second in command Cmdr Rommily of the Naval Brigade stood when Rommily was fatally wounded. You witness Cooley's astonishment when he realized that it was not a ricochet bullet but a brilliant shot of a Boer about 600 yards away. You also realize like Colley that all Boere were marksmen because their every shot hit a target.

"Towards twelve o'clock severe shooting took place and the first British line crumbled. An hour later the second line was subjected to the same grueling fire. You witness how the British panic when they were stormed by Boere from three different directions - it was the younger men who were all on top now. The British did not even know there were Boere on the crest, which is to say, on top and near them.

"It fills you with pride when you realize that although the Boere were only a third as many as the British, that every time a man fell it was from a shot fired by a Boere. We go and stand at the place where Colley was killed. Like a true British nobleman he died while still giving orders to his men. When he was killed many of his men in panic stricken flight plunged over the cliffs and were killed.

"The climax of the day on the mountain comes when you hear at the very end the respectful words of Carter as he wrote that after the victory and resounding success of the Boere, there were no sign of shouts of triumph or excessive joy - only compassion for the wounded while the Boere took care of them and carried them from the mountain, and a profound gratitude toward their Creator that He once again liberated them and their fatherland.

"The pride you felt is replaced by reverence and respect for your forefathers and you cannot do otherwise but feel by the true experience of the Battle of Majuba what the Boere went through for their freedom and fatherland."

LETTER FROM SOUTH AFRICA by K.J.

Bishop Tutu's inquisition commission is now talking about trials lasting for years instead of a few months. As long as they receive the outrageous salaries they are being paid, I can see them demanding that Whites be brought before them to receive justice well into the next century.

The whole thing is an exact repeat of what took place in the former Cape Colony during the 1800s just prior to the Great Trek. At that time Blacks and Coloreds were encouraged by Church of England missionaries, liberal magistrates and governors to lie about the Voortrekkers, and they lied very convincingly.

The case against Magnus Malan has had its moments. Two prime witnesses had the same wording and the same mistakes in their respective statements. One witness said he was threatened with arrest and told how to draw up his statement and it matched that of Opperman.

A strange thing has happened. A book called "Folk Treason" has appeared with all the information that we have needed for so many years. The author was in position to know who did what and named all those involved. We must believe that God has a plan for us.

The book cannot be all that comforting for some who suddenly find their names and deeds in print for all to see. It is a pity that it is only available in Afrikaans. Gen Tienie Groenewald was involved as the principal secret agent in establishing both the AWB and Conservative Party. According to a Weekend Star report of April 1996 under the heading "AWB Formed By Vorster Government. The plan is supposed to have backfired and resulted in the rise of militant neo- nazis," says a secret document edited by Norman Chandler. Both the AWB and CP were formed in opposition to the HNP. The book reminds me of removing a piece of wood and finding it full of termites. The author is retired and feels himself free to write. Whatever the reason it will certainly clear the air of long held suspicions and if all of it is true, we can understand why so many of our efforts came to naught. But there is still more to it. All those other movements had the same origin.

It also discusses the murder of Dr. H.F. Verwoerd and a NP candidate in the 1979 general elections. A Dr. Robert Smit and his wife, during an investigation found a secret account in the Union Bank in Switzerland that belonged to Dr. Diederichs, a former state president who went along with the agents that shot these people.

The quality of our drinking water has deteriorated. The authorities blame excessive rains.

There was panic selling at the Johannesburg stock exchange on May 9, 1996. Best Wishes, K. J."

WILLEM RATTE ARRESTED - RADIO DONDERHOEK SILENCED[2]

by Robert Slimp

"Commandant Willem Ratte, a swashbuckling military hero of S. Africa's wars against communist terrorism in Angola and South West Africa has been arrested. At the time of his arrest, he had been operating Radio Donderhoek without a license. He broadcast to a very small area with a radius of only about 50 kilometers, but his radio station was a beacon of freedom, truth and hope. On several occasions, the ANC/Communist government tried to close down the station, but Ratte always prevented this by his bravery and the support of friends.

"Technically however, Ratte was arrested, not because of his radio station but because of his illegal occupation of Fort Schanskop, an old Boer War site which he occupied with a small number of patriots in December 1993 to protest the handing over of his country to the ANC/Communists.

"General Constand Viljoen was supposed to mediate between the police and Ratte's men at the time of the seizure of For Schanskop. The police also promised Ratte that if he and his men would leave peacefully they would not be arrested.

"Two days later, the police "discovered" a locked room at the Fort (for which Ratte did not have a key). The room contained weapons and ammunition. Ratte was then charged with illegal possession. During the trial, the State prosecutor recommended a suspended sentence because of lack of evidence that Ratte had anything to do with the contents of this locked room. But, the judge gave him 20 years.

2 Southern Africa Update, Robert Slimp, 4636 Crystal Drive, Columbia, S. Carolina 29206 803-782-9024

"In his address to the court, Ratte declared that he was an officer of the old SA Defense Force and that he only gave allegiance to the old South African state as symbolized by the old RSA flag. He said he rejected the communist government which took his country over through treason and fraud.

"Ratte is now in jail and he has started a hunger strike. He is currently being held 23 hours each day in an isolation cell, without contact with anyone. He is being visited daily by his doctor but refuses to take any medicine.

"Willem Ratte is an officer and a gentleman. Above all he is an outstanding Christian who practices his faith. S Africa desperately needs more Willem Rattes! We must all pray for his early release. His ridiculous prison sentence can be compared to that given to Clive Derby-Lewis (another Commandant in the old SA Defense Force) when he was sentenced to death for a murder he did not commit.

"An interesting point: 3,784 people were arrested last year for the illegal possession of weapons. We are presently trying to find out how many of these were charged.

"Fellow Americans take note! We must never allow our country to be subverted from within as was South Africa, by enemies of freedom who would destroy us. The key is our immigration policies and our right to own guns. If we lose these two battles, we too will become another South Africa. We must not allow this to happen!"

LETTERS

DHARMA: "R.K. Hoskins; Enclosed is a newspaper picture of a stranger pushing "tolerance" so he can be personally accepted. My observation - the area in which I live used to be 98% White. Today to see Black men with White women, who are almost always blond, is common. But it is still rare to see a White man with a Black woman." S.A. - California

RKH: The serpent has always been after Eve because she is the most vulnerable. I Adam & Eve 18:7-9 from the "Lost Books" says; "God carried away the serpent from Adam and Eve, threw it on the shore and it landed in India." From India, once more has come the serpent with its "Dharma." The target is the same. Eve is the most vulnerable and so she is the serpent's foremost victim. Our shield is the same as it has always been - the WORD. The reader has been appointed priest by the WORD. It is he who must spread the truth. There is no one else.

DAVID LANE'S LETTER: "Dear Dick; Judge Matsch is a Denver legend. He was the judge who supervised the forced integration of the Denver school system which makes him responsible for its destruction. Anyone familiar with recent Denver history and this Judge's judicial record will have reservations about justice being served in the upcoming McVeigh trial. B.J. - Colorado

---

PRISONER: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Our forced 'integration' gives us first hand knowledge of the things you say. I believe we are the guinea pigs of the ITC. One example: Last month our food supply ran very low and we were fed poorly for days. When the supply trucks finally arrived they fed us two or three excellent meals in a row. During the drought, the normally sheepish population of this place began grumbling. After two meals of good food, everyone was smiles and sheepish again. We are perfect 'guinea pigs.' Thank God I only have 12 months left." M. R. - Minnesota

---

DE LA BECKWITH: "Dear Squire Hoskins: Thank you for telling me about your book that was returned to you. The cause was a deliberate act of spite by the Black in charge - it gave her a charge. A few weeks prior to this incident she sent $200 worth of books back to Col Mohr. Ah well, as one of my long time Roman Catholic friends used to tell me, 'God is punishing you for your misspent youth. Go to confession and repent.'" Byron de la Beckwith VI, 407 E. Pascajoula St., Jackson, Mississippi 82205

GORDON SELNER: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Since the Selner family cannot speak for themselves I would like to thank you on their behalf. Here is a small update concerning Gordon; we are trying to schedule a bail hearing for June. His Omnibus hearing is Aug 7th with the trial date sometime in September. " Y.R. - Montana

Canada

INDIANS: "Dear Mr. Hoskins; This month's issue of "Beautiful BC" contained something that may interest you - an 1860s picture of some BC Indians. The Indians in the picture had primitive features, considerably different from today's Indians. That may explain why we are having so much trouble with the Indians today. The Israelites broke God's law and intermarried with them. Now they have the get-up-and-go to become politically active, and are pushing for all they can get. Once again we are paying for our sins." R.K. - Canada

UNFILTERED NEWS

RON BROWN: "Commerce Secretary Ron Brown was promoted to instant sainthood, leaving behind several brewing scandals that might have been an embarrassment to his White House pal seeking re- election. Was that why Mr.

Clinton was laughing as he left the funeral? That makes over 45 people closely linked with Bill Clinton who have died in operations or investigations since he took public office." Global Glance, PO Box 28240, Tempe, AZ 85285, May 1, 1996

WHITE OFFICERS ORGANIZE: Sgt Ed Kirste with the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department has organized the Association of White Male Peace Officers whose goals are to protect the rights of white male law-enforcement officers. Sgt. Kirste undertook the organization after the black, asian and female peace officers had formed their own organizations. The White group came under immediate criticism from racist minority groups.

DIVORCE CONSEQUENCES: "Divorce is bad morally, emotionally, physically, and spiritually. Divorced or separated men receive in-patient psychiatric care 21 times more frequently than do married men, and heighten their risk of cancer (5/4 World). As a rule today, divorced women see a decline in their standard of living of about 73%, while divorced men, as a rule, see a gain in theirs of about 42%. Day-care costs, and the long-term effects on children, are other consequences to be considered." Calvary Contender, May 15, 1996

SELF-ESTEEM: "'An American Association of University Women's study done a few years ago showed adolescent girls are suffering from a near-terminal meltdown of their self-esteem. White high school girls came in at the bottom, followed by white teen-age boys, then African-American girls. The highest scores were posted by African-American boys." (4/14 H. Times). The self- esteem scores were roughly the reverse of those groups' actual achievement measurements. In international comparisons, American students have the highest perception of their abilities - and the lowest scores. Murderers, rapists, and terrorists often have qualities associated with high self-esteem - 'egotism,' 'arrogance,' 'conceit,' and 'narcissism.'" Calvary Contender, 1800 Sparkman Dr., Huntsville, AL 35816.

TERRORISM: "President Clinton can maybe fool some, but not all. We know that the Government of America has been, and continues to foment TERRORISM HERE IN AMERICA and around the world! Who precipitated the Randy Weaver massacre, the Waco Holocaust, the Oklahoma City Holocaust, the New York Trade Center fiasco and multiple of scenarios of murder in the name of law and order? Directly or indirectly the US Government agents perform all these wonderful services." KC, 5393 Carleton Rd, Mariposa, CA 95338, May 1996.

Mideast

INTERESTING: "The South African Rand Daily Mail (15 May 1972) under a headline 'Jews Are Not White' quoted Jewish scholar, Prof. Leonard Fein of Brandeis University in the US, as addressing a congress of the S. African Jewish Board of Deputies in Johannesburg, and saying: 'You are not Whites - either esymbolically or literally ...'"

In his book 'The Genetics Of The Jews' (Clarendon Press, Oxford, 1978, A. E. Mourant declared: 'Nearly all Jewish communities show a substantial proportion of African Negroid marker genes, such as to imply a total Negro admixture of the order of 5% to 10%." Gothic Ripples, March 1996, Thorgarth, Greenhow Hill, Harrogate, HG3 5JQ, England.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter #262

STATE OF THE SAXON NATION

I - POLITICAL

The fact that a person pays taxes is proof that he lives in a feudal society and is governed by a king (or a king by any other name; ie president, premier, monarch, etc.). Being ruled by a king in an episcopal system (rule from the top down) is alien to the Saxon whose natural habitat is the self-sufficient farm (SSF) where all his needs are met from his own efforts under direction of his God. His own militia provides protection, education is provided within the community, the country store handles the overflow of goods from cottage industry, AND, there is no tax- tribute paid to anyone.

The king is put on the throne by the international merchant to protect his interests. His "retainer" is the right to collect taxes.

Everyone pretends not to know that the king was put in office to serve his master. He just can't come out and admit that he is hired help put on the payroll to protect the merchant. Instead, the king tells the people that "the government is here to protect you." The king must then search to find an enemy to protect the people from.

Establishment kings pick fights to have "bad guys" to war against. Southerners were made to "shoot first" when a fleet loaded with troops was sent to invade and occupy Charleston Harbor.

If those selected to be "bad guys" can't be coerced into doing something dangerous and terroristic then something along that line must be done in their name. This is how the bogus KKK, recruited from federal agents and occupation soldiers, came into existence after the War Between the States. The atrocities committed by this group justified the things done against the South by the occupation government.

This is the reason the king's agent showed Arab "terrorists" how to make the bomb that was used to blow up the New York trade towers, an act that was, unfortunately for the king, recorded on tape.

The threat of a developing "terror" in the land is the goad used by kings to justify the collection of tribute and other treasure from the people.[1]

The king's retainer is the right to collect tribute from the people. It is not the merchants' concern how this is done or

1 In the Far East, kings seldom bother with such niceties. They have a history of doing as they like with the people they rule and liquidating those who object. However, if ruling kings are unable to protect the international merchant and his goods, the merchant will find a replacement for the king.

what group does it - Democrat, Republican, Communist, or barbarian invader. The thing that matters is that the merchant and his goods are protected.

State Of The Media

Unsophisticated observers sometimes ask - why doesn't the media blow the whistle and expose the king's transgressions? This was done in earlier days when there were countless locally owned county newspapers. Today, the mass media is owned by the international merchant. He selects kings to be elected by the people by giving them publicity. He pulls kings down by merely ignoring them. The voters can only vote for candidates they know - they can do nothing else. They can only know those the media tells them about. They vote for the ones they know best, but the only ones they know are the ones publicized by the media owner. This means that the ones elected are in fact agents of the media- owner.

The Reason For Foreign Influence

Many people misunderstand and therefore underestimate the function and importance of the media.

Robert Maxwell, media-owner par excellence, was found floating in the Atlantic. He owned a great many media outlets including many in America. Upon learning of his death, Swiss banks descended on his estate to claim their media property. This revealed that "king-maker" Maxwell was not the owner but merely a media- manager. The real "king-maker" was another level up and operated through Swiss banks.

If Maxwell were only a manager, it may be assumed that the rest of the world's media moguls, including the Australian Rupert Murdoch, may also be only "managers" for the same Swiss banks. If this is in fact the case, it would explain why

Western governments pass laws requiring affirmative action, forced busing, unlimited immigration and allow Western industry to move to alien nations - all acts that polls say are opposed by the vast majority of Western peoples. To make sure that the reader fully understands what is being said, let's illustate with a hypothetical situation:

If, in a nation of 20,000,000 Saxons, there can be found only two people who are anti-Saxon - the media-owner will publicize these two so that one of them will be elected king. The entire nation of Saxons will then be ruled by one of the only two anti- Saxonites in the country - one who is an agent of the media-owner who was responsible for having him elected.

This is an extreme illustration, but a necessary one to make the point. The actual situation is not far removed from the following illustration. It is:

> There is not a single country in the Saxon West whose leaders are not hand picked by the media-owner for the people to choose between. The result is that there is not one leader in the West who holds his peoples interests above that of the media- owner who is responsible for having him elected. Since these leaders operate from Swiss banks, it follows that there is not one leader who is not an agent of an alien power. This includes every single elected official in the West who was selected by the media-owner to receive favorable publicity - from president of the country down to many who sit on local city councils. The media is much more than just the media.

ECONOMIC STATE

A nation can be conquered economically as well as politically. The existence of usury banks is proof that the people of a country have been conquered economically. Whoever owns the usury- bank is the conqueror.

A usury contract is fraudulent from its conception - where the victim promises to repay 11 when only 10 exist. Repayment can only be made by taking from another victim - but a victim is required. "Usury," the ultimate monopoly, empties the countryside, creates the city and super-state, and demands taxes, socialism, and communism to protect the monopoly. Usury is a capital crime under Biblical law.[2]

Virginia was an extension of the British trade area. She was taxed unmercifully to support the king and to force her substantial subjects to borrow from the English usury banks to pay the required taxes.[3] People were desperate. Robinson lent his friends treasury money to pay taxes at 5% interest. When he died, the colony attempted to collect those loans. There was not enough money in circulation to pay. Bankruptcy was everywhere. in the mid-1700s ruined many Virginians and taught the rest to avoid debt at all costs. They took to heart the Biblical admonition:

> "Woe to him, who is great upon loans! How long can he carry his debts? Will they not suddenly rise for their interest? and Awake with terrors for you? And you will become like their prey." Habakuk 2:6 (Ferrar Fenton p 639)

First Banks

The first usury bank in America was not founded until

2 LAW: "Hath given forth upon usury ... he shall not live." Ezek 18:13; "Unto a stranger (Heb:zwe^r - racial alien) thou mayest lend upon usury; but unto thy brother thou shalt not lend upon usury." Deu 23:20

3 Virginia printed paper money which was paid back in to the treasury for taxes. The state did not issue new money but continued to collect taxes when there was no money to pay.

1780 (see p.8).

Since then, usury banks have spread like a cancer, snapping up land, businesses, and farms. While this conquest was taking place, hardly a voice was raised against it. The reason for this is that most of the voices that should have been raised were on retainers - the payroll of the international merchant. The politician who owed his election to the media, and the priest who gained advancement by co-operation - neither would fight the thing that gave them prosperity.

RELIGIOUS STATE

Two Masters

> "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon." Matt. 6:24

The above quote reveals a truth fully understood by the enemy. They know that the Saxon will obey his God or they will obey another god. The one whom they "obey" is their God.

The WORD and the WORD made flesh is not sent to all and sundry. The WORD clearly states to whom He is sent:

> "I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 15:24

This should be clear. To make doubly sure Jesus said it again:

> "These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying, Go not unto the way of the Gentiles, and unto any city of the Samaritans enter ye not: But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 10:5,6.

This is a call to separate and remain separated from all strangers. The WORD is made for those made in the image of God only:

> "Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you." Matt. 7:6:[4]

State Of Separation Today

For 350 years in America our people knew the WORD to be adamant in its intent to separate its people from strangers, and our people have done everything in their power to try to obey.

We know that we are not to have strangers in our midst "lest we learn their ways." Virginia on two separate occasions braved the wrath of the King of England and petitioned him to stop the slave trade in Black Africans so that they would not come into our midst. He refused.

After they were here the "Jefferson Plan" was adopted to repatriate the slaves. Males were bought at age 21 and females at 18 and settled by the tens of thousands on well equipped farms in Ethiopia. To stop this exodus the ITC introduced "radical abolition" to free the slaves instantly without compensation to their owners (stealing) and to prevent them from leaving the land.

---

4 "I will dwell among the children of Israel, and will be their God. Ex 29:45; "Children of Israel... You only have I known of all the families of the earth." Am 3:1-2; "For thou art not sent ... but to the house of Israel." EZ 3:5; "I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me, for they are thine." John 17:9; "For the Lord's portion is his people." De 21:17; "He showed his word unto Jacob, his statutes and his judgments unto Israel. He hath not dealt so with any nation: and as for his judgments, they have not known them." Ps 147:19; "Thou art a holy people unto the Lord thy God: The Lord thy God hath chosen thee to be a special people unto himself, above all people that are upon the face of the earth." Deut 7:6.

The Dutch governor of New Amsterdam (New York) prevented Jews from landing there until he received orders forcing him to allow them to land.

Now, strangers are pouring into the country.

State Of The Eating Ritual

When I was a child I often visited my father in New York and Philadelphia when he went back to medical school to specialize. In these cities strangers were not permitted into hotels and eating establishments.

The reason? Saxons when they ate said a blessing asking God to bless the food. Food blessed by God is "holy." "Holy food" may not be given to strangers.

> "Thou shall no stranger (zwer - racial alien) eat of the holy thing." Lev 22:10.

This is why Virginia farms had outside kitchens where the "house help" could eat their unblessed food separately. America, both North and South in the 1930s, met the problem of feeding strangers with separate eating facilities serving "unblessed" food to the one, and blessed food to the other. This practice carried over into schools, public facilities, and the military.

There are numerous scriptures dealing with to whom you could serve "blessed-food" and to whom you couldn't:

"If the priests daughter be married unto a stranger who is not of the priests kindred, she may not eat of the holy offerings, (Margin Note: That which Israelites offer to God before they eat.) Not withstanding if the Priest's daughter be divorced, and have no child, but is returned unto her father's house, she shall eat of her father's bread, as she did in her youth: but there shall no stranger (zwer - racial alien) eat thereof. ...

So shall they not defile the holy things of Israel, which they offer unto the Lord." Lev 22:10-15 (Geneva Bible)[5]

This is why most American states had laws on the books requiring separate eating accommodations. This was done in the attempt to obey God's Command. The Scriptures on this subject are many:

> "Withdraw from among the Gentiles and do not eat with them, and do not according to their actions, and be not their companion, for their actions are unclean and all their ways are defiled." Jubilees 22:17

> "They shall not profane the holy things of the children of Israel, which they offer unto the Lord. Or, suffer them to bear the iniquity of the trespass, when they eat their holy things: for I the Lord do sanctify them." Le 22:15-16

> "Neither of the hand of a stranger shall ye offer the bread of your God of any of these, because their corruption is in them, there is a blemish in them: therefore shall they not be accepted for you." Lev 22:25 (Geneva Bible)

The traditional eating ritual, almost abandoned in most places in Christendom, is now making a tentative revival. In other places strangers not only eat with Christians; they are permitted to call on God to "bless" the food.

Strangers Entering Houses Of Worship

The Churches in New York and Philadelphia as well as Virginia once had no strangers worshiping in them. I remember the first time I saw a Black in a church in Brownsville, Pennsylvania and commented on it. My mother told me not to try not to notice since "these people have not been taught

5 Our people have been appointed king and priests. Rev 1:5,6 the scriptures."

> "The stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh (the tabernacle) shall be put to death." No 18:7; "When the tabernacle is to be pitched... the stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh shall be put to death." Numbers 1:51

The greatest disgrace possible was for a stranger to enter a house of worship.

> "We are confounded, because we have heard reproach: shame hath covered our faces: for strangers are come into the sanctuaries of the Lord's house." Jer 51:51

Virginia, along with many other states, had laws against strangers worshiping with Saxons. The attempt to violate God's Law caused congregations to become upset.

To create an incident, the NAACP sent a delegation to crash Thomas Road Baptist Church. They knew that there would be trouble. The congregation grabbed them and threw them down the front steps and called it tresspassing. Of course, that was before the IRS explained things to Jerry Falwell. Now, Thomas Road has numerous strangers who are church members, and several times a year a stranger in invited to speak from the pulpit.

Separation By Law In Lynchburg

Racial separation enforced by law was a bonanza for the Black community in Lynchburg. It made no difference if White businesses were hurt by the competition - it was law. The objective was to help Blacks become self- sufficient in their own communities. To reach this ideal they were encouraged to provide whatever their people lacked - without White competition.

Fifth Street in Lynchburg was the hub of Black business activity. There were Black restaurants, drygoods stores, hardware stores, clothing stores, black run gas stations, junk yards, open air markets, motels, hotels, doctors, dentists, and the counterpart of whatever was in White society. On Saturdays the Blacks on 5th Street were shoulder to shoulder. Black businesses did very well.

The Black community had its own schools,[6] social events, beauty contests, and unofficial mayors who dealt with their White counterparts whenever official business made it necessary.

The rule was that White businesses could supply whatever Blacks did not provide their own community, but this had to stop when a Black went into business to supply the need.

White students walking from EC Glass High School to downtown Lynchburg had to walk the entire length of the Black 5th Street business district. If it was a hot day and you wanted a Coke, you could go into a Black restaurant and buy one at the cash register, but you couldn't sit and drink it. You were told to take your Coke and move along. Blacks were polite but they meant it. Fifth Street was a Black community. They would take your money but they didn't want you.

A certain segment of the Lynchburg business community resented the fact that Black money stayed in the Black business district. This business segment contributed liberally to the National Association For The Advancement Of Colored People.[7] The NAACP lobbied in federal courts to destroy 6 The black schools in particular had NO disciplinary problems. The Black principal and his Black teachers were noted for not tolerating disorder.

7 One Saturday in the '30s I sat on a rolled up rug as the patrioch of one of these elements sat in his rocking chair and bragged how he had established and financed the NAACP in Lynchburg. He said that he had made a pretty penny by doing it, too.

Virginia's separation laws. They did. Inside of five years more than half the Black businesses had folded from the competition - Black stores and motels stood vacant. They are now all gone except offices for two Black doctors, two Black lawyers, and two funeral homes. The Black community is told that now they have everything the White community has, and with "affirmative action" - even more. But the fact is, the destruction of the protected Black businesses has put the Blacks back working for Whites like they did in slave days. If you can believe the media - this is the equality that is desired.

Muslim missionaries are today in Lynchburg's Black population demanding that Blacks separate and do business with Black businesses. It is logical to assume that in time they will be demanding legal protection for their business and society.

NEED FOR INTEGRATION

It is well known to the reader that before the ITC can enter a land to buy and sell, peace must be made with the god of that land to prevent that god from ordering his followers to kill the merchant. The reader further knows that the most efficient method of securing peace is to add to the offending religion the neutralizing element of the world's Hindu trade religion - Dharma-"tolerance."

The ITC sees to it that the priests of the hostile god are paid to add unqualified "love" and "tolerance" to their ministry, thereby neutralizing the hostile attitudes of an over-protective god. In the case of Christianity, God the WORD is being asked to "love" and "tolerate" gods and people that the WORD condemns.

Imposing Dharma As State Policy

The retainer traditionally given co-operating priests is exemption from paying taxes. When the ITC was first making inroads into the West - money was freely lavished on cooperating priests. Now that there are so many priests willing to abandon the WORD in exchange for tax- exemption, they can afford to be more demanding. Dharma is now defined by decree. To keep from paying taxes churches must now comply with a lengthy check list:

Churches must:

1) Be incorporated.

2) Have a recognized creed and IRS approved form of worship.

3) A definite and distinct ecclesiastical government - an hierachical government.

4) IRS approved formal code of doctrine and discipline.

5) A denomination with a distinct religious history.

6) Ordained ministers.

7) Ministers educated in state accredited colleges.

8) Be neutral on political issues.

9) Have tax exempt status issued by IRS.

10) Pay a tax to the IRS for tax-exempt status.

11) Be engaged in activities furthering exclusively public purposes.

13) Cannot bar its services to the public.

14) The pastor must answer to the IRS as to the daily activities of the church.

15) The IRS must be privy to all financial transactions including sources, donors, expenditures, and if cash is used the leadership will be a likely suspect of money laundering.

16) Books and records available to the IRS at all times.

17) The Pastor must inform the IRS of the names of all donors.

18) Gifts to missionaries and evangelists over $600 require a form 1099.

19) May use only IRS approved methods of fundraising.

20) The pastor will be called to account by the IRS over any stand taken against the tax system. (501(c)3 requires the church support, which is why ministers always say to pay ones taxes.

21) Must submit names of all church workers; pastors, teachers, clerks, counselors, educational directors, office help, associates, and maintenance personnel.

22) Must give unlimited submission to civil magistrates pertaining to all laws - federal, state, and local - including public policy.

23) Must advocate and promote racial integration, and not oppose racial integration.

24) Must not publicly oppose licensing of church ministries.

25) May not engage in political activities opposing pornography.

26) May not support legislation saying that children belong to parents not the state.

27) May not form a Political Action Committee nor actively support legislation opposing lotteries and gambling activities.

28) May not advocate support of the US or state constitutions as the supreme law of the land. (Public policy takes precedence.)

29) May not actively participate in opposing the public school system.

30) May not publicly declare that the church is to obey God rather than the government.[8]

---

8 Baptist Trumpet 2711 S. East Street, Indianapolis, Indiana, 1-317-787-0830; CTD, POB 244342, Anchorage, AK 99524, May 1996.

Tax-Exemption Result On Organized Religion

One can never convince churches that the state has made tax- exempt of anything contrary to state policy. In Lynchburg, Virginia, all churches preached and practiced racial separation. They always had. Within a week of the Supreme Court announcing the new federal government integration policy - every church in town received a new revelation from their god, and except for four or five, one by one they announced the end of the 350 year old Christian policy of racial separation. It took them just one week!

When one speaks to tax-exempt preachers regarding Scriptural topics, one can't help but note their evasiveness. Their conversation will follow almost exactly the government guidelines listed above. They will not chance saying anything that might cost them their precious tax-exemption. These priests do what they are told to do to keep their retainers. The IRS tells them to support the policy of the king and teach "Dharma-tolerance" to their congregations - and they do. They are required to do this to the exclusion of everything the WORD has taught to the contrary for 5,000 years, and which their ancestors have believed and taught with all their hearts and minds in this country since the early 1600s.

State Of Religion

America's tax-exempt churches are bought and paid for. They do not, and will not in the future, present an obstacle to the presence and activities of the international trade cartel.

Buddhist Trademark

The trademark of a Dharmatized church is the stranger in their midst.

"We are confounded, because we have heard reproach: shame hath covered our faces: for strangers are come into the sanctuaries of the Lord's house." Jer 51:51

SUMMARY

The state of the Saxon nation is this; They have discovered that they are slaves of those who hate the WORD which is their God and that they too are hated because the WORD created them. They have been warred against and subjugated on three fronts:

1. Politically - by being taxed;
2. Economically - by usury-banking; and
3. Religiously - by having their churches accept payment for Dharma-toleration instead of demanding the Separation required by the WORD.

Conclusion

Neophytes to the CAUSE find the Saxon situation depressing. Veterans find it exhilarating. For the first time in 2,000 years Saxons have identified their troubles. To correct them, "political" and "tax" revolts are in progress throughtout the entire West. On the economic front, "usury-fraud" is now common knowledge. On the religious front - our people are "deserting state churches" in unprecedented numbers and are "re-discovering the WORD which is their God."

In the past, the Saxon was given a vision of a sail - and he built a boat to use it. Then he was given a vision of a flying machine - and he built that. Now he has been given a vision of a world of his own that is free from domination by strangers and is ruled only by the WORD.

It remains only a question of time before he builds that, too.[9]

LETTERS

MONTANA FREEMEN: "Dick, From my studies the 'Freemen' obtained a perfectly legal judgment against the government for $50 million dollars. Based on that judgment they issued bills which were accepted by the banks, which is perfectly legal. Not only that, they filed an income-tax return and received a refund, which is perfectly legal. They also identified unlawful activity of certain public officials and they took legal steps to bring charges. Every thing they have done appears to be legal so far as I can tell - even to their confiscating a TV camera from newsmen who were trespassing after having received repeated warnings. Their argument is that if everyone else can do these things legally, why can't they? We know the answer to that. Now, lets see if they get a 'legal' trial so they can tell what they've done and why - which I understand is all they wanted anyway." D. J. attorney, North Carolina

---

MEXICANS NOTICED: "Dear Hoskins; We have had 3 fatal happenings here in west Michigan in the last 14 days. A 39 year old Mexican female with 3 license suspensions crossed the center line and wiped out 1/2 a White family. A few days later a 26 year old Mexican male, angry at his White live-in, hit the roads at 100 mph plus, until a White family pulled onto the road and he wiped out 1/2 of the White family. Ten days prior a retarded White male, 17 years old, was killed, beheaded and had his skull skinned out, all on home video by a Mexican teen-ager. Mexicans can be no more than 2%-5% of the population, if that, but they sure make themselves known." S.K. - Michigan

Letter From South Africa by K.J.

Today is a cold rainy day in late autumn. We are literally swamped by thousands of squatters. They are moved here from open land parks in Johannesburg, Sandton, and Randburg. But, the moment they are moved new arrivals stream in. Africa is definitely emptying its inhabitants into South Africa. Those able to make the journey travel south feel their needs will be seen to. According to a traveler who went through South West, the Caprivi and the Victoria Falls area there were very many empty villages or kraals.

We do not know how many of their inhabitants died of AIDS, but the ones we see have been severely afflicted by famine and malaria. The bush telegraph must have brought news that they will find housing, schools and hospitals down south - all for the asking. They are given a piece of land supplied with water, toilets, electricity and some telephones, and although there are no jobs available they have ample opportunity to steal and murder.

A White school nearby has so many Black pupils one can only wonder at their standard of learning. Some groups like the Nigerians have taken over whole blocks of flats in Beria, Johannesburg.

The "Volksverraad" book telling about recent events in South Africa sold out its first edition and they are now printing the second. Right-wingers agree with the entire book except when it comes to the religious infiltration by anti-Saxonites. On that they disagree completely. It is as if they are blind to what happened to our church and how it has been undermined. They argue about small technicalities instead of simply admitting that their church has been taken over and is no longer our church.

White people with degrees in certain fields are leaving the country on a large scale. Over 450 doctors left in April alone. They have frequent clashes in the medical council with the government where Blacks with worthless degrees order them around. When they complain they are told that if it gets too hot to get out of the country.

General Magnus Malan's trial is still on but three others were allowed to go. One of those released has been Tienie Groenewald, the CIA agent and American citizen who belongs to the Mormon Church. If ever we had a "colored gentleman in the wood-pile' it must have been him. He got Constand Viljoen involved because he knew about Viljoen's financial problems. When Viljoen resigned it was because he thought P.W. Botha should release Mandela with no pre-condition. He never had any right-wing feelings and he merely belonged to the National Party and Broederbond to promote his career. Viljoen bought a worthless farm, so Groenewald got the bank to bring pressure to bear on him. Groenewald was behind Vorster and nearly every other person working for our downfall. To me he seems evil beyond comprehension, but there are always traitors willing to sell their souls, and it is surprising that we lasted as long as we did. Jaap Marais is the only politician who came out without a blemish.[9]

I understand that you have a book called George Washing-

9 ED. NOTE: So far as this editor is concerned, like George Wallace and J. Lindsey Almond, Jaap Marais talks a good case but has yet to show his colors. He has yet to tell the people he would rule that he will make the WORD his own opinion even if it means that it causes him to stand alone against every single person in the country. If, he does this, which I doubt, he will raise the banner for all to see. If he doesn't, he is just another "pig in a poke" and we are used to them. We have learned one thing if we have learned nothing else - talk is cheap.

ton's Vision in which George Washington foresaw a difficult time for America. Well, we have Siener van Rensburg. He wrote during the Boer War and many of his predictions have come true. The old man saw that some day someone will write books about his visions. The fact that the first book was published soon after deKlerk's "Red Friday Speech" was no accident. He predicted in 1916 that the Afrikaner would one day lose his freedom and be subject to a Black government and that will be the Afrikaner's final fight for survival. It is to be in that time that he, Siener, will again be in the news. He also warned that the independent republic's arrival will be preceded by a very dark period when you cannot see your hand in front of your eyes. But it will not be that dark for those who understand and did not participate or assist in causing these events. He speaks of extreme violence in the Pretoria, Witwatersrand Vereeniging area. There will be great hardship when violence suddenly erupts forcing thousands of White women to flee the Blacks and Indians who will cause great problems. When I look at all the squatters, I wonder. We will just have to keep our eyes open while we work!

A local story that has us laughing, a true story. One of our local women nearly fell for the old "body in the road" trick. She was driving a 4x4 on a road running through open veld when she saw a body lying in the road. At the last moment she squashed her humanitarian instinct to stop and help and instead, swung off the road and bumped through the rough to her home. Once there she called the police on the off chance that the "body" really did need help. The police delightedly reported that in swinging off the road she had run over and killed two hijackers lurking in the grass, both were armed with AK47s. This woman was one of the lucky ones.

Before I forget, at the time of his death, Chris Hani was leader of the SA Communist Party and also a spy for the department of S. A. Military Intelligence. I can find no more about that conspiracy except that everyone thought he was an atheist because he was a Communist, but he was buried by the Catholic Church in holy ground, which made him a secret Catholic. The one accused of killing him was Clive Derby-Lewis, also a Catholic. Thus we have a Catholic killing a Catholic. Gay Derby-Lewis, the wife of Clive Derby-Lewis, was seen by the Security community as a security risk "because of her religion." Now, have you ever seen things so mixed up?"

RATTE - S. AFRICAN MARTYR

RATTE - 50 DAY HUNGER- STRIKE: Commandant Willem Ratte, hero of Rhodesia's and S. Africa's wars with neighboring states, was sentenced to 20 year imprisonment by S. Africa's new Black government for his part in the episode at Fort Schanskop two years ago.

Comdt Ratte made a statement before he was sentenced in which he rejected the "Azanian legal system" and accused the magistrate of being an instrument of the regime, who turned his back on his volk for the sake of his Azanian masters. He defied the judge to impose the maximum sentence. Magistrate M.C. de Witt immediately pronounced the maximum. Ratte labeled the verdict as the "pinnacle of political officiousness and blatant chicanery," Adding "You have proved hereby that you are only another pathetic jack-in-office, who is trying to safeguard your fat salary and pension by taking part in a witchhunt against your own volk."

Comdt Ratte forbad his attorney Mr. Sydney Gregon to plead for mitigation. Mr. Gregan pointed out that the evidence produced for conviction was of "unauthorized possession of firearms, ammunition and explosives." The firearms and explosives in question were discovered two days after Comdt Ratte left the fort. This is evidence which may have been "planted." Everything is circumstantial evidence. No item was found in his possession. "Suspicion of a crime" is no longer a crime for which a person can be held according to the new S. African government.

Also, his conviction violates the agreement hammered out by Gen. Constand Viljoen who mediated between Ratte and the Defence Force and Police in which it was agreed that the accused would be charged only with trespassing. This agreement was completely ignored. Gen. Viljoen said that he feels bad over the whole incident.

Near death, Ratte wrote his friends; "Tell our people that they must be strong. Let us use this blatant violation of justice to get the message through so we can work together for freedom for our dear folk. Don't let them get away with this. Please try to motivate our people. They must consider my conviction by an ANC stooge as their opportunity."

Ratte was initially kept at Pretoria's maximum security section but since then he has been transferred to Zonderwater Prison. He has been on a hunger strike since the time he was sentenced which has now passed the 56th day. Demonstrations in his support are taking place all over South Africa. (Story in the Patriot, May 17, 1996.)

FLASH: Just arrived on Internet. The South African court had Commandant Ratte brought in and offered to release him on a nomininal R1000 bail. Ratte in a wheel chair, resting his head on a pillow on his knees because he is so weak he cannot hold his head up, whispered to his attorney "don't accept unless all charges are dropped." He also whispered another message to his supporters, "Avenge me if I die."

Now - there's a man! And, not a word in the cursed establishment media about this lied to and abused Saxon hero of ours who refuses to surrender. The courage of this man may be the light we have needed for so long.

(Direct internet questions about the condition of Willm Ratte to (wrinfo@webcom.com)

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 263

THE EMPIRE CYCLE

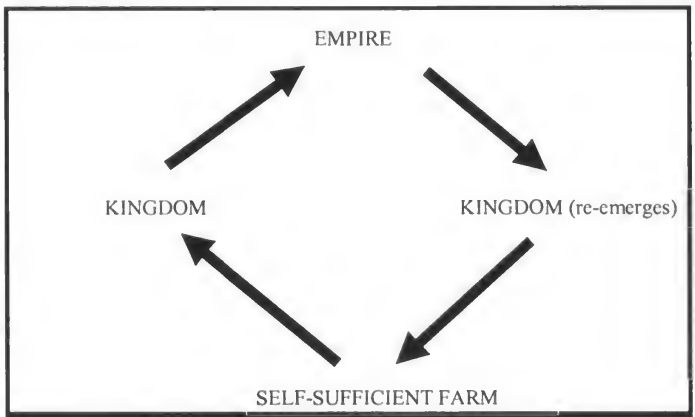
The Beginning

God warned his people against having kings for their rulers. If they did, then oppressions would come upon them. Israel insisted on having a king, and thus the kingdom was born - and from kingdoms - empires are born.

The "self-sufficient farm" (SSF) is the basic economic-political- religious system of our ancestors. It produced the needs of the family and the surplus from its cottage industry was distributed by the country store. There is little that the local self- sufficient farm system does not produce for itself, and those rare items can be obtained from other SSFs.

Kingdom (Feudal System)

Before a Kingdom with its feudal system can be installed, the SSF system must first be destroyed. The destruction of the SSF deprives people of the ability to care for their own



THE BASIC CYCLE

*The Self-Sufficient Farm System is destroyed and on its ruins is built the Kingdom. *When one kingdom conquers neighboring kingdoms the EMPIRE is born. The king becomes an emperor.

*No sooner than an empire is born than it begins to decay. The EMPIRE in time dissolves back into kingdoms and needs. It destroys their independence and makes them dependent on someone else to feed and shelter them.

* Kingdoms dissolve once again into the Self-Sufficient Farm system.

Kings (or by whatever name they are called) are selected by the International Trade Cartel (ITC) from among the people they have selected to be their market, and taskmasters are appointed to watch these rulers.

> "(Pharaoh) placed officers over them from amongst the children of Israel, and over these officers he placed taskmasters from amongst his servants." Jasher 77:10

The people are then put back to work but now the land belongs to the king and the people are "subjects" or "serfs" and must pay part of their earnings as tribute. The hallmark of a Kingdom is its demand for taxes. The name of the old system that is always new is the "feudal system."

Empire

When one kingdom conquers another and reduces it to a province, the kingdom becomes an empire and its king becomes an emperor.

At the very instant the empire is formed it begins to disintegrate, although this may not be apparent at the time. Rome was conquering in Gaul and Britain while revolts were breaking out in Persia and Palestine.

Kingdoms (Re-emerging)

In time, the difficulties in dealing with different races and religions cause the empire to break apart into its component kingdoms. After having been taxed and looted they are now near the poverty level. They have developed a deep antipathy to being forced to pay tribute as well as enduring other indignities associated with being a conquered state.

This reaction carries over to the newly independent kingdoms. Their rulers come under attack from their own citizens who have developed a dislike of any kind of authoritarian rule.

Self-Sufficient Farm (Re-emerging)

Kings make concession after concession to mollify their irate citizens, but the general poverty makes it impossible for promises to be fulfilled. Gradually, want forces people from the city to take up unused lands, and the SSF re-emerges.

ECONOMIC CYCLE

"The love of money is the root of all evil." I Ti 6:10

The SSF must be destroyed to build a kingdom. The loss of tax free farms deprives people of their food, shelter, and independence. After the SSF is destroyed, the refugees are herded into the newly created feudal system which promises food, shelter and protection - in exchange for their labor.

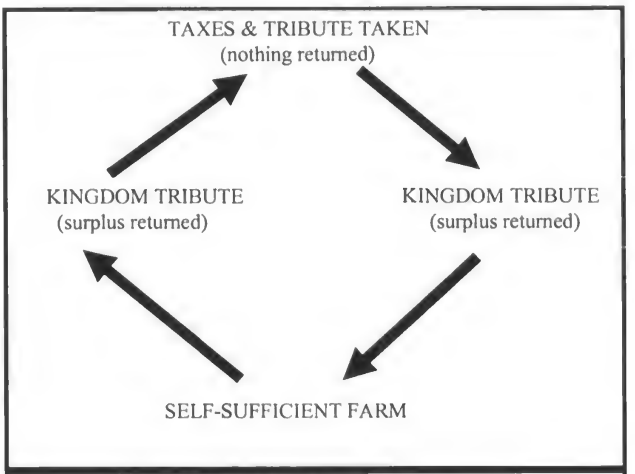
SSF (economic)

The self-sufficient farm system pays no tribute. Its monetary system is mostly basic commodity exchange. Having their own farms they are always creating something having value which can be exchanged for items they do not have. Lack of debt and the passage of time almost guarantees the increase of wealth.



ECONOMIC CYCLE

The SSF is economically self-sufficient. It is absorbed by the kingdom and an economic feudal system is installed.

Kingdoms require tribute. The SSF is economically self-sufficient. It is absorbed by the kingdom and an economic feudal system is installed.

Kingdoms require tribute (taxes) to maintain the king and his followers. When absorbed into empire, the empire then takes most of the tribute which antagonizes those who are taxed and in time results in empire disintegration.

Empires self destruct. The newly formed kingdoms are mostly poverty stricken and tend to quickly disintegrate. Where there is unused land available for people to occupy the Self-Sufficient Farm system is reborn.

Kingdom (economic)

The SSF is replaced by the king's feudal system. The people's assets are ruled by the king, and his newly installed usury- system gradually transfers property ownership to the system's banks. Taxes and usury payments betray the existence of a kingdom. The king needs taxes to maintain himself and his followers, and the International Trade Cartel (ITC) takes the usury payments (see War Cycles / Peace Cycles, Virginia Publishing Company, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, Virginia 24505. $17/copy. "The story of usury").

Kings, themselves one of the people, return surplus taxes to the people in form of improvements. This builds good will and a dependency on the king. Still, taxes are always grievous and are always the focal point of discontent.

Empire (economic)

The "TAX" (and poverty) is also the hallmark of empire. But, while kings try to improve the condition of his people with the revenues that remain after his own needs are provided for, this is not often the case with empires.

The empire seldom has feelings of kinship and obligation to conquered provinces peopled by those of a different language, religion and race. The provinces are taxed and the money is result given to the emperor's supporters who provide his power base. Little is returned to the provinces. Conquered provinces are unmercifully exploited by those who have no interest in the future of the land. The result being that the provinces are gradually drained of money, its raw materials depleted and is overrun with cheap competing labor from far-away lands. Entire industries are uprooted and moved abroad to secure the cheapest possible manufacturing costs. This results in thousands of unemployed. Unable to care for their families, the birthrate of the conquered provinces plunges. As the empire's subjects are gradually ground down into abject poverty, they become desperate. This is the stage that triggers revolt.

Re-emerging Kingdom (economic)

Heavy taxation with no visible benefits cause provinces to revolt against empires and to re-form independent kingdoms. The leaders of these kingdoms promise their people that they will be taken care of first, and they will not be taxed to benefit another.

In spite of good intentions, succeeding kingdoms are often so poverty stricken that their kings are kings in name only since the country cannot afford them. The people are forced to seize unused land to provide their basic needs and in this way the economic system of the Self-Sufficient Farm is re-born.

POLITICAL CYCLE

The Saxon self-sufficient farm system is politically self-sufficient. The head of the family rules his farm under the Law.

Since one can really know only 10 people at a time, the heads of ten families living in close proximity meet and select a spokesman for their 10. Ten of these spokesmen select a spokesman for 100. The spokesmen for Hundreds went to Williamsburg as a Burgess at his own expense.

Kingdom (political)

Kingdoms are built on the ruins of the SSF. The rule is from top down instead of from bottom up. Once the ITC has selected a region for their market area they hire a king to protect them and their business.

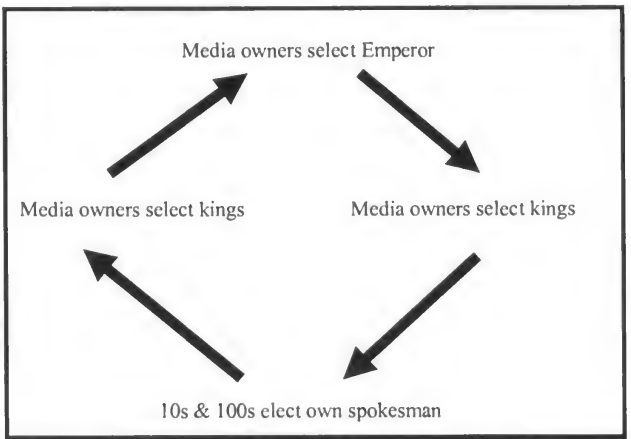
If "democratic" governments are selected as the form of government for a given region, the media-owners select



POLITICAL CYCLE

10s & 100s: Ten heads of households select a spokesman for 10. These spokesmen select a spokesman for 100 families. This is the ancient way.

KINGDOMS: Kingdoms are ruled by king selected by the International Trade Cartel. His job is to protect the merchant and his goods.

EMPIRE: Within an empire there are many races, religions and special interests. Their conflicts cause the empire to disintegrate.

REEMERGED KINGDOMS: Empires disintegrate into kingdoms which are in a poverty stricken condition - a result of empire looting.

REEMERGED SELF SUFFICIENT FARM SYSTEM: The destruction of kings and emperors causes the individual to again trust his own efforts under the guidance of the WORD.

agreeable political candidates for their media to publicize. The people are basically honest and attempt to vote for the best candidate they know, but the only ones they know are the ones publicized by the establishment media. The people are forced to select one of these to be their ruler. Thus, the media-owner hand picks the people's rulers - from city council to president. The rulers represent the media-owners - not the people.

Kingdom (law)

To aid the king to rule his people - a kingdom installs the following justice system:

* The media-selected kings appoint judges. These appointed judges are agents of the king who appointed them.

* Victims appeal to these judges for protection from the king.

* The judges rule that the king is right and the victims wrong.

* The media-owner's alien beliefs are also ruled to be law by the king-appointed judges.

* The Saxon's part in the merchant established kingdom justice system is to provide the victims.

The Political Empire

The conquest of one kingdom by another constitutes an empire. The addition of different races, religions and law systems creates strife and marks the beginning of dissolution of the empire that has just been formed. The enforcement of laws giving special rights to select empire citizens offends many, while laxness in enforcing other laws (such as Laws against infant sacrifice and homosexuals) offends others. There is nothing the empire can do that will please all. Discontent grows.

Empire government presents a tranquil face to the world - a face of unanimity and agreement. This is because the government leaders have been carefully chosen by the media-owners. This tranquil face hides underlying strife and anger. Empire problems are unsolvable except to separate the combatants, and this the creators of the empire refuse to do.

Unable to solve problems, empire rulers react to them one by one as they bubble to the surface, and in the process they over- compensate. One time they make concessions to keep the peace. Tiring of this they may solve the next problem with heavy handed suppression. Nothing works. The peaceful concessions embolden rebels to demand more, while the suppressions create martyrs which fuel future revolts. It is only a matter of time before a revolt or a series of revolts cause the disintegration of the empire into its component parts.

Re-emerging Kingdom (political)

There is no lack of candidates to lead the newly independent kingdom. Many dream of sitting on thrones issuing commands to those they recently called "brother." The fact is that poverty and shortages resulting from systematic looting has made the population desperate. They have little sympathy with anything that does not have survival value, and they will fight for what little they do have.

The way is now clear for a return once again to the self-sufficient farm system of their ancestors. The people's ability to keep this ancient system is in direct proportion to their commitment to the Law of their God.

RELIGION CYCLE

The religion of the Saxon is to obey God's Commands.[1] Within the wide boundaries of God's Commands, he has the freedom to do anything he likes. Beyond the boundaries of His Law are things harmful to his survival and the survival of his people. These things are forbidden and transgressors are severely punished.[2] History shows that Saxon nations who are obedient survive. History also shows that those who are disobedient disappear from the face of the earth.

1 "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1

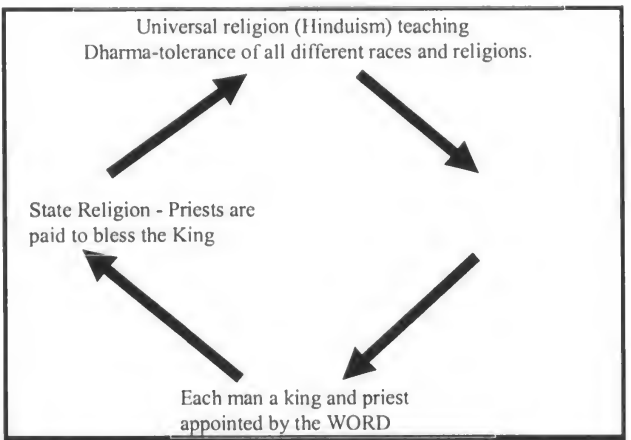
Religion Cycle (state)

The Saxon religion shuns strangers.[3] The international merchant must change this attitude if he is to trade in Saxon lands.



RELIGION CYCLE

10s & 100 - SSFs: The head of the SSF is king and priest.
KINGDOMS: Kings pay priests to support their rule.
EMPIRE: Because of many races and gods, Dharma-tolerance is worshiped as a god. Priest paid by the emperor teach that all gods are one.
REEMERGED KINGDOMS: Religious conflict as religious reformers attack the establishment priests.
REEMERGED SSF: Once again each man exercises the office of king and priest ruling according the WORD.

2 "If ye forsake the Lord, and serve strange gods, then he will turn and do you hurt." Joshua 24:20

3 "Thou shall make no covenant with them...they shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21-24

The trader's own religion is designed to do this. It is called Hinduism. Buddhism is the Hindu missionary effort. Buddhism uses "Dharma-tolerance" to attack targeted religions. The merchant sends his Buddhist missionaries to preach orthodox Christian Law containing one simple addition - the virus of "Dharma-tolerance" - unqualified love. As soon as the Saxon is taught Dharma- tolerance and learns to love everyone including strangers and their religions, the merchant is safe to enter and hire a king to establish a feudal system for the people living in his chosen market.

The duty of the priest in the merchant's kingdom is to support the king. Whatever the king does is blessed by the priest. This is called a "state religion." The priest is blessed in turn by being relieved of taxes that all others must pay. The merchant adds incentive by making available his media to select Christian Dharma-priest. The state priest is identified by his reluctance to quote God's Commands that conflict with royal policy. To do so might be interpreted as an attack on the king and the priest may lose his pay.

Religion Cycle (empire)

The conquest by one kingdom by another kingdom causes confusion and strife. Especially in religion. Not only are many races, law systems, and customs brought into conflict with each other, but many gods.

The traditional method of handling religion in an empire is to emphasize Dharma-tolerance and cease to quote any particular god. Traditions, rites, and customs remain, but no longer are differences mentioned. The decisions of the emperor's courts replace the commandments of gods, and one is always instructed to obey the court's law. At the last, the religion of the merchant becomes the religion that the king and his appointed judges pronounce as the law of the land. Empire priests agree with every change and continue with their Dharmatized-tolerant religion. People desert empire churches in droves.

Religion Cycle (re-emerging national religion)

During empire rule, provinces are looted and abused. The people remember their old gods and turn to teachers - rejecting the empire's Dharma-Christian priests. As kingdoms re-emerge there is a rush to the safety of the WORD as survivors attempt to rediscover what it is that God would have them do.

Kings try to re-establish their authority but run into the prohibitions of the WORD. This conflict with God causes kingly authority to decay even as it is being established.

As the re-established kingdom in turn disintegrates from lack of wealth to sustain it, the rebirth of faith in the WORD, the God of the Saxon, leads with certainty to the peace and safety of the self-sufficient farm that was in the beginning.

TODAY

Economic: The West has reached the last of its empire phase. Taxes and tribute in country-provinces have reached levels that cause the impoverishment of the people. People can no long afford to have children and the birth rate is plummeting. Tax collections are given to supporters of the government, and wealth is being sent to alien lands to furnish them with funds to buy establishment goods. A flood of immigrants is being imported into Western lands that threatens to reduce Western labor to that of the oriental coolie. The ITC is moving Western industry whole- sale to foreign lands to take advantage of lower costs.

The ITC can now be clearly seen as the owner of Western institutions, the manager of Western economies, and the force responsible for all that has befallen Western economies and its peoples. ITC influence declines in direct ratio to the growth of Western poverty. Some pundits picture the economic future of America as being a mirror of that of the fragmented USSR - nations of separated peoples who must barter to eat.

Political: Disputes between the many races, religions, and gods that have been bound together into empire cause discord and dissension. Where there was bounty is now scarcity and groups bicker over the scraps. Empire armies scatter over the world occupying first one country and then the next scraping up what is left of the world's wealth. At home SWAT teams run from place to place - liquidating groups and families who dare to break away from the empire. "Separatists" of all colors and beliefs are seen as being the undertakers of "empire-to-getherness." They must die so that the empire can live. Fearful subjects form militias for their own protection. Justice is tyrannical and becomes combined with property forfeiture as a means of increasing tax-revenues. Government is erratic as ITC media-owners select the scrapings of society to be their kings. These kings adopt "murder" as government policy. There is little protest. The efficient secret police becomes inefficient as revolt spreads and bribery becomes epidemic. Prisons bulge with unbelievable numbers of petty, political, and religious prisoners who are forced to work for ITC industries at slave wages. An alternate media is born that allows dissidents to talk with each other. ITC government and all of its agencies are perceived to be "the enemy."

This far in this century the following empires have fallen victim to empire-disintegration:

The German Empire, Austria-Hungarian Empire, and the Ottoman Empire were dismembered by the victors of WWI. At that time the Russian Empire was captured by Communism, thoroughly looted, its people impoverished, and to survive on what was left - the remnant fragmented.

The Japanese conquered an empire in 1941 and lost it in 1945. So did the Italians. The French and British empires, centuries in building, disintegrated almost overnight. So did the Dutch, Belgian, and Portuguese empires. The Yugoslavian empire, put together following WWI, fragmented into ethnic- religious kingdoms that are currently fighting among themselves. This leaves Mandela's new empire in S. Africa and the US Empire thus far still intact, but both seething with discontent, with ethnic groups demanding their slice of a rapidly disappearing pie, and having hoards of immigrants who are resented by everyone.

Religion: The Dharma-tolerance that ITC missionaries have inserted into Christianity has converted it from a Christian separatist religion into just one more integrationist trade-religion. Dharma-Christianity now accepts the Hindu merchant and his gods, and teaches Christians to accept that which God curses:[4]

> "In the last days ... men shall be ... Traitors ... more than lovers of God; Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof." 2 Tim 3:1-5

---

4 "The Word of God came to the serpent and said unto it ... be thou dumb; and speak no more, thou and thy race, because ... the ruin of my creatures happened through thee ... And a wind came to blow from heaven by command of God that carried away the serpent from Adam and Eve, threw it on the shore, and it landed in India." I Adam & Eve 18:7-9

Reaction to this causes true teachers of the WORD to be sought by the remnant. This is the beginning of revival.

TOMORROW

The empire is dissolving before our eyes. In time it will soon break into its component kingdoms and then into the Self- Sufficient Farm System.

The events that accompany this moment have been long expected and are written in Scripture:

> "Every man shall turn to his own people, and flee every one to his own land. Everyone that is found shall be thrust through; and everyone that is joined unto them shall die by the sword." Isa 13:14-15

> "And it shall come to pass, that in all the land, saith Yahweh, two parts therein shall be cut off and die; but the third shall be left therein. And I will bring the third part through the fire, and will refine them as silver is refined, and will try them as gold is tried: they shall call on my name and I will hear them: I will say, It is my people: and they shall say, Yahweh is my God." Zech 13:8-9

When this day comes, God's people will find themselves alone in their own land with their God. Then God will give his people their request:

> "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done - ON EARTH!"

==========

LETTERS

EX-PRISON: "Hello Old Friend: While in prison I studied and taught others from Dr. H. Rand's book Digest of Divine Law. Rand taught me that there were no prisons in ancient Israel after the trial and only four different punishments. I have seen personally that prisons are not correctional institutes as they claim, but technical schools for crime." A.J. - Georgia

---

SHORT HAIR: "Dear Dick: I was just thinking - why do men wear short hair?" G.W. - Washington D.C.

RKH: Almost all of our customs are set forth in the Scriptures. In the case of hair: "Neither shall they shave their heads nor suffer their locks to grow long; they shall only poll their heads." EZ 44:22. The Sriptures say it again: "Doth not even nature teach you, that, if a man have long hair, it is a shame unto him? But if a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her." I Cor 11:14-15. There is an exception, but I'll not get into that now.

WORD FROM RATTE VIA INTERNET: "Hallo Dick: Your message was received a little late, due to my recent circumstance. I spent the last two weeks with wife and kids recovering, over-indulging in everything edible and within reach of my fingers. Will soon have an e-mail address, In the meantime, use this one. Presently, I am getting up to date on what happened outside, and what can be done in the upcoming appeal (probably 7 October), and for our cause overall. Thanking you for your interest and support, Regards, Willem Ratte. (E- Mail, Internet, July 15, 1996

RKH: Commandant Willem Ratte just finished a 57 day fast in protest of a 20 year sentence (with 5 years to be served) after having been promised that he would be charged with "trespass only" for his part in the protest. The Mandela government is allowing an appeal.

I believe Ratte to be a true patriot. However, I received communications from others whose opinions I respect pointing out that among his loudest and most active supporters are active members of SA Intelligence and the SA Defense Force. "No man can serve two masters." Matt. 6:24. Could it be that agents of SA's communist government are attempting to use Ratte's gesture for their own ends? I suggested to one of my Internet contacts that the day must come when bridges will have to be burned. I suggested that one way to burn them would be to have a leader proclaim: "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: zuwr - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deu 17:15. Where strangers rule, voicing that command would most certainly burn bridges. My Internet contact immediatly stopped contact. This brings to mind the earlier warning of my other SA friends.

It is my belief that because of the great wealth of SA, the establishment has taken extraordiany precautions against a political reaction to the communist takeover. The media-owners selected DeKlerk to rule for them and others they selected are standing by waiting for orders. Ratte's gesture picks him out of the crowd. If he calls on the WORD to lead - believers will follow. If not - we'll see.

UNFILTERED NEWS

THOMAS SWITCHES: "Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas, a lapsed Roman Catholic for the last 25 years, has returned to the Catholic Church (6/24 Chr. News). His return to Catholicism means there are now three Catholics, two Jewish and four Protestant Court members." Cavalry Contender, July 15, 1996, 1800 Sparkman Drive, Huntsville, AL 35816

VIPER MILITIA: "A group of Arizona Militiamen ventured to state on a tape provided by an agent provocateur from the BATF what they would do if the United States Government went sour. There was talk of blowing up buildings owned and operated by the Feds. No imminent plans, mind you, just talk; pure 'just suppose.' The Feds swooped down on twelve of the Viper Militia and arrested them on 'conspiracy' charges." Euro-American Alliance, August 1996, PO Box 21776, Milwaukee, WI 53221.

---

church;Lutheran/HinduismPASTOR MCQUEEN & HINDUISM: "Pastor Tom McQueen of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America is quoted in the May , 1996 Forum Letter: 'I believe in a universal loving power or energy source which is spiritual, nongendered, and has many names and forms. Some people call this loving energy, which permeates all things, God, the Divine Being, Brahman, Grandfather, the Great Spirit, and 1,000s of other names. I believe that a person can be both Christian and Buddhist, or can believe in the God described by Judaism and experience by Muslims." Christian News, Rev Hermon Otten, 32177 Boeuf Lutheran Road, New Haven, MO 63068, 314-237-3858, June 10, 1996, p2.

JERRY FALWELL & HINDUISM: "... Equally unthinkable was Jerry Falwell's participation as a speaker at a conference last December in Uruguay, sponsored by Sun Myung Moon's Inter Religious Federation for World Peace and Washington Times Foundation, titled, 'Christian Ecumenism in the Americas: Toward One Christian Family Under God.'" Berean Call, June, 1996; Christian News, Rev Hermon Otten, 32177 Boeuf Lutheran Road, New Haven, MO 63068, 314-237-3858, June 10, 1996, p. 3.

BACK TO DUTY: The FBI announced that Anthony Betz, one of the five FBI officials suspended WITH PAY last year after a Justice Department investigation of Ruby Ridge, returned to work and is not a target of the probe. He returned to his job as assistant special agent in charge of the FBI's Baltimore office. ANA Internet June 21, 1996

MEDALS: "Just when you thought federal law-enforcement officials couldn't stoop any lower, comes an event so chilling and despicable that even ol' Joseph Stalin might have blushed at the irony of it all. On March 2nd, in a Marshal's Service airport hanger at Oklahoma City, 5 deputy marshals received their service's highest award for valor ... these individuals were cited for their roles in the Weaver family massacre at Ruby Ridge which caused the feds to subsequently pay $3.1 million in damages ... Presumably, valor in this nation has taken on a whole new meaning - one that includes dog killing and shooting a 14 year old boy in the back. We can now assume the FBI will try to 'one-up' the Marshal's Service and issue its own 'Top Gun Award' to Agent Horiuchi for murdering Randy Weaver's wife, Vicki." JUBILEE, March/Apr p. 12, PO Box 310 Midpines, CA 95345, $29/yr.

News From South Africa

WILLEM RATTE RELEASED: "Willem Ratte was released from Jail Saturday on the 57th day of his hunger strike. The bail of $250 was paid by his friends and fellow Boer nation members. Willem Ratte is being treated in a clinic in Pretoria. The date for the appeal case hearing is set for 7 October. The hunger strike was reaching the dangerous point of no return. Ratte says he is glad and relieved the hunger strike is now over. His wife was overjoyed to see him again for the first time after the day of his imprisonment. She sat next to him in the ambulance that picked him up at the Pretoria Central Prison. The news media had the opportunity of a brief interview." South Africa Internet (perspekt@webcom.com).

RKH: We may just have just been presented with a Saxon leader. In 1985 at the Kansas Farm Rally, I prayed that God would send us a leader. This may be the one that God has sent. We will see. He has already shown that he is more man that all the rest of the White politicians in the West put together. Once he convinces the world that his Leader is the WORD, by stating exactly what commandments of the WORD he intends to enforce, including chapter and verse; then, the West may find that they have a Gideon to lead into a new era.

SA TREASON: Just before the handover of power to Communism, attempts were made to topple the elected government of Bophutatswana (a Black homeland), and this government asked the AWB for help. Acting as leader for all such actions, Constand Viljoen told them to go in without weapons, which would be supplied on arrival. Once there they were told by him to leave again. On their way out, they were fired upon, and being unarmed, had to leave behind a damaged vehicle and three wounded men. These were subsequently simply murdered, photographed by journalists, and published under the gloating label 'Executed!' by the left wing press.

"The uproar in 'Bop' was then used as an excuse for sending in our South African troops to conquer and incorporate the country into the empire to be handed to the ANC.

"This same Constand Viljoen, after promising not to do so, went into the Azanian election of April 1994 with a party he named the 'Vryheidsfront' (to sound like the 'Volksfront'), aiming allegedly at negotiating a free Boer republic from inside the system. Almost immediately he began the watering down of this platform, until now a leading member casually agrees a Black leader would be acceptable for this 'Boer' party! It was also Viljoen who betrayed Willem Ratte, promising him amnesty." Internet (nv3@pixie.co.za) Subject DONKERHOEK WEEKLY 2-8 June

---

SEPARATIST CAPTURED: White police working for the black ANC captured Corporal Matthys de Villiers. Corporal de Villiers, late of the South African 4th Reconnaissance Regiment, is accused of continuing the fight against Boer enemies when others gave up. He is accused living in the bush and emerging only to engage the enemy. The Black S. African government and their White renegade allies, have together accused him of killing at least eight. They include a White informant, three Black ANC police, and executing the anti-White Netherlands Reformed Church Moderator, Professor Johan Heyns, who with deKlerk and Gen. Viljoen are tied as the most hated men in White South Africa.

INTERNET CENSORSHIP: "... Two prime Revisionist sites have now been canceled without warning (the Freedom Site in Canada and CODOH International in the United States); Adelaide Institute and another site unfamiliar to me in Australia are under 'investigation' at the request of the Simon Wiesenthal Center... Especially gratifying are letters from students from countries everywhere. Youth has its ears pricked up.

"I think it is very hard for someone not on the Net to appreciate how profoundly the world is now changing, thanks to the marvel of the Internet. When I think of my own unawareness of the nature and the tactics of the enemy even as recently as three years ago, I can only shake my head at myself." (Internet, :ZGram - July 8, 1996. http:// www.webcom. com/~ezundel/english/

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 264

MISSIONARY SAINT OR DEVIL?

Missions

(1) Mission - A sending or being sent; a being sent or delegated by authority, with certain powers for transacting business; commission; as sent on a foreign mission.

(2) Persons sent; ... by authority to perform any service; particularly, the persons sent to propagate religion, or evangelize the heathen. The societies for propagating the gospel have missions in almost every country. ... We have domestic missions and foreign missions.

(3) Missionary - One sent to propagate religion.[1]

History gives countless examples of groups sending missions to others in the attempt to persuade them to a course of action favorable to the group that sent them.

1 Webster's Dictionary, 1828

What Missionaries Do

Missions can be sent for the purpose of trade or military affairs, but the ultimate missionary is the religious. People generally believe that one who comes in the name of a god must have a higher purpose than to promote a trade or a military mission, and once converted, he becomes a fanatical supporter of the missionary who has revealed to him the true road to heaven.

The value of a religious proselyte[2] cannot be over-emphasized. To save his soul from hell most proselytes will cheerfully abandon family, friends and country if ordered to do so by his new god.

Examples

Christian Nations:

Christians periodically gather to study God's commandments. Membership is enlarged by the missionary effort of its membership. Church missionaries win proselytes from the non- affiliated, backsliders and from other denominations whom they tell about God.

Once outside the homogeneous neighborhood, the WORD sets limits to the missionary efforts of its followers. The basic command is this:

> "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." Matt:28:19-20.

"Nations" in the above is used in the context of the ancient

2 "To make a convert to some religion, or to some opinion or system." Webster 1828 usage described by Webster's 1828 Dictionary, "a family or race of men descended from a common progenitor." This is the limit allowed. These limits are elaborated time and again in scripture. The only way they can be misunderstood is for the hearer to wish to misunderstand them:

> "Son of man, go, get thee unto the house of Israel, and speak with my words unto them. For thou art not sent to a people of a strange speech and of a hard language, but to the house of Israel." Ez 3:4-5

Jesus himself confirms these limits again and again:

> (1) "I was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel, and to them alone." Matt 15:24; (2) "These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying, Go not unto the way of the Gentiles, and unto any city of the Samaritans enter ye not: But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Math 10:5-6[3]

There are at least a hundred scriptures restricting missionary work. One may not do missionary work with strangers. God's restrictions, however, will not deter "state priests." The king pays them to take the message to outlying trade areas, and being more loyal to their paymaster than to God, they do as they are commanded.

The Twist

Unable to twist "Go unto every nation" because it contains

---

3 (1) "Children of Israel... You only have I known of all the families of the earth." Am 3:1-2; (2) "I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me, for they are thine." John 17:9; (3) "For the Lord's portion is his people." De 21:17 (4) "He showed his word unto Jacob, his statutes and his judgments unto Israel. He hath not dealt so with any nation: and as for his judgments, they have not known them." Ps 147:19-20; (5) "It is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it to dogs." Math 15:26; (6) "Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you." Matt. 7:6; (7) "Thou art a holy people unto the Lord thy God: The Lord thy God hath chosen thee to be a special people unto himself, above all people that are upon the face of the earth." Deut 7:6.

the word "nation", meaning "kindred," to justify violating God's command, the priests home in on, "Go ye unto all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." Mark 16:15. The two verses look the same but one verse uses the word "nation" while the other uses the word "world."

If gullible Christians can be made to believe that the verse containing "world" overrides everything written against universalism, then the state-priests have done their job. The WORD can then go to all the king's subjects. The king is happy, the preachers get their pay-off, and the sheep are sheared again by having God's convents and promises, that were made to them, given to another.

The fact is, if one does go and "preach the gospel to every creature," other than those chosen, he violates Jesus' express command "I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 5:24, and this creates a paradox. It infers that God is fighting himself, or, that God has changed his mind,[4] which is something that cannot be.

How does one make "Go ye therefore unto all the world" conform to the rest of the scriptures. Easy! Just assume God knows what he is talking about; just assume that this Command of God's is in harmony with all his other commands and read it this way; "Preach the gospel to every creature - OF ISRAEL!"

There, that does it. The scripture now conforms to the rest of the Bible and God does not fight himself. A Biblical crisis is averted and all are happy except those whose job it is to create a paradox where none exists.[6]

4 "For I the Lord, do not change." Mal 3:6

Missions Used By The King

The king uses religious missions for several purposes. One purpose is simply to provide a cover for agents while they go about the king's business. A more important purpose is to bind other peoples to his state or to himself by making proselytes of them. A kingdom's "organized- religion" essentially operates as a department of government. It exists to bless the king and do his will. A proselyte to this, or any other religion, may be manipulated by his handler.

"State-priests" receive special financial compensation for working for the king and blessing his rule. The king often has various races and religions in his kingdom as a result of his conquests or immigration policies. His priests re-interpret the national separatist religion into a universal religion to incorporate these new subjects of the king.

When rebuked by the faithful for mis-using "Go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature," they concoct the theory that God's Commandments and Laws "are done away," an interesting mental gyration since doing away with God's Commandments does away with God![7]

But, this does not stop the king's hirelings. They are well paid for their heresy. They are careful, however, to omit the last part of the verse, "Teaching them to observe all things

6 "Come, wild animals of the field ... tear apart the sheep ... devour my people. For the leaders of my people - the Lord's watchmen, his shepherds - are all blind to every danger. They are featherbrained and give no warning ... they are stupid shepherds who only look after their own interest." Isaiah 56:9-11

7 "In the beginning was the WORD and the WORD was with God and the WORD was God." Special Note to the wayward: THE WORD IS GOD! To violate God's Commands is to blaspheme God! Witnessing blasphemous conduct without protest is a sin.

whatsoever I have commanded you." If they did teach "whatsoever I have commanded you" they would have to teach their new "stranger" disciples, "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of Israel." De 23:2; "The stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh (the tabernacle) shall be put to death." Num 18:7. Strangers hearing these things would most probably flee as Mohammed did when he read the Scriptures for himself and discovered what they really said about strangers such as himself.

Primary Task

The primary task of a king's missionary is to smooth the way for the king's interests.

Attila the Hun offers a crude example of missionary work. He cared little for gods, but he did care for bloodless victories and the resulting loot. To prepare a city for the arrival of his army he would first capture Christian priests and put all but one to death in the most gruesome fashion. He would then release the survivor who immediately rushed to tell the city that "Attila the Hun - The Scourge of Christendom" was on the way. When he demanded tribute from the city, it was usually paid immediately since, otherwise, everyone in the city expected to be put to death in the same manner that the priest had seen his fellows put to death. The missionary didn't even realize that he had been recruited and indoctrinated, but that did not make him any less an agent of Attila.

One of the usual tasks of missionaries is to gain trade concessions in foreign lands by making proselytes of that country's merchants. Once converted, they work to advance the interest of their new god under the watchful eye of the missionary.

For the ecclesiastics to justify opening a stranger's country to trade requires mental gymnastics, because the Christian religion does not permit trade with strangers. "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (Heb: zuwr - racial alien), thou art snared with the words of thy mouth." Pr. 6:1; "Can two walk together, except they be agreed." Amos 3:3[8]

Nevertheless, missions to strangers are carried out and have been most successful. Reaching China in the very early centuries after Christ, Catholic missionaries converted the Chinese Emperor and most of the Chinese aristocracy. This mission work was only curtailed when the emperor ordered the execution of all Christians. Trade with the Western "foreign devils" then stopped.[9]

Japan was also closed to Western trade. Catholic missionaries landed and made converts. Dutch Protestant traders who followed found that Japanese-Catholic merchants had been ordered by the Catholic Church not to trade with them. So, they brought their own missionaries and they too made converts of Japanese merchants. Christianity, Protestant and Catholic, swept Japan.

---

8 "Nor do we delight in merchandise, nor in such a mixture with other men as arises from it ... having a fruitful country for our habitation, we take pains in cultivating that only. Our principle care ... is ... to educate our children well; ... to observe the laws that have been given us ... Since ... there was no occasion offered us ... for intermixing among the Greeks, as they had had for mixing among the Egyptians, by their intercourse of exporting and importing their several goods; as they also mixed with the Phoenicians, who lived by the sea-side, by means of their love of lucre in trade and merchandise." Flavius Josephus Against Apion 1:12 ; "Now I (Josephus) was entrusted with the public affairs there (in Galilee) by the people of Jerusalem ... since they had not oil ... he would provide a sufficient quantity of such oil for them lest they should be forced to make use of oil that came from the Greeks, and thereby transgress their own laws." Life of Flavius Josephus v13

9 At this moment, Chinese troops occupy Tibet to prevent Buddhist missionaries from entering China and making converts. In the past, Tibet has virtually ruled China though its Buddhist missionaries.

In Japan at that time silver and gold traded for equal value. Dutch Protestant traders simply brought in chests of silver and made off with chests of gold - thereby wrecking the economy. In addition, the emperor found that his orders were being nullified or ignored by his own people and that foreigners were on the verge of taking over his country. He ordered the execution of all Christians and the threat vanished. Trade with the West stopped until the 1850s when Japan was reopened to Western trade by American battleships. Once again, Christian missionaries were permitted to enter to do their thing. However, this time the Emperor was ready and had commanded that Japanese converted by missionaries were to be ostracized. The result - Japan has very few Christian converts.

In early America, the Anglican church made many converts among the Indians. These converts fought for Britain against Catholic France. The Catholic French also made many converts among the Indians. They fought for Catholic France against Anglican Britain. History shows that the missionary can control his converts for the benefit of his royal masters.

Chano - Christian

In an attempt to keep the Virginia Indians friendly and controllable, the king ordered missionaries sent to them. He also had Western style houses built for Indian chiefs and Indian colleges built. Except for an occasional incident, the Indians appeared docile and loyal.

During the winter of 1621, the Virginia Indians were especially friendly. They won the trust of not only the missionaries, but the colonists themselves. On the morning of Good Friday, March 22, 1622, from the fall-line near modern-day Richmond, to the outer banks of Eastern Shore, the Indians launched a perfectly timed and coordinated breakfast-hour attack on 25 plantations, completely wiping out some of them. By day's end, 350 men, women, and children - almost 1/3 of the settlers had been massacred. The Indians slaughtered livestock, set fire to buildings and burned grain stores.

Jamestown itself was saved. They were warned by Richard Pace who rowed across a backwater with the news of the coming attack. He had been warned by an Indian convert named Chano who had been instructed to kill Pace. It was a close thing. Of all the hundreds of Indian converts, only one gave a warning. Even that warning would not have been necessary if the king's priests had also been God's priests and had followed God's Commands; "Thou shall drive them out before thee. Thou shalt make no covenant with them, nor with their gods. They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." Ex 23:31-33"

Missionary Work By Strangers

Foreigners have a long history of doing missionary work among Westerners and of converting Westerners to their own religions.

The story of the Jannisaries never grows old. The Turks bought as well as kidnaped Christian children, and converted them to Islam. When they were grown they were enlisted into the Turkish armies. They were the most violent, the most fanatic of all of Islam's warriors. Their Western appearance permitted them to be used as Islam's missionaries within Western nations.

In America, many Christian children were captured by Indians and converted to their ways. When grown, they often became Indian chiefs - more dangerous than Indians because of their intelligence, and because of their knowledge of Western ways. In time the fair haired stranger who asked for entry into a fort would be seized by its occupants, bound, and kept prisoner until someone vouched for him. If no one came forward in a reasonable period, the prisoner was shot. The fear was that if he were a renegade he might open the gate to Indian savages during the night. It happened many times. The stranger's missionary work can be as successful as Christian missionary work.

The Slave South

Prior to the Revolution, the king's policy was to import slaves into America. Those of understanding know that kings act under the premise that all land and improvements in his kingdom belong to him - or at least are to be managed by him. He levies tribute on everything and everyone (except the priests), and the priests bless the tax and stop teaching God's Commandments against it.[10]

Kings know that labor cost is the biggest item in production cost. Increasing immigration so that workers are plentiful lowers production costs and raises profit margins. This is why, with few exceptions, kings always favor immigration. This is the reason that Black slaves were first brought to America, to force labor cost lower, and this is why immigration doors are open today.

A plentiful labor pool is also the reason that kings do not favor slavery. A Black slave benefits his master, but only indirectly benefits the king. A free wage-slave adds to the labor pool which directly profits the king. Kings can favor slavery to get the slaves into the country, and later, favor slave abolition to free them so as to drive down labor costs in the factories, farms and mills belonging to the king and his supporters.

10 "Of whom do the kings of the earth take custom or tribute? of their own children, or of strangers? Peter saith unto him, Of strangers." (Gr: allotrios - foreign, not akin.) Matt: 17:25-26

Missions To Blacks

Missionary efforts to Blacks were beneficial sometimes, sometimes not.

In 1741, Blacks reverted to the old gods that had made them and burned a church in Philadelphia along with many other buildings. Investigation uncovered a conspiracy to burn the town, massacre the Whites, and establish a country of their own.

In 1800, a Christian convert named Gabrial reverted to his old gods and set out for Richmond with a large band of Blacks - all former Christian converts. Their objective - to kill all Whites and set up Gabrial as king. There seems to have been no other objective.

In 1831, a Black proselyte named Nat Turner reverted and traveled throughout southside Virginia organizing a revolt. With his followers he killed 59, mostly women and children at a school. All had been Christian converts.

There are also numerous cases where Black Christian converts warned their masters of mischief being planned by other converts.

An interesting example of the attempt by White slave owners to expose their slaves to the "beneficial effects of 11 Hoskins, Vigilantes Of Christendom, Virginia Publishing Company, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, Virginia 24505.

Christianity" and at the same time attempting to avoid violating God's condemnation; "We are confounded, because we have heard reproach: shame hath covered our faces: for strangers are come into the sanctuaries of the Lord's house." Jer 51:51.[12]

They put outside entrances leading to the inside church balconies. In this way the slaves could learn the Laws against stealing, lying, and rebelling against their masters, yet not have access to the White parishioners or to the altar. One example still remaining is the Christian Church at Dunnsville, Virginia.

Missions To Whites

President Clinton's wife converses with Eleanor Roosevelt through a channeler. President Reagan's wife also conversed with the dead. Talking with the dead is a Hindu practice. The dead say whatever the channeler says they say. If the listener obeys the instructions of the dead, he is captive to an alien missionary. In other words, America has been, and is being, led by men advised by wives who are captive to Hindu practitioners and practices. This means that America and its people are potently influenced by the missionaries of strangers at the very top.

Missions Used By Empire

Once an empire is formed there are too many peoples, too many religions, too many gods, too much strife to attempt general conversion to a conventional state religion. The main missionary effort of the state is directed toward Dharma-tolerance - simple toleration of others.

12 "The stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh (the tabernacle) shall be put to death." Num 18:7

To achieve this ideal, state-priests are instructed to avoid teaching those Commandments of God which might be construed as condemning another religion. Deprived of the Law, what in another age would be considered "sin" is today tolerated because the church members are untaught. Deprived of the WORD which is God, churches have become social clubs. Sermons fighting "sin" are replaced with travelogues, ritual, and trivia. Religious fanaticism disappears along with the gods that once inspired that fanaticism. Zealots espousing separation to worship their own gods are looked upon as trouble makers - enemies of the empire. Social climbers shop churches like they shop country clubs. Losing sight of their God, people drop away and churches become empty.

Strangers In Church

The example of the Scriptual way to handle strangers demanding to be included with us in the worship of our God, is related in scripture so that there will be no excuse for not knowing how to handle the situation:

First, the background:

> "In the 9th year of Hoshea (721 BC), the King of Assyria took Samaria (capital city of the Northern Kingdom) and carried Israel away into Assyria, and placed them in Halah and in Habor by the River Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes." 2Ki 17:6

The reason God removed Israel and replaced them with strangers is that Israel had refused to obey God's Laws. Their refusal triggered the punishment law: "If thou wilt not ... do all the words of the law ... ye shall be plucked from off the land." Deut 58:66

More than 10 million Israelites went into the Assyrian Captivity north of Palestine over 700 years before Christ. The land that the Israelites had left, Samaria, was left vacant. Its cities and farms were vacant and produced no revenue for the conquering king. So, the conqueror, the king of Assyria brought in "strangers" (today we would call them Arabs or Turks) to live on the vacant land and in the vacant cities of Samaria to produce an income for the king of Assyria.

> "And the king of Assyria brought men from Babylon... and placed them in the cities of Samaria instead of the children of Israel ..." II Ki 17:24

A problem quickly arose with these strangers. To them, each land has its own god. They felt that they would not be lucky and prosperous unless they made peace with the god of this new land that they were living in.

> "They ... know not the manner of the God of the land. Then the King of Assyria commanded .... carry thither one of the priest whom ye brought from thence ... and let him teach them the manner of the god of the land ...

History repeats again and again. The Assyrian king sent a missionary to teach these non-Israelites - these mixed race peoples, the new occupants of the former cities of the Israelites who had been taken into captivity. They were proselytized (converted). They learned about the God of Israel, the Laws, the Holy Scriptures, and they built temples to the God of Israel. They were "converted." But, after all this, what was the result?

> "Howbeit, every nation made gods of their own ... unto this day ... they fear not the Lord, neither do they after their statutes ... which the Lord commanded the children of ... Israel ... As did their fathers so do they unto this day." II Ki 17:24-41

Many years later a remnant of Israel, about 50,000, returned from Babylon to rebuild the temple. When they did, these mixed-race inhabitants of Samaria approached them with an offer:

> "Now when the adversaries (Samaritan- strangers) ... heard that the children of the captivity builded the temple unto the Lord God of Israel; Then they came ... and said unto them, Let us build with you: for we seek your God, as ye do ... But ... the fathers of Israel, said unto them, Ye have nothing to do with us to build a house unto our God; but we ourselves together will build unto the Lord God of Israel." Ezra 4:1-4

This seems to be completely clear. When a stranger comes saying, "we seek your God, as ye do", we are to reply, "we ourselves together will build unto the Lord God of Israel." If this needs any clarification, one need only to turn to his God who will tell him once again:

> "And go, get thee ... unto the children of thy people, and speak unto them." Ez 3:11

And the stranger?

> "These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying ... unto any city of the Samaritans enter ye not: But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 10:5- 6.[13]

LETTER FROM SOUTH AFRICA by KJ

"Dear Mr. Hoskins:

"There is a discernible change in the attitude of many Blacks, mostly due to media influence. The TV shows Afri-

13 "There are many nations ... all are his, and over all has he appointed spirits to rule ... but over Israel ... he alone is their ruler." Jubilees 15:23

kaners as the worst possible living beings. The 'affirmatives' who work with Whites in offices have taken to giving orders left and right. Blacks promoted to mid-management hate the few remaining White supervisors and ignore them, while they order Whites around who are beneath them.

"Blacks talk among themselves in their own language of killing Whites. Mandela told them that it is the Whites' fault that they do not all have houses.

"The papers say that Queen Elizabeth and her government like the Blacks very much. Queen Elizabeth should be happy, the British are getting raw minerals at bargain prices. But, this good feeling is not shared by all. According to the London Times, the English businessmen smiled ever so friendly until Mandela asked for money. Then, they left in a hurry to attend a Japanese business lunch. The very day Mandela spoke from the balcony of South Africa House telling everyone that the rand is now under control - it declined 7% against the dollar.

"Years ago one of our ministers had his staff collecting English newspaper clippings. It was stopped after a while but someone kept the file and it is now in print. It is called, "How they hate us." I hope to send you a copy shortly.

"The Ratte saga came to an end. The committee involved with the action called on the leaders who signed their declaration to come forward and work together. I have my doubts about this. Some cannot stand the sight of the others and the Volksverraad book which revealed some interesting details about the Conservative Party leaders and others has been read and promoted by Robert van Tonder and Eugene Terre'Blanche.

"The Weekly Telegraph" has an article in which the Interior-editor, Philip Johnson said, "According to census statistics Indians are the biggest minority group." This is very interesting.

"A great many Whites are killed daily. Most cases never reach the media. Is it not war when so many fall? One example - a father killed in a gruesome way for a few cents. Derrik Shannon 31, credit clerk at the Free State University, was killed on Tuesday for the small change he had on him. He was returning from the cafe with a loaf of bread, half a litre of milk and medicine for his two small children and the robbers attacked him in his driveway. Although he fought back they cut his throat. His wife died from shock and their two youngsters are now orphans. None of us like the present situation and we long for peace but not on their terms. Many thoughtful whites feel that open conflict should come as soon as possible, but that is not altogether in our hands. We have a higher authority.

"Many farmers have to get rid of their Black workers. They have been stirred up to such an extent that they kill farm animals and burn crops. They also burn houses of those workers who are loyal.

"Some out-of-work Whites have started working on farms. Our farmers at first were reluctant to hire other Whites not knowing how it would work out. It is working well. Many places also have to give assistance where families no longer have food.

"This last week a number of Jews have been murdered and robbed. It gets front page coverage. A senior Jewish professor of constitutional law took his own life after Blacks called him a racist after the Makgoba affair at Wits University." Best wishes, K.J.

LETTERS

RATTE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Willem Ratte certainly does seem to fill that which is expected of a "true" Gideon Saxon leader. I pray it is so. Here in south Alabama it has become a disgusting matter to see high school white girls parading around with blacks that are dressed as Africans. Everywhere you turn in public there are mixed couples with their monkey looking brats. As L.J. of Ohio said, the WORD is not going to tolerate this much longer. Please let us know about how Mr. Ratte is coming along." F. J. - Alabama

---

JOUSTING: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Is it true that Scottish novelist Walter Scott was responsible for jousting in the American South? G.M. - Missouri

RKH: I don't know. I do know that my Uncle Willard was a champion jouster when he was a young man. Contestants would ride at a full gallop, and with a lance - spear a small ring hung from a tree, something you must do yourself to appreciate. The champion was crowned by his lady. There was quite a ceremony and the champion was honored throughout Essex County.

PRISONER: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I was 21 when I was sentenced to two consecutive life terms without possibility of parole for killing a homosexual (see enclosed clipping). These liberal media Dharmatoids wanted to give me the death penalty to 'extinguish hate' when they themselves are the epitome of hate.

"Now I see that Bill Clinton is advocating interracial adoptions. My heart sickens and can't wait to see this country go back to Christianity which is rightfully ours. 'Rid me, and deliver me from the hand of strange children, whose mouth speaketh vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of falsehood.' Ps 14:11." S.J. - New Jersey

RKH: Violate the kings statutes and you incur his wrath. There was a time when killing a homosexual was treated as justifiable homicide. Lev 20:13; Lev 18:22; Rom 1:27; I CO 6:9; I Ti 1:10.

UNFILTERED NEWS

Europe

MEDIA COVER-UP: "In all Pan- European countries, the truth regarding the numerical ratio of locals to foreigners is being suppressed. In France, for example, there are simply no such statistics; in Germany, although such records are kept, they are grotesquely manipulated and falsified. According to unofficially obtained but reliable information from the German Office for Protection of the Constitution, the actual number of foreigners legal and illegal living in Germany at the beginning of 1993 was no less than seventeen million." Johannes Rothkranz in his book The Maastricht Treaty - Final solution for Europe (p. 567, in German only)

THIEVES: At least 600 people are believed to be operating in a single gang in Saxony and Bavaria, according to German Police. They specialize in breaking into private homes, shops, post offices and banks. Anything that can be sold is stolen. Those arrested are identified as Rumanian nationals and "all are gypsies." Insider PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA

GERMAN CENSORSHIP: "A new telecommunications law for Germany was passed today. Passage 85 and 87 say that all on-line telekom service providers including internet and mailboxes should provide a backdoor for state officials to access the data of their users ... Furthermore, it should be set up in a way that the state has access to this data anytime without the provider being able to notice it or notify the users that their data is being collected. A new state office will be created to operate this service called 'Regulationsbehoerde." Internet, (http:// www.webcom.com/ ezundel/english) 1 July 1996.

HANS SCHMIDT IN HOT WATER AGAIN: Hans Schmidt was arrested in Germany for four politically incorrect words he had uttered in the United States. For that, the German government imprisoned him for more than 5 months in one of Germany's worst prisons. He wrote the following after his release.

"The latest German postage stamp was issued at the time of my incarceration. Note the words on the left rim: 'Freiheit der Meinungsauberung,' - 'freedom of Expression' in German. I immediately thought of embarrassing the German system with its own false propaganda. I bought as many stamps of this sort as possible ... and used them on letters to my friends and supporters around the world. I pasted the stamps with an arrow pointing toward the 'Freedom of Expression' title and then wrote the words 'Commemorative issue for Hans Schmidt' in small letters to the left of it. And guess what: By order of the court some of these 'offending' envelopes were photocopied, and my sarcasm was noted as a serious offense, namely '... ridiculing the German political system.' Amazing, isn't it?" Internet, ZGram 30 June 1996. (http:// www.webcom.com/ ezundel/english)

CHEAP LABOR: "Without consulting the British people, the British government has agreed to allow the 3.5 million Hong Kong Chinese to settle in Britain when the island is handed over to mainland China in mid-1997. ... The Chinese will join the 5 million other immigrants already in Britain: African, Indian, Pakistani, West Indian, Vietnamese, Bangladeshi, Somali." Impact, April/May 1996, p. 12, P.O. Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA METHODIST NUMBERS COLLAPSE: "The Methodist Church ... is shrinking faster than any other denomination in Britain. Since 1950 membership has almost halved ... over the past 15 years ... 1453 churches have closed and only 140 have opened." (Guardian Weekly March 31, 1996.

Hinduism Spreads Dharma-Tolerance

CRIME OF SEPARATION: The coming Buddha, Lord Maitreya, through his New Age channeler says: "The crime of separation must be driven from this earth. I affirm this as my purpose." (6/96 Chr. Cons.) New Agers say that it is ok to believe in ANY god, just don't claim that YOUR god or belief is EXCLUSIVE." (Cavalry Contender, Aug 1, 1996, 1800 Sparkman Drive, Huntsville, AL 35816)

RKH: The basic difference between Hinduism and Christianity is Integration vs. Separation. The Hindu would have all become one to facilitate international trade. The WORD forbids this.

NEW MODERATOR: Rev. John Buchanan, the new moderator of the 3 million-member Presbyterian Church (USA) said, "There is no scriptural reason that homosexual persons should not be ordained." (7/8 Chr. News). The

PCUSA is divided over this issue. (Cavalry Contender, Aug 1, 1996, 1800 Sparkman Drive, Huntsville, AL 35816[14]

BUDDHISM AND SODOMY: "Alone among the major world religions, Buddhism does not condemn homosexuality or premarital sex. The emphasis on Buddhism is on achieving a state of enlightenment, but the religion provides only guidelines, not strict commandments, as to how individuals should strive for this. Rape and adultery are considered misconduct, but an individual is free to engage in consenting sexual acts that do not violate marital monastic commitments." The Alyson Almanac, Church Policies on Gay Concerns, pp 234-239.

ED: When conquerors believe themselves powerful enough they will enforce their religion on conquered subjects. Their agents will be first to adopt their master's beliefs. Note those condoning sodomy in religion and politics and you will discover followers of the conqueror's god.

ORDAINING HOMOSEXUALS: S. African Bishop Desmond Tutu, a 1984 Nobel Prize winner, recently became the highest-ranking Anglican to call for the ordination of practicing homosexuals. (5/6 Christian News). He ... warned that rejecting homosexuals is 'nearly the ultimate blasphemy.'" Cavalry Contender, June 1, 1996, 1800 Sparkman Drive, Huntsville, AL 35816

---

14 "If a man lie with mankind, as he lieth with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination: they shall surely be put to death; their blood shall be upon them." Lev 20:13

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 265

VOLKSVERRAAD - BETRAYAL by Piet Pretorius[1]

The book, VOLKSVERRAAD, by Piet Pretorius, slipped though the establishments censorship net before it could be stopped, and is now the talk of all South Africa. Authored by an insider, it reveals the schemes, connections, bribes, theft and yes, murders, that has kept the South African Establishment in power for decades. It is a carbon copy of Establishment operations in every Western state, including America.

"It is a commentary on the "freedom of the press" that a best- selling book, filled to the brim with significant and dramatic revelations, should systematically be ignored by the mainstream press, both English and Afrikaans. This press is said to be ever on the lookout for sensationalism. Well, here it is - and one and all have given it the silent treatment. Even "Radio Pretoria," the "voice of conservatism" described it as "too controversial" to review.

1 The following review is from IMPACT, June/July, P.O. Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA, $30/yr., air $45.

"Indeed, so explosive is the material in the book, that only those with strong nerves can read and review it. As far as is known, Rapport was the only mainstream publication to review it, as did Die Afrikaner, plus a few smaller publications. To add to the drama, the author and publishers are reported to have been charged with defamation, and an attempt has been made to prevent the publication of a second edition. But apparently nothing has so far come from either action. There are apparently plans to publish English and German translations of the book.

Tradition

"In the tradition of ex-Mossad agent Victor Ostrovsky (who wrote The Other Side of Deception,[2] in which he exposed the Mossad's secret agenda) and ex-CIA agent Terry Reed (in his Compromised, in which he revealed Bill Clinton's and the CIA's involvement in the movement of drugs into Arkansas while governor of that state) - Advocate Piet Pretorius, and ex-NIS (National Intelligence Service, later Nat. Intelligence "BOSS") agent, has written a book entitled Volksverraad (Betrayal). It is now in its second edition, the first edition having been sold out within one month. Both Ostrovsky and Reed live in hiding for fear of assassination, and it is possible that Pretorius's life could also be in danger.

2 The Other Side of Deception, by Viktor Ostrovsky, Virginia Publishing Company, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $9.00/copy.

"This is a deeply disturbing book, which is bound to shock some rightists and patriots. But many of the subjects have been a matter of public speculation for years, and Pretorius simply confirms the details from an Insider's point of view. He has stated that he would welcome a court case against him.

"The facts in the book are thoroughly documented. In the nature of this type of book, sources cannot always be named. Although not every word in the document can be vouched for, the main exposition is so clear, so many puzzles in South African politics clarified - especially the role played by secret forces in South Africa's political life over the past four or five decades - that it would be difficult to fault. Since 1967, South African politics have been increasingly determined by forces with their own secret agendas. The book will help to explain the apparent "paralysis of will" during the abdication of white power.

The Smit Murders

"One of the most shocking chapters in the book deals with the murder of Dr. Smit and his wife in 1977. Robert Smit, who had previously been the South African representative at the I.M.F., told then-Minister of Finance, Owen Horwood, about an unexplained flow of money out of South Africa. Horwood then instructed Smit to investigate secret currency movements to the Union Bank in Switzerland. It was established that then-State President Dr. Nic Diederichs had a secret account of R17 million. This information was given to Horwood and Prime Minister John Vorster.

"Shortly before his death, Smit told a colleague that his information would shake the whole nation, and that higher-ups would also be implicated. The revelations clearly had to be stopped.

"According to the author, the help of the CIA was called in. A man who had committed several assassinations for the CIA was assigned. He and two CIA agents and, incredibly, Nic Diederichs went to the Smit house, where Smit and his wife were shot to death, and the incriminating papers removed from Smit's briefcase. Diederichs's fingerprints were identified on the case. This was hushed up, as was the correlation between the CIA and the bullets used in the Smit murder. Apparently, Diederichs made a confession to a nurse on his death-bed.

John Vorster

"Advocate Pretorius goes into detail about the man who succeeded Dr. Verwoerd after he was assassinated.

"While many regarded John Vorster as a rightist who "turned" once he became Prime Minister, it will seem that long before that Vorster was busy forging secret connections with the far-left SA Institute of Race Relations, with Julius First (father of Ruth First, and father-in-law of Joe Slovo);[3] with the Broederbond and Freemasonry; with the CIA; with the SA Institute of International Affairs and the CFR; the SA Foundation; and MI6. When Afrikaner finance went into "partnership" with Oppenheimer's General Mining, Vorster was present at the celebration party.

"The author throws light on the circumstances surrounding Dr. Verwoerd's murder in which Vorster played a decisive role, and which can definitely be classified as a conspiracy. Demitrio Tsafendas arrived in England in 1959 and worked at Anton Rupert's British cigarette factory, Rothmans Int. In May 1960, he said if he got the chance, he would kill Dr. Verwoerd. Rupert was informed. In 1962, Tsafendas left Rothman's employ but remained on the pay sheet. In March 1963, a meeting was held in Birmingham at which Rupert consulted with four members of the CFR, MI6 and CIA. It was decided that Dr. Verwoerd should be assassinated, and that Tsafendas should be approached for the assignment. MI6 would train and pay him. He would also receive hypnosis.

3 Editor: Slovo was head of the S. African Communist Party (CPSA).

"Tsafendas arrived in SA in 1963 under suspicious circumstances. On 27 July 1964, John Vorster, who was still Minister of Justice, was present at a meeting with Rupert, Harry Oppenheimer, Quinton White and an MI6 agent, held in Oppenheimer's Parktown house, when the murder of Dr. Verwoerd was planned, reports Advocate Pretorious. Vorster was apparently blackmailed to become involved. As a reward, he would become Prime Minister. A blueprint was handed to him instructing him how to rule once he achieved the position. At 9 p.m. the same evening, Vorster contacted Gen van den Bergh about the matter. Tsafendas was paid R5000 by an MI6 agent.

"Pretorius gives details of the roles played by Van den Bergh, Rupert and Henry Kissinger. On 1 August, Tsafendas got work as a messenger in Parliament. A writ of expulsion to deport Tsafendas was signed by the minister, but was never sent on to the police.

"On 6 September 1966, Tsafendas assassinated Dr. Verwoerd. As Minister of Justice, Vorster was responsible for the lax security in the House. Van den Bergh was given the task of investigating the murder. Tsafendas was interrogated for 48 hours, after which it was announced that no conspiracy was involved and that Tsafendas had acted alone. Vorster denied that the police had a file on Tsafendas.

The Generals

"The founding of certain right-wing movements by BOSS and Military Intelligence is dealt with in detail. The purpose was to protect the National Party and to checkmate genuine resistance to the plans as they became apparent. From the beginning, the main intriguer was Gen Tienie Groenewald and his Kom Ops. Names, places and dates are given in detail in the book.

"Pretorius finds that the planting of the Generals into the right-wing movement in the early 1990s had two purposes: First, the right-wing had to be confused by divisive factors such as the "folkstaat" concept; and secondly, the threat of armed resistance to the handover of authority to the ANC/SACP had to be defused.

"Because of his financial difficulties, Constand Viljoen was the ideal candidate for the task. The Broederbond played a key role, and Groenewald was throughout the chief architect. He was the author not only of F.W. de Klerk's "Red Friday" speech, but also several other pivotal speeches by John Vorster, Willie Jonker and others. Pretorius states that Groenewald was not only a member of Military Intelligence, but also of National Intelligence (agent 93G/1092MG), and of the American CIA.

"His modus operandi was to collect various rightist and conservative organizations under one umbrella and under one neutralizing control. Pretorius follows the trail relentlessly. The involvement of the CIA at this stage was critical. Names are given of various other prominent Afrikaners who were involved with CIA espionage.

"Throughout the period of "handover," Viljoen and

Groenewald were constantly seen by National Intelligence in the company of F.W. de Klerk, Neil Barnard, Roelf Meyer and members of the ANC; as well as leftist cleric Johan Heyns.[4]

"Virtually every right-wing party and militant movement was infiltrated by Military Intelligence and National Intelligence and their agents provacateurs. Another plus for them was getting the global lists of right-wingers throughout the world who were apparently prepared to resort to armed struggle.[5]

"So effective were the Generals and their support team, that the Right posed little serious threat to the "handover". The "transition" went relatively smoothly and all the cogs clicked into place.

"A factor confirming Tienie Groenewald's position, is that in the Magnus Malan trial, now in progress, Groenewald was the very first person to be acquitted, in spite of the fact that (a) during the case up to that point the impression was given that he was the main architect of the whole operation for which Magnus Malan and the other were being tried, and (b) his testimony was vital to the case. No reasons were given by Judge Jan Hugo for his acquittal.

"Volksverraad is not just a real-life cloak-and-dagger thriller, but contains a serious analysis of the background - historical and political - of the events described.

"If only a half of Volksverraad were true, it would be worth

4 Editor: Heyns was shot with a high powered rifle as he sat at supper, presumably by a right- winger disgusted with his anti-Saxonite Dharma-Christianity.

5 Editor: This same International Trade Cartel policy is being implemented in America today.

the reading, but so thorough has been the investigation that it is difficult to believe there can be any serious errors of fact.

"It is also a pivotal document in opening up the "can of worms" that characterized the infiltration, marginalisation, denigration and neutralization of the genuine, nationalist spirit of the White man and the Afrikaner, during the nefarious campaign to dispossess him of his power and his country. When the English and German translations are published, they should shed a lot of light on similar modus operandi used in other lands."

Volksverraad Lessons Learned

HR subscribers are naturally familiar with the problems of their people in their own country, but often are not informed about the problems of others of their kinsmen.

The above report reveals that South Africa was betrayed from within by political, religious, and business interests working together as an occupation government that we identify as the Establishment. This group of traitors, agents of the International Trade Cartel (ITC), were in it together - ALL of them. If there is one to bear more blame than another it would be the media directed by the media-owner. These owners hand-picked S. African traitors to be publicized and elected to public office by unsuspecting voters. They hand picked and publicized corrupt Dharma-priests[6] to be S. Africa's religious leaders, to direct the steps of Christians. And, the international business interests paid for it all. They were ALL guilty - ALL of them. The study of the S. African experience reveals an organization that is today duplicated in every nation of the world (with the two or three possible exceptions).

6 Hindu: "Dharma" - tolerance. "Dharmitized - to be subdued by Dharma.

Islamic Reaction

Resistance to the ITC is building all over the world and is finding its present epicenter in the Mideast with new found patriotism.

Since the early 1900s, Islamic mullahs have railed against the ITC. This is now bearing fruit; for the first time since the Crusades, followers of Islam freely give their lives for Allah. They strap bombs to their bodies and walk into a crowd of their enemies and blow themselves and their enemies to shreds. In Afghanistan, there are countless stories of mudjahein thrusting themselves under the tracks of oncoming Soviet tanks to make sure the explosives they carried were correctly placed.

Not only are they in revolt against the foreign devil - there is scarcely a single Islamic country in the Mideast in which the people are not in open revolt against their own "Establishment" - their counterparts to the Establishment that recently betrayed S. Africa.

At first, the rebels demanded that they be ruled by Islamic law. The Establishment partially gave in, and allowed limited Islamic law to be administered. Now, encouraged by their mullahs, Mohammedans demand to be ruled by their own people under Islamic law entirely. Their Establishments refused this demand since it conflicts with Cartel policy. Because of their refusal, open rebellion has broken out.

In countries like Algeria and Egypt, Establishment rulers, newspapermen, businessmen and Dharma-clerics dare not go about without bodyguards. Even this does not prevent their assassination. Every few weeks we read of another Establishment newspaper person, banker, or politician being killed. We also hear of Establishment retaliation; of police arresting individuals and sometimes large groups of dissenters. After brief trials the accused are either shot or imprisoned. The prisons of these countries bulge with political prisoners who hate their own Establishment leaders even more than they hate the Great American Devil or the Jews.

Israeli Reaction

World Jewry is a unique case. Scattered worldwide they have been uniquely susceptible to manipulation. They were promised a homeland in Palestine for bringing America into WWI. To rid themselves of unwanted Arab neighbors living on land they claimed as their own, the Jews massacred entire Arab villages to drive them away. The British sent peacekeepers. Israeli terrorist groups, such as the Stern Gang blew up the King David Hotel killing hundreds of British soldiers. British sentries were knifed, garroted, or shot. The UN arrived. Their peacekeepers fared no better - even the head of the UN mission was murdered. The point was made - the Jews would fight for a homeland.

Recently, another point was made - Jews will fight for their religion. A Jewish gunman went to the Temple of the Rock and machine-gunned Arab worshipers - killing many. The gunman was killed. The Jewish populace expressed approval of his act and the gunman's mother said that she was proud of her son for upholding Jewish law.

The story continues; many Jews drive cars and shop on the Jewish Sabbath. Religious Jews throw rocks at them and shout insults at their desecration.

The struggle has now taken a giant step forward. Rabin was put in power by the ITC to lead the Jewish state. He was told to give land that had been conquered by the Jews to the Arabs in exchange for Mideast peace. This he proceeded to do. The Jewish Talmud condemns anyone who gives Jewish land to non-Jews (Gittin 4:9). A Jewish patriot shot him and claimed that he had the approval of Jewish rabbis to punish him for his betrayal. The rest of the Jewish government made conciliatory noises, but this act along with the lack of punishment against the offending rabbis, puts the world on notice: the Israeli state is in a state of rebellion against the ITC. The recent movement of American ITC forces to that part of the world is the return answer: rebels may expect to face the consequences of their actions - whoever they may be.

Christian Reaction

In spite of the dire predictions of the ITC media, reaction to the ITC and its blasphemies has been light years behind the forceful reaction of the Jews and Arabs.

Small incidents have occurred. There is the peaceful defiance of the Canadian, Ernst Zundel, protesting the wholesale condemnation of Saxon Germany, who points out the inconsistencies in "the 6- million story." The resulting persecution has caused people from all over the world to come to his aid to protect internet free speech for everyone. This unity of effort worldwide has been a real setback to ITC efforts to impose world wide censorship.

In 1985, a group called The Order robbed banks and armored cars and idealistically used the proceeds to help farmers pay their mortgages. This effort was short-lived.

A year or so ago a presbyterian minister named Paul Hill shot an abortionist and his bodyguard, and then stood tamely awaiting arrest. Hill is just the tip of a volcano. The abortion killings, numbering in the millions, and the brutal treatment meted out to peaceful protesters have generated a nationwide resentment which is really quite surprising. Of course, the Establishment bravery awards to their men who shot the mother and her 14 year old son on Ruby ridge leaves a bad taste, as does the government muscle flexing in their Waco and Oklahoma City affairs.

In South Africa, the Saxon's greatest and most successful effort against their Establishment has been the printing of Volksverraad. Knowing the enemy is the first step in ridding oneself of that enemy. Only then can one select the method to be used.

Thus far the White traitor Dharma-Christian cleric Johan Heyns has been executed by an unknown patriot. Also, the black extremist Chris Heyni, ANC leader and member of the CPSA, was assassinated. Of perhaps more lasting importance, a young Christian farmer named Andre Bartleman has started an independent Volkstaat in SW Orange Free State which employs no strangers on its farms. Other than these events, there has as yet developed virtually no white S. African resistance that stands out.

The White Establishment, both left and right, which betrayed the nation, or sat by and allowed it to be betrayed, sits nervously on a volcano of mounting Saxon discontent, blaming everyone else in the attempt to convince their disbelieving victims that they are not really a part of the Establishment.

The Pledge

The international merchant must make friends with the god of the land in which he intends to trade. To do this he hires priests to insert Dharma-tolerance. Intolerant religions, such as Christianity, Islam, and Judaism then become Dharma-Christian, Dharma-Islam, and Dharma-Judaism. With Dharma - each becomes a different religion from the original.

Islam and Judaism have come a long way in isolating and banishing the Dharma-tolerance that has long corrupted them. Christians must now learn that Dharma-Christianity is as alien a religion as Islam or Judaism.

Christendom wants leaders such as the other religions have - leaders like their own warriors of old - leaders who freely and without coaxing stand tall and pledge before everyone to follow God the WORD - and ONLY the WORD!

Christendom, misled by hired Dharma-priests, has been reduced to a nation of babies with the values of alley cats. While the Arabs have tens of thousands who publicly swear every day to live by the Koran and if need be die to uphold the laws of Allah; and the Jews who have thousands who are willing to do the same for their people and their laws at the command of their Rabbis - there is not one, not ONE Christian political leader of any statue in the entire West that I know of who will stand and make this pledge. Not ONE!

> A man who refuses to publicly bind himself to the WORD remains free to make private agreements with strangers. A man who publicly binds himself to the WORD attracts the like- minded and likewise alienates strangers. The man who will not publicly declare himself cannot be trusted.

I talk to American, South African, and British political leaders - they are all the same. None will stand and raise the banner. It will require a new crop of leaders, leaders who will do as much for their people as our enemies are willing to do - if necessary to give their lives for their God and their people; not be "supporters of Christian ideals," or "support the Christian ethic." Christians want to know what their leaders intend doing about murderers, rapists, abortionists and homosexuals? Tell them. Volksvaarrd has revealed the treason in South Africa. The same situation exists in America and the rest of the West. In spite of all this we also know that we will not be destroyed, and what we are presently enduring is temporary. We have the promise:

> "Thus saith the Lord which giveth the sun ... and the ordinances of the moon and of the stars ... If those ordinances depart ... then the seed of Israel also shall cease from being a nation before Me." Jeremiah 31:35-36.

We look in the heavens and see that the stars still shine. The sun and the moon continue their course. Therefore, God is keeping his promises. In time, leaders will come who will publicly swear to obey God's Commandments and them only, and to forsake all that is not from the WORD. They will grant self-determination to all the world's peoples and demand self-determination for our own.

Then the Saxon armies will swell and the false gods and their followers will be swept from our land.

Letter From S. Africa - by K.J.

Another campaign to stop crime fizzled out. We only saw a few black policemen on the road and they had no idea how to conduct a roadblock.

The most promising Army general, Gen Opperman, has been replaced by a black woman, Jackie Sedibe, married to the minister of defense Joe Modise. She has no qualifications what-so-ever. There is a lot of friction within the ANC at the moment.

The Freedom Front of Viljoen finally decided on the Northern Cape for a possible white homeland. The Conservative Party is in full agreement. The CP has a way of doing a 180 degree turn whenever it suits them. Some time back they suspended members for supporting this idea. During the "Rescue Willem Ratte" episode they kept the Viljoen group out of it, but now they are looking for unity with Viljoen. They have no ANC agreement and the land is mostly desert.

Rapport of 15 Sept 96, states that Gen. Tienie Groenewald announced that the Viljoen group is receiving financial aid from abroad and is setting up a political institute to work on self- determination, human rights and democracy. The last time they did this they sent white farmers to the Congo with lots of empty promises. Evil abounds with that man around.

The English version of Volksverraad should reach me soon and I will send you a copy. According to Boerant , prominent people will testify for the author if the case should be referred to court.

From reading the Hoskins Report of September, "Missionary - Saint or Devil," it becomes clear where my people went wrong. Missionary work to strangers is forbidden by God and that is just what our Dharma-Dutch Reformed Church did. During my father's lifetime he felt it was a heresy to be against such missionary work. The result is that most black ANC and Communist leaders went to these Dharma-Christian mission schools and that is where they learned to hate whites. No wonder we are in such deep trouble - our own spiritual leaders fight God.

Saxon News From Sweden

"In Sweden, summer is here at last. Before the middle of July it was very cold and rainy. The Viking blood was tested.

"We don't have any male ministers that preach true Christianity here in Sweden. Religion is a government thing. I have to preach to a small congregation because of the lack of men to do so.

"On National Day, June 6, 1994, I spoke before an audience of 200 people here in Stockholm. It was the "Swede-Democrats" Party. This party is a nationalistic party. In fact the only serious one that exists here in Sweden.

"The government of Sweden has proposed that they will forbid all nationalist symbols from the first of January 1997. If someone has a Thor's hammer he has to prove that he isn't a racist! The other symbol you see here in my letter is the one of the Aryan Sisterhood. Only Women of pure blood with documented family line back 200 years can belong. They are only allowed to marry a man with the same pure bloodlines. It is heavy and hard but blessed to be allowed to use this symbol. Please don't print the symbols. It is not for the stranger to know our secrets. I wear the sunwheel symbol because of love for the struggle and our heavenly Father Almighty. The love that will win.

"About the skinheads. I know some of them, but they are not interested in the struggle; the faith of Christianity; or of a moral life. The major part of them are only interested in music and beer - and maybe Odinism.

"About the demonstration in Gothenburg, where the policemen beat the two teen-age girls; I wasn't there, Sorry! Because I am not afraid I would have protected them with my own body. I have done it before - without arms.

"The political and religious climate is very hard here in Sweden. It seems that we are hoeing in iron and rocks. It is very few of the Swedes that are brave enough to be political and spiritual soldiers. Sometimes, awakened Aryan women have to act as men, because of the lack of brave and righteous Swedish men, and the price paid is very high. The struggle always comes first. Lucky is the woman that has found a mate that is equal or above themselves in bravery, honesty, and righteousness.

"All thanks to God, our heavenly Father. May he bless you. For blood and Soil. D.E. - Sweden BYRON DE LA BECKWITH: "Dear Dick: Your latest In the Beginning ...[7] is the most stimulating book I have read in years and years. I have read it three times from cover to cover.

LETTERS

"I have come to find out the Mississippi Supreme Court MAY LOOK at my appeal - when it pleases them to - and that may be a LONG time from now. They clog and unclog the court as it suits them - so something to stimulate them to favor me must occur! Have had five off and on strokes this past year - ouch - so - am watching my health! Yes - busy occupying -." Byron De La Beckwith VI, 407 E. Pascogoula St, Jackson, Mississippi 39201

RKH: Byron de la Beckwith is a perfect example of today's martyr. The prisons are full of them. Beckwith was accused of killing the black race agitator Medgar Evers. He was twice released by hung juries and was tried yet a third time before a black jury before being convicted and sentenced to life. Since then all sorts of improprieties by federal law enforcement officers have surfaced. It is the writer's belief that the establishment has no intention of putting the system on trial and they intend to keep "De La" in prison until death removes a potential time bomb.

7 In The Beginning ..., VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505

AIDS: "Dick: It is now known there are are at least 8 separate strains of AIDS ... HIV-0, HIV-1, HIV-2 ... and strains 9, 10, & 11 are highly suspected. Yet, there is a test only for HIV-1. NO ONE knows the magnitude of the mess." R.Q. - Oregon

---

BOOKS: "Dear Sir: I enjoy your books. They'd be best sellers if censorship did not prevail." P.S. - Texas

---

SUGGESTION: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Your 'State Of The Saxon Nation' article provided a good introduction on the operation of the ITC. You should use it as a basis for developing a more complete 12-16 page summary of your writings into a HR sized handout.

"In the country where I live, an 1837 Harris' Directory revealed not a single non-Saxon name in a list of business people. A newspaper article from that era described how a drunken murderer and robber of a farmer was found, judged guilty in court and hanged within a 24 hour period following the commission of the crime. No police, jails, or tax money appear to have been involved. Local citizens contributed their efforts, and then went home for their evening meal. This is what it used to be like in Pennsylvania." K.T. - Pennsylvania

RKH: Any suggestions about the "Saxon Nation Handout" from readers?

THE GORDON KAHL AFFAIR CONTINUES: Readers of Vigilantes recall the "Kahl Affair."[8] Gordon Kahl was a tax protester accused of a misdemeanor. Federal marshals ambushed his party on a back road severely wounding Kahl's son Yorie. Gordon seized a carbine and defended himself killing two of the bushwhackers. He then fled to Arkansas where he was betrayed. He was again ambushed, shot in the back and killed. The feds imprisoned the remaining party, excepting Mrs. Kahl. The following is excerpted and paraphrased from the lawyer's note to Mrs. Kahl who is attempting to secure a new trial for Yorie: From John DeCamp to Joan Kahl re: Yori 23 Aug 96: We attempted to force disqualification of all N. Dakota judges. We won this motion. Next, we won access to SECRET records the Government has had and kept sealed from the Defense for the last 13 years. Now we wait for the judge to rule whether or not he will grant a new trial or hearing to offer evidence. I have identified 6 to 10 individuals we believe were contacted by Federal Marshals and FBI in 1983 and offered either specific bribes or threats or combinations of both if they would testify the way the FBI wanted them to testify at the trial. I need an investigative team to track these people these and get their statements. We must have this proof of government abuse, and investigators cost money. Yorie is in good spirits and one of the most inspiring individuals I ever met. He must be set free to tell the world the truth.

RKH: I met Yorie's wife. She's never given up hope. The ITC has filled their prisons with our people. We can't abandon them.

UNFILTERED NEWS

BOER WAR REMEMBRANCE: Queen Elizabeth was

8 Vigilantes Of Christendom, Hoskins, VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505

invited by Mandela to come to S. Africa along with representatives from Canada, Australia and New Zealand to help commemorate the defeat and destruction of the independent Boer republics of Transvaal and Orange Free State. British regiments will parade and visit battlefields. The emphasis will be on reviving old injuries to revive old hatreds between Saxon nations. Indications are that instead of visiting sites of the British Concentration Camps where 27,000 Boer women and children died through starvation and neglect, the focus will be on visiting British mining company holding pens for workers where blacks also died from neglect, and for which the Boers had no responsibility, but on whom the establishment media will doubtlessly place the blame. (From an article translated from Die Afrikaner 26 July - 1 Aug 1996)

IMMIGRATION: Asians, with 3% of our population, make up 20% of the class of '92 at Harvard, 30% of the freshmen at the University of California, and 10% at Princeton.

OBSERVATIONS: "Last night I watched '60 Minutes' about the artificial famine in the country called Iraq. I remember my mother telling me about the '30s when she was young and they sealed off the Ukraine from the rest of the world. It was called 'collectivization' and stood for genocide. ... American reporters would stand there, next to corpses, pencils poised, and ask each other: 'Famine? Do you see famine? I don't see famine anywhere.' To this day, most people in the West have no idea what happened in those years in the Ukraine, and who had manufactured it.

I have a letter here to the United Church Observer, written by Ian MacDonald of Canada, a former career diplomat. 'You devoted 8 pages and the cover of the May 1996 issue of the Observer to food shortages, but I found not one word about the desperate plight of the children of Iraq. These unfortunates, with their elders, have suffered for over five years from the effects of international sanctions that have deprived their country of the necessary foreign exchange earnings to pay for adequate supplies of food and medicine, to say nothing of the other prerequisites to well- being. As a result, many hundreds of thousands of young children have died needlessly (560,000 up to October 1995) and hundreds of thousands more have been permanently disabled by inadequate diet. ..." ZGram May 13, 1996, (416)922-9850, http:// www.web com.com /~ezundel/english/

ABORTION PROTEST: Police in Greenland, NH arrested abortion opponent Steven Mears on charges that he repeatedly went to the police station and reported that murders were taking place at the Feminist Health Clinic next door. (Story in USA Today, July 25, 1996)

SIX MILLION: In 1945, the French Bureau to Uncover War Crimes stated that 8 million were the number of deaths at Auschwitz. The Soviets gave the number at 5.5 million. Poland until 1990 gave the number at 4 million. The Jerusalem Post on Sept 30, 1989 reported that the French researcher Georges Wellers gave the figure of 1.6 million. The Jewish newspaper Aufbau published in NY wrote on Aug 3, 1990 that there were 1.1 million deaths including 900,000 Jews. In 1993 a German paper Die Welt quoted the French Center of Scientific Research as reporting 800,000. In April 1990, the director of the Auschwitz Museum destroyed stone plaques that commemorated 4 million deaths at Auschwitz. Claude

Pressac accepted the figures 631,000 to 711,000. The discovery of the death certificates of all deaths at Auschwitz put the total deaths including infants and those who died of old age at around 75,000. The question is - if 4 million Jews were not killed at Auschwitz - why does the media continue to defend the 6 million number and not 6 - 4 = 2 million? Since there is so much disagreement over this matter, an open discussion should be held devoid of name-calling. Someone is not telling the truth, either those furnishing the figures or those denying them. (Figures from Spotlight April 22, 1996)

DHARMA LAW: "President Clinton is endorsing Republican legislation to give a $5,000 tax credit to most families that adopt children and penalize states where interacial adoptions are discouraged." Internet: ANA 01:59PM 5/6/96

MISCEGENATIONIST GRAVE FOUND: Archaeologists believe that they have discovered the remains of the Rev. Richard Buck, the Anglican cleric who married Pocahontas and John Rolfe in 1614 in violation of the WORD he was sworn to uphold: "Let them marry ... only to the family of the tribe of their father." Numbers 36:6; "Thou ... shall go ... to my kindred, and take a wife." Gen 24:3,4; "Not everyone shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Matt 7:21

RKH: A monument should be erected in Rev. Richard Buck's memory bearing the inscription: "Grave of an anti-christ.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 266

SAXON GENEALOGY

Fireside Chat

"Grandma, Why do you always study your ancestors?"

"To find out what what our rights are, son." She replied.

"What rights?"

"Well, let me try to explain. We have rights guaranteed by the Constitution. They were guaranteed to our grandfathers and to their descendants forever. If someone took away our rights, we might get them back some day if the old rulers return to power.

"That's the way it was in Scotland and England. Rights and possessions were given to our ancestors and their descendants forever. We are the descendants. Our ancestor lost his possessions when a new king came to power. If a descendant of the old king comes back into power we might get our possessions back again.

"Grandma, I don't understand."

"That's all right, son. One day you will."

Enfiefment

Those words were spoken long ago. Now, I'm pushing seventy, and for the first time I'm beginning to understand "enfiefment."[1]

I live in Lynchburg, Virginia. I am vassal to six different lords, and live under six different jurisdictions; the jurisdictions of Lynchburg, of Virginia, of the country called the US, of an admiralty trade law administered by international courts, the overlooked but still relevant feudal agreements made by ancient kings with my ancestors, and the overruling contracts made by God with his people.

The agreement with the local king's representative (by whatever name he is called) is that I must behave myself and pay the taxes he has imposed on me. If I do, I may live in peace in his house on his land. In addition, if of a military age, I must offer my services to fight the king's enemies. When I was young and stupid, I volunteered. If I had not volunteered I would have been drafted to serve the king. If I refuse any of these things, the agreement is canceled, my house will be taken and enfiefed to another who will obey, and if I refuse to fight for the king, the king will throw me in jail. There are other rights and obligations, but this is basically it. These rights and obligations, I am told, belong to me and my descendants forever. This is my contract, my agreement, my 1 En-feoff - to envest with a fief or fee. To give in vassalage - en-feoffment: Fief - a feudal estate; a fee: Fee - any feudal benefice, or estate in land held of a feudal lord: Vassal - one who has pledged homage and fealty and receives a consideration in return: Vassalage - services due from the vassal. Webster's Dictionary.

enfiefment. Like it or not.

The Big Bucks

The Catholic Church claimed the land of Europe. It hired kings to manage taxable entities called countries. The kings chosen to rule had to present their genealogies to be inspected to see exactly what prior contracts had been made with that king's ancestors, since the enfiefment went conditionally to the king and his heirs forever.

A country is too big for a king to rule by himself, so he divided the country into counties and districts and enfiefed his followers to manage them in his name. They too had to file their genealogies for the same reason. These filings are a matter of public record in the national archives of each country. The rights of the fief went to the recipient and his heirs forever. One couldn't give rights that had already been given - thus the record.

The Eternal Hope

My grandmother had been told by her father of estates that had been taken from the family when the king of her ancestors was defeated in war and replaced by another king and his followers. The family fled to Virginia. But, who knows; politics is an uncertain affair at best. Perhaps a descendant of the old king might return to power some day and claim his rights. If that were to occur - grandmother's family would be entitled to claim, and, recover, lands that had been lost. After all - they were entitled to them; "To themselves and their heirs forever." That's what they said. So far as I know such a thing hasn't happened yet, but take it from me, Virginia still believes in the tooth fairy.

The Slow Track

The day arrived when I asked about my family tree. What courthouses do I go to to look up the family history? The lady at the library took pity on me and told me that before I did anything to ask people in my own family.

I did. And, I got more information that I really wanted. There was my Mother, Aunt Maude, Cousin Charlie and distant relatives whom I had never heard of before who were eager to help.

With the family names I collected I went back to the library and located family genealogies. Virginia libraries are full of them. There are Washington, Lee, Kelly, Bruce, Roy, Dunbar, and the list goes on and on - hundreds of names.

I started with my own family name. That was the easy one. I got the book Hoskins Of Virginia and Related Families by Charles Warner and soon found out is that the Hoskins line leads nowhere. The immigrant Bartholomew landed at Jamestown in 1615, and except for a few generations back in England, that's all. No fast track.

Next, I looked at the Carter line. It went back in early Virginia and uncovered an uncle, "King Carter," who wasn't really a king, he just owned as much land as a king. Using the Northern Neck of Virginia Historical Magazine to go back into England I found the beginnings of the Carter family of Virginia:

> "The manorial records of King's Langley, some 25 miles NW of London housed in the Public Record Office of Hertfordshire Record Office & London record Carters from 1361. During the 'Peasants Revolt of 1384' John Carter burnt the Court Rolls and had his property distrained as a consequence. Like his neighbors he was constantly up before the court for transgressing the manorial by-laws. In 1381 he was fined 2d. for blocking the King's Highway with dung and was ordered to remove it. In 1386, John his son was fined for poaching deer in the King's Park. In 1393 John Carter took over Chapmanscroft, a property which remained in his family for 200 years which they rented generation after generation."

This shows that the Carters, the biggest landowners in early Virginia, were descended from yeomen, or peasants, enemies of the King and Church after the Peasants Revolt. It shows what our grandfathers thought of the feudal system monopoly where a man could not own his own land. The fight for Christian Law has been going on a long time.

The Fast Track

Then I tried the Roy line. A book was available that included my great grandmother. I only had to provide my name, my father's, and my grandfather's - three missing generations. I then flipped the pages over to the back of the book and there was the line right straight back to Robert the Bruce. This was great! It was all there - in addition to peasants, there were lines leading back to kings. Lines on file in the archives of the king's countries. They were the "legal proof" on file to justify their right to rule. This was the fast track.

King Robert Bruce - King of Scotland 1350: His claim to the throne rests in his descent from Fergus More.

Lady Marjory Bruce m. Sir Walter Stuart

King Robert Bruce II, 1390

King Robert Bruce III 1406, m Lady Annabella Drummond

Mary Stuart m George Douglas, 1st Earl of Angus

George Douglas, 1455, 2nd Earl of Angus

Archibald Douglas m. Elizabeth (dau Robert, Lord Boys 1480)

Janet Douglas m. Robert, 2nd Lord Herries

Andrew, 3rd Lord, Herries 1530

William, 4th Lord Herries

Catherine Herries m Sir Alexander Stuart of "Garlies" 1580

Sir Alexander Stuart of "Garlies" m Christian Douglas

Nicholi Stuart m. 1630 Sir John Dunbar of "Mochrum"

Sir John Dunbar, 2nd of "Mochrum" m. Elizabeth dau of Mungo Mure1655

Rev. Hancock Dunbar to Virginia 1725, 1st rector St. Stephens Parish, King & Queen County.

Mary Dunbar m. Rev Adam Dickey, (Epis. minister)

Janet Dickey m. (2) Capt John Beverly Roy (Rev War)

Dr. Augustus Gustavas Dunbar Roy b.1804 m. Lucy Carter Garnett of Stock Hill Essex 1834

Janet Carter Roy m. 1857 Dr. William Hoskins

I already knew the missing generations below and filled them in to show my connection:

Willard Dunbar Hoskins m. Ella Garnett Hundley

Dr. John Hundley Hoskins b.1892 m. Emma Kelly

Richard Kelly Hoskins b.1928.

The above was right there in the book. Robert the Bruce and his descendants held in fief - forever. I am one of his descendants. I am entitled to whatever rights and privileges that come with descent. So are you. If I can do it - you can do it. All you have to do is find a family name that has a genealogy, and presto - you are a descendant of a king.

Braveheart Revisited

This Robert the Bruce thing is interesting. Edward II of England invaded Scotland and suffered a devastating and humiliating defeat at Bannockburn, June 24, 1314, as everyone who saw the movie Brave Heart well knows. Undaunted, Edward attempted to do with diplomacy what he could not do with his armies.

Edward held in fief from the Pope. The Pope was after him to furnish English armies to help his re-conquest of the Holy Land. Edward agreed, but asked one small favor in return. He asked that the pope, Pope John XXII, "give" Scotland to him to rule.

Since the Catholic Church claimed all lands in the West by right of being Peter's heir, of Constantine's Bequest, by right of being "spiritual Israel," and because all Western kings held in fief to him; giving Scotland to the English king to rule was a mere formality. In 1317, he ordered it done.

The Scottish Declaration Of Independence

This news that Robert the Bruce was being ousted and Scotland was being given to the English king to rule did not set well with the veterans of Bannochburn. In 1320, Robert the Bruce called a Scottish Parliament. They met at Arbroath Abbey and compiled the following letter, which reads in part:

> "To the Most Holy Father ... ours, to wit the nation of the Scots, has been distinguished by many honours; which passing from the greater Scythia though the Mediterranean Sea and the Pillars of Hercules and sojourning in Spain among the most savage tribes through a long course of time, could nowhere be subjected by any people however barbarous; and coming thence One thousand two hundred years after the outgoing of the people of Israel, they by many victories and infinite toil,acquired for themselves the possessions in the West which they now hold after expelling the Britons and completely destroying the Picts, ... In their kingdom one hundred and thirteen kings of their own royal stock, no stranger intervening, have reigned, ... King of Kings even our Lord Jesus Christ, after His passion and resurrection, called them though situated at the uttermost parts of the earth almost the first to His most holy faith, nor would He have them confirmed in this faith by any one less than His first Apostle, although in rank second and third, to wit, Andrew the most meek the brother of St. Peter. ..."[2]

This letter to the Pope put a different light on the matter more because of what it didn't say than for what it did. The pope could care less about the Scots' ancestry, but he took note that they troubled themselves to write the letter. It said in effect that all the enfiefing agreements made with prior popes were still in effect and that the Scots expected the present pope to honor them. That if he didn't and if Edward set foot in Scotland again, that they would serve Edward his head on a tray.

The pope definitely did not want to get a no-win war started between England and Scotland, the very same Scotland who had defeated the English so badly at Bannockburn. He needed the English army in the Holy Land. So, he reconsidered. A wise decision.

The above document sent to the Pope is called the Scottish Declaration Of Independence. Along with the document was filed proof of Robert the Bruce's claim, his genealogy, which can be found in Scotland's College of Lyons, and is certified as legal. This is his line from the time his ancestors entered Scotland:

FERGUS MORE - King Of Scotland. His claim to rule lies in his descent from the ancient Irish Kings

Fiachra

Fergus I

Manius

Dornadil

Reuthar

Edars (Edersced)

2 Scottish Record Office, Edinburgh, Scotland, also, The Scottish Declaration of Independence, Artisan Sales, PO Box 1497 Thousand Oaks, CA 91360, $3/copy

Conaire The Great

Corbred I

Corbred II

Modha Lamha

Corbred Dalriada

Eochaidh

Ere

Fergus The Great - King of Scotland 404-420:

Dongard - K. of S. 451-457

Conran (Guvran) - K. of S. 501-535

Aidan (Aydan) K. of S. 569-606 also called Aldan

Eugene IV - K. of S. 606-621

Donald IV - K. of S. 632-646

Prince Dobgard (Donregarth)

Eugene V - K. of S. 684-688

Prince Findan

Eugene VII - K. of S. 699-715

Ethafind - called Ethfinus - K. of S. 730-761

Achais (Ethas) "Just and Wise" - K. of S 787-819

Alpin - K. of S. 831-834

Kenneth I - K. of S. 834-854

Constantine - K. of S

Donald II

Malcolm I - K. of S. 944-963

Kenneth II - K. of S. 970-995

Malcom II - King of Scotland 1003-1033

Thane Albanac (Crinin)

Duncan I - killed by Lady Macbeth's husband of Wm Shakespeare fame.

Malcolm III - "The big head" of Caenmore

David I - King of Scotland 1124-1153

Prince Henry

David - Earl of Huntingdon

Isobel Huntingdon

Lord Robert Bruce

King Robert Bruce - King of Scotland 1350

The above is Robert the Bruce's Scottish line. Fergus More was descended from the Irish kings. The Irish have the longest genealogies in the world. They were handed down by bards by word of mouth just as Holy Scripture was handed down in its earliest days, and the royal line is posted in the Irish archives as legal proof of the ancestry of the Irish kings from Fergus More back to Tea Tepi. The Bruce's Irish line continues:

TEA TEPI - Tea Tepi (Tamar) m Prince Eochaid of the Zarah line in 565 BC. Ancestor of the Irish & Scottish Kings according to Irish Genealogies

Irial Faidh

Eithrial

Prince Follain

Tighermnmas

Prince Eanbotha

Prince Smiorguil

Fiachadh Labhruine

Aongus Oilbhuagach

Prince Maoin

Rotheachta

Prince Dein
Iorn Saoghalach
Prince Oliolla Olchaoin
Giallchadh
Nuadha Fionn Fail
Simon Breac
Muriadhach Bolgrach
Fiachadh Tolgrach
Duach Laighrach
Prince Eochaidh Buillaig
Ugaine More "The Great"
Cobhthach Calbreag
Prince Meilage
Jaran Gleofathach
Oiliolla Caisthiaclach
Eochaid Foltleathan
Angus Tuirimheach "The Prolific"
Eanda Aighnach
Prince Labhra Luire
Prince Blathachta Eamhna
Prince Easamhuin Eamhna
Prince Roighneaim Ruadh
Prince Finlogha
Prince Finn
Eochaidh Fiedhlioch
Prince Bias Fineamhuas
Lughaidh Riebdearg (or Raidhdearg)
Criomhthan Niadhnar
Fioraidhach Fionfachtnach
Fiachadh Fionohudh
Tuathal Teachtman
Fiedhlimhidh Reachtmar
Conn Ceadchadhach
Art Aonfhir "The Melancholy"
Cormac Ulfhada
Cairbre Liffaechaire
Fiachadh Streabhthuine
Muirreadhach Tireach
Eochaidh Moihmeodhain
Nial "of the nine hostages"
Prince Eogan
Prince Muireadhach
Mortough
Fergus More

Everyone who is descended from either the Scots, the Irish and very likely the English and the Scandinavians may have this line as his own - if you look up a few generations and find a fast track. If one line won't do it, chances are another will. If that one won't do it still another may do it. Once on the fast track everything is a matter of public record, posted in archives as proof of the king's right to rule, and these proofs are "legal," and easy.

Jefferson and Washington Lines

Just for fun I looked up the Jefferson line and the Washington lines and found that along with perhaps 25,000 others, I am 2nd cousin to both, many times removed of course; Jefferson's great grandfather and Washington's great-grandfather are also my ancestors. But, I also discovered something else, something important - which is why I mention it.

It Gets Interesting

We all know that Queen Victoria claimed to be a direct descendant of King David. Not King David of Scotland, but David, King of Israel. The media jackals made fun of it - which is what they are paid to do - and little more has been said of it. However, a lot is written about it. I looked at what had been written.

First, I have no doubt that the line of Robert the Bruce is genuine. It was accepted by the Catholic Church and other government entities as being legal. The Irish line is also accepted by most while being rejected by the few whom one would expect to reject. This line, too, is on file in Belfast.

If a person accepts Robert the Bruce's line and the Irish line as genuine - interesting things happen. The first name listed at the top of the Irish genealogy is Tea Tepi. Tea was the daughter of Zedikiah - last king of Israel. This attaches you to the Biblical genealogy and from there on you must follow the genealogies listed in the Bible.

Christians believe the Bible to be true, it is its own proof. This means that not only is King David of the Bible an ancestor, but so is Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Genealogists claim that these were the ancestors of Queen Victoria. It is her "fast line" we are using. They are also OUR grandfathers. So was Noah and the line inexorably continues back to Adam where it ends. Adam was the first man. It was he who was enfiefed by God to rule the world. This means that YOU are Adam's direct descendant.[3]

Every promise, every agreement, every covenant, every right bestowed by our God on our ancestors - and their descendants forever - is ours by right of descent. Every generation is accounted for. With these genealogies before us, we can understand why humans[4] hate us - we present our Identity in order to demand our ancestor's legacy by right of descent.

Other Lines

When Western man was converted to Christianity, there was a rush by Western kings to post their lineage in their nation's archives as proof of ancient descent from earlier kings - thereby inheriting their covenants. This is why it is so easy to obtain royal lineage - its posted everywhere. Thus far, we have discussed only the Robert the Bruce line. If the reader is English, German or Scandinavian, the "fast track" may take him back to Robert the Bruce, but more likely it will be either Charlemagne, William the Conqueror, or Alfred the Great. Probably all three. All that is needed is to locate a fairly recent ancestor in the last four or five generations from a family that has kept track of their ancestry (I have met very few families who didn't have at least one ancestor that they could use). This fast track will lead to a prince and his genealogy. Since he is your ancestor - his genealogy is your genealogy.

Following are the complete lines of Robert the Bruce from the Roys; Robert the Bruce's opponent - Edward, through George Washington's ancestors and Alfred The Great and Charlemagne's - just so that you will be able to go on back after reaching them. At times the author has used his own line of descent to illustrate. Discard his line and insert your own in its place. There are many other lines back to Adam besides the few listed here.

ADAM TO ROBERT BRUCE

ADAM - Created by God.

Seth

Enos

Canaan

Mahalaleel

Jared

Enoch

Methusaleh

Lamech

Noah

Shem - Japheth - Ham, grandfather of Nimrod founder of Babel

Arphaxed

Salah

Heber

Peleg

Reu

SerugNehor

Terah

Abraham m Hagar (Matriarch of the Arabs), Keturah (mother of the Midianites), Sarah (mother of Isaac sons or Saxons),

Isaac

JACOB/ISRAEL - Israel means ruling with God. Brother Esau - m Caananites. Descendants known as Edomites. Modern Jewry claims descent from Edom:

Judah m. Tamar.

Zarah - Pharez

Exrom

Aram

Aminadab

Nashon

Salmon

Boaz

Obed

Jesse

DAVID

Soloman

Rehoboam

Abijah

Asa

Jehhosaphat

Jehoram

Ahaziah

Joah

Amaziah

Uzziah

Jotham

Ahaz

Hezekaih

Mansseh

Amon

Josiah

Zedekiah - c 600. Last Israelite king. His genealogy to Adam is contained in the Bible.

Tea Tepi (Tamar) m Prince Eochaid of the Zarah line in 565 BC. Her father was Zedekiah

Irial Faidh

Eithrial

Prince Follain

Tighermnmas

Prince Eanbotha

Prince Smiorguil

Fiachadh Labhruine

Aongus Oilbhuagach

Prince Maoin

Rotheachta

Prince Dein

Iorn Saoghalach

Prince Oliolla Olchaoin

Giallchadh

Nuadha Fionn Fail

Simon Breac

Muriadhach Bolgrach

Fiachadh Tolgrach

Duach Laighrach

Prince Eochaidh Buillaig

Ugaine More "The Great"

Cobhthach Calbreag

Prince Meilage

Jaran Gleofathach

Oiliolla Caisthiaclach

Eochaid Foltleathan

Angus Tuirimheach "The Prolific"

Eanda Aighnach

Prince Labhra Luire

Prince Blathachta Eamhna

Prince Easamhuin Eamhna

Prince Roighneaim Ruadh

Prince Finlogha

Prince Finn

Eochaidh Fiedhlioch

Prince Bias Fineamhuas

Lughaidh Riebdearg (or Raidhdearg)

Criomhthan Niadhnar

Fioraidhach Fionfachtnach

Fiachadh Fionohudh

Tuathal Teachtman

Fiedhlimhidh Reachtmar

Conn Ceadchadhach

Art Aonfhir "The Melancholy"

Cormac Ulfhada

Cairbre Liffaechaire

Fiachadh Streabhthuine

Muirreadhach Tireach

Eochaidh Moihmeodhain

Nial "of the nine hostages"

Prince Eogan

Prince Muireadhach

Mortough

FERGUS MORE - King Of Scotland. His claim to rule lies in his descent from the ancient Irish Kings (above).

Fiachra

Fergus I

Manius

Dornadil

Reuthar

Edars (Edersced)

Conaire The Great

Corbred I

Corbred II

Modha Lamha

Corbred Dalriada

Eochaidh

Ere

Fergus The Great - King of Scotland 404-420:

Dongard - King of Scotland 451-457

Conran (Guvran) - King of Scotland 501-535

Aidan (Aydan) D. of Scotland 569-606 also called Aldan

Eugene IV - King of Scotland 606-621

Donald IV - King of Scotland 632-646

Prince Dobgard (Donregarth)

Eugene V - King of Soctland 684-688

Prince Findan

Eugene VII - King of Scotland 699-715

Ethafind - also called Ethfinus - King of Scotland 730- 761

Achais (Ethas) "Just and Wise" - King of Scotland 787- 819

Alpin - King of Scotland 831-834

Kenneth I - King of Scotland 834-854

Constantine - King of Scotland

Donald II

Malcolm I - King of Scotland 944-963

Kenneth II - King of Scotland 970-995

Malcolm II - King of Scotland 1003-1033

Thane Albanac (Crinin)

Duncan I - killed by Lady Macbeth's husband of Wm Shakespeare fame

Malcolm III - "The big head" of Caenmore

David I - King of Scotland 1124-1153

Prince Henry

David - Earl of Huntingdon

Isobel Huntingdon

Lord Robert Bruce

KING ROBERT BRUCE - King of Scotland 1350. His claim to rule rests in descent from Fergus More.

Lady Marjory Bruce m. Sir Walter Stuart

King Robert Bruce II, 1390

King Robert Bruce III 1406, m Lady Annabella Drummond

Mary Stuart m George Douglas, 1st Earl of Angus

George Douglas, 1455, 2nd Earl of Angus

Archibald Douglas m. Elizabeth (dau Robert, Lord Boys 1480)

Janet Douglas m. Robert, 2nd Lord Herries

Andrew, 3rd Lord, Herries 1530

William, 4th Lord Herries

Catherine Herries m Sir Alexander Stuart of "Garlies" 1580

Sir Alexander Stuart of "Garlies" m Christian Douglas

Nicholi Stuart m. 1630 Sir John Dunbar of "Mochrum"

Sir John Dunbar, 2nd of "Mochrum" m Elizabeth dau of Mungo Mure1655

Rev. Hancock Dunbar to Virginia 1725, 1st rector St. Stephens Parish K&Q

Mary Dunbar m Rev Adam Dickey, (Epis. minister)

Janet Dickey m. (2) Capt John Beverly Roy (Rev War)

Dr. Augustus Gustavas Dunbar Roy b 1804 m. Lucy Carter Garnett of Stock Hill Essex 1834

Janet Carter Roy m 1857 Dr. William Hoskins

FAST TRACK ABOVE

Willard Dunbar Hoskins

Dr. John Hundley Hoskins b.1892 m Emma Kelly

Richard Kelly Hoskins b.1928.

Alfred's line is the Anglo-Saxon line. Most English, Scots, Germans and Scandinavians have this line.

ALFRED THE GREAT

ADAM - Created by God.

Seth

Enos

Canaan

Mahalaleel

Jared

Enoch

Methusaleh

Lamech

Noah

Shem - Japheth - Ham, grandfather of Nimrod founder of Babel

Arphaxed

Salah

Heber

Peleg

Reu

SerugNehor

Terah

Abraham m Hagar (Matriarch of the Arabs), Keturah (mother of the Midianites), Sarah (mother of Isaac sons or Saxons),

Isaac

Jacob/Israel - names means "ruling with God." Brother Esau - m Canaananites Descendants known as Edomites. Modern Jewry claims descent from Edom.

Judah m Tamar.

Zarah

Ethan

Mahol

Darda - Dara - 1Chr 2:6, or Dardanus - Josephus; or Darius - Windson Castle Manuscripts and Ancient Icelandic Langfedgatal

Erichthonias

Troes or Tros

Ilus

Laomedon

Priam

Priam's daughter - Said in Langfedgatal to have married Memnon and their son was Tror whom we call Thor the father of Vingener. The line is compared with the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle.

THOR

Vingener

Hloritha

Einridi

Vingethor

Moda

Magi

Sceaff or Seacet

Bedwig

Hwala

Hardra or Athra
Hermon or Itormann
Heremad or Heremotr
Sceldwea or Scealdna
Beaw or Beaf
Geat or Getha
Flocwal
Flokwal
Flocwaldus
Flyn
Fredulph
ODIN
Bael daeg
Brand
Gewis
Elesa
Cerdic
Creoda
Cyneric
Ceawlin
Cuthwine
Cutha
Ceolwald
Coenraed
Ingild
Eoppa
Eafa
Ealmud
Egbert
Ethelwulf
ALFRED THE GREAT - ancestor of Robert the Bruce, William the Conqueror, Edward I, etc

---

Once you find a fast track back to a king, you will also find that most kings have lines to Charlemagne. In addition to French and English, this is of particular interest to Germans. I attached a line of German kings from Charlemagne so those of German descent will have no excuse not to do their homework.

ADAM TO CHARLEMAGNE

ADAM - Created by God.
Seth
Enos
Canaan
Mahalaleel
Jared
Enoch
Methusaleh
Lamech
Noah
Shem - Japheth - Ham, grandfather of Nimrod founder of Babel
Arphaxed
Salah
Heber
Peleg
Reu
SerugNehor
Terah
Abraham m Hagar (Matriarch of the Arabs), Keturah (mother of the Midianites), Sarah (mother of Isaac sons or Saxons),
Isaac
Jacob/Israel - names means ruling with God. Brother Esau - m Caananites. Descendants known as Edomites. Modern Jewry claims descent from

Edom

Judah m Tamar

Zarah

Ethan

Mahol

Darda - Dara - 1Chr 2:6; or Dardanus - Josephus; or Darius - Windson Castle Manuscripts and Ancient Icelandic Langfedgatal

Erichthonias

Troes or Tros

Ilus

Laomedon

Priam

HECTOR

Astyanax

Polydore - said by Ariosto to have been the ancester of Clovis and Charlemagne

Antenor of Troy - K. of the Cimmerians 443 BC

Marcomir - "who brought the people to Friesland"

Antenor

Priam

Helenus

Diocles

Basanus the Great m. dau of K. of the Orkneys

Clodomir

Nicanor m dau of K. of Britain

Marcomir II d. 170 BC

Clodius d. 159 BC

Antenor II d. 143 BC

Clodomir II d. 123 BC

Merodach d. 95BC

Cassander d. 74 BC

Antharias d. 39 BC - Last king of the Sicambri

Francus d. 11 BC - First K. of the Franks

Clodius II d. 20 AD

Marcomir III d. 50

Clodomir III d. 63

Antenor IV d. 69

Ratherious d. 90 - built Rotterdam

Odomar d. 128

Marcomir IV d. 149 - m. Athildas dau of Old King Cole 129 AD

Clodomir IV d. 166

Farabert d. 186

Sunno d. 213

Hilderic d 253

Bartherus d. 272

Clodius III d. 298

Walter d. 306

Dagobert d. 317

Genebald d. 358

Dagobert d. 379

Clodius d. 387

Marcomir d. 404

Pharamond - first K. of France

K. Clodius (Clodio) d. 445

Sigimerus

Ferreolus d. 529

Tonantius Ferreolus

Ansbertus - or Ausbert, Gallo-Roman Senator

Arnoldus - Bishop of Metz d. 601

Itta - Dau of Pepin of Landen, Mayor of the Palace in Austrasia

St. Begga of Babaut - m. Duke Ansgise (Anchises) Mayor of The Palace to Siegbert 632. d.685

Pepin of Heristal d 714 - Duke of Austria

Charles Martel - "The Hammer", Won victory over Saracens at Tours 732.

CHARLEMAGNE - Holy Roman Emperor under the Pope. 800. Ancestor of William The Conqueror, Edward I of Eng., Kings of France, Germany, and Scandinavia.

Hildegarde m Eberhard

Eberhard II 893

Emico 938

Henry 1000

Ulric I 1048

Albert d 1080 m. Luitgarde

Conrad I, Ct of Wurtt

Ulric I

John m. Ann of Baden

Lewis 1179

Henry m Irmintrude

Eberhard I m Agnes of Zaringen

Ulric II 1265

Eberhard II

Ulric IV 1344

Eberhard III

Ulric VI m Elizabeth of Bavaria

Eberhard IV

Eberhard V 1419 m Henrica

Ulric VII 1480 m Elizabeth of Bavaria

Henry 1519

Ulric 1550

George 1558 m Barbara of Hesse

Fredrick the Magnanimous 1608

John Frederick m Barbara of Brandenburg

Eberhard III 1674

Frederick Charles 1698

Charles Alexander 1737

Frederick Eugene 1797 m. Frederical of Brandenburg

Frederick K. of Wurttemberg

William the Conqueror was descended from Vikings. The Viking lines are posted several ways back through the kings Oden and Thor. It is interesting that Odenists gods are our grandfathers. These lines are accepted in the same way that the Irish lines are accepted.

WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR

ADAM - Created by God.

Seth

Enos

Canaan

Mahalaleel

Jared

Enoch

Methusaleh

Lamech

Noah

Shem - Japheth - Ham, grandfather of Nimrod founder of Babel

Arphaxed

Salah

Heber

Peleg

Reu

SerugNehor

Terah

Abraham m. Hagar (Matriarch of the Arabs), Keturah (mother of the Midianites), Sarah (mother of Isaac sons or Saxons), ISAAC - Jacob/Israel - "Israel" means "To rule with God." Brother Esau - m Caananites. Descendants known as Edomites. Jewish historians claims descent from Edom.

Judah m Tamar

Zarah

Ethan

Mahol

Darda - Dara - 1Chr 2:6; or Dardanus - Josephus, or Darius - Windson Castle Manuscripts and Ancient Icelandic Langfedgatal.

Erichthonias

Troes or Tros

Ilus

Laomedon

Priam

Priam's daughter - Said in Langfedgatal to have married Memnon and their son was Tror whom we call Thor the father of Vingener. The line is compared with the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle

THOR

Vingener

Hloritha

Einridi

Vingethor

Moda

Magi

Sceaff or Seacet

Bedwig

Hwala

Hardra or Athra

Hermon or Itormann

Heremad or Heremotr

Sceldwea or Scealdna

Beaw or Beaf

Geat or Getha

Flocwal

Flokwal

Flocwaldus

Flyn

Fredulph

ODIN - Warrior king. Honored ancestor of Saxons Worshiped as a god by Odinists.

Niordr & brother Bael Daeg. Bael Daeg's line goes to Alfred The Great. Niordr's line to William the Conquerer

Yngvi

Fiolner

Fiolner

Svegdir

Vanladi

Visbur

Domaldi

Domar

Dyggri

Dagr

Agni

Alrek

Yngvi

Jorund

Aun The Aged

Egil

Ottar

Agils of Upsala

Eystein

Yngvar

Braut Onund

Ingiald - The Cunning

Olaf - The Woodcutter

Halfdan - The Whitefoot

Eystein

Hogne

K. of Hedemark

Ale hin Fraekne

Helge

Sigurd Hiort

Asa - m. Eystein Glumra

daughter m. Ivar

Eystein Glumra

Rognwald

Roll - The Dane d. 932, 1st Duke of Normandy

William Longsword - 2nd Duke of Normandy

Richard The Fearless

Richard

Robert

WILLIAM The Conqueror. m. Matilda Q. of England d. 1083

Henry I - K. of England

Matilda - Empress of Germany

Henry II - K. of England b 1133

John - K. of England b 1166

Henry III - K. of England b. 1206

EDWARD I (1239-1307) m. Eleanor of Castile

Edward II

Edward III (1312-1377)

John of Gaunt

Joan Beaufort m. Robert Ferrers

Mary de Ferrs m. Ralph Neville

John Neville m. Elizabeth Newmarch

Joan Neville m. William Gascoigne

William Gascoigne m. Margaret Percy

Elizabeth Gascoigne m. George Talboys

Anne Talboys m. Edward Dymoke (d.1566)

Frances Dymoke m Thomas Windebanke

Mildred Windebank m Robert Reade

Col George Reade went to Virginia c1637 m Elizabeth Martiau

Mildred Reade m Col Augustine Warner (1643-1681)

* Mildred Warner (d1701) m. Capt Lawrence Washington (1659-1698)

Capt Augustine Washington (c1694-1743) m. Mary Ball

GEORGE WASHINGTON

George Washington's grandfather, Lawrence was the brother of Ann Washington who was my ancestor (see below). This makes George Washington a 2nd cousin. Neat. George Washington is also a close cousin to a lot of HR readers, which makes us all cousins. In fact, a very little work will reveal that all Saxons world wide are cousins. That's what being a nation is all about.

* Anne Washington (1659-1697) sister of Lawrence Washington, m. Maj Francis Wright

John Wright, Sr. m. Dorothy Veale

John Wright, Jr. (c1710- 1792) m Elizabeth Darnall

Maj James Wright, Rev. War. m. Mary Duncan

Elizabeth Wright (1762-1834) m. John James, Jr.

Margaret Wright James m. John Payne Kelly of Kelly's Ford

Granville James Kelly (1821-1898) m. Harriet Elizabeth Payne

Richard Thomas Kelly m Georgie Hume Kelly

Mary Emma Kelly m. Dr John Hundley Hoskins

Richard Kelly Hoskins (1928-)

Importance Of Knowing Who You Are

Most readers know that before the International Trade Cartel was able to enter the West and buy and sell they had to first make friends with the God of the Christians; else the Christian God might tell his followers to kill him. Being killed removes the profit from trade. To change the Christian separatist God into a loving Dharma-Christian Hindu god, the Trade Cartel hired priests to insert the Hindu "Dharma - tolerance" into the separatist Christian religion. This new Dharma-Christianity taught Saxons to love everyone without regard to "race, creed, or national origin." This done, the Christian God was chained and the international merchants were free to come and go as they chose.

It is quite all right for Europe's Kings and their nobles to present proof of their descent from the Biblical patriarchs and from Adam; it gives them authority to rule in the name of the ITC. It is quite another thing to have the average citizen do the same; their claim implies equality with existing kings and rebellion against the establishment since Jesus Christ appointed each son of Isaac "kings and priests."[3]

The information listed above is not new, it has always been known. Tens of thousands not only know this information but they know their own lines - and can trace them. They discuss this on the internet, in homes, at historical meetings, in books and manuscripts, and always it is attacked by the International Trade Cartel media for the reasons mentioned above. These are some of their arguments:

The Israel of the Bible has "vanished" and the churches are now "spiritual Israel" who take the promises and covenants made to Israel as their own. Their tax-exempt ministers speak for God.

---

3 "Jesus Christ ... hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." Rev 1:5-6

* The answer is that the Israel of the Bible has not vanished. Churches are NOT "spiritual Israel." God's promises were made to our ancestors and their descendants forever, we are those descendants.

The establishment insists that all humans, including men, are evolved from monkeys and primeval slime. They enlist the testimony of their experts to prove it.

* Man insists that he was created by the WORD - in His image, and are bound to Him by covenants - the violation of which is severely punished. He points to the WORD to prove it. Before Adam there was no man.

Dharma-Christian churches insist that the Jews are Israel and therefore only the Jews are bound by God's Commandments. Consequently, the law is done away and people can do as they please.

* God's Commandments say "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel)." De 23:2. Representatives of the Jews admit that they are a mixed race. God's commandment excludes them from his Israel nation. Dharma-Christian churches brand themselves "false witnesses" and incur the judgment due false-witnesses.

Dharma-Churches bless cartel-appointed governments by giving them authority to enforce laws that violate God's Commandments. They do this by misquoting, "Be subject to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates. Tit 3:1

* Saxons reply: "We must obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29

Israel existed before governments or churches. God made His contracts and covenants with Adam and the sons of Isaac (Isaac- sons, Saxons); and with their descendants forever. We are those descendants. We know our identity. We know our inheritance.

Saxons offer all peoples the right of self-determination. We applaud the Arabs desire to live under their Koran, the Jewish desire to live under the Talmud, and the desire of other peoples to live under the laws of their own gods. Saxons also insist that the same right we applaud in others be extended to themselves - the right to be ruled by the WORD and live under his Commandments.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 267

VASSAL REVOLT - WORLDWIDE![1]

INDIA: In about 290 BC, mighty King Asoka of India claimed that he had conquered the Greeks, Syrians, Macedonians and Cyreneans with his new weapon, Dharma.[2] On his deathbed he left all of his conquests, including:

> "This earth ... this land ... this soil sustaining all creatures ... all of this I bequeath to the Assembly of Saints ...."[3]

Asoka also bequeathed 1000 million pieces of gold so that

1 Vassal - One who has pledged homage and fealty and receives a consideration in return. Webster's Dictionary.

2 Hindu: "Dharma" - tolerance. "Dharmitized - to be subdued by Dharma.

3 The Edicts of Asoka, N.A. Nikam & Richard McKeon, Univ Chic Press, 1959, p. 136

"The Assembly of Saints" (AOS) could claim the bequest with missionary work. Today, only a few know of the AOS and who the AOS really are; just as only a few know who really owns American Telephone and General Motors. The Greeks of the classical world had no idea that they had been given to the Hindus of India.

- CLASSICAL WORLD: The classical world that had been given by Asoka to the AOS was given to the Catholic Church by Constantine:

  "Constantine ... gave not only of spiritual supremacy ... (but) also temporal dominion over Rome, Italy and 'the provinces, places and civitates of the western regions."[4]

- SAXONS: The Saxons didn't know that the Catholic Church had given them to Charlemagne to rule - but that was the reason that Charlegmagne's armies crashed into Europe's northlands.
- IRELAND: The Irish didn't know that they had been given to England to rule - but an English army arrived to take possession anyway.
- SCOTLAND: The Scots didn't know that they had been given to England to rule, and they had to do some fast stepping to avoid it.
- VIRGINIA: Virginians didn't know that they had been given to Spain to rule. It was only later that they read that the Pope had given half the world to Spain and the other half to Portugal.

Who owns Virginia? Spain said that it was theirs. England encouraged the Virginia Company to invest their money, and when their investment was about to pay off - the Crown confiscated it. Did they confiscate the whole thing? or only part - leaving certain rights to certain private individuals. Is that the reason that the 2nd Bank of the US was found to be owned by British stockholders when it went bankrupt in the first half of the 19th century? Who owns it now? Who owns the bank of England?

4 See In The Begininning, Hoskins, p. 101

- INDIA: Back to India: The Classical world was bequeathed to the AOS. The Catholic Church hired kings to rule the world that it claimed. One of its possessions was Britain.

Britain was bequeathed to the AOS by Asoka. Britain was part of the bequest made by Constantine to the Catholic Church. Britain, having changed kings and religions several times, then occupied India and was the last country to "own" India. Britain got India by confiscating it from the privately-owned East India Company which had "owned" India for 250 years. The company's private army of about 25,000 was incorporated into the British army as Britain took over. What was the private arrangement between the Company and Britain? No one knows. What was the private arrangement between the Company and the individual Indian rulers? Did it include the "salt monopoly" that once belonged to the Company? The land revenues? The Company's opium monopoly? India had over 700 rulers who ruled large states all the way down to small enclaves. The Company had made agreements and treaties with them all. These agreements didn't disappear just because the Company merged with the British government.

- THE WEST: Who owns the countries of the West? Spain? The Catholic Church? The AOS? The Episcopal Church? Britain? The ITC? Who owns S. Africa? Who gave it away to strangers? Britain - obviously! But, who owns Britain? Who owns Australia and N. Zealand?

> Who is it that is opening their doors to strangers? Who owns the United States and Canada? Whose orders are being followed as strangers pour in and industry flees and crime and unemployment are allowed to run rampant?

The answer is quite simple - we don't know. We have traced ownership to corporate directors who direct companies owned by other companies. Then, when we trace the ownership of these companies to bank trust departments, offshore banks, and Swiss banks, the trail disappears - as it has always disappeared. We don't know who owns us. We don't know who bought and sold our people - or who claims to own us today. But this we can say: We renounce their claims on us. We have presented our Saxon Identity showing that the covenants made to Adam, Abraham, Isaac and their descendants forever pre-date their claims. They are overriding prior claims and are still intact because we know our Saxon identity. We know our fathers and we know that we are their children. The Bible is our history book, our book of genealogy, and the Law of God is our ultimate authority; not the statutes of ITC appointed kings.

What Is It That They Do?

Our oppressors have had millennium to perfect their system and to perfect hiding their trail. The serpent disappears at one point only to reappear at another place in an unsuspected identity. Unable to discover WHERE they are we can at least uncover WHAT it is that they do. With this knowledge we can began stopping the serpent's holes, one at a time. And, with eternal vigilance - keep them stopped.

THE PRIEST

The first basic step is to control the priest. Before the international trader can go to a new trading area and buy and sell he must first make friends with the God of that land, or, the God of that land may instruct his followers to kill the merchant. Being killed removes the profit from trade. Thus, he must first control the priest.

Dharma-Tolerance

Hinduism is the world's international trade religion. It is used to make friends with hostile gods. Unlike the world's separatist religions, Hinduism is an integrationist religion. It welcomes all gods as different manifestations of its own great god Brahma.[5]

The ancient missionary effort of Hinduism is called Buddhism. Buddhist missionary efforts focus on one teaching: "Dharma" - "Dharma-tolerance." Market areas are bombarded with appeals to be tolerant of everyone without regard to "race, creed, or national origin." This is Dharma. Once the future customer has been taught to love the stranger - the international merchant may safely enter and buy and sell.

THE KING

Once the priest opens the sheepfold gate to the international trader, the trader enters and hires a king to protect his person and his goods, and in turn helps the priest keep the door open by spreading Dharma-tolerance. To ensure that the hired king remains in power the Cartel supplies him with money, supports him with their media. With money to hire armies the king becomes more powerful than his fellows, and, supported by a friendly media he is made to appear as a benign ruler in the eyes of his subjects.

5 Hinduism declares that every living thing is a part of Brahma. Therefore, "Every man is a god." Their reluctance to execute "gods" explains the Hindu fight against capital punishment that is mandated by Christian Law.

Once in power, the king is able to tax his subjects and become self-supporting. This relieves the Cartel of this business expense. Trading profits quickly repay the Cartel their startup expense.

Rebellious Kings

In the past, kings caused problems for the international merchant. Most had short memories and forgot that they were only hired to manage a trade area and to protect the merchant and his goods. Instead, they tended to treat the Cartel's market area as their own private possession.

When this happened the ITC was forced to take action. When the king of France caused trouble his head was removed by a media- incited mob; Napoleon and Hitler were hired to restore order, which they did, then they both proceeded to break away from the Cartel and start their own operation. The Cartel was forced to organize expensive crusades to bring them back into the fold again. The history books are full of examples of kings hired by the Cartel who later proved faithless and required revolutions or invasions to bring them to heel.

Democracy - To Conquer Rebel Kings

The problem with disobedient kings was solved by installing democracy.

In a democracy the people elect their representatives directly. In a republic, people elect representatives, who elect representatives. The old Saxon system was that of "10s" and "100s". The heads of ten families would meet and select a spokesman. Ten of these spokesmen would select a spokesman for 100 families. These spokesmen were called burgesses who met in Williamsburg. It is the ancient Saxon system that is virtually impossible for an outsider to control since it is from the "bottom up." Tens and Hundreds - the "republican" system - excluded the Cartel so their agents instituted a "democratic system" of voting directly for a king. If properly done, and if the people don't find out, a democracy can be converted into an episcopacy[6] without the subjects realizing what has happened.

Most Saxons are innately honest. They vote for the best man they know, but, the only candidates they know are the ones the media has told them about. They know no one else. The media owner publicizes his selection of candidates for the voters to choose from and ignores the rest. The voters, knowing no one else, choose for their king one of the media-owners' selections, one who has been hand- picked. This is called a "democratic election." In this way the media-owner's agent is elected to office EVERY TIME. The person elected owes his election to the media owner who publicized him - not the voters. This is the reason polls often show the people favoring one course of action and their rulers doing the opposite.

The result of kings being selected by the media-owner is

---

6 DEFINITION: "Episcopal," rule from the top down vs. "presbytery" - rule from the bottom up. Episcopal religions allege that god has appointed a ruler to rule them. Christians insist "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1 and the WORD appointed every man a king and a priest. "Jesus Christ... hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." Rev 1:5-6 that ITC kings are always in office - they always rule. Not only that, but these media-elected kings come up for ITC review every two, four and six years. If the king has behaved well and has done his master's will - he will continue to receive favorable publicity and be re-elected. If he has rebelled, he will be ignored or receive bad publicity and an irate public will elect another media-agent to be king in his place.

The White Knight

Saxons sense that something is wrong. Each patriot secretly harbors the dream that a knight on a white horse will arrive to save the nation. This is also a Cartel worry. They want no more Napoleons or Andy Jacksons. They have taken steps to prevent this from happening.

In the early 60s, the Soviets blockaded Berlin. To keep the city from falling to communism the US flew supplies into the beleaguered city and two reserve divisions were called to active duty. The author of this article was one of many called to active duty. I was assigned to the 100th Airborne Division to bring that division to full strength. I was posted as aide to the commanding general - the oldest 2nd Lieutenant on active duty in the US army. My general immediately put me in for promotion.

Soon after this happened, a plane from Fortress Monroe's Continental Command landed at Ft. Smith. Five colonels stepped out and quickly went about investigating 2nd Lt Richard Kelly Hoskins - "for right wing sympathies." "Right wing sympathies!" Everyone in the country was supposed to have right wing sympathies! Our enemy were the communists!

This is when I learned that what was told to the American public by the media, and what was actually going on, were two different things. While the US was rattling its saber at the communist Soviet Union, officers of the US armed services were being investigated "for being anti-communist."

This was in 1961-1962. I have no doubt that since then all officers with "right wing sympathies" have been passed over for promotion. Being "passed over" means that "right wingers" received early retirement. This also means that the present officer corps of the United States army (as well as the officer corps of every other Western state) has been cleansed of patriots. Those officers remaining are the ones who whole-heartedly support the episcopalian system that promoted and pays them. It is not likely that there will be a man of the people - an Andy Jackson on a white horse riding out to save us. It is not likely that there will be a George Washington, Patrick Henry, Tom Jefferson or John Calhoun to suddenly take the reigns of government and save us. Neither is it likely that a third party candidate will "throw the rascals out," or a TV or establishment minister will suddenly speak the WORD that will rally the people. The ITC has had experience with all these things and they now have their agents in all the key posts.

ALL Of Them Are Traitors - ALL

Recently a South African insider published a book called Volksverraad - "Betrayal." He revealed why S. Africa fell so easily to the communists. South Africa's leaders were traitors. Not one or two at the top, but ALL of them. Leading the treason is the establishment media. It is owned by the ITC which publicized the politicians the media-owners wanted elected. These ITC politicians appointed judges to proclaim that what the politicians did was legal. Civil service and army leaders were appointed because they were "reliable." Col- leges taught PC because they got their operating funds from politicians who wanted PC taught, and the teachers taught politically correct subjects because the colleges wanted them to do so. The establishment preachers betrayed those placed in their care in exchange for tax-exemption and media-publicity that guarantee advancement. They blessed the devil and spoke his Dharma.

Result

Unknown to its own people, the entire superstructure of the South African state was in the pay of an alien Cartel whose interest was against the interest of the S. African people. Because the media painted the leaders as honest men - the people trusted and supported them. When the crisis arrived - these Cartel agents delivered S. Africa into the hands of her enemies. That's what they were paid to do, and they did it. They were all traitors.

The West

Some years ago The Spotlight broke the story of the "Bilderburgers." The Bilderbergers were a large group of media, industrial and political leaders from all over the world who met yearly at remote locations. They had been doing it for years and it had never been reported. Patriots assumed that these people were the world's leaders. It was only gradually that people came to understand that these Bilderbergers had no intention of taking over the world and ruling it. The world had already been taken over by the ITC many years ago and these people were just the help who had been hired to manage it.

Once the extent of Cartel involvement is understood, the South African betrayal makes perfect sense. South Africa's leaders were sort of a Bilderberger group. They were traitors hired to advance trading policy in S. Africa. Since the ITC also trades throughout the West - their establishment exists throughout the West. The S. African situation mirrors the identical situation that exists in the United States, Canada, Scandinavia, Europe, Britain, Australia and New Zealand. The establishment in all these places are traitors - all of them. If they weren't - the Cartel couldn't trade as it does. The Bilderberger group is merely a visible part of the International Trade Cartel's government.

World-wide!

The ITC controls the religion and government of its markets. If one understands this he is also able to understand that the International Trade Cartel system exists WORLD-WIDE. Its media is a world-wide media; Its teaching of Buddhist Dharma-tolerance is a world-wide mission effort. The media-political-religious effort of the ITC afflicts not only S. Africa, but the entire West, and every other nation of the world; the Arab, Oriental, Jew, Indian and African. ALL nations are afflicted by the same ITC presence. All suffer.

World-wide Resistance!

The International Trade Cartel doesn't mean to cause dislocations and difficulties in its market areas, but, its mere presence dislocates nations' religion and normal business. The Cartel is dealt with in time by the host country in the same manner as a virus is dealt with by a healthy body - the body develops defenses.

ISLAM - The nations of Islam were conquered by Western armies many years ago and its religion and customs were submerged by Western economic interest in the service of the

ITC. Its religion and its culture were warped and twisted, and, to exist, Islamic religious leaders and teachers had to learn to appear to cooperate while actually formulating revolt to free themselves. They supported their own religious leaders in opposition to Western-created religious leaders. They established a grass-roots media to compete with the ITC media. Today, their warriors compete with the ITC kings, their police, and their armies. They have been fighting the establishment longer than anyone else with far more success than anyone else. They are the teachers - the rest of the world are their students.

PALESTINE - The Jewish invasion of Palestine brought to a head what had been building years before. The reported war between Arab and Jew is noisy and bloody, but it is not the big war. In the mostly unreported "big war" the sides are clearly drawn. Islam and its people are on one side, and against them are their own ITC governments with their Dharma-Islamic religious leaders, civil servants, police, the armed services and all members of the media. The warfare is ongoing and bloody.

ALGERIA - In Algeria, a few years ago, a "democratic" election was held. In spite of the media-owner's selection of candidates and the all-out effort to publicize and elect them, the Islamic resistance was so well organized that they voted their ITC government out of office. Refusing to relinquish power, the Cartel's government attempted to terrorize and crush its rebellious subjects. Thus far, more than 50,000 lives have been lost and the "rebels" grow stronger every day. Government police descend on isolated groups of Islamic nationalists and machine gun them. In retaliation, town mayors, newspaper editors, council members are ambushed and shot or blown up. No establishment person dares leave home without armed guards. Even American papers have started to report the escalating warfare. Algerian ITC agents are having to face the prospect of Islamic victory and war crimes trials being held for them. It is not a happy thought for those who have spent a lifetime kicking their own people around. The same situation exists in varying degrees in other Islamic states.

ISRAEL - In the Israeli nation, the ITC ordered Prime Minister Rabin to exchange conquered Arab territory for peace and trade. This violated the Jewish Talmud which forbids giving land to non- Jews. Obtaining permission from rabbis, a zionist zealot shot Rabin. The office thus violently emptied was quickly filled by a pro-zionist. While Jew fights Arab tooth and nail, the Israeli nation is looking over its collectve shoulder for possible retaliation from Western ITC agents. Disobedience and rebellion are not treated kindly by the Cartel.

BLACK NATIONALISTS - Readers of HR are familiar with the Black patriot Marcus Garvy. ITC interests jailed him and destroyed his movement rather than allow his followers to leave America. Today, the repatriation movement of Blacks is as much alive as it ever was in spite of the ITC attempt to get a race war started. Practically every country in the world today has varying degrees of revolt taking place against their ITC rulers.

AMERICA - The ITC has put America on notice with Ruby Ridge, Waco, the Trade Towers and Oklahoma City. The ITC will react with terror against any attempt to replace them. These reprisals have created fear of Cartel government and the result is the rebirth of militias, and distrust of everything that smacks of government-establishment religion or media.

With Islam in full revolt against the ITC, and the Jews in defiance, it is not credible that Christiandom will not learn from others and in time surpass their zeal in throwing off the bonds of the International Trade Cartel and help others to do the same.

Even the establishment media is noticing a change in the attitude of Westerners. Christians are beginning to tire of forever being fed to the lions. More pressing still is that they are being reminded that they have pledged homage to another master; an exacting master who requires obedience. Only with obedience comes the consideration promised.

==========

Letter From S. Africa by K.J.

Our people have reason to be critical. We had ex-generals playing treason. We had our own white military and police standing by Mandela before and after the ANC takeover. They all saw to it that everything went smoothly and suppressed white revolt. Some are still active in spying. For years the military fought a no-win war, called a "hearts and minds war" of 80% politics and 20% war. Even in those days many whites who were called to active duty lost their jobs.

Some people still follow the Conservative Party who told their people NOT to read the book Volksverraad - and they obey. That party is always doing something - starting all kinds of actions, but never in opposition to the former National Party or the black ANC. Mr. Jaap Marais is the one man who stands out as honest and uncompromising. It was said that Dr. Verwoerd trusted him but not others like John Vorster. There is nobody of his stature to take his place at this point. Mr. Marais wrote several good books including Die Era van Verwoerd. The book, Volksverraad draws heavily on his writings.

It is not pleasant to tell you how bad things are. Pride always kept us from doing so. Whites and especially Afrikaners are being removed from every conceivable job. Many well-qualified young people go overseas where they have no difficulty in finding work. What will the future hold? We are told that there are positive signs the National Party of treason is self-destructing. The Conservative Party is continually changing its policy and now has a close alliance with Viljoen's Freedom Front. Instead of working to get our country back it is working to put our people into new settlements in the midst of nearby deserts. This is causing many local farmers to think twice.

Mr. Marais wrote a letter in the newspaper IMPACT. He says that Piet Viljoen, son of Constand, planted arms at Fort Schanskop which caused Commandant Ratte to be arrested. Both Ratte and his family got moral and financial support from the HNP, and when he went to prison Mr. Marais paid him a visit. He warned Ratte about the government agents around him. Ratte should by now be able to distinguish between his friends and those who are just using him.

The thing that continues to cause comment is that Ratte was on a hunger strike for 57 days. Ratte should have been in very bad shape. We didn't know it, but electrolytes was given to him in his drinking water that kept him alive in pretty good condition. He came to see Mr. Marais within two weeks of coming off his strike to ask Marais to attend a ceremony at Fort Schanskop. When asked if this would include a closed meeting for unity he nodded. When Ratte's trial comes up we will see if his "friends" stand by him. Ratte is a Roman Catholic, but not his wife.[7]

The ANC has lots of internal problems and its members are finding that the top structure allows no difference of opinion. Homiso, a Xhosa and former Transkei leader (Transkei is a pocket-sized black nation formed in S. Africa by the British) has been kicked out of the ANC. He has quite a following. A complete collapse can't be far away and we see the starting point in town councils on the local level. Blacks have spent every rand they can lay their hands on. Violence is very near the surface and will erupt if electricity and water is cut to black townships. If this happens, black leaders will direct black anger against white people.

Many have not yet learned to think for themselves in religious matters. Anything new to them is strange. I suppose that is true in America, also. Even if they agree they will not admit it. In was in 1986 that I got to know Col. Jack Mohr. He wrote to me that he heard a fellow who spoke on Blood

7 RKH: Being Roman Catholic presents a problem for unchurched protestants who believe that every Christian is a priest who receives instruction directly from God through God's Word. They believe that episcopal religions (having priests appointed from the top down) such as Roman Catholic, Church of England, most Methodist, and state- Lutheran) take orders from their religious leaders. Chris Hanni, the Black #2 leader of the ANC was a communist and was assumed to be an atheist. After he was assassinated it was discovered that he was a secret Roman Catholic planted in the ANC. The man said to have ordered his death, Clive Derby-Lewis, is also RC. The reports of Derby-Lewis' abuse by ANC Blacks has made him a hero. If released tomorrow he will probably become the instant leader of S. Africa's Whites. The only other visible right-wing leader, is HNC's J.A Marais. Marais has not yet stated that he regards God's WORD as his people's Ultimate Authority. His reticence, in spite of his patriotic record, causes speculation. If he is a secret Church of England - he may be an agent of the Queen's far flung commercial interests; if Methodist - ditto; if RC - an agent of Vatican commercial interests; if Judeo-Christian - an agent of Jewish international commercial interest; if a state- Lutheran - a possible German agent; if Reformed-Dutch - the name of "traitor." When a man is hush-hush about his religious beliefs or lack of them, people tend to believe the worst. If he should belong to a religious episcopacy, it is assumed that he allows others to do his philosophical thinking for him - and that could present S. Africa with a continuing disaster.

River, a Richard Hoskins, and so it went. I read a lot and am convinced that the Bible is the only way. Doing away with Bible laws and holding on to missionary work with other races has caused most of the problems here.

According to a friend, the old Johannesburg Hospital had 7 new AIDS cases a day among blacks. Now it is 750 new cases daily. Cardboard coffins are exported all the way to Zimbabwe (old Rhodesia) for the many dead.

The British queen saw fit to confer the Order of St John on Tutu and Mandela for a job well done.[8]

There is a military build-up in Botswana, a few hundred miles to the northwest of us. Apparently the CIA and our local intelligence are actively stoking a civil war, hoping to wipe out the Boere once and for all, and at the same time the internationalists will have our country's riches to exploit. Friends who stay near the border saw troop movement from here going to Botswana. Since they no longer protect us they must have another aim. It is reported that the CIA spent $15 million in SA for the overthrow of White government.

The local TV and newspapers create as much hatred as they possibly can against Afrikaners. It's front page news when they report the newest revelation.

MARAIS IN IMPACT:

"... As the leader of the HNP, I had a long argument with Mr. Ratte in an effort to convince him to join hands with the 8 RKH: Tutu is a Bishop in the Church of England and a British agent. Increasingly, the use of strangers in Western episcopal sects ("Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deu 17:15) is causing them to be looked on as 3rd world religions.

HNP in its drive to call for general elections for the Whites. He refused point plank.

When the Afrikaner Volksfront (AVF) was formed in May 1993, I argued for almost four hours with Gens Constand Viljoen, Tienie Groenewald, Koos Bischoff, Dr. Ferdi Hartzenberg (and the whole Conservative party caucus), Rev Mossie van den Berg, Prof Carel Boshoff, the AWB leaders, the Transvaal Agricultural Union leaders, and Commdt Ratte, in an effort to get their support for a drive to force De Klerk to the polling booth and defeat him.

In an unbelievable display of political ineptitude or a conspiratorial involvement in a hidden agenda, not a single voice in support was raised in the meeting, nor even an interest in a discussion of the idea. There was an absolute taboo on the discussion of my suggestion of stopping De Klerk on his traitorous course. All that was allowed to be discussed was for Afrikaners to join forces to enter into negotiations with their enemies for a 'volkstaat'!

The formation of the AVF was a clearly preconceived tactic by Military Intelligence to thwart Afrikaner opposition groups in their resolve to resist De Klerk. Mr. Ratte told me subsequently that he and others were naive to have gone along with the leaders of the AVF.

The HNP was the only organization that refused to be pulled into this political sham.

The question raised by this traitorous event is whether any of the leaders involved in this shameful operation could ever claim credence for their political motives or judgment." J.A. Marais, Leader of the Herstigte Nasionale Party, Box 1888, Pretoria 0001, SOUTH AFRICA. (IMPACT: Aug/Sep 1996, PO Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, S. AFRICA: $30/yr.)

The Latest In The David Irving Saga

David Irving, the most widely read historian in the English language, testified in court that there was no formal plan to gas Jews in Nazi Germany. For making this statement his books have been banned by anti-Whites and he has been personally banned from several countries under the control of strangers.

"Dear Mr. Hoskins: I am currently on an extended 4-week speaking tour across North America. Your interest is much appreciated, given what St Martins Press did (ED: St. Martins refused to honour its commitment to publish his latest book Goebbels, Mastermind of The Third Reich), and our latest legal setback in Australia.

About 5 weeks ago my attorney phoned me from Australia to say that the Full Federal Court there had rejected our 4th appeal against the ban on my entry, which was procured by the traditional enemy from Paul Keating, using the usual methods, when he was the Labour prime minister; the judges said in effect that there was justice in my case, and that the Government was plainly using nebulous 'good character' requirements as a spurious ground to prevent the free expression of opinions they disapproved of, but the law prevented them from intervening!

I decided to wait before making a fresh application from the new government that is now in power. Meanwhile I instructed my lawyers to demand access under the Commonwealth Freedom of Information Act to all the Australian government's files on me, so I can see what has been going on. More and more Australians, including professors of law, are now writing to me saying they support my cause.

The latest news from Australia is in fact very encouraging: the new prime minister John Howard announced in another connection three days ago that he is going to see that Free Speech is reintroduced in his country; whereupon the entire media asked him, 'Does this include David Irving?'! He prevaricated, but the media are clamoring for my entry, and the prime minister of Victoria said a few days ago that he now believes the ban on me must be lifted.

When I arrived here at Pittsburgh to exhibit my books as always at an annual exhibition at the huge ExpoMart, I was informed that the ExpoMart, under pressure from the local Holocaust Center, had banned my attendance (for which I already paid last year). Although it cost me $15,000 to hire a lawyer and to post a bond, I obtained an emergency injunction in the courts here, which found the ban unlawful and ordered ExpoMart to let me display my books. Judge Friedman said that unlike other countries Free Speech is still not against the law in the USA! How they squealed! The ExpoMart appealed yesterday, and lost again. I could not have done this without the backing of all my Fighting Fund supporters.

Incidentally, before leaving London, I issued a High Court Writ against the British publisher of the odious book Denying the Holocaust, and against Deborah Lipstadt and four book-store heads who had been recklessly selling it despite its libelous content. This opens up a new legal front, but the law is on our side and that is what it is there for." Yours Sincerely, David Irving - Washington D.C.

LETTERS

SAXON IDENTITY: "Dear Dick: Your July 4th issue on genealogical heritage was particularly interesting. I am using Family Tree Maker (version 3.0). It's excellent! Already I have 6000 names. See your own enclosed genealogy. You are related to 'everyone' and the printout tells you your exact degree of kinship. An excellent source of internet genealogical data is (http://ftp.cac. psu.edu/~ saw/royal/royal-gen.html). L.K. - Connecticut

---

PRISONER: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Enclosed is $25 for the prisoner fund. If there are people who still think a presidential election means anything at all - can these people be reclaimable, even after a thousand years of trying to reason with them? This'll be my 13th winter in these places. I don't like it but I don't have any regrets and that makes it easier." Randy Duey #09884-016, PO Box 1000, Oxford, WI 53952

RKH: Randy Duey is a member of The Order. He was sentenced to 100 years.[9]

PRISON KNIGHT: "Hey Richard: I'm still alive & kicking! When I'm dead I'll let 'ya know. However, I am retired, thanks to zog, and I have moved. I'm in the hole, being held on an escape plot investigation. Some address!" Gary Yarbrough #09883-016, PO Box 1000, Levenworth, KS 66048

RKH: Gary is a member of the Order. He was sentenced to 60 years. Absolutely irrepressible.

THE PAUL HILL SAGA: Florida's Supreme Court upheld the double- killing conviction of Rev. Paul Hill and death sentence. Hill shot an abortion doctor and his escort outside an abortion clinic. He used Biblical Law as his authority, calling his act justifiable homicide. The state quoted establishment statutes, and ordered him put him to death. (Story in News & Daily Advance, p.4, Nov 28, 1996)

RKH: As establishment statutes and God's Law collide -

---

9 History of The Order can be found in Vigilantes Of Christendom,Hoskins

we may expect more and more of this sort of thing. This mirrors the Mideast conflict as Arab establishment statutes collide with Islamic law; Jewish establishment statutes collide with Talmudic law and the laws of different nations and races collide with each other. The people of the world will either live under the laws of their own god or struggle against being forced to live under the statutes of someone else's god. Paul Hill is one of the first. There will be many more who will follow in his footsteps.

VIGILANTE SUICIDE: John C. Salvi III was found dead, with a plastic trash bag tied around his head. A Massachusetts medical examiner ruled it a suicide. Salvi had been convicted of executing two abortion clinic workers on December 30, 1994 when he walked into two abortion mills and started shooting. (Story in News & Daily Advance, p. 1, Nov 30, 1996.)

RKH: The media is attempting to portray Salvi as being insane, and by association, Paul Hill. They portray their foes in such a way so as to detract from their actions. The news articles are short lower case print - but page 1 or 2. Depending on the public reaction that develops, the stories can be developed into MAJOR stories lambasting obortion opponents, or dropped. This is what the establishment pays its media to do.

ASIAN GANGS: After years of deliberate media concealment as to the realities of multiracialism papers such as the London Evening Standard reports that Asian gangs are "terrorizing London." Coverage of what they describe as "tribal war,' involving among others, Bangladesh gangs and violence at Quintin Kynaston school in Maida Vale where Somalis fought South Americans with knives and bottles.

(http://ngwwmall. com/frontier/bnp /stop.htm)

GOVERNMENT PORNOGRAPHY: The US government is America's largest distributor of pornography. It sells tax-free magazines at discount prices through the military exchange system. The Pentagon Book Store sells nine "soft-porn" magazines and two- explicit homosexual ones (3/96 BJU's WITW). Many, if not most, of all sex crimes are directly related to the use of pornography. Pornography is a $10 billion a year business. Calvary Contender, Apr 1, 1996

METHODIST: "Houston, TX, Methodist Hospital is opening a Muslim Prayer Center, specially designed to look like the outside of a mosque. Houston Chron Jan 20, 1996.

RKH: "I am the Lord your God, which have separated you from other peoples." Le 20:24; "Ye shall not go after other gods, of the gods of the people which are round about you." De 6:14.

Integration is Hinduism. "Brahamanism ... the conception of an absolute, all-embracing spirit, the Brahma." E/B 11th Ed vol 13, p. 501. In Brahma all are one and each different religion is a manifestation of the one Brahma. Hindu organizations bearing Christian names should be charged with false advertising.

CONCEALED WEAPONS: Out of the thousands of Virginians having permits to carry concealed weapons it is interesting that "the Virginia State Police have acknowledged that since July 1, 1995, there have only been four charged with any criminal offenses. None of those charged were charged with firearm related offenses." (From The Bullet, Virginia Shooting Sports Association, Mar/Apr, 1996, p.1)

Back to Table of Contents

1996 - Index

A

Adam genealogy
- Adam to Odin 232
- Adam to Thor 232

agents provocateur 126
- militia on tape 165

Asoka, King 290BC 239
- Asoka's Bequest 239

Assembly Of Saints 239
- controlling priests 242

Australia 61

B

Balak Plan 95
bank ownership 10
Bartleman, Andre
- Volkstaat SW Orange F.S. 204

Beam, Louis 113
Beckwith, Byron de la
- FBI conspiracy 56
- case against 209
- censored mail 120
- genealogy 19

Betrayal - Volksverraad 193
Black nationalism 93, 251
Boer War 47
- black immigration 48
- Milner, occupation governor 49

Bruce, King Robert 218
Buchanan, Rev. John - Pres. Church
- endorses sodomite ministers 191

Buck, Rev Richard
- miscegenationist 1624 214

C

cartel vs nations 249
Carter, "King" 218
Catholic
- Austrian scandal 65
- justices - three 165

cells
- body replacing 82

China
- vs Dalai Lama 67

Chinese
- immigrate to England 191

Clinton, Bill
- interracial adoptions 188

Colonization Abolition Plan 88
Confederate Ball 66
confiscation 92
Coushatta, La - militia in action 99
curses
- punishment disobedience 5 cycle

- empire 149

D

dharma
- dharma - tolerance 204, 243
- dharmatized church 139
- Indian conquest 10

Duey, Randy - The Order 259
- God chooses servants 57

E

Electronic Iron Curtain
- by Louis Beam 105

Elizabeth, Queen
- S. Africa visit 212

empire 151
- requirements 156

enfiefment 216
England
- Methodists collapsing 191

European immigration
- cover-up 189

Eve 119

F

false identity 25
- establishment church 27
- Saxons are Israel 25

Falwell, Jerry
- speaker Sun Myung Moon 166

fast track to genealogy 219
FBI
- Beckwith conspiracy 56
- experts skew tests 70
- Ruby Ridge agent reinstated 166 feudal society 125 feudal kingdom 150

Ford, Henry 12

G

Garvey, Marcus 94
genealogy
- Adam to Alfred 229
- Adam to Charlemagne 230
- Adam to Robert Bruce 226
- Adam to Wm the Conquerer 232
- Bruce, King Robert 219
- Fergus More to Robert Bruce 222
- Tea Tepi to Fergus More 223
- technical help 259

Goetz, Bernard....103
government
awards for killers....99 governments
ITC handpicked....9
gun registration
Canada....42, 59
gypsy gangs in Germany....189

H

Heyns, Rev Johan assassinated....199
Hill, Rev Paul....203
awaiting martyrdom....98
trial....55
death sentence upheld....259
Hindu
crime of separation....191
Holocaust
death figures....213
Hoskins of Virginia
by Charles Warner....218
Hoskins, Richard K. oldest 2nd Lt US Army....246
Huddleston, Barry....58

I

Indianapolis Baptist Temple tax-exemption removed....45
Indians - America
Chano saved Virginia 1621....178 internet censorship....60
Ireland
IRA arms....64
IRS demands on churches....137
Irving, David....257
Islam....250
Italy
N. Italy self-government....64
ITC
Islamic resistance....201
Jewish resistance....202

J

Jefferson, Thomas
French land monopoly....83
Jefferson Slavery Plan....131
Jews
have negro marker genes....123 jousting in Virginia....188

K

Kahl, Gordon - affair continues....210 kingdom
re-emerging....157
kings enemies of God....6

L

land
Jefferson's opinion....83
Lane, David - The Order
warns Timothy McVeigh....69
LAW
bastard....92
eating with strangers....132
false witness....90
hair length....164
land division....5
lenders....129
love of money....152 refusal to enforce Law....90 sodomy....85 stealing....88 strangers ruling man....86
usury....11, 129
worship with strangers....134
Lenin - merging nations....89
Lincoln
Abolition Plan....87
Lynchburg
racial separation....134

M

Marais, Jaap....143
Matsch, Judge - his record....120 tries McVeigh....70
Maxwell, Robert....12, 127
McVeigh, Timothy....69
media
king maker....127
missionaries
business agents....177 saints or devils....172 to Israel....173
missions....171
Montana Freemen pronounced legal....141
Murdoch, Rupert....127
Muslims
Hillary Clinton welcomes....85

N

nationalism
Islamic....202
Jewish....202
Saxon....203
Saxon S. Africa....204
Noahide Laws
congress recognizes....31

televangelists teach 34

O

officers army investigate RKH..... 246
Order, The
fourteen words 73

P

police officers organize 122 political leaders worthless ones 205
priests
warnings against..... 3

Q

Queen Elizabeth attends Catholic Mass 44

R

racial separation..... 139
radical abolition..... 89
media..... 90
Ratte, Willem
doubts about 164
fast questioned 253 released 167 saga ends 186
Rhodesia
Whites threatened..... 61
Robinson, John 129
Ruby Ridge..... 22
FBI agents reinstated..... 167 marshals awarded medals 167

S

Saxon
genealogy 215
Isaacsons 225
Schmidt, Hans
German prison..... 36 goes to trial..... 23 new charge - "ridiculing" 190
trial 38
Scotland
Dec'l Independence 221
self-sufficient farm system..... 17, 151
Selner, Gordon 121 sermons from 1700s 42
sodomites
Christian leaders approve..... 85
South Africa
(see Boer War) 47
Battle of Majuba 113
Boer War event pre-empted..... 78
British invade..... 81
British reputation 113
Dr. Verwoerd 197
Groenewald, Gen Ticnie . 117, 143
Groenewald, Gen Tienie 198
Hani, Chris 144
leaders reject unity 255
Marais statement 256
porn to Scandinavia..... 65
Ratte - hunger strike..... 145
Slimp, Rev Robert..... 118
Treason, new book 117 trial of the generals..... 41
Tutu's inquisition 116
Viljoen, Gen Constand 53
Volksverraad 1st ed. sold 142
Volksverraad effects 252
Willem Ratte arrested 118
state churches 137
strangers
Samaritan church..... 183 surrender
Axis attempt 23
Sweden, racial conditions..... 208

T

taxes
Law against 5
theocracy 1
trade
with strangers 8
Tsafendas, Demitrio
Dr. Veroerd's assassin..... 196

U

Ukraine famine 212
usury 11, 129

V

Viljoen, Constnad..... 168
Villiers, Cpl. Matthys de bitter-ender kills eight 169
Virginia
who owns Virginia? 240
Volksverraad
Review "Impact Newsletter".. 193
S. Africa's betrayal 247
Vorster, John 196

W

Winrod, Gordon..... 58

Y

Yarbrough, Gary - The Order..... 259

Z

Zundel, Ernst 60, 169

The FEUDAL SYSTEM

and other stories from

HOSKINS REPORT

1997

Copyright © 2007
by Richard Kelly Hoskins

All rights reserved. No portion of this book may be reproduced without written permission from the publisher except by a reviewer who may quote brief passages in connection with a review.

Published by

Virginia Publishing Company
P. O. Box 997
Lynchburg, Virginia 24505
Phone 434-384-3261

First printing 2007

ISBN 1-881867-21-8
Printed in the United States of America

Also by Richard Kelly Hoskins

OUR NORDIC RACE, 1958
ISBN 1-881867-00-5
Add'l Printings 1958, 1961, 1961, 1962, 1965, 1975, 1986, 1998, 2005
History of the Saxon nation.
$5 copy plus $3 p&h ($5 overseas)

WAR CYCLES/PEACE CYCLES, 1985
ISBN 1-881867-01-3
Add'l printings 1985, 1986, 1991, HB 2000, 2005
History of usury and war. 250 p.
$25/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

VIGILANTES OF CHRISTENDOM, HB 1990
ISBN 1-881867-02-1
Add'l printings sb 1991, 1997, 2005
The Story of the Phineas Priesthood, 472 p. sb
$15/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

THE WOLF & THE SHEEP, 1993
ISBN 1-881867-03-X
Add'l printings 2002
Wolves eat sheep. That's what they do.
Sheep try to keep from being eaten. That's what they do. 78 p. sb
$5/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

IN THE BEGINNING, 1995
ISBN 1-881867-04-8
The Hindu takeover of Western business, politics,and religion. 249 p. sb.
$15/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

Virginia residents add 5% sales tax

1997 - Table Of Contents

268 - AUSTRALIA BETRAYED
By Her Leaders.....1

269 - THE TRUST & THE PLEDGE: Strangers don
Saxon uniforms and commit crimes. 19

270 - TURK LONGVIEW: Turks trigger victims' rebellion.....41

271 - PAY BACK TIME: Saxons estimate monetary damages.....63

272 - SERPENT'S SEED: Eve's adultery with the serpent.....87

273 - ONE TO FEAR: Man should fear one above all others.....109

274 - McVEIGH OR THE GOVERNMENT?:
Who blew the building in Oklahoma City?.....131

275 - GOATS: Goats must change or die.....147

276 - NATURE OF THE BEAST: "Galloway wolves" killed and ate travelers.....165

277 - SHEEP KILLING TIME: Wolf wars thin sheep herds.....189

278 - KINGS & PRIESTS: MAN is his own king and priest.....207

279 - THE FEUDAL SYSTEM: The feudal castes exist today. 229

INDEX 251

Chapter 268

AUSTRALIA BETRAYED

Youngest Brother

The International Trade Cartel has plans in motion to do to Australia and New Zealand, our youngest Saxon lands, the same thing they did to South Africa.

Australia is a vast island continent. In land area it is about the size of the United States. Its population only about 18,000,000. Its interior is a vast mineral-rich desert with only its coastline being comfortably habitable. Most of its inhabitants live in two major cities.

The original "black boy" inhabitants who live inland in the "outback" are a chocolate tan. They are below the Saxon height, have no permanent villages, do not till land, and when left alone they mostly go about naked living in rough lean-tos made of branches hastily thrown together. They were cannibals before the White man arrived.

It was only in 1788 that Port Jackson was founded in New

AUSTRALIA STRATEGICALLY VUNERABLE:

Indonesia, and Malasia to the north, are making territorial demands on Australia. These nations are allies of China who is expected to back their play. Indonesia claims the northern half of the continent down to the 23rd parallel (see line above). The ITC selected governments of all these nations, including Australia, are working together to persuade Australia's Saxons to peacefully accept displacement immigration by strangers. At the same time Australia's armed services are being downsized and her people are being disarmed to remove their ability to protest the invasion with force. Another "South Africa debacle" is in the making. All stops are being removed by government, media, and foreign allies of the Australian government to suppress a possible Saxon revolt before it can occur.

South Wales as a penal station for criminals from England. In that day no distinction was made between a man stealing bread for his family and a murderer. Most were accused of things that today would be considered minor offenses. The transportation of criminals stopped 40 years later. By the time Australian settlement started, Virginia had been settled for about 200 years and S. Africa for 100 years.

Wealth Of Australia

The fantastic amount of natural wealth in Australia was worth nothing as long as it was undeveloped. To develop this wealth, Saxon settlers were imported by joint stock companies, as was done earlier in Virginia and S. Africa. Independent minded and industrious Saxons opened mines, harvested primeval forests and bred endless flocks of sheep which graze on equally vast ranges. Wool was perhaps the most profitable product from the earliest days.

By 1841, valuable copper mines had been opened. In 1851 gold was discovered and the copper mines were deserted as immigrants poured in from Europe, the United States and China to work the new gold mines. The value of imports and exports multiplied tenfold in just two years. Unlike the United States and S. Africa, whose land initially was largely "owned" by private individuals, Australian land was mostly monopolized by ITC corporations who leased it. People worked for sheep stations, mining interests, or factories and service interests in cities. A surprising number grew wealthy working leases and cottage industries that grew into factories.

To reduce labor costs, mine owners imported thousands of Chinese. The European miners at the gold diggings objected strongly to having their wages cut by three quarters to compete against this cheap labor. The agitation to stop the wave of Chinese workers began very soon after the gold discoveries. As early as 1860 there were serious disturbances and the Chinese were chased off the gold fields with serious riots occurring at Lambing Flat.

The proximity of heavily populated China has always been looked on by Australians as a potential menace, and the Chinese question has always held a prominent and volatile place. Put in office by the International Trade Cartel's media, Australia's government has always covertly worked to import cheap oriental labor - just as was/is being done in America and South Africa. They have been aided in this effort by political educators and apostate religious leaders.

Taxes & Education

In the 1860s, the big issue was state education vs. private religious instruction. The International Trade Cartel (ITC) wanted to regulate what was taught, so state education was chosen. The second issue was finance: whether to raise public funds by a tariff on imports, or, tax the Australian people themselves with an income/use tax. Tariffs on imports would hurt the ITC; income/use taxes would hurt the people. The government taxed the Saxon rather than imports.

Government

Having created "wealth" where formerly there was nothing, the cartel began to harvest this wealth from the Saxons who had accumulated it.

Harvesting the Saxon sheep determined the character of the Australian government from the beginning. Like America and South Africa earlier, Australia was ruled by governments appointed by Britain. Pretending to relinquish rule, they were allowed to choose their own leaders from candidates publicized by the media. Australians voted for the best men they knew, but, the only ones they knew to vote for were those given publicity by the media owner.

These democratic elections guarantee that the media owner's agent is almost always voted into office.[1] The result is that Australia is ruled by agents of the media owner who have little or NO obligation to the electorate.

Pauline Hanson's Speech

Sometimes there is an exception to this rule. Non-cartel candidates are occasionally elected and manage to make issues known to the voters. The incidents are so rare as to be revolutionary when they do occur. Pauline Hanson was elected to the Australian Federal Parliament. She made a speech to that august body that has resulted in non-stop media vilification and non-stop threats against her life. Following are excerpts obtained from her talk carried on the Internet (http://www .ozemail.com.au /~hillj/):

> "... We have one of the highest interest rates in the world, and we owe more money per capita than any other country. All we need is a nail hole in the bottom of the boat and we're sunk.
>
> "In real dollar terms, our standard of living has dropped over the past 10 years. In 1960 our wage increase ran at 3% and unemployment at 2%. Today, not only is there no

1 "In the monopoly media of Australia - all media, television, radio and press are owned by two moguls, Kerry Packer and Rupert Murdoch." Insider, 1 Aug 1996, PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA. HR believes that the "media ownership" of these two individuals is similar to that of Robert Maxwell; When Maxwell died it was found that he only managed the media that the public had been told that he owned. The actual owners operated out of Swiss banks, and they immediately descended on his estate to reclaim their property.

wage increase, we have gone backwards and unemployment is officially 8.6%. The real figure must be close to 12% to 13%.

"We have lost all our big Australian industries and icons, including Quantas when it sold 25% of its shares and a controlling interest to British Airways. Now this government wants to sell Telstra ... But, first, mind they want to sack 54,000 employees to show better profits and share prices. Anyone with business sense knows that you do not sell off your assets especially when they are making money. I may be only 'a fish and chip shop lady', but some of the economists need to get their heads out of the textbooks and get a job in the real world. I would not even let one of them handle my grocery shopping.

" ... I and most Australians want our immigration policy radically reviewed and that of multiculturalism abolished. I believe we are in danger of being swamped by Asians. Between 1984 and 1995, 40% of all migrants coming into this country were of Asian origin. They have their own culture and religion, form ghettos and do not assimilate. Of course, I will be called racist but, if I can invite whom I want into my home, then I should have the right to have a say in who comes into my country. A truly muliticultural country can never be strong or united. The world is full of failed and tragic examples, ranging from Ireland to Bosnia to Africa and, closer to home, Paupa New Guinea. America and Great Britain are currently paying the price.

"I call for the introduction of national service for a period of 12 months ... I do not feel we can go on living in a dream world forever and a day believing that war will never touch our lives again.

"... How can we compete with Japan, Germany and Singapore, who enjoy rates of 2% and 3.5% respectively? Reduced tariffs on foreign goods that compete with local products seem only to cost Australians their jobs. We must look after our own before lining the pockets of overseas countries and investors at the expense of our living standards and future.

"Time is running out. ... we will not have a say because neighboring countries such as Japan, with 125 million people; China, with 1.2 billion people; India with 846 million people; Indonesia, with 178 million people; and Malaysia, with 20 million people are well aware of our resources and potential. Wake up, Australia, before it is too late. ...

The Internet (ezundel@cts.com) on October 29, 1996 reports the results of that speech:

"There is a big groundswell of support for (Ms. Hanson) here in Australia - about 70% according to some statistics. Commentators estimate she could gather about 12 to 15 seats in a new party which is being formed. ..."

Alarmed, the ITC is counter-attacking with their media, politicians, state priests, and educators. At this writing, the Australian media daily vilifies this little spokeswoman for Australia's Saxons.

Harvesting The Wealth

Learning from their mistakes in allowing American and S. African Saxons to wander off on their own and lay claim to unwatched and uncontrolled natural wealth, the British colonial apparatus kept tight control over Australia's land from the beginning. Saxons, choosing to work for themselves in the cities, put together many profitable corporations. To gain control of these, inheritance laws were passed to force their sale. In other cases, the ITC government simply nationalized them and then resold them to foreign interests who were unable to buy them in the first place.

The sale of Australian corporations has reached epidemic levels with more than 92% of the industry being owned by foreigners:

FIGHT, 79 Ferry St, Maryborough, QLD 4650 ph 071 22 1412, carried the following of which they said: "The following is a list of Australian owned enterprises that have been sold - thanks to the magazine Commando for compiling this alarming report."

Arnotts Biscuits (biscuits) - USA
Andrew Garrett (wine) - FRANCE
Arnotts Snack Foods (crisps) - USA
Aldus (printing equipment) - GERMANY
Anvic (beef abattoir) - JAPAN
Arthur Webster (vaccines) - USA
Austen & Bulla (coal mines) - HOLLAND
Australian Posters (street signs) - USA
AV Jennings (house building) - NZ
A.P.N. (newspapers) - IRELAND
AC.I. (glass) - UK
Ashton Mining (diamonds) - MALAYSIA
Atrium Hotel (Darwin) - SINGAPORE
Australia-on-Collins (hotel/retail) - SINGAPORE
Bain & Co. (stockbrokers) - GERMANY
Baulderstone (construction) - GERMANY
Billy Tea (tea) - UK
Bundaberg (sugar) - UK
Bundaberg (rum) - UK
Bush's (pet foods) - NZ
Bushells (tea) - UK
Cadbury Schweppes (drinks/chocolates) - UK
Cape Mentelle (wines) - FRANCE
Carillion Arcade - Perth (shops) - MALAYSIA
Caroona (beef feedlot) - JAPAN
Carrier (air conditioning) - USA
Castlemaine XXXX (beer) - NZ
CC's (snack food) - UK
Central Square - Sydney (shop) - MALAYSIA
Channel 10 TV (TV station) - CANADA
Cheezels (snack food) - UK
Coal & Allied (coal mining)- UK
Collie Cooke Consolidated (inks) - SWISS
Commonwealth Bank - USA and others
Coolibash (wines) - FRANCE
Cottees (jams and cordials) - UK
Driza-bone (clothing) - UK
ETA Spreads (peanut butter) - USA
F.A.I. (insurance) - USA
Fosters/Carlton United Breweries (beer) - JAPAN
GIO Insurance (insurance) - USA and others
GKN (scaffolding) - UK
Gundowda (super fine wool station) - JAPAN
Hahn (beer) - NZ
Harris (tea and coffee) - HOLLAND
Hygenic Lily (cups) - SWEDEN
Invicta (carpet) - USA
IXL (jams) - USA
Jacobs Creek (wines) - FRANCE
Jaffas (confectionary) - SWISS
King Gee (clothing) - USA
Labor Funerals (funeral parlours) - USA
Lactos Tasmania (cheese) - FRANCE

Launceston Traveloge (hotel) - SINGAPORE
Leighton (construction) - GERMANY
Lifesavers (confectionaer) - SWISS
Loy Yang Power Station (electricity) - USA
MBF Sealink (Kangaroo Is. Ferry) - MALAYSIA
Metro Meats (smallgoods) - CHINA
Mercantile Mutual (insurance) - HOLLAND
Mermaid Waters (hotel) SINGAPORE
Minster (carpet) - USA
Minties (confectionery) - SWISS
Moore Business (business forms) - CANADA
Morris Bros (wines) - FRANCE
Mungindi Feedlot (beef) - USA
Nanda (pasta) SWISS
Network Foods (confectioncry) - UK
Northern Suburbs Crematorium - USA
Northbeach Hotel - SINGAPORE
Nylex (plastics) - UK
Oakbridge (coal) - UK
Oasis-on-Broadbeach (hotel/retail) - SINGAPORE
Ord & Minnett (stockbrokers) - HONG KONG
Orlando (wines) - FRANCE
Ormonoid (paints) USA
Parmelia Hotel (Perth) - MALAYSIA
Park Royal Hotel (Adelaide) - SINGAPORE
Passiona (soft drinks) - UK
Petaluma (wincs) - FRANCE
Polygold (carpets) - USA
Potter Partners (stockbrokers) - UK
Qantas (airline) - UK
Qucensland Cenment (cement) - SWISS
Raleigh (paper) - NZ
Red Book (carpet) - USA
Resort Hotel (Sydney) - SINGAPORE
R M Gow (soap products) - USA
Robert Timms (coffee) - UK
Safries (potato chips) - CANADA
Smiths Crisps (snack foods) - UK
Swan Breweries (beer) - NZ
Southern Cross (windmills) - SWISS
Speedo (swim wear) - UK
Springvale Colliery (coal) - KOREA
Stubbies (clothing) - USA
Sykes (indoor plants) - UK
Sydney Morning Herald (newspper) - CANADA
Tasmanian Govt Insurance Office HOLLAND
Taubmans (paints) - UK
The Agc (newspapcr) - CANADA
Thylungra (sheep station) - HONG KONG
Tooheys (beer) - NZ
Townsville Abattoirs (beef) - USA
Twisties (snack food) - UK
Unicorn (cheese) - JAPAN
Woodmasons (cold storage) - HONG KONG
Woolnorth (sheep station) - NZ
Wormald (fire services) - USA
Wyndham Esttes (wincs) - FRANCE
York Motors (car re-seller) JAPAN

The above issue of Fight also commented that Australian Federal and State Governments had sold or were in the process of selling:

Hospitals Jails
Town Water
Railways
Bridges
Trams
Airlines
Freeways

Electricity Airports
Commonwealth Bank
ANL (shipping)
Moonie gas pipeline
C'wealth Serum Labs
CSIRO
Inland fishing rights
Ocean fishing rights
Telecom and Australia Post, including Defense functions.

Present Defense Situation

The partial list above shows that, spearheaded by its own ITC government, the looting of Australia is proceeding rapidly. Saxon workers are finding themselves chattels of strangers. They work for the stranger for whatever the stranger chooses to pay them, or starve; a condition that puts them at war with their own God.[2] They are made to feel that somehow they themselves are responsible for the treasonable acts of government leaders for whom they voted in "free elections."

Adding to this very real discomfort of being made subservient to strangers, is the widespread knowledge that at the 1964 Peking World Communist Conference, Indonesia's Tan Malaka claimed all of Australia north of the 23rd parallel (see page 1) on the grounds that Indonesians had interbred with Australia's northern Aborigines. China and Indonesia agreed that everything north of the Philippines belonged to China and everything south of the Philippines should belong to Indonesia.

Communist China has a regular military establishment of 3,000,000. Including their reserves and militias, they command in excess of 100,000,000 soldiers. She is building an impressive airfleet of supersonic fighters, helicopters, air and ground support air-craft. China is continuously modernizing and expanding her armed forces. While her war equipment does not match the quality of American or European equipment - its quantity is sufficient to dominate lessor foes. China is also expanding her fleet. This fleet includes submarines, missile destroyers and cruisers, helicopter transports and troop transports. China is Indonesia's ally.

2 "Thou shalt in any wise set him king over thee, whom the Lord thy God shall choose: one from among thy brethren shalt thou set king over thee: thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: nokriiy - foreign, adulterous.) over thee, which is not thy brother. De 17:15

Indonesia, Australia's immediate neighbor to the north, has 493,000 men in their regular defense force plus an unknown number in their ready reserves. Their army of 245 battalions of 600 men each compares with Australia's four battalions and 3,100 riflemen. Indonesia's aircraft industry has just received $10 billion from the IMF. They are building 12 nuclear power plants. Their navy contains fast hydroplanes armed with Exocet missiles and defended by Phalanx anti-missile systems. They just bought one million AK56 rifles and 70 million rounds of ammunition from China. They have squadrons of fighters, helicopters and they also have sea transport. They have made claims to $250 billions of known Australian oil reserves, which was quickly backed by the UN. These claims were quickly recognized by the present government who cheerfully turned over the reserves in question. Australia is having to use Indonesian satellites to broadcast many of their programs.

Disarmament

In the face of this military build-up to the north, Australia's government has sent military advisors to Indonesia and sent them monetary grants to help the training of their armed forces.

While China and Indonesia's fleets are being rapidly expanded, Australia's fleet has been downsized to the point that it almost does not exist. The nation that sent sent hundreds of thousands of soldiers to the four corners of the world in WWII now has 27,000 men in her regular army, most of whom are clerks and rear echelon support troops. Of these, only 3,100 are front line riflemen.[3] Her attack helicopters number 29 but only 4 are serviceable. There are plans to reduce the airforce from 16,000 to 4,000 by the year 2000. Plans are to replace pilots by hiring Asiatics from nearby countries. According to a recent report she has less than 50 operational front line fighters and no air cargo carriers with which to keep them supplied. Australia has just agreed to buy needed medium range transport aircraft, the Phoenix, from her potential enemy - Indonesia.

The government issued orders to destroy a half million rifles in storage and thousands of machine guns. This has been done. It has now issued orders to disarm the entire civilian population. With no armed services worthy of the name, an armed population offers the only resistance to an enemy. When they are disarmed there is NO obstacle to an easy enemy invasion and takeover of the country. This is the thing that has aroused the patriots of Australia. That, and the fact that their own government has given the Japanese a list of all registered weapon owners in Australia through international police agreements.

3 National Interest, A.R. Pitt, 79 Ferry Street, Maryborough QLD 4650.

American Protection

Australia's politicians say, "Not to worry, the US will defend Australia against her enemies." At the same time American newspapers disclose that it is usual for oriental sources to pay for "fact-finding" jaunts of American congressmen. It is already well known that Clinton received six-figure campaign donations from Indonesian nationals. Massive sums are coming from a variety of obscure Asian sources. At the center are two Indonesian brothers named Riady, a Chinaman named Huang, a Buddhist temple in California, and, the Indonesian multinational giant, the Lippo Group.

Payoffs have been blatant. For one, Clinton decreed that a huge area of Utah be declared a Federal nature preserve, an area which happens to contain the world's largest deposits of a certain type of soft, clean burning coal. The second largest vein in Indonesia is controlled by the Lippo Group.

More significant is the exposure of the Lippo-Beijing connection. James Riady has close personal ties with high Chinese Communist Central Committee members and the general who is in charge of the Gong An Ju, the Chinese secret police. It would appear that the American defender of world freedom has been paid to go fishing. (Story on Internet: Dec 20, 1996, (nswpp@earthlink.net)

The Saxon Enclave

About a quarter of Australians belong to the Catholic Church, another quarter to the Episcopal Church, and the rest are divided among various Protestant denominations, or, don't belong to any organized religious groups. Predictably, the leadership of both Catholics and Protestant Episcopalians support almost everything the government does. With rare exceptions, individuals belonging to these two groups are considered to be the most ignorant in all of Christendom as to the WORD contained in the Bible, and this includes the Judeo-Christian cult.

The teaching of Biblical Christianity causes separation. The historical method of separation is for Christians to form their own enclaves and exclude strangers with their alien gods. The trade world of the Hindu considers this a form of revolt. Since separation is the thing that Saxons have always done when given the opportunity, the Cartel has developed plans to deal with it.

At an early period they hired "Christian" religious leaders to preach Dharma, thereby taking the Saxon revolt into harmless paths. These false shepherds now hang signs on the gates of the sheepfold saying "Welcome wolves!" - instead of - "Wolves, Keep Out - This means YOU!"

Leaders insist that the developing Saxon "enclave mentality" include the very wolves that the Saxon is attempting to exclude. If Australians give in to the state religion's demand, the present Saxon revolt will turn in a circle and arrive back at its present place. The revolt will be stillborn.

Alternate Media

Australia's alternate media has sprung into life virtually overnight. It consists mainly of a few bi-monthly newspapers, scores of newsletters, a few church ministry newsletters, and an active internet. The prime topics discussed are "oriental immigration," gun confiscation, and job loss.

Australia's Prime Minister Howard came out with recommendations to severely curtail gun ownership in Australia. His speech was warmly endorsed by the Japanese Prime Minister. This prompted an alternate media response by Michael Darby, in a pamphlet, Don't Disarm Australia!, PO

Box 456, Cloncurry Qld. 4824, Sept 20, 1996:

> "Japan should stay out of internal Australian politics .... (the Japanese Prime Minister's) expression of approval and appreciation for Mr. John Howard's gun law proposals are "impertinent and inappropriate. The Australian people should be anxious about any attempt by Japan to influence our internal policies," said Darby, a former Australian Army officer.
>
> "We should be especially concerned that Japan should endorse divisive and tendentious legislation which makes it more difficult for future generations of Australians to deter invaders, or to repel them after an invasion takes place."

Cartel Governments Conspire

The Cartel-installed Australian government single-mindedly continues its policy, as reflected by the following speech taken from the Internet (anton88@cris.com):

> "In a report to the UN general assembly, Australian Foreign Minister Alexander Downer condemned racism as an attack on human dignity and security and a threat to world peace. Downer said, 'The government's support of UN processes to stop racial discrimination is complementary to our absolute commitment to maintaining a non-discriminatory immigration policy and a society free of the ugly stigma of racism.' He also said in the report that 'Australia has a profound commitment to fair treatment for all and a harmonious blending together of people of different racial backgrounds.'"

Australian government statements, like the one above, are orchestrated to be used with "manufactured incidents" such as the one below. This is to provide an excuse for future Asian intervention to "protect" Asian citizens.

The following came on the Internet Dec 17, 1996, from (anton88 @concentric.net).

> "KUALA LUMPUR -- Malaysia may recall Malaysian students from Australia if their safety is threatened by racist behavior, the Prime Minister, Dr. Mahathir, said yesterday ... He assured the more than 11,000 Malaysian students in Australia that the Malaysian Embassy there was monitoring the situation. A student leader ... was reported as saying Malaysian students in Melbourne were becoming targets of racial abuse. Adrina Shazlin Shukor, aged 22, ... said she was verbally abused while waiting outside a 24-hour retail outlet recently. 'Two Australians ... told me to get out of their country ...' Australia's controversial independent MP Pauline Hanson's comments about Asian immigration sparked a bitter race debate which has gripped Australia."[4]

To stop hope for aid and protection from the rest of the West, the ITC establishment in the US, Germany, Great Britain, Sweden, etc. have all made statements similar to the one made by the French President:

> "French President Jacques Chirac announced today that he will ... punish racism. ... he said he would not let 'those who call for exclusion, hatred and violence be sheltered by freedom of expression ... When discriminatory attitudes or practices, racist or xenophobic words are being expressed in our country, they must be singled out, prosecuted and punished.' ..." Internet (anton88@cris.com) Dec 10, 1996.

---

4 As an aside, most countries decrying Saxon "racism" also forbid Saxons to own land, hold office, or vote. Even when offering business "opportunities" in exchange for "grants" they hedge the opportunities with conditions that effectively nullify the offer. Directed by their Cartel leader, the wolves of the world are united in their objective to eat the remaining sheep.

We are seeing the coordinated actions of ITC-installed governments worldwide acting as Dharmamatras as they implement Dharma.[5] Today, Dharma is used by ITC agents to pacify Saxon populations while they are being displaced. The words "racist" and "racism" used exclusively against targeted Saxons worldwide is the modern practice of ancient Dharma warfare.[6]

These announcements are notice that Cartel governments worldwide agree that the displacement of Saxons in Australia and Saxon will continue; the effort will be protected, aided and bankrolled just as was done in S. Africa - whether Australian Saxons like it or not.

Australia's only real defense is knowledge and this knowledge is dispensed by her alternate media. Like S. Africa's alternate media, the alternate media in Australia is primitive. A full half of their "patriot papers" are actually ITC disinformation papers set up to mislead. The remainder argue on the level that existed in Europe in the 1930s and America in the '50s. The establishment media also uses the same '30s and '50s arguments that they made in Europe and America because they work so well. However, with internet access to American right-wing counter propaganda, this may be changing as the establishment finds 1990s patriot questions difficult to counter.

5 "DHARMA: Dharma is the Buddhist technique of pacifying divergent populations to expedite trade. Dharma - tolerance of other peoples and their gods without regard to "race, creed, or nationality." A Dharmamatra is one who enforces Dharma.

6 The entire subject is covered in In The Beginning ..., Hoskins,

Conclusion

Cartel propaganda and rule has so demoralized Australia that except for the usual handful, the country cannot envision the basic concept needed to unite Saxon resistance, ie:

God's Commandments are the Ultimate Authority.

In spite of this, Australia offers the best chance to successfully revolt against the age-old domination of the International Trade Cartel.

Saxon Australia lives precariously with a human tidal wave of enemies massing on their borders, having enemies within, and governed by traitorous Cartel agents. The resistance of Australia's Saxons started late, their organization is rudimentary, their propaganda primitive, their finances deplorable; however, with an élan that surpasses anything to be found anywhere else in the West, it may just be that God has chosen these few Australian brothers to lead the rest of their enslaved Western brothers to freedom.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 269

THE TRUST & THE PLEDGE

Gold Where You Least Expect It

Many years ago I was a young stockbroker trying to drum up business by prospecting in the backwaters of Virginia. In Virginia, you soon learn not to go after the fellow with the Mercedes and the big house. Most of those kinds are behind on their bills and the fancy car is rented by the month. The humble looking low profile fellow is the one you are looking for. If anyone has got money - he has. If you are smart you treat everyone like they might be a millionaire. You just never know, and it doesn't hurt to be nice, anyway.

The Story Of The Rich Farmer

In the 1920s, almost everyone who had a little extra money bought stock and tried to get rich. In the 1930s, most of the new companies went broke. I've got about 20 worthless stock certificates that belonged to my Daddy and my Uncle Roy. They tried to get rich and failed. But, some made it big.

One Monday I stopped at a likely looking country filling station. I told the proprietor that I was a stock broker from Lynchburg,my name was Dick Hoskins, and I was trying to drum up business and would appreciate it if he would help me by giving me the names of any local people who had money. He told me that my father, "Dr. John", and he, were foxhunting buddies in the old days. He gave me the name of a local farmer to go by to see.

This turned out to be one of the biggest accounts I ever got. I saw him walking behind a mule plowing a field. It was hot! Goodness, it was hot! I parked my car, got out, put on my hat and coat and straightened my tie, and walked across a plowed field, briefcase in hand.[1] The farmer stopped plowing and invited me to sit on the front porch of his very ordinary looking house (that badly needed paint) and have a glass of water with him. I asked him if he owned any stock, and he said, "some."

You wouldn't believe the number of stock certificates he had, a great big pile, and the mess they were in. He really didn't know what he had or that he was a millionaire. IBM and stuff like that; stuff that didn't pay much of a dividend. He said that for the last few years he had thought about maybe selling it and getting something that paid better, that farming was hard work, but he hadn't had time.

1 Mr. Oscar Drinkard, my mentor, and an old time stockbroker, told me to always treat clients respectfully. That meant that you should always look like the person your client wanted you to look like if you wanted to handle his money.

Hams: There was a man living in Culpeper. He had learned how to cure Virginia hams from his father. No one else seemed to be doing it so he started buying and curing hams for wholesale. Before you know it he had a lock on the sale of old fashioned Virginia cured hams and his company was worth a great deal of money.

Printer A small time printer lived here in Lynchburg. He did greeting cards and anything else a person wanted done. Over the years he expanded to become one of the largest printers in this part of Virginia.

Machinist: A Belgian tool and die maker came to town to work for one of the larger companies. The company soon found that he was really an expert and kept him on speciality jobs. Soon he went off on his own and now has one of the largest tool and die machinist operations in the state.

There are literally hundreds of thousands of people like these just mentioned. The ancient parasitic economic/political/ religious system called "feudalism" that we have encourages these entrepreneurs to create or gather wealth, and then they harvest and begin feeding on these very same entrepreneurs that they encouraged. Following are a few examples of the ways they go about it.

The Feudal System's Harvest

Druggist: I met a druggist in a nearby town, a nice chap. He told me that he was sorry that he didn't have any extra money. He said that once his family had owned the largest coal mine and timber tracts in that part of Virginia. His great-grandfather had left it in trust at the local bank and that the bank had stolen it.

I didn't believe him - at first. I asked him why he hadn't challenged the case in court. He said that his family had brought suit on several occasions. The lawyers, the judges, the sheriffs, the bank and the local politicians formed a ruling clique. All of the clique had benefited in some way - all of them except him and his family.

The only ones who could help were others in the Establishment and they weren't about to rock the boat. They all said that they were sorry, that the statutes were on the Establishment's side. I asked him why the newspaper didn't expose the situation? He said that the bank's board of directors owned the newspaper. I've thought about this story for thirty years. It's not unique, and it isn't rare, and it goes on in varying degrees every day.

Newspaper: Lynchburg has a newspaper - The News & Daily Advance. It was owned by the Glass family. One of Glass owners died and there was not enough money to pay taxes, so it was sold to a chain to pay inheritance taxes. That's why inheritance tax statutes were passed - to force Saxons to sell their assets. Now, Lynchburg has an anti-White, anti-Christian minority-oriented newspaper.

Chains who customarily buy assets that are sold to pay estate taxes are often managed by someone local, but are actually owned by offshore bank trust departments.

CORPORATE TAKEOVER Craddock-Terry Shoe Corporation in Lynchburg built up a large sum in retained earnings instead of paying it out to its stockholders as dividends. An Establishment corporate raider saw this, and in most of these cases makes deals with certain insiders to vote their stock. He then buys up perhaps 15% of the stock. The insider stock, combined with his own stock gives him controlling interest to take control of the company. He then pays the retained earnings to himself and his backers in the form of bonuses, salary, and things like paid up life insurance policies. He then sells the company, which in the case of Craddock-Terry, promptly went bankrupt. Then he went somewhere else and bought another company and repeated the process. Virginia and its people have been harvested many times.

HARVESTING A COUNTRY

We in the American South were harvested. We can appreciate the present harvesting of South Africa. It represents a step up in the harvesting of assets by the feudal system.

South Africa made a basic mistake. Instead of allowing S. African private citizens to own both land and mineral rights that lay under the land, the government retained control of the mineral rights. The granting of these mineral mining rights is a government monopoly. The state leases mining rights to favored companies. Whoever controls the S. African government also controls S. Africa's equivalent of Fort Knox. In addition the state also owns TV broadcasting, high-tech munition factories, etc.

The situation was ripe for a raider. The takeover could either be friendly or hostile. The raider made agreements abroad and was ready to go either way. The ownership of South Africa's mineral wealth was worth the expense needed to do the job. It was a business operation, the same as the raid made to obtain the retained earnings of Craddock-Terry.

The international cartel doing the job made deals with insiders to vote their stock. The media-owner's papers led the parade to convince the small stockholders that the takeover was "inevitable." This culminated in the old management allowing itself to be voted out of office. Many left with bonuses. Others stayed on and were paid high salaries. Many received paid up multi-million dollar life insurance policies and villas on the Riviera. The Cartel's hired-help took office and the turnover was accomplished. It was time to divide the loot.

But: What happens if the small worker-stockholders realize that the election was rigged, that their assets were stolen, and that they are being thrown out of their own country and replaced with cheap labor?

They protest! Naturally! To whom do they protest? Judges? The judges are appointed by the new management. Their job is to rule that the present government is legitimate and the takeover was legal. That's what they are paid to say. While talks are proceeding the retained earnings are being looted. Before long there is nothing left except an empty shell - like Russia.

Andrew Carnegie's Modus Operandi

Andrew Carnegie took over a competing mill. To lower costs and put more money in his pocket he cut the worker's already low wages. The union called a strike. Carnegie fired them and imported Hungarians and Poles to work for even lower wages.

The former workers were without jobs. Carnegie's management talked to the unemployed workers - endlessly they talked. The longer they talked the more the workers used up their savings. At last they caught on and established strike lines to prevent scabs from coming to work.

The local police were called in, but they couldn't handle the situation. Carnaigie brought in Pinkerton detectives as strike breakers. The workers shot them out of town killing four and losing seven of their own. Carnegie then called the state national guard. They came in and occupied the mills.

The strikers lost their will to resist, and, starving, with no way to make a living, they and their families drifted away. It was an ugly situation.

The thing that Carnegie did to really break the strike was to put highly paid informers in the organization of the strikers. Some were within the workers' leadership, the very ones doing the planning were sometimes Carnegie agents. Predictably, the strike failed.[2]

The situation in S. Africa is no different. The "friendly" takeover has been accomplished. The only ones who are disgrundled enough to do something about it are the workers who are being laid off so that those helping in the takeover can be hired in their place, and the Boers whose land is being stolen from them. The Establishment know that this group has the potential to revolt and have made preparations to cope with it. Their methods are likely to be the same ones the Establishment has used in the past:

The Trust

The South African Sunday Times, Feb 27, 1994 ran an article entitled: "ANC Adviser Suggest Security Plan." The article previewed a book The Hidden Hand - Covert Operations in SA published by the Human Sciences Research Council.

The Hidden Hand theorized that after the South African elections, held to install Blacks as new compliant rulers of the yet incomplete S. African feudal system, "there will be a

2 Resistance to "takeovers" don't have to fail. The South organized and drove out the occupation carpetbagger governments after the War For Southern Independence. See Vigilantes Of Christendom, Hoskins convergence of the right-wing racists." These racists will "begin to develop an internal network as a terrorist organization involved in a few bombings or a few assassinations." They will then grow into a political movement to achieve political goals.[3]

The author, Mo Shaik, billed as a top ANC intelligence advisor, said that the way to deal with the threat was with a "Cheka-type strategy" similar to the fake counter-revolutionary movement in the Soviet Union during the 1920s after the Bolshevik Revolution.[4]

In the '20s, the Bolshevik spy chief Eduard Dzherzhinsky organized fake counter-revolutionary organizations called "The Trust." These fake anti-communist groups engaged in covert warfare against their own newly-installed Communist rulers. They actually assassinated their own lesser or doubtful Communist leaders along with their families and blew up buildings killing scores.

These acts had a twofold purpose. First was to attract anti-Communists to the "anti-Communist resistance" so they could be identified and liquidated. Second, the savage butchery of "The Trust" turned the Russian population against true anti- communists. The strategy worked wonderfully well. The anti- communists who flocked to these resistance groups were 3 The ITC calls its Saxon victims "racist" because they insist on their Biblical inheritance promised in the WORD and because of their ability to produce proof of their entitlement based on descent.

4 To refresh one's history; Russia was a Czarist feudal state. The Turk-communists took over and ruled the existing feudal society. They shot the Czar and his supporters, and installed their own. Many of the czarist Slavic government functionaries merely switched allegiance from Czar to the communist victors - and kept their jobs. The execution, banishment, and confiscation of the czar's hereditary nobility, their followers, and the independent farmer and entrepreneur proceeded apace as is customary in warfare between competing feudal systems.

rounded up by the thousands and shot and the bamboozled populace helped the Communists do it. The Communist feudal system was in place and secure, and, the other feudal systems of the world rolled out the red carpet to welcome them.

During World War II The Trust was reactivated. The communists had roughly manhandled Russian populations in many areas and as a payback, these populations welcomed the advancing German troops with open arms. To reverse this trend, soviet agents behind German lines put on German uniforms and proceeded to rape, pillage and massacre. These acts did much to turn Russian populations against their German deliverers.[5]

Mr. Shaik suggested the establishment of a copy-cat fake "militant right-wing organization" using the Soviet Trust method. This was the Establishment's notification that a deal had been made with South Africa's right wing leaders to vote their stock. This was recently confirmed with the publication of the book in S. Africa "Volksverraad" written by an insider.

What Could Have Been

It doesn't have to be this way. South Africa has several hundred thousand White men with military training who would jump at the chance to rid the country of the Black plague. There are still Whites in strategic positions who could bring the country to a standstill and cause the government to fall. The question asked is, "Why don't they do it?" They have the power. The answer is simply because the Establishment foresaw this possibility long ago and took precautions to keep it from happening.

5 In the American South after the War, while the Black reign of terror was taking place, federal occupation forces disguised themselves as Ku Klux Klansmen and committed bloody atrocities against Southern Blacks and Whites alike. Northern sympathizers looked askance at these bloody events and refused to come to the South's aid. The occupation and looting continued without opposition. The media cooperated by grinding out weekly "Andersonville atrocity stories," which continued on into the 1930s - 70 years after the War had ended. The people of the north were conditioned to believe that the South deserved the poverty, rape and pillage that seemed to be her eternal lot. As a result, deliverance from the Black/carpetbagger government was long in coming and the South remained economically, socially, and politically ruined.

Trust Militia, Politicians, Media

To prevent a White counter-revolution the Cartel created an opposition of its own by having its media publicize cartel agents as being "right-wing" leaders. The people believed the media and flocked to the only "right-wing" leaders they knew - the leaders publicized by the media-owner - those working for the Establishment.

The Establishment not only rules the country but also funds a pretended opposition. This sows confusion in the counter- revolutionary movement. It creates a "win-win" situation for the Establishment. If the Blacks stay in power - the Establishment wins: if the Whites revolt and come back into power under leadership of Establishment agents - they still win.

The Trumpet Calls

All over the world trumpets are sounding calling men to the colors. The call to arms always makes the blood run faster; we listen intently. We listen for a call - crisp and clear. But, that's not what we hear. The sound is muffled. It sounds a little strange. Is it a Saxon trumpet? - or is it a call from the agents of the new management who hope to lead us away on a wild goose chase while the fox is yet in the hen house killing chickens?

We Saxons need a litmus test to administer to those who would lead: a test that will ruin a traitor, and, at the same time be the only acceptable code of conduct possible for the patriot. Such a litmus test is available. We need to demand that our own publishers, political, business and militia leaders publicly proclaim - and constantly reaffirm:

God's Commandments are the utimate authority!

The one making this public commitment in effect pledges himself; 1) to obey and be judged by God's Commandments; 2) to judge others by God's Commandments, and; 3) to allow ALL questions to be settled in obedience to God's commands.

God bless the Saxon who will take the pledge. And, God damn the one who refuses. The one who refuses is the collaborator - the enemy - the Judas goat in the pay of the Establishment. Shun him, have no dealings with him. Make him keep company with his friends - forever!

Letter From South Africa by kj

We are told that the Transkei no longer has telephone service. The inhabitants cut down the wooden poles for firewood and sold the copper wire for money.

In the Cape Province, and later in the Transvaal, someone exploded bombs. The media immediately blamed the Whites. The Conservative Party is organizing a congress for all Afrikaners. They stress that they will not allow a discussion of the past. By doing this they hope to avoid all accountablity.

On December 12, 1996, the alien TV said that the Battle of Blood River was a fluke. By doing this they hope to remove the wonder of the Covenant.[6] Perhaps they are afraid of further miracles by which we might again be saved."

Best wishes, K.J.

LETTERS

RACIST!: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Whenever I try to talk about our people I encounter the charge 'racist'. What does one do?" D.C. - Maryland

RKH: Coordinated propaganda attacks center on a single phrase or word. "Racist" is the one being used today. It is a trick attack: Deny being a racist and you infer that you are against racial separation. Say that you are a racist and you will be accused of mass murder or worse. Any defense is a loser.

Answer the marxist charge of "racist" with a charge of your own. Accuse your enemy of being an "anti-white, "anti-Saxon"; an "anti-Christian" integrationist. They really hate that! Tell them that whether they know it or not they are spouting an imported, counterfeit, anti-Christian Hindu teaching reeking - Dharma- integration. Genuine Christianity teaches "separation" from strangers, and, that they are supporting "integration!"

You can't explain. All that is left to you is to - accuse! accuse! accuse! That's what they do.

"SALVATION IS OF THE JEWS": Dear Mr. Hoskins: Jesus said; 'Salvation is of the Jews.' John 4:22. Care to comment?

6 For a week before the Zulu assault, the targeted Boers prayed that if their God saved them, they and their decendents forever would celebrate the aniversary of the date of their deliverance. God saved them, and the chosen celebrate that date each year.

RKH: Judea was a Roman province. To the Romans, all different peoples in it - the Galileans, Samaritans, Edomites, Arabs, Israelites, etc. - were Judeans or "Jews." (An Eskimo living in Judea would be called a Jew.)

Herod the Edomite murderer of the Israelite children and King of Judea, was an Edomite-Jew. Jesus was an Israelite-Jew. They lived in the same province but were like Blacks and Whites living in America, who are Americans, but aren't the same.

To avoid confusion Jesus never referred to himself as a "Jew." He called himself "Son-of-man" in the ancient manner.[7] The Sadducees would call Jesus a "racist" today ("Son-of-adam," son- of-"blush-red" - "son-of-white-man") Herod would have done the same if he could. He was sensitive about being called a "mixed- breed," and a great many Israelites called him that to his face.

Most of today's preachers are state priests serving feudal masters. To bring the diverse peoples together they use "Jew," without explaining that there are more than one kind. This perpetuates the myth that the ancient Jews were a single race, and that today's Jews are the same as the ancient Jews, and are their descendants.

Modern-day Jewry is a collection of many races united by their religion - Judaism. Judaism is interpreted by their holy book - the Talmud. They say they are of Edom.[8] Black Somalian Jews claim to be ancient Jewish converts. Eastern European Turks claim to be Khazar converts to Judaism.

7 MAN: Heb: Adam 119 - "to show blood(in the face), ie: to flush or turn rosy: - be (dyed, made) red(ruddy). Strong's Concordance.

8 "Edom is in modern Jewry." Universal Jewish Encyclopedia, 1925 edition, vol 5, p 41.

"Jews" also disclaim Jesus Christ and his people.[9] Most American "Jews" are descended from Khazar Turk converts from S. Russia.[10]

The name "Israel" was given to a man named Jacob and his descendants. The land they lived on took its name from them. When they moved away - the land was still called "the land of Israel."

Today's "Jews" are mixtures of many races. Their mixture forbids them entry into the race of Israel[11] but force can get them into the ancient land of Israel, where they can claim the name "Israelite" since they live in the ancient land of Israel. For that matter an Arab living in the land calling itself "Israel" can justifiably call himself an "Israelite." Neither Arab nor "Jew" is necessarily claiming kinship with the ancient Israelites who were "adamites," whose God identified himself as "Son-of-man," whose WORD is the "Commands Of God", is absolute, and can not be broken.

The question to ask the preacher who says that "the Jews are God's chosen people," is, "Which kind of Jew are you speaking of - Edomite or Israelite?" If he says Israelite - he's right. If he says Edomite - he is either ignorant, or, he is putting out mis-information. If he asks; "What do you mean?" he is ignorant. Chances are he doesn't know who Herod is, either. You may have to instruct him before you can argue with him - a tedious task when you must argue with an

9 "Strictly speaking, it is incorrect to call an ancient Israelite a Jew, or to call a contemporary Jew an Israelite or Hebrew." 1980 Jewish Almanac p. 1. Identity Crisis.

10 See Hoskins, War Cycles/Peace Cycles

11 "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of Israel." De 23:2

ignorant bumpkin. But, these low types are the ones the feudal systems of today hire to bless their unGodly acts. They each earn their 30 pieces of silver, bumpkin or not.

WHO WE ARE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I am posted in Europe. I gave an Indian colleague In The Beginning to read. He commented, 'The person who wrote this knows us and our secret.' Thought you'd like to know." J.S. - London

---

OUR NORDIC RACE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Your book, Our Nordic Race, is, in my viewpoint, a classic. I read many so- called classics while earning a degree in English, but they don't compare with ONR. ... One of the most significant omissions in mainstream education is racial history. Your book can add an all important 'last piece of the puzzle' to a person's education. It did for me. The story that my professors taught simply did not match today's reality. We could not have gotten where we are today if history is as taught by the marxist professors of today. My selection of ONR was a wise one." S.J. - Vermont

---

AUSTRALIA: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I have been a Christian for 18 years. Recently I discovered that most of my studies have been from 3rd rate reading matter. It was not for want of trying to find the truth. My explorations in 14 cults and occult trips turned up contradictions. I really apreciated your descrption of the Krishna Hindu 'Yogaville.' That was one of the trips I explored. It is seductive to the max for the gullible. Later I found Establishment Christianity that was taught to me contained many of the same deceptions. It is only since studying our genealogy that I've found the key pieces of truth that makes the Bible OUR book. This is exciting, as it should be.

"Two of my ancestors came from America. Both served under General George Washington. Another American ancestor was known as the "Hero of the Connecticut Valley." He struck out boldly into the trackless forest with but one comrade, rescuing and bringing home from Canada and out of Indian captivity 17 of his townspeople, including his own wife and three daughters. Our Saxon ancestors are all the same when we go back a little way." S.L. - Australia

---

PRISONER ON INTEGRATION: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Do you know of any Laws or anything that might help me out? I am currently at a camp that is 90% Black. You wouldn't believe what it's like if I told you." C.P. - Tennessee

RKH: The fact that you are in prison is an affront to the Law. The Law contains only two major punishments; Restitution or death. That you are forced to eat with strangers again violates scripture: "Withdraw from among the Gentiles and do not eat with them, and do not according to their actions, and be not their companion, for their actions are unclean and all their ways are defiled." Jubilees 22:17: The fact that there are strangers around you is another affront to God: "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21- 24. But, God has not forgotten. It is also prophesied. "When thou are in tribulation ... even in the latter days, if thou turn to God and shall be obedient ... he will not forsake thee ... nor forget the covenant of thy fathers." Deut 4:30-31

PRISONER PLEA: "Virginia Publishing Company: I have a niece dating a black or Spanish man and wanting to marry. All our family are against it but she was never taught racial pride nor God's will for racial separation. She is very religious - I am in prison and can't talk with her. If you will send her something that will reveal God's will about racial marriage - I will pay you whatever you require when I can." Thank you, H.M. - Texas

RKH: For HR readers I am sending her Our Nordic Race, the history of our people, and the pamphlet Can Integrationists Be Saved?

PRISONER-SLAVE: "Dear Dick; The following is included in my parole:

"'You shall participate in an in-patient or an out-patient mental health program as directed by your U.S. Probation Officer. Also, with the Special Condition that you Not Associate With Any Person or Organization Involved in Paramilitary or Subversive Activity or With Any and All White Supremacy/Separatist Organizations.'"

"When I am paroled these parole conditions effectively prevent me from meeting and worshiping with other Christian men and women. With the exception of Establishment churches, ALL Christian congregations are "separatist." Not only that, if that community is patriotic, some probably contain militia members. The result is that if you worship with Christians they can come and pick you up and send you back to prison whenever they like." M.S. - Virginia

UNFILTERED NEWS

AIDS KILLER: In 1994, the HIV virus overtook homicide as the leading killer of African Americans aged 25-44. One out of every three black male fatalities in the 25-44 age bracket is the result of AIDS. (12/8 H. Times) Blacks constitute only 12 % of the population, but make up 40% of all AIDS cases. Over 60% of all children with AIDS are black. Yet black leaders are derelict in confronting and warning of this. (Meanwhile, the 10/14 USN&WR said a report indicates that racism may be reversing. It found that blacks charged with serious crimes like murder, rape and drug trafficking are more likely than whites to be acquitted by juries. Cavalry Contender, Jan 1, 1997, 1800 Sparkman Drive, Huntsville, AL 35816

Europe

BLACK BABIES: It is believed that ten thousand Nigerian babies have been given to unregistered foster parents in Britain to raise. They are being looked after by white women who are paid £20-30 per week by the parents. The children are left to be educated at the expense of the British taxpayer, and then, sometimes, once adult, they are picked up again by their parents. (Internet; Aug 23, 1996; http:// ngwwmall.com/ frontier/ bnp/stop.htm

---

REPATRIATION: Three out of ten Afro-Caribbeans in Leicestershire want to return to their homeland, according to a study by the Scarman Centre at Leicester University. It reflects the disillusionment of many strangers in Britain. (http://ngwwmall. com/frontier/bnp /stop.htm)

VATICAN CIA ALLIANCE: "The 10/96 Reader's Digest article "John Paul II and the Hidden History of Our Time," revealed an alliance between the "Holy See and the Reagan Administration." In frequent talks between "fervent Catholic" CIA Director William Casey, the Polish pope was given photos, from U.S. spy satellites, of vital interest concerning Soviet troop maneuvers in Poland. "The Pope was the beneficiary of some of America's most carefully guarded secrets ..." Cavalry Contender, October 15, 1996, 1800 Sparkman

Drive, Huntsville, AL 35816

FRENCH ANTI-RACISM: The French cabinet backed a plan to tighten anti-racism laws and increase penalties for racist statements. The bill was drafted after National Front Leader Jean-Marie Le Pen said, "Yes, I believe in racial inequality, certainly, it's obvious.' Under the bill, a racial statement could be a fine of up to $60,000 and a year in prison. If the statement is judged to be an incitement to discrimination, hatred or violence, the punishment would be $100,000 and two years in prison." Internet (anton88@concentric.net)

AUSTRIA: Austria's right-wing Freedom Party won almost 28% of the vote in elections for European Parliament legislators, less than 2% behind the ruling Social Democrats. The Freedom Party's leader, Joerg Haider said, "When Turkish children demand protection money from our children at the playground, it's time to say, 'This is our state.' The Austrian vote was interpreted widely in Europe as a signal of growing blue-collar disaffection with red front politics.

News From Eastern Europe

POLAND: Roads in Poland are becoming increasingly dangerous for tourist drivers. The number of hold-ups has trebled during the past few years. Attackers have the latest Kalashnikovs (AK-47's), their own radio equipment and fast Western cars. The hold-ups usually follow the same pattern: the sedan stops cross-wise, masked and armed men leap from the car. The victims are robbed of money, jewelry and other valuables. According to the Polish police, German tourists are often shadowed from the time they cross the border and are then held up at a suitably deserted place." Insider 15 August

1996, PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA

RKH: Strangers took over Saxon-governed Russia and killed millions of the Saxon Russ who had lived there for more than two thousand years. Slavic Poland killed hundreds of thousands more and drove millions of others away. Saxons are the world's wealth creators. When they vanish, the wealth they left behind is consumed for a time, and when it is gone the people are forced to feed on each other and any victim they can find. When these sources of wealth are gone they relapse into barbarism. Without Saxon help, Eastern Europe in time will look like Virginia when first seen by Captain John Smith in 1607.

HUNGARIAN TRIBUTE: The parliament of Hungary voted to set up a foundation to compensate "holocaust survivors." The foundation will be set up with assets including property, antiques, cash and compensation coupons. Hungary's government agreed to form the foundation after talking with the World Jewish Congress. (Internet (anton88@cris.com)

From The Mid East

TWA 800: "In November 1985, one Omar Mohammed Ali Rezaq hijacked an Egypt Air Jet in Athens. Rezaq acted on the instructions of Abu Nidal and his Palestinian extremists. The plane landed in Valetta on Malta. The Maltese government authorized the storming of the aircraft by clumsy Egyptian commandos. In the course thereof, 60 people, including an American and an Israeli, lost their lives. The Maltese sentenced Rezaq to 25 years imprisonment. He was granted a pardon after 7 years. The American FBI trailed him to Nigeria, where they arrested him in 1993. Abu Nidal's headquarters warned against a resumption of proceedings against Rezaq. The USA however ignored this warning. In the week preceding the Olympic Games, a jury in Washington once more found the 38-year-old guilty. Twenty-four hours later, the TWA jet exploded en route from New York to Paris. 230 people died." Insider September 1996, PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA

RKH: By invading sovereign foreign states and kidnaping foreign nationals to be tried in American kangaroo courts, America's FBI Ruby Ridge assassins are bringing down the wrath of an enraged world on innocent American citizens. The FBI, CIA and BATF are proving themselves to be nothing more than private armies directed by the likes of Waco Bill Clinton. They should be disbanded before they incite retaliation that could plunge the world into a nuclear holocaust.

News From South Africa

RATTE CASE: "The verdict in the Cmdt. Ratte appeal case has today, 7 Oct 1996, been postponed till February 4, 1997." Friends of Cmdt. Wilhelm Friedrich Ratte, Internet.

RKH: By delaying their decision until February, Madela's advisors have managed to keep Commandant Ratte muzzled until the media can defuse his case.

CUBAN DOCTORS: Cuban doctors in SA were criticized in government debate as having the qualifications comparable to those of a trained nursing sister.

CRIME: Colored inhabitants of Cape province have taken law enforcement into their own hands and have killed a number of locally known gangsters. The police are now guarding the homes of all locally known gangsters to keep them safe from the anger of an abused citizenry.

HOME AGAIN: Afrikaner Boers, who had sold their farms in S. Africa and followed the call of African governments offering tax- free earnings, cheap and fertile land and good rainfall, have been disillusioned and are now returning. A third of the emigrant families have returned fro the Congo alone. They have given up because of the complete absence of any infrastructure whatsoever and the primitive nature of farming conditions. Promises made by agricultural leaders and even by the world bank which is supporting the project did not materialize." Impact, August 1996, P.O. Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA, $30/yr.

MATTHYS DE VILLIERS: "You have never lived until you have almost died. For those who fight for it, life has a flavour the protected will never know." .... Matthys "Barefoot Thysie" de Villiers, during his incarceration in Pretoria Central Prison, 1996. Patriot Review, August 2, 1996

RKH: de Villiers is accused of having executed the anti-Saxonist dharma-priest, Johan Heyns. He was captured by renegade white police in the pay of Mandela's government.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 270

AGENTS PROVOCATEUR

The Mission

"During the trial of AWB members (S. African Militia) accused of planting bombs before the 1994 election, it was revealed that an 'agent provocateur'[1] working for the de Klerk government was responsible for infiltrating the group and suggesting a plan of sabotage to disrupt the election.

"One is inclined to think this is a peculiar S. African malaise, made even more pernicious because it is Afrikaner against Afrikaner. Yet it occurs in the land of the free and the home of the brave. And it always seems to be against the

1 Agent provocateur: "A secret agent hired to penetrate some organization to incite trouble designed to make the organization or its members incur punishment." Am Heritage Dictionary, 1981

Right.

"Creating an enemy is an old trick, and it is in the interests of the left to perpetuate the idea that it is now the so-called right wing which is the reservoir of political terrorism. The American FBI infiltrated a small, unassuming militia group in Georgia who were urged to manufacture pipe bombs. In the same manner, an agent of the Israeli Shin Bet intelligence service was installed as head of Eyal, a so-called right wing extremist group which included Yigal Amier who eventually assassinated Prime Minister Shimon Peres. In Canada, it was recently disclosed that one Grant Bristow, co-founder of the 'racist' Heritage Front, was actually a paid informant of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service. Bristow used skinheads to launch attacks on Heritage Front opponents." Review, September 27, 1996

==========

Revolution and Counter-Revolution

White South Africa was betrayed by renegade rulers who had been corrupted by the International Trade Cartel (ITC). On orders from their masters they obediently handed the reins of government to the Marxist coalition organized and led by the communist Joe Slovo, with Mandela being the figurehead and furnishing the manpower.

After the marxists were safely ensconced in office with the police power of the state in their grasp, the Whites suddenly realized that they had been betrayed, disfranchised, and were prisoners living in their own country at the mercy of alien rulers. Realizing also that their own leaders had betrayed them and that there would be no last minute reprieve, a few patriotic individuals launched their own individual attacks on the new government and its supporters. It was a weak enough rebellion, but, a rebellion had been expected and plans had been made to deal with it.

Counter-Revolutionary Measures

New revolutionary governments count on the fact that there will be a reaction to their taking over a government. Counter- revolutionary steps are all the same - reprisal.

Reprisal against whom? Since the reaction came from the people - the people will be punished individually or collectively - and punished in such a way that they will learn respect for their new master.

Selecting the Reaction

In the S. African case, the 2nd highest ranking ANC leader, Cris Hani, was shot, as was the anti-Saxonist white Rev. Johan Heynes. Cris Hani had as many enemies within the ANC as without; no one actually knows who shot him - it could have been the ANC itself that had him shot. In any event, political hay was made by selecting Clive Derby-Lewis and Janus Walus as conspiring to assassinate Chris Hani, and young Matthys de Villiers for shooting Heynes. It does not make a whit of difference whether they were guilty or not, Derby-Lewis was a well known spokesman for White resistance, Walus a nobody, and Mattys de Villiers was a "true-to-the-end" Boer resistance fighter. Their arrest was a first step in teaching the White South African that resistance was useless - that every attempt would be nipped in the bud. All three were arrested by White police which left the impression that even their own people were against resistance. It is of absolutely no importance if none of them were guilty of the acts for which they were arrested. Some White resistance figure will be arrested! The media monopoly supports the revolutionary government and the message is that counter-revolution is useless.

Training The Public

"The best defense is a good offense." The best defense of the king is the willing support of his subjects. If they can be made to believe that the king is their friend and protector, and that rebels are blood-thirsty murderers - killers of defenseless women and children - great! People will then turn to the king for protection and help rid the country of rebels.

To develop this frame of mind, modern revolutionary governments commit terrorist acts, such as those committed by "The Trust" in the Soviet Union, and place the blame on those they have selected to be their enemy. After all, a man is known by his enemies.

If a group that is targeted to receive the blame is actually too stupid to make a bomb, the government will lend them one of their experts, to pose as a rebel, to show them how. Not only will the government supply an expert to help patriots make bombs, but the government agent will show them how and where to place the bombs and even select the target to destroy. The targets he selects almost always contain women and children - "innocent" women and children, that is.

After accomplishing his mission, the agent will then blow the whistle and the government swoops in to make mass arrests of "blood-thirsty terrorists" who kill innocent women and children. All this is minutely covered by the media, and editorial comment hammers the message home; "Avoid, turn in, and have no dealings with blood-thirsty, racist, anti-government terrorists who kill innocent women and children."

The selected culprits are tried in the newspapers and then brought to trial, and convicted again. The word - "agent provocateur" is never mentioned.

Short Cut

Dealing with "agents provocateur" is not really necessary. If the king chooses, he can order his agents to set off a bomb to kill the innocent, protest the violence, and then search for a suitable victim. Such a case might be the Georgia sheriff or the three Georgia militiamen that the government involved in the Olympic bombing. They were targeted, and then received the media treatment. The FBI's evidence all pointed their way. The government's evidence always points its finger at the one targeted - if the government agents manufacture the evidence. The fact that the FBI has been doing this for a long time caused some of its own employees to blow the whistle on them.

If the Atlanta Olympic bomb plot had not blown up in the government's face, it is likely that the American people would by now have been persuaded to consider anyone speaking against the government as "the enemy."

Algerian Example

Most people have noticed the fracas presently taking place in Algeria. The conflict has reached the level of open warfare with more than 50,000 people dying over the last few years. Every few days the establishment media report that someone else is shot and shortly thereafter a bomb goes off in a market place killing innocent women and children. Or, a family is massacred with the father, mother, and all the children having their throats cut. Each atrocity is blamed on anti-government "terrorists."

Take for instance the report in the Lynchburg News & Advance, p. 2, Jan 29, 1997. The article states that an assassin shot and killed the leader of Algeria's largest labor union. The article reported, "He was a key presidential ally and an opponent of the Islamic insurgency." A bodyguard and another union official also died in the attack. Hours later a bomb exploded in a crowded marketplace killing 15 people and injuring 30. Both the bombing and the assassinations were blamed on Islamic insurgents.

No outsider really knows what happened, but what probably happened was that Islamic freedom fighters shot an establishment figure and those with him; in retaliation the Algerian government's equivalent of our FBI set off a bomb that killed innocent women and children - which they blamed on the Islamic insurgents. Since over 50,000 people have already been killed in the ongoing war, the establishment has used up ready rebel targets and is now holding the entire populace hostage. "Shoot one of us - we'll kill many of you!" is the unspoken message. The shattered bodies left by the bomb speaks the government's message - "turn in the rebels or take the chance of you or your loved ones being next!"

Most Algerians don't believe for a second that Islamic insurgents set off the bomb, but, what else can the government do? It must show that it is still in control in spite of the newly developed insurgent technique of turning government informers into insurgent agents. Take this recent observation from Biblical Astronomy[2]:

> "Arafat has destroyed the Israeli intelligence network in the disputed territories ...." The article continues; "Israeli intelligence has been surprised by Arafat's effectiveness at taking advantage of Arabs who had served as informers for Israel, 'turning former Palestinian collaborators ... into their guides to the Israeli modus operandi.'"

2 Biblical Astronomy, Jan 1997, PO Box 5272, Oregon City, OR 97045

So, we see evolving techniques of irregular warfare that instead of just killing government informers, they are being reprogrammed and used against the establishment which sent them. This causes distrust within the government intelligence system.

In The United States

America's Clinton revolution is a radical marxist revolution. It places in the White House values Christians have always considered Godless and obnoxious. The figurehead himself is obnoxious. He is everything our fathers and preachers have said we shouldn't have.[3] The takeover had been so carefully orchestrated with the media, government and religion working together that the opposition was disorganized, disjointed, and effectively non- existent. There was no more outcry here than there was in South Africa over the marxist takeover of their country.

Basic Premise

We have discussed before how true presbytery representative governments (rule from the bottom up) has built-in opposition. On the other hand, episcopacies (rule from the top down) allow no real opposition. To stay in power they must destroy each opposition group before it can become strong enough to overthrow the government.

3 The New York Times, on August 13, 1992, p. C1, carried an article by Todd S. Purdum, stating that our president Bill Clinton is a descendant of Irish farmers and Cherokee Indians on his mother's side. The scripture says: "Thou shalt in any wise set him king over thee, whom the Lord thy God shall choose: one from among thy brethren shalt thou set king over thee: thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: nokriy - foreign, adulterous.) over thee, which is not thy brother." De 17:15

This is done by first discovering a group that might one day offer opposition. Then, while it is still in its immature and formative stage - push it into confrontation with government. Government agents acting as technical experts with government funds can help it get into such a confrontation. In this way rebel movements can be easily discredited and destroyed before they become strong enough to become real threats. In this way "the evil empire conquers once again."

The Facts

We have a series of events; Ruby Ridge, Waco, the NY Trade Tower and Oklahoma City, each having a simple media-explanation on the surface, but which raise serious questions if one scratches the surface.

The media relates in great detail how "terrorists" are blowing up America. The media tells us that these terrorists are "racist terrorists", "anti-government terrorists", "militia terrorists", "Islamic terrorists", but, each of the acts of so-called "terror" have been so clumsily done that one is tempted to believe that they were done that way on purpose. No one could be that dumb! Look at it:

RUBY RIDGE A government agent provocateur trapped an otherwise innocent man into a government firearms charge. He is given a wrong court date so that he misses trial. The matter is given nationwide publicity for an entire year. A thousand men with armored vehicles and government helicopters are sent to take out the little family. They wounded the man and his friend, killed his dog, his son and his wife. An FBI spokesman made daily announcements which prove to be disinformation - and he did it in an arrogant manner that almost appeared to be done purposely to antagonize the listener. The FBI did everything that it is not supposed to do - including clumsy cover-ups - such as shredding pertinent documents. They used the killer of the Ruby Ridge mother as a tank driver at Waco. The FBI was found guilty in a court trial and the government paid substantial compensation, but it then refused to bring the guilty agents to trial for murder. The Federal marshals department added insult by giving commendation medals to all its agents who participated in the massacre.

WACO: While Ruby Ridge was still in progress, the media began their campaign against the church complex at Waco. Media spokesmen accused them of child abuse, manufacturing illegal guns, drugs, etc. Without bothering to present a warrant, or, according to reports, even bothering to get one until after the assault, the ATF stormed in and were captured by amateur pick-me- up residents armed with shotguns, who foolishly released their prisoners.

Another arrogant FBI announcer was installed who again made the same kind of unbelievable Ruby Ridge type announcements. Various innocent residents of the complex were shot down in cold blood and left hanging on fences or in open fields for crows to pick; men women and children were machine-gunned through the roof by helicopters. Then the remaining men, women and children were burned alive. The FBI announced that they had burned themselves after committing mass suicide. The FBI then bulldozed the evidence before it could be inspected by impartial investigators. The bodies which would have confirmed the type of bullets used to kill them before being burned were placed in a morgue. Someone turned off the refrigeration so that the bodies decomposed destroying the forensic evidence. The remains were then pushed into a mass grave.

TRADE TOWERS: An effort was made to blow up one of New York's trade towers. If the truck had been parked a few feet away next to a major support, instead of a few people being killed, 50,000 could have been killed. A group of Islamic zealots were blamed. Evidence was presented. The defense presented tapes showing that a government agent had instigated the whole thing including showing the group how to make the bomb.

The government did not step in to stop the explosion that one of their agents made possible, but arrested the Arab group after the event. It would appear that the government was showing the American public that it did not care about the fate of the 50,000 people who worked in that building. Think about that!

OKLAHOMA CITY The bombing of the Federal Building in Oklahoma City is so obvious that it hardly requires comment. Scores of innocent women and children were killed. I have heard a talk by one of the foremost explosives experts in the United States to the effect that the building supports on the third floor had to have been drilled to do the damage that was done. It was a federal building! Who has access to the third floor on the inside of federal buildings? Feds! How many feds were killed - none. Why? They had received information not to come to work that morning. Who was blamed? Everyone. Islamic zealots, payback Waco zealots, militias, Christian Right-wingers, White supremists, and now a lonesome loner. What does almost every American who knows anything at all about these events believe? They believe the feds did it. Could all of these mistakes be made by chance?

Result

In every situation named above, the government appears to have been involved. The government appears to have committed murderous acts - each time leaving clues - clues that that point right back to itself.

The result is that the people of the United States believe that the Federal Government is either entirely culpable or in large measure responsible. They believe that the government of the United States is dangerous - that it kills its own people for no apparent reason. As a consequence, militias are forming all over the country for self-protection.

Thinking The Unthinkable

Students of Turkic and Oriental warfare know that these people prefer to attack an enemy who is divided - one engaged in a civil war. If possible, such conflicts are encouraged - even financed. Consider the following:

Many countries have A-Bombs and H-Bombs and ICBM delivery systems, but only Russia, Israel, and China have these and also have bomb shelters for their populations - shelters stocked with food.

Not only that, there are only three countries in the world who employ anti-missile missiles to guard against incoming Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles - the same Russia, Israel and China. The other countries of the world have none - they are defenseless.

While the US perfected the anti-missile missile, it does not employ these missiles for its own defense. It gave the missile to the Israelis to employ for their own defense, and the Israelis gave it to China who employs it for their defense.

This means that the only three nations in the world which have ICBMs, food stocked bomb shelters for their populations, AND, employ anti-missile missiles are - Russia, Israel, and China. This gives them an enormous military advantage.

The Khazar-Turk in America is attracting attention by his insistance on being appointed to almost all sensitive government posts. The oriental is being noticed because of insertion of money and his presence into American politics. Buddhist religious leaders such as the Rev. Moon are being noticed hosting American Judeo-Christian leaders such as Pat Robinson and Jerry Falwell - fanning the suspicion that the Christian religion is being removed as a threat to the stranger.

The dream of Attila the Hun was to unite all Turkic tribes under his rule. The dream of Ghengis Khan expanded this dream to include the children of the east with his Turkic tribes.

It could be that in spite of well publicized family spats, this Turkic/Oriental union has already been achieved. It could be that the ancient Turkic war technique of infiltrating advance guards of Turkic peoples into targeted lands and using Turkic money to bribe the enemy leaders has taken place. Today's American government, quietly selected by alien media owners, has replaced the government of the Saxon peoples. America's government is no more Saxon than DeKlerks government was Saxon, Australia's government is Saxon, or the European governments are Saxon. The judges hired by these alien governments dispense alien justice and the police and armed services they hire serve alien masters and enforce alien statutes.

The leader of the Western World is the United States. Its media- elected government has taught the people through Ruby Ridge, Waco, Trade Towers and Oklahoma City that it is dangerous to their health and well being. If this government is instructed by the media-owners to order America's armed services to attack its own people, its arms bearing citizens, bringing on a civil war in America - what then do you think America's enemies would do?

The thought is worth considering.[4]

CONCLUSION OF THE GORDON SELLNER SAGA

"On the charge of Attempt, Deliberate Homicide, Gordon Sellner was sentenced to life imprisonment. And for the use of a dangerous weapon - an additional 10 years."[5]

Background

In 1973, "Gordon Sellner stopped filing and paying income taxes when the supreme court ruled that it was OK to murder babies."[6] In 1988, the IRS brought charges against him to make him pay taxes. In 1992, the IRS sold his interest in their property. On March 4, 1992 he was stopped for expired registration, no insurance, and no drivers license. On May 4, 1992 Gordon Sellner wrote the following declaration; "Because the court refused to let me use and or even bring up

4 If this scenario is true - read Ezekial 38 and 39 to discover its ending.

5 Recent letter from Roberta Sellner.

6 Quotes are those of his wife, Roberta Sellner, unless otherwise indicated, copied from HR #252, Sept 2, 1995.

his religious or constitutional beliefs and right she registered his protest at the county court house:"

"Whereas, the State has outlawed the Christian God in schools and public buildings.

"Whereas the state has mandated man's insurance.

"Whereas, the State is unlawfully taxing the people.

"Whereas, the State has forced oppressive regulations upon the people.

"Whereas, the State has become a law breaker and is making and enforcing laws against Jesus Christ and the laws, statutes and judgments of the Christian Bible.

"Whereas, the State has elevated its laws above those of King Jesus.

"Whereas, the State, under threats of fines or imprisonments, is attempting to force me to honor its laws above the laws of the Christian Bible.

"Whereas, the 1st Commandment forbids me to have any gods above the God of the Bible. To do so amounts to Baal worship, which I will not do.

"Whereas, I have done everything in my power to live peacefully and have harmed no one.

"I must now make a decision. The State of Montana's own constitution recognizes that all people are born free. As a free- born person, I will make my own choice of whom I will serve and will not have the State force its choice on me.

"The Bible says you cannot serve two masters. (Joshua 24:15, Matt. 6:24, Luke 6:13)

"Whether it means life or death, I will serve the Lord Jesus Christ, my only Master and King, as a servant or if needs be as a soldier. Furthermore, since I have a King, my citizenship is in His Kingdom. I am therefore not to be considered a citizen of the state of the forum, but rather a non-resident alien."

"Gordon D. Sellner, Subscribed and sworn to before me this 2nd day of March, 1992, Kirk Penrod, Notary Public for Flathead County, State of Montana, My Commission expires 4-1-94, Published in the Bigfork Eagle 3-4-92"[7]

7 Internet 2:02 p.m., 8/11/95

Sellner's wife, Roberta, continued the story:

"A jury trial was set. Gordon named Jesus Christ as his choice of counsel (meaning that he would stand before the WORD). The court did not accept his choice of counsel. Gordon then refused to appear at trial and one was held in absentia. Gordon was found guilty on all three above described charges, fined $430, given six months in jail with all but four days suspended. Gordon was then arrested at our home and served his four days. When Gordon came home he stated that after being in state court twice and federal court once, and seeing how both systems are totally satanic, he would never go to jail again, or enter another courtroom."

EDITOR'S NOTE: It is important for the reader to understand the severe trauma Law violaton brings to a Christian. Heathen forget that to them the WORD is God.[8]

There is to be no kidnaping, lying, murder, adultery, sodomy, etc. in the land. If there is the punishment is severe,[9] far more severe than anything that can be dispensed by man.

Gordon Sellner made his living sawing and planing tim-

8 "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1

9 "If thou wilt not ... do all the words of the law ... the Lord will make thy plagues ... great plagues, and of long continuance, and sore sicknesses ... all the diseases of Egypt ... they shall cleave unto thee. Also every sickness, and every plague ... until thou be destroyed. And ye will be left few in number ... because thou wouldest not obey the voice of the Lord thy God ... ye shall be plucked from off the land ... and thou shall fear day and night, and shalt have none assurance of thy life." Deut 58:66; "Therefore will I number you to the sword, and ye shall all bow down to the slaughter, because when I called ye did not answer, when I spake, ye did not hear; but did evil before mine eyes, and did choose that wherein I delighted not." Isaiah 65:12; "It shall come to pass ... the blessing and the curse ... and thou shalt call them to mind ... and shalt ... obey his voice ... then the Lord thy God will turn thy captivity (reverse your status)." Deut 30:1-3 ber. He lived far out in the Montana countryside where neighbors were few. He left people alone and people left him alone.

Self Defense?

One night he was riding home with a kinsman when a police car came up behind them with flashing lights. Gordon jumped out of the car and ran into the woods. The deputy gave chase calling out "stop or I'll shoot." Gordon tripped and fell and rolled over - the deputy was aiming his pistol at him. Gordon drew and shot first. The bullet hit the deputy's bullet-proof vest and spun him around. Further shots were exchanged and the deputy left to join other police in the road.

Sellner spent a month in the mountains. He managed to survive the cold by squeezing into a hollow tree. Later he was able to get clothing and supplies from home, but, from then on he was "wanted."

Wanted signs went up over the county. Gordon countered by taking down the wanted signs and putting up wanted signs for the Sheriff - telling the county why he was being hunted. Support for Sellner grew and an informal neighborhood watch was set up to warn him if the sheriff came. Feeling relatively protected, Sellner again began to run his saw mill to make a living for his wife and children. Neighbors continued their lookout.

The Shooting

The SWAT team sniper took careful aim and squeezed off his shot. Gordon Sellner, standing in his yard and on his own property, dropped like a rock. Twenty men jumped out of the bushes where they had been hiding. One held a shotgun against Sellner's head. Two others rolled him over, snapped on cuffs, dragged him 50 feet to a pickup truck, threw him in the back and drove off. That ended a three year standoff.

Guilty

Is Gordon Sellner guilty? This is what the state says.

> "... for his heinous act of attempting to kill a deputy sheriff in the performance of his duty ... IT IS THE SENTENCE AND JUDGMENT OF THIS COURT that for the offense ... the Defendant is sentenced to life imprisonment."

The deputy sheriff involved entered a statement into record which said;

> "...Gordon Sellner became convinced he was called upon by God (Yahu) to fight those who did not believe as he did. ... Gordon Sellner should be kept in prison until he is an old man who no longer wishes to impose his vision of Armageddon on those around him."

The Sellner saga is the result of what had gone on before.

Conclusion

Before the merchant can come into a new market to buy and sell he must first make friends with the god of that land, or else, the god of that land may tell his followers to kill the merchant. Being killed removes all profit from trade.

After making friends with its god, the merchant can freely enter the market area where he hires a king to protect his interests.

If the international merchant has entered the land and is buying and selling, he can only do so with the assent and concord of both king and priest.[10] Further, if the international merchant has in fact made "arrangements" with the market's kings and priests it becomes obvious that neither will fault the violation of the Law which is the God of the Christian people of the cartel's selected market.

It further becomes obvious that violations of the Law, which is the God of the Christian, will anger more and more people as time passes who will join in the revolt, people who will feel that the latest ruling or decree is the "last straw" before God's punishment descends on the nation. There will be more and more until there is a tidal wave to wash away the evils in the land, or, until the last Gordon Kahl is killed and the last Gordon Sellner is safely tucked away in prison.

In the end there will be a return to a Christian nation, or the obliteration of the people who were promised by the WORD:

> "Thus saith the Lord which giveth the sun ... and the ordinances of the moon and of the stars ... If those ordinances depart ... then the seed of Israel also shall cease from being a nation before Me ... ." Jeremiah 31:35-36.

Gordon Sellner has been sentenced to life imprisonment and his wife goes to trial for helping her husband; the Sellner saga is now one more stepping stone on the road to Armageddon.

LETTERS

EPISCOPALIANISM: "Dear Richard: You come down hard on 'episcopalianism' (rule from the top down), please elaborate." R.C. - Virginia

RKH: Tyranny is difficult to implement in a presbyterian system (rule from the bottom up). Since tyrants rule from the top down, they only have to take control of an existing episcopal system to rule everything. The establishment may secretly back an enemy episcopal system in hopes of putting their man in at the top at a later date. Without an episcopal system the ITC could not build its Establishment.

7TH YEAR: "Richard, Hi! Question: In God's Law the focal point is the 7th year of rest. In that year we are to let the land rest and cancel all debts. These two rules if followed would solve a great many of our problems." L.J. - California

RKH: The banks in Culpeper County, Virginia, in the 1930s and '40s only made loans for 7 years. It is interesting that the average home in the U.S. is "owned" for 7 years before people "sell" and move. The 7-year sabbath vision remains alive in the hearts and minds of the remnant and will be implemented when "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done - ON EARTH!"

VIGILANTES OF C.: "Dear Brother Dick; I was transferred and left my Vigilantes Of Christendom[10] behind. It is one of the most effective conversion tools I've found. It makes men read the WORD. They invariably bring it back and say, 'I never knew the Bible said that!' Praise Yah!!! We've got everyone on the block reading the Bible, everyone who will, that is." B.R. - Florida

SUBPOENA

Your editor received a subpoena to appear at a federal court in Spokane Washington as an expert witness FOR THE GOVERNMENT. I had no idea what this was about. I called my attorney. He advised me to not to talk to the FBI who would deliver the subpoena, but have them call him. He then called a Dept of Justice agent in Spokane. She said that all they wanted was for me to tell a jury about the Phineas Priesthood (spoken into existence by God in Numbers #25) rather than have the jury read the 430 pages of Vigilantes. My lawyer asked for a list of the questions they intended asking and she said that she would be glad to send them. I really don't know what they want other than for me to give them a Bible lesson. I'm quite sure I'll have some observations about the goings on in Spokane in the next HR.

10 Vigilantes Of Christendom, Hoskins. VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505. $17/copy.

UNFILTERED NEWS

HELP YORIE KAHL: In 1983, Yorie Kahl and his father,Gordon, were leaving a meeting. Gordon was wanted on a misdemeanor regarding a tax case. Federal marshals ambushed them and severely wounded Yorie, almost killing him. Gordon returned fire and killed two marshals and wounded two others. Yorie was given a "Kangaroo Trial" and has been in prison for 13 years. Attorney John DeCamp and others are trying to get Yorie a new trial, and this costs money. Please send contributions to: Joan Kahl Britton, 3564 Windrift Way #251, Oceanside, California 92056. (Christian Research, PO Box 385, Eureka Springs, Arkansas 72632)

HELP DE LA BECKWITH: Byron de la Beckwith V was acquitted twice of shooting the black agitator Medgar Evers. In a case of triple jeopardy, a cherry picked black jury found him guilty. Information of fed planted evidence has now come to light. It is also charged that anti-Saxonists are trying to stall the case hoping that Beckwith 76, who is in ill health, will die before the new developments can reach the public.

ARGENTINA INVESTIGATION: "The Argentine government may order a new investigation into the 1992 bombing of the Israeli embassy in Buenos Aires. The Justice Minister said that the government will order a new probe only if the Supreme Court accepts findings by the National Academy of Engineers that the explosion was due to a bomb inside the building." Internet ANA: 18 Aug 1996 anton88@cris.com

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 271

PAY BACK TIME

Background

Britain is part of the International Trade Cartel; the royal family figure heads - hired help.

The Protestants in ascendancy in the early 1600s were presbytery Protestants. Protestants are either episcopal or presbytery. Presbytery Protestants look on episcopal Protestants and episcopal Catholics as dunderheads, agents of earthly masters and obedient to their whims; relying on them instead of the WORD to tell them what to believe. Their most recent belief is whatever their most recent master tells them to believe. Episcopals boast of their continuity while Presbyterians see their belief system as spinning like a barn top weathervein. Presbyterians stoutly maintain that unlike the masters of episcopal man, the WORD which is God never changes and that every man is a priest appointed by God and responsible directly to the WORD.

My own family's dealings with the cartel and their hired help has been anything but happy. The first Hoskins immigrant, Bartholomew, came to Jamestown in 1615 at the age of 15. His family sent him here because his brother was a presbytary-Protestant chaplain to an episcopal-Protestant king, something not conducive to longevity. Logic dictated that if the older brother was killed the family would still exist in Virginia.

Young Bartholomew landed at Jamestown, moved to the wilds of Norfolk County, and when he got older, secured land patents in Northumberland County on the Northern Neck, where they again came in contact with Royal authority.

The Virginia Company Rip-Off

Virginia was a business venture launched by the stockholders of the Virginia Company. It was an expensive undertaking. Many died. When it became obvious that the Colony was going to be a commercial success - the crown took it over and Virginia became a Crown possession to exploit. Its old owners lost their investment.

More Rip-Offs

The King, the visible portion of the ITC, claimed Virginia and allocated it as it saw fit.[1] The ruler gave the tremendous land area of Virginia's Northern Neck to two royal favorites, dispossessing hundreds of prior settlers in the process -

---

1 "Then all the elders of Israel ... came to Samuel ... make us a king to judge us like all the nations. ... And Samuel (said) ... This will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you: ... he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants." I Sam 8:11-18 among them - Bartholomew. In effect, Bartholomew, the immigrant, had his land stolen from him by the king.

The king intended to do this over the entire land, but Virginia was too big to be a clone of the British feudal system. Britain could not enforce its claims.

American Feudalism vs. European Feudalism

All land in Britain was claimed by the ruler. This ruler was the Catholic Church. Then, a king was hired to collect the tithes and taxes. He revolted against the Pope and kept the tithes and taxes for himself. The king appointed nobles to help him manage the people and collect taxes. The nobles in turn appointed gentlemen to manage farms and shops. These managers hired and fired workers. The lowest caste was the worker.

For the gentry, employment in the clergy (1st caste) and the army (2nd caste) were the only occupational openings besides managing an inherited estate held en fief from the crown. To provide a means of livelihood for the very large number of younger sons, shopkeeping and the professions eventually became socially acceptable. Thus, the three upper job-castes tended to merge, leaving the worker in the lowest caste from which there was virtually no way to escape. The Jews maintain this caste system today. They will do anything to keep from becoming a member of the lowest worker caste and servant of the others.

Being fired was often a sentence to starve.

The Indian Menace

Virginia's Indian enemies were fierce, its scattered, independent, irreverent, and well-armed Saxon settlers were Virginia's only defense. The Crown needed their good will.

There were 8,000 "well-armed housekeepers." They were organized into trained mounted militia companies. The Royal governor had only 300 royal marines to guard against France and Spain next door who were casting envious looks on the rich lands of Virginia. The Crown needed the good will of these 8,000 well armed housekeepers as a deterrent in case the colony were invaded. Perhaps the day would come when these housekeepers could be disarmed and then the Crown could exact tribute from their land and income. But, for the time, it had to content itself with stamp taxes on manufactures, exports, and legal documents. Virginians like George Washington and Richard Lee objected to even that.

Indians As The Labor Caste

The Cartel planned to use Indians as labor to work the land, mines and industries, as had been done further south in New Spain, with the British settlers to be managers. But the North American Indians wouldn't work. The king's missionaries had taught them the king's Episcopal religion that was supposed to "gentle them" and make them subservient to their English masters.[2] They were taught that the King and his priests were God's representatives on earth and to disobey them was the same as disobeying God. But, they still wouldn't work. They continued warlike, treacherous, and indolent to productive pursuits. Besides producing a few pelts, their only value was as future allies against possible French and Spanish encroachments. Other than that they were worthless as workers to develop Britain's new colony.

---

2 "Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you." Matt. 7:6

The Next Royal Run-in

Bartholomew had a son named Capt. John Hoskins (1625-1680). He owned ships and land. His boy Thomas (1650-1710) moved to St. Stephens Parish, New Kent County (later King and Queen). At that time this was the frontier. Indian raids were a usual occurrence.

The king had appointed Governor Berkley to be royal governor. The office was a political plum. Royal Governors were paid handsomely by the struggling colonists. The governor's salary absorbed half the income of the entire colony, but still this was not enough. Berkley using his royal prerogative and made the fur trade with the Indians his own private monopoly. This monopoly, small in its parts, more than equaled his large colonial salary in the aggregate. Berkley did not want anything to disturb this trade. He ignored little incidents like Indian raids that took a few scalps of Virginia's women and children here and there.

The colony was incensed. At long last a young man named Nathanial Bacon went over the governor's head and called up the militia. Virginia's militia destroyed the offending indians - and the governors lucrative fur trade. The governor was furious.

A war was fought - Bacon's Rebellion (1675). My ancestor, Thomas, served under Bacon. When Bacon lost, my ancestor joined the "little house Virginians" when the Royal Governor confiscated his lands.[3] 3 It is not a compliment in Virginia to produce ancestors who lived in the big houses on the James. That meant that they fought for the king's governor and were awarded the estates of those who fought with Bacon. I have ancestors who fought on both sides.

Crown Slavery

The confiscation of Bartholomew Hoskins' land on the Northern Neck and the confiscation of Thomas Hoskins' land in New Kent/King & Queen may be mere blips in the history of Virginia to others, but, we Hoskins remember. It was our land. We remember that we were punished for defending ourselves against the Indians. We also remember how the Crown forced Blacks slaves on us to manage and feed - and then stole them from us.

Virginia's money crop was tobacco. Soon, it became apparent that Indians could not be made to work on farms. This left the cartel with high cost Saxon labor to produce tobacco. Royal statutes stated that tobacco could only be sold to Britain, and only for the low prices set by the government. The British re- packaged the product and resold it at high prices over the rest of Europe. If Virginia had more cheap labor they could produce more cheap tobacco to be sold to Britain who resold it at high prices elsewhere. Black slaves were the answer. Cheap tobacco was the reason for the King's insistence that Virginia accept black slaves.

Virginia Protests Slavery

While Virginians were fighting continuous bloody wars with the Red strangers on the frontier,[4] the Crown was busily inserting Black strangers into the plantations behind them. Virginians knew the detrimental effect of having strangers living in their midst:[5]

---

4 "I will deliver the inhabitants of the land into your hand; and thou shalt drive them out before thee. Thou shalt make no covenant with them ... they shall not dwell in thy land." Ex 23:31-33

"Again and again they (the Virginians) passed laws restraining the importation of negroes from Africa, but their laws were disallowed. How to prevent them from protecting themselves against the increase of the overwhelming evil was debated by the King in council; and on the 10th of December 1770, he issued an instruction under his own hand commanding the Governor 'upon pain of the highest displeasure, to assent to no law by which the importation of slaves should be in any respect prohibited or obstructed.'" History of the US, Bancroft, Vol III, p. 410. Quoted in Vigilantes Of Christendom, Hoskins

Matters came to a head in 1774 when the Virginia Colonial Convention revolted and resolved:

"We will neither ourselves import, nor purchase any slave or slaves imported by any other person, after the first day of November, next, either from Africa, the West Indies or any other place.[6]

Declaration Of Independence

This culminated in The Unamimous Declaration of The Thirteen United States Of America, called the Declaration Of Independence which charges that among the many injuries the king inflicted on Americans:

"He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us (the slaves) and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions."

5 "Thou shall make no covenant with them... they shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21-24

6 Bancroft, Vol IV, p. 445.

The Royal Cartel Government paid the Indians for each Saxon scalp they brought in - man, woman or child. All were the same. The King's agents provided leaders for Indian raiding parties, and furnished them arms and supplies. They were able to do this because these Indians had been taught by the Episcopal Anglican religion that the King was God's representative on earth, and that it was his will that the American rebels be destroyed by fire and scalping knife. Of course, it is more difficult to make this work if the Indians were converted by another episcopal agency. In the earlier war between France and England (French and Indian War), the Indians converted by Catholic missionaries fought for Catholic France and those converted by Anglican missionaries fought for Anglican England. Presbytery Christians denounce both by pointing to the WORD.[7]

Comeuppance

Thomas Hoskins' great grandson, Col. Robert Hoskins (1755- 1815) inherited a great hatred for the Crown and as soon as war broke out his militia unit volunteered and served as part of the 1st Virginia Continental Line. This regiment[8] fought throughout the entire war against the king. Robert was at Valley Forge. The regiment witnessed the final surrender,

7 (1) "He showed his word unto Jacob, his statutes and his judgments unto Israel. He hath not dealt so with any nation: and as for his judgments, they have not known them." Ps 147:19-20; (2) "Children of Israel... You only have I known of all the families of the earth." Deut 7:6; (3) "I was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel, and to them alone." Matt 15:24.

8 The 1st Virginia (Richmond Light Infantry Blues) went across the killing fields of Gettysburg. My father and I both served in this regiment.

and also watched Col. Tarlton, commander of Lord Cornwallis' cavalry - the butcher who burned houses and hanged prisoners - walk away unpunished.

The Crown Cartel had taken Bartholomew's land; it took Thomas's land; and now, the Hoskins didn't get their land back, but for the first and only time in the almost 400 years they have lived in Virginia, Hoskins witnessed the ITC jack-booted thugs stacking their arms and colors - beaten - almost.

The Saxon Repatriation Movement

With American independence won, Virginia led the way to rid herself of Black slavery.[9]

The British Cartel had forced Black slaves on Virginia to increase cheap production of Virginia tobacco. Slaves provided the needed workers. Their presence drove down the wage levels of White workers over all the land. Virginians determined to rid themselves of the unwanted Blacks; buy them from their masters, train them and settle them in their own country in Africa.

The implementation of the repatriation plan found its first practical advocate in the colonization plans of Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson owned over 200 slaves. He could not legally free them because they were part of the collateral for debts he had inherited from his father-in-law.[10] It was his intention, as economic circumstances permitted, to buy them and repatri-

9 When slave owning Virginia spun off her counties of Ohio and Michigan as states, one condition she imposed was that slaves would not be allowed into their territories.

10 A historical fact that establishment apologists on the Cartel payroll ignore in their stampede to smear Thomas Jefferson for his part in the War for Independence.

ate them to Africa.

In 1816, the organization began to acquire African land to create what was to become the Black Republic of Liberia colonized by former American slaves. The American Colonization Society was its sponsor. Henry Clay presided.

In 1817, funds began to be solicited to buy slaves and repatriate them. Males were to be bought at the age of 21 and females at the age of 18 and repatriated. Blacks older than 21 were to be allowed to remain in America and die of old age. Tens of thousands of former slaves found new lives in their own country of Liberia.

Cartel Reaction

One of the primary activities of the International Trade Cartel is manufacturing. They manufacture cheap and sell dear. The key component of cost control is labor. Few laborers result in high cost; many laborers result in low cost. The Colonization Society's repatriation movement removed potential workers which threatened to increase production costs and was therefore diametrically opposed to Cartel interests.

While Virginia and her sister states saw the Black slave population as being against the interests of the Saxon and turned their attention to ridding themselves of it, and were opening up Jefferson's Louisiana Purchase, Cartel agents were busy setting up usury banks and manufacturing in the northeast. With bribes,[11] they persuaded the luminaries of the Revolution to allow the Cartel to set up a central bank monopoly called the Second Bank of the United States.[12]

11 See War Cycles/Peace Cycles, Hoskins

Using front men and supplying them with unlimited funds from this bank, the ITC bought up urban newspapers and manufacturing facilities.

President Andy Jackson declared war on this 2nd Bank and drove it into bankruptcy. When its stockholder list was made public the owners were found to be all British. Read that again - British! Cartel men of the crown. The American colonies who had just finished fighting a war for their independence were already back under the domination of the very same Royal Government whose armies they had just banished from their country. The fact that the 2nd Bank had gone out of business made no difference; the seed had been sown. The agents who had run the newly formed banks were Cartel men, hired help, cartel agents. With few exceptions, America's large urban banks were cartel banks under agent management - and the industries they bought were cartel industries - under agent management. These industries desperately needed cheap labor.

Developing The Market

To get cheap labor for the new industry the owners of the newly purchased newspapers needed Cartel politicians in office to enact necessary legislation. To elect these politicians, cartel newspapers publicized cartel politicians and ignored others. Once in office these media-selected cartel politicians demanded immigration. Millions of Europe's surplus workers migrated to become wage slaves in the slums of American cities - a decided step up for European workers.

---

12 "He that hath not given forth upon usury ... he shall surely live ... Hath given forth upon usury ... he shall surely die." Ez 18:8-13

Fueled with this relatively cheap labor, American industry and output grew by leaps and bounds. Production grew much faster than did the markets available in which to sell it. Thus, the low cost European immigrant labor was gradually looked on as being "high cost labor."

The Reason For Radical Abolition

The thing needed to keep labor cheap was a continuing pool of surplus labor. The biggest reservoir of labor nearby was the African slaves owned in the South. All that was needed to avail themselves of this labor pool was to destroy the Repatriation Movement, free the remaining slaves, and put them to work as wage-slaves in the factories. Of course this would involve the destruction of the Self-Sufficient Farm System of the South.

Radical Abolition worked like a charm. The urban Cartel newspapers launched a campaign of vituperation against the South that surpassed anything seen before. Southerners were pictured as being rich neer-do-wells sitting on front verandas sipping mint juleps and whipping slaves. Repatriation, buying the slaves and sending them to their own country in Africa, was never mentioned. The radical abolitionists demanded that the South free their slaves now without compensation. This guaranteed that there would be war. A $2,000 slave would be worth the same as a brand new expensive automible today. Who is going to sit back and watch someone steal his car?

The Cartel determination to gain access to the cheap Black slave labor in the South was the reason radical abolition was born.

Hoskins Involved Once Again

Robert Hoskins fought for six years in the Revolution. He lived at the Dragon and had a few slaves. His grandson, Dr. William Hoskins, married Janet Carter Roy. The Roy's were descended from Scots who had been dispossessed of their land in Scotland by the Cartel. Transported to Virginia they had prospered and now owned 10,000 acres in King and Queen. That was quite a marriage for William. The war came and took the land, slaves, everything.

At gunpoint Southerners were forced to sign the 13th Amendment to the Constitution which ex-post facto legalized stealing the slaves from their owners without compensation for use by the Cartel. Next the 14th amendment was rail-roaded through (it was never ratified) giving the slaves the right to vote. Southern Whites were then denied the right to vote and Black rulers were put in office in the South. Carpet baggers were sent to tutor them to raise taxes to astronomical heights. Dr. William Hoskins lost his plantation to a tax free Northern Land Company (Chesapeake Corporation). The Cartel had again reaped the Hoskins family; First Bartholomew, then Thomas and next William - in just two and a half centuries.

My father, John, was a doctor. After WWI he went to Hazard, Kentucky, borrowed $50,000 from a Cartel bank, and bought a hospital. In the 1920-22 bust, the price of coal dropped to a fifth of what it had been and and Dad's patients couldn't pay their bills. Dad lost his hospital to a cartel bank. Now it was Bartholomew, Thomas, William, and John.

The Grizzly Valley in Western Canada was discovered to have the richest gas field in North America. The company formed to develop it borrowed money to put in gas lines to hook the field up to the United States Market. I bought two partnerships for $17,000. The Canadian Government then enacted a law forbidding Canadians to sell natural gas to the United States. To sell gas my company would be forced to build a pipeline thousands of miles long crossing Canada from west to east. It did not have the money for that and the banks would not lend them the money. Since they were now forbidden to sell gas to the United States, there was no income to pay on the existing company debt. The banks foreclosed the company and I lost every dime I had put in it.

As soon as the company was foreclosed, Canada repealed the law and the company started pumping gas to the United States under new owners. Now the list reads Bartholomew, Thomas, William, John and Richard.

Remember

The motto of my mother's family is Remember. My family remembers. I remember that we have been robbed time and again by the royal cartel and its American subsidiary and have never received a cent of restitution.

If Blacks can demand indemnity from Saxons for being brought as slaves to America, and if Jews can get compensation from the Saxon taxpayer by claiming to be our best friends in the Near East, why shouldn't the descendants of Saxons victimized generation after generation by the Cartel pass these demands on to the Cartel for collection. And while we are at it, why shouldn't Saxons like the Hoskins and 200,000,000 others present their own bills for collection? Why shouldn't we be compensated for the theft of Bartholomew's lands, of Thomas' land, of Dr. William's land. Why shouldn't we be compensated for the usury loan that caused the bankruptcy of my father? Why shouldn't I be compensated for the theft of my interest in the Canadian gas company?

Reparations

I figure that I individually am personally due at least $500,000,000 dollars in direct claims for wrongs done to me and my family in America by the Cartel. I figure that just about every person reading this report is due at least $500,000,000 or more, and these aren't frivolous slavery hardship or spurious holocaust survivor claims. These are real claims for real property stolen from me and my family, and the families of millions of my fellow Saxons kinsmen by the cartel or its agents.

Discovering Assets To Pay Claims

Where is the money to come from to pay the Saxon claims? The cartel has always known that there would be a payback time, which is why they have gone to such lengths to hide their plunder. They have done a good job in covering their trail, but not good enough. A bloody trail leads to their dens.

* Thomas Jefferson bought the Louisiana Purchase, a land area equal to more than double the land area of the existing United States. He meant for it to be given to his people. However, only part was distributed. A full 38% still remains in the hands of the king who allows his favorites the use of it. This land is immediately available for division.

* Gigantic tax-exempt foundations hide trillions - most in the stock form. This is immediately available for division.

* The Federal Reserve central banking system comprises a giant pool of wealth. It can be shut down in a move to non-usury banking[13] and its holdings divided.

* Both Anglican and Catholic churches operate hundreds of usury banks. These Christian entities, crushed under the weight of sin accumulated for centuries, undoubtedly consumed with remorse for their un-Christian and un-Lawful usury lending, will naturally welcome restitution of illegal and unGodly gotten gains by returning them to their rightful owners.

* Banks control the vast majority of stock in Western corporations by voting bank owned stock and the stock deposited with their trust departments. With the abolition of the income tax there will be no reason to hide property ownership. At that time the nation's trusts can be converted into sole ownerships and partnerships. Owners found hiding illegal wealth will be expected to return it to those from whom it was taken.

* In addition, the descendants of the New England slavers, living in mansions built with the wealth obtained from the transport of Black slaves to America, will be glad for the opportunity to donate that part of their estates to a fund to compensate the Blacks for their mental distress in being transported to America. Most large slave transactions are public record and should prove easy to trace. To identify other profiteers, the Nation of Islam published a book[13] compiled from Jewish sources which indicates that the Jews were a major, if not THE major factor in the slave trade. Jewish interest in social justice will undoubtedly inspire them to return this wealth as an example of their genuine humanity to humans.

We can see from the above that there is no lack of places and wealth to adequately compensate the Saxon nation for their suffering at the hands of the establishment through the years.

13 The Secret Relationship Between Blacks and Jews, VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $23.

Never having had to account for their actions before, this accounting may come as a bit of a shock to the cartel, but it is one of the things that the emergence of God's Kingdom requires.

==========

HOSKINS SUBPOENA

On Jan 26, 1997, I received a letter from U.S. Attorney James P. Connelly informing me that I was a "victim or a witness to Bank robberies and or bombings of Planned Parenthood and the Spokesman-Review, or the attempted robbery in Portland." The letter went on to say that I would be subpoenaed as a government witness.

I immediately called my attorney who advised me not to talk to ANYONE about this matter and if I received a telephone call or a visit, not to answer any questions, but to refer the individual to him.

On February 10th I was served a subpoena by FBI agent Jensen to appear in Spokane on February 10th, an impossibility since Spokane in on the other side of the continent and the day I received the subpoena was the day I was supposed to appear.[14] I told Agent Jensen that I was not supposed to talk to him but that I had the phone number of my attorney. His manner turned brusque and he replied that he didn't want to talk to him.

I immediately called my attorney who in turned called the 14 If my memory serves correctly, Randy Weaver of the Ruby Ridge incident received a letter to appear in court a week after the court hearing took place. He was cited for non-appearance.

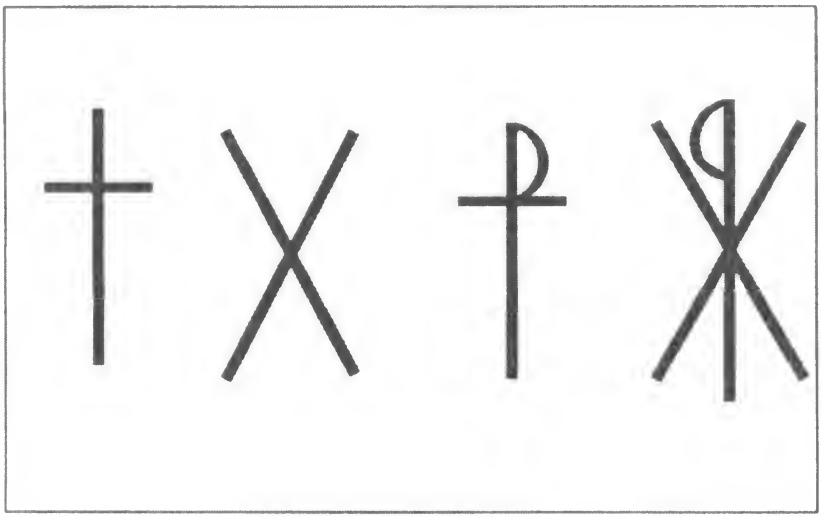
US Attorney, who turned out to be a young lady. My lawyer protested that it was impossible for me to meet the appearance date since today was that date; that I did not know any of the people involved; and what was the purpose of my being there at all?



PHINEAS SYMBOLS:

The Christian cross in all its variations, with one exception, has been used to indicate that the Christian Way ("The Word made flesh.") rules. The first cross on the left is the traditional cross of St. George. The second is the cross of St. Andrew. The third is a variation of St. George. The fourth is the symbol of the anti-christ.

She replied that the suspects in the case are said to have called themselves Phineas Priests and to have left the sign of the cross. The attorney had the option of getting the jury to read the 430 pages of Vigilantes Of Christendom[15] to see what a Phineas cross looks like, or flying me out to testify that the cipher was the same (all Christian crosses are symbols of the Phineas Priesthood). She thought that it would be simpler for me to come out to testify. She further stated that I would not be needed until the end of the month, and also agreed to send my attorney a list of questions that would be asked.

15 Vigilantes Of Christendom, Hoskins, VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505

In the meantime the word had gotten out that I had been subpoenaed and I received a call from a minister in the northwest whose church one or more of the accused had at one time attended. The establishment media had raked both him and his church over the coals, and he was frustrated because he had no way to answer their attacks and insinuations.

Since I wrote Vigilantes Of Christendom, The History of the Phineas Priesthood, I am supposed to an expert on the subject, so I was candid with him on the telephone. I said that from the evidence I had gathered from the newspapers, the Spokane thing did not seemingly advance God's cause, but instead, disturbed the peace and furnished reams of copy for the newspapers. In fact, the whole operation appeared like to the work of The Trust written about in HR, March 1997.

Later, my lawyer called me to say that the Justice Department had changed their mind and decided they didn't need me as a witness after all. It would be interesting to know if they somehow had gotten a transcript of my telephone conversation with this minister. I know that the FBI doesn't go around willy-nilly putting taps on people's phones, but it does make you wonder.

LETTER FROM SOUTH AFRICA by K.J.

Here the unseen war has taken on huge proportions. Our people are upset about the rapes that are taking on horrific dimensions with the clear aim of humiliating whites, and the robberies and murders and killing taxes. But, most fail to see the entire picture. Our beautiful country is now polluted with bloody crimes.

Our farmers are exported as planned by the British a century ago.[16] Boer War, p. 500 and in The Anglo- American Establishment, by Wuigley, p. 57

When Mr. Marais started revealing the dealings of these traitors, they used the Citizen and the Patriot to get at him with letters and sly remarks about those who cause discord. The Patriot's editor, Henk van de Graaf turned far left and now has connections with a number of leftist journalists.

The court case against Piet Pretorius, author of Betrayal starts at the end of this month and we pray for his vindication. It starts Feb. 28.

The Chinese/Malaysian invasion is also taking place here, but not yet on the scale of Australia. Chinese fear and hate blacks and for that reason concentrate in relatively quiet Afrikaans areas like Bronkhorstspruit where the huge Buddhist temple stands and where they have tracts of land. But even more sinister, black local governments are borrowing huge amounts of money from Malaysia, a replay of Australia except for the hostility of ordinary blacks towards Asians.

All of a sudden the Hani assassination has come to the fore with Derby-Lewis and Walus willing to testify before the Tutu commission. Winnie Mandela repeated what she said at the time of his death that the ANC might have a hand in it. This is causing a lot of uneasiness among the ANC-SACP. We have no idea what the outcome will be. The Truth

16 See Parkenham's MI

Commission sent a a long list of questions to former president P.W. Botha.

They caught the last three AWB members who escaped last year. Two got 50 years and one 25 years prison sentences and the person who kindly housed them on a farm said he does not feel guilty at all, he acted according to the Bible.

I wish to ask you a question. Why did the British harbor this terrible hatred toward us? It is not normal behavior for Saxons. The same with Germany. Strange as it may seem, Siener van Rensburg, our seer, saw clearly that one day Germany would come to our aid because of a treaty made between General Manie Maritz and the German government in German South West Africa in 1910 during the rebellion against Smuts and Botha.

With Best Wishes.

LETTERS

MRS. SELLNER'S SENTENCE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: As you know I was charged with a felony charge of obstruction of justice. Since ... I felt that I would not get a fair trial under the same judge that sentenced Gordon, I decided to take an Alford plea. Under that plea I do not admit guilt ... Since I have a mentally handicapped daughter to consider I did not want to think of a prison term.

"On Feb. 26 I was sentenced to 3 years probation. They did return all of my personal belongings that they took from my home on the day they shot Gordon, personal letters, newspaper clippings and other correspondence. They also returned all of my firearms and ammo. Of course I can not have them in my possession until my 3 years are up. At this time I don't feel that I will have any trouble keeping my probation as I have been on OR since I got out of jail 2 weeks after my arrest on July 18, 1995.

"Gordon is doing well and has a job working on the yard crew. He said he has lots of opportunity to witness to other inmates and feels that Yah is still using him.

"I have not been able to visit him since he has been in the Montana State Prison. I am hoping that when my case is settled I will be able to get permission.

"Good luck on your subpoena to appear at the federal court in Spokane. I pray that there are those there who have 'ears to hear'. Yah bless you in your work. A Sister in Yahusha, Roberta Sellner"

SPOKANE TRIAL: "The Spokane trial is a circus. The US has no proof. In their opening argument they railed against the Phineas Priesthood and separation in general." R.W. - Washington

RKH: As I mentioned before - it resembles a Trust operation.

US MARINES IN AUSTRALIA: "Dear Dick: According to the Feb report of Political Dynamite, PO Box 467939, Atlanta, GA 31146, 30,000 of our US Marines were sent to Australia coinciding with the enactment of 'firearms reform' measures involving massive confiscation." M.J. - Georgia

---

SENTENCED TO DEATH: Joseph Paul Franklin was accused of shooting porn mogul Larry Flynt in Lawrenceville, Ga. in 1978. He was tried for the sniper attack that wounded Urban League president, Vernon Jordan. He was convicted for shooting an interracial couple in Madison, Wisconsin in 1977, another sniper attack which killed two Blacks accompanying White women in Salt Lake City in 1980, and had been serving six life sentences when he was sentenced to death for shooting, Gerald Gordon, a Jew.

RKH: A newspaper article about Franklin several years ago caused me to call his prosecutor to discuss his case. The prosecutor was married to a stranger and had no sympathy for Franklin. He laughingly remarked that "Franklin made a religious defense." Franklin's address is Joseph Paul Franklin #01517-018, PO Box 1000, Marion, IL 62959.

==========

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 272

THE SERPENT'S SEED

Basic story

Followers of the WORD know the story of the Serpent and Eve; how Eve was persuaded by the serpent to eat the apple, and that she in turn persuaded Adam to also eat. It was for this reason that both were driven from the Garden of Eden and the serpent was cursed by God.

Stories Making The Rounds

An ancient story that is still making the rounds today says that Eve had sexual relations with the serpent and then gave birth to Cain. The story of Cain and Able by different fathers has an ancient history.

The "Inspired" Bible

Almost everyone knows the Bible story of the Serpent and Adam & Eve, and probably also has heard of some of the speculation that is going on about the relationship between the three. The difficulty in resolving the problem is the lack of support information. This lack is due to the way the Catholic Church selected the Scriptures they used to put together the first Bible.

Before and after the death of Jesus there were literally hundreds of books in existence that were deemed "holy." The thing that made them holy was that they contained the WORD that was God.

The natural question is; What exactly is the WORD? The traditional answer is; the WORD is exactly what it implies - the wishes or the Commandments of God.

Most scripture is divided into two parts: (1) God's Commandments, and; (2) Parables to illustrate that Commandment. The first, God's Commandment, is holy. The second is holy only as it accomplishes its purpose of illustration. There can be different parables to illustrate the same Law. In dealing with God's WORD the Law is explicit:

> "Ye shall not add unto the word which I command you, neither shall ye diminish aught from it, that ye may keep the commandments of the Lord your God which I command you." Deut 4:2:

> "Every word of God is pure... Add thou not unto his words, lest he reprove thee, and thou be found a liar." Prov 30:5-6.

Because of these restrictions the ancient scribes went to great pains to copy God's Commandments exactly, so as not to incur God's curse. It is for this reason that you will not find God's Commandments to differ or be at odds with itself in any of the many different books that you will study, books which are either in or out of the standard Bible.

Roman Catholic Policy

When the Catholic Church first compiled a preferred group of books, later known as the "Bible," they had to choose between many books - too many to be put into a single source book. Some of those chosen were later replaced by others, and these were in turn replaced by still others. The problem was the large quantity of books available, and also, the policy of the Roman Empire. The Roman Empire was cosmopolitan in the extreme, comprising many different peoples, and the Scriptures were Israelite - both nationalist and separatist. The tendency was to choose the least "extreme" Scriptures so as to make the largest number of people as happy as possible. In so doing they left out many scriptures which clarified Biblical parables. What was perfectly clear at the time of Jesus only becomes clear today when one takes the time to read these other Scriptures.

The Bible Evidence Of the Serpent and Eve

The evidence is interesting. First we start with the story from a standard Bible:

"So God[1] created man[2] in his own image, in the image of God

---

1 "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God and the WORD was God." John 1:1. The Saxon's God is the WORD - God's Commandments. To permit God's Commandments to be broken is not light indiscretion, it is BLASPHEMY! God the WORD is pledged to curse the Saxon who commits blasphemy and will destroy the Saxon nation that stands by and allows the blasphemy to occur without protest; "If we sin willfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins." Heb 10:26; "Fear God and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man." Eccl: 12:13; "If ye forsake the Lord, and serve strange gods, then he will turn and do you hurt." Joshua 24:20

2 MAN: Heb: Adam 119 - "to show blood(in the face), i.e.: to flush or turn rosy: - be (dyed, made) red(ruddy). Strong's Concordance created he him; male and female created he them. And God blessed them and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth." Gen 27-28

"And the Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed. And out of the ground made the Lord God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food; the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil..." Gen 2:8-9

"And the Lord God commanded... Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat: But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." Gen 2:16-17

Take special note of the two kinds of trees. One tree is good for life, the other, the tree of "good and evil" - meaning the discovery of "evil" as opposed to "good" - forbidden.

"Now the serpent was more subtil than any beast of the field which the Lord God had made. And he said unto the woman, Yea, hath God said, Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden? And the woman said unto the serpent, We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden: But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die. And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die: For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil.... And when the woman... took of the fruit... and did eat, and gave also unto her husband with her: and he did eat.... Gen 3:1-6

"And the Lord God called unto Adam... And he said,... Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldest not eat? And the man said, The woman... she gave me of the tree, and I did eat. And the Lord God said unto the woman, What is this that thou hast done? And the woman said, The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat. Gen 3:9-12

"And the Lord God said unto the serpent... thou art cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field;... and I will put enmity between... thy seed and her seed;... Gen 3:14-15

"Unto the woman he said... in sorrow thou shalt bring forth children; and thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee. Gen 3:16

"And to Adam he said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree,... in the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground. Gen 3:17,19

"And Adam called his wife's name Eve (Heb: "lifegiver")." Gen 3:20

This is the basic story of the Serpent and Adam and Eve. However, the following story adds to the understanding of the above scripture:

The Seduction Of Eve

"And when her sixth month was come, Joseph returned from his building houses abroad, which was his trade, and entering into the house found the Virgin grown big:... Who has thus deceived me? Who has committed this evil in my house, and seducing the Virgin from me, hath defiled her? Is not the history of Adam exactly accomplished in me? For in the very instant of his glory, the serpent came and found Eve alone, and seduced her." Protevangelion 10:1-6.[3]

The above tells us that Joseph believed that the Virgin had been seduced, just as Eve had been seduced by a serpent, which had impregnated her. This is the example he used of the Virgin being impregnated. Obviously, Joseph did not believe that an actual serpent was responsible for either the impregnation of either Eve or of Mary - it violates God's own

3 Protevangelion is found in the Lost Books. This Gospel is ascribed to James. Postellus asserts that it was publicly read as canonical in the eastern churches. (Order from VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 245050, $15/copy) natural law - Joseph must be using the word "serpent" to represent a commonly understood phenomenon of the time. What could it be? The following may help:

> "The Word of God came to the serpent and said unto it ... be thou dumb; and speak no more, thou and thy race, because ... the ruin of my creatures happened through thee... And a wind came to blow from heaven by command of God that carried away the serpent from Adam and Eve, threw it on the shore, and it landed in India." Adam & Eve 18:7-9, (Found in the Lost Books.)

We see here that the WORD carried the "serpent" away from Adam and Eve and threw it on the shores of India. We know that Brahma - "The Force" - is god of India.[4] One of his two sons is the white god Vishnu and the other the black god Siva. We know that the Hindu symbol of wisdom is the serpent. Vishnu is pictured reclining on a gigantic serpent with a tree of life growing from his navel, and Siva the sex god, has a serpent in his hand - "wisdom." These serpent symbols of Indian wisdom, or evil wisdom, are "dumb."

This next explains even further:

> "God ordered Satan to show himself to Adam plainly, ... And God said to Adam ... look, O Adam, at him, who said of himself that he is God! Can God be black? Would God take the form of a woman?" II Adam & Eve 4:1-4

There you have it. Hindus call Siva a god. And, "Can God be black?" Yes! Siva, India's sex god is black. His wife Kali is also black. She is the female manifestation of Siva. Siva's sex gives life - Kali, the black goddess, takes it away. She represents death.

---

4 "There are many nations... all are his, and over all has he appointed spirits to rule... but over Israel... he alone is their ruler." Jubilees 15:23

Hinduism has been around so long that its beginnings disappear in the mists of time. It has always been as evil to the sons of Adam as it is today.

Summary

If Eve actually had sex with a serpent or a person who represents a serpent, it would violate the following Law of God and would have caused her execution:

> "They shall bring out the damsel... and the men... shall stone her... that she die: because she hath wrought folly in Israel, to play the whore." Deut 22:21

However, if the name "Adam" and "Eve" is used as a generic name to indicate MANY individuals, matters right themselves and the matter makes sense. Using this interpretation, only certain of the Eves consorted with the serpent giving birth to the serpent's seed, while others did not and remained pure.[5]

This is the way matters are today. It is seldom we see Adam-man with a female stranger. It is almost always an Eve who is the one seduced. The result is the offspring, Cain, who came from the same womb as Able.

Assuming that the serpent's race was made before Adam-man, and that the Serpent is the manifestation of the god of these people - the mixed breed offspring was the result of learning the wisdom of "the tree of good and evil."

(1) "Keep thou the commandment he gave thee; and sever

---

5 "Adam and Eve... went... and there rested under the shadow of a tree as they were wont. But when there, a multitude of beasts came all round them. It was Satan's doing, in his wickedness; in order to wage war against Adam through marriage." I Adam & Eve 69:9-11 thy seed from that of Cain thy brother." II A & E 10:4;

(2) "Then command again thy people not to hold intercourse with the children of Cain, and not to learn their ways; for I am God who loves not hatred and the works of iniquity." Adam & Eve 19:4;

(3) "Make no fellowship with the children of Cain the murderer and the sinner, who killed his brother." II A & E 12:11;

(4) "When thou tillest the ground it shall not henceforth yield unto thee her strength." Gen 4:12;

(5) "But... Cain, ever since he had killed his brother, he could find no rest in any place." IA&E 74:28 p59;

(6) Then the Creator said to him, 'Be trembling and quaking.' Then Cain trembled and became terrified; and through this sign did God make him an example before all creation, as the murderer of his brother." I Adam & Eve 74: 24-25;

(7) "Meanwhile Cain... could neither settle nor find rest in any one place; but wandered from place to place." II Adam & Eve 13:5;

(8) "Among the children of Cain, there was much robbery, murder, and sin." II A&E 13:2 p81.

Humans & Canaanites

The Canaanite is greatly feared because his close resemblance to Adam-man disguises his true nature, which is the nature of the beast. It is the Cains of the world who are the main threat to Adam-man today and who are today included in the name "humans."[6]

The serpent-wisdom of India has now spread to many lands. Its offspring, the Buddha who is today named "Maitreya," bearing Dharma.[7]

Today's Story Of Adam And Eve

When you walk down the street and see Eve, hand in hand with a stranger, you are witnessing the work of the people of the serpent whom Adam-man has foolishly allowed to re-enter his land.[8] The mixed breed human-children they have in tow are Cain. The story of Eve and the Serpent is being replayed once more before our eyes.

Before, when our people were being destroyed by the serpent, the WORD sent the Son of Man, the WORD made flesh, to save Isaac's sons from their sins. The WORD once again drove the serpent and his spawn from the land. The agreement between the WORD and Adam- man was:

"If ye love me obey my commandments." John 14:15

This obedience activated the covenant with which God enfiefed mankind:

"When thou art in tribulation... even in the latter days, if thou turn

---

6 HUMAN: From the Latin "hu" meaning color, and "man". Thus "human" means "man with color" or colored man.

7 Hinduism is the world's trade religion. Its missionary effort is called Buddhism. Buddhism teaches Dharma-tolerance; tolerance of all races and religions "without regard to race, creed, or national origin," as being just different manifestations of the one great god, Brahma. Once potential customers add Dharma to their own religion and become tolerant, Hindu merchants can come and go at will. The priests and kings hired by the merchants aid them to install feudal corporations. The selected market gradually takes on the character and customs of its Indian homeland - multiracialism, fixation on sex, many gods and abject poverty along side incredible wealth.

8 "If ye will not... do all these commandments;... I send wild beasts among you which shall rob you of your children." Lev 26:14-35 to the Lord thy God, and shall be obedient to his voice;... he will not forsake thee, neither destroy thee, nor forget thee, nor forget the covenant of thy fathers which he sware unto them." Deut 4:30-31

We know our God and our God knows his people whom he made in his image. The WORD our God will save us.

==========

SAXON NEWS FROM SOUTH AFRICA

We had very dry, hot conditions during most of the summer till March. It rained continuously throughout March into April, and yesterday cold winds came to herald the winter, a very strange weather pattern. The rains were most welcome and we hope they replenished our underground water supply.

In spite of this, Kadar Asmal is hell-bent on water rationing for Whites. Black areas always get it free.

The S. African Broadcasting Company and TV is on its last legs. In September 1995 it showed R180 million profit and two years later a loss of R600 million and on the verge of bankruptcy. The top structure are not only inexperienced but completely incompetent and that goes for the Blacks, Indians and liberal Whites. One can multiply this for every state-run department or business and it must be part of the planning by those behind the scenes.

The Conservative Party won its court case against Piet Pretorious over the Sellout book (Volksverraad), and they felt very good about the outcome. Little did they realize that recently released documents contain much more incriminating evidence and it cannot be wished away. Because people now realize that the truth will prevail they come forward with more information.

Tienie Groenewald took it upon himself to write a summary in pamphlet form to answer the charge of treason in the Sellout book and ended up by blaming right-wing HNP leader, Jaap Marais, as being the real author. It is difficult to see what motivates these traitors and why shame forms no part of their make-up.

The whole lot attended Viljoen's amnesty meeting on March 21st. We had our annual congress on the same date and all the thorny problems were openly discussed by excellent speakers. Every single matter of the volk's survival got its turn, and it was here that one could sense that our young men are getting impatient with the prevailing chaos in the country.

Winnie Mandela and Peter Mokaba also made speeches on the same date, a Communist human rights day, and called for killing Whites. The question asked is, "What is the meaning of this new outburst of hatred by Blacks against White Afrikaners?" It must mean only one thing; the day in which blood will flow in South Africa's streets in the mother of all racial wars is coming closer.

Behind the murders and Makaba's incitement against Whites is a detailed plan by the Communists to make SA ungovernable in the "Second Revolution." We seem to forget what is happening right now. It is in lock-step with the Freedom Charter of the communist leader, Joe Slovo, where he explains how the Second Revolution will proceed. He explains that the methods used will be murder and anarchy (I will have to translate the whole article for you).

The annual budget in Parliament was more friendly towards the taxpayer, mostly Whites, but when we look at the fast deteriorating situation, it is clear that Trevor Manuel has not got the slightest idea of the perilous state the country is in, and how these wonderful consultants from the World Bank etc. are assisting in pushing us over the edge.

It will take all the faith we can muster to get us through the time ahead. For the second time this century the word has gone out to wipe the Afrikaner from the face of the earth. May our Father have mercy on us and protect the remnant.

Enclosed are a few articles on Willem Ratte's latest escapade, but this time no daily news bulletins from prison. He either led people into, or was led into the trap. A great pity. Ratte had potential. With Best Wishes, K. J.

LETTERS

REPLY TO ANTISAXONITE: "Dear Dick: Several Canadians told me that they were 'tolerant'. Their tone of voice intimated that 'Tolerance' was a very positive characteristic in human beings. I asked them if they were tolerant of sin, disease, ignorance, filth, dishonesty, murder, child molestation and finally if they could be tolerant of intolerant persons? The silence was deafening.

"One must realize that the reason that people call others names is that the name-caller wants the hearer to cringe, to apologize or withdraw from a previous position, to assume an inferior position, to intimidate or to control.

"The hearer must immediately put the caller on the defensive! If the response does not meet that criterion then it is the WRONG response.

"Put the caller on the defensive for example with - 'What's wrong with racism? Didn't God make the separate races? Isn't that racist?'

"Subsequent comments could include - ''Did God make a mistake when he made the races?' After wounding the caller than jab him with 'After all God was the first racist.' 'If God did not make the races, then who did?' W.R. - Virginia

SA SHEEP: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Have been reading your book Wolf & The Sheep.[9] Would like to see you add the following in the next edition:

"And the sheep were assured that when things settled down to Nelson Wolf's satisfaction, then the Black Wolf pack would unite in happy brotherhood to watch as Shepherds over the combined Wolf-Sheepfolds forever and ever.

"And now we raise the curtain a few decades later - Alas, the wolf-sheepfolds are empty and the wolves are eating each other up. As for the spoils - all that abundant wealth to be divided - the wolf-packs were grievously disappointed. The Tan Money wolves grabbed it all and settled down to enjoy the gold, diamonds, lumber and mineral wealth as long as it lasted. So they were the only ones who won the game of 'Grab' after all.

"Always remember. Wolves eat each other, but mainly wolves eat sheep. That is what wolves do, It is their nature. Sheep try to keep from being eaten. That is what sheep do. Sometimes they succeed. But, this time there were too many Money Wolves and too much money. And the sheep, abandoned by their shepherds, forgot the basic law. Wolves eat sheep. That is what wolves do." "Requiescat in pace" N.L. - South Africa PRISONER NOTICE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Most subscribers here did not receive last months HR "Payback Time," and we know why. Your article demanded compensation for

---

9 Wolf & The Sheep, Hoskins,

White Americans who have had their private property ripped off by governments here in America. For suggesting such a thing and suggesting that the descendants of Jewish slave traders should be willing to add their tremendous inherited profits made in the slave trade[10] to the fund, the Ely, Nevada prison administration has forbidden us to read your newsletter. The prison administration here wouldn't dare do such a thing to the Hispanics or Blacks here, but they don't hesitate a second to show that they are 'anti-Saxon.'" Initials withheld - Nevada

---

CHARGES: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I don't know how US attorneys can be so unprofessional as to instigate so many cases against our people on such flimsy evidence and logic that would embarrass anyone in their right mind. Trial after trial against patriots are conducted by attorneys who seem to be laboring under strong delusions.

"I was saddened to hear Joseph Franklin was sentenced to death. On the other hand, I'm envious that he'll beat me to paradise. "Truly I say to you, you shall be with me this day in paradise." Randy Duey #09884-016, PO Box 1000, Oxford, WI 53952, (Of The Order)

WC/PC: "Mr. Richard Hoskins: War Cycles/Peace Cycles is one of the "Best" books I've read so far. No barred holds and no bull. It's very direct to the point with history case. Your book has been the answer to many missing questions about events that I never learned in American History books.

---

10 The Secret Relationship Between Blacks & Jews, VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $23

Deception is the apparent reason. And the part about the true Abe Lincoln was very good." L.J. - British Columbia[11]

ADAM: "Saxon Identity, HR #266, was very encouraging to learn that our fathers traced their ancestry back to Adam. I am circulating that HR issue amongst my kids and grandkids who are mostly redheads. I am sure this sort of effort is going to produce some surprising results. Hopefully it will awaken our Saxon people." S.N. - British Columbia

News From America

DIRECTIVE: "A PDD (President's Decision Directive) is a proclamation by the President which, if not acted upon by Congress within 30 days from its presentation to Congress, becomes law.

"On May 3, 1994, President Clinton signed PDD #25 and then declared it to be Classified. He offered a brief outline of it to the 103rd Congress. The outline stated that during times of national emergency complete command and control the US military would pass from him to the Secretary General of the UN.

"The 103rd Congress's only action... called for the directive to be declassified and recommended to Congress for discussion regarding restrictions and limitations.

"On June 9, 1994, this motion was voted down in the House by a margin of 237 to 185 (A party-line vote; the Democrats were in power then.)

"The result is that Congress voted not even to look at the directive and then allowed it to pass quietly into law." New

11 WC/PC, Hoskins

Jersey Militia Newsletter, October 1995, copied from The Geis Letter, December 1995.

The South Lives On!

JOHNNY REB: After the American War Between The States, some 20,000 former Confederates moved to Brazil rather than live on in the United States. The Brazilian Emperor who had sympathized with the Confederacy sent agents to the South to recruit former Confederates to help develop the rural economy of Brazil. He opened immigration offices in New York and Washington, offered the Confederates free passage to Brazil, free land, freedom of religion and exemption from military service. When they arrived in Brazil, these Anglo-Saxon exiles founded a city called Americana and approximately 2,000 descendants of the original settlers live in the area to this day. The Confederate Stars and Bars are still on the coat of Arms of Americana and there are at least some 300 active members of the fraternity of American Descendants. (Open Bible Newsletter, Belfast, N. Ireland from New Beginnings, PO Box 228, Waynesville, NC 28786, June 1996)

RKH: A few years ago a young visitor from Brazil spoke to the Rivermont Presbyterian Sunday School. She had the delightful S. Carolinian accent of a hundred years ago, the manner of a lady, and reminded us that while she was one of us by blood, she was also descended from those who would not compromise with tyranny. In a diplomatic manner she let us know that from what she had seen since she had been in the United States - nothing appeared to have changed - and so it appeared that she would have to continue living in a foreign land until conditions did change.

Strangers Destroy Saxon Law

Denny's Restaurants were sued after Blacks complained about poor service. The Blacks said they had been insulted when asked to pay for their meals in advance after other Blacks ate and ran without paying. Clinton ordered the Justice Department to work with the NAACP. The company agreed to settle for $46 million.

Shoney's Restaurants has been hit with similar suits. In 1989 they paid $132 million to nine former black employees who alleged that they had been discriminated against. In 1992 they paid another $132 million. In 1993, they paid $46 million to 12 Chicago Blacks. And now, they will pay another $96 million to Blacks.

In Arlington, Virginia a real estate company ran ads featuring White residents. A Black Georgetown University law professor took offense. He filed suit because there were no minorities in the ads. A pro-minority federal jury awarded him $200,000 and Colonial Village where the housing was located was ordered to pay another $650,000 to secret "fair housing" groups that work to blockbust White neighborhoods with third-world immigrants.

In Dallas, Texas an illegal Mexican alien, Ismael Rivera fell from an apartment complex roof where he was working. His wife filed suit. Atty. Terry Stanford claimed that a temporary employment agency, the Dallas Labor Service and the J & J Roofing Sheet Metal Co. who merely supplied the roofing material, "did not properly instruct Rivera in safety or monitor his work."

Thus, an "affirmative action" jury of 3rd worlders ordered the employment agency to pay $1.85 million in damages to Rivera's widow. The roofing company settled out of court for $200,000. (Story in The Truth At Last, #389, PO Box 1211, Marietta, Georgia 30061.

PHINEAS STOOD FIRM FOR GOD:[12] Saturday, Apr 12 on the steps of the State Capitol in Montgomery, the first capitol of the Confederacy, a rally attended by 25,000 was held in support of Judge Roy Moore and Governor Fob James. Judge Moore was ordered by a federal court to remove the Ten Commandments from the wall of his court. He refused. Gov. James of Alabama and Gov. Beasley of S. Carolina assured Judge Moore of the full support of the Troopers and National Guard should the need arise. The US House passed a non- binding resolution supporting Judge Moore. (Internet Apr 14, 1997)

WAILING: "The Simon Wiesenthal Center in Los Angeles is wailing that Argentina's Supreme Court has announced that 'Jews may have been responsible for blowing up the Israeli Embassy in Buenos Aires." (Reuter, 4-1-97)

RKH: Appears to be a "Trust operation." See HR #269.

NIGHTCLUB DISCRIMINATION: "The US Justice Dept sued Images Nightclub in Wheeling, WV, yesterday (3/27/97) for allegedly turning away black customers. Images was charged with violating the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the government asked for a court order to bar the owners of the club from discriminating. The club allegedly told blacks that it was a private club for members only, but admitted

---

12 PHINEAS PRIESTHOOD: Ordained by God to enforce God's Commandments. Those who enforce God's Law are Phineas priests. (See Bible Numbers #25. Also, Vigilantes Of Christendom, The History of the Phineas Priesthood, Hoskins, VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505 whites regardless of membership. The Justice Dept has filed two similar lawsuits against two Louisiana nightclubs. Both suits were settled." (From: anton88@ concentric. net 28 Mar 1997)

ED: This warfare is a variation of the Balak Plan (For free copy, send SASE to HR). The canaanites force us to eat with strangers thereby breaking the Law against eating and associating with strangers which will bring the wrath of our own God down upon us. "They shall not profane the holy things of the children of Israel, which they offer unto the Lord. Or, suffer them to bear the iniquity of the trespass, when they eat their holy things: for I the Lord do sanctify them." Le 22:16

Before eating, Saxons thank God for their food, and offer it to God to bless. Most do it in the traditional manner: "Thank you for this food. Bless it to our good, and use us in thy service: Amen." Food blessed by God is "holy." "Holy food" may not be given to strangers. "Thou shall no stranger eat of the holy thing." Lev 22:10. The word "stranger" here is the Hebrew "zûwr stranger" - meaning a racial alien vs. the "gêr stranger" - a racial kinsman living in a different political subdivision. Virginia farms once had outside kitchens where the "house help" could eat unblessed food separately. America, both North and South in the 1930s, met the problem of feeding strangers with separate eating facilities serving "unblessed" food to the one, and blessed food to the other. This practice carried over into schools, public facilities, and the military.

"There shall no stranger which is not of the priestly tribe of Levi (The Son-Of-Man made all obedient men priests, Rev 1:5-6) eat of the holy thing (the offering made to God), neither the guest of the Priest." Lev 22:10; "With- draw from among the Gentiles and do not eat with them, and do not according to their actions, and be not their companion, for their actions are unclean and all their ways are defiled." Jubilees 22:17; "They shall not profane the holy things of the children of Israel, which they offer unto the Lord. Or, suffer them to bear the iniquity of the trespass, when they eat their holy things: for I the Lord do sanctify them." Le 22:15-16. See also the "Book of Judith" in the Apocrypha.[13]

News From Europe

RACIST CRIMES IN FRANCE: "Of 4.4 million crimes last year in France, there were only 9 that were racially linked. Le Pen's words to the wise: "The figure would be much higher if one counted racist crimes against French people.'" (From zundel@cts.com Apr 6, 1997)

OKLAHOMA BOMBING

According to an article by Ambrose Evan-Pritchard writing for the London Sunday Telegraph, more than 300 relatives of those killed in the Oklahoma bomb blast have signed up with O. J. Simpson's defense lawyer, Johnnie Cochran, in a lawsuit against the US government.

The "wrongful death' petition was filed in the District Court of Oklahoma County to the consternation of the US Justice Department, "which is already struggling to prevent the criminal trial of Tim McVeigh from degenerating into a 13 Apocrypha, VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $10.50. Judith would not eat with the ruler she was visiting and brought food for herself and her servant.

judicial farce."

Documents provided to the London Sunday Telegraph reveal that the local ATF was about to arrest a group plotting to blow up the Oklahoma federal building when the FBI stepped in in Feb 1995 and stopped the raid. It is believed that the ATF had stumbled onto a big Justice Department operation. Two months later the Murrah Building was blown up. "So the FBI has some explaining to do." [Internet:-(nswpp@earthlink.net) 4-21-97]

Texas Militias & Testing The Fruit

The Serpent's seed created the feudal system. This feudal-caste system moved West and evolved into today's corporation.

Opposing the Corporation is Adam-man's kingdom organization. Each man is supposed to be king of his own self-sufficient farm. His need for wider co-operation is fulfilled in 10's and 100's.[14] His business ventures are sole- proprietorships and joint ventures. In matters of government, public works, or defense, he may surrender a part of his independence to a temporary manager for a limited time period.

A militia composed of Adam-men choose a temporary leader from one of their own number. Corporation leaders are appointed from the top down. The organizational method is either man's presbytery (power from the bottom up) or the human feudal episcopacy (power from the top down).

Christian-Patriots have been predicting that the corporation establishment would make an effort this summer to try to discredit America's militias. It has been expected that they would do this with either a "sting" or a "trust" type operation. The surest method would be a "Trust Operation" where the government uses its own agents masquerading as militiamen to undertake an operation doomed to fail from the start that would bring the entire militia movement into disrepute. This may, or may not be the situation in the current Texas Militia standoff, but it is interesting that its militant leader had been renounced by other Texas Militia members.

14 In The Beginning, Hoskins,

Election of officers forces discipline on any organization. It makes one careful to only accept one's peers as members, and it forces the leaders to acknowledge and conform to the members will. Such elections also make sting or trust operation more difficult.

The method is not infallible, because FBI agents posing as militiamen can simulate such elections, however, it does make it more difficult for them.

Let's watch and learn from this Texas affair over the coming days to see whether it benefits or harms the Saxon struggle for freedom. "By their acts ye shall know them."

==========

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 273

THE ONE TO FEAR!

The WORD that was in the beginning made man in his image. Man has the WORD imprinted in his genes. He was ordered to rule earth justly. He is not to tolerate murder, kidnaping, rape, or marriage with other races. If these crimes occur the WORD demands that these crimes be punished immediately according to God's Law. If they are not swiftly punished - this triggers the following law:

> "Because thou has let go out of thy hand a man whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people." I Ki 20:42.

This Law is absolute. History teaches that it is no idle threat. Once a man, a group of men, or an entire country of men condemn themselves by violating God's Law, punishment descends not only on the culprit who committed the crime, but the entire people who allowed the crime to go unpunished.

God's Law

God the WORD made man.[1] MAN: Heb: Adam 119 - "to show blood(in the face), i.e.: to flush or turn rosy: - be (dyed, made) red(ruddy). Strong's Concordance:

He gave the world to Adam-man to rule[2] and gave him an operating manual to guide him.[3]

God's enfiefment[4] of Man, giving him the right to rule was conditional, as are all such contracts. God is to do his part and man his. The conditions were clearly spelled out in a simple contract that cannot be misunderstood. This is the first part:

GOD's Contractual Benefits To Man - Part I

"If ye walk in my statutes, and keep my commandments, and do them; then:

"I will give you rain in due season and the land shall yield her increase ... ye shall eat your bread to the full and dwell in your land safely (doors used to remain unlocked and door keys were lost from disuse. Crime was so rare that it merited front page coverage when it did occur).

"And I will give peace in the land, and ye shall lie down and none shall make you afraid. I will rid evil beasts out of the land (strangers having the nature of beasts), Neither shall the sword go

1 "In the day that God created man, in the likeness of God made he him; Male and female created he them; and blessed them, and called their name Adam." Gen 5:1-2:

2 "God said, Let us make man in our image ... and let them have dominion over ... all the earth." Gen 1:26

3 "This is the book of the generations of Adam." Gen 5:1

4 Employment contract.

through your land ... Ye shall chase your enemies, and they shall fall before you by the sword ... five shall chase a hundred, and a hundred shall put ten thousand to flight ... I will ... make you fruitful, and multiply you, and establish my covenant with you ... (ten children per family was common just three generations ago). I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people ..." Lev 26:3-9

God's Contractual Punishments - Part II

The second part of man's enfiefment by God set out the punishments to be levied for violating God's Commandments. It spells out in clear language what will happen to man if he refuses to honor the contract:

"But if ye will not ... do all these commandments; ... I also will do this unto you ... ye shall sow your seed in vain, for your enemies shall eat it (50% taxation) ... they that hate you shall reign over you (our president is part American-Indian, and he has appointed Turks, Africans and homosexuals to be his administrators); and ye shall flee when none pursueth you (people today are afraid to express an opinion). .... I will break the pride of your power (our country is defeated by third rate nations) ... your land shall not yield her increase (almost half of our food is imported). ... I will send wild beasts (strangers with the nature of beasts) among you which shall rob you of your children ... and make you few in number (our women are taken by strangers to breed more strangers and our population growth has plunged to less than replacement levels) ... I will bring a sword upon you (armed aliens flood our cities!) ... I will send the pestilence among you (aids, herpes, hepatitis, TB.); ... I will ... cast your carcasses upon the carcasses of your idols ... And I will make your cities waste (Today, America's cities occupied by aliens lie in ruins!). ...And I will bring the land into desolation (not a dozen fields are plowed between Lynchburg and Richmond) ..." Lev 26:14-35

We can see God's curse unfolding before our eyes today. Let's see what he did to honor his curse against disobedient man yesterday:

Eden

Eden is the example by which all of man's curses are measured. In the beginning man was given a paradise. He listened to the serpent, disobeyed the WORD, and for so doing was driven from the Garden of Eden.

India

Summarian man invaded India and created a powerful civilization. He conquered the native black Dravidians living there. Instead of obeying the WORD and driving them away[5] they kept them for workers and erected a caste system to keep them separate. In spite of the caste system, they intermarried and mankind's millions disappeared into the integrated stew that is India's melting pot.[6]

China

China's legends speak of white invaders in their ancient past, invaders who infused a high civilization. This civilization thrived until the invaders ceased to remain separate and were either absorbed or exterminated by the Chinese. When man and his Law disappeared, China went back into Lawless

---

5 "Thou shall drive them out before thee. Thou shalt make no covenant with them, nor with their gods. They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." Ex 23:31-33

6 "If there is any man in Israel who desires to give his daughter or his sister to ... the Gentiles, he shall surely die ... for Israel is holy to the lord ... And to this law there is no limit of days and no ceasing and no forgiveness ... And thou, Moses, command the children of Israel ... that they shall not give any of their daughters to the Gentiles and that they shall not take any of the daughters of the Gentiles; for ... it is disgraceful to Israel ... for it is unclean and accursed to Israel; ... for there will be plagues upon plagues, curse upon curse, and all punishment and plagues and curses will come ... and and if they blind their eyes to those that commit uncleanness ... then shalt the whole people together be punished." Jubilees 30:6- 13

gridlock and its long slumber.

Egypt

Transferred from Sumaria, Egypt's civilization grew instantaneously. There was no primitive beginning with progressive improvement. Man was blessed from its inception which began at a high level and continued at a high level until its people began to mix with strangers and the faces of the Pharaohs began to show the infusion of alien blood. God's curse then descended on the land. Egypt's men by the tens of millions disappeared, leaving human descendants to pass by and cast an uninterested eye on the rock piles called pyramids and temples.

Syria, Iraq and Iran

The old civilization of Sumaria was replaced by Babylon, and Assyria. Standing on the world's trade routes they absorbed the wealth of the silk trade and the blood of its traders in place of observing the WORD. By the millions, the men of Babylon disappeared,[7] to be replaced by the men of Persia and later of Greece. Each in turn intermarried with Lawless strangers and man disappeared from the land.

Palestine

The history of Palestine is known to all. Given to Abraham, it prospered as long as it was obedient. When disobedient, it was conquered, its people scattered, and the vacant Samaritan lands were colonized with strangers while Judea was taken by the Edomites. A brief flowering took place when a remnant of Israel returned from Babylon armed with the WORD, but again the WORD was replaced by the desire for the profits of the silk trade[8] and they too were wiped from the land.

7 "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (2114), thou art snared with the words of thy mouth. Pr. 6:1; "They shall not dwell in thy land; and thou shall drive them out before thee." Ex 23:31; "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21.

Greece and Turkey

Greece and Turkey both flowered and both absorbed Egyptian and Babylonian goods along with the Egyptian and Babylonian traders and their gods. From the north they took in Slavic goods and the Slavic trader.

The WORD protected them in the beginning, but then, the priests tolerated Hindu Dharma teachings and the WORD became Christian- Hindu.[9]

Rome

Roman man conquered the world and brought the world to Rome as slaves. The slave absorbed Rome and changed it into world humanity - the home of Hindu-Christianity. Man disappeared.

Later, northern Italy was settled by German men, who are today gradually being replaced as the tide of hued-man swells up from the south. "Thou has forsaken thy people ... because ... they please themselves in the children of strangers." Isiah 2:6

8 see "Silk Trade," In The Beginning, Hoskin

9 "Dharma": Buddhist techniqc of pacifying divergent populations to expedite trade. Dharma - tolerance of other peoples and their gods without regard to "race, creed, or nationality."

N. Africa

Man settled North Africa from Egypt to the Atlantic Ocean thousands of miles away. This was the breadbasket of Rome. Hindu- Christianity gave no protection and human strangers poured in and man vanished.

Sicily

Islam swept over Egypt, North Africa and into Spain, Sicily, and Southern Italy displacing man as they went. Later, a branch of the same Norman Northmen who invaded Britain also conquered these arab invaders of Sicily and Southern Italy. Again, Hindu- Christianity quickly submerged the Norman into the human cauldron where they disappeared while the Norman men of Britain still number in the millions.

Southern Spain - Southern France

Islam conquered Spain and Southern France. Driven out, Islam left a remnant in both countries. Hindu-Christianity decreed that if they accepted Hindu-Christianity they could remain.[10] They did; they remain to this day; and they are gradually absorbing Spanish and French man into the sea of Spanish and French humanity.

Romania - Hungary - Bosnia - Serbia - Albania

Turkic Huns invaded and settled Hungary and parts of Rumania - pushing man aside in the process. Bosnia, Serbia and Albania were overrun by Slavs who were in turn overrun by the Turks of Islam who ruled them. The millions of 10 "Gentiles shall ye take to wife purifying ... with an unlawful purification (baptism)." Testiment of Levi 4:17

German mankind disappeared as they were absorbed into the racial quagmire or were killed.

Russia - Poland - Czechoslovakia

Vast Russia has long been the home of the Slavs. Its rivers the home and highways of Russ-mankind. The balance was destroyed by Turkic invaders who left colonies in Southern Russia, some of whom migrated to Poland, Rumania, and Hungary. Some of these Turkic peoples converted to Judaism and allied themselves with Christian-Hindu Slavs. Together they exterminated Russ-man, and drove the remnant from Russia. While some still reside in these countries, they are a fraction of their former millions.

Central and South America

A mixed band of men and Christianized Turks conquered Central and South America, where, encouraged by their Hindu-Christian religion, they immediately integrated with the inhabitants. They, and the millions of European immigrants later flowed into the mixing pot and lived under Christian-Dharma Law which made them disappear in turn.

Africa

The "dark continent," Africa, was conquered at the turn of the century and colonized by Western man. The Cartel, unwilling to share its natural resources, encouraged Hindu-Christian missionaries to teach their charges to rebel against these colonies. Since then, Western colonists have been killed, driven away, or are presently struggling for their very lives.

Western Europe, North America, South Africa, Australia-New Zealand

The situation confronting Western man is the same in each of their homelands. Europe is being overrun with a human tidal wave of Turks, Africans, and Orientals. Christian-Hindu Dharma is causing their integration. The same is true of S. Africa, Australia and N. Zealand.

North America presents the most dramatic example. America's cities have been occupied, colonized and taken over by strangers. Their former inhabitants have fled to sanctuary elsewhere. New York, Richmond, Charleston, N. Orleans, San Antonio, San Diego, San Francisco, Seattle, Montreal, Chicago, Denver - it's all the same. They are now rapidly-growing colonies of aliens.

Much of the state of New York has been lost, as has a large part of New England. At least half of Florida has been submerged by the Hispanic tidal wave and Florida refugees are found in Tennessee and Virginia. Half of Texas is gone. Much of the land area of Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada and Colorado has been occupied. California is in danger of being lost to Oriental colonization in its entirety, and all over America mankind is desperately seeking places to which they can refugee to be saved.

Plague

It would seem that the above would be sufficient to teach Westerners and their priests that God's Law is absolute, but in spite of the admonishment not to deal with strangers (have agreements, contracts, trade) the West welcomed the silk traders from the East. These traders brought silks, spices, jewels, gold, and also brought the black plague.

The black plague from the stranger wiped out two-thirds of Europe's mankind. Europe's wars have never been able to do this much damage.

Man still refused to learn. He sailed to America to gain its wealth. These intrepid explorers mixed with the natives and carried back with them gold, slaves, and non-venereal syphilis - which rippled across Europe like a prairie fire wiping out more than 1/2 the population of Europe - ONE HALF!

Still defying the WORD, and untaught by his treacherous preachers, man continued to keep pigs in spite of the LAW which forbids man to eat or even to touch them. A pig is a scavenger. It's bodily make-up is different from other animals. It is able to harbor and incubate viruses that would kill other animals. Pigs in America did just this. They incubated the influenza virus that caused the epidemic that American soldiers during and after WWI took all over America and Europe. More men died from influenza in America and Europe than died in the war, and over 30,000,000 died in the war.[11]

The Fact

To survive, Adam-man must observe the commandment, "We must obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29. This is not an option - it is a fact required for man's continued existence. For each unpunished murder, rape, or kidnaping, and, for each aborted murdered child, and for each young man sacrificed in forbidden wars of man against man, and for each foreclosed and ruined family - God the WORD will require 11 My father, Dr. John Hundley Hoskins, a surgeon during WWI, remarked about conditions in certain American seaports. Wagons and trucks came every morning to pick up the hundreds of bodies, laid out on the sidewalk, of those who had died during the night. The bodies were buried in mass graves outside American cities.

like punishment for man who was put in charge in the beginning to rule justly, and who has allowed them to happen. A man may abuse, kill, and maim a hundred million; but God's punishment is final and terminal. God the WORD has no need for man who will not or can not obey him. Man will not be permitted to live except in obedience to the WORD. If he will not obey he will die.

The Culprit

To avoid extermination, today's society must be dismantled and replaced with the WORD. In this society crime has two punishments - restitution or death. If a person steals a car and is caught with it he must pay back two cars. If he wrecks it - four cars. If he doesn't have the money he is put into slavery to work it off. If he runs he is killed. On the other hand, there can be no restitution for murder, rape or kidnaping so the culprit is killed. Of what need is a prison?

Strangers and their fellow travelers have designed today's justice system so that its evils will bring the wrath of the Christian God down on his own people. It is done on purpose. Murderers, kidnapers and rapists, instead of being executed according to Law, are kidnaped![12] and put in prison for a short while and then released to commit the same acts again. Abortion is child sacrifice. It is institutionalized as is racial intermarriage and sodomy.

Our evil priests have taught our enemies our own scriptures. In many cases they know the scriptures better than we. They know that it is easier to have our own God destroy us than it is for them. They purposely pass statutes designed to bring the children of God in direct conflict with their maker. It was not by accident that courts ruled Sunday blue laws unconstitutional - forcing our society to break the 4th commandment. School integration was forced on God's people to put them at enmity with their God as the enemy did before in the case of Balak.[13] Strangers are placed over us to rule us to provoke our God to war against us. Man does not fight his God. Man obeys or his God destroys him.

---

12 "He that stealeth a man, and selleth him, or if he be found in his hand, he shall surely be put to death." Ex 21:16: "If a man be found stealing any of his brethren of Israel, and maketh merchandise of him, or selleth him: then that thief shall die." Deut 24:7; "If thou buy a Hebrew servant, six years he shall serve: and in the 7th he shall go free for nothing." Ex 21:2."

> "Because thou has let go out of thy hand a man whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people." I Ki 20:42.

Not to enforce God's Law is to die! But, how does one fight Rome? Rome was merciless and a stickler for her statutes; she had thousands of statutes and thousands of legionnaires to enforce them. She used the statutes and the legionnaire to kill anyone who defied them.

This was the problem confronting Jesus; He told his followers; "Behold, I send you forth as sheep in the midst of wolves: be ye therefore wise as serpents, and harmless as doves." Matt 10:16.

How can this be? On the one hand the WORD says that 13 Write for a free copy of "The Balak Plan" to VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505. Please enclose a sase.

14 (Testament Of Dan - from the "Lost Books of The Bible & The Forgotten Books of Eden." VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $14.

we will be destroyed for not enforcing the WORD,[15] and in the next breath we are ordered to "Be wise as serpents and harmless as doves." Does one Commandment of God exclude another?

Conclusion

When Jesus arrived on the scene only a handful honored the WORD. An armed rebellion by this handful would have resulted in their extermination. This is why Jesus said, "Be wise as a serpent and harmless as a dove." Know your enemy. The serpent is our enemy. Be peaceful and harmless so that we can remain free to use a different sword: "For the word of God is quick, and sharper than any 2-edged sword." Heb 4:12

We are ordered to use our heads. Our job is that of missionary - to spread the WORD and turn people to God. We must use the Roman system against Rome. That does not mean that God has changed. We know that "The scripture cannot be broken." John 10:35. We are wise enough to know that there is a time for everything. We also know that the serpent knows that the only thing in this world that can harm him are those who obey the WORD. This is why we are forewarned;

> "The enemy is eager to destroy all that call upon the Lord. For he knoweth that upon the day that Israel shall repent, the king-

---

15 "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I come not to send peace, but a sword." Matt 10:34; "Let the saints be joyful ... and a two-edged sword in their hand, to execute ... the judgment written: this honor have all his saints." Ps 149:5- 9; "Teach thy sons the bow and all weapons of war." Jasher 56:9; "He said unto them ... he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment and buy one." Luke 22:36- 38; "Cursed be he that doeth the work of the Lord deceitfully, and cursed be he that keepeth back his sword from blood." Jer 48:10.

dom of the enemy shall be brought to an end." Testament of Dan 2:16- 17.[16]

The serpent is using Ruby Ridge, Waco, Twin Towers, and Oklahoma City to provoke us into premature acts that violate Rome's statutes so that Rome will have an excuse to destroy us.

For now, we refuse to be provoked and remain "Harmless as a dove", and thus deny the serpent the excuse he seeks to kill us. But, we will also do as Jesus commanded, and if need be "sell your garments and buy a sword." Why? Because we cannot avoid what is written, and it is written that the day of Armageddon is racing toward us.

For now, we stand tamely and submit to being killed. The sacrifice of martyrs provides us with time. We make use of this blood-bought time to use the sword of our tongue to recruit warriors for God's army.

Our God promises us that tomorrow the sun will rise, that his kingdom is forever, and there are crowns to be won as well as crowns to be broke. It is for this task we have the honor to be chosen.

==========

LETTERS

GODS OF INDIA: "Richard: I found it quite interesting what you wrote about the serpent landing in India (#272 p2). A few years ago I spent a month in Malaysia doing some repair work and while there my host took me up to a large cave about 150 steps up the side of a rock. The cave was the size of a football field. Next to it was a smaller cave and all along the walls were plaster figures of elephant gods, swine gods, monkey gods, and so forth. Their whole history was laid out in a 200 yard panorama." L.J. - California

16 (Testament Of Dan - from the "Lost Books of The Bible & The Forgotten Books of Eden." VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $14.

---

DE LA BECKWITH: "Your 'Payback Time' was splendid! Now, Cousin Dick, I know your family arrived in 1616, but a William Beckwith landed from the good ship Phoenix in 1607 and signed up w/Capt. John Smith. I should be one of the first in line for my $500,000,000 share of payback. I need it for legal expenses. I am now 76 (ouch!), and the Mississippi Supreme Court is still sitting on my 135 page appeal - for the past three years. I'm in a constant fit over that. 'Delay' is my middle name. Any good advice?" Byron De La Beckwith VI, 407 E. Pascagoula St., Jackson, MS 39201

RKH: Byron De La Beckwith was accused of shooting the NAACP agitator Medgar Evers. Twice juries failed to convict him. In spite of the testimony of two police officers that he was in his hometown of Greenwood, Miss, the night Evers was shot in Jackson, Miss. a jury of 8 blacks convicted him in a third trial thirty years after the event. Many believe that the establishment wants him to die in prison to relieve them of the embarrassment of his being unjustly incarcerated.

SERPENT SEED: "Mr. Hoskins: Serpent Seed (HR #272) was fascinating. I think I now understand the previously enigmatic Gen 5:2: 'male & female created he them (plural!!) and blessed them (plural!!) and called their (plural!!) name Adam. In that day that they were created..."

"It is also interesting to ponder upon and to contrast, #120 and #121. #120 is 'individual, or the species..." #121 is '...the name of the first man..." (emphasis mine). Rather profound."

B.T. - Ohio

OTHER RACES: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Why did God put another race on earth?" M.K. - California

RKH: I suppose you are talking about the controversy that in the beginning God made "man and beast;" the man meaning adam-man and the beast meaning those having the nature of beasts. According to this interpretation, the different races that exist today are the result of miscegenation - the various mixtures of the two. The results are called such names as "humans", "strangers", etc.

The theory is advanced that "beasts" don't have souls. This is derived from the Book of Enoch where in the 5th Heaven there are none but Adamites - the "good" on the south and the "bad" on the north side.

But as to the spirits of "beasts;" II Enoch (Ethopic) 58:7 says: "As every soul of men... similarly beast will not perish, nor all souls of beasts which the Lord created, 'till the great judgment, and they will accuse man if he feed them ill." This indicates that "beasts" do have souls, but it appears that they do not reside with the souls of man. Evil comes from "Lawlessness." The nature of beasts, "human nature", is Lawless. The Scripture says that "Sin is the violation of the Law." The creation of non-man may have been done to prove man one way or the other. If so, this may explain the following: "I created man from the invisible and visible... I appointed him ruler... to have my wisdom... I called his name Adam and showed him the two ways... and I told him 'this is good, and that is bad' that I should learn whether he had love toward me, or hatred, that it be clear which in his race love me." Enoch 30:12- 14.

VENGEANCE IS MINE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: "Vengeance is mine saith the Lord." What exactly does that mean?" S.M. - Maryland

RKH: The WORD is the Lord. Not the individual, but the WORD specifies what is evil and its punishment. Punishment must be carried out exactly according to the WORD. Failure to do so activates the following Law: "Thus sayeth the Lord, Because thou has let go out of thy hand a man whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people." I Ki 20:42. "Punishment is mine saith the Lord (the WORD)." The WORD has proclaimed that if a Lawless act is not punished, for whatever reason, God will make man the substitute sacrifice because he is the one God has placed in charge. With authority come benefit and accountability.

FEAST: "Dear Mr. Hoskins; Our Saxon Identity Church at this federal facility is going well. We celebrated Passover and were provided lamb by the food service here. With all the trimmings everyone went back to their houses full. It was a meal that won't be forgotten soon. Enclosed are stamps from the Christian Identity brothers here to our brothers in Florida trying to get the Geneva Bible. In His Service, S. R. - Michigan

---

WORSHIP: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: The Bureau of Prisons refused to recognize Saxon Christianity and wouldn't allow inmates to use the chapel or meet anywhere on this compound. We threatened to go to court and the prison finally allowed us to meet in the chapel for services and Bible studies." K.R. - Colorado

---

OBSERVATIONS: "Mr Hoskins: Seventy percent of the staff and officials in the Alabama prison system are black, 80% of the convict population is black. If you are white and are in prison in Alabama, you don't stand a snowball's chance in hell of surviving or keeping your sanity. It is so hard in here to stand up for yourself because if you are white and you go against a black, no matter the reason, you are wrong and will be punished for it because the administration will not punish their own kind. It is their belief that whites should be black men's lackeys because on the outside black men are being allowed to seduce, rape, and marry our white women." J. E. - Alabama

Saxon News From S. Africa

WILLIAM RATTE: "Commandant Willem Ratte and 11 others were arrested on the morning of February 10 for allegedly attempting to steal weapons and ammunition at Pomfret Military Base near Vryburg in NW Provence, the Army announced.

"Those arrested included a woman and a 16 year old boy. Members of the South African Army trapped the group in one of the weapons and ammunition stores. An exchange of fire took place but nobody was injured....

"Ratte is out of prison on bail pending his appeal against a five year sentence for his part in the 1993 occupation of Fort Schanskop in Pretoria. He made headlines last year when he went on a 55 day hunger strike. Ratte is also facing charges in connection with operating Radio Donkerhock outside Pretoria without a license..." (Southern Africa Update, Robert Slimp, Feb 1997, Vol IV, Number 2. 4636 Crystal Drive, Columbia, SC 29206.

RKH: In Ireland, the Catholic IRA resistance is uniformly successful - it is quietly supported by the Catholic Church. In S. Africa, anti-Communist resistance is uniformly unsuccessful; the Catholic Church in S. Africa has shown a marked sympathy for the Communist cause. Chris Hani, #2 man in Mandela's government was discovered to be a secret Catholic after his death (he was buried in consecrated ground); Mandela, the S. African black president, is known to have taken the Catholic sacraments.[17] Clive Derby- Lewis and Janus Walus who allegedly conspired to shoot Chris Hani were quickly caught and imprisoned. Both were Catholic, as is William Ratte who was also caught in the act. All are Catholics. With Catholics in the leadership and Catholics leading the opposition, the winner of such a confrontation is not in doubt.

SA DEBT: For each Rand which the government receives in income, it must use 91¢ for the repayment of debts. "We are thus left with just 9¢ to meet the needs of the people. Insider Nov 15, 1995, PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA

America

IT HAS STARTED AGAIN: From about 1880 to about 1920, Americans felt that justice could not be obtained from what was felt to be a corrupt legal system, and they tended to take matters into their own hands: In Bristol, Virginia, a local high school coach who was a former member of Virginia's House Of Delegates, was charged in October with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. In November, he was charged with attempted forcible sodomy of another teen-age boy. At 5:30 AM, Sunday, someone poured gasoline on his lawn and set it on fire. When the accused came to the door to investigate - someone shot him. (Story in News & Advance, Lynchburg, VA 5-19-97, A5.)

17 "A photo on the front page of the Argus (9/13/93) shows Mandela receiving communion from the Roman Catholic archbishop, Lawrence Henry." Signposts P.O. Box 26148, Arcadia 0007, South Africa reproduced in Global Glance, Bill Bathman, Editor, PO Box 28240, Tempe, AZ 85285-8240 1 March 1994

INFECTIOUS TB: Infectious TB is on the rise again, but this time there is no cure. In S. Africa, 40% of the people have the disease. In California, during a trial for a TB-infected criminal, everyone including the judge on the bench, were wearing protective masks. (NHCC, PO Box 549, Midpines, CA 95345 4-5-97)

BLACK CRIME: The Police Commissioner of London reported that street muggings are a Black monopoly, for which he was attacked by the establishment because he dared mention the race of the criminals. Otto Scott's Compass, 828 S. 299th Place, Federal Way, WA 98003, August 1, 1996

JOB FLIGHT: Thomson Consumer Electronics is firing 1500 workers and moving to Mexico. Reason? Mexican workers receive $2.20 an hour vs. $19 an hour in the US. Indianapolis Star 2-14-97

ED: Fire US workers, move to Mexico and produce cheap electronics, and then sell these electronics back to jobless workers in the US? How long do you suppose this can go on? Its nothing a 1000% tariff won't cure in a hurry.

REPUBLIC OF TEXAS

I was asked to comment on the so called stand-off by one Richard McLaren of the "Republic Of Texas."

First, there are TWO Republic Of Texas governments. The president of the second R. of T. is David Johnson, 915-335-5021. I called Johnson and asked him about the standoff reported by the media. He replied that the R. Of T. had nothing to do with it. Over six months ago the central figure, Richard McLaren, was relieved of his duties and his stand-off was a rogue action and his followers were from out of state. Johnson said that he believed that someone had gotten to McLaren, and that in his opinion the only way that McLaren could have proved his actions legit was if he had been removed in a body bag - and that didn't happen.

David Johnson is an interesting sort. He is steeped in history and convinced of the rightness of the cause of Texas. He said that R. of T. already has the support of 2 million Texas voters and will soon have more. He is convinced that in a short time Texas will become an independent nation. His E-mail address is (RCJ@basinlink.net) and the R. of Texas page address is (http://www.republic-of-texas.com)

The president of the first R of T is Archie Huel Lowe, 903-326- 4684. His Secretary Of State is Robert William Kesterson, 972- 222-8785.I talked to Robert Kesterson. He has been roundly abused by state authorities for not producing the organization's membership lists. His view of Richard McLaren's stand-off was much the same as was David Johnson's. Regardless of his feeling about the breakaway R of T, he said that he believes that its president, David Johnson, is a patriotic Texan. A mature observation.

From my point of view - it appears that the R of T has a legal and just cause. The basic respect that the competing parties have one for another bodes well for the future of the movement. Hopefully, the two factions will be able to mend their differences and present a common front to the establishment.

There is one more thing. Two of McLaren's followers left when he gave up and were tracked by dogs. One of the two shot at the dogs and was shot dead by his pursuers in turn. The other is a mere boy of 21. If he isn't killed by the ATF or some other federal or state police group, he may be the leader we are looking for. He will have to be taught, nurtured, and guided, but at this moment he shows more pure grit than anyone else out there. An ounce of grit is worth more than a thousand pounds of hot air.

==========

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 274

McVEIGH or THE GOVERNMENT?

The International Trade Cartel rules America. For generations it ruled through native surragates. Now it is beginning to rule directly. Its hall mark is the pyramid of heads at Bagdad's gate, the slaughter of the Crimean Goths, Attila's trail of blood, the Russian gulag, and Ruby Ridge. Americans are encouraged to vote for cartel agents publicized by the cartel media to be their masters. The ones chosen have recently begun to display their master's nature. Wolves eat sheep - that's what they do. The smell of sheep blood is in the air and the rest of the flock has begun to take notice.

What People Remember

The government said that the Weavers were the evil ones. The American people only remember that government agents killed the mother, the teen-age son, and the dog, and the one who killed the mother went on to drive a tank at Waco and help kill still others.

The government said that the Arabs were evil terrorists responsible for setting off a bomb in the World Trade Center which killed a half dozen people while trying to kill 100,000. Later, the accused produced a tape revealing that a government agent was responsible for encouraging the attack and showing them how to make the bomb. If it had not been for the government there would have been no attack on the World Trade Center. This is what people remember about the Trade Center. It was the cartel's government.

The government said that Koresh and his followers were evil. All that people remember about Waco is that the government killed 80 odd men women and children in an inferno. These people had harmed no one, and their tormentors machine-gunned the survivors fleeing the flames (see Washington Post Apr 16, "Waco: Still Burning."). The few survivors not burned alive or shot down were thrown in prison on trumped up charges and they languish there to this day.

Most people have already forgotten the name "Koresh," but they remember what the government did at Waco.

A bomb went off at the Murrah Building in Oklahoma City. The government says that someone named Tim McVeigh did it. The government cherry-picked a jury; and staffed the setup with a hanging judge, a defense lawyer whose defense was inept at best, who together saw McVeigh convicted and sentenced to death.

But the matter doesn't end there. Why? The American people have gone through all this before. They have eyes - they can see. They also ask questions - questions the government is not about to answer. And people are guessing the reason why.

What is the Government Trying To Do?

The government must prove to the satisfaction of the taxpayers whom they regulate, imprison, and kill in their never- ending wars, that these same taxpayers have chosen the existing government of their own freewill; that the existing ruling government is the best of all governments, and obedient to the voter's wishes; that no one can keep the peace as well as they can, that they are fair, impartial, economical, productive, and that they do all the things that governments are supposed to do better than anyone else. A tall order!

The alternative to the above is an outright police state where the government does by force the things it formerly did by persuasion. The end result is the same in either case. All kings are hired by the International Trade Cartel to protect their commercial interests. This is what they were hired to do and this is what they do - either by persuasion or by force.

Things Americans Are Pondering

According to an Oklahoma City (AP) report of June 4, 1997, a state lawmaker suspected a government cover-up of the federal building bombing and had turned in petitions aimed at triggering a county grand jury investigation.

"'We've been stopped and stymied every step of the way, and the Feds are covering up half of what happened here." (http:// www.nswpp .org)

James Floyd wrote on June 5, 1997:

"Now the Judge: The truth is that this robed charlatan has carefully choreographed a 'show trial' comparable to a Stalinist ruse. A cruel heavy-handed and deleterious enterprise which so disproportionately favored an equally heavy-handed government that it will haunt this nation's judiciary forever.

"Judge Richard has truly become the personification of ex-parte. A blatantly duplicitous practitioner of the 'one side only' law court (his) instead of a judge in a 'court of law.'

"He disallowed and disallowed and disallowed. So much so, that we hear nothing of the second blast, the evacuation of the area because of the remaining unexploded bombs, the OKC Fire Department (on the way to the Murrah Building before the blast took place), the John Doe 2, 3, nor did he allow any testimony regarding the criminal inefficiency of the FBI except as narrowly applied to this case. He in fact protected his own to the extreme. ...

"Real people such as General Benton Partin, explosives expert and engineer, were refused while Earl Turner jumped forward from the pages of the fictitious 'Turner's Diaries' to leave his damning influences upon the minds of this jury. ...

"The attorney for the defense, Mr. Jones, remained gagged; and not just gagged but hog-tied and jumping only on cue. Where is the other Jones? The Jones who said 'after this trial you will never look at your government the same again." [Internet (jfloyd @airnet.net)]

As Ian Williams Goddard Sees It

"Evidence is overwhelming that federal authorities were aware that a terrorist event was going to take place in Oklahoma City before the bombing of the Murrah Building took place. In fact, two law suits have been filed against the federal government on behalf of bombing victims for failing to give warning to victims of the bombing.'

Goddard's article goes on to say that in the first suit 44 of the victims have retained Richard Bieder, and, in the second, more than 300 who suffered losses in the bombing have retained Johnnie Cochran (of O.J. Simpson fame) to represent them. (nswpp@earthlink.net) June 13, 1997.

Unexploded Bombs

A statement by J.D. Read who worked in the building is shocking. Read states that he went to the office building at 7:30 AM before the explosion and saw the Oklahoma County Bomb parked outside the courthouse. This was the same bomb squad that removed the unexploded bombs after the explosion. This would make it appear that they were sitting around for the explosion to take place so that they could take out "unexploded bombs."

Initially, the media played up the story of how unexploded bombs were being taken out of the bomb-damaged Murrah Building. What ever happened to these bombs? Was it ever determined who made them? How was Tim McVeigh able to get them into the building - if indeed he was the responsible party.

Brigadier General Benton Partin, USAF Ret., spent 25 years in research, design and testing various weapons. In a July 30, 1995 letter to Sen. Trent Lott, Gen Partin urged "no government law enforcement agency should be permitted to demolish, smash and bury evidence of a counter-terrorism sting operation, sabotage or terrorist attack without a thorough examination by an independent, technically competent agency."

What happened next? Why, the Feds rushed in and bulldozed the Murrah Building! What were they so anxious to hide?

After examining hundreds of photos of the the Murrah Building and examining the building itself, Gen Partin announced that at least four demolition charges were set off at four critical columns of the reinforced concrete structure at the floor level of the third floor. He added that it was his belief that, "based on my experience in weapons development and bomb damage analysis, and on my review of all evidence available, I can say, with a high level of confidence, that the damage pattern on the reinforced concrete superstructure could not possibly have been attained from the single truck bomb."

This position was seconded by physicist Sam Cohen who reportedly also thinks that internal demolition charges were used.

20/20 Has Its Say

The 20/20 investigations uncovered information that showed the Oklahoma City Fire Department had received a call from the FBI five days before the bombing (4-14-95) warning that "there were some people coming though town that they should be on the look out for."

20/20 also discovered that someone at the Justice Department in D.C. called to report the Murrah Building bombing 24 minutes before the blast actually took place.

U.S. District Judge Wayne Alley, in offices across the street from the Murrah Building, told Oregon's largest daily newspaper, The Oregonian, that he had been warned to take "extra precautions" several days before the April 19th blast.

At least 10 ATF agents were at the Murrah Building moments after the blast. However, it seems they were absent when the blast took place. 20/20 (1-17-97) interviewed a man who ran into an ATF agent who said that he had survived the blast because "We were tipped by our pagers not to come into work today."

Damage Control

Stung by charges that the ATF had prior knowledge and had removed their agents from the Murrah Building before the blast - the ATF cooked up a story that its agent Alex McCauley and DEA agent David Chickendance, were in the elevator and that the elevator fell five stories. They survived the fall and helped rescue efforts.

20/20 interviewed Midwestern Elevator elevator maintenance crewmen Oscar Johnson and Duane James who said that the ATF's story was "pure fantasy." They had inspected the Murrah Building elevators shortly after the blast on April 19 and found all the elevators in perfect condition and could not possibly have fallen as the ATF claimed. If the elevator had fallen five-stories, its occupants would have sustained severe injuries and could not have helped rescue efforts.

Claiming Credit For The Bombing

No one has claimed credit for the Oklahoma City bombing. Right wing patriots are accused of having done it, but no one will claim credit for having done so. It is strange in the extreme that such a political statement has no author.

Incidentally, the Murrah Building is supposed to have warehoused papers dealing with the government's attack on the Branch Divadians. What happened to those papers?

The Two Explosions Mystery

Why has no attempt been made to explain the TWO explosions recorded on the University of Oklahoma's Geological Survey seismographs eight seconds apart? Why did the report of two explosions disappear from the media within hours of its airing.

Final Question

The following is one of the best questions asked:

"Why was the reaction of the Clinton administration, blaming right-wing radio talk shows for the incident and demanding the most draconian police state legislation ever proposed in the United States, so swift and obviously organized? The air of orchestration about the whole government response did not escape notice even at the time ....

"A blizzard of OKC-related 'domestic terrorism' bills were rushed into Congress in a matter days, some of them pre-written and already printed up BEFORE THE BOMBING. These proposed laws cover everything from banning virtually all privately owned firearms to unlimited and court-admissible Federal wiretaps to censorship of the Internet to the suspension of habeas corpus in 'terrorism' cases to the grotesque 2580, which imposes a 5-year prison sentence for publicly engaging in 'unseemly speculation' and publishing or transmitting by wire or electronic means 'baseless conspiracy theories regarding the Federal government of the United States'. Who decides what is a 'baseless conspiracy theory'? Why, the very same government doing the conspiring, of course.

"How exactly was a normally cumbersome, inefficient, and glacially slow legislative branch able to move so quickly, so comprehensively, and so efficiently in introducing these laws which will strip Americans of what remaining freedoms they have?" [Internet (http:// www.nswpp .org)]

Conclusion

The evidence available, most of which was not presented, suggests that elements within the federal government may have actively participated in the mass murder in Oklahoma City, which resulted in massive new powers being given to the federal government to possibly fight terrorism - but more likely to be used to enslave the people.

The cartel government, even when found guilty, is unrepentant. Knowing this, the Oklahoma City bombing takes on the character of people conditioning. Conditioning them to "a touch of the whip;" a wake-up call to pay attention to the voice of their new master. It wasn't Tim McVeigh. McVeigh was a sheep. Sheep don't eat sheep. Wolves eat sheep. There are always a thousand Tim McVeigh sheep that can be blamed - but the ill fitting sheepskin of the government reveals the presence of the wolf.

LETTER FROM S. AFRICA by K.J.

The Conservative Party called a meeting. They announced beforehand that they would not allow a discussion of the past and few showed up. At the same time the Boerestaat Party held a Majuba Festival without publicity to celebrate the British defeat and had a full house.

Nelson Mandela said last week that whites are second rate people to be discarded. The sole purpose of the Tutu commission is to degrade and humiliate whites.

My husband served as a police reservist for 23 years without pay. The same goes for most young white men who served in the Defense Force for two years and afterwards served one month each year training at camp. The turncoat, General Tienie Groenewal, is now in the forefront to get these people to apply for amnesty and give Bishop Tutu a list of names of patriotic whites.[1]

The recent book Volksveraad (Sellout) states that Gen Piet Joubert was court- martialed by a tribunal made up of generals de Wet, de la Rey and Louis Botha[2] because of his refusal to pursue fleeing British troops. His sympathy was with the British. He was found guilty of dereliction of duty and a glass with green liquid and a Mauser bullet were placed on the table in front of him. He chose the glass and died soon afterwards. Traitors now hide behind abusive words and attempted character assassination.

The blacks not only kill when they hijack whites in cars, but with heavy trucks they ram white occupied cars and simply flatten them, as happened in Western Transvaal to HNP members.

I had a very sharp lesson on British/Afrikaans relations a week ago. While waiting to pay a bill, a retired couple from England started talking about their new government in England and later talked about how bad crime is here. I said that the last worthwhile South African prime minister was Verwoerd. They replied that if Winston Churchill were still alive he would have sent English troops in after we declared ourselves to be an independent Republic. I reminded them that the last time England did this it resulted in the murder of 28,000 women and children in British concentration camps - an atrocity of an unjust war for which the Queen refuses to 1 Bishop Tutu: A black antiSaxonite appointed by the Episcopal Church of England to rule South African Whites. "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: zuwr - racial alien) over thee, which is not they brother." Deu 17:15. Informed Saxons no longer look on the Church of England as being Christian.

2 These three were the most dashing and successful leaders who with 15,000 men defended South Africa against England's invasion (1899-1902) with 250,000 soldiers.

apologize. This old biddy looked me in the eye and said, "Why should she?"

To be British means you can simply invade a sovereign country and murder at will. They must think very highly of themselves. It is no wonder that we find it hard to get on well with them.

EDITORS NOTE: Episcopal Systems (rule from top down) are the beast wolf-pack system. Alpha-wolf authoritarian rule is their nature. They believe that all opposed to them should be destroyed. The beast system encourages the beast nature - a nature which tends to rub off on its subjects. Virginia fought the British beast system three times and the American beast system once; 1676, 1776, 1812 and 1861-65. On each occasion we found the beast's representatives eager for plunder, eager to burn, and for the most part, completely lacking Christian compassion. On three of the occasions, representatives of both British and American kings refused to take prisoners engaged in legitimate warfare, or executed them after surrender. Representatives of the American king would not bury the dead of their enemy, and often times would not bury their own, and made little or no effort to control their soldiers' acts of murder, rape and looting against civilian populations. Oh, yes! We know about the ways of kings and the servant-mind their feudal systems produce. We also recognize the dozen wanna-be episcopal replacements who want to step into the shoes of the king.

TALKED TO AT BRANSON

While speaking at Branson, Missouri, three nice looking chaps came up and said they wanted to talk to me. They said that they had come to the meeting at Branson for one purpose

- to tell me the results of the HR subscribers' Prison Book Ministry.

These boys said that the books make ALL the difference. Inmates have nothing else to do except read. In their prison, one of our books arrived and made the rounds. Soon, a discussion/study group sprang up. Other books arrived. The discussions got hot, intelligent, and with the books - learned.

They asked me to convey their conversation to HR subscribers that the book ministry of theirs is the single most effective ministry in prisons, dollar for dollar, anywhere, and one can't possibly imagine the good it does.

LETTERS

WHAT ABOUT HER?:"Dear Mr. Hoskins: I'm thinking about getting married to a girl who has a past. What about it?" A.S. - Washington

ED: "Speak unto the priests ... a profane, or a harlot he shall not take: but he shall take a virgin of his own people to wife." Lev 21:1-14; "And the daughter of any priest, if she profane herself by playing the whore, she profaneth her father: she shall be burnt with fire." Lev 21:7; "They shall not take a wife that is a whore, or profane; neither shall they take a woman put away from her husband: for he is holy unto his God." Lev 21:7; We are all appointed kings and priests by Jesus Christ. "Jesus Christ ... hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father; Rev 1:5,6

DAVID TATE SPEAKS: David Tate, youngest member of "The Order," was interviewed for an article. When asked "What is your advice to the people outside of prison? He replied:

"Do Something, anything! Just do not sit idle. There are those who would follow the example of The Order, that is not my advice, nor do I disagree with such action. But, I will say this: once you've crossed the line, you cannot turn back. You must leave family and friends, you cannot work with an above-ground organization. You are committed for life. Period." David Tate w/155209, Potosi Corr. Center, Rt 2 Box 2222, Mineral Point, MO 63660.

PRISONER COMPLAINT: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: "I am at this time targeted by the administration with a 'Security threat group' classification because I am white and attempted to start a Saxon Christian Church. We got only barely started before the anti- White organizations got together and put a stop to it. There ought to be prisons where a White man can practice Christianity without having 1/2 or more of the prison trying to kill him! Can you help? H.J. - Michigan

ED: Wish I could. Every prison that I know of allowed to practice Bible Christianity has had to fight for it. It hasn't been easy. You can expect persecution. The book of the Testament of Dan states: "The enemy is eager to destroy all that call upon the Lord. For he knoweth that upon the day that Israel shall repent, the kingdom of the enemy shall be brought to an end." Testiment Of Dan 2:16- 17.

UNFILTERED NEWS

ULTIMATE WEAPON GIVEN AWAY: "'Israel To Get Secret Death Ray' say May 13, 1996 Spotlight headlines. This weapon was kept from US forces because it was considered 'too inhuman'! ... The public announcement of the gigantic defense give-away ... identifies the weapon only as the 'Nautilus anti- missile' laser. The Buck Rogers-style weapon can destroy missiles in flight with deadly accuracy. ... It can (also) be used on the ground to instantly immobilize and permanently blind thousands of combat troops in an instant. After almost a decade of closely guarded development, the Pentagon's top brass welcomed it as a wonder weapon and a decisive breakthrough in battlefield electronic warfare. The 'Nautilus' represents the ultimate combat technology. Properly engineered it will destroy anything in its path. It is estimated to have cost the American taxpayer more than $10 billion." The Strategy, 92 Neale St., Bendigo, Vic 3660, AUSTRALIA

HINDU: Hindus in England have elected their own Parliament to enact their own laws. They now demand that their religion be taught in English government schools where Asian pupils are a majority. Otto Scott's Compass, 828 S. 299th Place, Federal Way, WA 98003

DHARMA: "We need to forcefully engage in... an action that is intolerant of intolerance... It is an action that sets company, church, synagogue, mosque and organizational policy to remove from employment or membership any who practice racial, religious or other prejudice. Giving bias, bigotry and racism no quarter and treating discrimination and prejudice the way we treat harassment will send a message to all..." Jeffery B. Spence, E. Dir., Nat Conf Christ & Jews, p. F5, Dec 10 1995. (Story in News & Advance, Article says that he lives in Richmond).

RKH: Dharmamatras are hired to teach Dharma. The world's trade religion, Hinduism, teaches Dharma to destroy anything that stands in the way of the international trader. Its basic demand - "Without regard to race, creed or national origin." Once this is accepted, all else becomes merely a "mop-up operation."

Strangers

UNITED STATES: Ex- President Ronald Regan was married to a stranger and had several children by her. "They have dealt treacherously against the Lord: for they have begotten strange children." Hosea 5:7 "And in those days... I... made them swear by God, saying, Ye shall not give your daughters unto their sons, nor take their daughters unto your sons, or for yourselves.... Thus cleansed I them from all strangers (5236 Nekar - alien, strange). Neh 13:24-29

UNITED STATES: Ex-President Bush has blessed the marriage of his daughter to a stranger. "If ye do in any wise... make marriages with them... ye (shall) perish." Joshua 23:12-13

UNITED STATES: Presidential Hopeful Phil Graham of Texas is married to an Asian. "When they had heard the law... they separated from Israel all the mixed (mongrel) multitude." Neh 13:3

Repentant White Trash

LISA & MICHAEL: Lisa Marie Presley filed for divorce from Michael Jackson citing irreconcilable differences. She discovered that she was White and he was Black.[3] (This is an error. It has been reported that Elvis was Jewish.)

Unrepentant White Trash

DENMARK: Prince Joachimof Denmark married a Chinese business woman Alexandra Manley of Hong Kong.[4]

GINGRICH - WE REMEMBER

House Speaker Newt Gingrich gave a speech on March 24, 1996, endorsing a candlelight AIDS march that benefits pro-homosexual organizations. Among them are the Whitman-Walker Clinic, which treats AIDS victims but also runs homosexual activist workshops, promotes lesbian parenting and places "safe-sex" ads in a Washington newspaper for homosexuals. The newspaper also runs ads for strip clubs and bath houses. The newspaper noted that Gingrich credited openly- homosexual Rep Steve Gunderson (R-WI) for asking him to publicize the march. Gingrich also credited Gunderson's homosexual partner ..." Washington Watch, 5/2/96; Washington Blade, 3/29/96; AFA, POB 2123, Valdosta GA 31604, 912-244-8493, Jul/Aug '96.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 275

GOATS

"When the Son of man shall come ... He shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left. ... Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels." Matt 25 31-46

Goats

The subject goat is treated seriously by Scripture. It's time CHRISTIANS treated the subject seriously.

The word goat is different from the word stranger[1] - it is easy to understand. The following is for the benefit of those not brought up on farms:

> GOAT: "... Closely allied to the sheep. While usually easy to distinguish the two, certain ... breeds of sheep are, to the layman, only distinguishable from goats by the direction of the tail, upward in goats, downward in sheep. ... Goats are also used to keep sheep spread out and on the move." (E/B, 14th Ed, Vol 10, goats:)

Scripture uses the term goat as a symbol of a wicked person. There are two kinds of "goats" - just plain goats, and "goats with wolf minds." Both are condemned by the WORD.

The first mentioned goat is the prize over which the struggle rages between wolves and sheep. The second has consciously allied himself with the wolves, thinks of himself as a wolf, is almost always found running with the wolf-pack.

The Playing Field

Scripture constantly refers to sheep, goats, and wolves. Today, most people live in cities and the terms sheep, goats, and wolves have fallen into disuse. However, they remain key in understanding the WORD.

SHEEP: The sheep are "adam-man" - obedient to the

---

1 STRANGER: Hebrew: Zûwr-strangers (2111) are non- adamites. They are alien strangers - wolves - wolves eat sheep. The other strangers referred to are adamites. Adamite strangers usually grouped under "Gêr strangers" (1616) they are kinsmen living in a different political jurisdiction. In between are two very different strangers - Nokrîy (5237) and Nêkâr-strangers (5236). They are also kinsmen, but called goats because they are disobedient to the Shepherd. They are different from each other. Nêkâr-goats (5236) are disobedient while retaining their sheep nature. Nokrîy (5237)-goats have been trained to have wolf-minds. They will hurt you. They are often employed by the wolves to help them against sheep. There are also other Hebrew words describing strangers.

WORD. Those fortunate enough to be raised on self-sufficient farms recognize how sheep act because they know sheep. This was still true until only a couple of generations ago. God the WORD created adam-man in his image and said to him; "Ye have not chosen me but I have chosen you, and ordained you." John 15:16. He said to Adam-man, "Before I formed you in the womb, I knew you; and before you came forth from the womb, I sanctified you, and I ordained you." Jer. 1:5.

God not only chose Adam-man, but, like it or not, he ordained him to rule this world in his name. They are his sheep, the sheep of his pasture.

Thus, according to Scripture, each man, before he was delivered from his mother in blood and water - whether he is presently a scumbag or saint - was hand-picked by God the WORD before he was born, made in the image of God the WORD, and has the Laws, Statues and Judgments of his God implanted in his very genes. His own willfulness turns him into a goat. A goat chooses evil.

NOW! Take a deep breath and read this again. You should be getting some idea of just how important you are and how important your mission is.

WOLVES: Educated Christians understand about "wolves." Wolves are zûwr strangers, racial aliens. Since the Scriptures record only the "generations of adam,[2] wolf history appears only when wolves attack man.

Wolves spend their time plotting to gain entry into sheepfolds. To help, they hire Judas-goats.[3] Once inside, wolves

2 "This is the book of the generations of Adam." Gen 5:1

3 "A Judas-goat is an animal used to lead others to destruction." Oxford Dict.

set up slaughterhouse operations and begin processing sheep. Wolves eat sheep - that's what they do. Goats help them do what they do.

WOLF'S ENEMY: The greatest enemy the wolf has is the WORD. The land that obeys the WORD has no wolves - or goats - spawned by wolf teachings. The land that repents and returns to the WORD will banish wolves and closely monitor goats to make them behave.

The second greatest enemy of the wolf is - "Adam-man." Adam-man was made by the WORD, in the image of the WORD, and was enfiefed by Him to govern the world - justly! To do this he must subdue the wolf and bring righteousness to the land. Alarmed at this, the wolf retaliates by seeking to turn as many of the sheep as he can into goats to keep the rams from coming after him. In the process he also makes servants of them. The wolf's teaching results in sheep and goats in the same family, and when this happens there is strife within one's own family when the WORD is again preached.[5]

Nature Of Beasts

When in the beginning God created beasts he gave them the nature of beasts. Wolves were given the nature of beasts. This beast nature continues in the offspring of a cross between a wolf and a sheep. A part wolf still has the beast nature of the wolf. For this reason it is forbidden for part-wolves to

4 "The enemy is eager to destroy all that call upon the Lord. For he knoweth that upon the day that Israel shall repent, the kingdom of the enemy shall be brought to an end." Testament Of Dan 2:16-17.

5 "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword. I am come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law. And a man's foes shall be they of his own household." Matt 10:34- 36 enter the flock.[6] A part wolf is a wolf. He is not a goat. Wolves are wolves - goats are goats.

GOATS: Goats are disobedient sheep.[7]

Sheep are changed into goats by the thousands by wolf-schools and the wolf-media. A national study was made of the sex habits of youngsters. The results are contained in the table below:

The national study "Sex and America's Teen-agers"
12 years old:	94% are NOT sexually active
13 years old:	84% are NOT sexually active
14 years old:	77% are NOT sexually active
15 years old:	70% are NOT sexually active
16 years old:	58% are NOT sexually active
17 years old:	44% are NOT sexually active
18 years old:	29% are NOT sexually active
19 years old:	18% are NOT sexually active

Lynchburg students who were interviewed in connection with the study replied that they didn't know the situation was that bad, but there was great pressure on them to conform.

"Many teen-agers said the pressure comes from television and the movies. It's like you're reminded all of the time that it's out there ... "Television shows such as Melrose Place,

6 "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord; even to his tenth generation shall he not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel)." De 23:2

7 The Greek word for goat 2055 is er-if-ee-on; - "the symbol of a wicked person." (Strong's Concordance)

Beverly Hills 90210, and all of the daytime soap operas constantly feature young people having sex, with lots of different partners."

One young girl put it this way;

"These are the kinds of people that we have shown to us all of the time. ... Sometimes I think there must be something wrong with me because I'm not having sex." (News & Advance, p1, July 21, 1997)

Those that succumb to the blandishments of the wolf-howl find that "Every sheep that wanders from the path ... becomes food for the wolf." Ahkar 2:30.

GOATS - WOLF SERVANTS: Rams of the sheep flock can be fearsome foes to the wolves. On the other hand, sheep conditioned by the wolf into goats then can be marvelous servants of the wolf.

JANNASARIES (Turkic for white slave) - For many years the Turks bought and stole lambs. They raised these lambs to be followers of Islam and then enlisted them into their armies as Janisarries. Virtually free from the usual wolf characteristics of treachery and chicanery, and absolutely loyal to the hand that fed them, they formed a strike force of between 20,000 and 40,000 that were the first to meet the warrior sheep of Christendom. They led Islam's wolves to victory after victory. Becoming too powerful, the wolves turned on them and they were eaten each and every one by the pack they had long served. (Wolf & The Sheep, Hoskins)

RENEGADES - After killing settlers, Indians would often take their children and raise them in Indian wolf-lore. When grown these wolf- trained goats were dressed in sheep clothing and sent to forts to seek shelter for the night. During the night they would open the gates to the wolves - who would enter and do what wolves do. Morning found the flock slaughtered and the sheepfold empty of all but the occasional wolves still fighting over the sheep's belongings.

Making A Goat

Eve listened to the serpent, the voice of the wolf, and became the first goat. Adam listened to Eve and became the second. Leaving the protection of the WORD they ate the fruit of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, and received just punishment. Then, properly contrite, they returned to the protection of the WORD.

From that time to this the struggle has raged between the wolf and his serpent teachings, and Adam, created in the image of God and armed with the WORD. The contention centers on the goat - the sheep who rejects the WORD.

The sheep defend the sheepfold by winning goats back to the WORD, thereby depriving the wolf of agents.

The Common Goat

Most sheep are content to live quietly as sheep. Exposed to the wolf-howl and the teachings of Judas-goats, certain sheep become goats.

Judas Goats

A Judas-goat betrayed Jesus. The wolf pays blood money to Judas- goats to betray Christian congregations and lead them astray - which is why the wrath of the sheep is directed against the Judas-goat more than the wolf who pays him.

The Judas-goat develops from the common-goat. Judas-goats open sheepfold gates. These are the really dangerous ones. Without the Judas-goat to open the gate the wolf would still be outside the sheepfold howling to come in.

Before a wolf can enter a trade area to buy and sell he must first make friends with the God of that area, else, that God may tell his followers to kill the wolf. Being killed removes the profit from trade.

It is the job of the Judas-priest to calm the sheep so that they can be eaten. He is part of a simple well thought-out-operation performed many times in the past in which the goat-priest, in exchange for gifts, teaches dharma.[8] Dharma teaches the sheep to accept the wolf.

Once inside the sheepfold the wolf hires other Judas-goats to act as kings and help him rule. But, the Judas-priest comes first. He opens the gate. He is first in the devil's hall of fame.

GOAT PRIESTS - Sheepfolds exclude wolves. Excluded wolves need Judas-goats to open the gates. Wolves know that sheep will do whatever their Shepherd tells them to do. Knowing this, wolves convert sheep-priests into Judas-goats with offers of "using their media," gaining "tax exemption," and obtaining "wolf-media rave reviews." The wolves then use these Judas-goat priests to convert entire congregations into goats.

MAKING GOATS IN SEMINARIES: In exchange for large gifts to sheep seminaries, wolves are often given permission to teach their young sheep. Instead of teaching them the WORD, they teach "wolf- lore." Thus, student sheep-priests are often converted while in training in sheep seminaries into Judas-goats. Churches who obtain these Judas-priests graduates soon find that they have more and more goat-parishioners and in time they become goat- churches.

---

8 Hindu: "Dharma" - non- violence, obedience, tolerance of other peoples and their gods without regard to "race, creed, or nationality." Buddhist technique of pacifying divergent populations to expedite trade. "Dharmitized - to be subdued by Dharma. "Dharmamatra" - government enforcer of Dharma.

GOATS CAUSE LOATHING: Sheep preachers are expected to be paragons of virtue. When they are not it causes a backlash among the righteous sheep. Knowing this the wolf-media advertise goats as being righteous sheep and leaders of Christendom.

Entire goat sects have been established by the wolf-media. The Judeo-Christian sect was created in this manner with its icons being media creations.

One after another these icons, these shining examples of Protestant reform Christianity, have been exposed acting like wolves. One was caught stealing money from his supporters and thrown in prison. His wife promptly deserted him and ran off with another preacher - who in turn was thrown in prison. Now she is back with the first[9] - whom the wolfhowl is predictably promoting for a comeback.

Another old goat was caught frequenting brothels. Caught red- handed, he at first protested his innocence, but then confessed his sin with tears in his eyes. Publicly repenting on bended knee, he was forgiven and went right back to the brothel and was caught again.

Another J-C reform icon is actually a wolf in sheep's clothing. He maintains that God's Commandments are done away. It was discovered that still another had lived in a commune with his present wife long before they married. The reason they married at all was that he had gotten her pregnant and that he couldn't enter the ministry dragging along his child by the unwed mother of his child. Even goat-churches draw the line somewhere. Another gave his daughter to a wolf to be his wife.

9 "Her former husband, which sent her away, may not take her again to be his wife." Deut 24:4

IT GETS WORSE: One group of these Judeo-Christian churches sponsored a black-wolf to be an evangelist to sheep churches. In time there was a deluge of complaints that the black-wolf had used his position as God's representative to seduce scores of sheep. The leaders of the churches responsible were upset that the indiscretions of the black-wolf were made public.

STILL WORSE: The Protestant and Catholic mainstream priests provide disgraceful examples. Hardly a week goes by that the wolf- howl does not gleefully expose a priest or preacher as a pedofile or homosexual. Also, gleefully related - is the fact that the denominations object only to the exposure, not the act, and that they do virtually nothing about it. Those exposed include bishops and arch-bishops - and it seems that the indiscretions have been going on for decades - even centuries.

THE RESULT: The result of wolf mission work among sheep is the goat. The goat is a sheep with the mindset of a wolf. The goat has been pushed to the fore and the result is that many sheep churches are now goat churches. Sheep, finding it difficult to find fellowship in goat churches are opting for home churches. They are leaving the establishment church in droves.

GOAT KINGS : Wolves hire Goat-Kings to protect the interests of the wolf - which almost always means the betrayal of the interest of the sheep.

A short list of Goat-Kings would include most American presidents for the last century and a half. It would also include most of the rulers of the other Western states for that same time period, and before. The ones burned into our minds are the most recent: Governor J. Lindsay Almond of Virginia, Smith of Rhodesia, and deKlerk of SA.[10] Without question, when the Saxon gains his freedom - the Judas-goat who is still alive at that time will certainly be judged by those he has wronged. Those who die before that time will have their turn before God's judgment seat.

MEDIA - Without Judas-goats the wolf-media could not function. Without the wolf-media the numbers of sheep being transformed into goats would be drastically curtailed.[11]

The Prize

Obedient sheep are God's treasure. God rewards them with great material and spiritual blessings. The material blessings, and use of the body and labor of the sheep is the plunder the wolf seeks.

Sheep attempt to win goats back to obedience to the WORD. Often, just a nominal effort on their part is crowned with great success. To stop this effort the wolves use Judas-priests and Judas-goats in their pay to direct the sheep's missionary effort away from the goats and direct it instead to wolves where the seed falls on rocky ground.[12]

---

10 No, Waco Bill is not a sheep. He is a wolf. The New York Times, on August 13, 1992, p. C1, carried an article by Todd S. Purdum, stating that president Bill Clinton is a descendant of Irish farmers and Cherokee Indians on his mother's side.

11 "If a false witness rise up ... Then shall ye do unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother." Deu 19:16-19

In spite of the many obstructions thrown up by the wolf and his agents, the effort continues because the fate of the unrepentant goat is written:

> "He shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left. ... Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels ... And these shall go into everlasting punishment: but the righteous into life eternal." Matt 25 31- 46

Letter From South Africa by K.J.

As it happens, being "Christian" hasn't stopped blacks from getting more brutal as they realize what power has been given to them and that there is nothing to curb their brutal behavior.

However, it was the white deKlerk who removed the death sentence and freed thousands of dangerous criminals from prisons. To the African mind this was total agreement that their conduct was proper and it gave them the right to continue on as before.

The enemies of truth have gone over to publicly attacking Mr. Jaap Marais and the HNP. These attacks form a pattern

12 "These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying, Go not unto the way of the Gentiles, and unto any city of the Samaritans enter ye not: But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 10:5,6; "O children of Israel... You only have I known of all the families of the earth." Am 3:1-2; "It is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it to dogs." Matt 15:24-26; "I was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel, and to them alone." Matt 15:24 N.E.B.; "For thou art not sent ... but to the house of Israel." EZ 3:5; "I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me, for they are thine." John 17:9; "For the Lord's portion is his people." De 21:17; "He showed his word unto Jacob, his statutes and his judgments unto Israel. He hath not dealt so with any nation: and as for his judgments, they have not known them." Ps 147:19-20.

that ranges from the anonymous letter, Tienie Groenewald's summary on the book Sellout, Radio Pretoria, venomous letters and articles by Patriot's editorial staff (Conservative Party mouthpiece), and letters by CP followers. The latest is a scathing attack in parliament on Mr. Marais by Pieter Groenewald, a cousin of Tienie.

Sangamas (witch doctors) are now legal medical practitioners.

More on law of the jungle: A white plaintiff was shot dead in a police office by a black policeman. A white man accompanied by a woman and a six year old boy went to Cleveland Police station to lay a charge against a policeman who did nothing when two blacks attacked a white woman at an auto-teller. A black policeman fetched his service revolver and shot a white man twice in his back. When he turned he was shot in the chest, ear and neck and finally while laying on the ground, the black walked over to him and shot him in the head. Two other black policemen dived behind the counter and did not reappear till the murder was completed. A white woman was raped in a police cell by black police. A well known businessman known to the family was shot dead and his car taken. He belonged to a Billy Graham type of church. When the funeral service was held, the pastor's main theme was "do not take revenge" and "Jews and Christians have the same God." Our granddaughter tells of blacks in the boarding school hostel using baths and showers as toilets.

The ANC Broadcasting Company is collapsing after they transformed it into a Black oriented brainwashing machine. The Black staff, as they leave, is literally cleaning out their offices of anything can can be removed.

It looks as if Eugene Terre'Blanche has been effectively removed from public, unless his appeal is successful against a six year prison sentence. He was charged for assaulting a black and the only witness is a black.

I hope to get Piet Pretorius book Sellout in English. It will not be available openly because Tienie Groenewald is suing him. The Groenewald clan controls Radio Pretoria and a settlement around it.

Afrikaans, according to statistics, is still the language of the majority in spite of all the malicious actions by the regime and many English speaking people. More readable books are also now being printed in Afrikaans, than say, ten years ago, a trend started in the late sixties.

LETTERS

TATE'S OBSERVATION: "Dear Richard: "The ancient Greek ... words which we translate 'belief' and 'faith' - properly translated 'be persuaded' and 'persuasion' implied action. For the Greek speaking Israelites who came after Christ who followed The Way, to believe - or be persuaded - meant that you would act upon that persuasion. To English speaking people today the word "belief" does not imply action. Obviously, they are not "persuaded' by their 'beliefs."

"Richard, you know as I do that if every believer acted upon his belief that we could win this struggle overnight." David Tate, (member of The Order).

RKH: For a long time I myself have wondered at the lack of missionary spirit among our people. I think it may have to do with the fear of media terrorism - of being attacked for standing for the truth. Still, one must stand for the WORD. If one has reservations about talking personally, lend them a book to speak for you. Lend it with the comment that you are having trouble with something in that book and if he would read it over the next couple of weeks, he might discuss it with you. Never EVER give away a book - its like an artist giving away his paints. If someone wants a book bad enough he will order a copy himself. You might get a dozen people to read a single copy. Lend a HOSKINS book if you like - or lend someone else's. You select the book that will do best for the person you wish to reach. If he reads it - he'll never be the same. You may have won a goat back to "the WORD which is God." When you return a sheep to the fold you win double. You subtract a goat from the flock guarded by the wolf and add one to the Master's flock. There is nothing more important than working to turn goats back to the fold.

GENEALOGY: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: Enclosed is my 'fast track' genealogy. I descend directly from David I, King of Scotland, and Edward I, the 'Longshanks', King of England. This makes you and me distant cousins. Edward I is not the villain the movie made him out to be. There is no evidence Edward ever instituted Prima Nocta, but it must be admitted that his sadistic execution of Wallace was a dark moment." S.D. - Tennessee

RKH: HR readers have gotten to work. At the last few speaking engagements no less than a dozen at each meeting have raised hands showing that they have their genealogy back to Adam-man. This is the proof that Adam-man[13] and his descendants forever are commanded by God to rule; not any church institution, not the children of Essau flaunting

13 "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he them... and God said... have dominion over... every living thing that moveth upon the earth." Gen 1:27-28: MAN: Heb: Adam 119 - "to show blood(in the face), ie: to flush or turn rosy: - be (dyed, made) red(ruddy). Strong's Concordance: "The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them that do iniquity." Matt 13:41 make-believe ancestors, but Adam-man who can produce his ancestry as proof of his authority.

GENEALOGY QUESTIONS: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: You quote the scripture that states "A bastard (mongrel) shall not enter the congregation of Israel. It is my understanding that our race has been overran and has absorbed several non-Aryan races over the centuries. It is hard to believe that any of us is of pure blood. How does one know? This is just one of the numerous problems I have with Christianity, but it one of the most important." M.R. - Texas

RKH: Good question. There are several answers. First - the three proofs. We bear (1) God's name - CHRISTIAN - "They shall put my name upon the children of Israel." Num 6:27 (2) Isaac's name, SONS OF ISAAC - ISAAC-SONS - SAXONS, "In Isaac shall thy name be called." Romans 9:7, and (3) Adamic descent. "God said, let us make man in our image." Gen 1:26. "Man" in Strong's Concordance is the Hebrew "Adam". "Adam" means to "blush red." "Show blood in the face." Also, GENUINE ISRAELITES CANNOT BE CALLED "ISRAEL." - "Ye shall leave your name (Israel) for a curse ... the Lord God shall call his servants by another name ('Saxon'-'Christian'- 'Man')." Isaiah 66:15. True Israel today produces the 3 proofs. "CHRISTIAN"-"SAXON"-"MAN." No one else can.

Then we have God's promise: "Thus sayeth the Lord, who giveth the sun...and the ordinances of the moon and of the stars ... who divideth the sea ... If those ordinances depart ... then the seed of Israel shall also cease from being a nation before me forever ... If heaven above can be measured, and the foundations of the earth searched out beneath, I will also cast off all the seed of Israel for all they have done, sayeth the Lord." Jer. 31:35-37

Look at who is being punished today: "O children of Israel... You only have I known of all the families of the earth: therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities." Am 3:1-2:

Note that when Saxons, Jews and Blacks are together the Blacks and Jews gravitate to each other; their mutual lawlessness draws them from the Law represented by the Saxon that would cause them harm. When a Black and a White breed - the offspring goes to the stranger's race because "No bastard...". It's the Law! A mixed breed carries the nature of the stranger. He is not made in the image of God the WORD. In time he will violate the Law that will cause his execution. He will wander into Law-violation without even knowing that is doing so. His safety is to be with his own.

As a general rule - when someone acts in a Lawless manner and cannot be turned from his way - suspect his genealogy. What is happening to us today is not all bad. Like breeds like, and like is going with like. What will be left will have passed through the fire.

STILL A MEMBER: "Dear Richard: I was pleased to read your explanation of the Genesis account of Adam, Eve, and the serpent in Hoskins Report #272. Like you, I believe that Adam and Eve of Genesis II are "types." I do not doubt that the events of Genesis II happened, but I believe it happened on a much larger scale than just the individuals Adam & Eve.

"Blood pollution is exactly the program the adversary plotted in Isaiah 14:12-14. They are the "tares" of Matthew 13:40, and the "plant which my heavenly Father hath not planted," which will "be rooted up." in Matthew 15:13.

"Thank you for the breath of fresh air!" Gary Lee Yarbrough #09883-016, PO Box 1000, Leavenworth, KS 66048-1000. Still of the Order,

UNFILTERED NEWS

WACO MURDERS: Edward Allard, a night vision physicist, provides the most ghastly and disturbing moments in a documentary called 'WACO: THE RULES OF ENGAGEMENT,' when he explains what the audience is seeing:

"Nothing in nature," Allard says, "has the thermal signature of gunshots." On screen, one watches a series of quick white blips, several a second, gunshots from automatic weapons, as the Waco church burned on April 19, 1993. Gunfire is shown coming from FBI tanks, and from positions adjacent to the tanks, into the flames, including a 30-second burst of "almost continuous gunfire," aimed directly at the burning building's last remaining exit.

This is juxtaposed against the testimony of FBI officials in Congressional hearings, repeating again and again that federal agents didn't fire a single shot through the entire 51-day standoff.

These are the facts: Federal agents filled the church with flammable, highly toxic gas; ignited it; stationed men at the last exit to machine-gun any survivors, and lied at the Congressional hearings about every detail. The ATF had no reasonable grounds for the initial assault on the church and the FBI had no intention of reaching a peaceful resolution once the standoff began. (Zine WORD #3, 924 Valncia Street, #3, San Francisco, CA 94110. $30.50 USA, $4 Canada/Mexico, $5 World; Geis Letter #37, p. 10.)

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 276

THE NATURE OF THE BEAST

Definitions

God created two natures - one for the man he had created and one for the beasts he had created. Man was created in the image of the WORD and to have the nature of the WORD;

"In the day when God created man (Adam), he implanted in him his passions and inclinations, and... set his mind on a throne amidst the senses to be his sacred guide in all things; and to the mind he gave the Law, by which if a man order himself, he shall rein over a kingdom that is temperate, and just, and virtuous, and brave." 4 Maccabees 1:48

Beasts were created to have the nature of beasts. The nature of man is to be lawful; the nature of beasts is to be lawless.[1]

Jesus called the Syro-Phoenician woman a "dog". Dogs, swine - "beasts"; words descriptive of the nature of those who eat and breed anything. Whatever a dog or a pig will do - the beast nature will do if allowed to do so by their ruler.

Marching Orders

God created man and gave him the world to rule and told him to rule it justly. Man will either rule by man's nature and the world will be orderly, just, and safe, or, the beast will rule with the nature of the beast and the world will be disorderly, unjust, and unsafe. It is either the one or the other. Each is exclusive of the other.

Scripture describes sheep, goats and wolves.

Sheep have God's nature, the wolf has the nature of the beast, and the goat is a sheep who has wandered from the sheepfold and has adopted much of the nature of the wolf. The "great commission" was given the sheep to recapture the goats. The wolf's "great commission" is to capture, cultivate, and train the goat so that he can be used to open sheepfold gates. The wolf uses the goat to open the gates to the sheepfold. It is rare that when the wolfpack uses force to crash their way into the sheepfold that their efforts have been successful.

Controlling The Beast Nature In Sheepfolds

Sheep are ordered to strictly enforce the WORD. When it

---

1 The beast of whom we speak is the "beast" who wears clothing and "cries mightily unto God". Johah 3:8; the "Beast" who has hands. Exodus 19:13; the "Beast" who is capable of mixing with man. Jer. 31:27; the "Beast" who keeps the vineyard. Song of Solomon, Chap 1.

is done properly, things work out well. When done improperly, much damage is done. One case that slipped through the cracks is that of the Jukes.

The Jukes

"Sin is the transgression of the Law." I John 3:4. There are Laws to cope with every eventuality. A transgression that is not corrected often multiplies into a larger and larger problem such as the one that follows. It is not known whether the Jukes were goats or wolves, but the result of their activities was the same.

Bad seed multiplies and the "beast nature" spreads in the land if not eliminated by stringently enforcing the WORD.

Proof that criminal tendencies are inherited is provided in part by a book called The Jukes by the sociologist Richard Dugdale. The Jukes clan sire was born in New York in the early 1700s. He spent most of his life drinking and consorting with whores. Two of his sons married their illegitimate sisters. Dugdale traced over 700 descendants of the clan, and discovered that all but half a dozen were prostitutes or criminals.[2]

The Wolves Of Galloway

Another case revealing the beast nature occurred in Scotland. The people of Galloway, Scotland, were subjected to a reign of terror. This was during the time of King James I.

Travelers vanished - a lot of them. Search parties combed the bleak countryside but found nothing. Nothing at all. Not a bone; not a bloody piece of clothing. Nothing.

---

2 Clues, A History Of Forensic Detection, p.446, Colin Wilson, Book-of-the-Month-Club by Warner Books, Inc. 1989.

Wolves were suspected, but there were no wolves. Werewolves were suspected. Vagrants were rounded up and hanged. The vanishings continued. A few shady innkeepers were rounded up and hanged; the vanishings still continued. For 25 long years, year after year, the vanishings continued.

One day a man and his wife were riding on the same horse together though the bleak countryside when they were suddenly surrounded by wild savages. One seized the bridle of his horse. He quickly drew his pistol and fired, but a score of hands grabbed at him pulling both him and his wife from the saddle.

The man drew his sword and slashed back and forth opening a circle around him. A dozen savages were between him and his screaming wife. A flashing knife silenced her as it slit her throat and deftly disemboweled her. Instantly a dozen creatures descended on her and began devouring her still twitching body.

A party of travelers returning from the same fair as the unfortunate couple heard the commotion and ran to the sound of the pistol shot. What they saw shocked them. Someone gave a shout and the cannibals vanished in a second carrying the body of the wife with them. The man and his horse were the first living creatures to survive an attack by these human wolves in 25 years.

The news was carried to the King in Edinburgh who arrived on the scene with a party of 400 within 4 days. Spreading out, they carefully searched the moors in the direction the cannibals had vanished. Soon they reached cliffs overlooking the sea. Waiting for the tide to turn, they descended to the beach and continued the search and found a number of caves - all empty.

Having searched thoroughly and finding nothing, they were returning discouraged when two of the dogs began barking at a small crack in the cliff face. The crack was so narrow that it seemed impossible that anyone could enter, but the dogs were insistent, so two of the kings soldiers entered and after a time found the crack opening into a wider space. But, since it was so dark they returned. The king sent to the nearest village for torches and by their illumination, they, an armed party, followed the hysterical dogs along a narrow tunnel that led into a large cave.

At this time their nostrils were assaulted by a sickening smell. Torches revealed creatures all around whose eyes were dazzled by the light. In the corners were jewels, clothing and money, and hanging overhead were pieces of bodies - arms, legs, torsos.

After a short fight the creatures were subdued by the soldiers in armor and were dragged out into the daylight. There were 48 members of the same family that had been crowded into the cave. The pieces of bodies that had been giving off such a horrible stench was their larder. They ate it raw.

The human wolves were taken to prison at Edinburgh. By now it had been established that the head of the pack was one Sawney Bean, born in East Lothian. As a youth he had run away with a woman and for 25 years they had been living in the same cave. The woman had given him 8 sons and six daughters. These in turn produced 18 grandsons and 14 granddaughters.

There was no trial. The men's hands and feet were chopped off and they bled to death. The women were burned alive. They all died without the least sign of repentance," wrote John Nicholson of Kirkcudbright, "but continued cursing and vending the most dreadful imprecations to the very last gasp of life."[3] This is the way such matters where handled in earlier days.

Beast Nature vs. Sheep Nature

The above shows that inattention to the WORD produces deviates. These deviates must be dealt with at some point, one at a time, or otherwise they will comprise the entire nation as is the case elsewhere.

In the East, those whom the West would label "Law-breaker," are casually returned to the general population where they continue to reproduce their own kind. Nations of strangers are permeated with the genes of outlaws. Like breeds like. That is why God commands, "No bastard shall enter the congregation of Israel. It poisons the blood of the nation.

The question has been raised, why is it that China and India, whose inhabitants' IQ is approximately as high as that of Westerners, live in the dark ages while the Christian-West is so progressive? The answer is simple. Westerners are made in the image of the WORD - they are basically Lawful. Huedmen[4] of the east - aren't. They are lawless as their fathers were before them.

For 32 years I was a stockbkroker. I have picked up the phone and called a single buyer who ordered $32 million dollars of the product I was selling. Based on his verbal order I entered the order and it was executed. He had five business days to pay, and he did. If he hadn't, both my firm and I would have been ruined. It never occurred to me that my buyer would fail to live up to his agreement.

3 Crimes & Punishment, H. S. Stuttman Inc 1994, p. 1083

4 HUMAN: Huedmen, "Humans," "strangers," "wolves."

Trade in the West takes place rapidly with enormous amounts of product changing hands simply by verbal agreement. In the world of stocks and commodities, a person's word is his bond. A welsher can ruin you. If the word ever got out that someone was not reliable - no one would do business with him - they couldn't afford to take the chance.

In India, when you buy a product you pay for it at the same time you buy it. You pay for it right then. People don't trust you because in those countries people lie. The absence of Law keeps India and China in the dark ages.

Hong Kong and mainland China are both Chinese. One is bursting with commerce and the other isn't. The difference? Hong Kong has operated under Christian Law administered by the British. When this ceases, Hong Kong in time will revert to what it is like in the rest of China. It will be interesting to watch Hong Kong now that it has been returned to Chinese control.

Missionaries From the East

The missionary effort of Hinduism is Buddhism. Buddhism was organized by Asoka the Great as reform Hinduism. Then, "Brahmans began to appear in the guise of Buddhist monks. Asoka began to worry that they were trying to 're-interpret' Buddha in line with their own interests."[5] That's what Hindus do - they "re-interpret" other religions so that its followers are convinced that their religion is only a different manifestation of the great all encompassing Hindu Brahma.

---

5 Asoka The Great India's Royal Missionary, by Emil Lengyel, Franklin Watts, Inc, 575 Lexington Ave, NY NY 10022, c1969, p.124

In time, Buddhism (which considers itself a Hindu sect) learned this Hindu technique and sent its own missionaries into all the world. Buddhist missionaries took Buddhism to Tibet, China, and Mongolia. It spread to Japan and parts of SE Asia and Ceylon. Asoka sent missionaries overland to N. China and by sea to S. China. Missionaries went to SE Asia - Burma, Siam (Thailand), Cambodia, Java, Borneo and Malaya. It was taken to Korea by Chinese monks in the of the middle 5th century, and from Korea to Japan in middle 6th century.

In Japan most people are Shintoists and Buddhist. In China - Buddhism merged with Confucianism and Taoism. Buddhism became the official religion of Japan. The emperors use it to spread their power.

> "For many centuries this area surrounding the S. China Sea was a kind of 'Further India', ruled by Indian princes filled with Indian traders, and instructed by Indian religions, mostly Buddhist." [6]

This is an overview of how the Buddhist missionary came to be on American shores. They arrived as "Unitarians" and later in the guise of "born-again" evangelists speaking colloquial English, claiming to be "Jews for Christ," "Latin Americans," and "Americans of Indian descent." The common thread is the absence of the WORD - the Laws, statutes, and judgments. Many even go so far as to boldly proclaim that "the Law is done away." In the absence of the WORD, it is the speaker who is left to be the "perfect-master" - the one who replaces Christ as spokesman and the object of veneration.

6 Ibid, p. 128

Missionaries From The West

Bible thumping goat-missionaries sent to the wolves have been met with almost universal failure.[7] Their efforts produced converts as long as they were present - and when they left - so did the WORD. Wolves cannot digest sheep-food. Grass forced into the stomach of the wolf does not remain there.[8]

There is another Western missionary who has met with more success - the Western soldier and policeman. In whatever part of the world these missionaries are sent - that part of the world conforms to the WORD, right NOW, and there is peace. Many of the strangers, forced by soldier and police missionaries to obey the dictates of the WORD, quickly learn to appreciate its benefits and for them it is written;

> "Neither let the son of the stranger that joined himself to the Lord speak, saying, the Lord hath utterly separated me from his people." Isa 56:3-8.

In Africa, under the eye of these watchful armed missionaries - massacres, cannibalism, and slave trading quickly ended. Violators were punished. Ancient strong arm customs stopped, and little people were able to accumulate wealth, something that they had never been able to do before. Starvation vanished. Compared with former days - peace and tranquillity reigned.

---

7 DIRECTION: "These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded the, saying, Go not unto the way of the Gentiles, and unto any city of the Samaritans enter ye not: But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Math 10:5- 6.

8 Korea's thriving Christianity is Buddhist- Christianity.

In China, those living in Western-ruled enclaves and protected by the WORD enforced by Western battleships, became fantastically wealthy. They kept their ancient practices of lying, cheating and stealing but learned to keep them within the bounds of Western law - thereby devastating Western businessmen unaccustomed to such practices.[9]

Under Russ rule, the same was true on the eastern steppes of Europe. Famine and endless warfare ended.

Compared with what had gone before, the Western soldier-missionary was an unqualified success. The stranger curbed his beast nature under threat of severe punishment. No one had any illusions about the situation, the beast nature was still there waiting to be released. While the wolf learned to wash, wear Western clothes and speak Western speech, he remained a wolf. It was just that his beast nature had been curbed - for a time.

Withdrawing Missionaries

Western soldier missionaries were withdrawn and the blessing of the WORD left with them.

Slavic armies from Russia, commanded by East Saxon Russ, invaded Europe during the Napoleonic Wars. There was almost no looting or misconduct. After the East Saxon Russ were exterminated during and after the Russian Revolution, the Slavic armies under the command of Khazar Turks went wild. Capturing a German army of a third of a million at Stalingrad - 8,000 survived. Invading Europe in 1944-45,

---

9 TRADE: "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (2114), thou art snared with the words of thy mouth." Pr. 6:1; NEIGHBOR: "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21; AGREEMENTS: "Thou shall make no covenant with them or their gods." Ex 23:31-32 their beast nature was unleashed in a maelstrom of looting, raping and murdering. The spirit of the beast was loosed. The Slav-Mongol wolf showed his nature by killing thirty million of their own people - some in gulags, some by starvation.

Now they rest, quiet for the moment - hungry, short of housing, clothing and food, glaring at the surviving Western sheep muttering the two words that every wolf knows, "I want!" The WORD's blessing departed with the missionary.

In India, the British missionary withdrew and immediately one million Indians died in the partition.

In China, the US state department backed the Communists against the Nationalists and over 100,000,000 died in the wars and famine that followed.

In Africa, again the blessing departed with the missionary. Lands that had had no famine or massacre for generations had both. Over 40 millions have died there since the military missionary departed which allowed the spirit of the Beast to return.

What's Wrong In Western Cities?

Western priests[10] were false watchmen[11] - in exchange for tax-exempt silver they became Judas- goats and allowed the Hindu merchant into the West in spite of God's Law forbid-

10 PRIESTS: "Moses commanded the Levites ... saying, Take this ... law and put it in the side of the ark ... that it may be there for a witness against thee. For I know thy rebellion ... behold, while I am yet alive ... ye have been rebellious against the Lord; and how much more after my death? ... For I know that after my death ye will ... turn aside from the way which I have commanded you." Deut 31: 24-29

11 WATCHMAN: "If the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned ... his blood will I require." Ezek 33:6, (In Geneva Bible: "Signifying, that the wicked shall not escape punishment though the watchman be negligent: but if the watchman blowe the trumpet; and then he will not obey, he shall deserve double punishment."

ding trade with strangers. Once in the sheepfold, the wolf bought a media monopoly in spite of the laws forbidding monopoly[12] and the Law forbidding "false witnesses."[13] Their media monopoly advertised for election only agents of the wolf who owned the media. These people were elected since the voters knew no one else. This is how the agents of the wolf become rulers of the US, state, and local governments.[14]

Under the the rule of these wolf agents - the cities of the West have been turned over to the denizens of the inner city. When you remove the WORD the natural spirit of the wolf emerges and that spirit is the spirit of the beast. This spirit is a lawless spirit. In less time than it takes to say, Law was replaced by the "policy" of the alpha-wolf. The President of the United States proclaimed that Washington DC would be made an example to the world. It is!

The result of loosing the spirit of the beast is there for all to see. Murder, rape, robbery and mayhem is the norm. As predicted, as the spirit of the WORD departed - the spirit of the Beast began to reign. Hostile islands of lawlessness inhabited by strangers now exist in the midst of Lawful men.

Along For The Ride

Most things are simple in this world. Our present condition

---

12 TRADE: "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien), thou art snared." Pr. 6:1-2; MONOPOLY: "Woe unto them that join house to house, that lay field to field, till there be no place, and they may be placed alone in the midst of the earth." Isaiah 5:8

13 FALSE WITNESS: "If a false witness rise up ... Then shall ye to unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother." Duet 19:16-19

14 RULERS: "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Duet 17:15 is simple. Let us think of ourselves as having been high jacked while flying together in a great 747 airliner. In the cockpit flying the aircraft is a wolf having the ravening spirit of the beast. His prattle on the intercom, "This is the captain speaking," is just wolf-talk, it inspires no confidence.

First, we know that wolves are not the best pilots in the world. The 747 must land sometime, and when that time comes we can expect the landing to be rough!

Next, the wolf pilot tends to fly through one cloud after another without considering that some of these clouds conceal mountains. It's clear. The pilot is not our pilot. His message is not our pilot's message. The flying is not safe. To survive we must get the beast out of the cockpit and back into his cage. Then, we must get him off the aeroplane and back to his own country where he can roam freely among his own kind and do whatever he wants to do - within reason.

Lastly, we must station game wardens around his reservation to keep goat-poachers out and keep the wolves in.

All that is needed is the resolve. Our toleration of "the spirit of the beast" has put everyone in jeopardy. Now, it is time to return to the safety of the WORD where we belong.

==========

Letter From South Africa by K.J.

An article on the new public role for Constand Viljoen appeared in Die Afrikaner weeks before the daily press. He is now getting good press reviews by the left-wing. That should convey some meaning to us.

It is no longer safe to report problems at police stations manned by Blacks. They will not help you at all and if you complain too much you are likely to get shot by these policemen who were former terrorist guerrillas.

Clive Derby-Lewis and Janusz Wallusz appeared at the Truth Commission, but the hearing was postponed till August. The day turned out like those reminiscent of the Roman circus, with Blacks screaming for the mens' blood. A week later those who killed the American student, Amy Biehl, appeared before the commission, and the girl's parents forgave them all, blaming "racism in SA."

I can understand the liberal stupidity of the Biehl's, but when a man named Ackerman, whose wife died in the St. James church massacre, said that he forgave them unconditionally, I am at a complete loss. These Blacks kill over and over without feeling a thing, but then that church allows anyone standing on two feet to enter.

The Blacks did not stop when they came into power, things only got worse. Sensing White weakness they have become more brutal. We see it in the Congo and every other Black state in Africa.

Our biased judiciary is causing us more problems for those on the right wing. I have my doubts about the case they made against Eugene Terre'Blance (militia leader). It will be to our benefit to take care.

The Israeli treatment of Palestinians and the pig affair finally caused some Muslims in the Cape to attack Jews. Old Dullah Omar who usually breathes fire against the hateful whites is outraged.

When in England, Nelson Mandela gave a 40-minute address to Oxford University's Centre for Islamic Studies, urging an African Economic Union taking its place in the emerging world order. That night he attended a dinner hosted by the Centre for Islamic Studies. Prince Charles is its patron. He frequently emphasized the need to build bridges between Christianity and Islam. What a mixed-up lot!

Your note on the pigs carrying the Spanish flu after WWI was interesting. It came to our shores when Louis Botha, in 1918 allowed a ship full of English coloureds to land in Cape Town. Shortly afterwards the greatest epidemic in our history broke out. 70,000 died in one month. In 1919, Gen. Botha caught the flu, but, he committed suicide by cutting his wrists. Some say because he had so many of his own people shot when they refused to fight against the Germans in S. W. Africa. Botha still had some feeling for his own while Jan Smuts had none.

Former president P.W. Botha's biography was released late last month. It was printed by the same people as Volksverraad and Sellout. Apparently, no one else wanted to do it. In spite of everything else he has done, P.W. Botha took a firm stand on the Tutu Commission, putting some backbone into some of the waverers.

LETTERS

BANNED: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I wrote the Canadian government for a list of banned books and was informed that there are 800 pages of such banned publications and books, most dealing with history and politics." C.G. - Canada

---

LOVE NEIGHBOR: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I know we are to love our neighbors as ourselves, but, who is our neighbor - the guy next door?" H.S. - Florida

RKH: Maybe. The key is, "Thou shall LOVE thy neighbor as thyself." You want to be treated according to the rules that Jesus set out in the beginning. Therefore; love others in the same manner and treat them in accordance with the same rules. If one thirsts - give him drink. If one is wounded - bind his wounds. If one murders - put him to death. Treat your neighbor as you expect to be treated. Love your neighbor as yourself.

Is your neighbor your brother? "My mother and my brethren are those which hear the word of God, and do it." Luke 8:21. A stranger who creeps into your midst violates the Scripture, "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel)." Deut 23:2. His acts prove he is not a brother.

HAVE NO DEALINGS: "Dear Richard: I read what Randy Duey said, and I would go farther. I say that we share nothing with the pseudo- Churches and the members of that cult. Our presence at their meetings condones their blood letting. I say that we neither darken their doors nor associate with any of their kind. To even sit at the same table and eat with them is to partake in their hellish doctrines of deceit. Pseudo Christianity wants only to prevent the righteousness of our Light. If we who are known by Yahweh are seen in the company of the Great Whore, are we not accounted as a Whore Monger? "Let not our good be evil spoken of." D. R. - Prisoner Florida

---

FORGIVENESS: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: When I was 18 I got drunk and killed a man. I was sentenced to 30 years. This is my 5th year. I have accepted the WORD and will follow it the rest of my life. My question is this; can God forgive a man after he did something like this?" U.R. - prisoner, Minnesota.

RKH: This question has been asked by many. The answer is: "Sin is the transgression of the law. ... he was manifested (revealed) to take away our sins; and in him (the WORD made flesh) is no sin. Whosoever abideth in him (the WORD) sinneth not. ... For this purpose the Son of God was mani- fested (revealed), that he might destroy the works of the devil. Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; ... because he is born of God." I John 3:3:4-9

"For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God (the WORD)." Rom 3:23; "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord (the WORD made flesh)." Rom 6:23; "God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." Rom 5:8; "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shall believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation. For the scripture saith, Whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed. ... For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." Rom 9-13; "He that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him." John 3:36:

"For this is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for man for the remission of sins." Matt 26:28. Jesus is the WORD made flesh. Whosever is willing to accept the WORD as illustrated by the acts of Jesus in the flesh - will be "saved." Then, it is as if your "sin" had never been. This it the contract between you and your God. This is called "grace". "There but for the grace of God go I." This is true of every one of us. God has a tighter contract with his people as a nation, but that is his business. Don't worry, God reads the innermost heart. He knows, and he is just.

FELLOWSHIP: "Dear Richard; We have a growing fellowship here. One 'goat' who wishes to join our group is a former homosexual. I am not sure that he is sincere and don't believe it would help our group to have him. Your advice, please." R.J. - Prisoner, Florida

RKH: God chose you and made YOU a king and a priest. You know your situation better than I. By no means are you bound to accept a disruptive influence. Better to sacrifice part than the whole. If left to me I would set a probation period and watch him when he doesn't think he is being watched. "By their acts ye shall know them." Decide then.

ALLEGIANCE: "Earth from the burial ground of US President John Kennedy and Senator Robert Kennedy was poured last week onto the casket of Yitshak Rabin. Senator Edward Kennedy said... 'My son Patrick gathered some earth from Arlington Cemetery... and then we distributed that over the coffin of the Prime Minister', he told reporters." Reuters, Jerusalem Post 11/118/95

RKH: "Establishment" kings of the world are hired by the ITC and do what they are ordered to do. Saddam Hussein could have been ordered to do a similar act and he would have done it. If anyone objected, they would have been fired - Jew and Arab alike.

Saxon News From Australia/New Zealand

FIREARMS: "Good day to you: In Australia the amnesty is finished. Stick up for your rights now! Speaking out is easier than what we now face here. Gun owners who did not comply with new regulations in Australia are now faced with the fact that their name is flagged on government computers. They are liable to 4 years imprisonment and a fine that is about the cost of an average house. Those with firearms licenses and those who did not hand in their weapons are liable to search of person or premises without warrant. People cannot organize because what the government has done is now legislated, enacted law. Therefore any attempt to communicate or organize is liable to the charge of subversion. If an individual says to another, 'I would suggest that you do not hand in your firearm', the speaker may be charged with subverting another to commit a criminal act. They have started mounting raids to retrieve firearms and this is likely to intensify. Whatever you do, FOR GOD'S SAKE DON'T REGISTER YOUR WEAPONS!! It really is happening and it seems to be global. Australia to America: God bless you and pray for us poor b____ down under." P.N. - Australia

---

NEW ZEALAND: Maoris Cry Freedom - Tensions swirl between the Pakeha (as Whites are called) and the Maoris. Maoris are an under class, which constitutes a high proportion of the prison population, unemployed, homeless and pupils who do not obtain school certificates.

"Maoris constitute only about 13% of the total population, but they account for nearly half the prison population. Maori activists demand the return of 'stolen' land and Maori sovereignty. The NZ government has sought to settle Maori land claims financially by making NZ$1-billion available, but this has been rejected by Maori activists. There is growing anger on the White side, although it is often marked by political correctness and show they are neither racist nor bigoted." (Pretoria News, copied from Impact, Oct/Nov 1995, P.O. Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA, $30/yr.)

News From America

FACTS & FIREARMS: * "In 1987, the year Florida enacted its right- to-carry law, the homicide rate dropped from 37% above the national average to 3% below.

* In NYC alone, approx. 13,000 killers are out on parole daily.

* The Average cost of one inmate per year - $25,000.

* Average cost of career criminal to society per year - $30,000

* Between the year the Supreme Court re-instituted the death penalty (1978) and 1990 only 124 executions occurred, yet 265,000 murders had been committed.

* Mexico's murder rate is much higher than America's, yet Mexico has extremely strict gun controls.

* Dr. Edgar A. Suter found that "excepting blacks and Hispanics, Seattle's homicide rate was actually lower than Vancouver's."

* As early as 1982, BATF was found by the Senate Judiciary Committee to be "engaged almost entirely in harassing innocent citizens." From the committee's report: "expert evidence was submitted establishing that approximately 75% of BATF gun prosecutions were aimed at ordinary citizens who had neither criminal intent nor knowledge, but were enticed by agents into unknowing technical violations." (Overview of Guns, Crime, and Freedom, (1994) by Wayne LaPierre, executive of NRA, carried by American Viewpoint Monthly, June 1997.

EFFECTS OF MEDIA LIES: "In 1958, just 35% of whites said they could vote for a well qualified black presidential candidate. That same year, 4% of whites approved of interracial marriage and 80% of whites said they would leave if blacks moved into their neighborhood.

"Now, 93% of whites say they could vote a black person into the White House and 61% of whites voice approval of mixed marriages. Only 18% of whites questioned said they would flee a neighborhood if large numbers of blacks moved in." Internet, Jun 11, 1997 21:10:16-0700 (nswpp@earth-link.net)

LEGALIZE PEDOPHILIA: The American Psychiatric Association has redefined "pedophile" to mean a person who feels "clinically significant distress" over his condition or who feels socially impaired because of his pedophilia. One is "healthy" if not distressed. Normalization of pedophilia is being pushed by organized homosexual groups.

Black Crime

BLACK CRIME: Walter E. Williams (black columnist) quoting US Dept of Justice records; There have been during the past 20 years, 6.6 million violent crimes of murder, rape, robbery, and assault. 20% of those were interracial. Of these, 90% of the victims were white. Blacks murder Whites 18 times the rate that Whites murder Blacks. Black on White assaults are 21 times the opposite. Mr. Williams believes that Whites have become insensitive to Black crime because the government and the media report all White crime committed against Blacks and little Black crime against Whites. Citizen Review

BLACK CRIME: New York Police Department arrest statistics reveal startling figures. Blacks and Hispanics constitute 50% of the population in NY City - each roughly 25% - yet, collectively, based on these 1993 arrest records they constitute over 90% of all murder, rape and robbery arrests and 85% of arrests for assault. Blacks alone are charged with 56% of all murders, 62% of all rapes, 55% of all assaults and 62 percent of all robberies. Detroit Jewish News

Official Policy - "Black Supremacy"

ONE MORE CHAMPION: "A white South African (Ernie Els) - has won the United States Open golf championship ... but he will get no interviews from US media, only Tiger Woods gets interviews (even though Tiger ended up ten strokes behind the white South African Ernie Els.) Is this Racism?? ...With all of the lecturing from Clinton about race relations you would think that someone would point out that white sports stars are given short shrift in a vicious form of racism in many sports including football, basketball, baseball and more recently, golf." Criminal Politics, 1-800-543-0486, June 30, 1997, p.38

RKH: Some believe that for years the sports establishment has mis-matched White athletes with Black ones to ensure the victory of the Blacks. This has been done to instill a White inferiority complex.

METHODISTS: The United Methodist Church hoped that by appointing a Black, the Rev. Percy Reeves, to head the White Plaza United Methodist Church that it would lead to full integration and become a model for other N. Carolina churches. The Plaza United Methodist is now 90% Black.

Rev. Reeves added gospel music to the service and encouraged folks to shout "amen." He removed pictures of Jesus' disciples because he said the blond-haired, blue-eyed renderings were historically inaccurate. For Black History Month, portraits of Malcolm X and Jesse Jackson went up in their place. Rev Reeves is the first Black to head one of the United Methodist white churches in Charlotte. (ANA - Internet, 11:31 AM 4-4-96)

Media Handover

JUDAS GOAT & THE WOLF: "Pat Robertson is cashing out! ... (Rupert Murdoch) ... has agreed to pay $1.9 billion to accquire the cable channel controlled by Pat Robertson: - The Family Channel. - The reason for their action? - to raise money in expectation of a very big estate tax bill. ...etc." Criminal Politics, 1-800-543-0486, June 30, 1997, p.38

RKH: TRADE: "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (2114), thou art snared with the words of thy mouth. Pr. 6:1; GOATS: "When the Son of man shall come ... He shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left. ...Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels." Matt 25 31-46.

News From The Neareast

ALGERIA: The civil war in Algeria is assuming an increasingly brutal format. Fundamentalists (FIS) have set up mobile commandos which travel with "guillotines" mounted on trucks. Anti- fundamentalists are rousted out of bed and executed with village elders watching. More than 60,000 have been killed in the war thus far.

RKH: HR believes that close attention should be given to this Algerian affair. The Algerian government, like other national governments, is a puppet goverment hand picked by the ITC media owners. In spite of media propaganda, the government was voted out of office. However, it refused to go. The war is the result. What is happening there will to a varying degree happen here in time.

RABBI PERIN'S OPINION: "One million Arabs are not worth a Jewish fingernail." (Rabbi Perin in his eulogy at the funeral of mass murderer Dr. Baruch Goldstein, who killed 29 people in a machine- gun attack at prayer in a mosque, a quote first reported in a Feb 28, 1994 article by Clyde Haberman in the New York Times.

ORGAN DONATION: Rabbi Yehoshua Scheinberger broke with tradition and ruled that Jews may donate their organs - but only to other Jews. He said it was forbidden to donate them to "heretics" or "gentiles."

==========

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 277

SHEEP KILLING TIME

Subject - Wolves & Sheep

Wolves are predators. They produce nothing and they eat sheep. Sheep produce wool, fat, and mutton. It is sheep killing time once again.

The wolf has rested for 50 years after gorging himself from his last gargantuan feast. Occasionally, he has roused himself to eat a snack here and there - the latest being South Africa - but a snack is just a snack.

He has now digested his last big meal and is feeling real hunger pangs. The wolf must eat. But, where in in this world is there a big fat sheep to eat?

Sheep

Once, sheep had the freedom to roam a great wide sheepfold. He could graze from one end to another without thought of danger. Then, the wolf paid judas-priests to quietly whisper to the sheep that wolves are just different sheep and that they should accept them inside the sheepfold. "They are just like everyone else - except a different color, and their souls need saving." The same trusted judas-priests told the sheep that it was only right to tamely accept a chain about his neck from a wolf-chosen goat.[1] The judas-priests said that it was God's will to obey judas-goats, but neglected to tell them that it was better to obey the Shepherd rather than goats.[2]

Sheep Think Peace - Wolves Think War

Sheep think peace - wolves think war! Peace is great for the sheep. They eat, fatten, and grow thick fleeces. There is enough left to pay taxes, fines, assessments, and confiscations to support the wolf and his appointed goat-rulers. Sheep think that this should be enough - that anyone should be satisfied with 50% taxation, but, that is the view through the eyes of the sheep. The wolves actually consider this yearly largess from the sheep to be slow starvation. Kings, emperors and especially their wolf- merchant sponsors need much more than this to live the lifestyle they feel they are entitled to. They need to feed on massive confiscations from the sheep - not just the piddling 50% yearly tribute.

The problem with either king or wolf collecting massive confiscations to feed on is that it might stampede the sheep. If this happens it might take centuries before the wolf can get a chain around the sheep's neck again.

---

1 A goat is a disobedient sheep. (Goat: Gr. 2055 er-if-ee-on; (Goat - symbol wicked person. Strong's Concordance).

2 "We must obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29

To avoid the problem of possible injury that arises from a wolf getting hurt while directly attacking a sheep for his dinner, the wolf has found it better to persuade one sheep to kill another sheep, and to think that he is doing a public service by doing it. Then, when one of the sheep goes down, the wolf can step in and eat. That way everyone is happy - except the sheep being eaten.[3]

Chicken Fights & Ram Fights

In former days, wolves staged "ram fights" just as humans stage chicken fights. The wolf-howl incited one ram against another and then when both were thoroughly enraged, they were turned loose to fight. After one was badly injured by the other, the victor was called off and the wolves went to work. They sheared the defeated sheep, and took bites out of his quivering flesh while he was held down by the victorious ram. Then the wounded naked sheep was released to heal, recover his strength, and grow another fleece.

Wolves have been doing this for years and the wolves and their goat allies have never let the sheep catch on to what is actually happening to them. Sheep are encouraged to blame other sheep for their misfortune and to keep alive this hatred. Constantly vilifying and demonizing targeted sheep makes the next ram fight that much easier to arrange.

Today there is only one big sheep left standing who is fat and has a full fleece. The rest have been defeated, wounded and shorn. Their fleeces are ragged because they have not been allowed to properly grow back because of the wolf's daily demand for wool and flesh.

3 It really doesn't matter which sheep wins the contest. The wolf will eat the loser.

The problem with having only one available sheep is this - it is difficult to slaughter such a big powerful sheep when there is no ram rival available to fight him. However, the wolves solved this problem long ago. Such a sheep can be persuaded to volunteer to sever a pound of his own flesh so that hash can be served to the wolf - even 50 pounds or more. That would make a good dinner.

Now, lets see how wolves persuade sheep to sacrifice themselves. It's easy if one knows how.

Dharma's War

HR readers are not novices. Long ago they learned the story of the boast of India's Asoka the Great (b. 291 B.C.) that he had conquered the powerful Greek world by simply using peaceful Dharma[4] instead of armed force. He named King Antiochus as one of those mighty kings that he had conquered. Antiochus in turn learned Dharma well - it helped him rule his own people. He was the ancestor of the Syrian-Greek king by the same name who during his own rule had continued to Dharmatize the religions of all the various peoples that he ruled. All had accepted it and the empire became peaceful and open to the international trader.

He also inserted Dharma into Palestine, a part of his empire. The people of Palestine, like all the rest of Antiochus' empire, accepted Dharma - all except for a handful of malcontents. This rebellion was allright with Antiochus; Palestine paid taxes, but it had not been properly sheared for a long time and was overly fat. The opposition of the malcontents was a golden opportunity to kill sheep.

4 Hindu: "Dharma" - non-violence, obedience, tolerance of other peoples and their gods without regard to "race, creed, or nationality." Buddhist technique of pacifying divergent populations to expedite trade. "Dharmitized - to be subdued by Dharma. "Dharmamatra" - government enforcer of Dharma.

Accordingly he raised armies from neighboring states to sack the land. He ordered his agents on the spot to tighten the screws to further infuriate them. His agents did as they were instructed and the rebellion spread. What began as a civil-war ended in a great war of liberation. Their story is told from the Israelite point-of-view in the Apocrypha:[5]

> "In those days went there out of Israel wicked men who persuaded many, saying, Let us go and make a covenant with the heathen ... Then certain of the people ... went to the king, who gave them license to do after the ordinances of the heathen:
>
> "Whereupon they ... joined themselves to the heathen, and were sold to do mischief. ... After 2 years ... the king sent his chief collector of tribute unto the cities of Juda, who came unto Jerusalem ... And spake peaceable words unto them, but all was deceit: for when they had given him credence ... they put therein a sinful nation, wicked men ...
>
> "Whereupon the city was made an habitation of strangers, and became strange to those that were born in her, and her own children left her ...
>
> "King Antiochus wrote to his whole kingdom, that all should be one people, And every one should leave his laws: ... Yea, many also of the Israelites consented to his religion, and sacrificed unto idols, and profaned the sabbath. For the king has sent letters ... that they should follow the strange laws of the land ... To the end they might forget the Law, and change all the ordinances. ... The king ... appointed overseers ... commanding the cities ... to sacrifice, city by city. Then many of the people were gathered unto them, to wit, every one that forsook the law: ... and ... they rent in pieces the books of the law which they found, they burnt them with fire.

5 Story Of The Maccabees, Apocrypha, VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $10.50/copy.

"And whosoever was found with any book of the testament, or if any consented to the law, the king's commandment was, that they should put him to death. ... Howbeit, many in Israel were confirmed in themselves not to eat any unclean thing. Wherefore they chose rather to die. ... that they might not profane the holy covenant." I Maccabees 1: 11-63.

The persuasion of the sheep by judas-priests is the Dharma way of gaining entry for the wolf into the sheepfold. It makes the sheep submissive to the foreign merchant and to their own king.

However, when the flock is fat - the king does not want mere "taxes", he wants to harvest the sheep - take it ALL. He need to "plow" the field with war if he is to raise a crop of plunder. War always creates plunder for today and demand for the merchant's wares tomorrow. War is the best business stimulation there is.

The Wolf-howl

The "wolf-howl" directs the action. Its call stirs the blood. It calls for war and names the victim who has been chosen. A wise man careful for his skin listens attentively to the wolf-howl.

The media-owners chose the wealthy South for slaughter as early as 1815. From that time on nothing the Southern White man did was right. In 1861, armies invaded. Farms and cities were burnt. In Washington, DC, during the war, there were two giant warehouses open 24 hours a day. Wagon loads of loot arrived from Virginia every few minutes and were sold by the lot sight unseen. Ships arrived every few hours and their rich gleanings were disposed of on the docks in the same manner.

Still, this was "peanuts" when compared to transfer of the blockaded multibillion dollar cotton trade to cartel interests in Egypt and India. This was worth billions. The same sort of thing happened to S. Africa at the turn of the century and Germany in WWII.

Privately owned slaves were freed to starve or go to work in cartel factories - depressing Saxon wages. Blacks were elevated to political office to rule whites and were told how to vote. Plantation land worth $400-$800 an acre was sold at tax sales to tax-free land companies for as little as 50¢ an acre. When the ruling blacks threatened to confiscate cartel land and expel the trade-wolves along with the sheep, the wolf-media reacted overnight and attacked the Blacks and their "unjust rule." The Whites, after having lost almost all they had, were set free to rebuild their wealth once again. The greedy blacks' enemies became the "bad guys."

The Wolf-howl's Victim

The wolf-howl is today demonizing the chosen sheep who will be required to give up his fleece and his flesh tomorrow. The wolf is hungry and needs their estates and accumulated wealth. The S. African sheep is already in the packing house being rendered. It believed the judas-priests and tamely followed the judas-goat without a murmur.

But, while S. Africa is a tasty bit - and her her diamonds, gold, and public industries made private provide good hors d'oeuvres for the international merchant - S. Africa is just a snack. The wolf is used to a much more substantial meal.

The sheep the wolf-howl has singled out for slaughter is the one that can do no right. It is the one the wolf-howl say is responsible for all the world's troubles. It is Whitey!! Who else? The Saxon himself has been chosen to be the next meal.

The Saxon has been taught that ram fights are acceptable, in spite of the Shepherd's Law to the contrary.[6]

To give this promoted war the appearance of a ram fight, not ONE, but TWO Saxon sectors are being deomonized at the same time.

One sector is America's "Christian patriots." The wolf-howl accuses them for being responsible for Ruby Ridge, Waco, Oklahoma City, TWA 800, the Atlanta Olympics and every other dog and cat fight and homicidal act committed by an insane person that happens in the country. But, most of the above-named murderous disasters left clues pointing back to goat agents of the king who were on the scene. These clues lead American patriots to believe that the king's government itself is responsible for these atrocities. Each side is made to believe that the other is responsible.

The incitement of America's right wing is glaring. FBI agents shot a mother, Vicki Weaver, in the face while she was holding her baby in her arms. To add insult to injury, the media reported that the FBI named their base camp at the foot of the mountain "Camp Vicki." What better way to provoke a people?

At Waco, American men, women and children were burned alive. No credible reason was given for the government attack on these private citizens except that the the media kept repeating government charges that the besieged were evil. The wolf-howl repeated the charges of the FBI - each of which was proven a lie.

---

6 FIGHTING KINSMEN: "Ye shall not go up, nor fight against your brethren the children of Israel." I Kings 12:24; "I require you to abstain from shedding the blood of men." Antiquities 1:1:2, Anti 1:3:8; "Thou shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people." Lev 19:18

Recently, a documentary has been released by left-wing producers that shows the FBI machine-gunning survivors of the fire as they attempted to run to safety. This, from the "left-wing"? The documentary further confirms the suspicion of the Christian- Patriots that the government is evil and "out to get them." But, suppose that is the reason the documentary was released - to further provoke Whitey. Why else would a self-described "left- wing" group produce an anti- government documentary?

The same is true of "Oklahoma City." It was blamed on the right- wing - the militias. But whitey was watching TV. After the explosion they saw rescue efforts stop while unexploded bombs were removed from INSIDE the building. This means that the bomber was operating inside a federal building. Only government agents have the freedom to plant bombs inside a federal building. The TV covered lapse in rescue operations was much too obvious to be covered up. It was so obvious that it seemed to be another incident staged to infuriate American patriots. Even more suspicious is that the wolf-howl refuses to admit that such a thing ever happened.

The only other conclusion to be gained is that America's all- powerful wolf-installed government is so stupid that they can't even blow up a simple building without falling over their own feet. This conclusion seems unlikely when the government has at its fingertips the most experienced and efficient explosives experts in the world. This convinces the Christian-right that the government did it for reasons of their own.

This knowledge, heaped on all that has gone before, further divides the country. The king's government and their supporters are being taught that there is a terrorist movement afoot and the Christian-patriots and their militias are the terrorists, and, the right wing is being taught that the government and their supporters are responsible. Each believes that the other is responsible.

On top of all this, we have the TWA-800 explosion. The feds say "cause unknown," but, credible observers report seeing the plane being hit by a ground-to-air missile. The missile was even photographed, and, one of the leading missile experts in the country says that the type of missile that brought down the plane exists only in America.

America's sheep are being psyched for war.

Civil Wars

Civil Wars are the means the wolf uses to plow the sheep when ram foes are not readily available to fight each other.

The Maccabean Wars started as a civil war and ended as a national liberation war. There have been many others.

Saint Bartholowmew's Day in France was a great day for the crown. The excuse was religion but the real cause was the desire to take the wealth of the Huguenots. For the sake of peace, the Catholic King promised his sister to the Huguenot leader to be his wife. Then, on St. Bartholowmew's Day, he gave the order to kill all protestants. Some 50,000 protestants died in Paris alone and their estates went to the crown who split the wealth with the Catholic Church. The Catholic Church struck a medal to commemorate the event.

If the protestants had won and the Crown and Church property had been taken by the Huguenots, cartel bankers and those who trade in such loot would still have had their sheep to eat. It doesn't make any difference which ram wins - the wolf feeds on the sheep that falls.

French Revolution - The French Revolution was triggered by the underground wolf-howl accusing the French Crown of all the ills of France. It incited the sheep to rise and kill the aristocracy. The property of the crown and aristocracy fed the wolves for almost 50 years.

Haiti's revolt started as a civil war and ended as a race war. It was financed and supported from England and France. The sheep were exterminated by the black wolves. On the surface it appeared that no one profited and the wolf was not fed since the blacks let the spice-growing plantations grow up in jungle. Actually, the revolt forced the spice trade to shift from the sheep owned Haitian plantations to the wolf-owned East India Company and wolf-owned plantations in S. America. The only ones who suffered loss were the sheep.

The Russian Revolution started as a civil war. It was financed by American wolves and ended as a race war of extermination. The wolf-howl accusations and demonization forged a coalition of white-wolves, brown-wolves, and Russ-sheep. They slaughtered the coalition of white-wolves and Russ-sheep. The victorious white wolves and Russ-sheep were fed promises and the brown-wolves feasted on the estates of the Czar and aristocrats for 75 years. They then left because there remains nothing more to eat and no sheep to graze and grow fat for another feast day.

Conclusion

Today the wolf-howl is again promoting civil war. Its clouds are gathering over the land and there is the clatter of steel as men sharpen their swords in fear of their lives.

It seems foolish to let history repeat again and again - to send out our boys to fight and die again. It seems foolish to stand and watch our homes burn just to force us to borrow to rebuild - to see wolves descend on us to eat out our substance? Is there no end?

Of course there is!

Let us go back to the Maccabean Wars and see what might have been different. In I Maccabees 3:35-41, we read:

> "(Antiochus determined) ... that he should send an army against ... Israel ... And that he should place strangers in all their quarters and divide the land by lot. ...

This part is standard operating procedure. Now here comes the punch line - pay attention!

> "And the merchants of the country ... took silver and gold ... and came into the camp to buy the children of Israel for slaves."

It was the merchants who profited all along. It has always been the merchants. They are the ones who hire kings and priests to provide sheep for the wolf to feed on. These are the ones of whom the scriptures say;

> "A merchant shall hardly keep himself from doing wrong." Ecclesiasticus 26:29

By trading with these same spice merchants, wise King Solomon became foolish:

> "Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was 600,606 talents of gold, Beside that he had of the merchantmen, and of the traffic of the spice merchants." I Ki 10:14-15.

Now let us see the end of the matter. It seems as if we are given little choice: we, our sons and our daughters and our worldly goods are about to be offered up so that the wolf-merchant of the international trade cartel can feast on our estates.

At last we see the matter as it is. Our fathers long ago foresaw the day when the die would be cast. On the one side they spoke in hushed tones of "Ragnarok" and on the other they spoke of "Armageddon." When is that day? What does the Scripture mean when it says:

> "Woe to the bloody city! it is all full of lies and robbery ... there is a multitude of slain, and a great number of carcasses; and there is no end of their corpses; they stumble upon their corpses ... Thou has multiplied thy merchants above the stars of heaven ..." Nahum 3:1-2,16

> "Babylon the great is fallen ... the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies. ... And the merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her; for no man buyeth their merchandise any more. ... The merchants of these things, which were made rich by her, shall stand afar off for the fear of her torment ... And every shipmaster, and all the company in ships, and sailors, and as many as trade by sea ... cried when they saw the smoke of her burning ... for thy merchants were the great men of the earth ... And in her was found the blood of prophets, and of saints, and of all that were slain upon the earth." Rev 18:1-2,11,15,17-18,23

The reason that God gave us birth and saved us for this age was not to fatten the wolf, but for a different reason;

> "I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit," John 15:16

Go to the goats and turn them into sheep. Then, when the wolf- howl calls for blood - it will not be the sheep who bleed - and the prophecies will come to pass as written.

IRS

The IRS is forbidden by Christian Law (Matt 17:25-26). It is also an illegal amendment to the Constitution - never having been ratified.[7] The tax is another name for "tribute." Slaves pay tribute. The criticism against the tax is causing the establishment to reform the law - not abolish it. Two steps forward - one step back. Nothing basic will be changed.

Princess Di & Prince Charles

Princess Di was a whore. She is a media goddess because the media belongs to the wolf and wolves like sheep who like wolfs. To win media approval and support, one must sleep with a wolf or have an immediate family member who does. That person has presented his goat bona fides.

Prince Charles is supported by some sheep who should know better. They point to the Scripture where it says of David's kingdom, "Thy throne shall be established forever." II Sam 7:16. The same claim can be made for every throne in Europe. It also means something else. Jesus appointed you and me "kings and priests." We are also descended from David. We each have a ministry, a throne and we have God's appointment. We have returned to the WORD to judge us that God in the beginning appointed to rule. This is before man insisted on being ruled by kings. Now, we do what we must to survive, but the day will come when we will be ruled by the WORD - only! We leave the world's kings to the wolves whom they love so well.

Princess Di's picture is on my office wall - with a third Hindu eye in the middle of her forehead. HR #259 reproduced Charles' picture, with a third Hindu eye in the middle of his forehead. The devil has already taken the first - and the three-eyed whoremonger who still lives - lives only by God's sufferance.

7 The Law That Never Was, Beckman.

Letter From South Africa by K.J.

"Dear Mr. Hoskins: Mr. Jaap Marias and the HNP is breaking the hold that traitors have had on White S. Africans. Those attending HNP meetings fully agree with Marias's explanation of the treason committed so-called right-wing leaders. Especially the treason during the Bophuthatswana invasion.[8] No less than eight of the men attending the meeting formed part of the 83 FCA-men who were the last to withdraw from the area. In the process they faced severe military attacks meant to annihilate them.

"A group of black "farmers" recently became the first owners of a large farm with money given to them by Derek Hanekom's Land Affairs laws. In the Free State 46 black families got together and formed a trust to buy a 500 hectare farm with their grant. After getting the farm these farmers quickly decided not to farm and they leased the farm to someone else - while still living in the black township of Henneman. Best wishes, K.J."

More News From Africa

AIDS: Zimbabwe vice president Joshua Knomo's son died of Aids. The Ziana national news agency reported Mr. Nkomo

8 Traitors among the White right wing S. African generals honored the long standing promise to send aid to protect the Blacks living in the tribal homelands from black terrorists. White volunteers, who were mostly unarmed, were sent in with the promise that they would be furnished weapons once there. No weapons were provided and the invasion force barely were able to extricate themselves. Some were cut off and murdered in the most dreadful manner.

as saying that AIDS was brought to Zimbabwe by White people intending to wipe out the Black population and take their land and wealth. Mr. Nkomo appealed to medical experts to expedite research before AIDS wiped out the nation. (ANA - Internet)

AIDS: "Dr. J. Ricker Polsdorfer, overseeing Peace Corps medical services in some AIDS-plagued countries was fired after a supervisor complained about his advocacy of sexual abstinence and his recommendations that Peace Corps volunteers not have sexual relations with Africans. (Washington Times; Connecting Link, Letter From Australia by V.J.

"Dear Richard: Thought you'd better get the rest of the story. Paulene Hanson is being billed as the new white hope, and she does appear to be the best thing on the horizon, but she is less of a puritan than the media makes her out to be. Many support the thinking that she is a puritan, however, she thinks Asians and Blacks are fine so long there are not too many; let 'Whitey' get used to them first. "One Nation" is of course, nonsense. She wants all different races to assimilate under one law.

"Australia is not one nation; we have the Abo nation, the Asian nation and the Caucasian nation here. Oh yes, the Canaanite nation, too. Of course she thinks "nation" means a geo-political entity. When asked if she was a xenophobe, she asked 'please explain.'"

News From Eastern Europe

NUKES: "Russia's military has lost track of 100 suitcase-sized nuclear bombs, the nation's former National Security

Chief has told American lawmakers." News & Advance, Lynchburg, VA, Sep 5 1997

News From Saxon Germany

"According to German public safety authorities, more than 100,000 businessmen in Germany are, at this stage, victims of so-called protection rackets ... Amongst the East-Bloc Mafia, the most feared are the Chechens. They are, at this stage, virtually in full control of the market place in Berlin. Anyone refusing to pay is beaten up brutally, the premises are demolished and mutilation and murder are threatened. The police are powerless since most business people are too afraid to lay charges and, instead, rather pay up." Insider June 1, 1997, PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA ALTARS: "Islam is preached and taught today in more than 2000 mosques within Germany.

RKH: "Thou shall not bow down to their gods, nor serve them ... but thou shall utterly overthrow them, and quite break down their images." Ex 23:24

The Episcopacy of the Anglican Church

"As has been established by the British Campaign against the Arms Trade, the Anglican Church, which is headed by the Queen, has invested more than 250 million rand in the armaments industry, although the arms trade is frequently aggressively attacked during sermons. Moreover, 100 diverse aid organizations, 102 religious bodies and 109 municipal councils, which have shares in the companies, and have an interest in the lucrative war- materials trade. ..." Insider May 15, 1997, PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA

The Russian Wolf

RUSSIA'S SUPER RICH: "In 1993, 44,500 Russians traveled to the Spanish Riviera or to the Canary Islands. A year later, this number had increased to 86,000, and, last year 120,000 ... Anyone believing that wealth has broken out in Russia is mistaken. The holiday-makers were virtually without exception 'Russian mafiosi'." Insider, PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA

ABORTION: "Russians abort their children at the world's highest rate. Three million Russian children were murdered by their mothers in 1994 (12/95) Am. Info. News.) Two of every three conceptions are aborted. Russian women prefer abortion to contraceptives as a means of birth-control." Calvary Contender, Feb 15, 1996

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 278

KINGS & PRIESTS

There have always been the few who held up God's WORD even unto death. One of the finest examples is that of the Scottish presbyterian ministers, who, with bounties on their heads and the certainty of being shot when caught by the king's dragoons, they never ceased teaching the WORD. Some refugeed to America where they were accused by the king's agents of persuading a whole generation of Americans to revolt. Today, there remains a pitiable handful of persecuted and reviled teachers of the WORD. God bless their efforts and activate the realization in every man that HE is the priest created by God in the beginning - not the Levite. Every man who turns to the WORD becomes a priest of the WORD.

In The Beginning

Before there were kings who misruled and oppressed our people, there were priests who misruled and oppressed our people.

Before tyrannical priests ruled - adam-man ruled himself. He was created by God the WORD in the image of the WORD; created to rule himself and the world around him as king and priest in strict obedience to the Laws of the King of Kings - without any outside help.

Before we tell the story of this man who ruled himself without the brutal and pitiless assistance from self-appointed kings and priests - let's devote a few lines to these same priests and kings who are known today as The Establishment.

Priests

Our father Abraham came from Ur of the Chaldees. The land he left was wicked and was later destroyed because of that wickedness.

Abraham had a son, Isaac - from whence we get our name - "Sons- of-Isaac," "Isaacsons" - SAXONS. Isaac had two sons - Esau and Jacob. Esau married an Edomite and is the father of the modern day Arabs and Turks. Jacob married his own kind and to this day refuses to accept strangers into his nation.[1] Their descendants have been hereditary enemies ever since.

Jacob had 12 sons. Because of famine his family went to Egypt where there was food. They settled there. This violated God's Law against having strangers in our midst.[2] The result was that the Egyptians enslaved the sons of Jacob.

> "In those days the hand of Pharaoh continued to be severe against the children of Israel, and he crushed and oppressed them until the time when God sent forth his word and took notice of them." Jasher 71:16

---

1 LAW: MIXEDBREED - "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of Israel." De 23:2

2 LAW: STRANGERS IN OUR MIDST - "Thou shall make no covenant with them ... they shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21-24

The Law had been with man all along,[3] but God sent a leader to get things moving. His name was Moses. The Children of Israel accepted Moses as a judge. He led them out of Egypt into the desert where they lived until all the Israelites who left Egypt with an Egyptian- created slave-mentality died out and were replaced with a young aggressive generation who had grown up in the wilderness knowing no master but the Word.

Moses' Warning

From the time Moses led Israel out of Egypt and the time he was ready to die, an entire establishment priesthood grew up. Moses knew that such priesthoods are malignant. While in the process of writing down the Law, he warned the nation to be on guard against them:

> "When Moses had made an end of writing the words of this law ... Moses commanded the Levites ... saying, 'Take this book of the law and put it in the side of the ark of the covenant of the Lord your God, that it may be there for a witness against thee. For I know thy rebellion, and thy stiff neck: behold, while I am yet alive with you this day, ye have been rebellious against the Lord; and how much more after my death? Gather unto me all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may speak these words in their ears, and call heaven and earth to record against them. For I know that after my death ye will utterly corrupt yourselves, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you; and evil will befall you in the latter days; because ye will do evil in the sight of the Lord, to provoke

---

3 LAW: IN MAN'S HEART - "Keep his commandments and statutes ... For this commandment ... it is not hidden from thee ... It is not in heaven ... neither is it beyond the sea ... But the word is very nigh unto thee, in thy mouth, and in thy heart, that thou mayest do it." Deut 30:10-14; "I will put my law in ... their hearts; and will be their God, and they shall be my people." Jer 31:33; "This is the covenant that I will make with them ... I will put my laws into their hearts." Heb 10:16; "Ye are the temple of the living God ... God hath said, I will dwell in them and walk in them." II Cor 6:16

him to anger through the work of your hands.'" Deut 31: 24-29

Truer words were never written. This pestilent priesthood attached itself to Israel and has sucked its lifeblood on down through the ages until today. This is the very same priesthood who condemned our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, to death.

As prophesied, Jesus came to save us with the WORD. His known technique was to illustrate God's Laws by the use of parables. But, when he came to preachers he did not use this ancient teaching technique. He didn't beat around the bush. He abandoned the parables and spoke in plain language so that his followers could not mistake his words and would not be deceived. This is what Jesus had to tell us about preachers. Take it to heart:

> "Then spake Jesus ... 'The scribes and the Pharisees sit in Moses' seat: ... • They bind heavy burdens and grievous to be borne, and lay them on men's shoulders ... • All their works they do for to be seen of men; • They love the uppermost rooms at feasts, the chief seats in the synagogues, greetings in the markets, and to be called of men, Rabbi, Rabbi - But be not ye called Rabbi: for one is your Master, even Christ; and all ye are brethren. And ... "Call no man father ... for one is your Father, which is in heaven. ...
>
> "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites![4] • for ye shut up the kingdom of heaven against men: for ye neither go in yourselves, neither suffer ye them that are entering to go in. ...[5] • Ye devour widows' houses, • and for a pretense make long prayer: therefore ye shall receive the greater damnation. ...

4 Both scribes and Pharisees were united in a theocracy thatcombined king with priest. The king was either high priest, or, he appointed the high priest. The scribe-lawyer argued issues declared to be law by the Pharisee-king. "Scribes and Pharisees" were the religious-political "system." It is the same today.

5 Don't worry about the preacher or the church showing you the way to heaven. Jesus says they aren't going there and can't know the way.

• "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte, and when he is made, ye make him twofold more the child of hell than yourselves. ... Matt 23:15 ...[6] • Ye pay tithe of mint ... and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith ... • Ye blind guides, which strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel.[7] • Ye build the tombs of the prophets, and decorate them ... and say, if we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partakers with them in the blood of the prophets. ... ye are the children of them which killed the prophets. ... Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell? ... I send unto you prophets, and wise men, and scribes: and some of them ye shall kill and crucify; and some of them shall ye scourge in your synagogues, and persecute them from city to city: That upon you may come (be guilty of) all the righteous blood shed upon the earth ..." Matt 23: 1-39

The followers of the "WORD made flesh" can also add to Jesus' condemnation of the clergy - the clergy's sodomy with children that is rampant, their homosexuality with each other and approving with their silence all the other unspeakable evils of the world. Preachers protest that they follow God and his "WORD made flesh," but just look at what they did when they got the chance;

"Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the chief priests and elders of the people. ... And they ... led him away to Caiaphas the high priest, where the scribes and the elders were assembled. ... Now the chief priests, and elders, and all the council, sought false witness against Jesus, to put him to death; ... Jesus saith unto him, ... Hereafter shall ye see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and 6 Don't waste time with the children of hell preaching in the pulpits and those they preach to - what they don't know isn't worth knowing. Go instead to the un-churched! They have the WORD in their hearts and the wisdom to know that they will not hear the truth from the enemies of God.

7 While the country is being dragged to destruction by usury, sodomites, murderers, miscegenation and traitors in high places, they insist on arguing "grace vs Law," "lifting of hands," the "name of God", and the proper "day of worship."

coming in the clouds of heaven. Then the high priest (said) ... behold, now ye have heard his blasphemy. What think ye? They answered and said, He is guilty of death." Matt 26:47-66

The preachers said, "He is guilty of death." Sure, Judas was the finger-man, but he was working for the establishment-church, the same one that Moses warned against, the ones that he said to use the Law as a witness against.[8] The establishment church has always sought to destroy anyone who dared hold up God's Law to expose their sham, trickery, and chicanery. It is the establishment-church who condemned the Son of man to death. They forced the local king to do their dirty work for them so that they could lie and say that it was not they who had Jesus' blood on their hands;

"When the morning was come, all the chief priests and elders of the people took counsel against Jesus to put him to death: And when they had bound him, they led him away, and delivered him to Pontius Pilate the governor. ... And Jesus stood before the governor: and the governor asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? ... he answered him never a word. ... Pilate saith unto them, What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ? They all say unto him, Let him be crucified. Then the soldiers of the governor ... led him away to crucify him." Matt. 27:1-31

Other Kinds Of Priests & Judges

At the very time that priests in Jerusalem were condemning the WORD made flesh to death, the Goths had priests and judges of a different sort.

When our ancestors went into captivity in 721 B.C., their captivity lasted only a short while until they escaped north-

8 We are to hold up God's Law and demand to know why the preachers aren't teaching it.

ward to the Russian and European rivers.[9] Some traveled the Danube to Europe while others went to the Baltic in the far north.

Migrating back down the rivers some 500 years later, the "Goths" (God's people) ran into the Roman Empire. There was immense difficulty in making treaties and agreements between the two peoples. The Romans had a king, called an emperor, and his representatives insisted on talking to the king of the Goths. The Goths explained that there was no way to do that since they had no king - all men were kings. The closest they had to what the Romans were looking for was a "judge" - one who knew the Law - the Law contained in the ancient "Gothic Bible."

This is a brief description of the attempted negotiations between the Romans and Goths;

> "In times of danger the Gothic subdivisions formed a confederation ... the Tervingi (Branch of the Goths) had no monarchic kingship ... To meet both external and internal threats, the oligarchic council could reactivate a kind of monarchy, the Tervingian judgeship. ... the judge's authority ... was intended to be temporary and territorially limited. ... When Athanaric was negotiating a peace settlement with Valens in 369 the emperor addressed him as king. To this the Gothic prince replied that he preferred the title judge, since the judge embod-

9 "And there shall be a highway for the remnant of my people, which shall be left, from Assyria; like as it was to Israel in the day that he came up out of the land of Egypt." Isaiah 11:16; "They took counsel among themselves, that they would leave the multitude of the heathen, and go forth into a further country where never mankind dwelt." II Esdras 13:41 (included in the original KJV Bible, but omitted from most Bibles since 1825.

> ied wisdom, the king only power... Monarchic kingship did not exist among the Tervingi."[10]

The Romans spoke of German (Gothic-Saxon) kings, and certain German and Viking war leaders had tremendous prestige, but they had power for only the voyage, the war, or the emergency. It was not until Charlemagne conquered the last of the Saxons that the Holy Roman Empire's concept of rule by priests through hired kings became the general rule - and the Scriptual concept of every man being a king and a priest vanished into the mist of time.

It is no wonder that today's priests say nothing against unlawful taxation, warfare between kinsmen, trade with strangers, strangers in the land, pornography, rape, interracial marriage, pedofils, homosexuality, NAFTA, and evil law-makers. Why should they? They are hired to bless the king, and the king gives them a cut of the action. According to Scripture todays' priests are responsible for "all the righteous blood shed upon the earth" and that "upon you may come all the righteous blood shed upon the earth." They are the watchmen on the wall who see the enemy and do not sound the alarm, and, because of them the people fall prey to the wolves.[11]

Transfer Of Power

The problem of priests ruling Israel as judges came to a head when the righteous Samuel died. Samuel appointed his sons to be his successor. The people did not act as kings and

10 History Of The Goths, Herwig Wolfram, Univ. Cal. Press, London, 1989, p. 94

11 GODS LAW: "If the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned ... his blood will I require." Ezek 33:6

priests and select their own righteous ones to judge - Samuel did it for them. This is what happened:

> "When Samuel was old he made his sons judges over Israel ... And his sons walked not in his ways, but turned aside after lucre, and took bribes, and perverted judgment. Then all the elders of Israel ... came to Samuel ... and said unto him, Behold, thou are old and thy sons walk not in thy ways." I Samuel 8:1-5

Kings - Like The Wolf

The people were fed up with evil priests-judges. Still, instead of accepting their responsibility and ruling and judging the world that God had created them to do, they preferred to have governments like their wolf-pack neighbors. The beast nature of the wolf requires an alpha-wolf to be king and govern and keep order from the top down in wolf-pack style. They demanded:

> "Now make us a king to judge us like all the nations. But the thing displeased Samuel ... And the Lord said unto Samuel, Hearken unto the voice of the people in all that they say unto thee: for they have not rejected thee, but they have rejected me, that I should not reign over them." I Samuel 8:5-7

It was in this manner that man went from the frying pan of having priests to rule them as judge-rulers, into the frying-pan of having kings rule them as dictators. God invoked the rule, "Thine own wickedness shall correct thee." Jer 2:19. He granted man his desire to have a king. But first God warned them:

> "This will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you: He will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen. ... And he will take your daughters to be confectioneries, and to be cooks, and to be bakers. And he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your olive yards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants. And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give to his officers, and to his servants. ... He shall take the tenth of your sheep: and ye shall be his servants. And ye shall cry out in the day because of your king which ye shall have chosen you; and the Lord will not hear you in that day." I Sam 8:11-18

Coalition Of Rulers

From that day to this we have had kings and priests as our rulers. One scratches the back of the other. The governing system of both is the wolf-pack system - episcopal - appointment from the top down. We have had priests who hired kings to beat us into subjection. We have had kings who hired priests to use our fear of death and the unknown to keep us obedient. And we have even had wolves, who own our media, select kings for us to vote for to rule us - and to also choose false priests for us to follow. But, whatever the combination - they have ruled us in a most brutal and corrupt manner. They have slaughtered the flocks by the millions and the end is not yet in sight.

Man As His Own King & Priest

God made man in his own image to rule the world. God put his Law in his heart and made him king and priest. He directed that the land be divided and never sold. While ruling as his own king and priest, with his own selected representatives of 10s, 100s, and 1000s, and with no king and priest ruling over him, man has been most content.

These periods have been few enough. Time after time the serpent has crept in and misled man. To escape his responsibilities to rule as king and priest man has delegated his responsibility to others. As prophesied, the result has been disastrous; man has been reduced to being an animal to be butchered as it pleases his rulers. His land, his work, his products, and his blessings all have been taken by others.

The Scriptures teem with references which make no sense in a wolf-den. But, in a sheepfold, with only adam-man present taking responsibility for acting as his own king and priest, with no one else around to enforce God's Law, they make sense. Then, man must enforce God's Law himself.[12] With no police force to hunt an offender there is the "avenger of blood" so often referred to in the Scriptures. In case of the possibility of a miscarriage of justice there are "cities of refuge," where the larger community can hear the case.

There is no standing army - only militias. There is no king to appoint generals to enforce the king's policy - only leaders chosen by their peers - chosen by spokesmen for 1000s. There are no presidents to be selected or courts to be appointed - all rise to the top naturally and are instantly available by action of the 10s, 100s, and 1000s.

Time after time the wolf-den has been replaced by the sheepfold. Each time this happens there has been instant prosperity and success. Each time the newly created wealth has attracted the wolf who bribes goats to help them set up a wolf-system.

Conclusion

Man has once again come to the place where he has one of two choices. The land on which he stands is soaked with his blood, his land and goods have been stolen, he has been taxed as a slave, beasts are stealing his children, and all the

12 GODS LAW; THE ENFORCER - "The hands of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterward the hands of all the people." Deut 17:5-7 curses that God said that he will bring upon his disobedient children are in force.

We also remember that the WORD promises:

> "When thou are in tribulation ... even in the latter days, if thou turn to God and shall be obedient ... he will not forsake thee ... nor forget the covenant of thy fathers." Deut 4:30-31

We have no choice. We can die, or, we can once again act like the MAN that our God created in the beginning - the MAN he created to rule his world. We can start by recognizing that we are our own kings and priests and are responsible to God - no one else.[13] With this recognition all things are possible. The dismantling of the wolf-den has already commenced as sheep flee from wolf-den cities and take tentitive steps to re-construct the sheepfold. Our operation manual, complete with the Master Contractor's guarantee, is in our hand. There can be no excuse for failure.

LETTER FROM S. AFRICA by K.J.

F. W. deKlerk resigned as leader of the National Party at last. We expected it some time ago. They still have to elect a new leader but I doubt if they have many ordinary members. In fact, some now have awakened to the fact that they have been betrayed. It took them a long time. Perhaps they were so financially well off through their former connections that it did not really affect them. Dr. Frederick von zyl Slabbert is behind Roelf Meyer's "Process for a new Movement," a

13 GOD'S LAW; KINGS & PRIESTS - "Jesus Christ... hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." Rev 1:5-6 multiracial movement out to destroy the National Party. Van zyl Slabbert has been the driving force in other conspiracies. It is only natural that he would be the brain power behind the movement. He is also involved in brainwashing and falsifying our history at big business seminars.

Two of the worst slander cases are being taken to court. A certain Rev. Hector Jooste wrote a libelous letter in Patriot on March 10, 1997, as follows:

"There has never been in the entire history of the Afrikanervold, an enemy of the volk who caused so much disgrace than the HNP right-wing party. In terms of division and the sowing of hatred and envy the HNP is unequaled ... the HNP is a venomous and deadly cancer, which the Boerevolk must get rid of as quickly as possible ..."

The other one is Volkspers who publishes Patriot. This church minister belongs to the APK-Afrikaans Protestant church. In the meantime the Conservative Party is getting ready to vote in 1999 and will form some alliance, but it is not clear with whom. Because of treasonous acts of Gen. Viljoen, his Freedom Front is no longer acceptable to the Conservative Party followers.

Only this morning train service to the the East Rand will be discontinued as four railway carriages were burnt out by black commuters because the train fare went up. A black told my husband that they know how to negotiate for anything. First toy-toyi (dance around like blacks do after making a touchdown), break some windows, turn cars over and set them alight and you get what you want. Strikes by Cosatu are going on all over the country at a time when the economy can least afford it.

We have had more welcome light rain. With best wishes, K.J.

LETTERS

PLATO: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I found the following quote in The Great Thoughts by George Seldes, Ballentine Books (1985):

"And God proclaims as the first principle to the rulers, and above all else, that there is nothing which they should so anxiously guard, or of which they are to be such good guardians, as of the purity of the race." S.N. - Florida

RKH: It's too bad that the Greeks did not have the Law. It would have made other Greeks besides Plato aware of the fact that wolves eat sheep, and everyone you meet is either a wolf or a sheep.

CASE LAW: "Dear Richard: Re: the Sept. HR 'guy with a problem.' Prison administrators will take everything you have pertaining to Saxon Christian literature if you let them. If you are willing to stand up for your rights, you can fight legally and win. Start with whatever grievance procedures are available at the institution level, then go to the courts. In all my cases, the administration has bowed down at the grievance level. Law libraries have plenty of case law supporting prisoner's rights to receive publications. There is 'Murphy vs. Mo. Dept. of Corrections 814 F2d 1252 (1987); Wiggins vs. Sargent 753 F2d 663(1985); Native American Council of Tribes vs. Solem 691 F2d 382(1982) re: Religion and Publications. Lots of cases cite Procunier vs. Martinez: 416, U.S. 396, 407, 94 S. Ct. 1800, 40 LED 2d 224(1974) re: First Amendment Rights - see pages 236, 242, 245 - Rowland vs. Jones: 452 F2d 1005, 1007, (8th Cir. 1971). Black Muslim case - but very good and helpful. - Cooper vs. Pate 12LED2 1030: re Religion and race. Also check into U.S. Constitution Amendments #1, #4, #9, #10, and Bureau of Prisons Program Statements 5360, 4 and 1040.2. There are several dealing with inmate's rights to hold Israel Identity worship services and Bible Studies. All Good case law. True, I have been labeled all sorts of things by the Administration, but my fight allowed me to keep and receive all publications and literature dealing with Saxon Christianity, and enables me to share these treasures with my fellow kinsmen. It makes it easier on the next man to get literature and remain 'silent'. If you are serious about your beliefs, the fight is worth it - and we don't know for how long we will have these rights." Yah bless, R.J. - prisoner Florida

ED: These gutsy prisoners deserve all sorts of credit. In some prisons in the US the administrators ban both Christian newsletters and books on all sorts of pretexts. They then ban other mail to prisoners to prevent them from receiving printed matter detailing how to get their religious rights. This is America today!

China Report

NURSE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins; I was a nurse in China during WWII. I found the Chinese people interesting. Chinese nurses were not allowed by their superiors to nurse the common soldiers since they were beneath them. They only tended the higher ranks. Once on their feet, the Chinese walking wounded would not help their fellows who were still bedridden. They were also very cruel. Tied up pigs were brought to market and the Chinese soldiers would put lighted cigarettes down their throats, and laugh at their squeals of pain. They were great gamblers. Chinese soldiers only made about $5 a month. On payday, this money would be gone in an hour or two. They gambled it all away. I would not like to be a prisoner of the Chinese." G.G. - Virginia

News From Saxon Ireland

"Dear Richard: Have just returned from 3-month stay in Dublin, Ireland. The Irish are just now undergoing the 'racial treatment.' Asylum seekers and refugees from Vietnam, Hungary (Gypsies), and Africa are finding little Ireland through the auspices of the High Commissioner of the United Nations, Geneva. Irish have not accepted immigrants gracefully. Saw signs just before leaving Ireland urging Irish to 'Say No To Racism' and attend meetings in which refugees and government officials were to speak. Four years ago Irish government attempted to take control of Catholic parochial school system. The Church resisted, and the government has now established 12 'non-denominational' government public schools - and this in a country that is considered 95% Catholic! Asked who goes to these schools, some Irish say its the Irish fed up with the pedophile priesthood. Certainly the Catholic church is taking a media beating because of pedophile activity. One pedophilic priest died in prison in September, and media headlines were 'May He Rot In Hell!' Ireland is now the most prosperous country in Europe courtesy of American high-tech firms. Ireland now producing more advanced degree graduates than any other European country. New cars are seen everywhere." O.R.- Wisconsin

UNFILTERED NEWS

MOLESTATION: A federal jury awarded $750,000 to a man who said he was molested by a Roman Catholic priest when he was a teen-ager in the 1960s and that his diocese covered it up. The jury found that the Bridgeport Roman Catholic Diocese violated its obligations to Frank Martinelli of Milwaukee and did not investigate to see if there were other victims. (Story in News & Advance, Aug 27, 1997, p.5)

RKH: All episcopacies, political or religious, feed on the credulous. They are run like private clubs. They have no law, only policy, and their policy is whatever their governing board determines their policy is.

DALAI LAMA STANDING OVATION: The Dalai Lama was given a standing ovation in an Episcopal Church. On April 24, the Dalai Lama spoke to more than 3,000 people attending an interfatih celebration at the Episcopal National Cathedral in Washington, DC. The service began with a call to prayer by a Muslim. There were readings from Hindu writings as well as from Old and New Testaments. Buddhists led prayers. The following quotations from the Dalai Lama's message were given by the AP:

"All major religious traditions carry basically the same message, that is love, compassion and forgiveness ..."

He urged cultivating "some kind of appreciation or understanding about the value of others' religions," to foster understanding.

"Basically we are all the same human beings (with) the same potential to be a good human being or a bad human being..." (From Christian News, Rev Hermon Otten, 32177 Boeuf Lutheran Road, New Haven, MO 63068, May 12, 1997, p.2)

Mideast

PUNISH: The militant Islamic group Hamas warned that the extradition of one of its top leaders from the U.S. to Israel could provoke an effort to "punish America." Hamas vehemently objects to having one of its top leaders being subjected to a kangaroo trial in "occupied Palestine."

RAPE: Saudi-Arabia - Three Saudis and a Pakistani convicted of gang rape were publicly beheaded in Mecca. The four were convicted of breaking into a house under the influence of alcohol, locking up the owner of the house and taking turns raping his wife. This year 45 people have been beheaded. Last year 192 people were beheaded.

RKH: Christian lands, said to be ruled by God's Law, are shamed by the heathen who are zealous for their God.

ALGERIA: An assassin shot and killed the leader of Algeria's largest labor union - a presidential ally and opponent of the Islamic insurgency. A few hours later a bomb exploded in a crowded market killing 15 and injuring at least 30. Tit for tat. The war continues.

RAPE: A 63-year-old Lynchburg man has been sentenced to ten years in prison by Circuit Court Judge J. Michael Gamble for raping a 5-year-old child. Another child was waiting in the wings to bring similar charges. (Story in News & Advance, March 21, 1997)

RKH: The above illustrates the acts of the Lawless judges of a Lawless nation. The LAW clearly states: "If a man ... force her, and lie with her: then the man only that lay with her shall die." Deut: 22:25. Failure to enforce God's Law triggers the next Law: "Because thou hast let go out of thy hand a man whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people." I Ki 20:42. Thanks, Judge Gamble, we needed that!

CARTEL AGENTS DEFINE WORD: Raymond Catell, a psychologist renowned for his research into personality, has been denied an award after being called a "racist" by Abe Foxman of the Jewish Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. This organization of descendants of Eastern European Turks has a long history of attacking Christian Whites for being "racist." These attacks are an attempt to force individuals to speak, act, and write in a manner determined by them to be "politically correct," or face continuing smears by the media or worse.

Cartel agents boast that they define the words they use. They say that "racist" means whatever they say it means. It can mean one thing today and the opposite tomorrow. When I was in school a racist was "one who studied races." Today, it means whatever the propagandist says it means. The "defining technique" is the ancient Hindu way of turning peoples' minds by giving different meanings to the exact same words.

Saxon News From Rhodesia

In 1965 Rhodesia declared its independence from Britain. Immediately, Communist and Western powers combined to finance Black revolt. The 250,000 Rhodesians presented a solid front and won the war, then suddenly, Rhodesia's premier Ian Smith, opened negotiations with the enemy and in 1980 turned the country over to them. Today there are only 80,000 Whites left whose average age is 59. Ian Smith is still called the uncrowned king of the "hated Rhodies" by the establishment press. Smith "rails" at the black ruler, Robert Mugabe, who rails back at him. But, they live peacefully across the golf course from each other. A perfect example of the establishment's ruler and the establishment's opposition.

Among the "Rhodies" still left are Judith Todd and her father Sir Garfield, former prime minister of Southern Rhodesia. Both were imprisoned by the Smith regime for openly supporting black majority rule and democratic elections.

Their arrest by the Smith regime convinced other Rhodesians that Smith was a true patriot. One can never pledge allegiance to a man - only to the WORD which is God. If Rhodesians had obeyed the WORD and had instantly punished Smith's dealings with strangers - today's Rhodesian Saxons would not be slaves of the Blacks. The Law cannot be changed by anyone. It is Law! "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: nokriy -racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deut 17:15

Mid-East Fuse

INDIA: Because of selective abortion there are now 31,000,000 more males in India than females. One of the reasons Indian Hindus migrate to America is to search for a Saxon wife.

Saxon News From Europe

CLAMP DOWN: Mosbach, Germany - The public prosecutor's office is investigating a Boy Scout group's "right-wing extremism and child alienation". It is alleged that the children have been alienated from their parents in that, in a 'right-wing extremist manner' they were not permitted to wear ear-rings, jeans, nor listen to rock music. Insider PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA

HISTORY CENSORED: From 1998 British schools will no longer teach children about our political history. Henry V, Elizabeth I, and Nelson are all to disappear. The Government has approved the move. (The Recent News, Interment from Gr. Britain)

RACE MONITORING: The BBC is to introduce more

'race monitoring' of news and current affairs broadcasting. The next stage will be quotas. The quotas, promoted by organizations like the BBC, have nothing to do with numbers of ethnic minorities in Britain. The 'fair-quota' will be a massive overrepresentation of nonwhites. (The Recent News, Interment from Gr. Britain)

RIOTS: The Chapeltown area has had another riot. The area has had seven riots in the last year or two. Just over a year ago 22 police officers were injured after a man was arrested for a ram raid in a stolen BMW. The National Black Caucus said at the time the incident was caused by "police racism." (The Recent News, Interment from Gr. Britain)

SYMPATHETIC JUDGE: Judge Hans Peter Januschke, who is a member of the Freedom Party, said that there was nothing wrong with the teachers actions in denying that there were gas chambers in WW2 concentration camps. He faces disciplinary proceedings. More than 10% of teachers and police in Austria are members of the Freedom Party, which won 21% of the vote inAustria's general election last year. (The Recent News, Interment from Gr. Britain)

EUROPE'S NATIONALISM: Jean-Marie Le Pen, following his re-election as leader of the French National Front, is seeking to establish a "Pan-European Organization of Nationalists" in order to prevent an excessive infiltration of Europe by foreigners. His first move will be to send 3,000,000 immigrants home. Then, the "death sentence would immediately be re- introduced" in France. As a first step, Le Pen has now made contact with Jorg Haider's nationalist party "Freiheitliche" in Austria. (Insider, PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA, Aug 1, 1997.)

BRITISH GUN CONFISCATION: Firearms enthusiasts have until the end of September to give up their weapons or face the prospect of up to 10 years in jail under new laws that are said to be the world's toughest anti-gun legislation. An estimated 160M larger caliber pistols were made illegal as a result of a firearms act passed under the previous Tory administration, and a further 40M smaller .22 caliber handguns are set to be banned under a Bill put forward by the new Labor government. Prime Minister Tony Blair said a handgun ban was necessary because "we owe a moral responsibility to the victims of Dunblane and their families." (Citizen, S. Africa July 2, 1997)

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 279

THE FEUDAL SYSTEM

The Feudal System is an ancient social, economic, political and religious system. Its purpose is to organize divergent peoples into taxable states where the many provide for the few. It was born in India millennia ago and now calls itself "socialism", "communism", "democracy", "national socialism" and "New World Order". Its real name is Hinduism - man's enemy.

The Knight & Wedderburn Humes

The reader is familiar with the picture of the knight dashing about the countryside fighting dragons and saving maids in distress. This is a small part of a much larger picture.

My ancestor, George Hume, was the Earl of Wedderburn and Warden of the East March - a fact that means absolutely nothing to those who do not know the background.

Scotland had a king who held Scotland en fief from the Catholic Pope (all Europe was claimed by the Catholic Pope). This meant that in exchange for being allowed to rule Scotland the king was required to perform certain duties and the Pope was obligated to perform certain duties.

Scotland is too large for one man to rule, so the king divided his kingdom and appointed certain of his followers to govern specified parts.

He gave "Dunbar", one of his followers, lands that faced the border with England. These were "helmet" lands where fighting took place. The name for "helmet" is Hume. These were known as Hume-lands. The family took the name of the lands and became known as helmet wearers or Humes.

These were extensive lands and required many castles to defend them. The main castle was named "Wedderburn, so the Dunbar family became known as Wedderburn Humes. There are also other Hume lands on the border and other Humes - Blackadder, Hersel, etc. - but my family are the Wedderburn Humes.

One of the duties of the Wedderburn Humes was to collect the rents and tithes from his followers, keep part, and send the rest to his king - who kept part and sent the rest to the Pope. [1] Another duty was to keep the peace. But, the primary task of the Wedderburn Humes was to protect the border of Scotland against English invasion - not just to protect their own lands - they were charged with protecting the entire West March of Scotland.

Defending the border was no easy task. The Humes held their lands for centuries, but it wasn't until late into the 1600s that a Hume died in bed; all the rest died on the field of battle defending the borders.

1 The principle here is no differnt from from one man managing another mans business for a share of the profit, or for a farmer allowing another to farm his land for a share of the crop. It is simply sharecropping.

When "The Hume" took to the field, all those who held in fief from him also took to the field. In the "Rising Of The '15", or, 1715, my ancestor George brought more than 10,000 of his vassals and retainers to the battlefield. When the battle was lost - so was he. His English captors took him to the Tower in London where they condemned him to be "hanged, drawn, and quartered." His son, also named George, a boy of 15, had a chain put about his neck and he was sent to the colonies where he was sold off a slave block at Yorktown. Thousands of others who had followed his father George were crammed into prison ships and also sold into Virginia. Their vacant homes and lands were turned over to others to be held en fief to lords who held them en fief to the King of England. In most cases sheep were put on the land since wool was more profitable to the English than produce from Scottish farms grown by rebellious Scottish hands.[2]

Fortunately for him, the younger George Hume's indenture was bought by his cousin, the governor of Virginia, and he was given a job as royal surveyor, a skill he had been taught in Scotland, and sent to Culpeper County which was near the frontier.

While surveying three things happened to him. First, on the frontier the powers of the Royal government sitting at 2 The great Hume Castle was blown up earlier by Oliver Cromwell. After the "Rising of 1715", Wedderburn Castle and lands were given en fief to a more docile branch of the family. Because of taxes, Wedderburn Castle has recently been sold out of the family. In 1983, the writer went home to visit his Hume cousins. On the table rested the sword carried by the younger George during the "Rising." On the wall was a tattered family flag. It had a yellow St. Andrews cross on a green field, and was stained with the blood of father and eldest son of one generation, and father and eldest son of an earlier generation. The flag had been used to wrap their bodies as they were carted from the battlefields.

Williamsburg were light - since there was no one to enforce them. Young George Hume had been thrown into the middle of a growing self-sufficient farm system. This influenced his world outlook tremendously. Second, he surveyed the town of Fredericksburg, and, Third: he taught George Washington to survey - all the while imparting to him his opinions of the English monarchy.

The reason this story was related is twofold. First is so the reader will understand that the writer is descended from a family which is familiar with, not only the "Self-Sufficient Farm System," but with its implacable foe - The Feudal System - even as reconstituted with cosmetic changes today. Second, and more important, one feudal system may supersede another feudal system causing hardly a ripple.

The Feudal System

The natural order of man is that of independent "kings and priests" living on self-sufficient farm systems which are in fact, kingdoms. The natural order of non-man is the wolf-pack system. The pack system has an alpha leader at the top who claims title to everything, and a lowly omega person at the bottom whom everyone may abuse. All those in-between fight to determine their place on the heirarchal ladder.

Alpha leaders long ago devised an efficient system to extract tribute from their followers and other unwilling producers. This ancient system traces its origins to India - arriving in Europe through Greece and the Roman Empire.

This feudal system today consists of four castes - the same as it did yesterday. With cosmetic variations it is the same in the Far East as it is in the West. It is the same the world over. The castes are:

Caste I - Priests
Caste II - Kings & Soldiers
Caste III - Merchant
Caste IV - Workers[3]

The top three castes, "priests", "kings & soldiers", and "merchants," collaborate to keep the workers in subjection.

At any given time one of the three ruling castes may be in temporary ascendancy, but, one caste cannot efficiently rule the workers without the help of the other castes, therefore the ascendancy is temporary and cooperation between the castes is the rule.

Caste I - Priests

THE PRIEST'S JOB - The Priest's job in the feudal system is to bless the king and excuse violations of God's Law he may make. In payment for this blessing the king permits loyal priests to collect tribute from the workers. They are also granted tax- exemption.

The priestly caste is always listed first because they claim to have the keys to paradise, and in the long run, control kings and merchants by appealing to their religious superstitions.

It is to the advantage of both king and priest that the status quo continue. For this reason the agreements made by the priests to support the king are set in concrete by making priests' religion a state religion. Once this is done, the priests' jobs are secure, and the king can count on the support of priests whose beliefs are now a state religion.

3 There is also an unrecognized "out-caste." This caste is the lowest of the low and performs duties that other castes do not wish to perform. In most lands it consists of convicts and immigrants.

Episcopal Religions

Episcopal religions (rule from the top down) are made episcopal so that kings and merchants may have a say in the selection of the priests. The episcopal system is also good to eliminate dissident priests, dissident doctrines, and to ensure that policy formulated at the top is executed uniformly by priest underlings throughout the entire religious organization. Priests who become too independent are simply fired. The Western Christian religion claims to have the keys to heaven, and Eastern religion's priests claim knowledge that leads to nirvana. The threat of exclusion from heaven or nirvana is tremendous power over the minds of the superstitious. This power is just as effective when used to back the policies of the king or the merchant castes.

Episcopal religions have leaders. Following are some of the world's episcopal leaders who can be counted on to support and receive support from the world's Feudal Systems:

1. Dali Lama; 2. Old Man Of The Mountain (Assassins); 3. Ayotola (Muslims); 4. Catholic Pope; 5. Protestant episcopal;[4] 6. Eastern Orthodox Metropolitan; 7. Senior Jewish Rabbis. 8. Countless Hindu "perfect teachers." Etc.

The Judeo Christian sect was created out of whole cloth by inventive media-owners to control the huge independent presbyterian- protestant sector in America and to effectively bring them into the Feudal System. This new sect was called "Judeo-Christian" - a name that can mean whatever a speaker wishes it to mean.

4 Including but not limited to - Anglican Queen of England; many Lutheran, Methodist, and media-selected spokesmen for the Judeo-Christian cult.

Media-owners selected certain independent presbyterian-protestant pastors and allowed them to use their media. The use of the media gives the user great wealth and prestige. The selected pastors show their appreciation by parroting the media- owner's religious, political, and economic agenda.

They even go so far as to suppress all mention of God's Commandments - which is "the WORD that is God". Most Judeo- Christian leaders say flatly that God's Commandments are done away - meaning that the traditional God of Adam-man no longer exists.

The writer of this article once attended a local Judeo-Christian Church. He had a theological problem. He went to the pastor for an answer. The pastor referred him to an "in-house expert." This expert informed him that he could not answer the question since God's Commandments were done away, that he should ask the local Jewish rabbi since "Jews go by Biblical Law while Christians do not."!5

Seminaries have been established in the West for training religious leaders. Most have been heavily endowed by the international merchant. In return, most have one or more strangers on their faculty. Most teach Biblical LAW - "God's Commandments". Most of these seminaries churn out feudal priests indoctrinated with the concept that the feudal system is the ONLY system and that the church is "Israel" - which in the Hebrew means "having God's power-of- attorney."

Deprived of a sound religious foundation in which to believe or teach, they learn instead to conduct social and

5 Jews do NOT go by Biblical Law; they go by interpretations of the Law that are found in the Talmud. For instance, "Thou shalt not kill." However, if someone is bound and locked in a room where he is bitten by a snake and dies - it is the fault of the snake. (Sanhedrin 77a-77b) entertainment programs as a substitute. Their social and musical programs are almost their total offering. Seminary graduates, Catholic and Protestant, are with few exceptions the natural enemy of the Bible-believing presbyterian separatist.[6]

PREACHERS: If the priesthood loses its place in the loop - it loses the status that society automatically gives to those who have tax-exemption, fat salaries, plush homes, late model cars, the deference due God's representative and favorable media mention - all of which comes from blessing the peccadilloes of the "king/soldier" and the "merchant castes." There are some who will give their souls to get these perks. It follows that there are priests who will give their souls to keep them.

Priesthoods will do what is necessary to keep their place in the system. If it means accepting another god and calling his name "Jesus" - they can do that - or anything else that keeps the perks coming. Because of their tax-exemption - establishment priests never speak evil of the king's taxes. The "merchant caste" pays substantial tribute to seminaries, colleges and local churches to buy the priests silence regarding the merchants' usury banks and the merchants' false-witness media that misleads and destroys the people.

If today's feudal-priests were to attack the ones who pay them - the merchants would simply hire another priestly caste to bless them and the present priests would be excluded from the loop.

---

6 "Attila the Hun taught that a nation of one ancestry and one race is weak. He taught that the Huns must welcome all foreigners seeking to join their cause, and treat them with dignity and respect." Leadership Secrets of Attila the Hun, Wess Roberts, Peregrine Pub. Co., P.O. Box 2742, Rohnert Park, CA 94928, 1985.

Caste II - Kings & Soldiers

THE KING'S JOB: A king must have a standing army to enforce his edicts.[7] The king is hired by the international merchant to protect him and his goods from the wrath of exploited workers. The king also collects the tribute.

In this past century the king extended his quest for tribute to income taxes, inheritance taxes, business license taxes, autos and gas taxes, food taxes, and, countless other taxes. The king also removed the last laws that restrict the activities of the international merchant and his trade, and he granted tax- exemption to priests who bless him and the feudal system.

Avoiding Problems With Kings

Kings are hired by the merchant. Once installed, they are often in a position to increase their power until they can extort tribute from the very merchants who put them in office. To keep this from happening the merchant caste tries to keep kings loyal by keeping them weak.

Powerful kings such as Louis XIV, Napoleon, Henry VIII, and Adolph Hitler, worked themselves into positions to take a lion's share of the profits of national and international trade for their own use. Ousting such kings can be difficult.

The standard method to dislodge unruly kings is to fund a pretender to the throne - perhaps a rival political party. Assassination has proved useful. In difficult cases - financing national or civil wars that lead to the overthrow of rebel kings.

---

7 This is why kings are opposed to militias not controlled by them.

Occupational Hazards: - Working for presidents, premiers, and kings presents an occupational hazard. Personnel of the army, police, FBI, CIA, BATF, Civil Service, etc., are often required to enforce a policy which is in direct violation of God's Law.

Kings appoint judges to rubber-stamp their statutes and decrees. His selection is made with care so as not to appoint someone who will cause problems. Lawyers appear before these appointed judges. Lawyers are called "officers of the court." They are expected to argue that the king's statutes are legal - even when they violate God's Law. In this manner both the judge and the lawyer may find themselves fighting God the WORD.

This writer has spoken at many church conferences. In all his years he has seen present only two lawyers and never a judge. The practice and enforcement of the king's statute-law is an occupational hazard. Fighting God is certainly unwise.

Caste III - Merchants

The objective of the international merchant is to sell as much merchandise as possible for as high a price as possible to as many customers as possible in the shortest space of time as possible.

Investment imperative demands that managers of the merchants' assets produce revenues for its principals by whatever means necessary.[8]

The merchant brings a new factor into the Feudal System:

8 A state, corporation, or a private individual is a potential income producing asset to be exploited. Prudent principals always have substitute management teams ready to replace unproductive or rebellious managers. This includes reform managers trained and available to cope with labor unrest.

"A merchant shall hardly keep himself from doing wrong; and a huckster (salesman) shall not be freed from sin." Ecclesiasticus 26:29

Merchants and salesmen provide a service, but don't produce increase for barter. They live by their wits and barter the increase of others. The opportunity exists to misrepresent wares. It is an occupational hazard that goes with the job, thus, the warning;

"The love of money is the root of all evil." I Ti 6:10

There are two kinds of merchants:

Local merchant - The ubiguitous countrystore stands abandoned in the ruins of the old "selfsufficient farm system". The small shop-keeper, the small merchants who own the local diner, the drug store, clothing store, furniture store and grocery once did business in the country store. When the dispossessed farm owners were banished to town, they moved with him to furnish his needs. They are a left-over part from the old system. In the city the small merchant found himself in competition with another kind of merchant - the international merchant.

International Merchant - The 18 wheeler, the 747 jumbo jet, the million ton cargo carrier announces the presence of the international merchant. His giant department store moved in and replaced dozens of clothing and specialty shops, and the large manufacturing plant replaced a thousand cottage industries.

Hundreds of small businesses were replaced by a single Walmart. The neighborhood mom and pop grocery vanished before the giant food store. Eighteen wheeler trucks are everywhere bringing in sweatshop merchandise by the thousands of tons. The hundreds of two and four seater planes which once crowded the skies have been replaced by 747 vapor trails high in the sky - each 747 carrying half a thousand passengers in a single flight. The 500 to 5000 ton cargo ships are no more. They have been replaced by giant bulk carriers weighing up to a million tons. Where the seas were once crowded with hundreds of ships - the seas now remain deserted for days after the passage of a single million tonner. Fewer and fewer corporations grow larger and larger.

Corporation - The ownership of the giant businesses rests in the hands of corporations. Corporate ownership is concealed by the corporate structure. Senator McFadden discovered after years of investigation that tracing corporate ownership leads to dead ends. He found that giant utilities are owned by other utilities. The stock of the other utilities are owned by nominee names in bank trust accounts. These trust accounts are owned by other corporations whose stock is also owned in nominee names in other banks. These banks in America may be owned by banks in Switzerland or Japan. The maze cannot be followed - or confiscated. The international merchant knows how to protect what is his.

Corporate Farms - When the international merchant arrived there was no surplus labor to work in his factories and the people had no real need for his products. To provide the labor for his manufacturing plants and to promote demand - the independent farms were destroyed. This was done in the following manner.

Cargo carriers brought in perhaps 10% of the food required for the nation and dumped it at discount prices. This collapsed the nation's commodity prices. Collapsed commodity prices made many farms unprofitable. Unprofitable farms were sold and their owners went to town to find employment in the international merchant's manufacturing plants. In this way, after the War Between the States, small Southern trade centers quickly grew into cities accommodating the influx of new workers.

BANKS - The merchant provides a bank where customers can borrow money to buy their heart's desire. The first usury bank was opened in America in 1778. It was opened to supply money to farmers who had only produce to trade. Any farmer could pledge the deed to his farm in return for a $10,000 loan. Taking out loans that could not be repaid caused the unemployed farmer to go bankrupt and join the work force in the cities. One more competitor of the International Merchant "bit the dust."

Caste IV - Saxon Workers

The 4th caste in the Feudal System furnishes the workers. We are Saxon descendants of those Saxon owners torn from their little kingdoms and stockpiled in population centers to serve the Feudal-System. We serve or not as we choose, but if we choose not to serve - we starve.

Presbyterians - In general, the three ruling castes tend to belong to episcopal religious organizations, while workers attend presbyterian religious meetings.[9]

Riches: With a few exceptions, "the love of money that is 9 My uncle, a Baptist, ran several times unsuccessfully for the office of governor. He was advised to become an Episcopalian. He did, and was elected next time around. I have little doubt that this would work today for Judeo-Christians. This sect, advertise themselves to be presbyterian, but they are media-selected from the top and are therefore episcopal in fact. Their loyalty is guaranteed by threat of being barred from the merchant's media.

the root of all evil" causes extorted wealth to go into the pockets of the top three castes of the feudal-system. This is why Jesus said, "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God." Matt 19:24. The disciples asked Jesus, "Who then can be saved? ... Jesus replied, 'With men this is impossible; but with God all things are possible.'" Matt 19:26.

It is possible for rich men to enter into the kingdom - but it is easier "to go through the eye of a needle." Beware a "rich man." "Rich" men seldom join the Fourth Caste of workers, engineers, poor priests, and farmers to attend meetings studying God the WORD.

Rich men constantly make generous donations to establishment approved charities which help strangers and their children. Seldom do they make donations to help the orphans and the needy of their own kind.[10] This means that the WORD will be fulfilled with the small donations of the faithful who await the fulfillment of God's promise to bring his kingdom - and the day they can step into their own kingdoms as kings and priests - here on earth!

10 "If any provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel." I Tim 5:8

Conclusion

The Feudal System consists of four castes. They are 1- priests, 2- king/soldier, 3- merchant, and 4-workers. The first three castes form a mutually supporting loop to control and extort tribute from the rest.

The workers, though oppressed and persecuted, steadfastly hold to God the WORD, who reminds them he created man and made them kings and priests - and commanded them to divide the land so that each might have his own "farm-kingdom."

It is these oppressed ones, the servants of the WORD, who by their obedience will dismantle today's feudal system and on its ruin restore each man to his kingdom - the Self-Sufficient Farm System.

==========

UNFILTERED NEWS

GERMAN WAR DEATHS: News is censored in Germany. We grasp at each sliver of history that slips from under their conqueror's imposed paper curtain and hope that one day Germany, still occupied by its conquerors 50 years after its conquest, will be permitted to have "freedom of speech" like other nations.

From Germany comes the most recent estimate of German WWII deaths. Total 11,700,000. Details: 3.25 million killed in combat; 1.0 million civilians killed in air raids; 2.0 million German soldiers died in Soviet camps after the war, 1.0 million in U.S. PW camps, 120,000 in French camps, 100,000 in Yugoslav camps, 22,000 in Poland and CSSR. 15 million Germans living in other lands were forcibly uprooted and driven back to Germany - of which number 3.0 million died en-route. 500,000 German civilians are estimated to have been killed by Russian soldiers during and after the war, 120,000 German civilians and 60,000 Austrians died in Soviet prisons during the Soviet occupation. The above was picked up and relayed by internet site (bs-org@c2.net).

INDIA'S DEMOCRACY: India can't make her eyewash flimflam ersatz democracy work. Her exercise in futility has caused four governments to fall in two years. It's bad for business. We may expect the merchant caste at some point to demand that India revert to a traditional "Indian ruler," one who dispenses tolerance with an iron fist.

RUSSIAN CHILDREN: For centuries, the Turks captured Slav children for sex and labor and gave them the name slav - "slave". Russian newspapers are full of stories of abused Slav children adopted by Americans. They are in the process of requiring that these children adopted by Americans keep Russian citizenship. In essence, Russia will have a future reservoir of Russian citizens living in America. Neat!

SEX: "A survey of 3,000 youths in Britain, ages 16 to 18, found: Most all atheists/agnostics see nothing wrong for couples in long-term relationships to have sex outside marriage; 85% of Catholics and 80% of Anglicans felt the same." (Cavalry Contender, July 15, 1997, from (6/21 H. Time)

BLACK SEPARATISTS: "Geronimo Pratt, a leader of the original Black Panther Party, celebrated his recent liberation from prison with a call for black people to strengthen their families and work for a nation separate from the United States. 'You can liberate this nation, and, if not, I'm sorry, our children are going to continue to go to prison.' he told an audience at St. Luke Community United Methodist Church in Dallas. He called for a referendum, similar to the 1995 secession attempt by Quebec, for black people to form their own nation. 'We got scientists. We got doctors,' he said. 'We got everything. We could compete with every nation in the world.'" (Dallas Morning News, 10/22/97; Witness, Nov. 1997)

GUNS: "In the first comparative study of its kind from 50 countries around the world, a UN report showed that 41% of US households owned at least one gun, compared with 16% in Australia and 4% in Britain." (The Bullet, 132 W. Main St., Suite 203, Orange, VA 22960, 1-800-526-1397, Sept 1997)

NH SUES U.S.: 1997 Session House Joint Resolution 3 requiring the attorney general to bring suit against the U.S. Govt. for violating the U.S. Constitution and the New Hampshire constitution by enacting a military firearms ban.

RESOLUTIONS: ... (1) The assault weapons ban is unconstitutional because it deprives the people of their right of self-defense under the 9th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. It does so by limiting the tools which the people may use to protect themselves, their families, and their communities from an assault. The assault weapons ban prevents the people from responding to the threat of force in kind, relegating the people's use of defensive weapons to weapons of lesser force than those which might be used against them. The state cannot limit the means for self-defense without abrogating the right of self- defense.

(2) ... The assault weapons ban nullifies the 2nd Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The assault weapons ban prevents the people from acquiring and owning the military firearms necessary for the fielding of effective militias. The militia, as provided for in the Constitution, is the people's army and exists for the purpose of defending the Constitution ...

(3) By nullifying the utility of militias, the assault weapons ban renders null and void those provisions under Article 1, Section 8 of the U.S. Constitution which provide for the organizing, arming, and fielding of militias and makes moot the state's authority to appoint officers and to train and discipline militias.

(4) The assault weapons ban is unconstitutional under the 10th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution because the power to regulate firearms to the limited extent to which such powers may be available under the U.S. Constitution lies with the states, not with the federal government ...

Whereas, the assault weapons ban qualifies each individual absolute right of self-defense, guaranteed by the 9th Amendment, by limiting the rights of the people to defend themselves with tools appropriate to the task. The "right of self-defense ceases to exist if the state is able to assert the power to limit the nature of the response which as individual may make to a particular threat of force. Individuals have the absolute right to respond to force in kind. ...

Resolved ... That the attorney general be required to bring suit against the U.S. Government for violations of the U.S. Constitution and the N. Hampshire constitution in enacting the assault weapons ban, which prevents U.S. citizens from owning military firearms.

(The Bullet, 1-800- 526-1397, Sept 1997)

NAFTA ECONOMICS: "... The NAFTA program also is debilitating entire job-creating sectors. One Louisiana clothing maker recently revealed 1,700 jobs closed out for locals in Louisiana. The garments are now made in Mexico, shipped to Louisiana, then distributed as though nothing has happened. The rupture in job creating factors and factories has become so dominant, Louisiana recently passed a 200% tariff on crawfish entering the state This creates 6,000 jobs in Louisiana.

"The story is much the same in any direction. You can scratch out 6,000 crawfish jobs and transpose the story to deal with cotton, if you wish. Some 850,000 bales of Russian cotton entered the U.S. last year. This took 34¢ off each pound of cotton for an average Louisiana grower. Many farmers believe they can make a little money off corn this year if the price holds above $2.00. Others are turning to soybeans. The plug is likely to be pulled and the near $9.00 on futures is likely to vanish like Mephistopheles in a puff of smoke. The forces are subtle, indeed. ... In Government, bad policies always work their mischief." Acres USA, Sept 1997, PO Box 8800, Metairie, LA 70011, 1-800-355-5313.

PEDOPHILE PRIEST: Correspondence of top Catholic officials shows they knowingly allowed a pedophile priest to work for at least 20 years in 4 states. The Rev. David Hollis, who had a 30-year career as a priest , is now serving 275 in prison for molesting young boys in Alamordo, N.M.. Robert Curtis, one of the victims, said that the greater crime was committed by the bishops. "Those people deserve jail, too," he said. (Corpus Christi Caller Times Aug 31 1997, B7.)

Saxon News From Down Under

NEW ZEALAND is considering buying up 30,000 military-style weapons now owned by citizens and destroying them. The proposal was prompted by the Raurimu shooting of six people early this year and the earlier shooting of three mentally disturbed men by police during armed incidents. Australia implemented a similar ban and buy-back law after the Port Arthur incident in which 35 people were killed by a lone gunman. N. Zealand recommends semi-autos be limited to a magazine capacity of seven shells. Auto and pump should be modified to take two shells. (Citizen, Aug 8, 1997)

Saxon News From S. Africa

DUTCH REFORMED CHURCH CONFESSES that it had urged the National Party to adopt legislation to prevent "mixed marriages". It said that the church after 1948 had pressed the government to legislate apartheid. Citizen Aug 6, 1997

RKH: I can remember going to Church and listening to ministers railing at miscreants who in addition to "being good to strangers" took familiarity too far and shook hands with them. Shaking hands implied contracts and one was not supposed to make contracts with strangers. The talk of the town was when the Saturday Evening Post horrified readers with a story of an interracial marriage that took place in France - "but what could you expect from the French?" Washington DC hotels and restaurants were separated by race; whites had theirs and blacks theirs. Streetcar seating was separated by race. This was the way it was. One never saw a Black in a church or restaurant in New York City or Chicago. When I was a teen-ager I went to a black church to hear a

NAACP speaker. They showed me to a seat in the back reserved for white visitors. Some black churches wouldn't have let me in. It was their church! This was the national attitude from Florida to New York and from Washington to California. All except a few agitators accepted it.

Then, the media-owners chose a new king. The new king appointed new judges. The new judges legislated change. Organized religion exists to bless the king. Burn people alive at Waco, and they say; "The women's auxiliary meets at 4." Abort ten million of our babies, their comment; "Next weeks visiting minister will be Pastor X of the Black Panther's and who has now seen the light." The organized church that condemned interracial marriage for 2000 years now performs them. From separation to integration took less than a month for most. When the people force the king to change back to separation, the churches will flip-flop with him in a week. It's what kings pay tax-exemption for. In a Feudal Society, the Organized Church exists to bless the king. No one expected the Dutch Reformed Church of S. Africa to behave any differently than their sister churches in America. To such as these, the God of the Bible is an unknown GOD.

Back to Table of Contents

1997 - Index

A

African Colonization Society 72
agents provocateur 41
  Oklahoma City 50
  Ruby Ridge 48
  S. Africa 42
  Trade Towers 50
  Waco 49
Attila the Hun
  integrationist 236
Australia 1
  companies sold 8 defense situation 10
  firearms confiscation 183
  Maoris 183 wealth 3

B

beast has hands 166 nature 150, 170
Bible 87
  empire policy 89
Black crime 185
Black Panther demand 244
Buddhist missionary 171

C

Carnegie vs strikers 25 communist
  "Soviet Trust" 19
Confederates in Brazil 102

D

Declaration of Independence
  Indians 69
Duey, Randy (The Order) 100

E

eating with strangers 105
England
  Hindus enact own laws 144
Eve & the serpent 87

F

farmer rich 20
feudal system 229 episcopal religion 234 four castes 232
  Judeo-Christian 234
  kings & soldiers 237 merchant 238
  preachers 236
Franklin, Joseph Paul sentenced to death 85

G

genealogy
  fast track 161 questions 162
Germany
  Chechens rule Berlin 205 war deaths 243
Gingrich, Newt
  pro-sodomite speech 146
goats 147
  goat priests 154
  Judas goats 153
  kings 156
  missionary effort 157 on left 158
Goths
  no kings 214
Grizzly Valley oil ripoff 75 guns
  Britain confiscates 228
  New Hampshire gun law suit. 245

H

harvesting a country 23
Hinduism
  Dharma wars in Palestine 192
  Princess Di & Charles 202
Hoskins
  Bartholomew - 1615 64
  Capt John (1625-1680) 67
  Col Robert (1755-1815) 70
  Dr. John - loses hospital 75
  FBI subpoena 59, 79
  Hoskins' confiscated 1676 66
Hume
  Sir George 229
  Wedderburn 230

I

integration
  1958 vs 1997 185
interracial marriage
  Bushe's daughter 145
  Phil Gramm 145
  Pres Reagan 145
  Presley, Elvis' daughter 145
  Prince Joachim of Denmark ... 145
IRS 201

Israel
route from Babylon 212

J

Jannissaries 152
Juke family....167

K

kings
kings & priests....207
Kings and Priests 207

L

LAW
beasts' souls....124
curses....55
eating 105
fighting kinsmen....196
God sends strife 150
God's blessings....110
God's curses 110
interracial marriage 145
kidnapping....119
LAW to Israel only....157
liars & false witnesses 157 life for life....109 marrying whores....142
merchant 238
mixed breeds....208
mixed breeds excluded 151 placed in hearts....209 rulers study Law 145 stranger in our midst....208
trade w/strangers....176
witnesses enforce Law 217
LETTERS
Adam - plural....123
Beckwith, Byron de la....123
black prisons....126
episcopalianism 58
Our Nordic Race....33
parole conditions 35 prison racial conditions 34 racist 30
salvation is of the Jews....30 seven year loans....59
tolerance 98
Vigilantes Of Christendom....59

M

Maccabean Wars....193 man chosen by God....149
nature....165
McVeigh, Timothy 131
media
French Revolution....199 militia
Texas 107
Moore, Judge Roy 104
Moses warns against priests 209
Murdoch, Rupert
buys Pat Robertson's TV 187

O

Order, The
Tate, David - taking action....160
Yarbrough - Adam & Eve....163 outh Africa
See Catholicism

P

Partin, Gen. Benton
Oklahoma City bombing....135
plague 117
priests
betray God....208 prison meeting at Branson....141 prisoners use courts 220

R

radical abolition 74
Republic Of Texas....129
Robertson, Pat
sells to Murdoch....187
Russia
abortion 206

S

Scripture
goats on the left 147
Sellner, Gordon
conclusion of saga....53
serpent's seed....87
Sheep
killing time 189 wolves start sheep fights 191
South Africa....158
ANC anti-saxonite plans 25
Clive Derby-Lewis....43
Commandant Ratte....39
Cris Hani 43
D. Ref. Church confesses 248
deKlerk freed black criminals 158
Mandela - "kill whites" 97
Matthys de Villiers....40 migrants return disillusioned....40
mind control 177

preventing White insurrection..28
Ratte, Willem 98, 126
Rev. Johan Heynes 43
Sellout.....160
Slimp, Robert.....126
Terre'Blanche jailed.....159
traitors.....203
Volksverraad - verdict.....96
white liberals 218
South Africa by K.J. 139
British arrogance 140 courts-martial of Joubert 140
traitors.....139
stranger definition 148

T

Tate, David - "the Order"
on "violence" 142
taking action 160 terrorists
McVeigh.....131
Oklahoma City 132
Waco.....131
Weavers 131
World Trade Center I 131 trust
Soviet scheme.....19

U

UNFILTERED NEWS
AIDS kills more 35
anti-saxonite court rulings 103
British confiscate guns 228
CIA/Vatican alliance 36 cruel Chinese 221
Dalai Lama & Dharma 223
de la Beckwith.....60 death ray 143
French anti-racism.....37
Ireland.....222
Israelis bomb own embassy.....61
Kahl, Yorie 60
Muslims behead.....224
NCCJ dharma 144
nightclub discrimination.....104
Oklahoma City bombing 106
playing rough.....38
Polish lawlessness 37 presidential UN directive 101
Rhodesian traitors.....225
Southern refugee opinion 102

V

vigilante
Virginia.....127
Virginia
Indian menace..... 65 protests slavery 69

W

Waco
survivors machine gunned..... 164 wars
Haiti 199
Russian Revolution..... 199
St. Bartholomew's Day 198 starting civil wars..... 198 wolves of Galloway 167
WWII
German war deaths 243

Y

Yarbrough, Gary Lee "The Order" 163

DEATH

AND

DYING

and other stories from

HOSKINS REPORT

1998

Copyright © 2007
by Richard Kelly Hoskins

All rights reserved. No portion of this book may be reproduced without written permission from the publisher except by a reviewer who may quote brief passages in connection with a review.

Published by

Virginia Publishing Company
P. O. Box 997
Lynchburg, Virginia 24505
Phone 434-384-3261

First printing 2007

ISBN 1-881867-20-X

Printed in the United States of America

Also by Richard Kelly Hoskins

OUR NORDIC RACE, 1958
ISBN 1-881867-00-5
Add'l Printings 1958, 1961, 1961, 1962, 1965, 1975, 1986, 1998, 2005
History of the Saxon nation.
$5 copy plus $3 p&h ($5 overseas)

WAR CYCLES/PEACE CYCLES, 1985
ISBN 1-881867-01-3
Add'l printings 1985, 1986, 1991, HB 2000, 2005
History of usury and war. 250 p.
$25/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

VIGILANTES OF CHRISTENDOM, HB 1990
ISBN 1-881867-02-1
Add'l printings sb 1991, 1997, 2005
The Story of the Phineas Priesthood, 472 p. sb
$15/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

THE WOLF & THE SHEEP, 1993
ISBN 1-881867-03-X
Add'l printings 2002
Wolves eat sheep. That's what they do.
Sheep try to keep from being eaten. That's what they do. 78 p. sb
$5/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

IN THE BEGINNING, 1995
ISBN 1-881867-04-8
The Hindu takeover of Western business, politics,and religion. 249 p. sb.
$15/copy plus $3 postage & handling ($5 overseas)

Virginia residents add 5% sales tax

1998 - Table Of Contents

280 - FACE THE MUSIC 1

281 - FOOD GODS.....21

282 - MERCHANT.....37

283 - DEATH & DYING.....57

284 - EATING WITH STRANGERS 75

285 -A STATE RELIGION.....95

286 - THE NAPHIDEM STRANGER.....121

287 -THE NAPHIDEM STRANGER II 139

288 - NINE MILLION GERMANS 161

289 - GEORGE WALLACE.....181

290 - FAST START WORDS
For Newcomers 199

291 - UNIVERSALISM
Empire Religion.....215

INDEX 233

Chapter 280

FACE THE MUSIC

Mice

A newspaper article on "mice" in Lynchburg's News & Advance, July 27, 1997, C3, caught my attention.

It was a story about the results of an experiment by a 16-year- old Suffolk, Virginia high school student, David Merrill, that proved that hard rock music is bad for the brain.

Young David bought 72 male lab mice, a stop watch, a 5 x 3-foot maze, and obtained some CD's. His experiment won top honors in the state fair.

The 16-year-old tested the mice and found that on average it took 10 minutes for them to find their way through the maze. He then divided the mice into three groups of 24 mice each; a control group, a hard-rock group, and a classical group. The mice were conditioned by identical feedings and 12 hours of light each day. Then, the group chosen to listen to hard-rock and classical music were exposed to their selected music for 10 hours a day. After three weeks of hard rock music, the hard-rock mice took 30 minutes to go through the maze. David says that it shows that hard rock has a negative effect.

The control group that had not been subjected to music was sent through the maze without music three times a week for three weeks. With this practice, they were able to cut 5 minutes from their original measured time. Mice that listened to Mozart knocked 8 1/2 minutes off their time. The hard rock mice took 20 minutes longer. David said that the project had to be cut short because the hard rock mice killed each other.

Some time later I called young David to discuss his experiment. The youngster talked like a seasoned scientist when discussing his findings. He was enthusiastic that I had read the article and he expressed disappointment that no one else had called. It was his opinion that the behavior of his mice explained a great deal of what is happening to our society today. I had to agree with him. Media-promoted-rock is scrambling the brains of our youngsters. I did not say this to him, but it is my considered opinion that media-sponsored hard-rock music is no accident.

The Mozart Effect

A few months later the Executive Director of the Richmond Symphony, Michele T. Walter, sent a letter to the paper extolling the benefits of classical music.[1]

According to Ms. Walter, recent studies show that listening to classical music and/or getting music training makes children smarter. Students with musical training outperform others on the Scholastic Assessment Test and according to the College Entrance Examination Board, test results have shown that students who studied music at least four years scored 59 points higher than others on the verbal and 44 points higher on math.

1 News & Advance, F5, 12- 7-97

The research done by Frances Rauscher and Gordon Shaw on "The Mozart Effect", shows that exposure to classical music even for short periods has a beneficial effect on intelligence. A 1993 study demonstrated that students who listened to 10 minutes of Mozart's piano Sonata K 448 scored higher on IQ tests than students who heard silence or listened to relaxation tapes.

The American Demographics magazine states that about 2/3rds of the graduate students in America like classical music. Fifty-seven percent of those who've attained only a high school diploma say country music is their favorite.

The disputed issue with researchers is whether smart people produce classical music or classical music produces smart people. No one knows why, but it appears that classical music produces smart people.

The American Demographics magazine predicts that rock will become America's dominant music form. They state that the reason is that MTV and other forms of mass marketing are exposing more younger people to rock than ever before.

Migraines? Try Mozart

An article in USA Weekend, Sept. 5-7, 1997, p25, states that a half-hour of classics equals 10mg of Valium. The article relates that continuing studies on critical care patients at Baltimore's St. Agnes Hospital show that Bach, Debussy, Haydn or Mozart can substitute for sedatives.

Studies at the University of California show that Mozart's Sonata for Two Pianos in D Major buoyed student's abilities to distinguish shapes and objects - a higher-brain activity. Experiments last year revealed that students with musical experience exceeded national average SAT scores by 51 points on verbal and 39 on math. Studies by psychologist Georgi Lozanov show that the easy pace of Mozart of Vivaldi helps people to memorize poetry and spelling words. Mozart inspires predictability and safety which fuels productivity. Campbell says that Mozart is like pure mathematics. "It is art for art's sake."

Face The Music

Napoleon was a military genius. He marched his men at 120 steps a minute when the rest of the Europe's armies marched at 80. This gave him an enormous advantage in mobility. He also used the draft. The Germans or the Austrians might have 100,000 well-trained soldiers present on the battlefield - but, Napoleon often had double or triple that number. Something else, after losing half of his army because of cold, sickness, wounds and battlefield deaths, Napoleon would disappear for two or three weeks and reappear in a different place with more full-strength regiments than he had before. How did he do that?

His secret was that he constantly trained reserve cadré to lead new regiments of recruits. He would take battle-hardened officers and non-coms from his old regiments, give them wagon trains loaded with uniforms and weapons, and send them into a fresh recruiting area. Knocking on farm house doors, these recruiters would draft every able bodied man they could find into the ranks. New regiments seemed to spring from the ground.

The new recruits marched to the next battle field, receiving on- the-job-training as they went. Marching along the road in their new regiments they were taught to march in step and load their muskets while marching. Halting to rest they were first required to deploy into battle line on either side of the road - or stacking arms they rested in squares that could repel imaginary hostile cavalry. Their maneuver finished, they lay down in formation to rest. The quicker the maneuver was finished the sooner the rest. In a few days, complicated military evolutions became second nature to raw recruits. Rising at the sound of the bugle, they quickly learned to reform column-of-march and off they would go.

The crash of musketry was constantly heard along the route. The recruits practiced loading and firing at targets selected by veteran sergeants. These sergeants stood at the end of the battleline and used their practiced eye to order "#6 - lower", "#14 - higher." Satisfied, he ordered - "FIRE!"

By the time these farm boys reached the enemy they had received as much training as most of their enemies who had spent years learning their trade, and their officers and non-commissioned officers were better trained.

Napoleon had one further secret weapon - the glue that kept raw recruits in ranks and kept them from running away - MUSIC! Napoleon's troops marched to music. Military bands accompanied French regiments everywhere they went. Band members were considered as essential as the renowned French grenadiers themselves. Diaries of Napoleon's foes are replete with the terror produced by the ferocious assault of Napoleons troops and the incredible bravery of his young soldier boys, all marching in step and the band music, the kettle drums, the base drum, the trumpets and horns, louder, and louder - and then the order to HALT! PRESENT! FIRE! Veteran Englishmen, Scots, and Germans for the rest of their lives spoke about the gut-wrenching experience of "facing the music".

Light Horse Overture

We always sang around the piano. Mother would play and we would sing. She would play WWI songs that meant so much to her and Dad. Then she would play the songs from the Southern War For Independence. She played the songs our fathers brought over from Scotland, the English sea chanteys from Tidewater, and the German songs from the great Shenandoah. Each song told a story put to music. We learned a lot of history that way and didn't even know that it was history.

After military school, the first regiment I joined was Company H, 116th, 29th Division. It was Lynchburg's old 11th Virginia militia regiment with a new name. It had fought in the Indian wars, the wars with Britain, the "War Between The States," and WWI. I carried ammo for machine guns. Today, everyone recognizes the 116th regiment of the 29th Division. It is the regiment that took such heavy casualties at Normandy. When I joined it was manned by the same WWII veterans who had fought in the same companies and squads during the war. The old militia regiment voted to join the National Guard because the government furnished "free" weapons and uniforms. It used to be that everyone had to buy their own equipment - which was expensive.[2]

I was at Camp Indiantown Gap sitting with my comrades around a great fire. The Division band played Light Horse Overture. I had never heard such music before in my life. It sounded like horses. Horses at a trot, at a gallop, at a charge! I had never heard such. I didn't know that music could do that. Horses is how I made money while going to school. Breaking horses for people and riding academies. I would have joined a cavalry regiment if I could, but the United States didn't have cavalry regiments anymore. To this day, I think of that moment around the camp fire - and the music of horses hooves pulsing through my whole being. The carefully controlled trot, the controlled gallop, and the wild abandon of the charge. To me Light Cavalry Overture was "Brandy Station", the biggest cavalry battle of the War, it was the final charge at "Appomattox" when our own 2nd Virginia Cavalry out of Lynchburg charged right through the entire Yankee army and came home to Miller Park, called roll, and disbanded. They never did surrender.

Manassas

We were returning from Camp Indiantown Gap, Pennsylvania, in trucks. It was raining. We left at 500 hours and it rained the whole way. All day long the convoy crawled its way from Pennsylvania to Virginia. The spray from passing cars soaked us. We were wet, windchilled, and miserable

2 The government told us that the regiment was still a militia, but they lied. The National Guard was actually under control of the president who had the power to nationalize the unit and use it against their own people if he so desired. We didn't know this until they did it at Little Rock.

when we reached our bivouac area on the gloomy old Manassas Battlefield. It was night. I had heard stories of bony hands and feet showing above ground of bodies buried in shallow graves.

In the dark and in the steady rain we pitched our tents on the soggy ground and were issued cold C-rations. Sleep in the mud was impossible. Soaked to the skin we stood all night long in little groups and shivered.

Along about 0330 hours we heard a rattling way down the sloping hill near the creek. Then we heard, "Ten'hup!" "Forward'arch!" Then, to the tapping of a single drum an unknown body of men marched up the gravel road. The regiment crowded both sides of the road to see what was happening; Then, the regimental band broke into DIXIE! The whole regiment broke into cheers and rebel yells - from the descendants of men who had fought in the same old regiment on that same old battlefield. It was glorious! The blood returned to our chilled limbs and we were alive, once again!

Cross Country

A few years later war broke out in Korea. I volunteered into the Air Force. It was 1951. I was flying my first 3-leg night cross- country from Spence Field, Moulterie, Georgia, to Albany to Tifton and back. There must have been more than fifty of us - a long line of red exhausts in the darkness one after another trailing out into the distance.

Looking at the horizon in the dark, it was hard to tell the sky from the ground. I constantly had to keep my eye on the altimeter to keep proper altitude, my ball and stick to keep from skidding, and my artificial horizon to keep my wings level, all the while trying to spot town lights along the way for landmarks.

To keep from riding up on the plane in front I had to watch airspeed, and to see how far I had come at 130 mph I had to keep track of the time, and I had to watch for the lights of towns to see when I was supposed to turn onto the next leg of my flight.

Then, there was the "accident going somewhere to happen" behind me who had to climb above me to avoid a collision, and the one in front who twice turned on to what he had thought was the "Tifton- leg" of the flight, and, discovering his mistake, turned back again - and almost flew his plane into mine.

The exhaust on the right side of my cockpit looked like a blast furnace. For a second panic surged through me. I thought my plane might be on fire. Then there was the danger of being run into by jets flying out of Albany. We had been warned about them. Over my right shoulder in the direction of Albany, I could distinctly see a green light and a red light. The distance between them was gradually getting wider and wider - it was a jet coming my way, and he didn't see me. The green and red lights suddenly got wider - he was on top of me; frantically I pushed the nose of my plane down, my heart was in my mouth. My plane was in a dive, the ground was rushing up - I pulled back on the stick with all my might and the nose rose just in time to clear a Georgia forest.

The two lights, red and green were now wide apart - my phantom jet was in fact two separate planes. Hands shaking and mind in turmoil I quietly found a place in the long line of planes snaking single-file across the night skies of Georgia.

I cut on the radio and the strains of "Colonel Bogey" filled the earphones. During the Korean War radio stations often played military band music to honor their servicemen. The music did its work. Immediately, I settled down. My mind cleared and focused on the job at hand. I was master of the plane and this night cross- country became something that "anyone" could do.

Tannhauser

Bill Bryant and I grew up together. He introduced me to Wagner's "Ride Of The Valkyries". From this I soon discovered "Tannhouser." This was the music that told of knights, dragons and dreams. Many has been the time I have been on top of a lonely mountain in Virginia looking into the distance. The only thing that I found that could adequately express the greatness of God and his creation was "Tannhouser." A very disapproving church organist at my insistence played the more stirring parts from it at my wedding.

People always talk about the bride - about how beautiful she is and all. They don't think about the groom and what he is going through.

I can tell you about the groom. He's out in a side-room waiting for what to him is the kick-off at a football game. Playing football isn't a spectator sport, especially when you are a lineman. I was a lineman. Linemen aren't supposed to run the ball, but there I am up front and I know that the kicker is going to kick the ball to me, like he used to do, time after time. Again I am obligated to pick up the ball and try to run when that's not my job. Getting married, like a lineman receiving a kickoff, is serious!

Then the sounds of "Tannhouser" came. My soul quieted and then soared. I had made a decision and it is the right decision. The game of life is in play - for the rest of your life.

Conclusion

Man is made in the image of the WORD. His God-given music is food and drink to feed the desires and aspirations of his soul; it directs his thoughts and ambitions into fast flowing streams that feed both the great sea and the tall mountain of his existence.

Man's enemies know this and feed him discordant music, harsh sounds that confound the workings of his mind, and sex-songs to misdirect his path. Every day he is bombardedwith cananite[3] sex-music to drug his natural self-restraint and mis- direct his path.[4]

We must keep alive our music to direct and instruct our children. For, it is certain that in time our children will give us a leader to save us from our captivity.

Our Saxon ancestors had war-songs they sang before battle; Napoleon his Marseilles; the Scots - Scotland the Brave; the Reformation - A Mighty Fortress; the Southland - Dixie; Germany - Raise The Banner. The war song for us and our age has yet to be written. But, when it is - we shall all sing

3 "The meaning of Cain is 'hater'. I Adam & Eve 74:7

4 "After Cain ... and his children had multiplied ... there was one of them ... Genun ... Satan came to him in his childhood, and he made sundry instruments and horns, and string instruments, cymbals, and psalters, and lyres and harps, and flutes; and he played on them at all times and at every hour. And when he played on them Satan came into them, so that from among them were heard beautiful and sweet sounds, that ravished the heart ... and when they played, it pleased the children of Cain, ... while Satan inflamed their hearts, one with another, and increased lust among them. Satan also taught Genun to bring strong drink out of corn; and this Genun used to bring together companies upon companies in drink-houses; ... Then when they were drunk, hatred and murder increased ... Then sin increased greatly; until a man married his own sister, or daughter, or mother, ... or the daughter of his father's sister." I Adam & Eve 20:1-10 ... make them understand they ought not to hearken to Satan, lest he destroy them ... sever thy children and thy children's children from Cain's children; do not let them ever mix with those, nor come near them either in their words or in their deeds." II Adam & Eve 8:14-15 it with one voice - and the song of our enemies will depart from our land.

==========

Saxon News From Africa by K.J

We greet you from a deeply troubled country with all its woe. However, some of the things that have happened are not that bad. For instance the acknowledgment by Dres Bruwer and Piet Gous that it was Ferdi Hartzenberg (Conservative Party leader) who gave them the order to talk to the ANC. In exchange for a promise for no white revolt the ANC agreed to respect their land ownership. Ferdi Hartzenberg had widely proclaimed himself as the white leader to follow saying "leave the ANC to me, I know how to work with blacks." But, foolishly, he took the promise of black terrorists seriously. Then there is the confession of Janusz Walus[5] before the "Truth Commission" that he was ordered by the Conservative Party to kill Hani. According to the radio, his attorney told him to do so.

The appearance of Winnie Mandela is completely different. In spite of many witnesses linking her to 20 human rights abuses, including 8 murders, assaults and kidnapings, it will not surprise us if she comes out of the hearings smelling like a rose. With the support of our so-called justice minister Dullah Omar, things might turn in her favour.

I do not need to say much about the "priests." They oppress our people as you so rightly state in the November Hoskins Report. I only have to listen to Afrikaans church members talking. One preacher, talking about racial separation in the 5 Alleged assassin of Chris Hani, #2 man in the ANC.

Bible, agreed that separation is a Biblical teaching, but today we have to accommodate all religions.

Some from the Dutch Reformed Church would even include black demons and ancestor worship in churches to make the blacks feel at home - just like the Roman Catholic Church does with pagan worship.

Another preacher said that we must resign ourselves to the inevitable. How conveniently they forget that they all belong to the "Broederbond" and according to a document dated back in 1986 its leadership proclaimed that a black government was unavoidable. Since then the preachers have worked for a black "takeover" and they held talks with the ANC to bring it about.

Church members say that no matter how many of these ministers serve a congregation, they never seem to find the time to visit their flocks, except for the deacon who comes once a month for the tithe money. One of these ministers said that Christ was not white, but rather olive or brown, like all Hebrews, and that whites have some nerve to insist that it is they who should rule.

From that same church the Rev Hector Jooste refused to apologize for his slanderous statements about the HNP (right-wing political party) and its leader. This sad state of affairs prevails in all the churches in SA, save for a few exceptions. No wonder that we experience no blessings when the morals of the country lie in tatters and whites live in fear of being killed around the next corner. I do not know what it will take to change matters. It is as if many Afrikaners are stupefied.

In this dilemma the HNP is slowly making headway by being honest and steadfast, and in spite of a media blackout they hold meetings everywhere. It has been a long fight for nearly 30 years, and with the latest disclosures, no other party remains to help the volk regain its self-respect.

Our white work force is very demoralized, be it in the civil service or with private companies. In the civil service you find the inverted pyramid with blacks or Indians on the top. In one case 65 replaced the 9 who did the work previously. Since blacks lack knowledge and ability they need advisers, handsomely paid like themselves. Next, some token whites, who earn more than average and do little, but are amicable towards their masters. And, lastly the few white workers who carry the whole workload. Their pay is the least possible.

Truly it is the destroyers who are in ruling positions. Those who thought it possible for blacks to govern are proven wrong. With best wishes, K. J.

LETTERS

MO'HO': "Dear Admired and Greatly Appreciated Maximum Achiever In His Service: I noted what you said about the uncomely wench who passed - and my Thelma, as well as your dear wife, did flinch at your language - Perhaps you should have called the whore a strumpet'!!!" Byron de la Beckwith, VI, Hinds County Det. Center, 407 E. Pascogoula St., Jackson, MS 39201

RKH: Beckwith was tried 3 times for shooting the racial agitator Medgar Evers. Convicted in the third trial by a jury loaded with strangers, he appealed stating that the Constitution guaranteed him the right of a quick trial and that 30 years between trials violated this guarantee. The Supreme Court of Alabama turned down his appeal.

FEUDAL IRELAND: "Richard: As a transplanted Irishman I look back at my Emerald Isle and see the Catholic feudal system fighting the Anglican feudal system for supremacy. Blood is being spilled by the bucket, but the Irish people themselves will be the prize of the victor - whichever side wins.

"The same thing applies to Scotland. The Scots are moving towards independence. As soon as they get their 'independence' their old Catholic-Anglican-Presbyterian priesthoods and their merchant- landowners will combine with their newly media-elected government to properly keep the people in their place. Their feudal system will remain after independence. Let's hope they have the wisdom to take the next step to take back their freedom. Otherwise the slave has just changed the name of his chain." G.M. - Maryland

UNFILTERED NEWS

GAY: "The Omega Journal of Death and Dying reveals that the median age at death of homosexuals who die of AIDS is 39. The figure that is not publicized is that homosexual men who die of causes other than AIDS die at a median age of 42. This is compared to a median death age of 75 among heterosexual married men. Not only is homosexuality an ungodly lifestyle, it is an unhealthy one as well. Blythe Banner

HATE CRIMES: Headlines scream: "Clinton Targets Hate!" Clinton forgets that God hates and has told us to hate. Those who "hate" God violate his commandments. Those who hate God are worthy of hate in return:

> "I will render vengeance to my enemies, and will reward them that hate me." Deut 32:41.

"Do not I hate them, O Lord, that hate thee? And am not I grieved with those that rise up against thee? I hate them with perfect hatred: I count them mine enemies." Ps 139:21- 22

"The meaning of Cain is 'hater,' because he hated his sister in their mothers womb ... Therefore did Adam name him Cain." I Adam & Eve 74:7

"He that hateth me hateth my Father also." John 15:23

"Shouldest thou help the ungodly, and love them that hate the Lord? therefore is wrath upon thee from before the Lord." II Chron 19:2

"All haters will have no hope in the land of the living." Jubilees 22:22

We also have those who instruct their readers to hate the apple of God's eye:[6]

> "Every Jew, somewhere in his being, should set apart a zone of hate - healthy virile hate - for what the German personifies and for what persists in the German. To do otherwise would be a betrayal of the dead ..." Elie Wiesel, Legends of Our Time

Hatred of Christians is a human tradition since the great separation at the time of Christ, and, in ages before that when Herod the Edomite killed the Israelite children.

---

6 "He that toucheth Israel toucheth the apple of His eye." Zech 2:8

Clinton reverses the definition of "hate" and accuses the Saxon of hate when the Saxon is many times more likely to be a victim of interracial crime than other races are. But then again, one should expect this. Clinton's mother says that Clinton is a mixed-breed.[7] Clinton is God's curse on America. He is what America deserves.

WACO POSTSCRIPT: "... On April 19th, about 6AM, two specially equipped M-60 tanks began to punch holes into the Mt. Carmel structure and insert CS gas. ... What neither the media nor the nation could see, while the front of the structure was under attack for 6 hours, more tanks were busy behind the building; busy in the same deadly way. There the tanks were accompanied by two men firing machine guns at every possible exit. These hidden activities were recorded from helicopters using infrared film - now reproduced in black and white in this remarkable documentary. ... Only nine Davidians managed to escape. The TV observers began to say, 'They're committing suicide!' ... The suicide theory, heavily spread by the media, became the rationale of the BATF and the FBI, and the government in general. It proved very useful, moving officialdom as far as seemed possible from the charge of mass murder." (OTTO SCOTT'S COMPASS, 828 S. 299th Place, Federal Way, WA 98003, $50/yr.)

---

7 The New York Times, on August 13, 1992, p. C1, carried an article by Todd S. Purdum, stating that our president Bill Clinton is a descendant of Irish farmers and Cherokee Indians on his mother's side. Speaking of Clinton's mother the article said: "At the age of 69, this descendant of Irish farmers and Cherokee Indians has survived a mastectomy and controversies over the death of two patients in her care, and has seen her younger son, Roger, go to prison for a year and half on drug charges ... ." The scripture says: "Thou shalt in any wise set him king over thee, whom the Lord thy God shall choose: one from among thy brethren shalt thou set king over thee: thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: nokriy - foreign, adulterous.) over thee, which is not thy brother." De 17:15

RKH: A jury in San Antonio found 11 Branch Davidians innocent of all but minor charges, and recommended leniency. A hanging Federal Judge Walter Smith sentenced five of the Davidians to 40 years in prison and fined them from $2 to $10 thousand and ordered them to pay restitution of $1.1 million dollars. The rest were sentenced to 5-15 year terms and had fines levied against them also. The documentary film can be ordered from American Freedom Network, 1-800-205-6245.

TURKS IN VIRGINIA: WISE, VIRGINIA: "Turkish television crews have been visiting families in the mountains along the Kentucky- Virginia border in search of Melungeons. ..." News & Advance Nov. 13, 1995 A-5

RKH: In isolated mountain settlements in SW Virginia we have a dark skinned, dark eyed group of people called "Melungeons." Tests have proven these people to be descended from Turkic peoples from North Africa who settled here long before the White man came. Often mistaken for Indians, they are a different breed.

The interesting thing is that TV crews from Turkey have discovered these people. One thing we must never forget - the great ideal of Attila the Hun and later Genghis Khan was to unite the Turkic peoples of the world into one great federation. Turk people can tell the difference between a Saxon and one of their own. Liberals must learn basic common sense in the days ahead. If they continue to insist that all people are basically the same, they are in for a rude awakening. The Catalonian Fields is a prime example. See HR, #215, Aug 3, 1993.

CENSORSHIP: Interior ministers of the 15 countries that make up the European Union agreed to clamp down on the printing and distribution of "racist" books and pamphlets. Michael Howard, Britain's Home Secretary, said, I think it's important that we cooperate to stop racism." (ANA - Internet)

Mexican Dual Citizenship

MEXICO CITY: The Mexican government is campaigning hard for an amendment to the Mexican Constitution that will allow Mexicans living in the U.S. to retain Mexican nationality rights even when they adopt American citizenship. In effect, this will allow Mexico to place its own voting agents in the US with ties to their own homeland - an invasion force if you will.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 281

FOOD

Food From Northern Virginia

Mother's father, Dick Kelly, lived in Culpeper Court House in northern Virginia on the plains of Culpeper. He and Grandmother lived in a great big barn of a house just on the other side of Mountain Run on the Sperryville Turnpike.

For Sunday dinner the leaves would be put in the dining room table. Granddaddy sat at one end and grandmother at the other. Children, spouses and grandchildren took their places at the table. Granddaddy blessed the food, and everyone began to eat.

To Grandmother's right were Aunt Harriet and Uncle Howard, Aunt Maude and Uncle Gordon and Cousin Harriet Payne, Uncle Alex and Frances. To Granddaddy's right sat Uncle Roy Hume, Uncle Thompson, Mother, Dad, me, my sisters Emily and Elizabeth Garnett and Aunt Lucy. Then, there would be Aunt Lucy's boyfriend and Glassel Stringfellow, the town character and everyone's friend, and one or two others.

It was during the '30s depression. Everyone seemed to be out of work or going back to school to learn to do something different to make a living. Dad had gone back to medical school to specialize in Eye, Ear, Nose & Throat - nobody seemed to need a doctor who was just a plain old general practitioner. Granddaddy took care of all his seven children who had come back home bringing their spouses and their children. It was that or starve. That's the way it was with families all over the country.

The table was loaded with food. There was ham, wild turkey, squirrel and rabbit, venison and bear meat. There were all kinds of vegetables from the garden out back, and cornbread, rolls, and sliced bread, sweet milk, butter milk, and coffee and all kinds of desserts.

There were three or four interesting conversations going on all at the same time. Uncle Alex and Daddy were talking about Mr. Yeowell's bay being entered in the county July 4th fairground races. Everyone who had seen him run figured him to be a ringer who would make his backers a lot of money before the visiting crowds from Washington and Baltimore found him out. Uncle Thompson and Russell King were talking about the big bass that Angus Green had caught at Snake Castle; Glassell Stringfellow was telling the ladies about "running the drummer" (I must tell that story some day), and Uncle Roy Bridger was telling about pulling a tooth whose root had a hook on it. He had to break the jaw to get to it. It was so fascinatingly gruesome that I only half heard the other stories; I missed so much of each story trying to listen to all of them at the same time that I had to spend the rest of the afternoon hunting everyone down and asking them questions to find out how their stories ended, and it was no easy job tracking everyone down.

Grandmother was out showing off her 500 new chicks that had just arrived or her flower gardens; Granddaddy was in the barn seeing to the new calf, the smoke house inspecting the larder; or inspecting the newly arrived shoats; or the feed that had just been delivered. Uncle Thompson had a .22 rifle and was competing with Uncle Howard shooting mulberries off the mulberry tree, and my aunts were doing the dishes, looking at Grandma's flowers, or sitting on the front porch sewing and talking, and the kids were everywhere.

For a little kid, Sunday dinner was so exciting that I can't even tell you how exciting it was.

Food From Daddy's Country

Food was different in Tidewater where Daddy came from. Daddy was born at Hoskins Hill at Dunnsville. That was five miles from Hoskins Creek at Tappahannock where the first Hoskins lived. Creeks in Tidewater are different from creeks further inland. In Lynchburg, you can step over most creeks. Great three masted sailing vessels used to come up Hoskins Creek. Try stepping over that creek!

In Tidewater the water is salty and the tides rise and fall - even a hundred miles or more from the Chesapeake Bay. The Rappahannock is a mile wide at Tappahannock, which is far inland, and seven miles miles wide near its mouth.

From as early as I can remember Daddy taught me to take a live blue-claw crab, hold it so it wouldn't bite me with its pincers, then, pull its shell off, and pull off a leg to bait hooks.

Blue fish and croakers loved to eat blue-claw crabs. When they had lost their hard shell and became soft shell - they were a delicacy to eat. Of course, hard-shell crabs were still good steamed.

Then, there were oysters. I never could do it, but Daddy could tell you whether an oyster came from the Rappahannock, York, or James by its taste. The people who could do this were either good tricksters or they really could. They said the difference was caused by the water. I never could tell.

Daddy had his own oyster knife. It was a rounded dullish two edged blade stuck in a wooden bulb handle. Daddy could shuck an oyster so fast that you scarcely could see him do it. He got paid for doing it as a boy. I worked on one for 5 minutes without shucking it. It took Daddy less then 3 seconds.

At the Urbanna Oyster Festival the colored boys stood behind shucking tables serving oysters on the half-shell. As the day wore on the piles of oyster shells grew taller and taller and at the last the oyster tables were standing on oyster piles three feet high and the boys were were still shucking oysters as fast as they could. They had to lean way over to hand the opened oysters down to the customer.

The crowds in the thousands surged back and fourth in that sleepy little fishing town sampling oysters, soft-shell crab, shrimp, clams, all sorts of fish, and even eels for the those who preferred the exotic. There was even a band which played Dixieland while wearing fireman's helmets and seated on a big old firetruck. I'd never seen such goings on before.

Courting Kathleen

Back in Lynchburg Daddy would sometimes take his family to the Virginian Hotel for Sunday dinner after church.

He would always order a half-dozen raw oysters as an appetizer. His three children did the same. Mother ordered something else. It was the custom. That custom cost me a girl friend.

I was courting Kathleen Button, Senator Button's daughter. She was a pretty thing. She was undecided between me and a West Point cadet she had met while I was in service. I took the bull by the horns, put the big pot in the little one, and took $20 from my fast dwindling discharge pay to take her to dinner at the Virginian Hotel. She asked me to order for her as girls will often do. For an appetizer I ordered raw oysters on the half shell like we Hoskins always do. I dug right in, but I noticed that she didn't participate. In fact, she was involuntarily mimicking me. When I opened my mouth wide for an oyster, she half-way opened hers. When I chewed with relish I could see her jaw muscles working even though she didn't have anything in her mouth.

Nothing went right between us after that. Kathleen married her West Point cadet. Later on she confided to a friend that anyone who would eat a raw oyster would eat anything and she didn't want anything to do with someone like that. It was the oysters that did it. Anyway, four years later I met someone twice as nice, someone who didn't mind my eating oysters.

Ducks

Ducks were another staple. Ben Lomond was built a mile back from the river on the bluffs overlooking the Rappahannock flood plains. The ducks would fly from the river heading south and they would clear the bluff by only six or seven feet. Servants would hide behind the rose bushes and when the ducks would fly over the servants would stand up and swing long poles to break the duck's wings. In this way they would gather a half dozen ducks for supper.

Another way to get ducks was to use "boarding-guns". These boarding-guns had been handed down from generation to generation in Tidewater families. In the old days there were pirates on the river and bay. Every sailing vessel had a boarding gun or two mounted on the poop deck. It was only about two and a half feet long and was mounted on a swivel. If pirates tried to board, a defender would carry the boarding-gun to the rail that presented a clear field of fire. The gun would be aimed, powder placed in and on top of the fusehole, and a match touched it off. The gun would roar - scattering two hands full of musket balls, nails, scrap iron or gravel into the boarders.[1]

The pirates had long gone but the guns remained. Mounted on the bows of skiffs and fired into the endless flocks of ducks - 20 or 30 could be downed in a single blast.[2] Ducks were a food staple in Tidewater in the old days, as were crabs and oysters. The crabs and oysters are almost all gone now and the flocks of ducks are much diminished.

Infections

One of my earliest memories is of Daddy with a surgical knife standing ready to lance my ear. My inner ear would fill with fluid and the pain would be so bad that I can't describe 1 During the War, Essex county boys used them on the bows of large skiffs at night when trying to ambush Yankee ship-boats as they rowed sentry duty around anchored Yankee transports carrying supplies upriver to Fredericksburg.

2 Old timers told me stories about flocks of Passenger Pigeons so numerous that they would take weeks to pass. The sun would be blotted out by their sheer number - the trees groaned under their weight as they rested. One could almost fire blindfolded overhead and secure a supper. It was almost the same with ducks.

it. Daddy was a doctor. He didn't know of any way to relieve the pain caused by the pressure except to lance my eardrum. The knife scared me to death. I would fight like a wild animal and it would take a couple of grown-ups to hold me still while Dad performed the procedure. I was frightened to death and hated that knife.

One day I was swimming in the Mountain Run next to the upper swinging footbridge and cut my toe on a piece of glass. It got infected. Daddy was at school, so Cousin Wright (Dr. Wright Kelly) came over time after time to lance it. I spent most of the summer on the bed.

When I was seven it was my appendix. The incision wouldn't heal. My side swelled up and one day it burst and drenched my pajamas. It was good that it burst when it did, because that was the day I was scheduled to go to the University Hospital in Charlottesville to have my side opened.

When I was 15 I was a cadet at military school. I fired on the rifle team. A ricochet caught me in the left elbow. The bullet was removed and a bandage applied. It was a clean wound. Still, I got bloodstream infection. In just two days my arm swelled larger than my leg and I couldn't bear anyone to touch it. They sent me to the infirmary and called Dad. Dad secured some bootleg penicillin and saw to it that I got shots every four hours day and night, awake or sleeping I received a shot. It saved my arm. Dad said it saved my life. This was during WWII, and I was the first non-military person to receive penicillin in the state of Virginia.

Later, it was boils, infected sinuses, flu, constant colds, and ulcers. With these ailments I still did the things a growing boy and young man was expected to do - everything from chores to playing football and boxing. Use your imagination and you may catch a glimmer of what it felt like to have your boils hit by an opponent in a scrimmage.

The Cure

I was married, had two children, my life was a mess, and my health a disaster. On April 28, 1965, 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon sitting in my green rocking chair on the front porch of my house I agreed to obey God and do whatever He told me to do. In return I expected Him to look after me.

I had put the decision off because I had already served two hitches in the military and was cautious about "enlisting". I knew all about "enlistment talk" and I also knew what happened once you put your name on the dotted line - the talk was often different from the walk. Also, I remembered other Lynchburg boys who rushed to join the Marines after being promised fun and games and a few weeks later found themselves in Korea getting themselves killed. Some of them hardly knew how to load a rifle. Frankly, I was afraid that my new Boss might do the same to me.

But really, in my condition I didn't have anything to lose. The Lord sure wasn't getting much when he got me. If all He wanted was to jerk me around - go for it! Things couldn't get worse in my life and the promises said that they would get better. I took a chance and joined.

OK, I was in. Now, what do I do? I started reading the instruction manual. One of the first things my eyes fell on was this command:

> "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding." Prov 3:5

This goes against logic, but you've got to trust your commanding officer. So, if the Bible said do it - I did it.

The Result

One of the things the Bible ordered God's followers was to eat certain foods and not eat other foods. I did what I was told. The result is that since that April 28, 1965 I have hardly had a sick day - and except for accidents - neither have any of my children. My family is healthy. No infections; no on-going never-ending sicknesses. No boils.

Everyday I see people who are sick, just as I was once sick. I doubt if most of them will change their ways - they have all the answers - just as I once had all the answers.[3] But, there is perhaps a chance that some will change - I did. To them I offer this observation gained from my studies;

There will be plagues. They are promised.[4] The old, the sick, the weak and the Lawless will be taken first. Those who are strong in body and obedience will stand the best chance to survive.

Pandemics

A pandemic is a sickness that takes an above average number of victims on several continents at the same time. There have been many through the centuries. The Black Death of the 14th century, Smallpox of the 16th; Bubonic and non-venereal Syphilis of the 15th. These claimed up to two thirds of a nation's population.

---

3 "Enter ye in at the narrow gate, for wide is the gate, and broad is the way that leadeth to destruction, and many there be that go in thereat." Matt 7:13

4 PLAGUE LAW: "It shall come to pass, if thou will not hearken unto the voice of the Lord ... to do all his commandments ... the Lord shall make the pestilence cleve unto thee, until he have consumed thee from off the land." Deu 28:15, 21

I have often related the story my father told to me of his experience with the flu-epidemic of 1918.[5]

He was in the army and stationed at an eastern seaport. He was sent to town to inspect the health facilities. He found the hospitals full of sick, warehouses full, office buildings full, and people dying so fast that they were laid out on the sidewalk for the daily "dead-wagons" to pick up. The bodies were then taken and buried in mass graves.

The "Spanish flu" in October of 1918 killed 196,000 people in the United States. That was just one month. That is almost twice as many as have died from AIDS during its entire existence. Before the winter was over two billion had come down with the sickness and perhaps 40 million were dead - more than died from WWI itself. The outbreak was blamed on American soldiers who had contracted the disease from pigs they had eaten in America. There was no defense against this new form of killer flu.

Scavengers - Disease Reservoirs

God made scavengers to clean up the environment so that man would not get sick. Scavengers are walking disease banks - disease factories. A pig is a scavenger. He is made differently from clean animals. He can eat things many things that would be deadly to others without being affected - even deadly poisons like strychnine. The same is true for crabs, mussels, oysters, clams, and lobster. They eat carrion - the 5 LAW - FRATICIDAL WAR: "Ye shall not ... fight against your brethren the children of Israel." I Kings 12:24 "Thou shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people." Lev 19:18. "Blessed is the man who does not direct his heart with malice against any man." Enoch 44:3. WWI was a fraticidal war - a clear violation of God's Law. God punishes such Law violations.

---

more rotten the better. When people eat a scavenger they eat what the scavenger has eaten.[6]

Ducks, catfish, ells, swine, turkey buzzards - they are all scavengers, and they are all disease factories.

Scarce Scavangers

The medical establishment of America and Europe have an on-going fight to save the lives of the lawless and the stupid who insist on eating forbidden foods that poison them. The lust for scavengers has reached the stage where the bays and oceans have lost most of the scavengers that formerly kept them clean. We have nearly eaten them out of existence! The world's waterways are verging becoming vast disease manufacturing cess-pools because the scavengers are no longer there to clean the filth from the water.

On my last trip to Tidewater I walked the shores and inlets where I crabbed and fished as a boy. Where hundreds of crabs and their young formerly swam - there was no movement - nothing. Not even a minnow. I did not see a single crab - small or big. They tell me that it is just as bad on the formerly thriving oyster banks. There are now so few oysters that it is hardly worth the while for oystermen to tong the survivors.

Hong Kong Flu

China is the source of many strains of flu virus. These viruses proliferate because China raises so many ducks.

---

6 My daughter is an emergency room nurse in Norfolk. She says that most emergencies are the result of those who have eaten scavengers. The poisons in the scavangers cause them to stop breathing. If they do not quickly receive a shot to counter-act the effects of the poison - they die.

Ducks are the main reservoir for human influenza virus - they can carry viruses without becoming sick.

When Ducks are near other scavengers which are also flu reservoirs the different viruses have a chance to combine. New hybrid viruses then emerge - viruses which the world has never heard of before.

To feed the ducks, Chinese farmers raise catfish in duck ponds. The ducks eat the baby catfish. The catfish are fed pig feces and also eat duck feces. Viruses are thus freely passed from pig to catfish to duck. Dead ducks and dead catfish are fed to the pigs. The result is the combining of viruses into new ones that cause periodic epidemics that carry off a few million Chinese before dying down - and then they spring up again somewhere else.

China is a land seething with diseases. Wild ducks who visit their more domestic brothers pick up newly hatched viruses which are then carried to distant lands to find new homes in the intestines of hunters who kill them for food. The ducks from the Rappahannock River; the crabs and oysters, the pig, catfish, squirrel, rabbit that I ate in Culpeper - they were the things that gave me the infections, the sicknesses that tormented me as a youngster.

A BRIEF SUMMARY OF PROHIBITED FOODS

FOOD	WHY PROHIBITED	REFERENCE
Blood	traditional disease carrier	Lev. 3:17
Fat	clogs arteries & veins	Lev. 3:17
Kidney & Liver	filter & bile producer	Lev 3:4
Pig	scavenger, parasitic	Lev 11:7
Rabbit	disease carrier	Lev. 11:5-6
Duck, Goose, Swan, Sea-birds & Web-footed birds	scavengers. Prohibition includes their eggs.	Lev 11:13-20; Deut. 14:12-18
Eels & Shell Fish	scavengers	Lev 11:10-20
Fruit of 1st 3 years	Lacking nourishment of mature fruit.	Lev 19:23-25

The forbidden animals listed in the chart are the disease factories that produced the 1918 "flu epidemic", the "Asian flu" of 1967; the "Hong Kong" flu of 1969 - and now 1000 other flu strains, one of which has now spread to chickens.

Today's chicken-flu is killing people in Hong Kong. Chickens raised with ducks are quickly infected and carry their infection to the lands to which they are exported. This chicken flu is the same one that broke out in Pennsylvania in 1983 and spread so rapidly that all the chickens in the state had to be killed. It erupted in Mexico in 1994 and 1995, and now this chicken flu virus has mutated to the point where it can infect and kill humans.

The Next Pandemic

The stage is now set for the next pandemic. Lawless man has allowed the seas to be converted into disease producing cesspools in which the scavengers that remain are overloaded disease factories. Disease bearing scavengers are actually raised as a food source. Lawless man not only tolerates strangers eating disease-bearing scavengers, but with heretical relish they do so themselves - and thereby gain the cure that accompanies the act.

One day on main street USA someone will cough and five people will be infected with a mutated virus that no one will have ever heard of. Then those five people will cough. Before three weeks will have passed most of the country will be infected and before an antidote can be manufactured - 3/4 of the population will be dead. If it does not happen this next time, it will happen one of these days.

Conclusion

God promised that he would destroy his people if they rejected him. It is not enough to go to church every Sunday and agree that you "believe in God." The Scriptures say:

> "Thou believest there is one God; thou doest well; the devils also believe, and tremble." Jas 2:19

The Scriptures go on to say:

> "If ye love me obey my commandments." John 14:15

God's Commandments were given to his people made in his image to save them from the consequences that come from disobedience.

God's food Laws are one of the Commandments. Obey them and live.[7]

==========

LETTERS

FOOD: "Dear Dick: Many poisons that the scavengers eat are not cleaned by our cooking. The elements that we pour into our rivers, like aluminum, lead and mercury are brain poisons. Poisons like these are absorbed into the fat of scavengers. It is dumb to eat scavengers even if you don't accept bible teaching." A.J. - Georgia

---

MUSIC: "Mr. Hoskins: "Liked the issue about Mozart and the other 'musics'. I can speak first hand. I used to get so aggravated listening to a band playing Christian rock that I would shoot at folks for fun. Sick music makes sick minds!" B.J. (prisoner) - Texas

---

MUSIC: "Dear Richard: When the South lost The War the Northern people also lost. Until then there were no federal prisons.

"Your 'Face The Music' hit a nerve. Music anchors an experience into never to be forgotten poetry. At my wedding I had the organist play Finlandia by Sebalius and the 4th Movement from Beethoven's 9th." A.J. - Georgia

==========

7 CURSE: "If ye will not ... do all my commandments ... I will send the pestilence among you. " Lev 25:14, 25; "Not everyone shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Matt 7:21

UNFILTERED NEWS

LINCOLN'S SUPPORT: "Worth noting again, as we have in the past, is the fact that socialist revolutionaries from the 1848 debacle in Europe flocked to join the Union army as the War For Southern Independence got under way. Lincoln had the verbal support of Marx and Engels as well as that of the Russian revolutionary Bakunin." A Voice In The Wilderness, Box 1883, Arlington Heights, Ill 60006. Copied from Christian News

==========

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 282

THE MERCHANT

To understand the role of the merchant in the International Trade Cartel, one must understand the role of the merchant in the Self-sufficient Farm System.

Self-sufficient Farm System

Man is made in the image of the WORD. The WORD ordered the land divided and never sold. The WORD appointed man a king and a priest to rule this kingdom; the WORD condemned man to work by the sweat of his brow. God made man a priest, king and worker. He also gave him time to develop a cottage industry, which allows him to exchange for things he did not make himself, making him a merchant also. Priest-king-merchant-worker; this is the ruler of the self-sufficient farm-kingdom created by God.

This kingdom is kept in proper order by God's Law which has been handed down from father to son from the distant past. God's Law will not tolerate any other God, or his law, ruling His people. God's WORD, is hostile to other gods. It frowns on episcopal kings and priests. It forbids taxes, monopoly, usury, and demands that strangers be banished.

To man, God's Commandments are the ultimate authority. To the lawless they are the ultimate tyranny.

Man, made in the image of the WORD is a priest, a king & soldier, a merchant, and a worker. In his natural element he exercises all four functions in harmony one with another. The thing that makes the system work is God's LAW. The violation of God's LAW brings evil to the land.

The Merchant

God's Law says:

> "The love of money is the root of all evil." I Ti 6:10

The Law also says:

> "A merchant shall hardly keep himself from doing wrong; and a huckster (salesman) shall not be freed from sin." Ecclesiasticus 26:29

The reason for this is that there are many opportunities for both merchants and salesmen to tip the scales in their favor. It is obvious to everyone that the flashy car , the big house and the executive jet belong to the merchant and the salesman. This lifestyle is coveted by many, which is the reason for further warning:

> "A rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven. ... It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God." Matt 23-24;

"How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God." Mk 10:23;

"What shall it profit a man, if he gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" Mk 8:36

Any job description encompassed with so many warnings is worth approaching cautiously.

In our society we have not only the merchant and salesman of the scriptural self-sufficient farm system (SSFS), but we have the merchant of the international trade cartel (ITC) which is replacing the SSFS. The purpose of the SSFS's country store was to simply provide a place where the surplus goods of one self- sufficient farm can be exchanged for the produce of the cottage industry of another SSF.

The purpose of the ITC is different. It is to make as much money as possible in the shortest time possible.

The international merchant was initially stymied in his attempt to trade in the American South and South Africa. He had little to offer that the people wanted - the people produced most of their needs themselves. To create demand, his surrogates destroyed the SSFS and then, the people who formerly wanted nothing wanted everything.

Money

In the SSFS, goods were paid for in barter. This made it difficult for the ITC merchant to do business. If he was able to trade at all he was forced to store bags of wheat and corn and transport them. It was really inconvenient.

This changed with the destruction of the SSFS. Man moved to town to keep from starving. There the ITC paid him wages to work in factories that replaced the former cottage industry. Other refugees opened small stores dispensing food, hardware, clothing and a host of other things - country stores in the city. The ITC merchants then opened their K-Marts and Wal-Marts and drove man's country stores out of business - hundreds at a time.

Today, man is a wage slave to the ITC. Prices rise - a man's wife is forced to work. Where once there was pride of work, he must now compete with strangers who are imported to force his wage scale lower and lower. He must now accept any job available to make ends meet. At age 55 or 60 he can expect to be laid off to save his employer retirement costs.

Once the ITC merchant has installed his usury banking system, all things are possible for him. We are taught that to obtain money one must present to the bankerthe deed to his property. In return, he is given either credit or cash - all backed by the value of his deed.

But, for the ITC there is a twist to this - see the example below.

The Merchant's Bank

To illustrate how the ITC merchant uses his own usury money system to get whatever he wants, let us suppose that the merchant is the only villain in the entire world. Everyone else is a born- again saint. Regardless, if this one fellow is allowed in the land - he can corrupt the whole barrel of apples in short order - because he designed a banking system that can issue him credit for a trillion dollars, and he doesn't need a dime to get it.

With a trillion dollars he can hire people who will not only "learn his ways", they will stand in line and beg to have his ways shoved down their throats. This is how he does it:

Descending on his chosen market area with a trillion, ten trillion or however many dollars he might need, he hires Saxon agents to buy the newspapers, radio and TV stations, book companies - all of them - even the little county papers that lose money and no one wants. Price is no object. These purchases are then used as collateral to his banks for his trillion dollar loan.

He then fires all old fogey conservative types and hires hungry new types whose love of money is greater than their love of the WORD. Then, to the sound of his own favorable press, he hires a king to protect his goods, gives the king a private army (FBI) to harass any enemies the king might have, and replaces the militia with a standing army to protect against enemies foreign and domestic. He then hires televangelists to bless both him and his operation and allows them to use his media as long as they remember who butters their bread. The pay is good and the number of Levites who will sell their souls for a country club membership and a couple of million dollars is apparently endless.

In a relatively short time the merchant has monopoly ownership of the market area - bought and paid for - the good will of the people in it, free elections in which the people are allowed to choose one of the candidates he has selected for his media to publicize, and an endless river of revenue for both him and his supporters to live any life style they choose.

The cost for all this? Zilch! Nothing! The merchant's banks lent money to the merchant and the merchant used his purchases of businesses to back the mortgages. It's all legal. It's the way the system works worldwide.

The merchant can literally do anything he wants to do. If he is really crazy and believes that the moon is a god and that he must bark at the moon, his media control over people is so strong that he can order a campaign to convince his market-area to join in the ritual of barking at the moon. Soon, when the moon rises, the land will be filled with howls. If you think that is silly, just remember that "Martin Luther King Day" is a national holiday and that it is now a bad thing to be a "Christian Patriot". Exactly how silly can people get?

Merchants need for customers to believe Dharma if they are to do a land-office business - Dharma is the belief that everyone should love everyone else without regard to race, creed, or national origin. If potential customers can be made to believe that, they will trade with anyone without restrictions. Most religions have few qualms over adding Dharma to their existing religious traditions.

This, of course, excludes traditional Christianity. A new Christianity must replace the old Christianity. Dharma must be added so that Christianity can no longer disrupt world commerce with its prohibitions of kings, priests, monopolies, strangers and usury. The practice of genuine Christianity is a perpetual danger to the operations of both the merchant and his agents.

While the above is theoretical, it is how the system works. In the real world there are also a few other bells and whistles that the busy Saxon must learn about.

The Strangers' Caste System

In this world there are nations of peoples who have different ways and different gods. They are an integral part of the ITC. They are born to their place in life - their job, their caste. While man in his self-sufficient farm system is naturally a priest, king & soldier, merchant and worker - strangers have these natural talents and turned them into monstrous specialized castes - each performing just one of these jobs and all ruled from the top down.

The jobs of the strangers' castes are set in concrete: 1-priest, 2-king & soldier, 3-merchant and 4-worker. They have a job caste because they are born into the caste. These castes are virtual unions. Sometimes castes fight other castes when their jobs overlap - serious fights in which hundreds and even thousands are killed. One caste lords it over another caste while groveling before still another. It is a world entirely to alien to man deal with it.

The stranger appears to man to have a nature like a beast brought in from the wild. Like a wolf pack, he has an alpha leader at the top and all others stair step down in degrees of honor and authority. All perform set tasks handed down from father to son. It is how they live. It is what they do. It is life in the ITC.

As the ITC conquers a new trade area and begins to absorb it, the cities increasingly look like Calcutta. The morals and outlook of the conquered peoples begin to correspond:

1- PRIESTS - Priests of the stranger traffic in souls. They speak for their god. Their words are more profound than those of mere mortals. They are venerated by all others since they possess secrets needed to enter paradise. This is power indeed. Cartel priests shamelessly use their position and authority to enrich themselves. It's what they do in the ITC. It's what they

---

1 (Heb: adam - those that blush rosy, Strong's Concordance have taught many of our priests in the conquered market area to do.

In 34 years of working as a stockbroker I was cheated 13 times. Most times I was cheated it was by "born-again Christians" who had learned the way of the stranger. Most of those born-again- Christians were "preachers".

The ones who cheated me are a different kind of preacher from the Saxon preacher of the past. History teaches us that it was the poor preachers who spread the WORD gleaned from Wycliffe's Bible. It was the poor Presbyterian preachers who spread the word of the Covenant and almost brought in God's kingdom to earth in Britain. Banished to America, and there harassed, fined and imprisoned, it was these same poor preachers who ignited the American Revolution.

"By their acts ye shall know them." There are "poor-preachers" who preach God's Laws, statutes and judgments, and there are those who have learned the Hindu way to become rich and powerful by taking advantage of the positions as "God's spokesmen". If a person wishes to deceive - what better cover can be had than to call oneself a "Christian", and even better, a "Christian priest"? Such people may then be Lawless and call it "God's will". With that sort of cover, the lawless ones are free to devour simple believers.

The priests who are unscrupulous, and don't have the skills to become televangelist entrepreneurs, can affiliate with one of the episcopal sects. Then, like their yellow robed counterparts in the East, they can make a good living by merely blessing whatever kings do, and never EVER mentioning the merchant who hired the king in the first place. They receive double reward for cursing the king's enemies. Kings pay for this service with tax-exemption which allow the priest's denomination to pile up riches through tax free businesses, usury banks and religious foundations.

2-KINGS & ARMIES - "Power corrupts. Absolute power corrupts absolutely". We have all witnessed the schoolyard bully. The bully loves lording it over his fellows. This schoolyard bully, when grown, is perfect material to become a king. When given his very own private army to keep him in power - he will make himself king and his private army (FBI) will scour the courntryside looking for rebels and right-wing Christian patriot racists to harrass.

Without an army there is no king. The King System of "rule by coercion" is kept alive by the soldier. There was a time when Western armies were militia armies, mustered for emergencies only. They selected their own leaders. Today's armies are standing armies in which there are many who are third and fourth generation to serve - often in the same regiments. There is little difference between this kind of army and the soldier caste of India. A soldier caste is being born in the Christian West before our eyes.

3-The Super Merchant

Trading the overflow production from the self-sufficient farm for items not produced on an individual farm is normal and natural.

The cartel super merchant is different. He has great resources and he uses them to gain still more wealth. He then works with lesser merchants to bring these goods to the market cheaply and in abundance. For example:

ATTILA - A merchant's wealth allows him to hire kings to protect his interests and keep order in the land. The very same merchants can hire kings to create disorder.

Before making Roman trade alliances, Attila was leader of just one more thieving nomad band. Roman merchants disposed of Attila's loot - as much as he could provide. He was their "source". His followers collected loot and slaves which were sold in Roman markets. Roman merchants objected mightily for public consumption, but privately they had nothing bad to say about the quality of the loot they received, or its price.

When he approached Rome proper, the Pope met him alone without attendant or guard. After they talked he left peacefully. No one kept a record of what was said. Naturally.

THE WAR	INTERESTED PARTIES & THEIR REASON
England's Peasants' Revolt	Priest/King/Merchant: Suppressing worker revolt.
German Peasants' Revolt	Merchant/King/Priest: Suppressing worker revolt
French Revolution	Merchant/Priests: Destroying king's monopoly.
Napoleonic Wars	Merchant/Priest: Suppression of rebel king, and English king's looting of French & Dutch colonies.
War Between The States	Merchant surrogates looting SSFS
Boer War	Merchant surrogates looting SSFS
WWI	Merchant/King/Priest: Merchant surrogates looting German- Austrian-Turkish - Russian empire monopolies.
WWII - Germany	Merchant suppression of rebel king. Priests reclaiming lands and peoples lost in earlier wars.
WWII - Japan	Merchant looting of King's empire monopoly.

Mohammed

To firmly fix the power of the merchant's money in the center of ones consciousness, the story of Mohammed is without peer.

Mohammed was just one of a hundred Arab mystics living in the harsh arid region called the Arabian Peninsula. He said that he had visions from God, and was God's spokesman. Listeners laughed but some believed. Mohammed attracted a following.

Running afoul the local authorities who thought Mohammed was taking himself too seriously, Mohammed took his followers and fled to a small settlement far out in the desert. This settlement had a life-saving oasis for the desert traveler. The oasis was the reason for the settlement's importance. It watered the camel caravans that plied the Spice Route from the Orient to the Near East. Caravans had to water there to finish the final lap of their journey. This was the age when the burden of a single camel would make an ordinary Arab rich for life. Caravans might contain from ten to 20,000 such animals and were tempting targets for desperate men. Kings were paid to see to it that the caravans moved safely and rapidly to their destinations.

In defiance of the King, Mohammed refused water to the caravans. All caravans on that route stopped until the matter was resolved. Mecca's ruler sent an army to punish Mohammed and his followers. The expedition marched across the hot desert and reached Medena. They made an attack which was repulsed, and then they ran out of water and were forced to return with their mission unfulfilled. Other expeditions sent from Mecca met with no better success. This stalemate continued for a year. During the entire time no caravans passed through Medena.

Then, a messenger arrived from the far east. The message he brought said that the job of protecting the spice route was henceforth to be turned over to Mohammed. Mohammed was to be paid spice route "protection moneys".

Mohammed, the one who became the great spiritual and political leader of Islam, was made the great spiritual and political leader because of a quiet message sent by an unknown merchant in the East.

Who was this shadowy figure who had the power to hire and fire kings? Who had the power to allow the creation of one of the world's most powerful religions? This unknown merchant was more powerful than Mohammed the conqueror of Arabia, North Africa, the Mideast, Turkey, Syria and Spain - upon whom all eyes of the world were fixed. Mohammed, the scourge of Christendom was made who he was because of an unknown merchant.

The proof of his power is that until this very day, no one asks his name.

4-Worker Caste - In the trade area claimed by the ITC, the initial entry is made with the help of local Saxon agents. As time goes on and the market area is secured, the Saxon agents are discarded and replaced by family and caste members of the merchant. At the last, entire nations will be brought in to exploit the land and its wealth. The original inhabitants are reduced to the job of being workers for the Priest-King-Merchant classes and aliens will be brought in to populate the ruling castes.

The Saxon Scourge

The primary reason the stranger is replacing the Saxon with his own kinsmen is that the Saxon has always been a danger to the stranger. The Saxon's God frowns on kings, priests, usury, monopoly, trading with strangers and even having strangers in the land. The stranger knows that man is made in the image of the WORD - this WORD that excludes the stranger. To leave the Saxon in position of responsibility is to endanger his conquest. Regardless how loyal a Saxon employee might have been to the ITC, his record shows that there is always a danger that he will repent and return to the LAW of his God.

This is one of the prime reasons that wars between Saxons are instigated, abortion promoted which has killed 30,000,000 Saxon children, and why 9,000,000 Germans were killed after WWII ended, and why the Balak Plan to promote interracial marriage is introduced. It is part of the plan to replace the Saxon with a people more docile.

The Merchant's Religion

The Scriptures say "A merchant shall hardly keep himself from doing wrong", his love of money is too strong - it is "the root of all evil". The consequence is that few homegrown Saxon merchants have a commitment to God's Law that is stronger than their desire for gold. It is an occupational hazard. Their religion often becomes something they put on or take off to "make the sale".

If it helps to adopt the customers religion - they will. One day they are Catholic. The next Baptist or Methodist. They are the biggest donors to churches and political parties. The returns from putting on a religious front are enormous. It is money well spent. The halo of "do no evil" hangs about the generous merchant.

The local merchant often finds it convenient to convert his religious beliefs to a hyphenated religion. While not willing to confess himself anything but "Christian", it often helps trade if he and the people of his trade area "love everyone" "without regard to race, creed, or national origin". This is Hindu Dharma. Adopting Dharma converts his Christian beliefs to "Hindu- Christian". It hurts business to limit the number of customers that one will deal with. It's not an accident that, next to strangers, merchants are well represented in the effort to integrate trade. Our Saxon merchant has been converted to the Hindu religion - although he would be highly indignant to be called a Hindu. Still, Hindu-Baptists are a dime a dozen.

Our own homegrown Saxon merchants are rank amateurs compared with ITC merchants. ITC merchants are not only trained to the job, they are bred to the job. It has been the job of their caste for a thousand years. They will do literally ANYTHING to make a successful trade. It is they with whom our own Saxon merchants trade.

ITC merchants can pose as followers of any religion. Some few are thoroughly indoctrinated in the religion in which they were raised. These will require that the Saxons they hire convert to their own religion - or at least show a marked tolerance of it. This explains why televangelistic Judeo-Christian preachers preach and promote "Noahide laws".[7] If they don't, their jobs will be quickly filled by another.

---

7 See HR #257, False Identity.

Manning The Castes

The Catholic and Anglican Churches used the Jew to operate their usury system against their own people in early days because the Christian religion forbade Christians dealing in usury.

Today the ITC uses others also. We are accustomed to the Jew who specializes in banking and trade, but the ITC also uses an Indian caste that specializes in running hotels. That's their speciality in India, and they don't like anyone else moving into what they consider "their territory". Other Indian castes provide engineers. Still others provide corporate managers. Indians, who are Wall Street "chief executive officers" are interviewed on business TV almost every day. And, there are still other castes coming to our attention of whom we were previously unaware.

Sindhis

The Tribune-Review of Dec 21, 1997 carried an interesting article on a group of people called "Sindhis", another nation of Indian merchants.

The Sindhis lived in a state in what is now Pakistan. In 1947, following WWII, India's two largest religions separated into Pakistan (Islam) and Hindustan (India). Minority Hindus living in Pakistan fled for their lives. Sindhis, followers of Islam, continued to live where they were. The Hindu Sindhis moved back to India. The rest scattered over the world. A stateless people, they consider themselves a nation, a nation which works together closely.

The Sindhi network girdles the globe from Japan, Singapore and Hong Kong through the Middle East to Africa and Gibraltar. It crosses Britain and Europe on to the U.S. and Latin America. Their organization and business techniques cause almost everything they touch to turn to gold.

Today, Srichand Hinduja is Britain's 11th richest man worth $1.7 billion. Shakun Narain Kimatrai grew up in Spain. She said that Sindhis like her family had diversified their business enterprises overseas even before the partition. The partition forced the families to follow their businesses overseas. Some made fortunes in Iran. B.K. Murjani and Dr. Hari Harilela established themselves in Hong Kong, Manubhai Madhvani became an economic power in Uganda, Tan Sri Kishu Tirathrai in Malaysia, and Chief Harkishin B. Chanrai in Nigeria. The Kimatrai family established overseas operations in Rangoon, Burma in 1896 and from there its 96 branches have spread all over the world. To provide trusted agents to operate the businesses, the Sindhis send their relatives. Thus, they form Sindhis colonies wherever a business has been established.

The world wide Sindhis have an organization called the IndusInd Group. It forms a common economic platform of the NRI Sindhi community. They speak for the merchant mentality by saying "Humanity is our family, and the World our state."

The article closes in saying "Through their years of wandering, the Sindhis have clutched tightly to family, cultural and social ties. "I believe Sindhis will never lose their identity because they firmly believe in their culture and religious identity," Hinduja said.

This sounds like one more sub-caste of the International Trade Cartel's feudal system. The ITC hired themselves a king to rule us and open the sheepfold gate. Then they hire priests to bless what was done. Now, the wolves pour in to feed.

The Merchants Of Babylon

The merchants of the International Trade Cartel build cities that look the same all over the world at no cost to themselves. If they like they can abandon these cities and rebuild them elsewhere. They can do these things because they have unlimited amounts of money drawn on nothing from their usury banks, and they will continue doing what they do as long as they can convince people to deal with them.

If the stranger departed today, he would return tomorrow because our people would not know how to prevent him from doing so; they would not know that they are not supposed to trade with them. The preachers are paid not to tell them, and the king is paid to protect the merchant. While others despair, we have hope because we have read the Instruction Manual and we know how the story will end.

The Scriptures say:

> "Babylon .. thy merchants were the great men of the earth." Rev8:21,23

> "Woe to the bloody city! it is all full of lies and robbery ... there is a multitude of slain, and a great number of carcasses; and there is none end of their corpses; they stumble upon their corpses ... Thou has multiplied thy merchants above the stars of heaven." Nahum 3:1-2,16

> "Babylon ... the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies." Rev 18:2-3

But, the day will come:

> "The kings of the earth, who have committed fornication and lived deliciously with her, shall bewail her, and lament for her, when they shall see the smoke of her burning." Rev 18:9

"And the merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her; for no man buyeth their merchandise any more." Rev 18:11

Conclusion

God appointed each of us kings and priests. As priests, we must teach our fellow Saxons who they are. We must also teach them the contracts made by God with our fathers and Himself. As kings we must show the way to our kingdoms "on earth." Lastly, we must teach one more truth - and when it is learned the doors will slam so that God's people will be within and the stranger without - forever:

"God's Commandments are the ultimate authority."

LETTERS

BURYING ALIVE: "Dear Dick; I found the following in Black's Law Dictionary. 'BURYING ALIVE: In English law. The ancient punishment of sodomites, and those who contracted with Jews." Fleta lib. 1, c. 27 & 3. Pg 248.

NATIONAL SOCIALIST: "Brother Hoskins: You said in an earlier newsletter that Germany's National Socialism was an 'episcopacy' - that Hitler took the international trade profit and spent it on the people. You ended by saying that National Socialism was better than what went before!" A.L. - Texas

RKH: No question; Germany's National Socialism was better than what went before. National Socialism never had a chance to develop into a finished product. It was an ever changing reform movement. Reports I've read say that it was honest - more honest than its enemies. The tax money it collected was spent for the people's benefit and the expenditures were publicly accounted for. Germany was engaged in a revolt against the ITC. All its resources were pressed into waging the revolt. The country did not have the time or the land area to implement a self-sufficient farm system. The people were taxed and the government, even though freely chosen, was episcopal - from the top down. That made it feudal. We sympathize with Germans because they are our own flesh and blood and because the ITC did them a great wrong. But, let's don't romanticize about another episcopacy. I'm for the revolt - I'm not for a revival of a National Socialist Worker's Party with a "leader" of the type so prevelent today who expects to crack the whip. It's time to put all forms of feudalism to rest - permanently.

==========

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 283

DEATH & DYING

Junior

My brother, John Hundley Hoskins, Jr., died when he was four. Everyone agreed that he was a beautiful child. He had leukemia - a cancer of the blood where the white blood cells eat up the red ones. Daddy was a doctor - a very good one, but he didn't know what to do to save his son. No one else did either. They still don't. In desperation, Daddy even put Mercurochrome in his veins in hopes that that would help. It didn't. It just made his temperature go way up and he began to sweat the red Mercurochrome. Each time Daddy tried something new it hurt Junior so much that mother asked Junior if he wanted Daddy to keep on trying to make him well, or did he just want to go to be with Jesus. Junior said that he wanted to go to be with Jesus, so Daddy stopped, and Junior died soon after.

Pneumonia

When I was three or four I had pneumonia. The doctors agreed that I was going to die in the morning. Daddy was there, Dr. Plunkett, Dr. Hopkins - my baby doctor, and Dr. Preston Hundley - my uncle. They had done all they could and were just standing around in the room waiting for the inevitable. Dr. Hopkins and Uncle Pres were standing next to the closet door, Daddy and Dr. Plunkett were standing just inside the door to the room. I know because I saw them standing there.

Mother was in the garden in back of the house. She was talking to God.

She said;

"Lord, you've taken one of my sons. If you want this one, that's all right. But, if you spare him, I'll give him to you. He's yours to do anything you want him to do."

At that very instant I began to get well.

That's a good story, but that's not the reason I'm telling it. The reason is that I saw everyone in the room. No one believed me when I told them later. They said that I was too weak to lift my head, much less stand to look out the the windows at the top of the oxygen tent. But, I did. I saw the doctors and the green oxygen bottles standing to the right of the bed, the bright streaming sunlight - . They said I was too weak, that I couldn't move. But, I did see everyone. I stood up, at least I thought I stood up, and looked out the windows at all that was going on. It was great fun.

Mother and Dad almost made me believe that I dreamed it all, but I didn't. Other members of the family have had what is now called "out of body experiences." I guess that was one of them.

Out Of The Body

This whole thing - this out of the body stuff - gives rise to a whole flock of questions. When the spirit leaves the body, where does it go? In my case, my spirit went back where it came from - my body. With other members of the family it was the same. But, what about the little Jones boy in Culpeper? Russell King, who helped Uncle Alex in the furniture store, saw the hearse bring the boy's body to the funeral home. The funeral home was right behind his house. He saw them take the body in the back door. He told me that about ten minutes later he saw a beam of light go from the room where the boy's body was lying straight up into the heavens. Russell King told me that it was the boy's soul going home. From that time he had no doubts about heaven.

Dying

Dying doesn't seem to be a big deal. At least it wasn't in the Air Force. I was assigned to the flying school at Waco. When my group got off the bus we saw smoke boiling up from the runway and the sounds of meat wagon and firetruck sirens. Two planes had collided. Two instructors and two students were dead. They marched us to our barracks. A flight of Aviation Cadets were marching from the flight line singing.

"There's blood on the cockpit blood on the ground,
A great big puddle of blood all around.
Pity that keydet lying there dead,
A T-28 done chopped off his head."

Bravado. A way of compensating for what can't be avoided and might happen to one of your buddies - but never to you. The young believe that they are indestructible.

People die in plane crashes. It's quick - an abstract thing. In the morning you march with your comrades to the flight line and wave to them with a quick joke and laugh, and you never see them again. A cautious fear is always with the prudent, but dying is the last thing on his mind.

Four of us flew with Mr. Wylie, a civilian contract WWII fighter pilot. I alone survive. None of the others had a thought that he was going to die. If anyone thought of dying or of heaven or hell they thought of the GUMP check first. The "GUMP check" was more important: "G" - gas selector switch on full tank; "U" - undercarriage down & locked; "M" - gas mixture rich; "P" - prop, full forward for maximum power. The GUMP check got you down on the ground safely. You could always talk about heaven and hell after going to the cadet club for a beer with the boys - if there was anyone who wanted to talk about them.

Stock Broker - Most of you already know that I was a stock broker for 40 years and a money manager for almost 32. That's what old Francis I. DuPont trained me to do. I've handled the same money for three generations for some families. During this time I've had maybe as many as 50 of my clients stop by to tell me "good- by" just before they died. I could tell that they were going to die - they had that look about them. I appreciated the courtesy. I suppose that handling a person's money creates a bond. One might even say that for some it could be considered almost a religious experience.

Mother

Mother was getting along in years. She was 87, a fine Christian woman, but bedridden and unable to speak. I was just about the only one she recognized.

One night I got a call from the nurse who said that Mother had had a heart attack. I rushed over. The nurse told me that she had to call a doctor, but couldn't leave my mother's side because if she did she might "pass away". The nurse instructed me to watch mother and if it looked like she was going to "pass away" for me to say,

"Hang on, Mrs. Hoskins!"

And she would. In the meantime the nurse went and called the doctor.

I sat beside mother and talked to her. In a few minutes her breathing became labored and then stopped. I said,

"Hang on, Mother",

And she started breathing again. I was startled. I never knew that words had such power.[1]

Then I started thinking. Mother couldn't speak. She couldn't play the piano. She didn't recognize any of her friends or most of her family. As the Scripture says; "There is a time for everything under the sun". It was Mother's time.

I said the 23rd Psalm out loud, and then the Lord's Prayer. Then I told mother;

"Go on, Mamma, it's all right."

And she stopped breathing.

---

1 I later became convinced that it is better to beat someone with a stick rather than wound them with words. Words pierce a person's very soul and can cause life or death, health or sickness; they can canker for a lifetime. Whippings only sting the body and are soon forgotten.

Grandmother Hoskins

The generation who lived through the "Second War Of Independence" were scarred by that war. The long lists of war deaths that took away almost a whole generation, the burnings, the homeless refugees wandering to and fro, the tortures by Union soldiers trying to seize treasure from civilians who had no banks, starvation, martial law, and blacks having rule over us. My great grandmother Janet Carter Roy Hoskins (1833-1895) lived through it all. Death hung like a pall over Essex County. Death frightened her. She dreaded dying.

But, her time came to die. She lay in her bed with her children standing around her. Her mind was clear and she spoke in a strong voice as she greeted and spoke to each of them. Then she smiled and spoke to people in the room whom she saw but her children did not see - friends and relatives who had died years before. Then, she spoke to people who had died and the news had not yet reached Essex County.

At the last a radiance passed over her face and she turned to her family and said,

"It's glorious! I'm not afraid to die anymore."

And she "passed on".

Grandmother Hume

My great grandmother, Mary Emma Thompson Hume (1832-1902) married my great-grandfather Dr. Charles Hume (1824-1906). Dr. Hume took care of the wounded and dying during the war - often times right in his home. His wife Mary Emma became overwhelmed with the cruelty of war and the devastation of the aftermath. She had seen so much that she was terrified of dying.

Her time came and she lay in her bed with her children standing around her. AND, the exact same thing happened to her that happened to Grandmother Hoskins. She first spoke to her children, then to friends who had died long before, and then to those who had died and the news had not yet reached Culpeper County. Then, she too smiled, and informed her family that she was no longer afraid of dying, and peacefully passed on. This is almost the identical story from a different source.

Grandfather Keith

Back in Scotland, before our "First War For Independence", my ancestor the Rev. James Keith (1697-1758) was lying on a hillside with a childhood chum discussing heaven and wondering if there really was such a place. In that day there were only two options open for younger sons of the gentry - the ministry or the army. My grandfather chose the ministry and his chum chose the army. They agreed that the first to die would return to tell the other whether or not there was a heaven.

My ancestor became a minister and was posted to a parish in Fauquier County, Virginia. His chum joined the army and was posted to India.

One day Rev. Keith was studying on his front porch and a little slave girl, who had been milking the cows, ran up and said that there was a soldier down in the barn looking for him. A big man in a red coat. The reverend went down to the barn, but didn't see anyone. He questioned the servant and she described his childhood chum.

Reverend Keith then instructed his little servant girl that should she see the soldier again to ask him if there was a heaven.

She said she would.

The next day she came running up the path and breathlessly told Reverend Keith that she had done as he instructed, and asked him if there was a heaven, and he had nodded - "Yes!"

Willard and Ella Garnett Dying

My grandfather, Willard Dunbar Hoskins, was sick. He went to visit his brother, who was a doctor, down the river in Newport News, and died there from uremic poisoning.

My grandmother, Ella Garnett Hundley, had been visiting her sister in Beckley, in what is now West Virginia, and was on her way home. She reached Baltimore, where she became sick from typhoid fever, and died. She died on a different day from my grandfather but they died only an hour apart.

Her coffin was put on a boat which took it down the Chesapeake Bay to Newport News where it picked up my grandfather's coffin and then proceeded up the Rappahannock to Ware's Wharf where both coffins were offloaded. A boy rode up to Hoskins Hill to tell the family that two coffins were on the wharf and to come down and get them.

Daddy harnessed the horses and went down and picked up his parent's bodies and brought them back to Dunnsville.[2] Daddy was sixteen and was next to the oldest. Aunt Gladys was seventeen and taught school. The family buried their parents in the back yard at Hoskins Hill.

---

2 Dunnsville contained a post office, two country stores, and half a dozen houses including Hoskins Hill and Hundley Hall.

Willard Hoskins Visits - Daddy was in school. Aunt Gladys was the oldest and tried to hold the eight children in the family together. She was worried sick. One night she was in bed with Ella Garnett, who was 10. They had been discussing the family's problems and both had been crying when they looked up and standing at the foot of their bed was their father, Willard Dunbar. He smiled at them and then turned and left. They took his smile to mean that everything would work out all right. Everything did.

It's interesting to note that both Aunt Gladys and Aunt Ella Garnett saw their father at the same time. I questioned both about this and both were adamant about what they saw.

Where Does The Soul Go?

Where does the soul go when one dies? That's the perennial question. The next question - if it is heaven - how does one get there? These big dark questions give birth to the trillion dollar organized religion business. Since everyone is going to die - business is always good because anyone with any sense has an interest in the answer.

The answer is - the place that will ultimately be reached by man's soul will depend on the actions of the man himself:

> "Not everyone shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Matt 7:21

It is also understood that the number of those reaching the mark is restricted to those doing God's will:

> "The Most High hath made this world for many, but the world to come for few." II Esdras 8:1

The Unforgivable Sin

Countless people are distraught because they think that they may have committed the unforgivable sin that will keep them out of heaven and they don't know if they have committed it or not. The reason is that they don't know who God is and what he requires of them.

One thing we CAN easily comprehend; God is the WORD.[3] We comprehend God through his commandments. God's commandments are the ultimate authority.

Today's question, "What is the unforgivable sin?" was asked and answered 2,000 years ago in the book Philochristus 13: paragraph 15.

> "I asked Nathanael what Jesus meant by the words 'blasphemy against the Holy Spirit.' and why that sin was above all other sins so that it could not be forgiven. 'For,' said I 'Jesus was blasphemed as a gluttonous man and as a wine-biber, not many days past in this very place, and I noted well that it was with a calmness, yea, even to mirth, Jesus endured the charge."

So, malicious things said about the Son of Man resulted in a silent laugh. But, if the Son of Man is not upset over bad things said about him - what is this unforgivable sin? The answer follows in paragraph 20:

> "Now if thou closeth thy mouth and thy nostrils against the winds of heaven and sayest, 'The air is as poison to me, I will not breathe it,' behold, thou perishest.
>
> "Even so it is with the Holy Spirit. Every man that cometh into the world, hath within him some portion of the Holy Spirit. For the spirit which is in him breathest of the Holy Spirit, and dependeth and liveth thereon. But if he shall say knowingly in his heart, 'I will not breathe thereof; I will call good evil, and the Holy Spirit I will call unholy'; then lo, his spirit dieth within him, and he can no more enter into the life of God."

3 "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1, and "The WORD was made flesh, and dwelt among us." John 1:14

What, then, is the Holy Spirit? It is the WORD! God's Commandments are the ultimate authority. It is more than just murder and adultery and things like that. King David committed both and he was forgiven. But, suppose King David, knowing the WORD, spurned it time after time - then the Holy Spirit within him dies - and that is the "unforgivable sin." Knowing God's Law and violating it time after time brings the curse:

"For if we sin willfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth (God's Commandments), there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins." Heb 10:26

Most of this had no place in the life of Roman soldiers, but they had one thing in common with those whom they fought. DEATH! Death results when the soldier practices his trade. The Romans had an interesting way of looking at death.[4]

Religion Of The Roman Soldier

Titus was the general who led the Roman army preparing to assault the walls of Jerusalem. Knowing that there would be grievous casualties among the assault troops he gathered his men and spoke to them:

---

4 This is so similar to Viking beliefs that one is forced to consider that much of the basic religion of the Roman soldier and the Viking warrior came from the same root source.

"What man of virtue is there who does not know that those souls which are severed from their fleshly bodies in battles by the sword are received by the ether, that purest of elements, and joined to that company which are placed among the stars; that they become good demons, and propitious heroes, and shew themselves as such to their posterity afterwards? while upon those souls that wear away in and with their distempered bodies comes a subterranean night to dissolve them to nothing, and a deep oblivion to take away all the remembrance of them, and this notwithstanding that he be clean from all spots and defilement of this world; so that, ... since fate has determined that death is to come of necessity upon all men, a sword is a better instrument for that purpose than any disease whatsoever. Why, it is not then a very mean thing for us not to yield up that to the public benefit which we must yield up to fate? And this discourse have I made, upon the supposition that those who at first attempt to go upon this wall must needs be killed in the attempt... As for that person who first mounts the wall, I should blush for shame if I did not make him to be envied of others, by those rewards I would bestow upon him. If such a one escape with his life, he shall have the command of others that are now but his equals; although it be true also, that the greatest rewards will accrue to such as die in the attempt." (Titus, in a speech to his soldiers before the assault on the walls of Jerusalem.)[5]

Religion Of The Other Side

The belief of the Judeans, their enemies, the ones defending the walls of Jerusalem was different. It was a layered belief which one first encountered by running into "one liners". Each "one liner" related a part of a basic belief understood by just about every Israelite in the Roman province of Judea. One belief was that every Israelite was predestined to be what he was to be from the instant he was conceived:

5 Josephus, "Wars Of The Jews", 6:5, Complete Works of Josephus, Virginia Publishing Co, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $15.95 plus $3 p&h.

> "Before I formed you in the womb, I knew you; and before you came forth from the womb, I sanctified you, and I ordained you." Jer 1:5;

> "There has been no man in his mother's womb, but that already before, even to each one there is a place prepared for the repose of that soul, and a measure fixed how much it is intended that a man be tried in this world. ... Deceive not yourselves, for there has been previously prepared a place for every soul of man." Secrets of Enoch 49:4-5

Paul spoke of other beliefs when he wrote; "I knew a man in Christ ... such a one caught up to the 3rd heaven." 2 Cor 12:2. What was he talking about - of having gone to a 3rd heaven?

Third Heaven

Paul doesn't tell much about the 3rd heaven because his listeners already knew. In that age, in addition to the writings of Moses, the elect had read the writings of the prophet Enoch:[6] This is what Enoch had to say:

> "And those men took me ... up onto the 3rd heaven ... And I saw all the sweet-flowering trees ... in that place whereon the Lord rests, when he goes up into paradise; and this tree is of ineffable goodness ... Its root is in the garden at the earth's end. And paradise is between corruptibility and incorruptibility. ... And there are 400 angels who keep the garden ..." Chapter 8: 3rd:

6 The Secrets Of Enoch, included in the Lost Books Of The Bible, Va Pub Co, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $11.95.

"This place, O Enoch, is prepared for the righteous, who endure ... offense from those that exasperate their souls, who avert their eyes from iniquity, and make righteous judgment, and give bread to the hungering, and cover the naked with clothing, and raise up the fallen, and help injured orphans, and who walk without fault before the face of the Lord, and serve him alone, and for them is prepared this place for eternal inheritance." v.9

"And those 2 men led me up on the Northern Side, and showed me there a very terrible place, and there were all manner of tortures in that place: cruel darkness and un- illuminated gloom, ... murky fire .. and there is a fiery river ... and in that whole place is everywhere fire ... and everywhere there is frost and ice, thirst and shivering ... and the angels fearful and merciless ...

"This place, O Enoch is prepared for those who dishonor God, who on earth practice sin against nature, which is child-corruption after the sodomic fashion, magic-making, enchantments and devilish witchcrafts, and who boast of their wicked deeds, stealing, lies, calumnies, envy, rancor, fornication, murder, and who, accursed, steal the souls of men, who seeing the poor take away their goods and themselves wax rich, injuring them for other men's goods; who being able to satisfy the empty, made the hungering to die; being able to clothe, stripped the naked; and who knew not their creator ... for all these is prepared this place amongst these, for eternal inheritance. v.10

According to Enoch, every Israelite goes to heaven - both the good and the bad. Once there they are separated. The good go to the south side where they enjoy paradise, while the bad go to the north side where torments await them. It was a thing understood by everyone in that age.

"God Wills It!"

Another belief explains the fanatical resistance of the defenders of Jerusalem.

The Scriptures teach that those who die for God, or for the WORD, will never see death. The reward for making the supreme sacrifice for God is that one will never die. This is a powerful belief. It motivated the defenders of Jerusalem to fanatical and almost impossible feats of bravery, and later, did the same for the Crusaders. Read the following words and commit them to memory, for you shall certainly hear them on men's lips in the days ahead;

"If a man keep my sayings, he shall never see death." Jno 8:51

"If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it." Matt 16:24-25

"Whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's, shall save it." Mk 8:35

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." John 15:13

"I lay down my life for the sheep. ... Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it again. No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again." John 10:15-18

"Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." Revelation 2:10

This is God's teaching that terrifies the pharisees among today's Levites. When Jesus tells us that the time has come to demand that "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven," - what will become of them? Will the sheep obey the WORD and turn and rend "those of the temple" as the Scriptures prophesy? Who will feed them and provide them with the first fruits? Won't obedience to God's WORD bring Rome's wrath down on them along with the rebellious sheep as happened to the disobedient city of Jerusalem?[7]

Some say that Jesus didn't mean that one was to resist with force because he said "For the word of God is quick, and sharper than any 2-edged sword." Heb 4:12. This was certainly the case in his day because his followers were few and the Roman enemy with his Herodian allies were many. But, that was "strategy". Jesus wasn't against force, Philochristus says that Jesus was against force "at that time" because the time wasn't right.[8] We must not forget that the prophets gave the following instructions:

> * "Let the saints be joyful ... and a two-edged sword in their hand, to execute ... the judgment written: this honor have all his saints." Ps 149:5- 9;
>
> * "Teach thy sons the bow and all weapons of war." Jasher 56:9;
>
> * "Also he bade them teach the children of Judah the use of the bow." 2 Sam 1:18;
>
> * "Cause them ... to draw near, even every man with his destroying weapon ... and the Lord said ... Go ye ... and smite: .... Slay utterly old and young, ... and begin at my sanctuary. Then they began at the ancient men (important, elders) which were before the house." Ezec (9:1-6);
>
> * "Awake, O sword, against my shepherd, and against the man that is my fellow, saith the Lord of hosts: smite the shepherd ... And ... I will say, It is my people: and they shall say, The Lord is my God." Zech 13:7-9.

---

7 Josephus says that Jerusalem contained a large population of strangers who spent more time fighting Jerusalem's Israelites inside the walls than they did fighting Romans outside. These strangers were there because Jerusalem violated God's Law, "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21-24, and they paid the price.

8 Jesus also said, "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I come not to send peace, but a sword." Matt 10:34; "He said unto them ... he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment and buy one." Luke 22:36- 38.

What I Believe About Death

All my experiences tell me that heaven is neat; that our friends and family are waiting for us; that we will be able to do and know things so wonderful that our limited minds can't even dream of how wonderful it will be.

I think of our present existence as being like that of a kernel of corn. The single grain, when planted, puts down deep roots and grows a stalk, leaves, ears, tassels - all of which are thousands of times greater than the single little kernel that was planted. That is how much I believe that our future existence in heaven is above our existence here on earth.

I believe that the following is true:

> "In my Father's house are many mansions ... And if I go and prepare a place for you I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." John 14:2-3[9]

> "We are ... willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord." II Cor 5:7

And I believe that this transfer process, when it happens, is instant. One instant you are here, the next you are there. Jesus, spoke to the thief crucified with him on a cross, and said:

> "Verily I say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with me in paradise." Luke 23:40-43

One minute the thief was in this world - the next he was in paradise.

---

9 "Where two or more are gathered in my name, there I am in the midst of them." Heaven is already prepared and waiting, and Jesus - "the WORD made flesh", - is both HERE in our midst, and there, right NOW!

Hanging on the cross he had no time to do good works. If allowed more time he would have doubtless proved his salvation with works, but his change of heart from self-indulgence to The WAY opened the door to paradise.

Thus the paradox - in death one finds life.

The WORD in the heart of the Saxon changes him into the sword of the Lord, the terror of the anti-Christ, and in death gives him everlasting life.

UNFILTERED NEWS

FARMER'S WORTH: In a letter from Daniel St. Thomas Jenifer to George Mason dated January 12, 1789, Jenifer, a leading Maryland politician and a Constitution signer, discussed Maryland's and the nation's political situation, arguing that 'one farmer in the political scale is worth more than 10 citizens, most of whom generally live by their wits."

LETTER FROM S. AFRICA

Former president F.W. deKlerk had an ongoing affair with the wife of a Greek multimillionaire, Tony Georgiadis, for years and right through the time when he became president. Little wonder that he did not care about SA and its people. It was the reason for his resignation last year, but it was only during the last few weeks that the truth came out. FW intends to divorce his wife after receiving advice from his brother Wimpie. One can only hope he disappears permanently from the SA scene. He and his brother caused our people so much hardship, not to forget all those who have lost their lives.

Best wishes, KJ

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 284

EATING WITH STRANGERS

"Withdraw from among the Gentiles and do not eat with them ... for their actions are unclean and all their ways are defiled." Jubilees 22:17

Judith

In the twelfth year of the reign of Nabuchodonosor of the Assyrians,[1] Nabuchodonosor the king went to war with a mighty king named Arphaxad. He summoned fighting men from all parts of his dominion and they came by the tens of thousands and destroyed Arphaxed. But there were certain provinces in the west who did not send soldiers. They refused

1 Both Assyria and Babylon comprised Babylon. First one ruled and then the oth and showed no respect for his authority, even refusing to pay tribute (taxes).

Enraged, Nabuchodonosor summoned his best general, Holofernes, and told him to take 120,000 of his best troops and 12,000 cavalry and bring all the rebellious people into proper subjection.

Holofernes led this great army westward into the hill country and destroyed Phud and Lud, and spoiled the children of Rasses and Ismael. Then he passed over the Euphrates River and passed through Mesopotamia destroying all the high cities on his way to the Mediterranian Sea. From there he stormed Cilicia, killing all who opposed him, and came to the borders of Japheth and compassed the people of Madan and burned up their temples, warehouses, and places of merchandise.

Retracing, he went down the great plain of Damascus at harvest time and burnt up all the wheat fields and destroyed the flocks, and looted the cities and killed all the young men.

The remaining peoples, countries and cities, saw the ruin and death that fell to those who resisted Holofernes and they feared him. They sent emissaries to beg for their lives. They opened their gates and received the Assyrians with garlands, dances and timbrels. Still, he destroyed their temples because he had vowed to destroy the gods of the rebels. He thought that all nations should worship Nabuchodonosor only, that all the conquered people of Babylon should look on Nabuchodonosor as god.[2]

---

2 When there are many gods in a land, the one who judges their disputes becomes greater than the individual gods he judges. He becomes chief of the gods. The nine US Supreme Court judges have judged the Law of the God of Israel dealing with separate eating facilities and have ruled that God's Law is unlawful. The makers of the new law make themselves greater than the God they declared "unlawful".

The children of Israel living in Judea were afraid of Holofernes, for they had recently returned from captivitity in Babylon and were still few in number. Still, they prepared for war. They fortified the mountain tops and the villages, and they laid up provisions for a siege. They cried to the God of Israel that he would not give their children for a prey and their wives for a spoil and the cities of their inheritance to destruction and their sanctuary to be profaned, and, God heard their prayers.

When Holofernes heard that the Israelites had shut up their cities and fortified their mountain tops, he was angry. He led his army, together with the conscripted soldiers of nearby conquered provinces, and marched against the Israelites. A very great host, indeed.

Reaching the mountain defenses of the Israelites, Holofernes was perplexed as to how to subdue them without incurring heavy casualties. At that moment the chief of the children of Essau came and presented a plan to cut off the water to the city of Jerusalem so that the Israelites would be forced to surrender in only a few days. With Jerusalem, the supply depot for the rest of the country, gone, the mountain defenses would starve.

Holofernes approved the plan and the stream bringing water to Jerusalem was diverted. The city of Jerusalem had only five days water supply left which meant that both it and the people in it were doomed to destruction and death. The elders of the city of Jerusalem contemplated their approaching deaths, but the high priest told them to be of good cheer that they still had five days for God to work a miracle.

Judith Appears

Judith was a widow, a devout woman and very beautiful. She lived near Jerusalem. She heard of the crisis and went to God in prayer:

> "O Lord God of my father Simeon, to whom thou gavest a sword to take vengeance of the strangers, who loosened the girdle of a maid to defile her ... and polluted her virginity ... for thou saidst, It shall not be so; and yet they did so; Wherefore thou gavest their rulers to be slain ... And hast given (them) for a prey ... and abhorred the pollution of their blood ... O my God,... Throw down their strength with thy power, and bring down their force in thy wrath ..."

Having completed her prayer she took her maid and bathed herself, and put on perfume and braided her hair and put a tire upon it, and put on her garments of gladness that she wore during the life of her husband. And she put on bracelets, chains rings and earrings to captivate the eyes of all men that should see her.

Then she gave her maid a bottle of wine, a cruse of oil, and filled a bag with parched corn, clumps of figs, and fine bread. Thus attired they went forth from the city.

Judith Meets Holofernes

Thus they went straight forth in the valley and the first watch of the Assyrians met her. They asked her who she was and she told them that she was an Israelite who was fleeing the destruction that was soon to come upon the rest of her people. She also said that she was bringing a plan to Holofernes of how he might bypass the mountain strongholds without losing a man.

With that, the Assyrians gave this beautiful lady an honor guard of 100 men and they took her through the encamped armies directly to their general. The word quickly spread that the Israelites had sent a lovely emissary and thousands of soldiers lined the way to get a glimpse of her. They wondered at her beauty and admired the children of Israel because of her.

Holofernes was resting upon his bed under a canopy woven with purple and gold, having emeralds and precious stones woven in. When Judith was presented, Holofernes told her not to be afraid, and took her into his tent to talk to her.

There she told him that she had seen evil done by the Israelites against their own God, a thing that was sure to bring on their destruction at the hand of Holofernes. Her exact words were:

> "Our nation shall not be punished, neither can the sword prevail against them, except they sin against their God." Judith II 11:10

The sin that she spoke of that would provoke the God of Israel was that the Israelites were about to eat things that were forbidden to them because they were in dire straits from lack of food. This was sure to bring their destruction.

Judith offered to go into the desert at night and talk to her God, and when he told her that the sin had been committed, she would return and tell Holofernes and he would then be able to walk right in and destroy the Israelites since their God would no longer protect them.

Holofernes thought this a fine idea and ordered a feast to be set in honor of Judith. But Judith said "I will not eat thereof, lest there be an offense: but provision shall be made for me of the things that I have brought." Holofernes had heard of this custom of the Israelites of not eating with those whom they considered strangers, and he respected it. Judith then asked permission to go into the desert to eat and pray. A request which was instantly granted.

From the moment that Holofernes had seen Judith he planned to deceive Judith and seduce her. After waiting a time he ordered wine and drank more of it than on any day since he was born. When evening came his servants were dismissed leaving Judith and Holofernes alone, and Holofernes was on his bed being in an advanced state of intoxication.

Judith then approached his bed and said in her heart

> "Oh Lord God of all power, look at this present upon the works of mine hands ... For now is the time to help thine inheritance, and to execute ... enemies which are risen against us."

Then she took down his sword and went to his bed and took hold of his hair and smote twice upon his neck with all her might and took away his head. Calling her maid she instructed her to put the head in her bag of provisions. Then, taking a small piece of the jewel studded tent with them, the two went together into the countryside to prayer, as was their custom.

Instead, they went straight-way to the city of the Israelites where she took the head out of the bag and showed it saying:

> "Behold the head of Holofernes the chief captain of the army of Assyria, and behold the canopy wherein he did lie in his drunkenness, and the Lord hath smitten him by the hand of a woman." Judith 13:15

The Result

This brave act of Judith had several results:

* Her nice attire brought honor and respect to the entire nation of Israel.

* Giving honor to those whom honor is due allowed her to approach the enemy leader.

* Knowing that strangers are organized in an episcopal manner - from the top down, rather than in a presbyterian manner - from the bottom up, permitted her to choose a successful course of action.

* Her obedience to the law requiring that food blessed by God cannot be given to strangers, with no exceptions - including dining with the commanding general of the Assyrians, gave her the excuse she needed to go from the Asyrian camp to the wilderness and back again.

The result of all this was that when the captains of the Assyrian army learned of the death of Holofernes there was a great commotion among them. There was no leader until another was appointed by King Nabuchodonosor.[3] This is the way it is among strangers. Their former united effort stopped and their army began to dissolve as the soldiers waited and discussed the curse that had fallen upon them.

Judith never married again after her husband had died. Her kinsmen covered her with honors and she lived to the age of 105, and there was none that made the children of Israel afraid in the days of Judith, nor for a long time after her death.

---

3 If Nabuchodonosor had been killed, there would have been no one to choose the next leader at all, and, doubtless a civil war would have resulted from the effort in choosing his successor.

SACRED FOOD

Until recent years the West has followed the eating rituals of their Israelite ancestors which dictated with whom, when, and under what conditions one eats. Today, to insist on observance of these eating rituals is to incur the wrath, and punishment, of the king who has outlawed such rituals on the order of the international merchant.

However, from an historical standpoint, it is educational to study what our ancestors considered important because what was will be again. It is also interesting to note the actions of the professional Christian organizations and people WHO HAVE NO EXCUSE FOR THEIR REFUSAL TO DO THAT WHICH GOD REQUIRES:

> "The things which the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice to devils, and not to God: and I would not that ye should have fellowship with devils. Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and the cup of devils: ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table, and of the table of devils." I Cor 11:20- 21

> "Withdraw from among the Gentiles and do not eat with them, and do not according to their actions, and be not their companion, for their actions are unclean and all their ways are defiled." Jubilees 22:17

> "There shall no stranger eat of the holy thing." Lev. 22:10

Their REFUSAL speaks louder than their words. It reveals their probable lack of commitment to the rest of the WORD which is God.

"Living Room, Dining Room, Bedroom"

An old saying in Virginia is, "From the living room, to the dining room, to the bedroom."

If you want to stop someone from becoming a member of your family, that person must not be invited into your living room. Once in the living room, politeness often forces people to offer food served in the dining room. Life itself is supported by food. The act of "eating" with someone implies that that person has your stamp of approval and is suitable to enter your family's bedroom - he is a suitable marriage prospect. "From the living room, to the dining room, to the bedroom."

The Rules Of Eating

Eating is a religious ritual. Christians bearing the proofs of Israel,[4] before eating, thank God for the food they are about to eat. They then offer the food to God to bless. Most do it using these or similar ritual words:

1. "Lord, Thank you for this food.
2. "Bless it to our good,
3. "and use us in thy service:
4. "Amen," (seal of agreement - the verbal handshake)

1. Gratitude is shown for food; 2. The food is offered to God to bless. This is done by God's appointed priest - yourself. The food blessed by God is now "holy." It may not be given to strangers.[5] The word "stranger" here is the He-

4 (3 PROOFS OF ISRAEL) (1) In his IMAGE - "They shall put my name upon the children of Israel." Num 6:27 (2) Isaac's name, SONS OF ISAAC - ISAACSONS - SAXONS, "In Isaac shall thy name be called." Romans 9:7, and (3) Adamic descent. "Man" in Strong's Concordance is the Hebrew "Adam." "Adam" means to "blush red." "Show blood in the face.

5 "Thou shall no stranger eat of the holy thing: a sojourner of the priest, or a hired servant, shall not eat of the holy thing." Lev 22:10. "Sojourner" - means a temporary resident.

brew "zûwr stranger" - meaning a racial alien vs. the "gêr stranger" - a racial kinsman living in a different political subdivision. Even if the zûwr stranger is only visiting and is a "sojourner," he still may not eat of the holy food, regardless of the accusation of "bad manners." Not even a servant, who is also assumed to be a zûwr stranger, may eat the food that has been "blessed" and is "holy."

In both the American North and South prior to the 1940s-1950s, there was a problem feeding the strangers in our midst without violating the WORD that forbade eating with strangers.

> "They shall not profane the holy things of the children of Israel, which they offer unto the Lord... when they* eat *their holy things: for I the Lord do sanctify them." Le 22:15-16

The stop-gap solution was to have separate dining facilities serving "unblessed" food to the strangers. This "stop-gap" practice was used in place of geographic "separation" - the kind promoted by Thomas Jefferson.[6] "Segregation" of the races was expensive. It required separate hospitals, schools, public facilities, and military units, but it had to be done if God's Law was not to be violated. No one found fault with the solution except for the usual types, and no one paid them any attention.[7]

---

6 Jefferson, zealous supporter of the African Colonization Movement, worked to end slave importation. The movement bought tens of thousands of slaves, freed, and re-settled them back in Africa. This was far more expensive than "radical abolition" which stole slaves without compensating their owners, and freed them to shift for themselves - and compete with local labor.

7 Areas in Pennsylvania, Ohio and elsewhere having almost no minorities objected to the cost of an entirely separate set of facilities for the use of only three or four. Their discussions were ended by the Supreme Court's decision declaring God's Law "unlawful".

Scripture Dealing With Eating

Scriptures dealing with "blessed-food" go into detail. The following is Scripture plus the margin notes made by the Reformation's John Knox and John Calvin contained in their 1599 Geneva Bible:[8]

> "If the priest's daughter be married unto a stranger ("Margin Note: 'Who is not of the priests kindred') she may not eat of the holy offerings," (MN: 'that which Israelites offer to God for his blessing before they eat.') "Not withstanding if the Priest's daughter be divorced, and have no child, but is returned unto her father's house, she shall eat of her father's bread, as she did in her youth: but there shall no stranger (zûwr - racial alien) eat thereof. ... So shall they not defile the holy things of Israel, which they offer unto the Lord." Lev 22:10-15

The Illustrated Davis Dictionary of the Bible, Royal Publishers, PO Box 47, Nashville, TN 37202, p. 348, "Idolatry," amplifies the above:

> "The council of Jerusalem enjoined that they should abstain from the flesh of animals that had been sacrificed to idols (Acts 15:29). Paul gave the same injunction, but explained that in the case of those who had no faith in idols, abstinence was designed to avoid casting a stumbling block in the path of the weaker brethren (1 Cor. 8:4-13). If receiving hospitality at any house, and meat which might possibly have been offered to an idol was set on the table, the Christian guest was not required to ask any questions for conscience' sake; but if he was expressly told that the food had been offered to an idol

8 They assume that the reader knows that Jesus Christ appointed the reader a king and a priest (Rev 1:5-6).

> (ed: an alien religious belief), then he was to abstain. The same rule was to be carried out with regard to food purchased for the household in the ordinary market (1 Cor 10: 18-33)."

The Catholic Church, long ago addressed the question of eating food offered to such idols:

> "In 1205, Innocent ... wrote ... to the Count of Nevers, whom he threatened with excommunication ..."
>
> "It is scandalous that Christians should have their cattle slaughtered and their grapes pressed by Jews, who are thus enabled to take their portion and to impose the leavings, prepared according to Jewish religious precepts, upon Christians. It is a still greater sin that this wine, prepared by Jews, should be used in the church for the sacrament of the Lord's Supper." (Epistoire X, 120, od. Bulu2, II., p. 198 (J/E p687) Inquisition.)

Priests' Chicanery

Christian priests who ask God to "bless food" and "make it holy," food that is to be fed to a "mixed" company of Christians and zûwr-strangers, commit an "unforgivable sin." They know the curse attached to such "blessings," - but bless that which God has cursed, anyway. Often, attempting to evade the punishment attached to the "sin," they sidestep asking God to "Bless this food" (thereby making it holy), they simply "thank God," and ask God to bless the "fellowship" and the "purpose of the dinner meeting" with strangers - all of which still violates the law.[9]

---

9 "For thou didst separate them from all the people of the world to be thine inheritance." 1 Ki 8:51, "Thou shall make no covenant with them ... lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21-24

The priests neglecting to "bless this food" still violates the spirit of the Law and the many scriptures that forbid such things.[10]

Priests who obey Scripture and refuse to bless that which God has cursed are blacked-out by the alien-controlled media. They are relegated to the backwaters of nowhere by the simple expediency of being denied media exposure of any kind. This in turn denies them a whack at incredible riches that attend being allowed to use the media. The word is out: priests who fail to bless food which is given to strangers drive beatup VWs and are forgotten figures. Disobedient priests who ignore the Christian eating ritual win establishment favor, drive Mercedes, and can even be media-promoted into becoming household names.

Food Blessed by Alien Gods

Food blessed by alien gods is considered by many Christians to be the same as food blessed by "devils." Many Christians consider themselves cursed if they eat it. Before 1940 - a Kosher food advertisement was often all that was needed to ensure that Christians would NOT buy or eat the advertised product. Ethnic restaurants serving food blessed by alien gods usually fared poorly. Black restaurants were seldom frequented by White Christians although the quality of the food served was often good. Chinese and Vietnamese restaurants were curiosities similar to "fortune tellers."[11] Few patronized them.

---

10 "Withdraw from among the Gentiles and do not eat with them, and do not according to their actions, and be not their companion, for their actions are unclean and all their ways are defiled." Jubilees 22:17

11 "There shall not be found among you anyone ... who casts a spell." Deut 18:10-11

Having Lunch

"Free trade" with strangers is prohibited by God's Law. "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (Heb: zûer), thou art snared with the words of thy mouth. Pr. 6:1

In Christendom, strangers have developed an effective method of bypassing this prohibition. It's called - "having lunch." The "business lunch" is an important ritual whether or not business agreements are actually consummated. Why? Even among kinsmen there are those a Christian is allowed to eat with and people he is not allowed to eat with. "If any man that is called a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such a one, no, not to eat." 1 Cor 5:11

To eat with a person tells the Christian world that the person you are eating with is innocent of any of the above faults - that YOU have investigated and have given him your "stamp of approval"; otherwise you would not eat with him.

In this context, the "free lunch" that someone buys for you may not be "free." You may look on it as a "bite to eat," but the stranger may advertise it as YOUR "stamp of approval." Long after you have forgotten the incident, he will still be using your name and your "stamp of approval" by talking about the time you "had lunch" with him. That isolated event can become a lever used to pry open other doors.[12]

Eat With Wolves

Wolves who can't eat with sheep cannot receive the Sheep's blessing. Virginia and most other states had ancient 12 There are preachers, politicians, and merchants that you could not afford to be seen eating with.

laws and customs prohibiting White Christians from eating with strangers. These laws were taken to the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court was appointed by a leader who had himself been elected by the wolf-media. This court ruled that God's Law was unlawful and that strangers should eat with White-Christians and receive their blessing. They forced the Commonwealth of Virginia to integrate its eating establishments, and since Virginia's governor, senate and house were also elected by the same wolf- media, no resistance was made to protect Virginians.

The owners of restaurants were confronted with the choice of disobeying an alien god, OR, disobeying their Shepherd. Hundreds and thousands of restaurants closed down. It was an economic disaster. People ruined themselves rather than violate what they considered the WORD of God. America became a land of martyrs.

I remember one restaurant in particular. It was in Charlottesville, across the road from the UVA tennis courts on old Route #29. It was a fine restaurant in a prime location and must have done more than a million dollar business - and that was back then. Its owner closed it down rather than serve Christian food to strangers. I pass by several times a year and see that a different business occupies the premises each time. The blessing is gone.

Summary

The gods of Islamic, Hindu, and Edomite-Jewish peoples do not, and can not obey the Law of the God of Israel. They are not the same any more than the god of the Samaritans, the people who used the same scriptures that the Israelites used, was the same God that the Israelites worshiped.[13]

Rabbis bless food in the Jewish manner to make the food "Kosher" thereby fulfilling their god's requirements.[14] Therefore, food prepared according to the Rabbi's direction is approved by their god. This god is a god that Christendom has traditionally considered an idol. Thus, food blessed by this alien god is regarded as cursed by many Christians and they refuse to eat it.

The Stamp Of Approval

I speak at meetings, churches, and church conferences. Most of these groups have forgotten, or don't care, about the Christian rules dealing with "eating with strangers." It appears that any Turk, Samaritan, mulatto, child of the east, or zûwr stranger having the price of admission, is welcome. Once there, his "attendance" gives the interloper that group's "stamp of approval." Attendees have told me, "If they are there - they must be OK." I have had obvious strangers tell me that they are there to find a wife. Even mixed-race couples are present, and the "Christian" leadership "sees no evil." Their uncontested presence gives them that group's "stamp of approval."

---

13 "The king of Assyria brought men from Babylon ... and placed them in the cities of Samaria instead of the children of Israel ... Then the King of Assyria commanded .... carry thither one of the priests whom ye brought from thence ... and let him teach them the manner of the god of the land ... howbeit ... they fear not the Lord, neither do they after their statutes ... which the Lord commanded the children of ... Israel ... As did their fathers so do they unto this day." II Ki 17:24- 41

14 Kosher: The Compact Edition Of The Oxford English Dictionary, ".... food prepared according to Jewish law."

The End Result

"It is not good to take the children's bread and cast it to dogs." Matt 15:24

The individual is not permitted to eat with strangers. Neither is the nation itself permitted to eat with strangers. The nation who asks the God of Israel to bless its food and then, while its own people hunger, gives the "holy food" to zûwr-nations who hate the God of Israel, will reap the consequence.

To live in a land ruled by the anti-Christ one must obey or die.[15] Still, God's punishment will come with the disobedience regardless of whose fault it is.

"It is not meet (good) to take the children's bread, and to cast it to dogs." Matt 15:24. "Let the children first be filled: for it is not meet to take the children's bread, and cast it unto the dogs." Mark 7:27

Today, the Saxon eats with those who hate him. He feeds those who hate him. He feeds them with holy God-blessed food. Strangers are filled before the children.

Once the Saxon emerges from Egypt and has what is needed to survive, only then is he to comply with the rest of the command:

"It is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it to dogs ... yet the dogs eat of the crumbs." Matt 15:26-27

Until then: those who eat with strangers, eat food that has been offered to God to be blessed, bring God's curse on the land.

---

15 "In case anyone of their own blood should attempt to confound or dissolve their constitution (laws), they should take vengeance on them, both all in general, and each person in particular ... if they were not able to take such vengeance, they should still demonstrate that what was done was contrary to their wills." Antiquities 4:8:45

LETTER FROM S. AFRICA

Dear Mr. Hoskins; There are 26 organizations to the left of the Conservative Party who want to take part in the 1999 election and hold talks with Mbeki the new black president who replaced Mandela. They forget that before the 1994 election, Mbeki told an American publication that he will talk to the right as long as he can further his aims by doing so.

We feel it is part of the master plan to denude SA of all able whites. It is much easier to bribe another black dictator as is done in the rest of Africa.

The constant media talk about Afrikaner cruelties related before the Tutu commission has done its work causing racial tension and hatred in schools. We look on as royalty and heads of government troop in laden with gifts to pay homage to a savage and wonder who encouraged them to be so stupid?

The Dutch Reform Church members decisively rejected the Belhar confession. A full 80% of the white members voted against it. The church leaders were all for it. Someone asked the question how it is possible for the DRC to have two Jewish church moderators in one generation, namely Dr. William Nicol and Johan Heynes. Johan Heynes was shot by an unknown assassin while eating supper last week.

Piet Pretorius, the author of Betrayed, lost his appeal in the case brought to court by the Conservative Party. But still found a way to distribute his book.

With our best wishes. K.J.

RKH: The book Betrayed, written by an insider, disclosed that practically ALL members of the white government that turned S. Africa over to the blacks were involved in the treason in some way or other.

LETTERS

10'S & 100'S: Richard: "The Christian people have a definite format for their government. The format is very simple: 1, 10, 50, 100, 1000, 10,000, etc.

"The base of our government is a man. The man is the ruler of the basic unit, the family. The man is to provide all the physical, emotional, and spiritual needs of the family. The man administers justice within the family unit according to the laws, statutes, and judgments as defined in the scriptures. The man is responsible to his wife (or wives), children, servants, elders, and anyone else who submits to the unit.

"The 10 men unite to form a tenship. These men select a spokesman for the group. This man administers to, for,or with the group. This man is chosen for his scriptural knowledge and wisdom from life experiences to keep the tenship in order. All the men must agree on the selection of the spokesman; because he administers the judgments for the tenship.

"As the government builds, 5 spokesmen from 5 tenships meet and select 1 spokesman for the 50; then 2 spokesmen from 2 of these groups of 50 meet and select 1 spokesman for the 100; 10 spokesmen from 10 groups of 100 meet and select 1 spokesman for the 1000; 10 spokesman from the groups of 1000 meet and select 1 spokesman for the 10,000.

"The descendants of Adam rule from the bottom up, never from the top down. The government, military, and judicial system are all administered in this manner." J.J. - Kansas RKH: Tens and hundreds is also the system used by the angels in heaven.

==========

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 285

A STATE RELIGION

Tyrants attempt to pre-empt God's WORD by using their own state religion and priests to bless their acts. Servants of the WORD who continue to oppose them are simply exterminated. Kings employ these two techniques with distressing regularity.

Hyrcanus (134-104 B.C.)

Following the Maccabean Wars, Judea was ruled by the WORD. The ruling party was that of the Pharisees who were strict in their beliefs. Under their rule Judea prospered. All this was un-done by Hyrcanus.

Hyrcanus' great-grandfather was Mattathias who started the revolt against the Greek-Syrians in protest against their blasphemy to the WORD. Against impossible odds, the children of Israel won. Hyrcanus, as grandson of the legendary Mattathias, was looked upon as the nation's leader. Then, almost by default, he became its king.[1] He was also high priest - meaning that he spoke for God.[2] This made him the most powerful man in all Judea.

Like all kings, Hyrcanus was desperate for money. The land of the cursed Idumeans lay to the south of Judea. The spice route traversed this land. To get the job of protecting the route, and a handsome cut of the profits that went with protecting the route, Hyrcanus invaded and annexed Idumea. The income would allow him to build up his army for future conquests which he had in mind.

But there was a major problem that had to be overcome - the Idumeans. Hyrcanus was an Israelite Pharisee, the fundamentalists of the day. They believed that if the WORD said it - do it. And on the subject of Idumeans the WORD was clear:

> "(Strangers) shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21,24

The problem with driving the Idumeans out is that they knew how the silk route worked. In essence, if there were no longer Idumeans, there would be no silk route. And if there were no silk route there would be no money from it. The big

---

1 "This will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you: He will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen; and some shall run before his chariots.... And he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants. And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give to his officers, and to his servants. ... He shall take the tenth of your sheep: and ye shall be his servants. And ye shall cry out in the day because of your king which ye shall have chosen you; and the Lord will not hear you in that day." I Sam 8:11-18

2 "Moses commanded the Levites ... saying, Take this ... law and put it in the side of the ark ... that it may be there for a witness against thee. For I know thy rebellion ... behold, while I am yet alive ... ye have been rebellious against the Lord; and how much more after my death? ... For I know that after my death ye will ... turn aside from the way which I have commanded you." Deut 31: 24-29 problem was that the dyed-in-th-wool pharisees would never allow Idumeans to live in their land. This was Hyrcanus' solution to the problem:

> "Hyrcanus ... subdued all the Idumeans; and permitted them to stay in that country, if they would circumcise their genitals, and make use of the laws of the Jews; and ... they submitted to the use of circumcision and the rest of the Jewish ways of living; at which time ... they were hereafter no other than Jews." Antiquities 13:9:1[3]

Hyrcanus was able to incorporate the cursed Idumeans into the Israelite nation of Judea because he was high priest and spoke for God. Also, he had an army to back his decrees (kings must have armies to enforce their statutes). Hyrcanus then left the Pharisee party that was causing him trouble and joined the religious-economic party of the Sadducees. He then made them a state religion with himself as its head. In this way his own appointed Sadducee priests could bless that which God cursed. Sadduceeism was an episcopal religion - from the top down - just like the ones we have today. The Pharisees fumed, but were helpless since there was no one to remove the tyrant.

Hyrcanus then proceeded to conquer surrounding countries, greatly increasing the prestige and wealth of Judea. He also brought in alien peoples and their gods into the Israelite nation of Judea. This disobedience removed the WORD's

---

3 FOOTNOTE on Antiquities 13:19:1: "This, in the opinion of Josephus, made them proselytes of justice, or entire Jews. ... Ammonius, a grammarian, says: - "The Jews are such by nature, and from the beginning, whilst the Idumeans were not Jews from the beginning, but Phoenicians and Syrians; but being afterwards subdued by the Jews and compelled to be circumcised and to unite into one nation, and be subject to the same laws, they were called Jews." Dio also says: - "That country is also called Judea, and the people Jews; and this name is given also to as many as embrace their religion, though of other nations."

protection and triggered God's curse[4] that was fulfilled in 87 A.D. when Jerusalem was crushed by the Roman army, and the various peoples trapped inside were led away as slaves.

Rome

Rome was an empire. It had conquered many nations and their gods and had built temples for each of them in Rome. Since each god has its own laws, their laws often clashed one with another. The one who refereed the gods' disputes was the Roman emperor. Since the one who judges is greater than those he judges, it was only a question of time before the Roman emperor was logically declared to be a god himself and his statue was placed in every temple along with the gods he judged.

Since, as a practical matter, it was the edicts and statutes of the Roman Emperor that must be obeyed rather than the WORD, the priests in Judea entrusted with proclaiming the WORD dwelled instead on inconsequential matters. The people, left with no leadership and ignorant of what God required, ran wild. In time, the WORD was all but forgotten.

Jesus Christ - Revolutionary

Into this quagmire came Jesus the Christ. He was a teacher. He brought back the WORD. Not just the 1/3 dealing with personal salvation, but the 2/3rds dealing with government.

The WORD in its entirety caused consternation among the people, their religious rulers, their temporal rulers, and their Roman rulers. What the WORD demanded was diametrically opposed to almost everything that was going on. It was sure to bring down the wrath of the Roman authorities. If this were to happen the religious leaders would lose their positions.

4 "Thou has forsaken thy people ... because ... they please themselves in the children of strangers." Isiah 2:6.

Their solution to the problem was to kill Jesus, which they did, but that did not really solve their problem.

The WORD Spreads

Jerusalem was destroyed, but the WORD rippled out to the children of Israel living in Greece, Rome, and the rest of the known world.[5] There it found root and flourished.[6] Christians, in spite of horrible persecutions, obeyed the WORD. This impacted trade with strangers in Rome and outside,[7] condemned slavery on which the Roman Empire rested,[8] and taxes which paid the armies and the legions of government employees.[9] The effect on the Roman economy was serious.

The Roman solution was the same solution that Hyrcanus used. Rome's emperor was Constantine - the one who murdered his wife and oldest son. He pre-empted the thriving Christian movement by taking it over. He made it the official religion of the Roman Empire - with himself its de-facto head.

---

5 "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." Mark 16:15-16. To keep from creating an oxymoron, this command must be qualified by, "And go, get thee to them of the captivity, unto the children of thy people, and speak unto them, tell them, Thus saith the Lord God." Ez 3:11; "Oh children of Israel ... You only have I known of all families of the earth." Amos 3:1; "These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying ... go ... to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 10:5-6; "I was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 15:24;

6 The wild olive grafted in is the House of Israel that went into captivity in 721 B.C.

7 "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (2114), thou art snared with the words of thy mouth." Pr. 6:1; "They shall not dwell in thy land; and thou shall drive them out before thee." Ex 23:31

8 "If a man be found stealing any of his brethren of the children of Israel, and maketh merchandise of him, or selleth him; then that thief shall die." Deut 24:7

9 "Of whom do the kings of the earth take custom or tribute? of their own children, or of strangers? Peter saith unto him, Of strangers. Jesus saith unto him, Then are the children free." Matt 17:25-17

He proceeded to confirm old leaders and to appoint new ones to the various Christian churches. His appointees were then instructed to use only the scriptures selected by the Roman Church, and which were acceptable to the Roman Empire. This was the Roman "canon".

The Bible

The Canon was not finally approved until 367 A.D. The tentative final product included a number of "old Testament" scrolls to which was attached the 4 gospels - one each from the four major Christian centers of the day. Paul was added to please the Marcians, as were a smattering of other books which were the most popular in that day.

Christianity had never had a canon of books judged "acceptable" by a state before. In earlier days, the WORD was in the great mass of Israelite religious writings.[10] The parts of this new Roman "canon" quickly understood and accepted[11] by the Greeks, Romans, French, Spaniards and North Africans descended from the refugees of the 721 B.C. Diaspora were parts such as:

> "Oh children of Israel ... You only have I known of all families of the earth." Amos 3:1
>
> ""It is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it to dogs." Math 15:24,26
>
> "I was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 15:24 N.E.B.

10 "Now will I point out a mystery: Many sinners shall ... speak evil things; they shall utter falsehood ... and compose books in their own words. But when they shall write all my words correctly in their own languages, They shall neither change nor diminish them; but shall write them all correctly." I Enoch 104:7-9

11 "My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me." John 10:27

"For thou art not sent ... but to the house of Israel." EZ 3:5

"He showed his word unto Jacob, his statutes and his judgments unto Israel. He hath not dealt so with any nation: and as for his judgments, they have not known them." Ps 147:19- 20

Separatist quotes such as these were sure to cause no end of controversy. Skillful state priests, then as now, were able to hide many of them behind lies and deception, but, what do you do with even more forceful quotes from some other books used by Jesus?

"If there is any man in Israel who desires to give his daughter or his sister to ... the Gentiles, he shall surely die ... for Israel is holy to the lord ... And to this law there is no limit of days and no ceasing and no forgiveness ... And thou, Moses, command the children of israel ... that they shall not give any of their daughters to the Gentiles and that they shall not take any of the daughters of the Gentiles; for ... it is disgraceful to Israel ... for it is unclean and accursed to Israel; ... for there will be plagues upon plagues, curse upon curse, and all punishment and plagues and curses will come .. and if they blind their eyes to those that commit uncleanness ... then shalt the whole people together be punished." Jubilees 30:6-13

Quotes such as the above can't be easily explained to a group of Roman Hindu-Christians who are expected to accept Jesus as one of their gods. The best thing to do was to somehow get rid of the book. It contained hate material considered seditious by the Roman state. After all, Rome was an empire. Empires integrate divergent peoples - not drive them away. That's what they do. Nations separate their people from other peoples - that's why they are a nation. Rome, the integrationist trade empire was attempting to do something very difficult - they were adapting a separationist religion to an integrationist state as its sole official state religion. Jubilees, the book containing the above quote, obviously could not be included in a state canon, even though Jesus had quoted from it time after time. There were other quotes from other books almost as bad. Those, too, were passed over.

This left out Jasher, Jubilees, Enoch I & II and Adam & Eve I & II. Many "overlooked" books which also contained the WORD faded from the memory of man when the Roman authorities found that the WORD was continuing to cause more problems than they could handle. Their solution? Ban people from reading ANY of the Scriptures - canon or not. You can do that when you have an episcopacy. For this reason a great mass of literature was pushed into the outer darkness and, in time, was forgotten. Following is a partial list of books mentioned in the Bible and by early Christian writers which were once widely studied, but now have become extant largely because of the Roman ban.

Books No Longer In Existance

- * The Acts of Andrew
  * Andrew
  * Appelles
  * Twelve Apostles
  * Barnabas
  * Writings of Bartholowmew
  * Bartholowmew
  * Gospel of Basilides
  * Gospel of Cerinthus
  * Revelation of Cerinthus
  * Epistle of Christ
  * Christ
  * An Epistle of Christ
  * Hymn
  * Gospel of the Egyptians
  * Acts of the Apostles
  * Ebionites
  * Encratites
  * Gospel of Eve
  * Gospel of the He brews
  * Book of Helkesaites
  * The false Gospels of Hesychius
  * Book of James
  * Acts of John
  * John
  * Jude
  * Gospel of Judas Is cariot
  * Apostles by Leucius
  * Acts of the Apostles by Lentitus
  * Books of Lentitius
  * Acts under Apostles name by Leontius

* Acts of the Apostles by Leuthon
* False gospels by Lucianus
* Acts of Apostles by Manichees
* Gospel of Marcion
* Gospel of Matthias
* Traditions of Matthias
* Matthias
* Acts of Paul & Thecla
* Acts of Paul
* Preaching of Paul and Peter
* Book of Paul
*Preaching Paul and Peter
* Book of Paul
* Revelation of Paul
* Acts of Peter
* Doctrine of Peter
* Gospel of Peter
* Preaching of Peter
* Revelation of Peter
* Books of Peter
* Acts of Philip
* Gospel of Philip
* Gospel of Scythianus
* Acts of the Apostles by Seleucus
* Revelation of Stephen
* Gospel of Titan
* Gospel of Thad daeus
* Catholic Epistle of Themison the Montanist
* Acts of Thomas
* Gospel of Thomas
* Books of Thomas
* Gospel of Truth
* Gospel of Valentinus[12]

Ritual Substitutes For The WORD

Where the WORD is taught it is sufficient to sit in open fields or deep forest even in the rain and snow. The spiritual food is filling enough to keep listeners warm and glued to their seats.

This is not so with episcopal religions. Episcopal religions are made episcopal to enable those at the top to censor the parts of the WORD that would set those at the bottom free. Episcopal priests are allowed to teach only the things which bless their superiors. Their listeners can only act on what they know. They only know what they hear. The parts of the WORD dangerous to tyrant's rule are censored at the top so that the people never hear them. This is why episcopacies were created in the first place. This also reduces the WORD to milk. People tire of milk. Episcopacies must substitute great stone or glass cathedrals replete with extravagant ritual and music to try to compete with the simple message of the WORD. The episcopacies' need for ritual is the same the world over whether Christian or Hindu. Always, the need is the same:

12 Lost Books Of The Bible, p.287, Virginia Pub. Co., POB 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $15.

Hindu-Christian Episcopal Rites

* processions
* parading relics and symbols
* body parts for relics
* incense
* shaven heads
* celibate priests
* pointed hats
* works for merit
* robes
* idols
* rosaries
* integration
* tax exemption
* monasteries & convents
* missionaries
* holy water
* male & female priests
* saints
* auricular confession
* pilgrimages

Albigenses And Waldenses

In the 12th century in southern Europe lived the Waldenses and Albigenses. They heard and eagerly accepted the WORD. They formed communities off to themselves protected by nobles and knights who had been converted.

When their taxes and tithes ceased to arrive in Rome, the pope sent priests to bring this new theology back to orthodoxy. When this effort failed, the pope sent an army to exterminate them before their beliefs could spread elsewhere. The Albegensions and Waldenses died by the tens of thousands. Their epitaph was pronounced by the conquering general when asked whom he wished to have killed; "Kill them all and let God sort them out."

When the WORD rules, the people are free. To regain control, tyrants hire false priests to try to pre-empt and neutralize God's rule. If this fails - the seeker of the WORD is hunted down and exterminated to avoid contaminating the whole.

Wycliffe's Bible

Every time the WORD reaches the Saxon, there is a reaction.

In the 14th century the King of England was engaged in a dispute with the Vatican over money. A Roman Catholic priest named Wycliffe supported the claims of the English king. In return for this theological support the English king protected Wycliffe from the Catholic Church while Wycliffe put the Scriptures into the hands of "poor preachers" who took the WORD all over England.

Without fanfare, Saxons learned the WORD - including the law forbidding taxation. One day Archbishop Sudbury added a tax of three goats to the already heavy tax load of the people. Instantly, all England rebelled. Forty thousand armed men, in their manorial militias, marched on London. On their way they hanged tyrannical judges, lawyers, and priests. This took place in an age when the king's army seldom numbered much over 10,000. The rebel's leader's name was Tyler; his theological advisor was a former Catholic priest named Ball. They met with the king and his representatives and demanded relief from taxes. They also demanded that the land be divided. If the land was divided making every man a king and a priest, what need was there for either a King to rule England or for a Pope to rule the king?

Faced with the prospect of losing his job, the king of England struck back in a dastardly manner. Under a flag of truce he had Tyler murdered. Tyler's army forgot that they themselves had been appointed kings and priests, it was their job to take over and rule. Instead, they dissolved into a rabble. As a result the soldiers of the king had no trouble hunting them down singly and in small groups and hanging them by the thousands.

Huss (1372-1415)

On the continent, a priest named Huss learned from the teachings of Wycliffe what the Bible said and demanded freedom for himself and his people. Huss attended a peace conference. While there he was seized and burned at the stake. His followers reacted with a series of revolts that devastated central Europe before they were finally hunted down and exterminated.

When the people are ruled by the WORD - they are free. If they will not accept a new god from the establishment - the establishment exterminates them.

Luther's Bible

Martin Luther was a Catholic priest who wished to reform the Catholic Church. The Catholic Church was organized as an episcopacy to support the policy of its leader. It was not designed to be reformed. Luther's reforms challenged its rule. The Vatican came down hard on Luther. Luther received protection from local kings who had long coveted Catholic Church lands.

Under their protection he translated the Bible into German. The people read the WORD and promptly proceeded to put it into effect.

The Peasants Revolt of 1525-26

The peasants seized church lands and divided them, and took many other privileges allowed by the WORD but forbidden by the Catholic Church. Many disillusioned nobles, knights, and even church clerics joined the movement.

The local kings were stunned. They had offered their help and protection to Luther on condition that THEY were to get church's lands. And now, the people had taken it instead. The kings had nothing to gain, so they backed off. In effect, they were throwing Luther to the tender mercies of an enraged Catholic Church.

Luther now had no one to protect him. To regain the protection of the local "protestant" rulers, Luther abandoned the peasants and wrote a treatise "Against the Lying Thieving Peasants" in which he lambasted them for their seizure of Church lands for themselves and for other excesses that had occurred. The Protestant kings and nobles, waving Luther's treatise in their hands as if it were a hunting license, slaughtered the peasants by the thousands. This ended the German reformation. The Protestant and Catholic nobles fought long and hard over who was to get the land and taxing rights, and left Germany a vast smoking cemetery. When it was over things were as they had been before. The system remained, but in places just under different management.

Huguenots

One quarter of France had turned Protestant. Trade within the Catholic party declined by approximately the percent that was Protestant. The friction between the two groups was calmed by the approaching marriage of the Catholic king's sister and the leader of the Protestants. All efforts were made to soften and gloss over past disagreements. On August 24, 1574, St. Bartholomew's Day, the order was issued for Catholics to kill the Protestants. The Protestants were caught completely unprepared. Fifty thousand men, women and children were killed in Paris alone. The totals reached into the hundreds of thousands. Protestant France ceased to exist and the old trade monopolies were restored. The Catholic Church struck a metal commemorating the event.[13]

Calvin's & Knox's Bible

John Calvin lived in Geneva, Switzerland. He wasn't dependent on a king nor a church for protection. The people of Geneva had asked him to live in their midst and they protected him. Geneva attracted other persecuted Christians from all over Europe. Together they produced the Geneva Bible that took the WORD to Britain.

Calvin was one of the most prolific writers of his day and probably the most influential reformer. He was hated by the world's episcopacies because of comments such as the following:

> "Obedience to man must not become disobedience to God"

---

13 Of the Huguenots who survived, many refugeed to Germany, South Africa, England and America.

"How absurd would it be that in satisfying men you should incur the displeasure of him for whose sake you obey men themselves! The Lord, therefore, is the King of Kings, who, when he has opened his sacred mouth, must alone be heard, before all and above all men; next to him we are subject to those men who are in authority over us, but only in him. If they command anything against him, let it go un-esteemed. ... I know with what great and present peril this constancy is menaced, because kings bear defiance with the greatest displeasure, whose "wrath is a messenger of death" (Prov 16:14), says Solomon. but since this edict has been proclaimed by the heavenly herald, Peter - "We must obey God rather than men" (Acts 5:29) - let us comfort ourselves with the thought that we are rendering that obedience which the Lord requires when we suffer anything rather than turn aside from piety. And that our courage may not grow faint, Paul pricks at us with another goad: That we have been redeemed by Christ at so great a price as our redemption cost him, so that we should not enslave ourselves to the wicked desires of men - much less be subject to their impiety (I Cor. 7:23). GOD BE PRAISED.[14]

Britain

The WORD reached Britain and re-ignited the Wycliffe movement. John Knox with his Covenanters, backed by the Scottish nobles, challenged the King. The Puritans of England, backed by many of their own nobles, did the same. The king was defeated and plans were being made to implement radical changes along Biblical lines.

14 "Institutes of the Christian Religion", The Westminster Press, Philadelphia. 1960 (Dedicated to Francis I (reigned 1515-1547) Valios king of France. Book 4: Chapter 20: Paragraph 32:

Oliver Cromwell, general of the puritan armies, was ordered to disband his army. He refused and, backed by his army, disbanded Parliament instead. He put his followers on lands formerly held by the king's followers. After he died, a new king confirmed this new land arrangement in exchange for their support. Then began the reign of terror where every Covenanter and Puritan was brought before magistrates and either executed, imprisoned, banished to the colonies, fined, or suffered some sort of indignity. The throne, trade, and the episcopal protestant religion were safe. "Long live the king!"

Ireland 1641

Ireland was given by the Papacy to the king of England. England changed from episcopal Catholic to episcopal Protestant. The people of Ireland remained Catholic and the people of Scotland remained Presbyterian. Absentee Anglican- episcopal English landowners owned both Scotland and Ireland. The English landowners found that sheep's wool was more profitable than Scottish tenants so they drove the Scots from their farms to the cities and replaced them with sheep. The Irish Catholics revolted against Protestant-episcopal England and the English drove the Irish Catholics from their English owned farms in the north and replaced them with the landless Scottish farmers living in hovels in the Scottish cities.

Presbyterian Scots and episcopal Catholics in northern Ireland lived near each other on more or less friendly terms. These Scotch-Irish paid their land rents to England and their tithe to their own. The episcopal-Catholics also paid their land rents to England - their tithes went to the Catholic Church. One morning in 1641 the Catholics were ordered to kill their protestant neighbors - and they did. In a very short time half a million were dead - men, women and children. England sent troops to both northern and southern Ireland to protect her investment. When persuasion and mission work does not secure their objectives - episcopacies, ALL episcopacies - use force - over and over and over.

Removing The Apocrypha

The WORD which is God, created man in the beginning. It is by the WORD that man is saved. The Holy Scriptures contain the WORD that teaches man. To oppress man, man must first be removed from those parts of the WORD that reveal to him his rights and instructs him to fight for them if necessary.

Since the advent of Christ, "the word made flesh, the war against his teachings has followed this course: * The WORD was first censored when existing Christian congregations were pre-empted by a state church which had the empire ruler as its head; * Certain of the Holy Scriptures were pronounced "inspired". The rest were banished; * The reading of even the "inspired" scriptures was banned; * Sanitized prayer books were issued to replace the Scriptures; and * Government subsidized Bibles were issued to replace Bibles containing the reformers margin notes. * To prepare the way for today's "universal free trade", the most nationalistic section of the Bible, the Apocrypha, was removed. In this manner, access to the WORD that is to set us free, has been restricted by its enemies.

Suppressing The Geneva Brood Lands

Each independent untaxed farm is a free universe in its self - a place where likemided Christians can meet and study, a place looked on as a breeding ground of sedition against the episcopacies' establishment. Following is Karl Marx's observation:

> "Next, Karl Marx. The Protocols say, 'The aristocracy of the peoples, as a political force, is dead ... but as landed proprietors they can still be harmful to us from the fact that they are self-sufficing in the resources upon which they live. It is essential therefore for us at whatever cost to deprive them of their land ... At the same time we must intensively patronize trade and industry ... what we want is that industry should drain off from the land both labor and capital and by means of speculation transfer into our hands all the money of the world ...'
>
> "Karl Marx in his Communist Manifesto exactly followed this formula. True he declared that Communism might be summed up in one sentence, 'abolition of private property', but subsequently he qualified this dictum by restricting actual confiscation to land and implying that other types of private property were to remain intact. (In the later Marxist event, of course, all private property was confiscated, but I speak here of the strict parallel between the strategy laid down before the event alike by the Protocols and Marx)." [15]

Not only did the independent farm come under threat, but every place that could act as a refuge - like the city-state of Geneva - the place where men like John Calvin could seek refuge and where a thousand more like him were trained.

---

15 The Controversy of Zion by Douglas Read, Noontide Press, Newport Beach, CA, 1985. p. 219

Places like this must be methodically and savagely destroyed. This is a main reason that the American South, the Boer lands of S. Africa, and NS Germany were destroyed. It is why the Apocrypha was removed from the Bible with little more comment by the clerics than is given to today's football game.

Replacing The Sheep

Humans are blind to the fact that without man to provide food for them - they don't eat. The curse placed on them in the beginning remains.[16] All that the world's episcopacies can see is that man is, and has always been, the obstacle to their ever-building Tower of Bable - their new world order. Wearing blinders of hate - they stupidly pursue their plan. Their Balak Plan is ancient and it is simple - remove man through intermarriage and you remove man who is the obstacle.[17]

To accomplish this they have opened the floodgates to strangers from all over the world to pour into Saxon lands. The ancient objective is the extinction of Saxon-man through racial intermarriage.

Seminaries

Saxons have been taught that they should have "educated" preachers, preferably ones with degrees from theological seminaries.

Theological seminaries have received a great deal of attention from the establishment in recent years. Establishment businesses and corporations grant them substantial sums to help them build and endow their work. All that is asked is for them to be permitted to appoint the occupants of one or more chairs that they endow. Those that occupy these chairs often do not teach Biblical law. Thus, in Christian seminaries, we have strangers, who follow a different god, teaching the WORD to Saxon-man. What is actually taught is Biblical-Law plus Dharma.[18] The result is that most seminary graduates march from their alma-maters in lock-step with glazed eyes to do the work of their teacher's god. A great lethargy has settled over Saxon-dom as the WORD is smothered in the stranger's Dharma-love.

16 "When thou tillest the ground it shall not henseforth yield unto thee her strength. A fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be." Gen 4:12.

17 The Balak Plan, write VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505. Include SAE for free copy.

Judeo-Christian

To replace the void left as mainstream Christianty goes Christian-Hindu, a new religion has been created. Certain preachers are permitted to collect the riches of the media in exchange for suppressing God's Laws, statutes and judgments which is man's God. Replacing them are rituals, parables, music, and tradition. But Law and the punishment for violating God's Law are excluded. The result has been fantastically successful. Judeo- Christianity was non-existent in 1930 and has now grown to take its place along with the other existing Christian- Hindu religions.

---

18 Hindu: "Dharma" - non-violence, obedience, tolerance of other peoples and their gods without regard to "race, creed, or nationality." Buddhist technique of pacifying divergent populations to expedite trade. "Dharmitized - to be subdued by Dharma. "Dharmamatra" - government enforcer of Dharma.

Government Regulation Of Churches

When the International Trade Cartel (ITC) was first making inroads into the West - money was freely lavished on cooperating priests. Now that there are so many priests willing to abandon the WORD of the King of Kings, in exchange for the tax-exemption of the king, they can afford to be more demanding. Dharma is now defined by decree. To keep from paying taxes churches must now comply with a lengthy check list:

Churches must:

- 1) be incorporated.
- 2) Admit existence granted by IRS instead of God
- 3) Have a recognized creed and IRS approved form of worship.
- 4) Have a definite and dis tinct ecclesiastical gov ernment - an hierachical government.
- 5) Have IRS approved " formal code of doctrine and discipline".
- 6) Be a denomination with a distinct religious history.
- 7) Must be an "organization".
- 8) Have ordained ministers.
- 9) Have "prescribed courses of study".
- 10) "Have established places of worship".
- 11) Pay a tax to the IRS for tax-exempt status.
- 12) Be engaged in activities furthering "exclusively public purposes".
- 13) The church must answer to the IRS as to its "daily activities".
- 14) The IRS must be privy to all financial transactions including sources, donors of $100 or more and expenditures.
- 15) The church may not use cash or it will be suspected of money laundering. Books and records available to the IRS at all times.
- 16) The church must inform the IRS of the names of all employees.
- 17) Names of charity recipients.
- 18) Fill in form 1099 for gifts over $600 to evangelists & missionaries.
- 19) May use only IRS approved methods of fundraising.
- 20) May not preach against tax system or against practices of IRS.
- 21) Pastor must give unlimited submission to all laws including "Public Policy".

- 22) Must advocate, promote, and actively encourage race mixing if church has an educational ministry.
- 23) Pastor cannot influence legislation concerning licensing of church ministries.
- 24) May not engage in political activities opposing pornography.
- 25) May not support legislation saying that children belong to parents not the state.
- 26) May not actively oppose lotteries or gambling laws.
- 27) Can not advocate support of the US or state constitutions as the supreme law of the land. (Public policy takes precedence.)
- 28) May not actively participate in opposing the public school system.
- 29) May not publicly declare that the church is to obey God rather than the government.
- 30) The pastor cannot oppose laws legalizing sodomy.[19]

A booklet containing the 30 demands and documents is available for a gift of $5.00 from: Indianapolis Baptist Temple, 2711 S. East Street, Indianapolis, Indiana., 1-317-783-6753.

Tax-Exemption Result On Organized Religion

The state makes tax-exempt only those things of which they approve. In Lynchburg, Virginia, all churches preached and practiced racial separation. They always had. Within a week of the Supreme Court announcing that they had outlawed God's Law requiring racial separation - every church in town received a new revelation from god, and except for a few, one by one they announced the end of the 350 year old Christian policy of racial separation. It took them just one week! By their actions these ministers revealed that whoever can make and enforce the rules is their god.

19 This booklet uses IRS Publication 1828, Tax Guide For Churches and Other Religious Organizations, Draft July 26, 1994, IRS Code publications concerning 501(c)(3) Not-For-Profit Religious Organizations.

When one speaks to tax-exempt preachers regarding Scriptural topics, one can't help but note their evasiveness. Their conversation will follow almost exactly the government guidelines listed above. They will not chance saying anything that might cost them their precious tax-exemption. These priests do what they are told to do to keep their retainers. The IRS tells them to support the policy of the king and teach "Dharma-tolerance" to their congregations - and they do. They are required to do this to the exclusion of everything the WORD has taught to the contrary for 5,000 years, and which their ancestors have believed and taught with all their hearts and minds in this country since the early 1600s.

Subjects Censored

Revolts by those who acknowledge the WORD as God are either defused by false priests or they are hunted down and exterminated. In this generation there has been little reason to hunt down Christian zealots and exterminate them - they offer the establishment no problem. They have succumbed to the words of false priests.

The so-called "Identity Movement" is held up as the next source of reformed Christianity. Doubtless there are teachers within the movement who hold true to the WORD as proclaimed by Jesus Christ, but it has been my experience that four out of five of them are nothing more than propagandized Dharmatized mainline automatons who also claim descent from the patriarchs just as every European royal family does.

Following is a check list. We know that 33% of the Bible deals with personal improvement. Teaching personal improvement is entirely acceptable to the establishment. We also know that 67% of the Bible deals with government - and this is the part that the establishment intends to suppress.

As a test; when is the last time your minister gave a sermon on the following subjects?:

* personal salvation 32% vs Godly government 68%
* historical Biblical censorship
* Sabbath blue laws
* jury trial by strangers
* prison slavery
* monopoly
* prohibited taxes
* Israel's God - the WORD
* God's disapproving of kings
* strangers approaching the tabernacle
* strangers approaching the altar
* strangers in the land
* stranger's and their lawlessness
* interracial marriage
* eating w/strangers
* division of land
* anti-Christ priests & seminaries
* militia vs standing army
* gun ownership
* usury
* 10s, 100s
* self-sufficient farm system
* reparations abolition vs radical abolition

If you have a preacher who will not preach on these subjects - you have a state priest who is operating under another flag.

"In the last days ... men shall be ... Traitors ... more than lovers of God; Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof." 2 Tim 3:1-5

Conclusion

The establishment has given us false priests to mislead us. If they fail, history says that they will then try to give us the sword.

Their false priests have hidden the WORD from us while the establishment has aborted a generation of our children, and corrupted a large part of another generation. They have kidnaped hundreds of thousands and hold prisoners in jails to be hired out to any who will pay the king slave wages for their labor. They allow strangers to pour into our land and plot to use them to destroy us through intermarriage according to their ancient Balak Plan.

To keep us quiet they have given us the best preachers that money can buy. Their IRS has instructed these priests what to preach and what not to preach. These priests are expected to pre-empt the Christian WORD with the IRS approved state religion - a religion that teaches that we must love everyone without regard to race, creed or national origin. What is the result? Christians are leaving the mainstream churches in droves.

What is the difference between what they teach and the WORD brought by Jesus?

> "The people were astonished at his doctrine: For he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes." Matt 7:28-29

God's people miss the WORD - the WHOLE WORD. Not only the part that deals with the individual, but the part that teaches the kind of government we are to have. We must know this so that, "Thy will be done on EARTH as it is in heaven." How else can this come about?

"I will send My Word and save thee and thy seed." Adam & Eve 12:6

Who will take God's WORD to his people so they might be saved? The dropout priests approved by the IRS? No, indeed. Our Lord Jesus Christ prepared a priesthood for this day millennia ago;

"Jesus Christ... hath made us kings & priests unto God and his Father." Rev. 1:5-6

There you have it, reader. It's YOU. Their attempt to "pre-empt" God's WORD has failed. Soon it will be time for them to try their rough stuff. But, it's too late. We've read the instruction manual and we can handle that, too.

So, with no king other than our King Jesus to protect us, we do what our God put us here on this earth to do. It is time for us to get off our duffs and be about the Lord's work.[20] We have a world to win, a people to save, and the WORD to give to all who will receive it.

Back to Table of Contents

20 The next time your preacher violates God's Law, don't just sit quietly - call him on it - even if you have to do it before the entire assembly. A man cannot serve God and mammon. You have been appointed a king and a priest by Jesus Christ and you have your commission.

Chapter 286

THE NAPHIDEM STRANGER Part I

Sons Of God

Without supporting information, the following verse makes little sense to most:

> "And it came to pass, when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them, That the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and they took them wives of all which they chose ... and they bare children to them." Gen 6:1-4

There are books available which make clear the meaning of this and other verses like it. It isn't until one actually studies some of these books well known at the time of Jesus, and some which were actually used by him, that the answer becomes clear - and the answer is very important. It colors every thing that follows, and is certainly the reason that the Roman empire censored what men read.

Let's fill the missing gaps with information from books from Jesus' time such as I & II Enoch, Jubilees, I & II Adam and Eve, Jasher, and Josephus.

Adam Disobeyed

Adam and Eve were spirits made in the image of God the Word. They listened to the Serpent and were banished from the Garden of Eden. Most people speculating on the location of the Garden of Eden look in the wrong place.[1] The Garden of Eden is a heavenly place, a spiritual garden, made for a spiritual Man, a spiritual condition to which he will return in three score and ten years. Man's first and natural condition is spirit. On earth, God clothed their spirits with earthy bodies which had earthly needs such as food and water.[2] Earthly bodies wear out - Adam and Eve also needed children to replace themselves if Adam-Man was to remain on earth and not die out.[3]

---

1 "The garden was not far above them, but only some 15 spiritual cubits." II Adam & Eve 11:8

2 "Then Adam rose up in prayer ... 'O god, thou knowest that we transgressed against Thee, and from the moment we transgressed, we were bereft of our bright nature; and our body became brutish, requiring food and drink; and with animal desires." I A&E 72:21

3 "Go, say to the Watchers of heaven ... Wherefore have you ... have taken to yourselves wives ... and have begotten giants? You ... living a life which is eternal ... have done as those of flesh and blood do. These however die and perish. Therefore have I given to them wives, that ... sons might be born of them ... But you ... were made spiritual, living a life which is eternal, and not subject to death ... Therefore I made not wives for you, because being spiritual, your dwelling is in heaven." I Enoch 15:1-7

The Scriptures say that Adam and Eve they had children. II A&E 2:8 says, "As for Adam ... offspring born of them; ... Cain, Luluwa, Abel, Aklia, and Seth alone"; while the footnote in Antiquities 2:3 says that Adam had 33 sons and 23 daughters. Regardless, the earth was soon well populated with Adamite-Man.!4

It appears that the name "Adam" is a generic name for all Adam- men, and "Eve" the generic name for all Adam-women. There were many individuals of each sex. It was after they had left the Garden of Eden that the "sons of God" descended to earth, assumed the form of men and took wives from all those that they chose.

The Devils Among Us

The Scriptures say "Thou believest there is one God ... the devils also believe, and tremble." Jas 2:19. The one God known by the devils is the same God the WORD in whose image Adam-Man is made. Unlike most of us, the devils actually read and know the Scriptures. They sometimes assume that Man knows the same things they do - which is why they accuse us of saying that they are "descendants of devils." They know that, but most men, not knowing the Scriptures, deny the accusation.

In some of the Scriptures that the establishment church did not "inspire" and which their state priests discourage us from reading, we learn the following:

> "Now the giants ... born of spirit and of flesh, shall be called upon earth evil spirits, and on earth shall be their habitation. Evil spirits

4 MAN: Heb: Adam 119 - "to show blood (in the face), i.e.: to flush or turn rosy: - be (dyed, made) red(ruddy). Strong's Concordance, VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $25/copy > shall proceed from their flesh, because they were created from above, from the holy Watchers was their beginning ... Evil spirits shall they be upon earth, and the spirits of the wicked shall they be called. The habitation of the spirits of heaven shall be in heaven; but upon earth shall be the habitation of terrestrial spirits, who are born in earth. The spirits of the giants shall be like clouds, which shall oppress, corrupt, fall, contend, and bruise upon earth. They shall cause lamentation. No food shall they eat; and they shall be thirsty; they shall be concealed, and those spirits shall rise up against the sons of men, and against women; for they come forth from them during the days of slaughter and destruction." I Enoch 15:8- 10[5]

Further, the place of concealment of the Giant's evil spirits, mentioned above, is found below:

> "The flood came over the earth, namely on account of fornication, in which the Watchmen indulged against the commandments of their law, with the daughters of men, and took to themselves wives from all whom they chose and made the beginning of uncleanness. And they begat sons, the Naphidem, and they were all unlike and they devoured one another: the giant slew the Naphil, and the Naphil slew Eljo, and Eljo the children of men, and all publicly practiced every unrighteousness and shed much blood." Jubilees 7:17-18

First the "sons of God" take the daughters of men, and now "Watchmen" take the daughters of men to wife. Evidently the two are the same. They are also called "fallen angels", "Angels of the Lord", "Serpents", as well as Watchmen, Devils, Grigori, hater of all good, and the red Dragon.

To make it even more complicated, their offspring are called GIANTS or NAPHIDEM. They are also are given other names; devils, Cainnites, Naphidem, Naphil and Eljo. etc. These names correspond today to the countless names of

---

5 "And they conceiving brought forth giants; Whose stature was each three hundred cubits." I Enoch 10:1-27. This is a way of saying that their evil was endless.

the yellow, black, and brown races that endlessly fight each other - and us.

Quick Recap

* First - the Serpent in the Garden.

* Next - the Watchers come to Earth.

* Third - the Giants, offspring of the Watchers and daughters of man, also called Naphidem - subdivided into the races which we know today.

Reason For The Strangers' Lawlessness

The evil acts of the Naphidem (strangers) are the result of the evil spirits of the Giants in-dwelling them. The Watchers were Lawless, so are their offspring, the "Giants-Naphidem." Like breeds like. This is the reason for the command;

> "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord; even to his tenth generation shall he not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel)." Deut 23:2.

Scripture says that an Adamite is made in the image of God. A combination of Adamite (the good) with Naphidem (the evil) makes the combination evil. The offspring of a mixed marriage is always a Naphidem-Stranger.

This is why the adulterous offspring of Man and Stranger is never accepted by the Adamic society and is ALWAYS assigned to the group of the Stranger.

Noah's Descendants

There are those who believe that Noah's Flood destroyed the Watchers descendants, and as a result, all races are descended from Noah. This is impossible since God made "each after his own kind"; a Black African cannot sire a Yellow

Chinese. But, where did the races came from AFTER the flood? This question is answered by the following Scripture:

> "Noah brought into the ark from all living creatures that were upon earth, so that there was none left but which Noah brought into the ark." Jasher 6:8.

There you have it. Noah took ALL into the ark. This would include the Giants-Naphidem who went by the name of devils, Cainnites, Naphidem, Naphil, and Eljo. etc. and which today correspond to the yellow, black, and brown races.

The Contestants

Mankind is divided into two personalities:

- Those who follow their own lust, and;
- Those who follow the WORD and their inspired reason. Inspired reason is reason derived from the Law.

Two creatures compete for possession of the Earth:

- The descendants of the Watchers, the Naphidem, and;
- The descendants of Adam-Man.

The opposing spirits within these two creatures are:

- The spirit of the disobedient Naphidem descended from the Serpent-Watchers who were cast from heaven; and
- The spirit of obedience which is in Adam-Man who was made in the image of God the WORD.[6]

---

6 I used to marvel that when black Naphidem, white Naphidem, and Adamites would meet - the black and white Naphidem would combine forces against the Adamite. Black and white Naphidem ally themselves against the Adamite in S. Africa, America, Europe, and Australia. How could it be otherwise?

The Strategy

The Serpent's strategy was to make Adam eat the apple, thereby breaking God's command and causing God to ban Adam from Eden which the Serpent coveted. It worked.

Adam was banished to Earth and was given an earthy body. The Serpent landed in India.[7]

Then, the Serpent tried to gain the earth for himself by throwing Adam and Eve from a mountain.

> "They came to .. a very high mountain, ... the Devil drew near to Adam and Eve, and made them go up to the top in reality, and not in a vision; wishing, as he did, to throw them down and kill them, and to wipe off their name from the earth; so that this earth should remain to him and his hosts alone. ... Then came the Word from God to Adam, and said unto him, 'Know thou and understand concerning this Satan, that he seeks to deceive thee and thy seed after thee.'" I A&E 28:10;29:4[8]

This attempt failed, also.

Following this, the sons of God called Watchers were sent from heaven to help Man. Instead of helping Man they disobeyed God and married daughters of Man and raised Giants-Naphidem of different races. These Naphidem contained the disobedient spirit of the Serpent-Watchers and they warred against Man. Following is the continuation of the story.

---

7 "When the accursed serpent saw Adam and Eve it ... made straight for Eve, and ran after her ... Then the Word of God came to the serpent, and ... a wind came to blow from heaven by command of God that carried away the serpent from Adam and Eve, threw it on the seashore, and it landed in India." I A&E 18:1-9

8 This is the first indication that the reason the Devil wishes to destroy Adam and his descendants is so that he and his hosts can inherit the earth for themselves alone.

Intermarriage With Beasts

A stratagem of the fallen angels was to tempt Man with racial intermarriage with Naphidem who are also called beasts.

> "Adam and Eve returned from the mountain ... and went down ... to the place where their corn was, but when there a multitude of beasts came all round them. It was Satan's doing ... in order to wage war against Adam through marriage." I A&E 69:9-11.

Beast is another name descriptive of the Naphidem that we can add to Devil and Cain.[9] A four legged beast has the nature of a beast. It will eat and breed anything. If it has a universal language it would consists of two words, "I want". A two legged beast has the nature of a four legged beast. It too, will eat and breed anything. A beast is slave to his own lusts.

Non-Adamic races have the beast nature. God's Law dealing with racial intermarriage with these types is spelled out in the passage following; it could as easily have applied to the earlier Watchmen marriages to the daughters of Adam-Man:

> "If a Man (Heb:adam - "man" - blush red) lie with a beast, he shall surely be put to death: and ye shall slay the beast. And if a woman ... lie down thereto, thou shalt kill the woman and the beast." Leviticus 20:15-16[10]

---

9 "The meaning of Cain is 'hater'... Therefore did Adam name him Cain." I Adam & Eve 74:7; "Among the children of Cain, there was much robbery, murder, and sin." II Adam & Eve 13:2; "Then command again thy people not to hold intercourse with the children of Cain, and not to learn their ways; for I am God who loves not hatred and the works of iniquity." Adam & Eve 19:4

10 "Beast" wears clothing in Johah 3:8; "Beast", "cries mightily unto God". Johah 3:8; "Beast" has hands. Exodus 19:13; "Beast" capable of mixing with Man. Jer. 31:27; "Beast" keeps the vineyard. Song of Solomon, Chap 1.; Jesus called the Syro-Phoenician woman a "dog". Dogs, swine, beasts, having a beast's nature, descriptive words for lawless non-Man.

Reason For Political Systems

In Man's eyes, strangers act like beasts. They eat anything, they breed anything, and they do anything that they want to do that they can get away with. Like dogs, Strangers can be highly trained, but, like dogs, deprived of Man-imposed restraint they soon relapse into their natural state of lawlessness. Chasing after their lusts; they scatter in a thousand directions and gather in an instant to fight over trifles. Such a nature must be ruled with a firm hand. This is why the beast nature requires an episcopal organization to ensure order. It needs corporation-type organization patterned after the wolf-pack to produce any sort of united effort.

When those with the beast nature enter the adamic Man's sheepfold, they find his presbytery system, rule from the bottom up with every Man voluntarily obedient to the Law of an invisible King, absolutely ludicrous. It is a license for the beast to commit mayhem. The beast only respects his own wolf-pack episcopacy. The Naphidem-beast disobeys his alpha-ruler at the risk of his life.

Man is warned against associating with strangers who have the beast nature. "Lest ye learn their ways.[11]

Continuing Warfare

The Serpent's plot caused Adam and Eve to be evicted from the Garden of Eden so that the Serpent could have the Garden for his own. He then tried to destroy them by hurling them from a mountian so that he could have the Earth for [11] It is also the reason that God warns of the danger of having great riches. Great riches allows one the means to indulge one's lusts - thereby becoming beast-like. The WORD warns; "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God." Matt 19:24. The scripture really means what it says.

---

himself and his followers. This, too, failed. Then he tried intermarriage with "Beasts", and this failed. His next try was a repeat of what had gone before.

The Balak Plan

This is the story of Balak and his plan which so nearly destroyed Israel:interracial marriage;Balak Plan

> "Balak, the king of the Moabites, who had ... a friendship ... with the Midianites, saw how great the Israelites were grown, he was much affrighted ... he ... did not judge it prudent to fight against them ... so he resolved to send ambassadors to the Midianites about them.
>
> "Now the Midianites, knowing there was one Balaam ... who lived by the Euphrates, and who was the greatest of the prophets at that time ... sent ... to entreat the prophet to come to them, that he might imprecate curses to the destruction of the Israelites.
>
> "So Balaam received the ambassadors, ... and told them ... that God ... had raised him to great reputation on account of the truth of his predictions; ... and not to persist in their enmity against the Israelites ... Balaam ... went along with the ambassadors ... (to Balak)." Antiquities 4:6:3

The Plot

The prophet Balaam advised Balak, the ruler of the Moabites, that he must do the following in order to destroy the Israelites:

> "If you ... gain a victory over them (the Israelites, then do thusly)
>
> "Set out the handsomest ... of your daughters ... then ... send them to be near the Israelites ... and when they are enamored of them ... persuade them to leave off their obedience to their own laws and the word of that God who established them ... for by this means God will be angry at them. ... when Balaam had suggested this counsel to them, he went his way.
>
> "... this Balaam ... did ... suggest that advice to them, by making use of which, our enemies had well-nigh corrupted the whole multitude of the Hebrews with their wiles ..." Antiquities 4:6:6-13

One must clearly understand the point being made. Strangers, unable to destroy the nation of Israel openly, tried to make them violate God's Law against intermarriage. If they could be made to violate this law, then God the WORD would destroy his own people, since he had promised that he would. A remarkable plan, one diabolical in its simplicity. The plot was activated by merely bringing Israel in contact with strangers and letting nature do the rest. This would put Adam-Man in conflict with his God the WORD who promised that he would destroy all who broke His Commandments. We all know the end of the story:

> "Zimri, the head of the tribe of Simeon, accompanied with Cosbi, a Midianitish woman ... and being desired by her to disregard the laws of Moses, and to follow those she was used to, he complied with her; and this both by sacrificing after a manner different from his own, and by taking a stranger to wife. When things were thus, Moses was afraid that matters should grow worse, and called the people to a congregation ... (and spoke saying that some of them) did not do what was either worthy of themselves, or of their fathers, by preferring pleasure to God, ... And besides that, he said it was not a reasonable thing, when they had lived soberly in the wilderness, to act madly now when they were in prosperity...
>
> "Zimi arose up after him, and said, 'Yes, indeed, Moses, thou art at liberty to make use of such laws as thou are so fond of ... but thou shalt not have me one of thy followers in thy tyrannical commands, for thou dost nothing else hitherto, but, under pretense of laws, and of God, wickedly impose on us slavery, and gain domination to thyself, while thou deprivest us of the sweetness of life, which consists in acting according to our own wills ...
>
> "I have married, as thou sayest rightly, a strange woman, and thou hearest what I do from myself as from one that is free; for truly I did not intend to conceal myself. I also own that I sacrificed to those gods to whom you did not think it fit to sacrifice; and I think it right to come at truth by inquiring of many people, and not like one that lives under tyranny ...
>
> "Upon this the assembly was dissolved. However, the mischievous attempt had proceeded further, if Zimri had not been first slain, which came to pass on the following occasion: - Phineas, a man in other respects better than the rest of the young men ... resolved in earnest to inflict punishment on him, before his unworthy behavior should grow stronger by impunity ... So he came into Zimri's tent and slew him with his javelin, and with it he slew Cozbi also. Upon which, all those young men that had a regard to virtue, and aimed to do a glorious action, imitated Phineas's boldness, and slew those that were found to be guilty of the same crime with Zimri. Accordingly, many of those that had transgressed, perished by the maganimous valour of these young men, and the rest all perished by a plague ...All those ... who, instead of hindering them from such wicked actions, as they ought to have done, had persuaded them to go on, were esteemed by God as partners in their wickedness and died. ...

"This was the cause why Moses was provoked to send an army to destroy the Midianites ... and appointed Phineas for their commander ... as he that had guarded the laws of the Hebrews, and had inflicted punishment on Zimri when he had transgressed them." Antiquities 4:6:10 - 4:7:1[12]

Provocations

The Balak plan failed, but the attempts by Strangers to make Man violate God's Law continue. If Man can be made to violate God's Commandments, God's wrath will fall on Man and he will be destroyed. This is the reason the Naphidem and their agents insisting on the following:

* Prisons - The Law's two primary punishments for crime are: Execution or restitution. There is no provision for kidnaping an Adam-Man accused of a crime and keeping him as a slave. To do so violates God's Law.[13]

* Forcing Children Into Integrated schools - Children learn from their teachers, children learn from their peers. This is why Strangers have been appointed to teach children of men and is the reason that children of Strangers are placed with children of Men. The result is that our children have adopted 12 Complete Works Of Josephus, VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $28.

13 "He that stealeth a Man, and selleth him, or if he be found in his hand, he shall surely be put to death." Ex 21:16; "If a Man be found stealing any of his brethren of Israel, and maketh merchandise of him, or selleth him: then that thief shall die." Deut 24:7.

they are even beginning to look like what they have become.[14]

* Immigration of Naphidem-Strangers into our land - This is a variation of the Balak Plan.[15]

* Strangers ruling over us - It is not permitted to have Naphidem-Strangers ruling over us, either as kings, governors, soldiers, or police. Neither are we to permit media-owners to select their agents for us to choose for our kings.[16]

* Abortion -LAW;abortionI A Serpent-Watcher by the name of Kasyade taught Mankind how to abort their young. "Kasyade (one of the Watchers): he discovered to the children of men every wicked stroke of spirits and of demons: The stroke of the embyro in the womb, to diminish it." I Enoch

14 "Fear ... God... teach your children letters, that they may have understanding ... reading unceasingly the law of God." Testament of Levi 4:1-2; "Make no fellowship with the children of Cain the murderer and the sinner, who killed his brother." II Adam & Eve 12:11.

15 "Thou shall drive them out before thee. Thou shalt make no covenant with them, nor with their gods. They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." Ex 23:31-33; "The Lord...hath cast out many nations before thee ... thou shall smite them, and utterly destroy them; thou shalt make no covenant with them, nor show mercy unto them: Neither shalt thou make marriages with them." Deut 7:1-4

16 "There are many nations... all are his, and over all has he appointed spirits to rule... but over Israel... he alone is their ruler." Jubilees 15:23; "Thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) over thee, which is not thy brother." Deu 17:15; "Their nobles shall be of themselves, and their governor shall proceed from the midst of them.. Jer 30:21; "Thou shalt reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over thee." Deu 15:6

68:17-18; Of all the crimes against God the Word - this has to be among the worst.[17]

* Integration of Strangers-Naphidem into Man's churches - The integration of Adamic and Naphidem is encouraged by the Naphidem media to act as a direct affront to God. Some Adamic churches even have Naphidem-Strangers teach from their pulpits.[18]

* Sunday Blue Laws - From the very beginning the organized church wished to show God the Word who was the greater, so they changed the Sabbath from Saturday to Sunday: "The venerable day of the sun" is to be the day for rest for the Empire - Constantine I, Emperor AD 307-337. (Richard Ames, The Plain Truth, p. 22, July 1989.)

"Then, about AD 365, the Synod of Laodicea, in its 29th canon, declared 'Anathema [or accursed] from Christ' those who persisted in resting on the seventh day. Those Christian Sabbath-keepers who refused to compromise suffered frequent persecution at the hands of the religiously intolerant. During the reign of Queen Elizabeth I in the 16th century, a 'great disputation' arose in England over the Sabbath ques-

---

17 "Before I formed you in the womb, I knew you; and before you came forth from the womb, I sanctified you, and I ordained you." Jer. 1:5; "Thou hast covered me in my mother's womb ... My substance was not hid from thee when I was made in secret." Ps 141:13-16; "For all the first born of the children of Israel are mine." No 8:17; "Whosoever he be of the children of Israel that giveth any of his seed unto Molech, he shall surely be put to death" Lev 20:2; "Take heed ... be not snared by followng the nations ... for even their sons and their daughters have they burnt in the fire to their gods." Deut 12:30; "I will bring evil upon this place ... because they ... burn their sons with fire for burnt offerings." Jer 19:3-5; "Thou shalt not let any of thy seed pass through the fire to Molech." Lev 28:21

18 "When the tabernacle is to be pitched ... the stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh shall be put to death." Numbers 1:51; "We are confounded, because we have heard reproach: shame hath covered our faces: for strangers are come into the sanctuaries of the Lord's house." Jer 51:51; "Ye shall make no league with the inhabitants of this land; ye shall throw down their altars." Judges 2:2

tion. Many advocated the observance of the 7the day. "Several Sabbath-keeping congregations formed in various parts of England during the 17th and early 18th centuries. Since it was illegal to conduct religious services outside the established church, Sabbath meetings for worship and preaching were held in secret because of fears of persecution and death." Sabbath, Ency Brit 14th Ed.[19]

There are countless abominations the Naphidem, aided by their Judas hirelings, have forced Adam-Man to do. All of them directed to the same objective; that of making God the WORD angry with those made in his image so that he will destroy his creation. This will accomplish the ancient plan of the Serpent- Watchers - to have God destroy Adam-Man - thereby leaving the Earth to the Serpent- Watcher's offspring, the Naphidem- Strangers, those with the nature of the beast and in whom resides the spirit of the Serpent-Watchers called the "Devil".

==========

LETTERS

EATING W/STRANGERS: "Mr. Hoskins; My father and grandparents were Scots from Pennsylavania. They would not eat with strangers, so it was not just a Southern custom. Regards." Washington

==========

19 "Six days shall work be done, but on the seventh day there shall be to you a holy day, a sabbath of rest to the Lord: whosoever doeth work therein shall be put to death." Ex 35:2; "The Creator ... did not sanctify all nations and peoples to observe the sabbath on it, only Israel alone: to them alone he granted to eat and to drink and to observe sabbath on it on the earth." Jubilees 2:28; "And on the 7th day God ended His work which He had done, and He rested on the seventh day from all His work which He had done." Gen 2:2

Y2K

We are told that on Jan 1, 2000, the world as we know it will come to an end. The old computer programs were designed to cope with the abbreviated last two numbers such as '98 instead of 1998. When the year 2000 arrives the old programs are supposed to revert to 1900 - creating havoc with the IRS, Social Security, banking, utilities, billing, etc.

I was a stockbroker for 32 years. During that time I have heard schemes to manufacture engines that run on water at least 15 times. In fact, I've heard just about every sort of con imaginable. Y2K appears to be a media scare. It's reasonable to assume that computer programmers have already written programs to fix any upcoming disaster.

I wouldn't worry.

Letter From S. Africa by H.K.

Dear Mr. Hoskins: To keep afloat, the blacks sell more and more government property to foreigners, and for the rest, cut essential services. The black government has never fulfilled their promises to their black voters concerning jobs. To alleviate the shortage of jobs, the best they can do is to remove whites from the civil service (the few left) and from any other position they can think of.

There is a coup story in circulation that will not go away and it sounds near to the truth. Some of Mandela's party are believed to have tried to unseat him. He discovered the plot and dealt with it and the matter has been hushed up.

During Clinton's recent visit, Viljoen was the only opposition leader he spoke to. The explanation was that Clinton was apparently informed about Viljoen's involvement in the major conspiracy against the Afrikanervolk to prevent them from revolting against the DeKlerk- Slovo-Mandela plan for White surrender. Or, as a way to continue waging the Boer War by other means.

I am afraid news from here is not that optimistic. There is still a lot of fighting to be done before we are in the clear again, but we will keep on until we win. With best wishes, K.J.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 287

THE NAPHIDEM STRANGER Part II - And Christian Patriots

Review

Devil

White devil! Red devil! Black devil! Yellow devil! Who has not heard these terms? Where did these names come from? Our fathers gave them these names.

Our fathers believed that Naphidem-Strangers were part lawless devils and were descended from devils. The Scripture relates;

> "The Watchmen indulged against the commandments of their law, with the daughters of men, and took to themselves wives from all whom they chose and ... they begat sons, the Naphidem." Jubilees 7:17- 18.

"Evil demons began to lead astray the sons of Noah ... slaying the sons of their sons. And (Noah) prayed before the Lord ... 'may the evil spirit not rule over them to destroy them off the earth ... And thou knowest ... the Watchmen, the fathers of these spirits." Jubilees 10:1-4

These Naphidem had had the spirit of devils in them, and would destroy Man given the chance. Our fathers believed that they were not to have contact with Strangers,[1] do business with them, adulterate their seed with them, or have them in their land. They believed that contact with Strangers would cause them to learn their ways - the ways of sorcery, voodoo, usury, abortion, seduction, lasciviousness lasciviousness, lying, drunkenness, immorality, racial interbreeding and war.

Our fathers believed that their God would destroy them if they tolerated Strangers - because God said He would.

"If ye shall still do wickedly, ye shall be consumed." I Sam 12:25; "If I deceive him to do this thing ... without God's commandment, God will kill him ... Therefore did Satan work ... before Adam and Eve; because he sought to kill him, and to make him disappear from off the face of the earth." I Adam & Eve 72:11-12

---

1 Stranger - Heb: Zûwr-strangers (2111 - Strong's Concordance) are alien strangers. The other, Gêr strangers (1616), are kinsmen living in a different political jurisdiction. In essence, "Zûwr-stranger" and "Naphidem" are the same.

Strangers Conceal Our Scriptures

To protect themselves from a knowledgeable and militant Mankind,[2]

Strangers concealed the WORD from Man while studying it themselves and using its instructions to destroy the very Man it was supposed to save.[3]

To prevent Man from learning what they know, their state religion outlawed Man's study of his Scriptures for a thousand years. When confronted with armed force and forced to reveal the Scriptures, they revealed them in part. The part they revealed they blessed as "inspired", and the part dealing with the Stranger and government that they did not want Man to study they cursed as being "uninspired", thereby condemning part of God's Word to obscurity. Without studying the entire WORD of God - Man could not learn God's teachings concerning those who would destroy him.

Results Of Studying The Forbidden Scriptures

Study of the forbidden Scriptures reveals that the Stranger, the sons of the Naphidem-Watcher, is not only our enemy, but he is our mortal enemy - it is his intent to destroy Man from off the land so that they can have the Earth themselves.

2 Man: Heb. Adam (120) To blush red. Strong's Concordance

3 (1) The Scriptures instruct us to choose Phineas types to lead us. "Phineas ... made reconciliation for Israel. Therefore was there a covenant of peace made with him, that he should be the chief ... of his people." Enoch 46:23-24; But, Stranger's corporations subsidize Christian theological seminaries and influence teaching appointments. Foolish preachers learn from them and are blind. Strangers are free to use our Scriptures to direct their selection of Phineas-type leaders for their own countries (Note the leaders of the Israeli country, Russia and China). (2) The Scriptures instruct us to cause discord between groups of Strangers so they will not become strong; "The Lord said ... destroy ... the offspring of the Watchers, from among men ... send them one against another. Let them perish by mutual slaughter." I Enoch 10:18. Knowing our Scriptures they incite civil wars between our nations so that WE are few in number instead of them.

This must be repeated so that it is clearly understood. According to Scripture - they mean to kill every last Man, woman and child of Mankind so that they can inherit the earth.[4]

Master Plan

From the Garden of Eden to today the Stranger's master plan has been to use the simple technique of persuading or forcing Man to disobey his God. If Man can be made to disobey God's Commands - God will destroy him.[5]

Specifics

If Strangers can make Man go to war against his own kind, or persuade him to use the forbidden art of usury, or cause him to make a burnt offering of his aborted children to "Kasyade",[6] the Watcher-god, they have succeeded. If they can keep a murderer or rapist alive instead of putting him to death, or quietly allow a Man to be kidnaped, made a slave and caged in a prison - they score. If they can lace Man's food with poisonous additives, root him from his self- sufficient farms and make him a wage slave for the Stranger's corporations; or cause him to be ruled by teachers, police, judges, and government officials who are Strangers - they triumph. If they can inflame Man with provocative printed and visual displays of debauchery which cause him to become a whoremonger

4 "The Devil drew near to Adam and Eve ... to throw them down and kill them, and to wipe off their name from the earth; so that this earth should remain to him and his hosts alone." I Adam & Eve 28:10;29:4

5 "If thou wilt not ... do all the words of the law ... the Lord will make ... (you) few in number ... because thou wouldest not obey the voice of the Lord thy God ... ye shall be plucked from off the land ... and thou shall fear day and night, and shalt have none assurance of thy life." Deut 58:66

6 "Kasyade (the angel): he discovered to the children of men ... the stroke of the embyro in the womb, to diminish it." I Enoch 68:17-18 and his women whores - they win. The more ways the Naphidem-Stranger can cause Man to disobey his God - the surer it is that Man's God will destroy Man.

Realization

If the ancients were right - the Stranger is what he is because of who he is - the offspring of the Watcher. The Watcher was called a devil. The Stranger's spirit is the Watcher's spirit because his bloodline is that of the Watchers. It is a devil-spirit. Its wants and desires are diametrically opposed to the wants and desires of Man who is made in the image of his God.

There is a world-wide attack by these Naphidem-Strangers against Man. In every Adamic country one sees Strangers. Individuals, scores, hundreds, thousands: Entire cities have been overrun with them. They are on welfare, they monopolize our peoples jobs, they take our Adamic women, they steal, they kill. Their hired kings and priests, their media, constantly attack, accuse, defame. Nothing is sacred. No place and no one is safe. They are everywhere!

It makes no difference if one concedes to the Stranger's demands. It makes no difference how far one retreats. The Stranger has read the Scriptures and knows what to do. To him there is a world to gain and nothing to lose. The only thing that will satisfy him is the extermination of Mankind.

Man's Tolerance Level

Adamic peoples have a tolerance level beyond which they will not retreat. With each individual it is different. One Man will not tolerate so much as an insult. Another will take a stand only after an intruder has broken into his land and killed his wife and children. Others can easily be moved by writings and stories of "freedom and liberty", while still others become upset when made to pay tribute. Then, there are those who judge everything by the Commands of their God; to them, any act that breaks God's Commandments is more than just a sin or an evil act, it is blasphemy against God. They are acutely aware that acts against God brings down God's wrath on the whole people.

What must be done? There is the line beyond which one cannot retreat. Day by day the Stranger's steamroller of abomimations rolls closer and closer to that line. In time, the line will be overrun and the flame of protest will burst out everywhere.

More and more people see the danger and speak to their fellows to arouse them from their lethargy. The faithful try to obey the Commandments governing their conduct with Strangers. Their passive attitude becomes more difficult as the Stranger enacts government statutes outlawing the observance of Christian Law.

Some become disillusioned and begin to believe that talk, protest, and argument with cartel figureheads is useless. In their minds, to appeal to Stranger-appointed priests, kings, police, or judges; or, to appeal to owners of the banks and the great corporations is futile. To appeal to the oppressor to stop his oppression has never worked in the past. But, something must be done before the whole nation is destroyed - by its own GOD.

The Choice

It should be clear to every thinking Man that there is a problem. On the one hand we have government statutes that require that God's Law be violated. Many of these statutes carry the death penalty for violators. On the other hand God has handed down Laws that must be obeyed, Laws often diametrically opposed to those of the government. God has said that he will kill the Man and destroy the nation which disobeys them.

There you have it. If Man disobeys the government - government agents may kill him. If Man disobeys God, God will kill him. What is one to do? Most see the immediate threat to their well being and will heed the government. It is powerful and is very visible. However, there are those who will obey what they say is the Law of their God.

Following are the stories of a few men who chose the latter course, and in the process brought down on their heads the establishment's curse. These make an interesting study. Especially so since the Stranger is known to be unmerciful. The individuals involved do not reason the same as the collective flock. Subconsciously they hope that their sacrifice will encourage others to follow just as the nation of Israel copied the acts of Phineas and Gideon. Thus, they oppose the acts of the Stranger in spite of knowing that the Stranger will try to bring down on them ruin, imprisonment, and death. They do this because they believe that the wrath of their own God is greater than the wrath of the Stranger.

NOTE: The editor does not necessarily approve or condemn the actions of those whose stories follow; he merely reports them.

The Death Of Robert J. Mathews

Robert J. Mathews led an organization called The Order. The Order robbed establishment banks and armored cars.

With the money they paid themselves modest salaries using the rest to to subsidize church ministries whom they felt were preaching the true WORD vs. the propaganda of the state church. Some of the money went went to try to counter the poison of the Stranger's media, and some went to bail out desperate farmers being forced into bankruptcy by the establishment's policy of holding commodity prices low and bank interest rates high.

Mathews broke God's Law when he tried to enlist a Stranger into his organization. The Stranger, being Lawless, betrayed him and led him into an ambush at a motel. Surviving the ambush, though badly wounded, he managed to write the following letter explaining his actions:

> "I wish to address the multitude of lies that the federals have been telling about Gary Lee Yarbrough and myself. ...
>
> "When I stepped out of my motel room that morning, a gang of armed men came running at me. None of the men had uniforms on and the only thing they said was 'stop you bastard.' ... a woman agent shot at my back and the bullet missed and hit the motel manager. ... After running for two blocks I decided to quit being the hunted and become the hunter. I drew my gun and waited behind a concrete wall for the agents to draw near. When I aimed my gun at the head of the closest agent I saw the handsome face of a young White man and lowered my aim to his knee and his foot. Had I not done so I could have killed both agents and still had left the use of my hand which is now mangled beyond repair and which I might very well lose altogether. This is the last time I will ever give quarter.

"As for the traitor in room 14, we will eventually find him. If it takes ten years and we have to travel to the far ends of the earth we will find him. ...

"I am proud that I had the courage and the determination to stand and fight for our race and our heritage at a time in our history when such a deed is called a crime and not an act of valor.

"I am not going into hiding, rather I will press the FBI and let them know what it is like to become the hunted. Doing so it is only logical to assume that my days on this planet are rapidly drawing to a close. Even so, I have no fear. For the reality of life is death, and the worst the enemy can do to me is shorten my tour of duty in this world. I will leave knowing that my family and friends love me and support me. I will leave knowing I have made the ultimate sacrifice to secure the future of my children."

Robert Jay Mathews

Mathews was later surrounded by FBI agents in a house on Widby Island. The FBI said he refused to surrender. Others say the FBI did not allow him to surrender. They burned him to death, as he ran from window to window returning their fire. According to an unofficial count, he wounded more than 15 of his attackers.

Gordon Kahl

Gordon Kahl was a Christian Man. He knew the Biblical prohibition against taxes and he knew that taxes provide abortions. He was also working with others to plan a township for Christians only. Separatist efforts are considered taboo by the establishment. It cannot allow separatist movements and still maintain absolute rule.

Gordon Kahl and his party had openly attended a meeting in town and were returning home when they were suddenly ambushed by Federal Marshals who blocked the road with an automobile barricade and blocked their retreat with another. The marshals opened a murderous fire badly wounding his young son. Kahl shot his way out of the ambush killing a couple of his attackers in the process, and sparing the lives of others that he wounded and could have killed. He afterwards fled for his life, but before he left he wrote a letter, part of which follows:[7]

> "I would have liked nothing other than to be left alone, so I could enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, which our forefathers willed to us.
>
> "This was not to be after I discovered that our nation had fallen into the hands of an alien people, who are referred to as a nation with the other nations ...
>
> "They have two objectives in their goal of ruling the world. Destroy Christianity and the White race. Neither can be accomplished by itself. They stand or fall together.
>
> "We are engaged in a struggle to the death between the people of the Kingdom of God and the kingdom of Satan. It started long ago and is now best described as a struggle between Jacob and Esau.
>
> " ... Should the hand of Elijah's God continue to be over me and protect me, I shall someday see this once-

7 Kahl's letter in its entirely is contained in Vigilantes Of Christendom, VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $18/copy > great nation swept clean of Christ's enemies and restored to its former greatness ... Take heart, my fellow Christian Americans, God has said that there will be a great shaking in the land of Israel. That started this evening. Let each of you who says that the Lord Jesus Christ is your personal Savior sell his garment and buy a sword[8] ... .

>
> "I must now depart - I have no idea where I'm going, but after some more prayer, I will go where the Lord leads me and either live to carry on the fight or die, if that be the case, and for the present at least, I bid you all good-bye."
>
> "Gordon Kahl"

Gordon Kahl fled to Arkansas where he was betrayed by a woman for the reward the feds offered for him. The feds shot him in the back of the head and burned his body.

Paul Hill

Paul Hill shot and killed an abortionist and his bodyguard. The judge refused to let him make a defense of "justifiable homicide", so he stood without a defense, mute, and was condemned to death.

Hill sent the editor of the HR a paper from which he stated that he had intended to reply to his accusers. Following are a few of the paper's basic arguments - most of which speak for themselves:

---

8 ED: "He said unto them ... he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment and buy one ... And they said, Lord, behold, here are two swords, And he said unto them, It is enough." Luke 22:36-38; "Whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it." Matt 16: 24-25; "Cursed be he that doeth the work of the Lord deceitfully, and cursed be he that keepeth back his sword from blood." Jer 48:10.

* "When the State or any other authority requires one to do what is contrary to God's Law, the child of God 'must obey God rather than men.' Acts 5:29."

* "Who will defend the defenseless if we don't?" "Therefore whatever you want others to do for you, do so for them; for this is the Law and the Prophets." Matthew 7:12.

* "So you shall not pollute the land in which you are; for blood pollutes the land and no expiation can be made for the land for the blood that is shed on it, except by the blood of him who shed it." Numbers 35:33"

* "And he who does not take his cross and follow after Me is not worthy of Me. He who has found his life shall lose it, and he who has lost his life for My sake shall find it." Matt 10:38

Paul Hill posed the question that perhaps Jesus' use of force against the money changers delayed the destruction of Jerusalem.

(From Paul Hill's Defense, HR #245)

Paul Hill was condemned to death. He remains in prison in Florida.

Bruce Pierce

Interview. From THULE, Vol II, Issue II, PO Box 33574, Portland, OR 97292

"The Magazine For Prisoners About Prisoners."

Q: What exactly were you charged with, and when, what was your sentence?

A: I received 5 - 20 year sentences equaling 100 years in 1986 for Rico, Rico conspiracy, armored car robberies and conspiracy to rob an armored car. I received another 150 years with a 50 year minimum in Denver, Colorado for violating the rights of Alan Berg. In 1988 I was tried for seditious conspiracy in Fort Smith, Arkansas. I was found innocent along with everyone else, but I was quite proud to have been charged with sedition.

Q: How do you feel the movement can best help you and other POW's?

A: Most of those who write us assume someone else is assisting us with funds and reading material. That is seldom the case. In actuality, we receive very little assistance. We can use help with both.

Q: Who do you consider POWs?

A: A true POW is one who was motivated by his beliefs to wage war on the system and was subsequently captured and incarcerated. The POW status is an exclusive term. And those prisoners who've not rightfully earned it should not appropriate it.

Q: What was your personal relationship with BOB MATHEWS, and can you give us some insights to him?

A: Bob was the founder and inspiration behind the Bruder Schweigen, Bob set the standard that we must all strive to achieve in dedication, commitment and bravery. Few are willing to stand up for their convictions, save buying a CD, attending a meeting, etc. or mouthing the well worn rhetorical phrases so common in the movement. Bob died for his convictions. We all must make a greater commitment to the cause.

Q: Who do you feel has the most unifying leadership potential in the movement today?

A: I've been incarcerated since 1985. I'm unaware of what potential there is on the street in the free world. I question the wisdom of unifying the movement. If we were unified we could more easily be infiltrated and controlled.

Q: What is your spiritual-political-ideology and why?

A: I'm Identity Christian. I believe the true WORD of Yahweh offers solutions to all of our problems. This truth and those solutions cannot be found in the Judeo-Christian churches today. Yahweh's law principles cover every aspect of life from A to Z while not restricting freedom as all man-made governments do.

Yahweh's law-principles incorporate those laws which protect the race that every racialist desires. The wisdom of his law- principles protects us from evil men and greedy governments. We don't need another type of government. Even a government exclusively of white men. In time, greedy and evil men will assume positions in government and abuse us.

We need communities based exclusively upon the law principles of Yahweh which protect us from government and provide maximum freedom.

Q: Do you have any closing comments for our readers "behind the wire and on the streets"?

A: Let's be noble in all we do. An Aryan prisoner does not participate in the loathsome acts of degenerates.

A free Aryan must also exemplify character, integrity and nobleness in thought and deed. We must strive to live up to the most honorable examples of our ancestors and thereby bring honor to our holy cause. Honor is compulsion enough.

Bruce C. Pierce #04181085, US Penitentiary, PO Box 1000, Marion, IL 62959

Joseph Franklin

I recently interviewed Joseph Franklin. Franklin is best known for shooting pornographer Larry Flynt. He has been convicted of shooting many interracial couples and has been condemned to death.

Q: What was the time frame of your activity?

A: I was active as a Phineas Priest from August 1977 to August 1980. My ministry lasted three years.

Q: What was the circumstances of your arrest?

A: It was because of my own violation of the Law. I had been without a woman for a long time and had engaged a prostitute. She was a pretty thing. She found out who I was and informed the FBI. I left by a window and since I assumed the bus station and airport were being watched, I rode a bicycle over the backroads to a nearby city. However, they were on to me and it was only a question of time.

I feel that I have done nothing un-Lawful except for this crime of fornication. My violation of God's Law also was the cause of my capture.

Q: How did you happen to go after Larry Flynt?

A: One day I picked up a copy of Hustler. I was appalled that such a magazine was available to fall into the hands of the youth of this country. I instantly determined to stop that man and punish him.[9]

I went to Columbus, Ohio twice but missed him. I went to North Carolina where Flynt had gone to see Jimmy Carter's sister, Ruth Stapleton Carter - but missed him again. I finally caught up with him in Georgia and shot him.

I often planned for weeks before undertaking a mission. There was one where I waited for weeks to take him out, but I never got the opportunity. I would rather not say who it was and alert him.

Q: How did you feel when you were going about shooting people?

A: I was just going about my business - I was doing a job. To properly do such work a person shouldn't hate, he should criticize the sin - not the sinner.

Q: What is your opinion of government agents?

A: I'm sure they have some good men among the FBI, ATF and Federal Marshals but from the ones I saw you would have to say that more than anything they resembled cockroaches or rodents. They work for a satanic system. They have sold themselves to the monsters who are oppressing our people. They assassinate, murder, frame innocent people and corrupt the people of the land. When they learned that I was taking out

9 ED: "If a false witness rise up ... Then shall ye to unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother." Deu 19:16-19 people who were obeying their law but violating God's Law, the opposite of what they were doing, they freaked. They really freaked. They hate God's Law. They never could bring themselves to believe that there were people besides themselves who would do what they do.

Homosexuals - the prison system is loaded with them. They are among the staff. You can tell. When they search you they let their hands stay a few seconds too long in the vicinity of your genitals.

Q: By what authority did you shoot these people?

A: God sent me to do what I did. I was following in the steps of Gideon. I'm convinced that God led me. I felt that I would violate God's will if I did not follow his guidance.

Q: Would you do it again?

A: Not the way I did it when I was younger. Not at this period in my life. I'm older now and would explore other avenues. Violence is not always the way in many cases. I talk more now. I've gotten to know a lot of Blacks in prison and a tiny few feel the same way about their people that I feel about mine, although I read a recent survey which said that 80% of Black men prefer a White woman to a Black one. Still, I think that we can work with that few who don't want White women to achieve separation. The only one who can be counted on to consistantly want integration is our government which is controlled by communists and homosexuals.

Q: Any regrets?

A: Yes, several. I regret being taken alive. A warrior should never be taken alive. Today I could not shoot a woman. There is something sacred about women. I regret that I did not do more, but my time was well spent. I consider the three years of my ministry as the most productive of my life.

Q: Any final words?

A: Yes. Avoid laziness. God gave each of us a different talent. Use your talent in his service to the utmost, whatever it is. Last, I had a dream not long ago that soon the government will start to come after all who resist their dictates. They will start with the organizations but will end with the individual - everyone.[10]

Joseph Franklin #811902, Hamilton Co Justice Ctr, 900 Sycamore St. (N5H5201), Cincinnatti, OH 45202

Conclusion

Each of the men involved in these stories believed that there was no remedy provided for the violation of God's Commands, either by today's media-selected king, or by the judges the king appointed to pronounce his acts legal. Consequently, each felt that to avoid condemnation by his God that he had to do all he could do to rectify an intolerable situation.

The alien has provided no safety valve which Man can use to vent his frustration and disapproval. With his economic, 10 ED: It is interesting to speculate that if Joseph Franklin had been born a Jew instead of a Christian, and had done the things he did to the enemies of the Israeli people, he would possibly now be premier of the Israeli state instead of condemned to death in America.

political, and armed strength he feels that he does not have to make concessions. The obvious conclusion is that the present collision of cultures, the Lawful culture of Man vs. the Lawless culture of Stranger, will generate more and more friction and in time a full-blown backlash. The more God's Laws are overrun and violated by the alien steamroller, the greater will be the backlash.

Anti-terrorism

The Stranger knows full well that Mankind is seething - that there is a tidal wave of revolt building. They know that man has realized that today's happenings aren't abnormal - they are perfectly normal when seen through the eyes of the Stranger, and they are planned. They are POLICY. It is not planned for things to get better. They are going to get worse. There will be more media trashing of Whites; more murders, abortions, muggings, homosexuality, rape and media promoted interracial marriage - until the dam breaks.

Knowing the pressures building, the Stranger is busily confiscating guns and breaking up newly-formed militia groups. His media is trying to demonize Christian-patriots - a thing inconceivable only two years ago. Brain-dead and soul-dead janissaries are receiving "anti-terrorist" training - they are being conditioned to turn on and kill their own kind. Men in the Stranger's service are being radicalized for "the day". Immigration gates have been thrown wide to provide more recruits for the Stranger's armies.

Non-violence

In the face of the above it would be wonderful if we could establish dialogue with groups of strangers who wish separation for their people as we do for ours, and together we could work for separation. But, history has shown that such relationships must be carefully entered into, since they have often led to treachery with our people ending up in a condition worse than when they started.

It would be wonderful if a reform political party would come into being that holds the motto "God's commands are non- negotiable" as their standard. But, the half dozen or so protest political parties already in existence do not appear to be able to advance their cause, and there are none that hold God's Commandments to be supreme.

So, we are confronted with the demands of the Stranger on the one hand and the opposing demands of God on the other. Those who follow the Stranger can be counted on not to see their evil. Those who follow God will be bound by the commandment:

"We must obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29

Unless the Stranger relents and permits Man to worship God the WORD and follow His commands - it is with certainty that the day that is drawing closer is the day our Viking ancestors called Ragnaraak and our Israelite ancestors called Armageddon.

==========

Letter From S. Africa by K.A.

"Dear Mr. Hoskins: The story of South Africa's downward trend has become a recurring phrase and we can only vaguely see the ultimate collapse. We are shocked every time these barbarians destroy another institution, or something dear to us. There is no limit to their destruction and it carries the approval of those who hate us, people like Robin Renwick, former British ambassador to SA and the British Queen, etc. All this is taking place at the same time. It is more than the average person can grasp.

The same holds good for the privatization of institutions and corporations. This may be taking place to gain control, but it seems more likely that it is to get the money they will get from selling these institutions. A case in point is Eskom electricity suppliers. The greed of these Blacks and Indians is something to behold.

Murderous attacks have likewise increased, but the Whites are more concerned about retaining their jobs - a valid reason. Also, they are concerned about whether to vote in 1999 or not, which is not a valid reason. It doesn't help to be in the system. By remaining outside, our people will regain their self respect and strength to resist. Unfortunately, people want instant solutions to problems they helped to create. They want an instantly-created leader to guide them out of the mess. They did not learn from yesterday's mistakes.

F.W. DeKlerk is divorcing his wife and is now staying with his new love, the Greek Elita Georgiadis. His brother Willem deKlerk is doing his bit of destruction by attacking the Bible and religion in his book "The Strange God and His People". According to him, "Those prudes must be rejected with determination because of their offense to the human body. Their conspiracy against pleasure and enjoyment and especially their suspicion towards the erotism of the human being." So much for this humanist atheist, and no wonder he and FW got rid of their first wives.

The worst is that he misleads others by discussing a book by a Professor Spannenberg of Unisa, "Perspectives On The Bible" who states, "The thesis is readily that all religions are busy with the same God. The footprints of God lie in all religions."

With thoughts like these they can only be a bunch of New Agers. Although Willem deKlerk was a former preacher, he now pretends that he is a psychology counselor and political analyst. From the time of their father Jan deKlerk, they have caused our people a lot of problems.

With Best Wishes,

K.J.

LETTERS

QUOTAS: "Brother Hoskins: For your info, the prison system has a new policy. To try and MAKE the percentage of whites in prison the same as the other races, blacks are given early paroles and whites are forced to serve their full sentence. Prison is BIG business. If we are to survive we must meet each new inmate with a delegation and show him the WAY. If we don't take care of our own the blacks will certainly approach him and make him their slave." K.T. - Prisoner Texas

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 288

NINE MILLION GERMANS

How the Allies sought to exterminate the German people after WWII. A review of Crimes and Mercies: The Fate of German Civilians Under Allied Occupation, 1944-1950. By James Bacque. [London, England: Little Brown & Co, 1997] Reviewed by Michael A. Hoffman II and printed with permission.[1]

ED NOTE: This book has already been taken out of print. The Establishment's media will not discuss the subject. Remember, these are our brothers and sisters who were exterminated without reason while held defenseless. The WORD does not allow this.

==========

This courageous history is the latest in a string of valuable revisionist counter-intelligence books such as Alfred de Zayas' A Terrible Revenge John Sack's An Eye for an Eye and Hugo Rasmus' Schattenjahre in Potulitz, which detail the

1 Revisionist History #3 ©1997 by Michael A. Hoffman II, PO Box 849, Coeur d'Alene, ID 83816. http//www.hoffman-info.com).

Allied holocaust which resulted in millions of German deaths after the conclusion of the Second World War.

6 Million Jews?
What About 9 Million Germans?

This was worse than any 'holocaust' allegedly caused by the National Socialists in wartime, for this was post-war genocide after total surrender, against a completely prostrate people.

Bacque's comprehensive marshaling of irrefutable demographic, epidemiological and statistical facts document that;

> "At least 9.3 million Germans died needlessly soon after the war ... This is many more than died in battle, air raids and concentration camps during the war ... they (the Allies) did not end the killing at the end of the war but increased it ... far more civilian Germans died in 5 years of 'peace' than soldiers in six years of war."

That the attempted annihilation of the German people was deliberate cannot be contested. President Franklin D. Roosevelt said, "I am not willing at this time to say that we do not intend to destroy the German nation." The allied policy of annihilation was nothing new. After WW I the Allies starved nearly a million Germans (cf. C. Paul Vincent,The Politics of Hunger: The Allied Blockade of Germany, 1915-1919).

In addition to FDR, the other chief architects of the genocide were the Jewish-American Henry Morganthau and Gen. Dwight Eisenhower. According to Morgenthau's aide, Fred Smith, Eisenhower announced in 1944 that when the war ended, he personally would like to "see things made good and hard for them (the German people)."

Morgenthau's plan for the systematic starvation of the German people through the destruction of their industrial capacity (and hence their ability to purchase grain for import), was officially dropped by the Americans. But in late November of 1944, Roosevelt told John Maynard Keynes in secret 'that the plan would be implemented.'

> "U.S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull acknowledged that the Morgenthau Plan 'would mean the deaths of some 20 million Germans by starvation.'"

What finally assured the prolonged starvation of Germans was the enforced reduction of industry. In 1945, industrial production was deliberately reduced to around 25-30% of pre-war levels, thus preventing the chance of buying food imports ... The Allies slowed oil production to a trickle, closed down factories, kept the labor force imprisoned, confiscated or destroyed factories and machinery ...

By false accounting the Allies also refused to credit the value of some German exports to the German account, making it impossible for Germans to earn foreign currency to buy food.

In Berlin in September 1945, an official estimated that half the children aged three and under would not survive the next year. The infant mortality rate in Berlin at that time was nearly 100%.

In Hamburg in 1946, in the British zone of occupation, while thousands of tons of surplus military food stockpiles were left to rot, 100,000 Germans were in the last stages of starvation.

In January of 1946, U.S Senator Kenneth Wherry stated,

> "The American people should know once and for all that as a result of this government's official policy they are being made ... accomplices in the crime of mass starvation ... Germany is the only nation subjected to a deliberate starvation policy ..."

At the top level of the U.S. Army, General J.H. Hilldring responded by declaring that "the Germans were being treated too lavishly."

Foreign relief agencies were prevented from sending food from abroad;

> "Red Cross food trains were sent back to Switzerland; all foreign governments were denied permission to send food to German civilians; fertilizer production was sharply reduced ... The fishing fleet was kept in port while people starved. British soldiers actually blew up one fishing boat in front of the eyes of astonished Germans."

When the Mennonite Central Committee in Canada and the US attempted to send food to the German people, the Allied military governments "refused the necessary permits."

In great Britain,

> "Even the concept of voluntary aid via food parcels from Britain's civilians was anathema to Whitehall in October 1945. Such aid to Germans was forbidden."

The Nazi commander Arthur Seyss-Inquart was hanged at Nuremberg for withholding food from the Dutch, even though he ordered an airlift of food supplies to Holland when the Germans themselves were hard-pressed for food.

American naval officer Captain Albert Behnke compared the German civilians under the Allies with the conditions in Holland under the Germans, for which Seyss-Inquart has been executed as a war criminal:

> "Germany was subjected to physical and psychic trauma unparalleled in history. The Germans under the Allies fared much worse than the Dutch under the Germans and for far longer."

The French occupiers took a terrible toll on German women, children and elderly, by "forced seizure of food." They also instituted a campaign of "mass rape" of German women in Stuttgart.

German churches in the French zone of occupation flew black flags to mark the interminable deaths from starvation that went on under the heel of the French. "The official ration in the French zone in January 1947 was 450 calories per day ..."

Canadian Army Officer Robert Greer witnessed the Germans in Berlin in the late autumn of 1945:

> "Greer saw no men, only women and children. One of the boys was so thin 'you could see the cords of his legs quite clearly. The rest of the skin was tight about his bones. His face was expressionless, his mouth hung open ... Alf took the boy out to the car and gave him bread and cocoa and some stuff we had, and he took it with still no expression. He was so hungry that even the sight of food didn't arouse him."

The boy Green described was a survivor of the great ethnic cleansing of Germans in Eastern Europe, perpetuated by Poles and Czechs. The "Expulsion," as it has tepidly come to be called, was authorized under the Potsdam agreement signed by Stalin, Churchill and Truman. More than 16 million Germans were uprooted from ancestral German lands on this trail of tears.

The atrocities visited upon these Germans included gruesome mutilations: "In one Sudetenland village, all the German women were seized and their Achilles tendons were cut. As they lay on the ground screaming, the Czech men raped them. Some of them were raped many times in a day, day after day."

The Czechs shot German women at random and sought to kill German children by thirst: "The older children, red in their faces with fever and heat, lay in the grass, asking for something to drink ... the Czechs had made no arrangements whatever to look after these transports. It seemed that they had deliberately omitted to supply food or drink so that people should perish."

On the march back to central Germany, the hungry German civilians often "were so exhausted that they literally lay down and died ..." Hermine Muckusch, a grandmother from Jagerndorf in the Sudetenland was force-marched out of her homeland in the company of 27 children. Within fourteen days, all but one were dead. The sole survivor was Wolfi, her oldest grandson. The bodies of the German children were put in adult coffins, five to seven in each and buried together. They all died with their eyes and mouths open" from starvation.

Anyone who attempted to bring German children "food, shelter or medicine was shouted at as a Nazi by his fellow Czechs" and then the Army of Red rapists arrived.

At Neisse in Upper Silesia, the village priest wrote, "During the first night of the Russian occupation, many of the nuns were raped as many as fifty times." German nuns who resisted were knocked down, kicked, beaten, struck in the face with the butt- ends of revolvers and rifles until they collapsed into unconsciousness and were raped in that state.

Many of the German priests in the East "were murdered by Poles and Russians in the spring and summer of 1945. In Upper Silesia some 45 priests were murdered because they remained with their flocks to the bitter end."

Other German Christians also suffered horribly. Thousands of German Mennonites were beaten and shot at by British troops who tried to force them onto trains bound for the Soviet Gulag, "for example at Liezein in Austria in June 1945."

German mothers "were raped in the presence of their children, girls were raped in front of their brothers ..."

Hundreds of thousands of German civilians were forced into former Nazi concentrations camps now operated by Poles. Not many Germans survived these camps.

Today when a German survivor attempts to relate what happened he is "hampered ... by incredulity, by cover-ups ... For instance, bones discovered in 1976 and 1981 in mass graves at Kaltwasser/Bromberg were returned to the ground without any marker when it was decided by a Polish commission investigating Nazi war crimes that the dead had been German."

Bacque says that "Analogous incidents have occurred at Lambach in Austria and at Rheinberg, Erfurt and Bretzenheim in Germany."

Of the more than 16 million Germans forcibly expelled, Bacque says that 2.1 million are officially acknowledged as having died during their expulsion to central Germany, but that another 2.5 million are unaccounted for and that most of these also died, putting the total deaths among the German civilians of Eastern Europe as well over four million.

When one of the survivors, Dr. Martha Schulz Kent, was a student at an American university and attempted to relate what happened to her people on the trail of tears from the East, her professor interrupted her and said, "Here's our little Nazi. Seig Heil."

The author devotes a portion of Crimes and Mercies to elaborating the history of the Allied holocaust against German POWs, a study which he first advanced in 1989.

Bacque states:

> "As soon as Germany surrendered on 8 May 1945, the American Military Governor, General Eisenhower, sent out an 'urgent courier' throughout the huge area that he commanded, making it a crime punishable by death for German civilians to feed prisoners."

Bacque uses the early chapters of Crimes and Mercies to bolster the arguments of his 1989 book, Other Losses, concerning the fate of the German prisoners under Eisenhower's command. Other Losses proved so threatening to the New World Order, that Bacque reports being followed and bugged by the intelligence agencies of several Western nations in aftermath of its publication. He is banned from many international archives and from the pages of major newspapers and magazines

Like David Irving's Goebbels, James Bacques's new book Crimes and Mercies cannot be published in the United States, due to the interdict of the Jewish lobby. It is published only in Canada and Britain

Bacques's sections on the fate of German prisoners is magnificent and proves that with the passage of time, Other Losses has been vindicated. In his chapter, "Holiday in Hell," Bacque makes a startling case for the Soviet gulags as having provided better treatment to German POWs in comparison with the horrors of the British, French and American POW camps.

Bacque also describes how the British ruling class recently committed perjury and suppressed documents in order to assist the English war criminal Lord Aldington in his libel suit against Nikolai Tolstoy. Tolstoy and Bacque maintain that in 1945 Aldington turned over tens of thousands of helpless White Russian dissidents, including women and children, to Stalin's butchers, "in scenes of dreadful suffering and protest so grotesque ... "

Aldington is not the only liar Bacque has the courage to name. He also cites the Zionist-controlled German bundesrepublik writer Rudiger Overmans, as a prevaricating Eisenhower apologist. Bacque shows that the current German government is the enemy of its people; that it has given away the nation's just claims to the ancestral German lands of East Prussia. The bundesrepublik has also made it a crime to investigate mass graves of German civilians murdered by the Allies: "No one is allowed to dig for the corpses of the murdered (German) prisoners in Germany" (cf.pp. 141 and 257-258).

To whitewash the nearly one million German prisoners murdered by Eisenhower, Overmans, "writing for the American professor Stephen E. Ambrose, who adores Eisenhower, claimed that the Americans took only 3.8 million German prisoners."

In a devastating retort to Overman, Bacque relates that,

> "...in fact the Americans in northwest Europe alone took 5,224,310 prisoners ... according to SHAEF (Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force) documents which have already been published ... The effect > of understating the prisoner catch of course is to minimize the deaths for which the army could be held responsible."

Another useful and unique aspect of Crimes and Mercies is the way in which Bacque has anticipated the stonewalling and denial of potential critics. He points out how after the starvation process was assured and set irretrievably in motion (after hundreds of thousands of Germans were still alive but too far gone to be saved from death), the Allies allowed token relief. For example, the author notes,

> "By the time such pacifist organizations as the Mennonites of Canada were permitted to send food to their co- religionists in Germany, in June 1946, the overall death rate in Germany had risen to more than double the normal rate."

In this way the Allies covered their bases. Millions of Germans could be exterminated while a few thousand were rescued, thereby providing camouflage for the genocide.

The Marshall Plan is part of this myth, showcasing the "spotless virtue of the American government in its great benevolence to the Germans." But the Marshall Plan came after the mass starvations had been effected. The plan itself was an accounting trick and a public relations scam. Had the Germans been left alone, they could have, through their own famous work ethic, provided for themselves much better than the Marshall Plan did. Bacque points out that "The Americans took from Germany at least twenty times the amount the Germans retained under the Marshall Plan."

Bacque concludes Crimes and Mercies with an exposé of crooked historians and journalists.

> "After 50 years all officials in the West are still denying the mass deaths in the French and American prison camps; only in Germany are the deaths of two million expellees remembered and mourned. No one anywhere has remarked on the fact that five to six million more people disappeared entirely from the German population, without note, or explanation. No historian, whether British, French, Russian, American, Canadian or German - not even a German historian - has remarked on this. Millions of people disappear under the Allies' rule and no one notices."

Bacque relates how after exposing N.Y. Times correspondent Drew Middleton as a fraud who helped to cover up the atrocities against the German people, Middleton and the arrogant Times did not even care:

> "... the NY Times is so powerful it does not need to threaten people even when it is facing exposure. Middleton's sense of security, his sense of the NY Times' power, took my breath away. But worse than that, Middleton did not care about this atrocity (against Germans) ... one of the worst atrocities in Western history, the NY Times witnessed it, then denied it had happened. And has gone on denying it into the 1990s.
>
> "... For most of the people of the West, the denials rest on delusion, not evidence. The question never even becomes, 'Did the Allies do such things?' because the answer has been planted in everyone's heads already ... The Answer is known before the evidence is consulted. In other worlds, belief is everything, evidence means nothing.
>
> "... Many People who have cast doubt on German crimes have been fired from their jobs, vilified, deported, jailed or censored, while anyone who denies > our post-war crimes against the Germans is published and praised by press, academe, army and government..."

Bacque adds this chilling note: "Following the publication of Other Losses in 1989, as I traveled for further research and publicity, I slowly realized that I was being spied on, presumably by Canadian, American, British, French and Russian agencies hostile to the disclosures in the book ...Although my previous book was an international best-seller, Crimes and Mercies was turned down by 15 different publishers."

Pentagon officials contacted American WWII veterans and advised them not to have anything to do with Bacque. Bacque is not the only target. The president of one of the biggest publishing houses in New York returned the manuscript of Alfred de Zayas' Nemesis at Potsdam, with the comment that he "would never publish a book sympathetic to the Germans."

Pondering Crimes and Mercies, I questioned why it is that the German people themselves have done so little with this epoch of starvation and expulsion - the dearth of diaries, histories, radio and video documentaries, interviews, dramatizations, movies.

Being of German descent, I think I know the answer. It rests on what would in, almost all other times be a very positive characteristic, and it is a central trait of the Germans, what most of us were taught as children: Lerne leiden ohne zu klagen.

That is the source of our silence. When we should be recounting the history Mr. Bacque has dug up, at every opportunity and in every forum, we draw instead on the core virtue of our national psyche, "Learn to suffer without complaining."

But perhaps it will be the non-Germans - like the fighting historian James Bacque - who will remind us that to preserve a memory is not complaining, it is a tribute to the dead and a warning to the living. - Michael A. Hoffman II.

LETTERS

FALSE BAPTISM: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I saw a Judeo-Christian preacher on TV baptizing a single white girl, her two white children, and her two mulatto children. Isn't this unscriptual?" G.A. - Kansas

RKH: I know this preacher. He has come 180 degrees from the time the NAACP attempted to enter his church and the deacons threw them head over teacups down the front steps.[2]

To be PC and to get a new tither, today's establishment priests will baptize the devil and not blink an eye.

Yes, what you saw was unscriptual. Before this girl is allowed back into her father's house she must comply with the following:

> "If the priest's daughter" (God appointed each of us kings and priests) "also be married unto a stranger" (Heb: zûwr - racial alien), "she may not eat of an offering of the holy thing" (blessed food), "But if the priest's daughter be a widow or divorced, and have no child, and is returned unto her father's house ... she shall eat of her father's meat; but there shall no stranger" (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) "eat thereof". Lev 22:10-13.

Since the mother has not disposed of the strange children, the rebellion that allowed her to get mixed- breed children in the first place is still in her there and there is no repentance:

---

2 "The stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh (the tabernacle) shall be put to death." No 1:51

"A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord; even to his tenth generation shall he not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel)." Deut 23:2

The priest who, in spite of draconian prohibitions,[3] permits this to happen is a false witness. He has converted his church into a Samaritan Church and by adapting the doctrine of the Samaritan Church he becomes a Samaritan priest:[4] For those with short memories, the following is a brief story of the Samaritan church.

> "And the king of Assyria brought men from Babylon (we would call them Arabs today) ... and placed them in the cities of Samaria instead of the children of Israel (who had been taken into captivity) ... Then the King of Assyria commanded .... carry thither one of the (Israelite) priests whom ye brought from thence ... and let him teach them (the Arabs) the manner of the god of the land ... howbeit (after they had been taught, had a Bible translated for them, and had built temples to the God of Israel, they still) ... fear not the Lord, neither do they after their statutes ... which the Lord commanded the children of ... Israel ... As did their fathers so do they unto this day." (They remained lawless.) II Ki 17:24-41

Once the WORD goes through the Samaritan filter - the result is still Samaritan. Adam and his descendants are made in the image of God the WORD - in the image of the Laws, Statutes and Judgments. Caanonites and their descendants are lawless. It is the Lawful vs the unlawful. The result is predictable:

---

3 "The stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh (the tabernacle) shall be put to death." No 18:7, No 1:51 (two witnesses)

4 The Christian Identity reform movement is loaded with Samaritan priests.

> "I have seen folly in the prophets of Samaria (mix-breeds); they prophesied in Baal, ... and caused my people Israel to err." Jer 23:13

The Scripture says that strangers are not to enter the congregation of Israel. This Lawless woman has - she has violated the Law which is God - and Lawless Jerry has not insisted that she obey the WORD. This sort of conduct was prophesied for Israel in the last days:

> "With harlots and adulteresses shall ye be joined and the daughter of the Gentiles shall ye take to wife purifying them with an unlawful purification." Testament of Levi 4:17

The rule and example is clearly laid out in Scripture as to how to deal with strangers who worship the God of Israel and who want to join us to worship him:

> "Now when the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard that the children of the captivity builded the temple unto the Lord God of Israel; Then they came to ... the chief of the fathers, and said unto them. Let us build with you: for we seek your God, as ye do; and we do sacrifice unto him since the days of Esarhaddon king of Asseria, which brought us up thither. But ... the fathers of Israel, said unto them, Ye have nothing to do with us to build a house unto our God; but we ourselves together will build unto the Lord God of Israel ..." Ezra 4:1-3

Nothing could be clearer. There is something else that should be clear also - the strangers won't stop there. You will have to continue to fight to worship as God instructs because the enemy will seek to hinder you and change your worship from Yahweh, the Lord God of Israel, to the gods of the Christian-Hindu and Christian-Samaritan:

"Then the people of the land weakened the hands of the people of Judah, and troubled them in building, And hired counselors against them, to frustrate their purpose." Ezra 4:1- 5

This is what they are doing today. They are stirring up the people so that it is difficult to find a meeting place. But, this is what has been prophesied would happen and what IS happening.

WIRED

Years ago, a fellow dropped by the office to check me out. His name was Walter Thody. After he left I received a postcard from North Carolina quoting word for word one of my last remarks to him. I assumed that Thody was wired, and said so. Someone whose opinion I respect vouched for Thody, so I apologized. However, someone had to be "wired" to take down word for word my remark. Since it wasn't Thody, it had to have been my own office that was wired. It must have been done after I had gone home for the day.

There is a lesson to be learned. When meeting with anyone who speaks for the Christian right - assume that big brother has bugged his office, home, and automobile.

UNFILTERED NEWS

JEWISH IMMIGRANT DNA: "Russian immigrants whose Jewish lineage is in question have been asked to undergo DNA test, the Interior Ministry said." The tests are administered to verify an immigrant's Jewish background. In the last 10 years over 800,000 immigrants from the former USSR have come to Israel. Those who can show they have a Jewish parent or grandparent are eligible for Israeli citizenship and benefits. The Interior Ministry says that to prevent fraud, the test will confirm if indeed the citizenship applicants and the names on the birth certificates are actually one and same. (Jerusalem AP Story, [resist88@ earthlink.net] 7/7/98)

OPUS DEI: "FBI Director Louis Freeh's background lies in Opus Dei, perhaps the most sinister order of the Roman Catholic church, considered to be fiercer than the Jesuits. They are performing the work in the 20th century that the Jesuits did in the 16th and 17th centuries. Ambrose Evans-Prichard notes Freeh's Opus Dei background in describing why Clinton appointed him FBI director, noting that 'it (Opus Dei) was another power network that Clinton could put to good use.' The Secret Life Of Bill Clinton, Wash. DC: Regnery, 1997 p192) Opus runs hundreds of newspapers, magazines, and very many broadcasting stations globally. The most sinister, top secret order of the papacy is running the FBI (Trumpet Messenger, 6/98, PO Box 565, Sandy Hook, CT 06482)

FEDERAL ASSASSIN ACQUITTED: A federal judge dismissed the manslaughter charge against the oriental FBI agent who murdered Randy Weaver's wife during the Ruby Ridge massacre by shooting her in the face as she was standing unarmed holding her baby in her arms. U.S. District Judge Edward Lodge ruled that Lon Horiuchi was acting within the scope of his federal authority, that he "did no more than what was necessary and proper" for him to carry out his duties. The US Justice Department decided in 1994 against prosecuting Horiuchi or any of his FBI superiors and reaffirmed the decision last year. Judge Lodge cited the supremacy clause of the US Constitution which immunizes federal authorities from liability when acting within the scope of their jobs. (Story on Web Page: http://members. aol.com/AxCurtis/ natob.html) 5/15/98.

RKH: The WORD says "(Strangers) shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21,24. We violated The WORD when we allowed Strangers into our land. Each nation of Strangers brought his own god and his god's laws. Our own God The WORD commands "Whoso sheddeth man's blood by man shall his blood be shed." Gen 9:6; The Ruby Ridge and Waco slaughters violate Christian Law. However, the slaughter did NOT violate the law of the Stranger's god: "Furthermore, there is a commandment pertaining to the killing of Strangers, who are like beasts. This killing has to be done in the lawful method. Those who do not ascribe themselves to the Jewish religious law must be offered up as sacrifices to the High God." Thikunne Zohar (Edition Berdiwetsch, 88 B). Under which law do you think the Ruby Ridge and Waco murderers were punished? Do you think that Judge Edward Lodge in effect declared that The WORD is no longer Law? Did he replace God the WORD with the law of another god?

One final question. Do you REALLY think that the Christian God is serious and has the power to make the following come to pass? "Because thou hast let go out of thy hand a man whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people." I Ki 20:42. If our God lives, the clock is ticking - on us.

GERMAN STATE PRIESTS SPEAK: "* Only 78% of the Protestant ministers regard God as being "holy". * Only 74% believe in resurrection after death. * Only 43 % are of the opinion that God is almighty, and * Only 65% agree with the statement: Jesus Christ is God. * Only 36% believe in the Last Judgment. * 44% of Protestant parsons are of the opinion that homosexual pairs should be joined in marriage." Insider, Vol 8, 20/97, PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA

AMERICAN CARTEL PREACHERS SPEAK: The following statistics were taken from Plymouth Rock Foundation, Marlborough, NH 03455. Some 10,000 clergymen of various denominations were asked two questions regarding their faith, with these results.

Q - "Do you believe Christ's physical resurrection was a fact?"

A - 51% of the United Methodists, 49% of the Presbyterians, 44% of the American Baptists, and 13% of the American Lutheran pastors said "NO

Q - "Do you believe that the Scriptures are the inspired and inerrant Word of God?"

A - 95% of the Episcopalians, 87% of the United Methodists, 82% of the American Baptists, and 77% of the American Lutherans said "NO"

Also, the divorce rate among Christian pastors is higher than that of the general public. Could these be the "wolves in sheep's clothing" spoken of in Scripture? Covenant Vision

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 289

GEORGE WALLACE

"Menelaus, that traitor to the laws, and to his own country." II Maccabees 5:15

Icon

The dictionary says that an icon is an image, symbol, model or example.

The George Wallace Icon

The George Corley Wallace we know was an icon, created by the Naphidem media to give the people a leader. The people of Alabama once again needed a leader to lead them in the fight against the approaching tyrannical federal government determined to destroy them, their children, and their very race.

George Wallace appeared. Raised by the media he filled the horizon. He was obviously the savior. The natural leaders of the people were completely overshadowed by this giant that covered the sky - a John Wayne and Superman combined. Alabama now had a leader needed to lead the Southern Saxon to war against the forces of evil surrounding their land.

But, this George Wallace of heroic proportions was an imaginary hero. He did not exist. He was an actor. Someone coached to say the right thing, strike the right pose, appear as an iron-willed leader that was needed to win through to victory, and then lead them into defeat and despair - again. The people of Alabama were convinced that he was the real thing, but what they got was smoke and mirrors.

State Funeral

George Corley Wallace is dead. The media is giving him a state funeral that is the due of those in service to the system. It was only unfortunate fate that he must share front page with Waco Bill, another media created icon fallen on hard days. Still, the newspapers are giving him black bordered write-ups that they give state heros. The headline reads, "Wallace, Bygone Era Laid To Rest."

The article comments on the former Alabama governor who vowed, "segregation now, segregation tomorrow, segregation forever". He was given an honor guard of state troopers divided between Black and White. A lone piper played "Going Home" and "Amazing Grace", and the Alabama National Guard flew F-16s over the procession in the "lone man" formation. The Rev. Franklin Graham stood in for his father, Billy Graham, another Naphidem media-creation.

Soon Wallace will enter the history books that will be read by the youth of America. He will be described as being at first a little man driven by hate and bigotry, representing people just like himself. After a political career that did much damage to race relations, he was shot by an assassin also driven by hate, and after much pain and suffering, confined to a wheel chair paralyzed - he found peace through acceptance, tolerance, and asking and receiving forgiveness from the Strangers he had wronged. Poignant. Touching. A good lesson for the youth of America. At least that is what the establishment wants them to believe.

The Real George Wallace

George Wallace was born in 1919. He was appointed Assistant Attorney General of Alabama when only 27; elected to the state legislature at 28; elected judge when 34; and elected governor when he was 44. Almost none of this would have been possible without the approval of the media-owner.

All this time the press described him, usually in hateful terms, as the sort of man that the people of Alabama needed and wanted. Once before when the state sovereignty of Alabama was challenged, Alabama called out her militias and went to war to defend her borders. The establishment is well aware of this. This time, George Wallace was the leader. When Alabama's right to regulate her own state schools was challenged, Governor Wallace talked tough; rattled the saber; talked about calling out the national guard, and stood in the school door "defying the United States Government." Then, after the cameras finished, he meekly stepped aside and let the feds take over Alabama's school system. Wallace explained that he did all that he could do.

The media agreed that he was still mean and bigoted, but he had in truth done all he could do, and that the people of Alabama should support him in his bitter hour. Alabamans, too, were bitter, as they would pay the price, but the media consensus was that all was done that could be done and that it was time to forget and forgive and go on to other things.

America was tired of the trend to socialism and communism and was ready for a change. She knew that relief would not be forthcoming from the establishment parties, so she mounted one more third party effort. Wallace, the "die-hard judge", was selected as their candidate for president of the United States on the ticket of the American Independent Party. He was only 49.

Most 3rd party efforts in America are under-financed and under- publicized and quickly fizzle. This time things were different. The time was right. Instead of fizzling, America rallied around Wallace. Political committees of volunteer workers formed all over the country. His poll ratings went up and up. Then the horrible truth dawned - Wallace was going to be elected!

There was establishment panic. Wallace was still an establishment asset, but the organization that was forming behind him was not. It was not establishment controlled or even contolled by Wallace. If it completed its organization it could develop the power to overthrow the cartel given a different leader. The decision was quickly made. Wallace had become a liability. He was shot.[1]

Instead of being killed, Wallace was paralyzed and confined to a wheel chair. The media then found that they could

---

1 The establishment asset, Martin Luther King, revolted the public. He also become an establishment liability and was shot, which turned him into an asset. The same thing happened to John Kennedy. People forget how unpopular he was. He could never have been re-elected. If deposed, VP Johnson could finish his term and then be re-elected. In this way the Democratic party could have two full terms instead of one. Life is cheap in the wolfpack. Its' assets can live a good life, but they are disposable.

still use him for an example. Heretofore the media had described him as a wild- eyed segregationist, just a shade shy of being a klansman - while actually he was a flaming liberal just acting the part. Now that he was in a wheel chair he was an object of pity and no danger to anyone. So, the establishment ran him for office on the "pity ticket" and elected him governor in 1971-1978 and 1982-1986. By then the media described him as a moderate, which is liberaleese for flaming liberal. He entertained civil rights leaders and publicly supported their causes. He became the media's darling - an example of the properly reconstructed Southerner.

George Wallace, the great fighter for racial separation, was a media creation who never existed in fact. The people who loved the media image of George Wallace the strong leader, later learned to despise the sniveling turncoat that he was, and had been from the very beginning.

J. Lindsay Almond

The Southland was under attack at the end of WWII by the same forces which had just finished devouring Germany. According to the media, the clergy, and the establishment - everything we did, had done or would do was "evil". Southerners developed a siege mentality. In "Fortress Southland" a "liberal integrationist" became as scarce as a hens' teeth.

In Virginia, liberals were in disrepute. In Norfolk, there were about 30 of them who wanted the integration of White with Black students in public schools. The Norfork school superintendent agreed. He set in motion plans to set up a third school system to make it possible for these liberals' children to be integrated with Blacks. Not a single White liberal stepped forward to integrate his children. Not one. Liberals were laughed off their soapbox as being hypocrites and frauds. No one would listen to them.

The first overt grab by the U.S. Government to take over a state's school system was made against Virginia during the '50s. The attack focused on little Prince Edward County. Prince Edward was a poor county. The Blacks had a brand new school while the school for Whites was old and shabby. It made no difference. The civil rights lawyers argued that the Blacks couldn't learn unless they were seated next to Whites. The "separate but equal" doctrine was under attack.

Little Prince Edward fought back. The local paper was run by Barry Wall. It was his paper and his editorials fought for the rights of White people. It was just a county paper, but people in other parts of the state started to read it. Most Blacks supported their own Black schools. They did it quietly, because carloads of Black toughs from Philadelphia and elsewhere came down every weekend to beat up vocal Black segregationists. None of this was printed in the national media. All the national media printed was the usual anti-South "segregation and sourbelly", "crossburning and night riders". No one up North knew that half the segregationists were Black and that the violence came from northern night riders who came down on weekends. People can only know what they read.

Prince Edward started an organization to drum up support. It was called The Defenders Of State Sovereignty And Individual Liberties. How's that for a name! Its president was Bob Crawford. I went to work for them as an organizer. We organized almost all the eastern counties in the state and most of the rest. We had more than 10,000 dues paying members. Senators, congressmen, judges - everybody who was anybody belonged.

As time went on we got better and better organized. We had the anti-Whites identified and knew where their meetings were held. Most were federal employees - among whom were sympathizers who kept us informed of their plans. When they came out of meetings their cars would be covered with our literature. We took a lesson from the feds and made a show of taking down their license plate numbers and taking pictures. After a while most stopped coming to "civil rights" meetings. White sympathizers among them told us everything they were doing, and everything they did they were told to do by the national civil rights organizations.

We investigated every Virginian running for public office. If he had a history of being anti-White - thumbs down - and he was dead in the water, media or no media. In politics, people don't change. If they were anti-White when they were 16, chances are they will be anti-White when 36 or 66. There are always Judas- goat/ anti- White deviates whom the establishment is able to recruit. A few questions to a candidate's childhood chums will usually separate the goats from the sheep and save the flock a lot of grief.

I was an officer in the Richmond Light Infantry Blues. The Blues was a national guard outfit whose origins go back into the 17th century. Patrick Henry was one of its early commanders. We had more battle streamers than any military organization in the entire country. If the president wanted to send in federal troops - fine. Virginia had been invaded four other times. No invader ever found it easy. This would make the fifth. "Cross our borders and get a bloody nose." The officers and men of the Blues and the other Virginia national guard outfits all felt the same. This was also true of guard members in our sister states of North Carolina and Tennessee. They were willing to help us if we were invaded.

Election time for governor rolled around. The Democratic Party put up J. Lindsay Almond. The Republicans put up their usual anti-White candidate. "J. Lindsay's" fire and brimstone oratory against anyone who would "destroy our schools" and "advance miscegenation with school integration", won the primary by a landslide. He was unopposed for governor. As soon as he took office he became silent as the deadline for forced school integration deadline approached. I then began to hear disturbing stories about the man in the days before he ran for governor. Evidently, people who knew the real man didn't talk when it counted. The "J. Lindsay" that Virginia took to heart didn't exist. He was something other than the person painted by the media.

The day came when federal marshals come in to take over our schools. The Blues oiled their weapons and waited for the call- up. We had been told that we would be called up.

Instead, the federal marshals walked in and took over the schools. They weren't arrested, run off, or anything - nothing happened! Members of the Blues waited all night outside the armory for someone to come and open the doors. There were tears rolling down men's cheeks. "J. Lindsay" said that he had done all that he could do. Correction; he had done all that he had been put in office to do. He was a traitor. Virginia was betrayed. From then on he cowered in the Governors mansion, afraid to go out, telling everyone that he was afraid of being assassinated.

At the end of his term of governor J. Lindsay Almond quietly stepped into a federal judgeship. Such a cheap price to betray his people. When statues to traitors are erected - J. Lindsay Almond will stand beside Benedict Arnold and George Wallace.

Orval Faubus

Back in December 1994, Orval Faubus died. He was the governor of Arkansas who opposed integrating the races in the schools. He was the third of the trio - Almond, Wallace, and Faubus. The people of the South were ready to fight over the issue. They knew that the establishment wished to destroy the White race through racial intermarriage. How did they know this? Liberal spokesmen said so.

Faubus had held jobs as a rural school teacher, country court clerk, country postmaster and publisher of a small weekly newspaper. Note that most of the jobs were on the public payroll, and the last was that of manager of an establishment paper.

Faubaus was reared a radical - his father was a member of the socialist party. He had once attended Commonwealth College at Mena, a labor school started by Socialists and taken over by the Communists in the 1930s. He stated in defense of his half-hearted efforts to block integration - "I would not change a thing because I was trying to stop property damage, injury or death, and, in that we succeeded."

He was an ideal choice to betray his people. The media painted him a staunch conservative, and as a staunch conservative he was elected. But Orval Faubus was the secret radical socialist - not the man the media portrayed.

All three, Almond, Wallace, and Faubus were portrayed by the media as dyed-in-the-wool pro-White. But, each had roots in wild eyed liberalism. Each made a well-publicized stand against integration and miscegenation before laying down before what the media later called - "the inevitable." Almond was rewarded with a Federal Judgeship, George Wallace was almost elected president on a third party ticket and three times governor, and Faubus had the longest run ever for an Arkansas governor for "doing all he could," and then he was a behind the scenes Arkansas "king maker" that produced creations like "Waco Bill" Clinton. It figures.

Orval Faubus was a lesson - a lesson in how the establishment goes about destroying a targeted people. His father was socialist, he was a socialist - or what we would today call a communist - a strong believer in the feudal system. He was carefully schooled and educated in government jobs and media training for his time on stage. The media endorsed him and elected him. He stepped on stage and betrayed his people, always saying the right thing and beaming a smile. His act of betrayal was what the establishment had spent a lifetime training him to do. He played his part well.

The Way It Is

Saxon song sagas will relegate the above three traitors to the nether regions along with Simon Girty and Benedict Arnold. At first, all three appeared to serve the people - while serving another master. They were convinced that their rewards would come from masters concealed from the people. To receive their rewards they played the Judas Iscariot and received their 30 pieces of silver.

Our implanted genetic memories tell us that once we were kings and priests - each of us. Our genetic memories tell us that we should carefully select one of our neighbors to speak for us.

The fact is that man does not live alone. There is also the human. The human's genetic memory is that of the Naphidem- Stranger. He follows his own lusts. Because of that, force must be used to make him behave in an orderly manner. He knows this and expects it. The strongest of the Naphidem rule - they always have. Authority stair-steps down, the individual must strive for his place on the ladder. All rewards and punishments come from above. It is the wolf-pack mentality. It's his system. The Naphidem-Stranger knows the system and feels safe in his wolf- pack. Those who are made in the image of the WORD and follow the Commandments of its God are a threat to the wolf system. Both man and his God are a danger to the Stranger, his system, and as a consequence, are fair game. Men who desert their own and attach themselves to the wolf pack system are rewarded by the ruler of the pack.

The Feudal System

The feudal system of the history books is the wolf-pack system. The only time the Saxon has lived outside this feudal system is when he lived apart from Strangers and had no kings.[2]

EPISCOPAL - Episcopal religious systems are a sign that the religious thinking of the people is controlled. The leading episcopal dignitary is appointed by the master, who appoints and instructs all in his charge. It is the job of the episcopal priest to keep the sheep still to be sheared.

FEUDAL SYSTEM - The formal feudal system consists of 1) Priests; 2) King and Soldiers; 3) Merchants; 4) Workers; 5) Outcasts. In the formal system of India, job castes are truly

2 A King (commissar, leader, premier, president, etc.) is the sign that a feudal system is in place. The King's job is to collect tribute for his master and maintain the peace. The master makes policy. The policy maker is the priest. Most times he is the merchant- money changer.

castes whose membership are inherited from generation to generation. Practically, the establishment will work with anyone who can collect the tribute and control the sheep.

In medieval Europe, the priests, kings & knights and merchants cooperated to keep the workers in the fields and producing tribute.

In today world, priests, presidents-governors-police, and the merchants - cooperate to keep the workers in the factories, shops and services, producing tribute.

The Emperor Caste

The movie Brave Heart makes men hearts soar with pride as they witness Scotland's fight for freedom. They see a battlefield filled with warriors eager to meet the enemy.

The thing not touched on by the movie is the real reason they were there. Their respective kings, both Scottish and English, had called their followers to the field of battle. These followers held 'en fief to their respective kings and lords. If they had not come they would have lost their lands, their privileges, and would have become homeless - roaming the countryside begging their daily bread.

Today is the same as yesteryear. All that has changed are the stage props and vocabulary. The main difference is that the operators of the ancient silk route, the unseen world-managing "emperor caste", has become bold as their control of the world's trade and the world's corporations has become total.

EMPEROR CASTE - It is this emperor caste who are the king-makers and priest-makers. They create dynasties and religions and tear them down.

AGENTS - To handle details, they appoint agents to manage hundreds of media outlets at a time. Their agents manage scores of major banks. They appoint raiders and give them unlimited financing to break down the weak monetary systems of the world. They rule countries through their media-selected kings and priests. Their agents exploit vast land areas and direct the lives of millions of people to do "this", and millions more to do "that". It is they who determine how men must act, what they must think, where they should work, whom they should marry and the gods that they must worship.

Bona Fide[3]

Conquered subjects are usually relegated into the Worker-service caste and - "outcast" categories. Some few reach the lower rungs of the 1) priestly caste. But, to move up the ladder to this lofty estate one must prove himself "worthy". He must do something that will burn the bridges for all time between himself and his own people, and his God.

The ultimate test given the Saxon who lusts for something the Stranger can give is - "interracial marriage" - the integration test. If he passes that - he enters the doors through which there is no return. This proves his loyalty. The establishment then allows him to move up the ladder to greater responsibilities and rewards. With his bridges burned he becomes a traitor to his God and his nation.

The establishment tried to install "interracial marriage litmus test in the 1890-1950s period. But, it didn't work. To rebut their arguments a tremendous amount of scientific material - tests, health records, crime records, historical research, etc. was gathered to refute the pro-interracial marriage campaign. The political or religious leader who favored such unions was shunned.

3 "Bona Fide - in good faith, without fraud or deceit."

Learning from this experience, the media devised a way to deny scientific proof from being used. They ignored it. "Racial intermarriage" is no longer a question up for debate. The subject is not even discussed by the media. How can the mountain of research material be used if discussion of the subject is banned? Scientists latest discoveries about race aren't covered. College professors opinions on the subject aren't newsworthy - unless they support integration. Today's political candidate doesn't have to give an opinion on racial intermarriage. The media and their cronies attack protect him by attacking anyone who asks a candidate if he supports "interracial marriage. The questioner is viciously attacked as being a "racist".

The result is that the political candidate who promotes racial intermarriage by promoting integration in other fields is rewarded with favorable media publicity, thus ensuring his election. It's a win-win situation for those who choose to take this route.

Senator Phil Graham is married to a Stranger. Those who commented on his violation of God's Commandment were shrilly attacked by the media. Gore's daughter is married to a Stranger. Clinton appoints Strangers to practically every major post in his government and his daughter is dating a Stranger. Elizabeth II's daughter is married to a Stranger. The list goes on and on.

Integration is the "Bona Fide that is becoming the only Bona Fide that the establishment will now accept.

Revolt

There have been many revolts against the feudal system, but three stand out. The first was the "Peasants Revolt" in England in 1381. At one moment the land appeared to be at peace and in the next moment 30,000 armed men were on the way to London to demand freedom. The leaders of the movement trusted young Philip II who had them assassinated.

The Next was the "Peasants Revolt" of 1525 in Martin Luther's Germany which seized Catholic Church lands coveted by the Protestant princes. Martin Luther, caught in a power struggle between the Protestant Kings, the Catholic Church, and the people who occupied the lands, betrayed the people who were then massacred. Germany's Protestant revolt was betrayed by its founder. !4 ▒

The third was the "Covenanter Revolt" that swept Scotland and England and almost succeeded in bringing in "God's Kingdom on earth." In the moment of victory, its own leader, Oliver Cromwell, followed his own lust for power and seized the reins of government for himself and proclaimed himself "protector" - which is Cromwelleze for "king".

Summary

Today, we celebrate the death of George Wallace - the last of the three great American traitors of the 20th century who will be remembered for their betrayal of both the Commands of their God and in the betrayal of their kin.

We also remember back in history to those three who betrayed us before. We, the outcasts, have learned. We have learned that on no account are we to trust any leader who comes out of today's feudal system - president, senator, congressman, judge, soldier, priest, teacher, or industrial leader. They all have been fed, weaned, and rewarded and twisted by the system. The system and its rewards is what they know. If allowed to choose between rewards from the wolf they know and from a God they have never seen - they are likely to choose the wolf.[5]

4 See HR 1992 Peasant Revolts, #219.

Tomorrow will be different. God will bring his kingdom here on earth because he promised that he would. One day, the WORD will sweep over the West like a great prairie fire burning off the dross of the nation. Then, trusting the words of no man, only trusting their acts, we will once again have leaders who will cleanse the land and replace today's evils with God's WORD.

Letter From S. Africa

Dear Mr. Hoskins: It is interesting to observe that the people who are being murdered are people best known for doing good - like the doctor and the nun, or farmers who had good relations with their workers. They are being targeted by blacks for annihilation.

We hope that Mr. Jaap Marais will take to task erroneous church ministers who blatantly lie about apartheid and stigmatize it as just another ideology like communism. It shows the thoughts of these church ministers. This propaganda line indirectly ushers in the fanciful speculation of equality of all people, anti-racism and anti-nationalism.

5 Even Herman The Great, the savior of our our Saxon people, after defeating the Roman invasion, was put to death by his own kinsmen because he would be king, and the Germans would have no king. See Our Nordic Race, Hoskins, VPC, POB 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $8.

At a meeting recently held at Unisa University in Pretoria, the discussion was about the Anglo-Boer War commermoration. A certain Ron Vinney of Rand Afrikaans University supposedly did research on sex in concentration camps and came to the conclusion that the women starving to death in those camps could be persuaded to turn to prostitution in return for food.

When the blacks could not find the remains of the 30,000 blacks they claimed died in the war, they have had to find something else with which to vilify the Boers and minimize the veneration we have for those who died in that war for freedom. In this weeks "Rapport" it is said that a monument will be built at Blood River in honor of those Zulus who died. The other side will definitely celebrate the war from a very different viewpoint.

With best wishes, K.J.

Letters

UNIVERSALISM: "Dear Dick: There seems to be be quite a push for Universalism lately in Identity. Would you care to comment?" H.D. Arkansas

RKH: Yes. The wolf is in the sheepfold.

UNFILTERED NEWS

INTERNATIONAL MERCHANT: "Hungarian-born Jewish speculation billionaire George Soros said ... When I had made more money than I needed, I decided to set up a foundation with the objectives of opening up closed societies, making open societies more viable. ... In central Europe I started supporting the Charter 77 movement in Czechoslovakia in 1980 and Solidarity in Poland in 1981. I established foundations in Hungary in 1984, in China in 1986, in the Soviet Union in 1987, and in Poland in 1988. My engagement accelerated with the collapse of the Soviet system. By now I have established a network of foundations that extends across more than 25 countries... Very quietly, he suggests: 'The concept of the global open society needs institutions to protect it.'" Impact, P.O. Box 28233, Sunnyside 0132, Rep. of SA,

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 290

FAST-START WORDS FOR NEWCOMERS

Many Saxons have become disenchanted with the New World Order and wish to join their fellows in opposing the evils in the land. To prevent this, the establishment's media has expunged many of their words and expressions so that it is difficult for Saxon nationalists to communicate with each other. Without words to exchange ideas people remain mute.

The following is a list of some of the words and definitions needed for a quick "catch-up".

Nation - "Originally denotes a family or race of men descended from a common progenitor." Webster 1828. Our Saxon nation is descended from Adam through Isaac. Our God is the Word of God.

Country - The word "country" denotes a taxable entity. It is an artificial division of the world into tribute-paying geographic areas by the world's rulers. Our "nation" is wherever our people are. Our "country" is where we are taxed.

Saxon - "Sons of Isaac"; "Isaac-sons", - "Saxons". "In Isaac shall thy name be called." Romans 9:7.

Anti-Saxonite - An "anti-Saxon" or "anti-Saxonite" is one who hates the Saxon; who works for or advocates a course of action harmful to the Saxon nation.

Integrationist - An integrationist is the apposite of a separatist. He defies God, supports interracial marriage and is the arch enemy of the Saxon nation.

Man - Heb: adam - those that blush rosy, Strong's Concordance.

Human - "Hued-man", "man of hue", man of color - "colored man", "stranger".

Adam-man - is made in the image of God the WORD:[1]

God - "His name is called The Word of God." Re 19:13 God's Commandments and God cannot be separated.

Stranger - Anyone who is not a Saxon.

Constitution - A system of fundamental rules, principles and ordinances for the government of a state or nation. There is no charter, constitution, federal statute, state statute, city ordinance, court ruling, or opinion of any kind that is above the Law - which is the Word of God. If ever the two conflict - man's statutes are null and void. "We must obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29. Christians believe that God's WORD is not negotiable.

---

1 "God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness ... So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them." Gen 1:26-27

Israel - Heb: Yisrâ'êl - "He will rule as God ... also his posterity." Strong's Concordance. Today, genuine Israelites cannot be called "Israel." - "The Lord God shall call his servants by another name." Isa 42:16-19; True Israel today is called by God's name - "CHRISTIAN"; Isaacs name - "SAXON", Ro 9:7; and is a "Son-of-MAN." No other nation has these proofs.

Kingdom - There are two kingdoms - spiritual and physical. Daily we pray "Thy kingdom come ... on earth." Where on earth? "The kingdom of God is within you." "Ye are the temple of God." When God's Kingdom is activated within man, he will see to it that God's Kingdom is activated around him.

God - The authority that man obeys. The word "God" by itself is a very inexact word.

Yah'weh - Many Christians use this ancient Hebrew word for their God - "Yah'weh" - to keep him separate from the mainline pseudo- god who stands for compromise, lies, and distortion. Some invoke "Yah'weh" as a curse, such as, "Yah'weh" will punish that." Used in this manner the word becomes an "idol". Christians of the first century used the expression, "God the Word" as the name of their God.[2] The answer to ALL of man's problems is to be found in the Word - which is man's God.

Idol - Anything that man worships in place of "God the Word."

Enemy - Our enemy is whoever violates God's Commandments, or causes others to do so. He is the enemy.

---

2 "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1, and "The WORD was made flesh, and dwelt among us." John 1:14.

Brother - "Whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother." Mt. 12:50

Bastard - Bastard: The centuries old definition of bastard is "a child born out of wedlock." This is the re-definition of the original meaning. The King James Version translators used the English word "bastard" only twice in Deut 23:2 and Zec 9:6, according to Strong's Concordance. In both cases it is the Hebrew word #4464 and is defined: "Mamzer, a mongrel.... - bastard. The true meaning of a bastard is "a child born from sexual intercourse between a father and a mother of different races!" "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel." De 23:2. Strangers claiming to be "Christian" do not want to integrate with the Saxon because it violates this command. If the Stranger violates this command - he is not a Christian.

Interracial Marriage - The Lynchburg News & Advance of Oct 24, 1998, p2. said this about Bob Jones University. "The schools ban on interracial dating or marriage prompted the Internal Revenue Service to revoke its tax-exempt status in 1970, a decision upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court."

Without a vote, referendum, or public discussion - interracial marriage, the most talked about subject of America's first three hundred years has been made official government policy by court decision, and is backed with economic sanctions. This tyranny is what started Joseph Franklin on his career.

Adultery - "Webster's 1828 Dictionary" defines adultery in scripture as "idolatry, or apostasy from the true God." A violation of God's Commandments is adultery. The mixing of the races is adultery. "Let them marry ... only to the family of the tribe of their father." Numbers 36:6; "When they had heard the law ... they separated from Israel all the mixed (mongrel) multitude." Neh 13:3.

Sensitivity Training - Whites accused of objecting in some way to racial integration are subject to court - or business-imposed sessions called "sensitivity training". These sessions often result in a brain washed product called a "wigger".

Wigger - The product of sensitivity training brain-washing classes is often called a "wigger". A wigger is a tragic figure - a White who is establishment trained to act like a Negro.

The Word - The WORD is contained in ALL the Scriptures. The Word is divided into "God's Law", and to illustrate the law - a "parable". Without the Law a parable means whatever the speaker wishes it to mean. "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1, and "The WORD was made flesh, and dwelt among us." John 1:14 Christians believe that The WORD is GOD.

Episcopacies - political - An episcopacy is rule from the top down. A king (governor, dictator, president, etc. by whatever name he is called), is usually backed financially by some group which expects monopoly concessions in return. Once in office the king appoints his followers to offices under him to keep order and extort revenue from his subjects. They become his appointed aristocracy.

Episcopacies - religious - A religious episcopacy is rule from the top down. Episcopacies teach the policy of the one who rules at the top. The policy pursued at any particular time often requires them to declare certain scriptures "inspired" by God and other Scriptures "uninspired". This, in spite of the Scripture, "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God." 2 Ti

3:16. In general, "episcopacies" attempt exposure to those Scriptures that are politically correct.

Presbytery - political - A presbytery is organized from the bottom up. In olden times groups of tens and hundreds would select one of their own as spokesman for a period. If the selected one pleased the others, he would be retained longer. If he displeased them, another would be chosen.

Presbytery - religious - Groups of like-minded people organized from the bottom up. Such groups tend to believe that every man can obtain knowledge of God by his own study from the Word contained in the Bible. Teachers and ministers either volunteer their services or are conditionally hired.

The major problem in recent years has been that ministers hired from theological colleges have more often than not been trained in the episcopal manner. Their episcopacy type teaching to presbytery congregation memberships has led to conflict, confusion, and a falling away.

Dharma - Dharma means "love". Hindu priests interpret "love" to mean that one must love everyone without regard to race, creed, or national origin. Christian interpretation of love is; "If ye love me obey my commandments." John 14:15.

Dharmamatra - Dharmatized - Hindu government officials appoint Dharma police to ensure that Dharma is being enforced. They are Dharmamatras. A population which has been taught to accept Dharma is Dharmatized.

White - The term White has been used to refer to the Saxon nation. It has also been used as a cover by whites who are Strangers. One may be white and also a stranger. One may NOT be a Saxon and also a Stranger - "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel)." De 23:2

Gothica - According to Sharon Turner, the words "Saxon", "Goth" and "Sythian" are interchangeable. The term Gothica is used by some to refer to the Saxon nation.

Aristocracy - political There are two types of aristocracies. One type was appointed by the king. A political aristocrat can be honorary. Usually it is not. A share of the assets formerly belonging to the people are turned over to the political aristocrat to manage for the king. Today these political/economic aristocrats are called different names, but the principle is the same.

Aristocracy - natural - A Scandinavian village of 100 might cooperate to build two dragon ships. Eligible warriors selected the most capable for captains from among those with whom they had soldiered. These were natural aristocrats. Over the generations the families of natural aristocrats tended to marry with other families of the same kind. This tended to produce an unusually large number of "natural aristocrats" in certain families. However, a natural aristocrat had always to win the vote of his fellows.

To keep Saxons from following a leader of their own "natural aristocracy", the establishment media elevates Strangers while suppressing mention of present day Saxon heroes. Also suppressed is mention of ancient Saxon heroes. This is done to destroy the Saxon ideal of "Nation".

Phineas Priest - Anyone who enforces God's Laws is a Phineas Priest. See Numbers 25 in the Bible. See also "Levitical Priesthood".[3]

Levitical Priesthood - Today's Christian preachers claim descent from Levi. Levi, the founder of Christendom's priest-

3 See also, Vigilantes, "The Story Of the Phineas Priesthood", Hoskins

hood, was chosen because he punished the Strangers who raped his sister.

> "I was young, about 20 years of age, when with Simeon, I wrought vengeance on Hamor, for our sister Dinah. ... And I was grieving for the race of the sons of men, ... And behold the heavens were opened, and an angel of God said to me ... Thou shalt stand near the Lord and shalt be His minister." Testament of Levi 1:5-12.

> "Levi, I have given thee the blessings of the priesthood ... And the angel brought me down to the earth, and gave me a shield and a sword, and said to me: Execute vengeance on Sheckem because of Dinah, thy sister.." Testament of Levi 1:11.

> "I saw that the sentence of God was for evil upon Sheckem; for they sought to do to Sarah and Rebecca as they had done to Dinah our sister ...they had wrought folly in Israel by defiling my sister." Testament of Levi 3:6-12. In The Lost Books of The Bible and The Forgotten Books of Eden.[4]

Levi was an early Phineas Priest. Few of today's preachers who claim descent from Levi walk in his steps.

Tens & Hundreds - Ancient German and Saxon tribes were organized in tens and hundreds. Ten families would select a spokesman of ten. Ten spokesmen of ten would select a spokesman of a hundred. Early Virginia had many hundreds on the James. Bermuda Hundred, Beverly Hundred, etc. The hundred sent its spokesman to Williamsburg as a burgess where he met with the Governor, who was appointed by the King.

King & Priest - God appointed each man king and priest. "Jesus Christ ... hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." Rev 1:5-6. This is as it should be in a presbytery with each man a king and a priest ruling his own land under God the WORD.

4 Lost Books, VPC, POB 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $15.

In the past, tyrannical men have become king to extort tribute from the rest of the people. Many have made themselves both king and high priest and appointed ministers of his own choosing to teach no more than what he wanted the people to know about God.

Others have established a religious episcopacy to control religious teachings and made it a department of state.

Self-Sufficient Farm System - God ordered the land divided: "The land shall be divided for an inheritance." Lev 22:24: "Joshua divided the whole land by lots to Israel for an inheritance, as the Lord had commanded him." Jasher 90:19. Man wishes to divide the land into kingdoms to be ruled by man and kings and priests. The ruling king wishes the land for himself so he uses subterfuges to obtain the land for his corporations. He hides his corporate ownership by using stock companies and trust departments.

Merchant - A merchant buys and sells products that the local population does not have.

Great Merchant - Most "great merchants" are hired cartel managers. The wealth under his control is limited only by the amount of money cartel banks place in his care. Great merchants are usually manufacturing, retailing, transportation, or media moguls. These great merchants receive the publicity while the bank owners keep a low visibility.

Janissary - Christian children kidnapped and raised as Muslims. Islam's 16th century rise to a world power was due largely to their Janissary warriors. Janissaries were obtained by kidnapping Christian children, raising them in the tenets of Islam, and training them as either warriors or government administrators. These Janissaries were extraordinarily dedicated to their jobs. In time the group grew so large and so powerful that the Turks had to exterminate them to regain rule over their own people.[5]

Race Traitor - One who betrays his own race: i.e.. Janissary - kidnapped Christians serving the Turks during the wars with Islam; Scalawag - Southern turncoat collaborating with occupation troops and black government officials during "Reconstruction"; Renegade - Saxons working with Indians to betray their own people; Saxon Journalist - a Saxon media writer who daily lies, prevaricates, distorts, and denigrates his own race for pay. A self-hating lick spittle. A traitor is a traitor.

Affirmative Action - The replacement of Saxons with Strangers in business, residence, schools, army and jobs. Affirmative Action is usually enforced with informers and police state punishments and fines.

Turk - A generic name for the many Arab-like merchant-marauders of the central/far-east deserts. In varying numbers, Turks settled as conquerors in every country which is Islamic, Jewish, Hindu or Buddhist in religion. Recently they have extensively invaded Western Christian lands where the populations have been quickly made docile by using Janissaries in government and by Janissizing the conquered population.

A Turk is genetically programmed to be a merchant. He converts to any religion if he feels it necessary to advance his business. One may find Christian, Jewish, Islamic, Hindu and Buddhist Turks. One may find them posing as Saxons, Jews, Indians, and even Coloreds. They can be fanatically loyal to their alpha leader, and also willing to follow a rebel. Constantly at war with each other they make alliances for the sake of new conquest, after which they relapse into their perpetual bickering.

5 See Wolf And The Sheep, Hoskins,

Usury - Usury is when one puts up collateral to borrow $10 under condition that he repay $11, when only $10 is in existence.[6] It is a crooked contract from its conception and is forbidden to Christians. "Thou shalt not lend upon usury (with interest upon a loan) to thy brother; usury of money, usury of victuals, usury of anything that is lent upon usury: Unto a stranger (Heb:zwer - racial alien) thou mayest lend upon usury; but unto thy brother thou shalt not lend upon usury." Deut 23:19,20. Usury banking is a virtual monopoly divided between the Catholic Church, the Church of England, the international Turkish-Jews, and Hindu banking interest in India.

Block busting - Block busting came into usage in the 1950s. Unscrupulous real estate operators placed Black women with large noisy families in houses located in middle-class White neighborhoods in Washington D.C.. Paper and cans were thrown in the yard and a broken down car on cinder blocks was placed in front of the house. Then White neighbors moved[7] and their houses were bought for a fraction of their true price and resold to other Blacks. Block busting was largely responsible for the building boom of the 1950s. Block busting is still used and its operators are protected by the government.

White Trash - A term used to describe Whites who keep company with Strangers.

---

6 See War Cycles / Peace Cycles, Hoskins

7 "Thou shall make no covenant with them ... they shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21-24

Media - The major media in America by 1835 was largely in the hands of the International Trade Cartel. Since then, even the small county papers, as well as TV, radio, and magazines, have fallen into their hands.

Politics - Theoretically America is a Republic - a presbytery. It is called a "democracy" - meaning that everyone can vote. In practice the media owner only advertises his agents for election. Voters vote for the best man they know, but the only ones they know are the ones advertised by the media. Thus, America is ruled by agents of the media owner.

Civil Service - The "civil service" is appointed by the political agents of the media owner. If the elected government were dismissed tomorrow, government would continue without a pause. America is run by a permanent civil service put in place by the media-owner's political agents.

Courts - Federal judges are appointed by political agents of the media owner to declare that whatever the government does is legal.

Judeo-Christian - A new "Christian" Sect formed by media-owners in recent years. The media-owner selects a congenial minister from a host of eager hopefuls and grants him media exposure, which allows him to reap the riches of that exposure. Common beliefs of Judeo-Christians are; * Jews and Christians worship the same God; * The J/C minister must support the media owner's interests; * People are expected to live "moral" lives; * "God hates the sin but loves the sinner"; * God's Laws, or God's Commandments, are done away; and that * People are saved by "grace" and that one can do as he pleases and receive forgiveness, endlessly. Unmentioned is that there is a hell and that it is hot.

With choirs in the background, singers and musicians, crosses and regalia, Judeo-Christian ministers read Biblical parables to their listeners; They stand 4-square against murder, rape and kidnapping; they even criticize the President: But, one will never catch them quoting God's Commandment condemning the crime and stating the punishment. Reading God's Commandment and the punishment attached is "calling on the WORD", or the Christian God the WORD, and this is offensive to the media owners, so, it is not done.

A half dozen such ministers, all speaking on the same subject at the same time, can sway the majority of the country to their belief. From a propaganda standpoint - the media-created "Judeo- Christian Religion" is an invaluable "political - economic" establishment tool. However, without the media to continuously puff the sect - Judeo-Christianity will doubtlessly vanish as quickly as it appeared.

Identity - 20th Century "Reform Christianity". Using the genealogies of Saxon kings filed in the Roman Catholic and Anglican Catholic Church archives that trace the ancestry of Saxon kings to the Patriochs of the Bible, the followers of Identity reform Christianity trace their own ancestry to the same patriochs. The Bible traces the ancestry of the patriochs to Adam.

Since all Saxons are kinsmen, all Saxons are descended from the patriochs and from Adam. The Bible says that the enfiefments made by God to Adam and the patriochs are to descend to their descendants forever. Identity believers believe that their own Saxon nation has inherited these enfiefments, and that disobedience to God and his Commandments is the reason that they are prevented from enjoying them.

Letter From South Africa

Dear Mr. Hoskins: Your "Nine Million Germans" was nearer to South African reality than you can possibly know. To refresh my mind I read again David Irving's "Nuremberg The Last Battle", and Bacque's "Crimes and Mercies". The duplicity is almost beyond comprehension and we cannot but take a close look at who is really in power in those countries who called for revenge.

The annual Kruger festival is held today at Manie Maritz farm, Silkaatsnek and the speaker is Jaap Marais. Apparently they found "Lady Roberts", a British cannon, captured by Boer forces. This will be on display at Oom Manie's farm.

Blacks are burning down farms and killing wild and domestic animals not able to flee the flames. It is a dreadful death for an animal.

There are lions ill from TB in the Kruger National Game Park. Some believe that they have become infected from attacking blacks crossing from Mozambique.

With best wishes, K.J.

UNFILTERED NEWS

BLACK ON WHITE CRIME: 1) A majority of people murdered by Blacks are not Black. 2). In 1988 there were ten cases of White men raping Black women, but Black men raped White women in 9,405 cases. 3) White criminals attack Blacks only 2% of the time. 4) Of 629,000 interracial attacks recorded in 1985, fully 90% were Black on White. That bears repeating. Ninety percent of interracial attacks consisted of Blacks attacking Whites, not the other way around. (FBI Uniform Crime Report, page 235. "Table 43 - Total Arrests, Distribution by race, 1993).

Saxon News From Europe

HAND GUNS: A total ban on handguns came into effect in Britain in January. Anyone who owns a pistol could face up to 10 years in jail. The firearms legislation was introduced after a highly publicized massacre in Dunblane, Scotland, when a a crazed loner shot dead 16 schoolchildren and their teacher before killing himself. Now, owners of weapons of caliber .22 or less must hand in their weapons or face draconian punishment. (Story in Citizen 1/27/98.)

RKH: The author remembers the plea from Britain during WWII asking American citizens to donate weapons to arm British citizen militias. The British subjects had been disarmed then, too.

News From The Mideast

JOURNALISTS: "Assassination is a daily risk for journalists in Algeria, torn between Islamic extremists and a corrupt regime ... with 60 deaths between 1988 and 1997 ..." (Guardian Weekly 8/2/98)

RKH: Algeria's regime was voted out of office - yet they remain - supported by the media of the International Trade Cartel. Media journalists speak for the regime and the Cartel. Their propaganda has turned them into front line troops. Words are weapons. Those who cannot reply with words are starting to reply with bullets.

EXCOMMUNICATED: "The Rev Jerry Falwell pledged continued support of Israel from the evangelical church in America during a meeting with Prime Minister Itzak Rabin in Jerusalem ... Falwell is in Israel for three days of promotional filming as a guest of the Israeli Ministry of Tourism." News & Daily Advance, 7- 13- 95, B2.

RKH: "Can two walk together, except they be agreed." Amos 3:3; "All flesh consorteth according to kind, and a man will cleave to his like." Ecclesiasticus 13:16; "Not everyone shall enter into the kingdom of heaven but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Math 7:21; "If any man obey not our word ... note that man and have no company with him." II Thes 3:14: Rabin has a terrorist record and is anti-Christian. "Come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord." 2 Cor 6:17: Falwell uses their media and pays for it by dancing their tune. He has excommunicated himself from the WORD that is God - a frightful fate.

Back to Table of Contents

Chapter 291

UNIVERSALISM
Empire Religion

Universalism is the Law system of the stranger. It is a sanitized name for integration.

The Law System of The WORD requires separation. Integration and separation are polar opposite concepts. Whoever practices integration, to the degree that he practices it, fights God and worships the god of the stranger.

Since people will obey God, who delivers eternal punishment, rather than the king - whose punishment is temporary, the king uses priests to support his edicts. These priests are hired with tax exemption to teach the emperor's edits in place of God's Commandments. Man's problem is to discover which priest truly teaches The WORD and which is the agent of the king.

The Emperor's Problem

The emperor's problem is keep his empire together. History teaches that "universalism/integration" has always been the answer to the emperor's question;

"How can I subdue the breakaway separatist races in my empire who threaten to pull my empire apart?"

The answer to this question is always the same. In the physical realm the emperor uses his army to suppress separatists and rebels. In the spiritual realm the emperor uses priests to spread the theory that the emperor's different subjects are basically the same; if not here on earth - then in the hereafter. If they are the same in the hereafter, why not integrate and become the same here on earth in preparation for the hereafter?

This solution is not new, it was invented by King Asoka of India, c. 325 B.C. King Asoka is the father of Buddhism - originally the missionary arm of the Hindu religion. The missionary technique is called Dharma.[1] With minor modifications it has proved just as successful when used today as it was over two thousand years ago. The key is not to upset the separatists by tampering with their gods, merely add a little something to what already exists.

The Hindu is an integrationist - the exact opposite of the separatist. He always seeks to join the separatists, not pull away. If allowed to join them, he changes nothing, but inserts Dharma, thereby changing separatists into integrationists. Mission accomplished!

Missionaries

The Scriptures say to send out missionaries, but, send them out for the right reason. The Scriptures say:

---

1 "Dharma" - Hindu: non- violence, obedience, tolerance of other peoples and their gods without regard to "race, creed, or nationality." Buddhist technique of pacifying divergent populations to expedite trade. "Dharmitized - to be subdued by Dharma. "Dharmamatra" - government enforcer of Dharma.

"Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." Matt:28:19-20

This is one of the Scriptures used by universalists to beat the drum for universal integration. However, Scripture must be interpreted in light of other Scripture so as not to have a paradox or an oxymoron. If Scripture says one thing in one place and another thing in another place - God fights himself - and that cannot be.

Other Scriptures tell missionaries to whom they are sent:

> "And go, get thee to them of the captivity, unto the children of thy people, and speak unto them, tell them, Thus saith the Lord God." Ez 3:11; "Oh children of Israel ... You only have I known of all families of the earth." Amos 3:1; "These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded the, saying ... go ... to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 10:5-6; "I was not sent but to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 15:24; "I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me, for they are thine." John 17:9.

This being the case, the "universalists" mis-use, "Go into all the world and preach the gospel to every nation". They use it to mean EVERYONE when the real meaning is supposed to be "to every nation" - of Israel! Anything else results in confusion with The WORD fighting itself.

This will not stop the universalists since they have been trained to do what they do. They are the Stranger's Janissar- ies.[2] To stand against their fanatical training one must remember that our people can be trained to the Stranger's beliefs while Stranger's basic instincts cannot be changed.

Bible Says Strangers Can't Be Changed

The WORD which is God teaches that even if strangers are taught The WORD they will not change. They are genetically programmed to be what they are. The example given to be our guide is found in Ezra.

> "In the 9th year of Hoshea, the king of Assyria took Samaria (the Northern Kingdom of Israel) and carried Israel away into Assyria, and placed them in Halah and in Habor by the River Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes." 2Ki 17:6.

> "And the king of Assyria brought men from Babylon..Cu'-thah ... Ha'-math ... Sepharvaim, and placed them in the cities of Samaria instead of the children of Israel ... They ... know not the manner of the God of the land. Then the King of Assyria commanded .... carry thither one of the priest whom ye brought from thence ... and let him teach them the manner of the god of the land ... howbeit every nation made Gods of their own ... unto this day ... they fear not the Lord, neither do they after their statutes ... which the Lord commanded the children of ... Israel ... As did their fathers so do they unto this day. II Ki 17:24-41

These people who replaced the Israelites in Samaria we would call "Arabs" today - a generic name for the mixed populations of the Near East.

Note that these "Arabs", these new "Samaritans", claimed to worship the God of Israel, but in fact they actually followed their own nature and "...they fear not the Lord, neither do they

---

2 The cutting edge of Islam's invading armies were Janissaries. These Janissaries were warriors who had been kidnaped as children from Christian families and raised as Muslims. They were the most fanatical and feared of all of Islam's warriors. See Janissaries, Wolf And The Sheep, Hoskins, p.54 after their statutes ... As did their fathers so do they unto this day."

Scripture gives this example of the folly of sending missionaries to Strangers. Strangers may study, learn, and accept man's religion; they may build temples to the God of Israel and study his holy books - but strangers are made in the image of their fathers. One cannot make a silk purse out of a sow's ear. Just as a man is pre-destined to be a man - so a Stranger is predestined to be a Stranger.[3] "As did their fathers so do they unto this day." There is nothing anyone can do to undo the Laws of God.

Israelites Refuse Converted Strangers

It was these very same Samaritans who at a later date saw that Israelites of the tribe of Judah and Benjamin had returned from captivity in Babylon and were rebuilding their ancient temple. They came and offered to join with them to worship the God of Israel:

> "Now when the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard that the children of the captivity builded the temple unto the Lord God of Israel; Then they came to ... the chief of the fathers, and said unto them. Let us build with you: for we seek your God, as ye do; and we do sacrifice unto him since the days of Esarhaddon king of Assur, which brought us up thither. But ... the fathers of Israel, said unto them, Ye have nothing to do with us to build a house unto our God; but we ourselves together will build unto the Lord God of Israel ..." Ezra 4:1-3

When man obeys The WORD and turns away Strangers who wish to integrate man into his wolf-pack empire system, it infuriates them. When man obeys The WORD's instructions not to integrate Strangers even when they accept man's God - the door is closed to the wolf. There is almost no way the wolf can enter the sheepfold and slaughter sheep unless man himself opens the gate.

3 (MAN - Heb: adam - those that blush rosy, Strong's Concordance

The Good Samaritan

Integrationists usually point to the parable of the "Good Samaritan" when trying to persuade their listeners. The story is simple, to the point, and easily twisted.

A man was left beaten and wounded by robbers. Several of his own countrymen passed by without helping him. Then, a Stranger, a Samaritan came by, bound his wounds and took care of him. What is the rule?

The good Samaritan helped the wounded Israelite while the wounded man's own kinsmen did not. This is an admonishment to kinsmen to act at least as well as good Strangers. It is also an example of how Saxons should deal with strangers - Lawfully.

In Jesu's parable the Stranger in no way attempted to enter the congregation of Israel because God's Law forbids it:

> "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord; even to his tenth generation shall he not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel)." De 23:2; "Thou shall make no covenant with them ... they shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21-24.

